Chinese

Placement

- Students with any background in Chinese, formal or informal, who wish to take Chinese language courses must fill in and submit an online questionnaire for placement. You can find a link for the online questionnaire on the Asian Languages and Literature homepage:

  http://depts.washington.edu/asianll/course_info/placement.html

- The Asian Languages and Literature Department uses this questionnaire to accurately place students in Mandarin Chinese courses. If you do not see the questionnaire when you go to one of the above websites, the questionnaire has been "closed". This means that the department is no longer placing students in Chinese language courses.

- After completing and submitting the questionnaire, an instructor in Asian Languages and Literature may interview you for placement. If you do not receive an interview, you will be given an add code for a particular Chinese language course.

Proficiency

- The Asian Languages & Literature department administers a proficiency test once each quarter. Please check the Asian Languages & Literature "Placement and Proficiency" webpage for the time and location of the next test:

  http://depts.washington.edu/asianll/course_info/placement.html

- Contact the department to register, 206-543-4996. Early registration is recommended.

Vietnamese

CHEM 145 (Honors Chemistry)

Placement test required except for:

- Students with CHEM AP scores of 4 or 5 or Higher Level chemistry IB of 5, 6, or 7

Scores are pass, borderline pass, and fail.

Repeat test policy

French, Italian, and Spanish tests may be repeated after 6 months have passed. The Japanese and German tests can be taken twice in a 12-month period with a 75-day wait between tests. The 1st and 2nd year Korean tests have no waiting period.

Each type of math placement test may be repeated once, after two weeks have passed. After the second test, a calendar year must pass before that test can be repeated again.

AP Scores

Check SRF536 for unmatched AP scores—if a student didn't provide a social security number when taking the test, UW has to locate the score manually. Students should contact Admissions to get this corrected, but in the meantime advisers may be able to see the scores in on SRF536.
