EXPERIENCE

Michele Hamilton-Lane is an organization development consultant with more than 25 years of experience as a leader, manager, internal consultant and external consultant. Her broad experience comes from working in professional services, large scale manufacturing, and health care organizations, and has performed her work in locations throughout the United States and Canada.

As an internal leader and manager, Michele has experience working with others to achieve results by developing systems and resources for managing diversity, and has led teams to solve problems such as low productivity, high employee turnover, and excessive cost/waste.

As an organization development consultant, both internally and externally, Michele has helped teams become more capable and productive by emphasizing both the people dynamics and process design sides of work. Michele is effective in assisting leaders in their efforts to develop personal skills as well as lead their organizations through change and improvement. She is also a proven meeting facilitator with a record of helping clients stay on task and manage their way through challenging topics/issues.
