

Marguerite Langlois

PHILOSOPHY STATEMENT

Your needs and goals guide our work together. My goal is to promote effective exploration, self-development, reflection, creative problem-solving, and knowledge of practical skills which you can put to work successfully in real-life situations. My teaching and consulting style is highly interactive, encouraging discussion and practice.

AREAS OF EXPERTISE/RESULTS

- Customized training
- Training design and training for trainers
- Project management basics
- Effective written and spoken communication
- Planning and goal-setting
- Meeting facilitation

EXPERIENCE / SELECTED PROJECTS

- Worked with UW Northwest Center for Public Health Practice to develop and teach project management portion of their new Public Health Management Certificate program.
- Designing and teaching classes on management and supervision, communication skills, business writing, customer service, problem-solving, and other business-related topics
- Providing consultation to both managers and trainers on a wide variety of training and development issues
- Currently teaching UW POD classes on “Project Management for the Non-Project Manager,” and grammar and punctuation for clear and effective communication

CREDENTIALS

- Master’s Degree in Education
- Recognized as qualified education leader in development of two programs, one in basic management and one in pro-active aging, as requested by Shoreline Community College Continuing Education
- Over 35 years of experience in adult education and training
- Member of Advisory Board for Shoreline Community College “Plus 50” program for older workers

SELECTED CLIENTS

- UW Public Health
- Shoreline Community College, Continuing Education and Workforce Training
- Crisp Publications (now Axzo Press)
- UW Medicine Compliance
- Local church-run free medical clinic
- Local independent insurance agency

Contact the Alliance at 206-616-8461 OR alliance@u.washington.edu.