DO-IT (Disabilities, Opportunities, Internetworking, and Technology) at the University of Washington supports college-capable students with disabilities as they pursue challenging academic programs and careers. DO-IT's Alliance for Students with Disabilities in Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (AccessSTEM) is a project funded by the National Science Foundation (award #HRD-0227995 and HRD-0833504). The purpose of the project is to increase the number of people with disabilities in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) careers by encouraging and supporting students with disabilities who show interest and aptitude in STEM. These students become part of the AccessSTEM Team, engaging in an on-line community of peers and professionals, paid internships, other work experiences, research opportunities, and other activities as they transition to college, graduate school, and employment.

We are recruiting high school and college students with disabilities to join the AccessSTEM Team. As an AccessSTEM Team member, you will engage in experiences that will enhance your college and career success.
