The Japanese art of Aikido was founded in Japan by Master Morihei Ueshiba. Aikido is more than a system of self-defense; it is a total discipline for physical and spiritual growth. The goal of Aikido is not the defeat of others, but to defeat negative characteristics, which inhibit one's own mind and functioning. Its principle aim is to avoid clashing directly with an opponent's strength and force by blending and redirecting their energy with flowing spherical movements. At all levels of training, Aikido provides an effective means for personal development and growth. Instruction in the use of the Japanese Sword (Bokken) and Jo (Staff) are part of the training.
