Nature of Organization

We are a research clinic that specializes in developing and evaluating new treatments for difficult-to-treat disorders and in training clinicians in the use of effective behavioral treatments for complex, multi-systemic disorders.

Duties and Responsibilities

Student will provide support to a research project at a psychology research clinic. Areas of responsibility include: Preparing assessment instruments, managing data collection and data entry. Student will work closely with the research staff and project collaborators in evaluating and summarizing collected data. Other duties include online and paper survey management, organization of subject files and databases.

The position is especially stimulating for those interested in the training of mental health professionals and would provide a good introduction to the workings of a large and quite active psychology research laboratory.
