Nature of Organization

The American Homestay Network coordinates homestays for international college students to stay with local host families. We work with international students attending several colleges and universities in the greater Seattle area.

Duties and Responsibilities

We are a rapidly growing start-up looking for a student to help implement and design marketing programs. We primarily need someone to run our booth at farmers markets and manage our open house events. This requires physically setting up the booth and explaining our program to the public. As we develop other programs, we will add responsibilities.

Minimum Qualifications

The ideal candidate is a current student interested in marketing, start-ups, and international business. This is not a structured internship program but rather a part-time job that requires independence and self-direction. Most of the work is remote, at home or at events, but the student will also work closely with me and our CEO, Ron Davis. The hours are variable and will include some weekends. Having access to a car is necessary to transport materials to markets. The pay is $15/hour.

Educational Benefits

- Gain exposure to a start-up environment
- Be part of a business school case study on solving a business awareness and cultural problem
- Learn how to implement guerrilla marketing programs
- Have increasing responsibilities and the opportunity to contribute your own ideas
