ENDOWMENTS

The Built Environment Endowed Book Fund was established with a gift from retired University of Washington librarian Betty Wagner to help fund books on architecture, landscape architecture, urban planning, and design.

The Capell Family Endowed Book Fund was inspired by the life of Moses Capell, who helped others by remembering those who provided opportunities to him. The fund supports the publication of books that deepen our understanding of social justice through historical, cultural, and environmental studies.

The Donald R. Ellegood Publication Endowment honors the distinguished career of former University of Washington Press director Don Ellegood. It ensures that the Press remains a leader in the publication of books on the histories and cultures of Asia, Russia, Eastern Europe, and the Middle East.

The Robert B. Heilman Endowment honors the longtime, distinguished chair of the University of Washington English Department. It supports the publication of books in the humanities, including literary history and works, biography, criticism, and cultural history.

The Jackson School Publications in International Studies Endowment was established by a grant from the Henry M. Jackson Foundation to support books written by Jackson School faculty that explore our increasingly interconnected world.

The Joan Paterson Kerr Publication Endowment was established by a gift from Chester Kerr, long-time director of Yale University Press, to honor his wife, Joan. It supports the publication of highly illustrated books, especially those in the fields of Western American history and art.

The Charles and Jane Keyes Endowment for Books on Southeast Asia was initiated with a generous gift from University of Washington Professor Charles Keyes and his wife, Jane. It helps support the series Critical Dialogues in Southeast Asian Studies.

The Jacob Lawrence Endowment, established by a gift from Jacob Lawrence and Gwendolyn Knight, supports books on American artists and art history, including a distinguished series of works on American artists of color.

The McLellan Book Endowment was inspired by two remarkable women with a deep passion for books: Martha McCleary McLellan and her daughter Mary McLellan Williams. Their endowment ensures the publication of exemplary scholarship in the humanities.

The Scott and Laurie Oki Endowment was established through the generosity of Scott and Laurie Oki to support publications in the humanities and social sciences related to the Asian American experience.

The Naomi B. Pascal Editor’s Endowment honors our distinguished former editor-in-chief whose extraordinary career has made a lasting contribution to the University of Washington Press. It is used to support a diverse array of scholarly publications.

The Samuel and Althea Stroum Endowment, our largest fund, enables the Press to publish outstanding books in the humanities and the social and natural sciences. It also supports the publication of books by scholars invited to present the Samuel and Althea Stroum Lectures in Jewish Studies.

The University of Washington Press Endowment was created through a challenge grant sponsored by the National Endowment for the Humanities. Funds from this endowment support a broad range of publications in the humanities.

The University of Washington Press Endowed Graduate Internship helps fund an annual internship that introduces outstanding graduate students to the world of scholarly publishing.

The Weyerhaeuser Environmental Books Endowment is funded by gifts from Jack and Janet Creighton, the Weyerhaeuser Foundation, and the Weyerhaeuser family. It supports the publication of a distinguished series of books in environmental history.

The V Ethel Willis White Endowment sponsors books celebrating the African American experience. Sponsored by Virginia and Deehan Wyman and the Wyman Youth Trust, it honors the memory of a remarkable member of the Wyman family.
NON-ENDEOVED BOOK FUNDS

The Classics of Chinese Thought Fund supports the publication of a series of English translations of seminal works from the early Chinese intellectual tradition.

The University of Washington Press Technology Fund provides resources that allow the Press to invest in new technologies in the rapidly evolving publishing arena, including e-books, e-content, and print-on-demand.

The New Directions in Scandinavian Studies Book Fund supports a series of books edited and authored by University of Washington Scandinavian Studies faculty.

The Thomas T. Wilson Book Fund supports publications on Northwest artists whose work deserves to be experienced by a wider audience. It is named after one of our region’s finest portrait and landscape painters.

The Architecture Department Book Fund assists the publication of works by University of Washington Architecture Department faculty, graduates, and students.

The China Studies Book Fund enables the publication of books that support the mission of the University of Washington China Studies Program.

The Enhancement Fund provides a home for gifts earmarked by donors for specific projects.

GIVING LEVELS

UW Press Patron $500
Graduate Dean’s Club $1,000
President’s Club $2,000

An endowment may be established with a minimum gift of $25,000
A named endowment may be established with a minimum gift of $100,000

For information about establishing an endowment, earmarking a gift, and making bequests, please contact

Nina C. McGuinness
Director for Advancement

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON PRESS
P.O. Box 50096
Seattle, WA 98145-5090

Phone (206) 543-4053
Fax (206) 543-3932
Email ninamg@uw.washington.edu
Website http://www.washington.edu/uwpress/

Gift Opportunities

Private contributions provide essential support for the role of the University of Washington Press in the advancement of knowledge.

Sponsorship of an endowment or book fund allows the Press to produce enduring and outstanding books in selected fields while honoring the legacy and contributions of specific individuals and groups.