Professional ethics codes and cases, history of counseling or school psychology, legal problems, credentialing issues, conditions of practice, continuing education, publishing, and presenting research papers. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in College of Education or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

EDPSY 569 Seminar in Counseling Psychology Research (2)

Methodological and professional issues related to research in counseling and psychological services. Counseling psychology research literature with focus on content and methods. Prerequisite: EDPSY 591 or equivalent. .

EDPSY 570 Introduction to School Psychology (2, max. 4)

Current issues in professional psychology practice and research. Prerequisite: graduate standing in school psychology. Offered: A.

EDPSY 572 Social-Emotional Assessment (3)

Techniques in social-emotional assessment of school-aged children. Diagnostic systems including DSM IV presented in conjunction with assessment techniques. Emphasis on integrative method for understanding social emotional assessment batteries and reliability and validity of their test score interpretation. Prerequisite: graduate standing in school psychology or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

EDPSY 573 Psychological Assessment of Preschool Children (3) Students learn to give and interpret tests of intellectual development to assess language, play, and social/emotional functioning, and to write psychological assessment reports for infants, toddlers, and preschoolers. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in the school psychology and permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

EDPSY 575 Structural Equation Modeling (3)

Theory and data analysis using linear structural equation models. Application to data in educational research. Prerequisite: EDPSY 594 or equivalent. Offered: alternate years.

EDPSY 576 Hierarchical Linear Models (3)

Theory and data analysis for research models where random factors are nested, such as multi-level data, growth curve analysis, and meta-analysis. Prerequisite: EDPSY 593 or equivalent. Offered: alternate years.

EDPSY 577 Neuropsychology of School Learning and Behavioral Problems (5)

The microstructure, macrostructure, and structural and functional development of the brain are reviewed with a focus on the educational relevance of developmental neuropsychology. Four areas are covered: Hemispheric differences and integration; neurological soft signs, attention deficit, and hyperactivity; language, reading, and learning disabilities; and medical syndromes. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in school psychology or instructor permission. Offered: Sp.

EDPSY 578 Educational Applications of Neuropsychology: Assessment and Intervention (5)

Students observe and administer neuropsychological tests and plan and carry out educational interventions for children with neuropsychological disorders. Content focuses on various neuropsychological disorders for which school psychologists can provide assessment and consultation. Prerequisite: EDPSY 540 or equivalent course in individual testing, and EDSPY 577 or permission of the instructor.

EDPSY 580 Seminar: The Emergence of Educational Psychology (3)

Examination of documents by selected contributors to the field of educational psychology. Special focus on period from mid-nineteenth century to the later twentieth century. Prerequisite: graduate standing. .

EDPSY 581 Seminar in Educational Psychology (1-5, max. 15)

Advanced seminar on selected topics in educational psychology. A critical appraisal of current research. Prerequisite: advanced degree work in educational psychology. Offered: AWSp.

EDPSY 582 Seminar in Development and Socialization (3, max. 15)

Advanced seminar on selected topics concerned with human development and socialization processes. Emphasis placed upon empirical research and its theoretical underpinnings in such areas as cognitive development, moral development and education, self-concept development, and related concerns. Prerequisite: graduate standing in College of Education or instructor permission.

EDPSY 583 Seminar in Learning and Thinking (3, max. 15)

Seminar in the psychology of learning language and language learning. Each seminar is offered with predesignated emphasis in one of the following topics:

linguistics, phonology, pragmatics, psycholinguistics, semantics. : graduate standing in College of Education or instructor permission.

EDPSY 584 Seminar in Quantitative Methods (3, max. 15)

Seminar on such topics as measurement techniques, research design, psychometrics, and statistics. : EDPSY 490 and instructor permission.

EDPSY 585 History, Systems, and Contemporary Issues in School Psychology (3)

Covers the history, systems, and research relating to the contemporary issues relevant to research and practice of school psychology. Meets APA and WA state requirements for course in history and systems of psychology. Credit no credit only. Prerequisite: advanced graduate standing in School Psychology or instructor permission. Offered: Sp.

EDPSY 586 Qualitative Methods of Educational Research (5-)

Survey of various qualitative research methods from a variety of disciplinary perspectives (anthropology, sociology, applied linguistics, cognitive psychology, policy analysis, and evaluation) with intensive experience in collection, analysis, and reporting of data. Prerequisite: second-year doctoral standing and one course in statistics, and permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with EDC&I 578; A.

EDPSY 587 Qualitative Methods of Educational Research (5-)

Survey of various qualitative research methods from a variety of disciplinary perspectives (anthropology, sociology, applied linguistics, cognitive psychology, policy analysis, and evaluation) with intensive experience in collection, analysis, and reporting of data. Prerequisite: EDPSY 586/ EDC&I 578; second-year doctoral standing and one course in statistics. Offered: jointly with EDC&I 579; Sp.

EDPSY 588 Survey Research Methodology and Theory (3)

Survey research, research, theory, and methodology. Probability theory, sampling, human subjects considerations, instrumentation, and analysis techniques. Review and critique by students of theoretical issues in survey research and development of a survey instrument. Prerequisite: EDPSY 490 or equivalent. Offered: Sp.

EDPSY 589 Scholarly Writing in Education and Psychology (3)

Introduction to the demands and expectations for technical writing in education and psychology, including aspects of the culture of scholarship. Designed for competent writers. Does not address basic grammar and composition. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: doctoral standing, and permission of instructor.

EDPSY 590 Computer Utilization in Educational Research (3)

Computer utilization in solution of research problems, data reduction to forms amenable to computer solution, appropriate framing of problems for solutions by computer. Using an interactive system, editors, and program packages. Prerequisite: EDPSY 490. Offered: A.

EDPSY 591 Methods of Educational Research (3)

Introduction to educational research. Primary focus on hypothesis development, experimental design, use of controls, data analysis and interpretation. Prerequisite: EDPSY 490. Offered: AWSp.

EDPSY 592 Advanced Educational Measurements (3) Theory of measurement; an examination of assumptions involved in test theory, errors of measurement, factors affecting reliability and validity, and item analysis and standards for educational and psychological tests. Prerequisite: EDPSY 490. Offered: Sp.

EDPSY 593 Experimental Design and Analysis (5) Experimental design with emphasis on the analysis of variance. Prerequisite: EDPSY 490 or equivalent. Offered: W.

EDPSY 594 Advanced Correlational Techniques (5) Multivariate analysis, including regression and multiple correlation; matrix algebra; factor analysis. Prerequisite: EDPSY 490 or equivalent. Offered: Sp.

EDPSY 595 Item Response Theory Models of Testing (3) In depth exploration of IRT models and their roles in the development of large scale educational and psychological tests. Prerequisite: EDPSY 490 or equivalent, EDPSY 592, EDPSY 594.

EDPSY 596 Program Evaluation (3) Advanced course in evaluation research emphasizing nontraditional designs, especially those that impose severe ecological constraints on the evaluators. Prerequisite: EDPSY 593, EDPSY 594, EDC&I 597, or permission of instructor.

EDPSY 597 Technical Requirements of Large Scale Tests (3) Theoretical and practical understanding of the quantitative aspects of large-scale tests, including: scaling, norms development, and the development of derived and interpretive scores, evidence for validity and reliability. Prerequisite: EDPSY 490 or equivalent, EDPSY 592, EDPSY 595.

EDPSY 599 Independent Studies in Education (*) Independent studies or readings of specialized aspects of education. Offered: AWSpS.

EDPSY 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Prerequisite: permission of instructor. required. Offered: AWSpS.

EDPSY 601 Internship (3-10, max. 10) Offered: AWSpS.

Special Education

EDSPE 404 Exceptional Children (3) Edgar Children with disabilities studied from the point of view of education.

EDSPE 414 Introduction to Early Childhood Special Education (3) Schwartz Provides students with a comprehensive overview of major aspects of the field of early childhood special education. Theoretical foundations and program development and implementation are presented in an approach that integrates theory, research, and practice. Offered: W.

EDSPE 419 Interventions for Families of Children with Disabilities (3) Upper-division course for professionals and paraprofessionals working with families of children with disabilities.

EDSPE 499 Undergraduate Research (2-5, max. 5) Students developing studies under this rubric should be advised that a report or a paper setting forth the results of their investigations should be regarded as a basic part of the program. Offered: AWSpS.

EDSPE 500 Field Study (1-6, max. 6) Individual study of an educational problem in the field under the direction of a faculty member. Prerequisite: approved plan of study and permission of the instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

EDSPE 502 Collaboration: Working with Parents and Professionals (3) Sandall Provides students with knowledge and skills for working collaboratively with other professionals, family members, and paraeducators. Focus is on the role of the special educator in forming and sustaining school, family, and community partnerships. Offered: WS.

Classroom Management for Elementary School Educators (2-, max.4) Examines how to set up effective classrooms to facilitate learning and the development of social behaviors. Focuses on strategies for effectively managing whole group (classroom) and individual behavior of students in the context of public schools.

EDSPE 504 Special Education and the Law (3) Brown Overview of major state and federal laws affecting the operation and management of special education programs in public schools. Emphasis on procedural and substantive rights of children with disabling conditions. Offered: jointly with EDLPS 516; W.

EDSPE 505 Curriculum Development of Students with Moderate to Severe Disabilities (3) Addresses issues and practices in the development of appropriate curriculum and accessing the general education curriculum for students with moderate to profound disabilities in educational settings.. Topics include: assessing general education curriculum, inclusion, and development of IEP*fs.

EDSPE 506 Classroom Management of the Physical Problems of Individuals with Severe or Profound Disabilities (3) Overview and practices of physical management of students with severe or profound disabilities. Topics include principles of typical and atypical motor development, positioning, handling, use of adaptive equipment, and issues regarding the educational implications of students with medical and chronic illness.

EDSPE 507 Instructional Methods for Students with Moderate to Severe Disabilities (3) Davis Details a systematic instructional process for the education of students with moderate to severe or profound disabilities. Includes instructional methods and materials designed to promote the development of skills that are required in school, home, and community settings, and to reduce challenging behaviors.

EDSPE 510 Behavioral Measurement and Management in the Classroom (3) Response measurement in the classroom; use of data analysis for instructional decisions and behavior management for children with disabilities. Offered: A.

EDSPE 511 Methods of Applied Behavior Analysis Research (3) Schwartz, White Characteristics of applied behavior analysis are presented: direct, daily measurement, and the systematic investigation of important variables. Representative studies from various applied situations are discussed in terms of dependent and independent variables, research design, reliability, validity, and data analysis. Prerequisite: EDSPE 510 or equivalent preparation. Offered: WSp.

EDSPE 513 Principles of Clinical Appraisal for Teachers of Exceptional Children (3) Jenkins Diagnostic instruments used in the clinical appraisal of exceptional children. Theoretical and measurement considerations are used to buttress practical experiences in appraisal related to eligibility and intervention. Offered: A.

EDSPE 514 Fundamentals of Reading for Children with Disabilities (3) Jenkins Emphasis on basic prereading and reading skills, such as phonics and structural analysis, specifically for the disabled child. Acquisition of comprehension skills by the disabled. Diagnosis of reading problems, published materials appropriate for children with disabilities, material modification. Offered: W.

EDSPE 515 Problems and Issues in Special Education (3, max. 9) Intensive examination of the issues pertinent to special education, such as legislation, interdisciplinary functions, and the role of special education in general education and placement practices. Offered: Sp.

EDSPE 517 Practicum in Research Design and Analysis in Special Education (1-4, max. 10) Critical analysis of current research in special education and related fields serves as background for designing applied research projects. Projects are examined, evaluated, and revised in seminar discussion. Prerequisite: EDPSY 490 and EDSPE 591 or equivalent and permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

EDSPE 518 Seminar in Special Education Research (1-3, max. 9) Designed for doctoral students in special education during their first year of residency. Each candidate selects a dissertation problem and submits a proposal. Topics such as the procurement of subjects, the reporting and communication of research findings, and the evaluation of research are stressed. The seminar leads to the evolution of a viable dissertation proposal. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

EDSPE 520 Seminar in Applied Special Education (1-12, max. 12) Designed for graduate students in special education. Focus on contemporary topics relating to the application of the theoretical constructs to special education. Offered: AWSp.

EDSPE 521 Communication and Language in Young Exceptional Children (3) Review and discussion of theories of language acquisition as they relate to communication and language in young children with special needs. Review of research of language environments that relate to early literacy and education and how to use this information to modify environments for children with special needs. Offered: jointly with EDPSY 519; W.

EDSPE 522 Seminar on the Education of Students with Severe Disabilities (3) White Advanced graduate seminar arranged to study and discuss the essential components of providing a comprehensive approach to the identification and education of infants, children, adolescents, and young adults with severe disabilities. Offered: Sp.

EDSPE 523 Specific Numeracy Techniques for Elementary Students with Mild Disabilities (3) Neel Provides the teacher with specific techniques for teaching numeracy to elementary students with mild disabilities in inclusive settings. Prerequisite: EDTEP 522 or equivalent. Offered: SpS.

EDSPE 524 Functional Behavioral Assessment (3) Provides a solid foundation in the theory and practice of functional behavioral assessment (FBA). FBA is a required practice under special education law and considered a best practice for students with challenging behavior.

EDSPE 525 Educating Students with Autism or Severe Behavior Disorders (3) Schwartz Consideration of the identification, etiology, education, and outcomes of individuals with Autism Spectrum Disorder. Offered: Sp.

EDSPE 526 Techniques for Instructing Social Behaviors for Elementary Students with Mild Disabilities (3) Cheney Provides prospective and practicing teachers with foundational theory and knowledge to select specific techniques to promote social competency in elementary children with mild disabilities. Discusses research related to use of these techniques and interventions. Develops schoolwide, classroom, and individual plans for teaching social skills. Offered: ASp.

EDSPE 527 Applied Behavior Analysis for Teachers (3) Presents principles of applied behavior analysis. Focuses on the use of principles in classroom, home, and community settings to influence learning. Emphasis on the use of data collection and progress monitoring the use of principles and outcomes for learning.

EDSPE 528 Inquiry and Methods in Writing Instruction (3) Covers methods of assessment and teaching written composition, spelling, and handwriting to children and youth with, and without, disabilities. Particular attention is given to how to establish a strong writing program in elementary classrooms and how to teach writing strategies. Offered: jointly with EDC&I 536; Sp.

EDSPE 541 Education of Children with Behavior Disorders (3) Neel Introductory course covering characteristics of and educational practices for children with emotional/behavioral disabilities. Reviews theory, definitional issues, models, assessment, and instructional methods for educating children with emotional and behavioral disorders. Students develop a working knowledge of educational approaches for teaching students with emotional/behavioral disabilities. Offered: alternate years; W.

EDSPE 545 Instructional Modifications for the Education of Children with Mild Disabilities (3) In-depth analysis and application of several modifications of instructional techniques necessary for the education of students with mild disabilities. Offered: WS.

EDSPE 546 Seminar in Educating Children with Behavior Disorders (3, max. 9) Cheney Advanced-level seminars focus on contemporary research topics relating to the effective education of children with serious behavior disorders. Students analyze and review research pertinent to the chosen topics and prepare a scholarly manuscript for dissemination. Offered: alternate years; W.

EDSPE 548 Special Topics in the Education of the Learning Disabled (3, max. 12) In-depth analysis of empirical findings in the specialty of learning disabilities with focus on the synthesis of research findings and their application to the educational environment. A paper suitable for publication required. Prerequisite: course in learning theory, introductory course in learning disabilities, or equivalent preparation.

EDSPE 561 Educational Assessment of Young Children with Special Needs (3) Special standardized and educational measurement and evaluation procedures for use with young children with a variety of disabling conditions. Observation, ecological assessment, and programming strategies are discussed in combination with practical application of the skills within an educational framework. Offered: A.

EDSPE 562 Curricula for Preschool Children with Disabilities (3) Sandall Basic theoretical models and approaches to curricula for preschoolers with disabilities. Critical review of preschool curricula, standards and benchmarks. Strategies for critiquing, evaluating, and adapting curricula.

EDSPE 563 Issues in Working with Families of Students with Disabilities (3) Explores issues, theories, models, research, and recommended practices related to family-professional relationships in special education. Explores the dynamics of interactions with families including roles and responsibilities, decision-making, communication, and collaboration. Offered: W.

EDSPE 565 Seminar: Early Childhood Education for Children with Disabilities (3, max. 9) Sandall, Schwartz Advanced seminar on early childhood education for infants and young children with disabilities. Historical and current research from special education and related fields reviewed with regard to their application to the education of young children with disabilities.

EDSPE 566 Current Research in Early Childhood Special Education (2, max. 6) Explores theory, research, and practice in early intervention with infants, toddlers, and their families. Topics include typical and atypical development, assessment, curriculum, and intervention strategies.

EDSPE 599 Independent Studies in Education (*) Independent studies or readings of specialized aspects of education. Registration must be accompanied by a study prospectus endorsed by the appropriate faculty adviser for the work proposed. Offered: AWSpS.

EDSPE 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Registration must be accompanied by a study prospectus endorsed by the appropriate faculty adviser for the work proposed. Offered: AWSpS.

EDSPE 601 Internship (1-10) Prerequisite: graduate standing and permission based on prearrangement of internship placement and approval by adviser. Offered: AWSpS.

Teacher Education Program

EDTEP 501 Community-Based Field Experience (2-10, max. 15) Field experience and group discussions accompanying the first quarter of study in the Elementary Teacher Education Program. Field experience in Community Based Organizations. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: elementary TEP student.

EDTEP 502 Second Quarter Field Experience — Elementary (2-10, max.15) Field experience accompanying the second quarter of study in the Elementary Teacher Education Program. Observe school-year opening full-time in late August through September; field experiences during the quarter in supervised school placements. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: elementary TEP student. Offered: A.

EDTEP 503 Third Quarter Field Experience — Elementary (4) Field experience and use of reflective process in small group discussions accompanying third quarter of study in Elementary Teacher Education Program. Observe school-year opening full-time in late August through September; field experiences during the quarter in supervised school placements. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: elementary TEP student.

EDTEP 505 Portfolio: Tool for Reflection — Elementary (2) Group discussions fostering integration of course work and field experience through reflection. Using program goals and targets, students illustrate their learning through multiple forms of evidence. Final portfolio is presented to an audience. Related field experiences may be arranged. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: elementary TEP student.

EDTEP 511 School and Society (3) Exploration of issues regarding schooling and society, such as matters of value and value tension in American schools. Consideration of social values such as equality, opportunity, pluralism, and community; historical and contemporary evidence of values in schooling; and how values can conflict in policy and practice. Prerequisite: elementary TEP student.

EDTEP 521 Teaching and Learning in Numeracy I (4) Focus on mathematics from the perspective of the learner and on the meaning of understanding a mathematics concept. Examination of cultural aspects of the development of these concepts. Prerequisite: elementary TEP student.

EDTEP 522 Teaching and Learning in Numeracy II (3) Focus on pedagogy of mathematics. In conjunction with field experience, students extend understanding of mathematics and successfully integrate mathematics as a tool for learning science and art. Prerequisite: elementary TEP student.

EDTEP 523 Teaching and Learning in Science (3) Science teaching in a manner consistent with how young children learn science concepts and skills. Opportunities are provided for work on science activities similar to those used with elementary school children and to experience many of the problems and successes of preadolescents. Prerequisite: elementary TEP student.

EDTEP 531 Teaching and Learning in Literacy I (3) Investigation of the multiple natures of literacy development. Students study the impact of culture and family on literacy development by reading and discussing a variety of texts while also experiencing the development of their own learning through literature study, the writing process, and oral presentations. Prerequisite: elementary TEP student.

EDTEP 502 Second Quarter Field Experience — Elementary (2-10, max.15) Field experience accompanying the second quarter of study in the Elementary Teacher Education Program. Observe school-year opening full-time in late August through September; field experiences during the quarter in supervised school placements. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: elementary TEP student. Offered: A.

EDTEP 533 Teaching and Learning in Literacy III (3) Introduces participants to the content and process of literacy learning in elementary school. Study of abilities needed for effective literacy use, instructional strategies to help children acquire these abilities, and assessment strategies to evaluate student progress. Prerequisite: elementary TEP student.

EDTEP 541 Dilemmas of Teaching and Learning in Elementary School (4) Covers human learning in the elementary school setting with emphasis on discipline-specific cognition and cognitive development. Prerequisite: elementary TEP student.

EDTEP 542 Meeting the Needs of All Students-Elementary (3) Overview of physical, cognitive, and social development of elementary school age children. Discussion of ways in which differences in development may affect children in school. Provides elementary teachers with understanding of how to facilitate the success of all children in general education classrooms. Prerequisite: elementary TEP student.

EDTEP 543 Teaching and Learning in Social Studies.(3) Strategies for teaching social studies and the arts through integrated thematic units of curriculum and instruction. Prerequisite: elementary TEP student.

EDTEP 544 Differentiated Instruction (2-, max. 8) Hudson, Varghese Introduction to the concepts and practice of differentiated instruction for children with diverse developmental, linguistic, and cultural characteristics. Prerequisite: elementary TEP student. Offered: AWSpS.

EDTEP 551 Multicultural Teaching (3) Concepts, theories, and strategies that constitute major dimensions of multicultural education. Focus on racial and ethnic groups, social class, and gender. Dimensions of multicultural education examined include content integration, knowledge construction process, prejudice reduction, equity pedagogy, and empowering school culture and social structure. Prerequisite: TEP student.

EDTEP 552 Assessment in Elementary Education (1-2-,max 3) Emphasis on methods of assessment that reinforce understanding of the various disciplines. Includes performance assessments, assessments of student projects and papers, traditional exams, and observational exams. Prerequisite: elementary TEP student.

EDTEP 553 Introduction to Multicultural Education - Elementary (4) Banks, Gay Explores concepts, theories, and strategies that constitute major dimensions of multicultural education. Focuses on racial and ethnic groups, social class, and gender. Examines dimensions of multicultural education including content integration, knowledge construction process, prejudice reduction, equity pedagogy, and empowering school culture and social structure. Prerequisite: elementary TEP student. Offered: SpS.

EDTEP 561 Dilemmas of Teaching and Learning (5) Study of human learning in an educational setting, with an emphasis on learning of school subjects. Topics include nature of learning, knowledge and teaching, motivation, culture, and cognition. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 562 Adolescent Development and Education I (3-) Overview of trends and issues of adolescent development and behavior in relation to contemporary secondary schooling. Psychological perspectives on adolescent identity, interpersonal relationships, academic engagement, and social deviancy in schools examined with special attention to classroom management and accommodating differences. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 563 Adolescent Development and Education II (-3) Overview of trends and issues of adolescent development and behavior in relation to contemporary secondary schooling. Psychological perspectives on adolescent identity, interpersonal relationships, academic engagement, and social deviancy in schools examined with special attention to classroom management and accommodating differences. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 564 Working in Secondary Schools (3) Organizational, personal, and interpersonal aspects of working as a teacher in a secondary school. Preparation for membership and leadership in a learning community and for continuing professional growth. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student

EDTEP 565 Planning and Teaching an Integrated Curriculum (3) Introduction of models for integrating curriculum, congruent instructional and assessment strategies, and team planning skills. Provides direct and experiential learning activities and results in production of team-planned curricular units based on two different models of curriculum integration. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 571 Topics and Tensions in School and Society (3) Exploration of issues of value and value tension in American schools. Consideration of social values of equality, opportunity, pluralism, and community, historical and contemporary evidence of values in schooling, and how values can conflict in policy and practice. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 573 Assessment in Secondary Education (3) Strong emphasis on methods of assessment that reinforce understanding of the various disciplines, including performance assessments, assessments of student projects and papers, traditional exams, and observational exams. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 580 Teaching English and Language Arts in Secondary School I (5-) Teaching of English and Language Arts in middle, junior, or senior high school. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 581 Teaching English and Language Arts in Secondary School II (-3) Teaching of English and Language Arts in middle, junior, or senior high school. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 582 Teaching Mathematics in the Secondary School I (5-) Teaching of mathematics in middle, junior, or senior high school. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 583 Teaching Mathematics in the Secondary School II (-3) Teaching of mathematics in middle, junior, or senior high school. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 584 Teaching Social Studies in the Secondary School I (5-) Developing, teaching, and evaluating social studies courses on the middle, junior, and senior high school levels. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 585 Teaching Social Studies in the Secondary School II (-3) Developing, teaching, and evaluating social studies courses on the middle, junior, and senior high school levels. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 586 Teaching Science in the Secondary School I (5-) Teaching of science in middle, junior, or senior high school. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 587 Teaching Science in the Secondary School I (-3) Teaching of science in middle, junior, or senior high school. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 588 Teaching World Languages I (5-) Introduction to currently used foreign language teaching methods and approaches, including learning and teaching strategies and techniques for the four skills — reading, writing, speaking, listening — and culture. Current and future trends in pedagogy and technology. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 589 Teaching World Languages II (-3) Introduction to currently used foreign language teaching methods and approaches, including learning and teaching strategies and techniques for the four skills — reading, writing, speaking, listening — and culture. Current and future trends in pedagogy and technology. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 591 First Quarter Field Experience — Secondary (3) Field experience and small group discussions accompanying the first quarter of study in the Secondary Teacher Education Program. Observe school year opening full-time for approximately one month in August and September and two weeks full-time during the quarter in supervised school placements. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 592 Second Quarter Field Experience — Secondary (3) Field experience and small group discussions accompanying the second quarter of study in the Secondary Teacher Education Program. Three weeks full-time during the quarter in supervised school placements. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 593 Third Quarter Field Experience — Secondary (3) Field experience and small group discussions accompanying third quarter of study in Secondary Teacher Education Program. Four weeks full-time during the quarter in supervised school placements. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 595 Portfolio: Tool for Reflection — Secondary (3) Group discussions fostering integration of course work and field experience through reflection. Using program goals and targets, students illustrate their learning through multiple forms of evidence. Final portfolio is presented to an audience. Related field experience may be arranged. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: secondary TEP student.

EDTEP 600 Independent Study or Research (1) Registration must be accompanied by a study prospectus endorsed by the Director of Teacher Education and the faculty adviser for the work proposed. Credit/no credit only.

EDTEP 601 Fourth Quarter Field Experience (2-10, max. 15) Field experience during the fourth quarter of study in the Teacher Education Program. Full-time student teaching in supervised school placements. Prerequisite: TEP student.

College of Engineering

Engineering

ENGR 100 Introduction to Engineering Design (5) I&S Introduction to design and communication principles through engineering project approach, stressing teamwork, design process, specialties and tools of engineering, creative and analytical thinking, professionalism and ethics, social, economic and political context, open-ended problems. Grading based on quality of engineering projects and presentation of design through written, oral, and graphical communication. Offered: AWSp.

ENGR 101 Technology and Society (5) I&S Examines revolutionary technologies and how they have shaped the world. Investigates how railroads, computers, automobiles, airplanes, the Internet, nanotechnology, and other innovations affect everyday life. Includes examination of how geographers, philosophers, scientists, artists, engineers, and others are involved in creation, implementation, and criticism of technology.

ENGR 197 Engineering Problem Solving (1, max. 12) Lectures and problem sessions in mathematics, chemistry, and physics with engineering applications. Enrollment restricted to Minority Science, Engineering Program (MSEP), and Women in Science and Engineering (WiSE) students. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

ENGR 199 Special Projects (1-3, max. 3) Students propose problems to solve to an engineering faculty member. The problems may be selected from the student's own experiences and interests, from the interest of the faculty member, or from other sources such as faculty or graduate students doing research projects, or from personnel in the physical medicine area, occupational therapy, hospital, industry, government. Corroboration by an engineering faculty member is required. Project suggestions are available. Offered: AWSpS.

ENGR 202 Special Projects (1-3, max. 3) Projects on topics of current interest in engineering. Offered: A.

ENGR 321 Engineering Cooperative Education ([1-2]-, max. 16) Engineering practicum; integration of classroom theory with on-the-job training. Periods of full-time work alternate with periods of full-time study. Open only to students who have been admitted to the Engineering Cooperative Education Program. Requires subsequent completion of ENGR 322 to obtain credit. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

ENGR 322 Engineering Cooperative Education Postwork Seminar (-0) Reporting and evaluation of co-op work experience, and discussion of current topics in engineering. To be taken during the first quarter in school following each work session. Offered: AWSpS.

ENGR 360 Introductory Acoustics (3) NW Introduction to propagation of acoustical waves; emphasis on propagation of sound waves in air, but material is applicable to propagation of sound waves in liquids, including underwater acoustics, and to propagation of stress waves in solids. Includes a historical development of acoustics, terminology, and units employed. Prerequisite: either MATH 136 or MATH 307; PHYS 123. Offered: Sp.

ENGR 380 Design for Sustainability in the Developing World (2, max. 8) I&S Bolton Introduction to issues in international sustainable development from an engineering perspective. Combines lectures on current approaches and potential pitfalls with work on group projects related to sustainable development efforts of Engineers Without Borders. Develops research and design skills using real life projects. Intended for students from all backgrounds. Offered: AW.

ENGR 498 Special Topics in Engineering (1-5, max. 6) Offered: AWSpS.

ENGR 499 Special Projects in Engineering (1-3, max. 6) Offered: AWSpS.

ENGR 598 Seminar Series in Engineering (1, max. 12) Kalonji, Reed Graduate seminar series on topics of interest to all engineering students.

Aeronautics and Astronautics

A A 101 Air and Space Vehicles (5) NW Introduction to aircraft and spacecraft; how airplanes fly, how airplanes and rockets are made, how they are controlled, and how space missions are designed. Laboratory and computer simulations used as illustrations. Emphasis on conceptual, rather than mathematical, comprehension. Not recommended for upper-division students in physical sciences and engineering. Offered: A.

A A 210 Engineering Statics (4) NW Vector analysis applied to equilibrium of rigid body systems and subsystems. Force and moment resultants, free body diagrams, internal forces, and friction. Analysis of basic structural and machine systems and components. Prerequisite: either MATH 126, MATH 129, or MATH 136; PHYS 121; recommended: graphics background. Offered: AWSpS.

A A 299 Undergraduate Research (1-5, max. 10) Research on special topics under the supervision of a faculty member. Application of fundamentals learned in the classroom to real problems in research. Offered: AWSpS.

A A 301 Compressible Aerodynamics (4) Aerodynamics as applied to the problems of performance of flight vehicles in the atmosphere. Kinematics and dynamics of flow fields. Thin airfoil theory; finite wing theory. Compressible fluids; one-dimensional compressible flow; two-dimensional supersonic flow. Prerequisite: CHEM E 260. Offered: W.

performance of flight vehicles in the atmosphere. Kinematics and dynamics of flow fields; incompressible flow about bodies. Thin airfoil theory; finite wing theory. Prerequisite: PHYS 123; either AMATH 351, MATH 136, or MATH 307. Offered: Sp.

A A 310 Orbital and Space Flight Mechanics (4) Newton's law of gravitation. Two-body problem, central force motion, Kepler's laws. Trajectories and conic sections. Position and velocity as functions of time. Orbit determination and coordinate transformations. Rocket dynamics, orbital maneuvers, Hohmann transfer. Interplanetary trajectories, patched conics. Planetary escape and capture. Gravity assist maneuvers. Prerequisite: M E 230. Offered: A.

A A 311 Atmospheric Flight Mechanics (4) Applied Aerodynamics, aircraft flight "envelope," minimum and maximum speeds, climb and glide performance. Range and endurance, take-off and landing performance, using both jet and propeller power plants. Longitudinal and dynamic stability and control, wing downwash, stabilizer and elevator effectiveness, power effects. Lateral and directional stability and control. Offered: A.

A A 312 Structural Vibrations (4) Vibration theory. Characteristics of single and multidegree-of-freedom linear systems with forced inputs. Approximate methods for determining principal frequencies and mode shapes. Application to simple aeroelastic problems. Prerequisite: M E 230. Offered: W.

A A 320 Aerospace Instrumentation (3) Hands-on laboratory experience in aerospace instrumentation. Students build sensors, power supplies, and circuits. Application of signal conditioning to wind tunnel data. Digital systems, A/D conversion, D/A conversion, and actuator control. Introduction to instrumentation requirements for space vehicles. Offered: A.

A A 321 Aerospace Laboratory I (3) The design and conduct of experimental inquiry in the field of aeronautics and astronautics. Laboratory experiments on supersonic flow, structures, vibrations, material properties, and other topics. Theory, calibration, and use of instruments, measurement techniques, analysis of data, report writing. Offered: W.

A A 322 Aerospace Laboratory II (3) The design and conduct of experimental inquiry in the field of aeronautics and astronautics. Laboratory experiments on subsonic aerodynamics, supersonic flow, structures, propulsion, and other topics. Theory, calibration, and use of instruments, measurement techniques, analysis of data, report writing. Offered: Sp.

A A 331 Aerospace Structures I (4) Analysis and design of aerospace structures. Review of concepts of stress, deformation, strain, displacement and equations of elasticity. Applications to aerospace structural elements including general bending and torsion of rods and beams, and open and closed thin-walled structures and box beams. Prerequisite: CEE 220. Offered: W.

A A 332 Aerospace Structures II (4) Bending of plates and shells. Buckling analysis. Energy principles and minimum potential energy. Introduction to the finite element method. Airworthiness and airframe loads. Strength and damage characteristics of ductile, brittle and composite materials. Elements of fracture mechanics and fatigue. Prerequisite: A A 331. Offered: Sp.

A A 360 Propulsion (4) Study of the aero- and thermodynamics of jet and rocket engines. Air-breathing engines as propulsion systems. Turbojets, turbofans, turboprops, ramjets. Aerodynamics of gas-turbine engine components. Rocket vehicle performance. Introduction to space propulsion. Prerequisite: A A 301. Offered: Sp.

A A 400 Gas Dynamics (3) Introduction to kinetic theory and free molecule flow. Review of thermodynamics. One-dimensional gas dynamics: one-dimensional wave motion, combustion waves. Ideal and real gas application. Prerequisite: PHYS 123; CHEM E 260. Offered: W.

A A 402 Fluid Mechanics (3) Inviscid equations of motion, incompressible potential flows, small perturbation flows, bodies of revolution, viscous equations, exact solutions, laminar boundary-layer equations, similar solutions, integral methods. Compressibility, instability, turbulent boundary layers. Prerequisite: MATH 324; A A 301. Offered: Sp.

A A 405 Introduction to Aerospace Plasmas (3) Development of introductory electromagnetic theory including Lorentz force and Maxwell's equations. Plasma description. Single particle motions and drifts in magnetic and electric fields. Derivation of plasma fluid model. Introduction to plasma waves. Applications to electric propulsion, magnetic confinement, and plasmas in space and Earth's outer atmosphere. Prerequisite: PHYS 123; MATH 324. Offered: A.

A A 409 Computer Tools for Aerospace Engineers (2) Computer-aided drawing basics, three-dimensional drawing, projections, views. Computer-aided design and analysis tools for stress and heat transfer calculations. Offered: A.

A A 410 Aircraft Design I (4-) Conceptual design of a modern airplane to satisfy a given set of requirements. Estimation of size, selection of configuration, weight and balance, and performance. Satisfaction of stability, control, and handling qualities requirements. Offered: W.

A A 411 Aircraft Design II (4-) Preliminary design of a modern airplane to satisfy a given set of requirements. Estimation of size, selection of configuration, weight and balance, and performance. Satisfaction of stability, control, and handling qualities requirements. Prerequisite: A A 410. Offered: Sp.

A A 419 Aerospace Heat Transfer (3) Fundamentals of conductive, convective, and radiative heat transfer with emphasis on applications to atmospheric and space flight. Prerequisite: PHYS 123; MATH 307. Offered: W.

A A 420 Spacecraft and Space Systems Design I (4-) Design of space systems and spacecraft for advanced near-Earth and interplanetary missions. Astrodynamics, space environment, space systems engineering.

Mission design and analysis, space vehicle propulsion, flight mechanics, atmospheric entry, aerobraking, configuration, structural design, power systems, thermal management, systems integration. Oral presentations and report writing. Design topics vary. Offered: W.

A A 421 Spacecraft and Space System Design II (-4) A continuation of 420. Course content varies from year to year and is dependent on the design topic chosen for 420. Prerequisite: A A 420. Offered: Sp.

A A 430 Finite Element Structural Analysis (3) Introduction to the finite element method and application. One-, two-, and three-dimensional problems including trusses, beams, box beams, plane stress and plane strain analysis, and heat transfer. Use of finite element software. Prerequisite: CEE 220. Offered: A.

A A 432 Composite Materials for Aerospace Structures (3) Introduction to analysis and design of aerospace structures utilizing filamentary composite materials. Basic elastic properties and constitutive relations of composite laminates. Failure criteria, buckling analysis, durability, and damage tolerance of composite structures. Aerospace structure design philosophy and practices. Prerequisite: A A 332. Offered: W.

A A 440 Flight Mechanics I (3) Calculation of aerodynamic characteristics of aircraft and components including stability derivatives. Relation to wind tunnel and flight data. Vehicle equations of motion within the atmosphere, characteristics of propulsion systems and components including propellers. Prediction of performance, stability and control characteristics for a specific aircraft. : W.

A A 441 Flight Test Engineering (3) Determination in flight of performance, stability, and control characteristics of aircraft; and comparison with predicted and wind tunnel results. Prerequisite: A A 311. Offered: Sp.

A A 447 Control in Aerospace Systems (4) Overview of feedback control. Linearization of nonlinear models. Model properties: stability, controllability, observability. Dynamic response: time and frequency domain techniques. Frequency response design techniques. Design of aerospace control systems via case studies. Prerequisite: M E 230; MATH 308. Offered: A.

A A 448 Control Systems Sensors and Actuators (3) Study of control systems components and mathematical models. Amplifiers, DC servomotors, reaction mass actuators. Accelerometers, potentiometers, shaft encoders and resolvers, proximity sensors, force transducers, piezoceramic materials, gyroscopes. Experimental determination of component models and model parameters. Two 3-hour laboratories per week. Prerequisite: either A A 447 or E E 447. Offered: jointly with E E 448; W.

A A 449 Design of Automatic Control Systems (4) Design problems for aerospace vehicles, systems with unstable dynamics, lightly damped modes, nonminimum phase, nonlinear dynamics. Computer-aided analysis, design, and simulation, with laboratory hardware-in-the-loop testing. Team design reviews, oral presentations. Prerequisite: either A A 448 or E E 448. Offered: jointly with E E 449; Sp.

A A 461 Advanced Propulsion (3) Physical characteristics and components of rockets. Nozzle gasdynamics and non-ideal flow effects. Solid and liquid propulsion systems, components, and design. Aerodynamics of airbreathing engine components: inlets, compressors, turbines, afterburners, nozzles. Engine design methodology. Prerequisite: A A 360. Offered: A.

A A 462 Rocket Propulsion (3) Physical and performance characteristics of rocket propulsion devices. Mission requirements, chemical rockets, arcjets, electrostatic and electromagnetic thruster. Offered: Sp.

A A 470 Systems Engineering (4) Concepts of system approach, system hierarchies, functional analysis, requirements, trade studies, and other concepts used to define and integrate complex engineering systems. Introduction to risk analysis and reliability, failure modes and effects analysis, writing specifications, and lean manufacturing.. Offered: jointly with IND E 470; A.

A A 480 Systems Dynamics (3) Equations of motion and solutions for selected dynamic problems; natural frequencies and mode shapes; response of simple systems to applied loads. Prerequisite: A A 312. Offered: Sp.

A A 496 Undergraduate Seminar (1) Lectures and discussions on topics of current interest in aviation and space technology by guest speakers. Topics vary. Offered: W.

A A 498 Special Topics (1-5, max. 15) Topics of current interest in the department of Aeronautics and Astronautics.

A A 499 Undergraduate Research (1-5, max. 10) Research on special topics under the supervision of a faculty member. Application of fundamentals learned in the classroom to real problems in research. A maximum of 6 credits may be applied toward senior technical electives. Offered: AWSpS.

A A 501 Physical Gasdynamics I (3) Equilibrium kinetic theory; chemical thermodynamics; thermodynamic properties derived from quantum statistical mechanics; reacting gas mixtures; applications to real gas flows and gas dynamics. Offered: odd years; A.

A A 504 Fluid Mechanics (3) Review of thermodynamics; vectors and dyads. Derivation of the Navier-Stokes equations, stream functions and potential functions; integrals of the equations of motion. Boundary conditions and discontinuity surfaces in fluids. Exact solutions. Dimensional analysis. Vorticity dynamics. Highly viscous flows. Rotational flows. Offered: A.

A A 506 Vortex-Dominated Flows (3) Examines the vorticity equation, baroclinic torque, solenoidality, Biot-Savart's formula, diffusion of vorticity, Burger vortex, system of vortices, Kelvin-Helmholtz instability, effects of density, shear and surface tension on instability, swirling flows, and other special topics. Prerequisite: A A 504. Offered: Sp; even years.

A A 507 Aerodynamics of Viscous Fluids I (3) Introduction to viscous flow; exact solutions of the laminar equations of motion; approximate equations. Exact solutions for laminar boundary-layer equations. Approximate methods for compressible laminar boundary layers. Offered: odd years; W.

A A 508 Aerodynamics of Viscous Fluids II (3)

The phenomena of turbulence; transition prediction; Reynolds stresses; turbulent boundary-layer equations. Approximate methods for turbulent boundary layers. Prerequisite: A A 507 or permission of instructor. Offered: odd years; Sp.

A A 510 Mathematical Foundations of Systems Theory (4)

Mathematical foundations for system theory presented from an engineering viewpoint. Includes set theory; functions, inverse functions; metric spaces; finite dimensional linear spaces; linear operators on finite dimensional spaces; projections on Hilbert spaces. Applications to engineering systems stressed. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 510/E E 510/M E 510; A.

A A 513 Gas Laser Theory and Practice (3)

Physics and fluid mechanics of gas lasers, with emphasis on performance of gas dynamic lasers, flowing chemical lasers, and gaseous electric lasers. Development of laser optics, interaction of radiation and matter, laser oscillation conditions, and methods of obtaining population inversions. Applications of high-power lasers emphasized. Offered: even years; Sp.

Static and dynamic stability and control of flight vehicles in the atmosphere. Determination of stability derivatives. Effects of stability derivatives on flight characteristics. Flight dynamic model. Responses to control inputs and external disturbances. Handling qualities. Control system components, sensor characteristics. Stability augmentation systems. Offered: A.

A A 518 Automatic Control of Flight Vehicles (3)

Specifications of flight vehicle performance. Synthesis of stability augmentation systems and autopilot control laws in the frequency-domain and using multivariable control methods. Reduced-order controller synthesis, digital design, and implementation. Use of computer-aided control design packages. Prerequisite: A A 516 and A A 548. Offered: odd years; Sp.

A A 520 Seminar (1-, max. 10)

Topics of current interest in aerospace engineering. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: A A major. Offered: AWSp.

A A 523 Special Topics in Fluid Physics (3)

Offered: AWSp.

A A 524 Aircraft Engine Noise (3)

Description and measurement of noise, power spectra. Elementary duct acoustics, rotor-stator interaction, effect of design blade loading. Turbine noise, core noise, acoustic linings. Jet noise, Lighthill theory, scaling laws. Offered: odd years; A.

A A 525 Aerothermodynamics of Aircraft Engines Components (3)

Estimation of component performances. Inlets and nozzles. Aerodynamics of turbines and compressors. Radial equilibrium theory, through-flow theory. Offered: even years; W.

A A 527 Energy Conversion I (3)

Energy resources. Heat generation by combustion, solar collection. Analysis of power systems for space and advanced commercial power generation. High-temperature cycles. Offered: even years; A.

A A 528 Spacecraft Dynamics and Control (3)

Examines spacecraft dynamics and control. Includes basic orbital mechanics-the restricted three body problem, Hill's theory, perturbation theory, orbit determination, rigid body kinematics and dynamics, attitude control, and spacecraft formation flying. Prerequisite: MATH 307; MATH 308.

A A 529 Space Propulsion (3)

Nucleonics, and heat transfer of nuclear-heated rockets. Electrothermal, electromagnetic, and electrostatic thrusters. Power/propulsion systems. Prerequisite: permission. Offered: odd years; Sp.

A A 530 Mechanics of Solids (3)

General concepts and theory of solid mechanics. Large deformations. Behavior of elastic, viscoelastic, and plastic solids. Linear theory of elasticity and thermoelasticity. Wave propagation in solids. Offered: A.

A A 531 Structural Reliability and Damage (3)

Theory of plasticity, yield surfaces, flow rules, limit theorems. Concepts of failure and fatigue in aerospace structures, residual strength, cumulative damage, probability aspects and case histories. Prerequisite: A A 530 or equivalent or permission of instructor. Offered: odd years; W.

A A 532 Mechanics of Composite Materials (3)

Analyses and design of composite materials for aerospace structures. Micromechanics. Anisotropic elasticity. Laminated plate theory. Thermo-viscoelastic behavior and fracture of composites. Prerequisite: A A 530 or permission of instructor. Offered: odd years; Sp.

A A 538 Introduction to Structural Optimization (3)

Live Includes the formulation of engineering design problems as optimization problems, gradient based numerical optimization methods, design oriented structural analysis, structural sensitivity analysis, approximation concepts, and introduction to multidisciplinary design optimization. Prerequisite: coursework in structural analysis; finite elements; and computer programming; or permission of instructor. Offered: A; odd years.

A A 540 Finite Element Analysis I (3)

Formulation of the finite element method using variational and weighted residual methods. Element types and interpolation functions. Application to elasticity problems, thermal conduction, and other problems of engineering and physics. Offered: W.

A A 541 Finite Element Analysis II (3)

Advanced concepts of the finite element method. Hybrid and boundary element methods. Nonlinear, eigenvalue, and time-dependent problems. Prerequisite: A A 540 or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

A A 543 Computational Fluid Dynamics I (3)

Numerical approximation of the inviscid compressible equations of fluid dynamics. Analysis of numerical accuracy, stability, and efficiency. Use of explicit, implicit, and flux split methods. Discussion of splitting, approximate factorization, discrete point, and finite volume approaches. Applications to the solution of simple hyperbolic systems of equations and the Euler equations. Offered: W.

A A 545 Computational Methods for Plasmas (3)

Shumlak Develops the governing equations for plasma models - particle, kinetics, and MHD.

Applies the governing equation to plasma dynamics through the PIC method and integration of fluid evaluation equations. Examines numerical solution to equilibrium configurations, and linear stability by energy principle and variational method. Prerequisite: A A 405 or A A 557. Offered: odd years; Sp.

A A 546 Advanced Topics in Control System Theory (3)

Topics of current interest for advanced graduate students with adequate preparation in linear and nonlinear system theory. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: when adequate enrollment develops prior to close of advance registration.

A A 547 Linear Systems Theory (4)

Linearity, linearization, finite dimensionality, time-varying vs. time-invariant linear systems, interconnection of linear systems, functional/structural descriptions of linear systems, system zeros and invertibility, linear system stability, system norms, state transition, matrix exponentials, controllability and observability, realization theory. Prerequisite: either A A 447, E E 447 or M E 471. Offered: jointly with E E 547/M E 547; A

A A 548 Linear Multivariable Control (3)

Introduction to MIMO systems, successive single loop design comparison, Lyapunov stability theorem, full state feedback controller design, observer design, LQR problem statement, design, stability analysis, and tracking design. LQG design, separation principle, stability robustness. Prerequisite: A A 547/E E 547/M E 547. Offered: jointly with M E 548/E E 548.

A A 549 State Estimation and Kalman Filtering (3)

Fundamentals of state estimation for linear and nonlinear systems. Discrete and continuous systems. Probability and stochastic systems theory. Models with noise. Kalman-Bucy filters, extended Kalman filters, recursive estimation. Numerical issues in filter design and implementation. Prerequisite: E E 505 or AMATH 506 or STAT 506; recommended: 548 or A A 548. Offered: jointly with M E 549/E E 549.

A A 550 Nonlinear Optimal Control (3)

Calculus of variations for dynamical systems, definition of the dynamic optimization problem, constraints and Lagrange multipliers, the Pontryagin Maximum Principle, necessary conditions for optimality, the Hamilton-Jacobi-Bellman equation, singular arc problems, computational techniques for solution of the necessary conditions. Prerequisite: graduate standing; recommended: A A 548, E E 548, or M E 548. Offered: jointly with E E 550/M E 550; odd years; A.

A A 553 Vibrations of Aerospace Systems (3)

Continuous and discrete systems, natural frequencies, and modal analysis; forced vibrations and motion-dependent forces. Structural damping; control augmented structures. Measurements for structural dynamic testing. Prerequisite: A A 571 or equivalent. Offered: odd years; Sp.

A A 554 Aeroelasticity (3)

Static and dynamic aeroelasticity, unsteady aerodynamics, aeroservoelastic modeling, and active control. Offered: even years; Sp

A A 556 Space and Laboratory Plasma Physics (3)

Discussion of waves, equilibrium and stability, diffusion and resistivity, basic plasma kinetic theory, and wave-particle interactions. Prerequisite: either A A 405, ESS 515, or GPHYS 505, or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with ESS 576; W.

A A 557 Physics of Fusion Plasmas (3) Review and comparison of single particle and fluid descriptions of plasmas. MDH equilibrium, flux surfaces, and basic toroidal description. Collisional processes including physical and velocity space diffusion. Introduction to island formation, stochasticity, and various plasma instabilities. Prerequisite: A A 405 or GPHYS 505. Offered: even years; W

A A 558 Plasma Theory (3) Equilibrium, stability, and confinement. Classical transport, collisionless and resistive skin depths. Ideal MHD equations formally derived and properties of plasmas in the ideal limit are studied. Straight and toroidal equilibrium. Linear stability analysis with examples. Taylor minimum energy principle. Prerequisite: either A A 405, A A 556, A A 557, ESS 576, or GPHYS 537. Offered: even years; Sp.

A A 559 Plasma Science Seminar (1, max. 10) Current topics in plasma science and controlled fusion with presentations by invited speakers, on-campus speakers, and students. Students expected to give a seminar once or twice a year with instructor reviewing the method of presentation and material used for the presentation. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

A A 560 Plasma Diagnostics (3) Jarboe Discusses plasma measurement methods including material probes and optical methods. Covers techniques for making measurement in a high electrical noise environment. Presents methods for measuring electron and ion temperatures, density, impurities, magnetic fields, fluctuations, and neutrals. Prerequisite: A A 405 or equivalent. Offered: even years, A.

A A 565 Fusion Reactor Fundamentals (3) Introduction to basic engineering features of fusion power plants. Brief description of basic fusion physics and discussion of power plants for leading thermonuclear concepts. Engineering problems; blanket, shield neutronics; materials, thermal hydraulics; tritium, superconducting systems. Prerequisite: completion of or concurrent enrollment in A A 405 or permission of instructor. Offered: odd years; W.

A A 570 Manifolds and Geometry for Systems and Control (3) Morgansen Introduction to fundamentals of calculus on manifolds and group theory with applications in robotics and control theory. Topics include: manifolds, tangent spaces and bundles, Lie groups and algebras, coordinate versus coordinate-free representations. Applications from physics, robotics, and control theory. Offered: jointly with EE 570/M E 571; W; even years.

A A 575 Continuum Mechanics (3) General foundations of the fundamental concepts of motion, stress, energy, and electromagnetism for a continuum. General equations of conservation of mass, momentum, and energy. Linear and nonlinear elastic, viscous, and inelastic materials. Offered: jointly with CEE 508; even years; W.

A A 578 Optimization in System Sciences (3) Mesbahi Covers convex sets, separation theorems, theorem of alternatives and their applications, convex analysis, convex functions, conjugation, subgradients, convex optimization, duality and applications, linear and semi-definite programming. Linear matrix inequalities, optimization algorithms, applications in system theory and control, bilinear, rank minimization, optimization software. Recommended: A A 547/M E 547/E 547. Offered: jointly with E E 578/M E 578; W; even years.

A A 580 Geometric Methods for Non-Linear Control Systems (3) Morgansen Analysis and design of nonlinear control systems focusing on differential geometric methods. Topics include controllability, observability, feedback linearization, invariant distributions, and local coordinate transformations. Emphasis on systems evolving on Lie groups and linearly uncontrollable systems. Prerequisite: A A 570/E E 570/M E 570. Offered: jointly with E E 580/M E 580; Sp; even years.

A A 581 Digital Control (3) Chizeck Sampled-data systems, and z-transform. Frequency domain properties. Sampling D/A and A/D conversion. Controller design via discrete-time equivalents, direct methods, state feedback and observers. Quantization effects. LQR control and introduction to LQG optimal control. Prerequisite: either E E/A A/ or M E 548. Offered: jointly with E E/M E 581; W.

A A 582 Introduction to Discrete Event Systems (3) Berg Modeling DES with automata and Petri nets. Languages. State estimation and diagnostics. Control specifications. Feedback control. Dealing with uncontrollability and unobservability. Dealing with blocking. Timed automata and Petri nets. Prerequisite: A A 447/E E 447/ M E 471. Offered: jointly with E E 582/M E 582; even years; Sp.

A A 583 Nonlinear Control Systems (3) Analysis of nonlinear systems and nonlinear control system design. Phase plane analysis. Lyapunov stability analysis. Describing functions. Feedback linearization. Introduction to variable structure control. Prerequisite: A A/E E 447/M E 471. Offered: jointly with E E/M E 583; odd years; SP.

A A 585 System Identification and Adaptive Control (3) Theory and methods of system identification and adaptive control. Identification of linear-in-parameter systems, using recursive LS and extended LS methods; model order selection. Indirect and direct adaptive control. Controller synthesis, transient and stability properties. Prerequisite: either E E 505 or AMATH 506 or STAT 506; E E 548/A 548/M E 548. Offered: jointly with M E 585/E E 585.

A A 589 Special Topics in Solid Mechanics (3) Offered: AWSp.

A A 591 Robotics and Control Systems Colloquium (1, max. 3) Colloquium on current topics in robotics and control systems analysis and design. Topics presented by invited speakers as well as on-campus speakers. Emphasis on the cross-disciplinary nature of robotics and control systems. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with CHEM E/E E/M E 591; AWSp.

A A 593 Feedforward Control (3) Devasia Design feedforward controllers for precision output tracking; inversion-based control of non-minimum-phase systems; effect of plant uncertainty on feedforward control; design of feedforward controllers for applications such as vertical take off and landing aircraft, flexible structures and piezo-actuators. Prerequisite: A A 547/E E 547/M E 547. Offered: jointly with E E/ M E 593; Sp; even years.

A A 594 Robust Control (3) Basic foundations of linear analysis and control theory, model realization and reduction, balanced realization and truncation, stabilization problem, coprime factorizations, Youla parameterization, matrix inequalities, H-infinity and H2 control, KYP lemma, uncertain systems, robust H2, integral quadratic constraints, linear parameter varying synthesis, applications of robust control. Offered: jointly with E E 594/M E 594; odd years; Sp.

A A 597 Networked Dynamics Systems (3) Provides an overview of graph-theoretic techniques that are instrumental for studying dynamic systems that coordinate their states over a signal-exchange network. Topics include network models, network properties, dynamics over networks, formation control, biological networks, observability, controllability, and performance measures over networks. Prerequisite: A A 547/E E 547/M E 547. Offered: jointly with E E 597/M E 597.

A A 599 Special Projects (1-5, max. 15) Investigation on a special project by the student under the supervision of a faculty member. Offered: AWSpS.

A A 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Offered: AWSpS.

A A 700 Master's Thesis (*) Offered: AWSpS.

A A 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Offered: AWSpS.

Chemical Engineering

CHEM E 260 Thermodynamics (4) NW Introduction to the basic principles of thermodynamics from a macroscopic point of view. Emphasis on the First and Second Laws and the State Principle, problem solving methodology. Prerequisite: either CHEM 140, CHEM 142, or CHEM 145; either MATH 126, MATH 129, or MATH 136; PHYS 121. Offered: AWSpS.

CHEM E 301 Leadership Seminar (1) Stuve Forum for industrial, academic, and government leaders to share their experiences and insights with students. Includes topics related to leadership in the chemical engineering profession including career planning, management skills, interpersonal skills, effective planning, entrepreneurship, ethics, and strategic decisions. Credit no credit only. Offered: A.

CHEM E 309 Creativity and Innovation (2) VLPA Allan Understanding creativity and creative thinking; its challenges and dynamics through knowledge, judgment, planning, and observation. Techniques of creative thinking. Design and development of creative games. Computer-aided creative thinking. Creation, protection, and exploitation of a useful idea, including bargaining and negotiations. Offered: jointly with PSE 309; Sp.

CHEM E 310 Material and Energy Balances (4) Chemical and physical process calculations: steady- and unsteady-state material and energy balances with specific examples in vapor-liquid contact operations and multiphase extraction, and introductory thermochemistry. Prerequisite:

either CHEM E 260 or ENGR 260 with either ENGR 142 or CSE 142. Offered: A.

CHEM E 326 Chemical Engineering Thermodynamics (4) Phase equilibria and chemical equilibria in multicomponent systems; theories of solution; chemical reaction analysis. Prerequisite: CHEM E 310 with either CHEM E 260 or CHEM 456. Offered: W.

CHEM E 330 Transport Processes I (5) Diffusive transport of momentum, heat and mass; general aspects of fluid flow; the Navier-Stokes equations; one-dimensional flow with engineering applications. Prerequisite: CHEM E 310; either MATH 136 or MATH 307. Offered: W.

CHEM E 340 Transport Processes II (4) Heat transfer, basic principles, and applications. Conduction, convection, and radiation. Prerequisite: CHEM E 330. Offered: Sp.

CHEM E 341 Energy and Environment (3) NW Malte Energy use. Fossil energy conversion. Oil, gas, coal resources. Air impacts. Nuclear energy principles, reactors, fuel cycle. Prerequisite: either MATH 112, MATH 124, or Q SCI 291; either CHEM 120, CHEM 142, PHYS 114, or PHYS 121. Offered: jointly with ENVIR 341/M E 341; A.

CHEM E 442 Renewable Energy (4) NW Malte Introduction to renewable energy. Principles and practices: solar, wind, water, and biomass energy conversion. Prerequisite: either MATH 112, MATH 124, or Q SCI 291; either CHEM 120, CHEM 142, PHYS 115, or PHYS 122. Offered: jointly with M E 442/ENVIR 442; W.

CHEM E 345 Introduction to Fuel Cells (3) Adler, Schwartz, Stuve Overview of fuel cells, fuel cell efficiency, types of fuel cells, applications of fuel cells, and fuels for fuel cells. Intended for students in science and engineering and fuel cell professionals desiring a technical knowledge of fuel cells. No credit available, if already given for CHEM E 445. Prerequisite: CHEM 162; PHYS 122; recommended CHEM E 260. Offered: A.

CHEM E 355 Biological Frameworks for Engineers (3) For engineers with no prior experience in the biological sciences. Hands-on, project-based course covers fundamental concepts and language of biology, from an engineering perspective. Topics include functions of life, information processing, proteins, DNA, genetic variability, control loops, energetics, tissues, organisms, ecosystems. Prerequisite: CHEM 142; PHYS 123; MATH 307; recommended: CHEM 220. Offered: A.

CHEM E 375 Chemical Engineering Computer Skills (2) Finlayson Use Excell, Matlab, and AspenPlus to solve typical chemical engineering problems. Solve realistic problems and explore alternatives that would be inaccessible for hand calculations. Includes equations of state, chemical equilibrium of simultaneous reactions, phase equilibria, plug flow reactors, heat transfer in 1-D, and time-dependent heat transfer. Credit/no credit only. Offered: W.

CHEM E 435 Transport Processes III (4) Mass transfer, basic principles, and applications to equipment design. Physical separation processes. Prerequisite: CHEM E 326; CHEM E 340. Offered: A.

CHEM E 436 Chemical Engineering Laboratory I (3) Lectures on statistics, experimental design, instrumentation, laboratory safety, and report writing; laboratory experiments on fluid mechanics and heat transfer. Emphasis on teaming, experimental planning, procedures, report writing, and oral presentations. Prerequisite: CHEM E 326; CHEM E 340 which may be taken concurrently; T C 231; recommended: T C 333. Offered: ASp.

CHEM E 437 Chemical Engineering Laboratory II (3) Continuation of 436. Laboratory investigation of chemical engineering principles applied to equipment design with emphasis on mass transfer operations and chemical reactors. Prerequisite: CHEM E 435; CHEM E 436; CHEM E 465. Offered: W.

CHEM E 445 Fuel Cell Engineering (3) Introduction to electrochemical fuel cells for use in transportation and stationary power applications. Topics covered include types of fuel cells, single cell operation, stack engineering, overall system design, and safety, with emphasis on proton exchange membrane and solid oxide fuel cells. Prerequisite: CHEM E 330.

CHEM E 455 Surface and Colloid Science Laboratory (1/3, max. 3) Berg Laboratory techniques, equipment, and underlying fundamentals in surface and colloid science. Experiments in the measurement of surface tension, adsorption, wetting and spreading, colloid properties, emulsion preparation and stability, electrophoresis, and interfacial hydrodynamics. Recommended: CHEM E 326; CHEM E 330; CHEM 461. Offered: Sp.

CHEM E 458 Surface Analysis (3) Understanding of solid surfaces for research and development in microelectronics, catalysis, adhesion, biomaterials science, wear, and corrosion science. Newer methods available to study surfaces of materials. Electron emission spectroscopies (ESCA, Auger): ion scattering, ion spectroscopic, photon spectroscopic, and thermodynamic methods. Offered: jointly with BIOEN 492; W.

CHEM E 461 Electrochemical Engineering (3) Schwartz Explores role of thermodynamics, charge transfer kinetics, and mass transfer on behavior of electrochemical systems. Includes cell thermodynamics, faradaic and non-faradaic rate processes, ionic transport, nucleation and growth theories. Applications to chemical sensors, batteries, corrosion, thin film deposition. In-class demonstrations to illustrate concepts. Offered: W.

CHEM E 465 Reactor Design (4) Application of chemical kinetics and transport phenomena to the design of chemical reactors; characterization of batch and continuous-flow reactors in homogeneous and heterogeneous systems. Prerequisite: CHEM E 326; CHEM E 340. Offered: A.

CHEM E 467 Biochemical Engineering (3) Baneyx Application of basic chemical engineering principles to biochemical and biological process industries such as fermentation, enzyme technology, and biological waste treatment. Rapid overview of relevant microbiology, biochemistry, and molecular genetics. Design and analysis of biological reactors and product recovery operations. Prerequisite: CHEM E 340; either CHEM 223, CHEM 237, or CHEM 335; recommended: CHEM E 465. Offered: jointly with BIOEN 467; W.

CHEM E 468 Air-Pollution Control Equipment Design (3) Designs to control air pollutants from stationary sources. Procedures for calculating design and operating parameters. Fundamental mechanisms and processes of gaseous and particulate control equipment for absorption and adsorption of gaseous pollutants; electrostatic precipitation and filtration of particular pollutants. Actual case studies. Offered: jointly with CEE 494/M E 468; W.

CHEM E 470 Chemistry of Wood (3) Chemical and physical properties of cellulose, lignin, hemicellulose, and extractives; wood as a raw material for the chemical industry. Prerequisite: either CHEM 220, CHEM 238, or CHEM 336. Offered: A.

CHEM E 471 Pulping and Bleaching Processes (3) Conversion of wood to mechanical and chemical pulps. Kraft, sulfite, and semichemical pulping processes. Chemical recovery systems. Bleaching of mechanical and chemical pulps. Offered: jointly with PSE 476; W.

CHEM E 472 Papermaking Processes (3) Fiber sources and properties. Secondary fibers. Stock preparation, sheet forming, water removal, finishing. Coating, lamination, and printing. Paper products. Offered: jointly with PSE 477; A.

CHEM E 473 Pulp and Paper Laboratory (2) Laboratory experiments in chemical and semichemical pulping of wood. Bleaching of chemical and high-yield pulps. Physical and chemical characteristics of pulp fibers. Prerequisite: PSE 476. Offered: jointly with PSE 478; Sp.

CHEM E 480 Process Dynamics and Control (4) Dynamics of process units and systems; instrumentation and control system design and analysis. Includes weekly laboratory. Prerequisite: CHEM E 435; CHEM E 465. Offered: W.

CHEM E 481 Process Optimization (3) Concepts and techniques of optimizing chemical engineering processes and systems, including classical and direct methods of search, linear and nonlinear programming, dynamic programming, statistical experimental design, and evolutionary operation. Offered: Sp.

CHEM E 482 Advanced Topics in Process Control (3) Holt, Ricker Current topics in process control design and analysis. Possible topics include robustness analysis and design, time delay compensation, modern frequency response techniques, discrete control, adaptive control, model-based control, and nonlinear control. Prerequisite: CHEM E 480.

CHEM E 484 Electronic and Optoelectronic Polymers (3) Jenekhe Covers the chemistry, physics, materials science, and engineering applications of semiconducting and metallic conjugated polymers. Examines the structural origins of the diverse electronic and optoelectronic properties of conjugated polymers. Exemplifies applications by light-emitting diodes, lasers, solar cells, thin film transistors, electrochromic devices, biosensors, and batteries. Prerequisite: either CHEM 237, CHEM 455, CHEM E 340, or MSE 310. Offered: A.

CHEM E 485 Process Design I (4) Applied economics in chemical engineering design and operations; measures of profitability; capital and operating cost estimates; introduction to design and design strategies. Prerequisite: CHEM E 480 which may be taken concurrently. Offered: W.

CHEM E 486 Process Design II (5) Comprehensive design of a specific process, including economic feasibility studies, utilization of market survey and plant location studies, process equipment design and optimization, and overall plant integration and layout. Prerequisite: CHEM E 485. Offered: Sp.

CHEM E 490 Engineering Materials for Biomedical Applications (3) Hoffman Combined application of the principles of physical chemistry, biochemistry, materials engineering, mass transfer, and fluid mechanics to biomedical problems. Case studies include considerations of the selection of materials, the design and the operation of instruments, components of, or entire, artificial organs (heart, kidney, lung) and artificial structural elements (bone, teeth, skin), all for use in contact with body fluids. Offered: jointly with BIOEN 490; W.

CHEM E 491 Controlled Release Systems-Principles and Applications (3) Hoffman Mechanisms or controlled release of active agents and the development of useful systems for this purpose. Release mechanisms include diffusive, convective, or erosive driving forces. Applications to the biomedical, agricultural, forestry, and oceanography fields. Some special case studies covered in detail. Offered: jointly with BIOEN 491; even years; W.

CHEM E 497 Special Projects in Chemical Engineering Design ([1-6]- max. 12) Chemical engineering design instruction and experience in special projects, such as industrially motivated, timely, or interdisciplinary projects. Project subject and content varies. Majors only. Prerequisite: CHEM E 340.

CHEM E 498 Special Topics in Chemical Engineering (1-4, max. 12) Topics of current interest in the field. Subject matter changes from quarter to quarter.

CHEM E 499 Undergraduate Research ([1-6]- max. 12) Independent research projects in chemical engineering. Offered: AWSpS.

CHEM E 510 Mathematical Foundations of Systems Theory (4) Mathematical foundations for system theory presented from an engineering viewpoint. Includes set theory; functions, inverse functions; metric spaces; finite dimensional linear spaces; linear operators on finite dimensional spaces; projections on Hilbert spaces. Applications to engineering systems stressed. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with A A 510/E E 510/M E 510; A.

CHEM E 511 Biomaterials Seminar (1) Hoffman, Horbett, Ratner Presentation of student research results. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with BIOEN 511; AWSp.

CHEM E 512 Methods of Engineering Analysis (3) Applications of mathematics to problems in chemical engineering; vector calculus; properties and methods of solution of first and second order partial differential equations; similarity transforms, separation of variables, Laplace and Fourier transforms. Prerequisite: MATH 205, MATH 307 or AMATH 351, MATH 324 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with AMATH 512; A.

CHEM E 515 Experimental Methods in Chemical Engineering Research (3) Baneyx, Berg, Jiang Lecture and laboratory studies in current research methods of chemical engineering. Includes surface science, biochemical engineering, colloidal chemistry, light scattering, and nanoscience techniques.

CHEM E 523 Seminar in Chemical Engineering (1) Topics of current interest in chemical engineering. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

CHEM E 525 Chemical Engineering Thermodynamics (4) Review of principles of thermodynamics. Applications to problems in multiphase and multicomponent systems; theories of solutions. Prerequisite: undergraduate thermodynamics. Offered: A.

CHEM E 526 Topics in Thermodynamics (3) Classical and molecular thermodynamics of phase equilibria, solution theory, thermodynamic stability, and critical phenomena. Prerequisite: CHEM E 525 or permission of instructor.

CHEM E 530 Momentum, Heat, and Mass Transfer I (4) Derivation of the differential equations for mass, energy, and momentum transport. Principles of fluid mechanics; creeping flow, turbulence, boundary-layer theory. Offered: A.

CHEM E 531 Momentum, Heat, and Mass Transfer II (3) Continuation of 530. Flows of fluid-particle systems; convective heat transfer, natural convection. Prerequisite: CHEM E 530. Offered: W.

CHEM E 554 Nanoscale Science I: Contact Mechanics and Rheology on the Nanoscale (3) Overney Introductory nanoscale science with emphasis on contact mechanics, principle and concept of forces, scanning force microscopy, tribology (friction, wear, lubrication), rheology, ultrathin organic films, physical properties of polymers, and computer simulation.

CHEM E 557 Research in Interfacial and Colloid Science (1) Berg Weekly research seminar and discussion of scientific literature pertaining to interfacial and colloid science. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

CHEM E 558 Surface Analysis (3) Ratner Understanding of solid surfaces for research and development in microelectronics, catalysis, adhesion, biomaterials science, wear, and corrosion science. Newer methods available to study surfaces of materials. Electron emission spectroscopies (ESCA, Auger); ion scattering, ion spectroscopic, photon spectroscopic, and thermodynamic methods. Offered: jointly with BIOEN 592; W.

CHEM E 560 Reactions at Solid Surfaces (3) Stuve Fundamental studies of adsorption systems and reactions that occur at surfaces with application toward heterogeneous catalysis, electrochemistry, etching, and corrosion. Analysis of reaction poisons and promoters, acid-base theory of metal surfaces, jellium theory of metals, and water and ion adsorption, plus other topics of current interest. Recommended: CHEM E 558 or CHEM 560.

CHEM E 562 Hazardous Air Pollution (3) Control of emission of hazardous or toxic air pollutants. Government regulations, determination of needed control efficiency. Emission control by thermal incineration, catalytic incineration, flares, condensation, carbon adsorption, and adsorption (wet and dry).

Hazardous waste incinerators. Case studies. Offered: jointly with CEE 556; W.

CHEM E 564 Applications of Chemical Kinetics (3) Fast reactions and highly energetic reactions with applications to combustion, explosions, and lasers. Coupling of transport processes and reaction rates, photochemical kinetics, intermolecular energy transfer, free radical, and chain reaction kinetics. Rate plasmas, flames, and biological systems.

CHEM E 565 Kinetics and Catalysis (3) Finlayson, Krieger, Stuve Homogeneous and heterogeneous systems with emphasis on chemical engineering principles applied to industrial reactor design. Prerequisite: CHEM E 525. Offered: W.

CHEM E 566 Control of Gaseous Air Pollutants (3) Pilat Physical and chemical processes used to control gaseous air pollutants. Absorption into liquids. Aqueous spray dryer scrubbers. Adsorption beds. Control of sulfur oxide and nitrogen oxide. Case studies of control systems. Prerequisite: CHEM E 435 or CHEM E 468 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with CEE 558; even years; Sp.

CHEM E 567 Control of Particulate Air Pollutants (3) Pilat Processes used to control emissions of particulate air pollutants. Use of settling chambers, cyclones, fabric filters, wet scrubbers, and electrostatic precipitators to control aerosol particles. Case studies of particulate air-pollutant control systems. Prerequisite: CHEM E 468 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with CEE 559; odd years; A.

CHEM E 570 Chemistry of High Polymers (3, max. 6) Allan Fundamentals of high polymer chemistry, including kinetics of addition and condensation polymerization, the determination of average molecular weights and chain length distributions, solution properties and the relationship between molecular structure and plastic film and fiber properties of various polymers. Prerequisite: an undergraduate sequence in organic chemistry. Offered: W.

CHEM E 575 Nonlinear Analysis in Chemical Engineering (3) Finlayson Comparison of numerical techniques: similarity, perturbation, finite difference, Galerkin, orthogonal collocation methods as applied to nonlinear chemical engineering problems.

CHEM E 584 Electronic and Optoelectronic Polymers (3) Jenekhe Covers the chemistry, physics, materials science, and engineering applications of semiconducting and metallic conjugated polymers. Examines the structural origins of the diverse electronic and optoelectronic properties of conjugated polymers. Exemplifies applications by light-emitting diodes, lasers, solar cells, thin film transistors, electrochromic devices, biosensors, and batteries. Prerequisite: either CHEM 237, CHEM 455, CHEM E 340, or MSE 310. Offered: A.

CHEM E 588 Research in Applied Microbiology (1) Lidstrom Weekly research seminar and discussion of scientific literature pertaining to applied microbiology. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with MICROM 588; AWSpS.

CHEM E 590 Advanced Topics in Biomaterials (3) Major, controversial issues in application of synthetic materials to medical problems. Blood compatibility, bioadhesion, intraocular lenses, contact lenses, polyurethanes, biodegradation, protein adsorption, corrosion, bone fixation, new materials, artificial heart, medical device regulation. Prerequisite: CHEM E 490 or BIOEN 490. Offered: jointly with BIOEN 590; odd years; Sp.

CHEM E 591 Robotics and Control Systems Colloquium (1, max. 3) Colloquium on current topics in robotics and control systems analysis and design. Topics presented by invited speakers as well as on-campus speakers. Emphasis on the cross-disciplinary nature of robotics and control systems. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with A A/E E/M E 591; AWSp.

CHEM E 599 Current Topics in Chemical Engineering (1-3, max. 12) Readings or lectures and discussions of topics of current interest in the field of chemical engineering. Subject matter changes from year to year. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

CHEM E 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Offered: AWSpS.

CHEM E 700 Master's Thesis (*) Offered: AWSpS.

CHEM E 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Offered: AWSpS.

Civil and Environmental Engineering

CEE 100 Twenty First Century Civil and Environmental Engineering (1) Introduction to the modern discipline of civil and environmental engineering including major sub-disciplines, professional careers, projects and departmental faculty. Explores the different disciplines and their relevance to today's students. Offered: W.

CEE 220 Introduction to Mechanics of Materials (4) NW Introduction to the concepts of stress, deformation, and strain in solid materials. Development of basic relationships between loads, stresses, and deflections of structural and machine elements such as rods, shafts, and beams. Load-carrying capacity of these elements under tension, compression, torsion, bending, and shear forces. Prerequisite: A A 210. Offered: AWSpS.

CEE 306 Construction Engineering I (3) Introduction to construction engineering, planning, methods, contracts, and specifications. Scheduling manually and by using computer software. Production estimates; equipment selection; ownership and operating costs; role of the engineer in construction and cost estimating.

CEE 316 Surveying Engineering (4) Measurement and mapping techniques. Computer adjustment of measurements, analysis of error. Horizontal and vertical control. Global and plane coordinate systems, transformation. Horizontal/vertical curve computations, layout. Earthwork and volume measurements, computations. Leveling and datum considerations, photogrammetry, GPS, GIS, remote sensing, cadastral surveys, and construction surveys. Prerequisite: MATH 126; recommended: statistics. Offered: A.

CEE 320 Transportation Engineering I (3) Study of vehicular transportation fundamentals including geometric design, pavement design, traffic flow concepts, level of service analysis, intelligent transportation systems, travel demand prediction methods, and management of transportation systems. Includes a review of relevant vehicle operating characteristics. Prerequisite: MATH 126; PHYS 121.

CEE 342 Fluid Mechanics (4) Elementary mechanics of incompressible fluids. Hydrostatics. Continuity, energy, and momentum equations. Introduction to potential flow. Resistance phenomena for laminar and turbulent flows. Dynamic similitude. Prerequisite: CEE 220; M E 230; PHYS 122. Offered: A.

CEE 345 Hydraulic Engineering (4) Extension and application of fluid mechanics principles to hydraulic engineering problems. Open channel flow, pipeline systems, turbomachinery, unsteady flow in pipes, diffusion and mixing processes, groundwater, surface water hydrology. Prerequisite: CEE 342. Offered: WS.

CEE 350 Environmental Engineering — Water and Air Quality (4) Description of water and air resources and parameters that characterize their quality, how their use alters their properties. Mass and energy balances as they apply to environmental systems. Global environment change. Basics of aquatic chemistry and microbiology applied to municipal water and wastewater treatment operations. Prerequisite: CHEM 142; MATH 126. Offered: Sp.

CEE 363 Constructional Materials (4) General treatment of physical and mechanical properties and engineering behavior of metallic and nonmetallic materials. Steel, aluminum, asphalt concrete, Portland cement concrete, wood. Laboratory testing, instrumentation, and investigation into macrobehavior. Correlation with microstructure and various aspects of materials science. Prerequisite: CEE 220.

CEE 366 Basic Soil Mechanics (4) Introduction to basic soil properties, soil classification, volumetric relationships, compaction, consolidation, soil rheology, shear strength, and introduction to settlement and stability of foundations. Prerequisite: CEE 220; CEE 342. Offered: WSp.

CEE 379 Elementary Structures I (4) Eberhard, Miller, Turkiyyah Fundamental analysis and modeling of civil structural systems (trusses, beams, and frames), including design applications. Equilibrium, kinematics, and constitutive relations; formal solution procedures emphasizing element-based stiffness methods; computer-based and manual techniques; verification and interpretation of results; case studies involving local structures. Prerequisite: CEE 220. Offered: ASp.

CEE 380 Elementary Structures II (4) MacRae, Roeder, Stanton Structural design concepts, approaches, procedures, and codes. Characterization and determination of loads (dead, live, seismic, wind, etc.) Structural systems and system behavior (load paths, lateral and vertical response, failure modes and limit states). Structural component behavior and design (composite action, inelastic bending, column stability, member capacities). Prerequisite: CEE 379. Offered: WSp.

CEE 390 Civil Engineering Systems (3) Introduction to civil engineering system processes. Decision methods, economic considerations, and optimization. Examples illustrating quantitative and subjective aspects of civil engineering practice. Prerequisite: MATH 308. Offered: A.

CEE 391 Graphics Communication and Computer-Aided Design (3) Introduction to graphics communication and computer-aided design tools to manipulate drawings, data, and geometric representations in civil engineering applications. Prerequisite: MATH 124.

CEE 392 Basic Civil Engineering Computing (1) Introduction to computer-based methods in civil and environmental engineering problems using Matlab. Prerequisite: CEE 220.

CEE 404 Infrastructure Construction (4) Muench Basic concepts of large infrastructure construction projects including planning, scheduling, life-cycle cost analysis (LLCA), construction cost, logistics, productivity and, where applicable, traffic impacts. Uses currents and prototype industry software and involves direct contact with agency and contractor personnel involved in infrastructure projects. Prerequisite: CEE 306. Offered: Sp.

CEE 410 Traffic Engineering Fundamentals (3) General review of the fundamentals of traffic engineering, including their relationship to transportation operations management and planning, with emphasis on calculations and procedures in the Highway Capacity Manual; field surveys and data analysis. Prerequisite: CEE 320.

CEE 412 Transportation Data Management (3) Wang Introduction to modern concepts, theories, and tools for transportation data management and analysis. Applications of software tools for transportation data storage, information retrieval, knowledge discovery, data exchange, on-line information sharing, statistical analysis, system optimization, and decision support.

CEE 416 Urban Transportation Planning and Design (3) Brief review of major issues in urban transportation planning. Planning process discussed and transportation models introduced. Uses a systems framework, including goals and objectives, evaluation, implementation, and monitoring. A design term project, individual or small groups, utilizes material presented on a contemporary problem. Prerequisite: CEE 320. Offered: A.

CEE 418 Computer-Aided Planning of Urban Systems (3) Survey of on-line planning applications; use of various on-line systems to solve urban systems design problems; investigations of hardware/software tradeoffs; human factors in man-computer systems design theory as it relates to problem-solving activity. Offered: jointly with URBDP 429.

CEE 421 Pavement Design (3) Current and developing procedures for the structural thickness design of pavements. Bituminous and concrete pavements for highways, airports, and special heavy loading. Elastic layered systems, slab theory. Performance evaluation for maintenance and overlay design. Offered: ASp.

CEE 423 Heritage of Civil Engineering (3/4) I&S Contribution of civil engineering to civilization based on the lives and projects of prominent engineers and cultures. Incidents and individuals from prehistory to the nineteenth century give the student an awareness of the profession and its influence on society. Industrial archaeology and historic sites are considered. An additional 1 credit may be earned by participating in a special project. Emphasis on the control of elements and the methodology, planning, objectives, and reasons for the project. May be used as social science distribution. Offered: W.

CEE 424 GIS for Civil Engineers (3) GIS in civil engineering applications. Geographic and spatial data types and acquiring considerations. Data models and structures. Projections and transformations. Attribute-based operation, spatial operations. Surfaces and near neighbors. Training on Arc GIS software. Recommended: CEE 316.

CEE 425 Reinforced Concrete Construction (3) Janssen Processes in constructing reinforced concrete structures. Identification and development of solutions to potential constructability problems. Lectures augmented with industry speakers and a field trip to a building under construction. Requires senior or graduate standing in Civil Engineering or Construction Management and familiarity with reinforced concrete design/construction.

CEE 428 Lightweight Cementitious Composites (2) Janssen Introduction to the process of designing within constraints and introductory experimental design. Importance of proper laboratory documentation. Examines the characteristics of cementitious binders and elementary composite behavior. Considers constructability. Interprets pre- and post-cracking elastic behavior. Organization and production of technical report the documents work performed. Offered: A.

CEE 431 Seismology and Earthquake Engineering (3) NW Presents an overview of earthquake processes and details of the characteristics of destructive ground motion; illustrates the effects of such motion on engineering structures; reviews current practice in estimating earthquake hazards for important structures such as nuclear power plants. Prerequisite: either MATH 126, or both MATH 307 and MATH 308. Offered: jointly with ESS 465.

CEE 436 Foundation Design (3) Design considerations for foundations and retaining structures. Subsurface investigations and determination of soil properties for design. Design of shallow and deep foundations and retaining structures. Foundations and soil considerations for waterfront structures. Prerequisite: CEE 366.

CEE 437 Engineering Geology I (3) General overview of engineering geology and its importance to civil engineers. Topics include geologic processes, hazards, subsurface investigations, classification of geologic materials, data synthesis, and natural construction materials.

CEE 440 Professional Practice Studio (2) Fundamentals of integrated civil engineering design, professional services marketing, project management, team dynamics, total quality management, value engineering, professional liability, and applied ethics in engineering practice. Emphasis on written and oral communications and on ethical, social, and economic factors.

CEE 441 Transportation and Construction Capstone (4) Comprehensive design project focusing on planning, design and construction of transportation project such as highways, transit, and airports. Prerequisite: CEE 320; CEE 440, which may be taken concurrently.

CEE 442 Structural Geotechnical Capstone Design Project (4) Comprehensive team design project focusing on structural and geotechnical engineering. Requires design drawings, written reports, and oral presentations interfacing with related fields such as aesthetics and architecture, mechanical systems, traffic, environmental planning. Prerequisite: CEE 440; two courses from CEE 436, CEE 451, CEE 452, CEE 453, CEE 454, or CEE 457.

CEE 444 Water Resources and Hydraulic Engineering Capstone Design Project (4) Opportunity to effect design solutions for projects or major project components in such representative areas as reservoirs and associated systems for flood control, water supply, irrigation, and hydroelectric power, surface water control systems, fisheries related projects, small harbors, and coastal engineering problems. Prerequisite: CEE 345; CEE 440; either CEE 475, CEE 476, CEE 482, CEE 483, or CEE 484.

CEE 445 Environmental Engineering Capstone Design Project (4) Individual and group design studies addressing environmental engineering problems such as stormwater management, water and wastewater treatment facilities, and residual processing. Prepare proposals, engineering reports, and alternative evaluations; process equipment design, present reports on selected design problems. Prerequisite: CEE 345; CEE 440; either CEE 475, CEE 476, CEE 481, CEE 482, CEE 483, or CEE 484.

CEE 451 Design of Metal Structures (3) Introduction to the design and behavior of metal structures using LRFD concepts. Application of design methods and codes to columns, beams, frames, connections, and tension members. Prerequisite: CEE 380; recommended: CEE 457, CEE 458.

CEE 452 Design of Reinforced Concrete Structures (3) Fundamentals of design of buildings in reinforced concrete in accordance with current codes and practices. Prerequisite: CEE 380.

CEE 453 Prestressed Concrete Design (3) Analysis, design, and construction of prestressed concrete structures. Prerequisite: CEE 452.

CEE 454 Design of Timber Structures (3) The design and construction of timber structures, using elements made of sawn wood, glued-laminated wood, and plywood. Prerequisite: CEE 380.

CEE 455 Structural Unit Masonry (3) Structural behavior and design of reinforced brick, tile, and unit concrete masonry structures. Prerequisite: CEE 380. Offered: jointly with ARCH 426.

CEE 457 Advanced Structures I (3) The displacement method in matrix form with programming applications. Fundamentals of modeling of various types of structures. Prerequisite: CEE 379.

CEE 458 Advanced Structures II (3) Introduction to stability, including a consideration of elastic and inelastic buckling with applications to beam-columns and plates. Introduction to plastic analysis. Prerequisite: CEE 457.

CEE 459 Advanced Structural Mechanics (3) Formulation and solution of the basic equations of elasticity. Applications in 2-D stress analysis, torsion, thermal stresses, and beams on elastic foundation. Plate theory optional. Prerequisite: CEE 379.

CEE 462 Applied Limnology and Pollutant Effects on Freshwater (3) NW Principles of aquatic ecology that relate to causes and effects of water quality problems in lakes and streams. Population growth kinetics, nutrient cycling, eutrophication; acidification, oxygen/temperature requirements, and effects of various wastes on aquatic animals.

CEE 463 Limnology Laboratory (2) NW Examination of biota of fresh waters, survey of limnological methods, analysis of data, and writing of scientific papers. Prerequisite: BIOL 473/FISH 473/CEE 462, any of which may be taken concurrently. Offered: jointly with BIOL 474/FISH 474; A.

CEE 472 Introduction to Hydraulics in Water Resources (3) Hydraulics related to environmental issues. Global hydrology; stratified flows; two-phase (bubble) flows; pollutant transport and mixing in reservoirs, lakes, coastal waters, and oceans; diffuser design and related case studies. Prerequisite: CEE 342; CEE 345.

CEE 473 Coastal Engineering I (3) Linear theory of water waves, wave transformations due to boundary conditions, sediment motion, elementary tidal theory; applications illustrated by laboratory experiments and selected case histories. Prerequisite: CEE 342.

CEE 474 Hydraulics of Sediment Transport (3) Introduction to sediment transport in steady flows with emphasis on physical principles governing the motion of sediment particles. Topics include sediment characteristics, initiation of particle motion, particle suspension, bedforms, streambed roughness analysis, sediment discharge formulae, and modeling of scour and deposition in rivers and channels. Prerequisite: CEE 345.

CEE 475 Analysis Techniques for Groundwater Flow (3) Development of appropriate equations to describe saturated groundwater flow, and application of numerical methods for solving groundwater flow problems and flow to wells. Participants required to solve specific problems using numerical techniques developed during the course. Prerequisite: CEE 342.

CEE 476 Physical Hydrology (3) Global water picture, data sources and data homogeneity, precipitation, evapotranspiration, hydrographs. Hydrologic data frequency analysis. Hydrologic design: flood mitigation, drainage. Introduction to deterministic and stochastic models. Prerequisite: CEE 345.

CEE 477 Open-Channel Engineering (3) Water flow in natural and constructed channels. Analysis and design of canals, transitions, energy dissipators, and similar structures. Analysis of surface profiles and effect of nonlinear alignment on flow. Introduction to river mechanics. Design-oriented problems. Prerequisite: CEE 345.

CEE 480 Air-Quality Modeling (3) Evaluation of air-quality models relating air pollution emissions to environmental concentrations. Topics include meteorological dispersion models and various "receptor" models based on chemical "fingerprinting" of sources. Emphasizes current problems. Offered: jointly with ATM S 480.

CEE 481 Hydraulic Design for Environmental Engineering (3) Stensel Introduction to the theory and the practice of planning and design of urban water supply distribution, pump stations, and sewage and storm-water collection systems. Evaluation of service areas and service requirements and their relationships to urban and regional planning activities. Engineering methods and computer programs for designing basic system elements. Prerequisite: CEE 345; CEE 350.

CEE 482 Wastewater Treatment and Reuse (3) Introduction to wastewater treatment and systems, emphasizing fundamental biological, chemical and physical processes related to protection of public health and water pollution control. Process analysis of the configuration of sizing of major types of treatment processes for various sizes of plants and effluent requirements. Prerequisite: CEE 350.

CEE 483 Drinking Water Treatment (3) Scientific and engineering principles underlying drinking water treatment; analysis of key contaminants; development of conceptual models for how and why treatment processes work and mathematical models describing their performance under various design and operating scenarios; field trips to water treatment systems. Prerequisite: CEE 350.

CEE 484 Decentralized and On-Site Wastewater Management and Reuse (3) Design and performance of onsite and decentralized wastewater treatment. Determination of appropriate alternatives based on endpoints of water reuse, economics, policy, management, water quality, and ecological considerations. Meeting sanitation and water reuse for situations including, individual homes, rural areas, developing countries, and high density urban dwellings. Prerequisite: CEE 350.

CEE 485 Environmental Engineering Chemistry (3) Benjamin, Korshin Fundamentals of chemical equilibrium in natural water systems. Behavior of open and closed aqueous and multi-media (air/water/solids) systems. Chemistry of major species affecting the environment. Identification of key parameters for characterizing water quality and of chemical processes. Recommended: one year of general chemistry or equivalent.

CEE 486 Environmental Analysis Laboratory (3) Introduction to water quality parameters; theory of instrumentation and methods used for the environmental analysis. Laboratory analysis of environmental samples using a variety of techniques including titrations, chromatography, and absorption and emission spectrophotometry. Recommended: one year of general chemistry.

CEE 487 Solid-Waste Disposal (3) Describes sources and handling of municipal and industrial solid waste, with examination of collection, processing, recycling and resource recovery, and disposal alternatives. Public policy issues, local agencies and solid waste facilities, the legal and regulatory framework are all addressed in context of solid waste engineering.

CEE 488 Hazardous Wastes Engineering (3) Classification of hazardous wastes; resource conservation, Recovery Act regulations; characteristics and behavior of toxic organics; superfund; groundwater contamination, solutions. Hazardous waste site remedial action; case histories; sampling; landfill design. Stabilization and processing technologies, including incineration, carbon adsorption, emerging techniques. Prerequisite: CEE 351.

CEE 489 Water and Air Quality Sampling (2) Samples collected from lakes, streams, precipitation, and air and resulting (and supplemental) data interpreted for cause-effect and statistical inference. Design for water and air quality monitoring programs. Prerequisite: CEE 462.

CEE 490 Air-Pollution Control (4) Fundamental concepts of air pollution. Emission sources, atmospheric dispersion, ambient concentrations, adverse effects, governmental regulations, emission standards, air-quality standards, processes and equipment for controlling emissions. Offered: jointly with ENV H 461.

CEE 491 Deterministic Systems (3) Development of quantitative methods for mathematical problem solving with emphasis on computer applications. Linear programming, mathematics of the simplex algorithm, sensitivity analysis, dynamic programming, systems simulation, and goal programming. Class project required. Prerequisite: CEE 390.

CEE 492 Stochastic Systems (3) Introduction to probability distributions and statistics useful in systems analysis, conditional distributions, queuing theory and applications, Monte Carlo simulation, chance-constrained mathematical programming, and stochastic dynamic programming. Emphasis on application of the techniques to civil engineering systems problems, including transportation, water resources, and structures. Prerequisite: CEE 491.

CEE 493 Air-Pollution Source Testing and Equipment Evaluation (3) Engineering evaluation of air pollutant sources and air control equipment. Fundamentals of source testing and stack sampling including laboratory exercises.

CEE 494 Air-Pollution Control Equipment Design (3) Designs to control air pollutants from stationary sources. Procedures for calculating design and operating parameters. Fundamental mechanisms and processes of gaseous and particulate control equipment for absorption and adsorption of gaseous pollutants; electrostatic precipitation and filtration of particulate pollutants. Actual case studies. Offered: jointly with CHEM E/M E 468.

CEE 495 Sustainability and Design for Environment (3) Cooper Analysis and design of technology systems within the context of the environment, economy, and society. Applies the concepts of resource conservation, pollution prevention, life cycle assessment, and extended product responsibility. Examines the practice, opportunities, and role of engineering, management, and public policy. Offered: jointly with ENVIR 415/M E 415; S.

CEE 498 Special Topics (1-5, max. 5) Special topics in civil engineering offered as course with lecture and/or laboratory. Maximum of 6 credits in combination of 498 and 499 may be applied toward an undergraduate degree.

CEE 499 Special Projects (1-5, max. 5) Individual undergraduate research projects. Maximum of 6 credits in combination of 498 and 499 may be applied toward an undergraduate degree. Recommended: 400-level CEE course.

CEE 500 Civil and Environmental Engineering Seminars (1) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Civil and Environmental Engineering.

CEE 501 Structural Mechanics (6) Elias, Miller, Turkiyyah Equations of a continuum for small displacements, applications to linear elasticity. Kirchoff plate theory, problems in advanced strength of materials. Virtual work, minimum potential energy, force and displacement methods of structural analysis. Direct stiffness method. Approximate solutions, geometric stiffness matrix. Linearized buckling. Offered: A.

CEE 502 Structural Dynamics (3) Eberhard, MacRae, Reed Lagrange's equations. Free vibrations of linear, single, and multiple degree of freedom systems. Damping. Mode superposition. Forced vibrations by time history and by response spectrum methods. Free and forced vibrations of continuous systems. Wave propagation in rods and beams, Lagrange's equations. Prerequisite: CEE 501. Offered: W.

CEE 503 Materials Modeling (3) Miller, Reed, Roeder Behavior of materials used in civil engineering structures. Yield and failure surfaces. Physical and phenomenological models of plastic and viscoelastic behavior. Fracture mechanics. Fatigue models and predictions. Damping and friction. Behavior of anisotropic and composite materials.

CEE 504 Finite Element Methods in Structural Mechanics (3) Extension of the matrix methods of structural analysis to the solution of elasticity, plate, and shell problems by use of finite element approximations. Discussion of convergence and bounding and extension to investigation of stability and finite deformations. Prerequisite: CEE 501 or permission of instructor.

CEE 505 Engineering Computing (3) Lowes, Miller, Turkiyyah Applied computing in civil and environmental engineering contexts, including physical systems modeling, graphics and visualization, and data management. Program development using contemporary tools and strategies. Computer architecture fundamentals, theoretical and practical issues affecting memory use and performance. Offered: AW.

CEE 506 Nonlinear Analysis of Structural Systems (3) Lowes, Miller, Turkiyyah Formulation, solution, and interpretation of nonlinear numerical models of structural systems. Material and geometric nonlinearities for truss, beam, and frame systems. Resultant-based material laws. Large deformations. Solutions procedures, arc-length methods. Introduction to parameter identification. Prerequisite: CEE 501. Offered: AW.

CEE 508 Continuum Mechanics (3) Elias, Miller General foundation of fundamental concepts of motion, stress, and energy for a continuum. General equations of conservation of mass, momentum, and energy. Linear and nonlinear elastic, viscous, and inelastic materials. Prerequisite: CEE 501. Offered: jointly with A A 575.

CEE 511 Advanced Reinforced Concrete (3) Eberhard, MacRae, Stanton Behavior and design of reinforced concrete members and structures. Members subject to torsion and torsion combined with flexure and shear; members with small shear span/depth ratios, slabs. Prerequisite: CEE 452 or equivalent. Offered: A.

CEE 512 Advanced Structural Systems (3) Eberhard, Stanton Examines structural design of floor systems for buildings, including one-way and two-way slabs, strip method, yield line theory, prestressed concrete slabs. Includes floor vibrations. Prerequisite: CEE 453; CEE 502.

CEE 513 Advanced Steel I (3) MacRae, Roeder Factors influencing strength and serviceability of steel structures; LRFD limit state design procedures. Use of theories of plasticity and stability in development of design methods and specifications, bolted and welded connections, temperature effects, and effect of different fabrication methods on behavior of structure. Prerequisite: CEE 501. Offered: W.

CEE 515 Earthquake Engineering I (3) Earthquake mechanism and ground shaking, response spectra, linear elastic methods for prediction of behavior, displacement prediction methods for inelastically behaving structures, modeling and solution schemes, earthquake design philosophy, capacity design. Reinforced concrete, steel, and base-isolated structures. Prerequisite: CEE 501, CEE 502.

CEE 516 Earthquake Engineering II (3) Performance-based design, development of fragility curves, characteristics and effects of ground-shaking records, design methods, passive and active control, dynamic inelastic time history analysis, design of parts, system detailing, soil-structure interaction, repair and retrofit of structures. Prerequisite: CEE 515.

CEE 517 Wind Engineering Design (3) Wind effects on structures, including atmospheric boundary layer flow; bluff body aerodynamics; structural dynamics and aeroelasticity; development and use of the ASCE Standards; estimation of along-wind, across-wind, and torsional response of tall buildings; design strategies for avoiding wind-induced discomfort. Fundamentals of wind tunnel testing.

CEE 518 Reliability and Design (3) Introduction to theory of structural reliability and its application to design procedures in civil engineering, including probability theory; assessment of uncertainties; code specification (first-order, second-moment format) and the related concept of risk and the influence of socioeconomic factors; loads, load combinations, and probabilities of damage.

CEE 521 Seepage and Consolidation (3) Confined and unconfined seepage through porous media, flow net solutions, consolidation, settlement, numerical solution of seepage, and consolidation problems. Prerequisite: CEE 366 or equivalent.

CEE 522 Shear Strength and Slope Stability (3) Shear strength of cohesive and granular soils and slope stability analysis of natural and man-made slopes. Prerequisite: CEE 366 or equivalent.

CEE 523 Advanced Foundation Engineering (3) Design of shallow and deep foundations for bearing capacity and settlement. Construction considerations. Prerequisite: CEE 522 and CEE 527.

CEE 524 Lateral Earth Pressures and Retaining Structures (3) Lateral earth pressure theory. Design of temporary and permanent retaining structures including in situ reinforcement. Prerequisite: CEE 523; CEE 527.

CEE 525 Soil Dynamics (3) Dynamics of discrete systems; dynamics of continuous systems, wave propagation; dynamic soil properties; linear, nonlinear, and equivalent linear ground response analysis; vibrations of footings; construction vibrations; vibration isolation.

CEE 526 Geotechnical Earthquake Engineering (3) Plate tectonics and elastic rebound theory of earthquakes and faults; characterization of ground motions; seismicity; seismic risk analysis; effect of local soil conditions on ground response; development of design ground motions; liquefaction; dynamic lateral earth pressures; seismic slope stability. Prerequisite: CEE 525 or permission of instructor.

CEE 527 Advanced Geotechnical Laboratory (4) Soil and site investigation, classification and engineering properties of soils and rock as determined by standard and advanced test procedures and equipment. Evaluation of test data. Report writing. Prerequisite: CEE 366 or equivalent.

CEE 528 Geosynthetic Engineering (3) Identification and testing of geosynthetics. Design of geosynthetic filters, roadway stabilization, earth reinforcement, and waste containment systems. Prerequisite: CEE 522 and CEE 523.

CEE 529 Foundation Soil Improvement (3) Analysis and design of physical and chemical treatment techniques commonly applied to problem foundation soils for civil engineering structure. Prerequisite: CEE 523.

CEE 530 Engineering Geology II (3) Application of engineering geology fundamentals to: location, design and maintenance of engineered structures; policy decisions related to potential geological hazards. Case histories, governmental policy discussions, interpretation of geological maps for engineering purposes. Prerequisite: graduate standing and CEE 437 or permission of instructor.

CEE 531 Rock Engineering (3) Engineering classification, physical and mechanical properties of rocks, failure modes and initial stresses in rocks, laboratory and field testing of rocks, rock slope engineering, underground openings, foundations on rocks. Prerequisite: graduate standing and CEE 437 or permission of instructor.

CEE 540 Microbiological Process Fundamentals (3) Stensel Fundamental concepts for microbial processes including organic chemical structure, nomenclature and environmental properties, principles of microbial metabolism, study of specific types of bacteria important to environmental engineering and their metabolism, development of microbial kinetic equations, including substrate utilization, energetics, and stoichiometry. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

CEE 541 Biological Treatment Systems (3) Basic reactions, design principles, current design models, and operational considerations for biological treatment systems used in environmental engineering. Applications include activated sludge design and optimization, fixed film reactors, nitrification, nitrogen removal, phosphorus removal, anaerobic treatment, and toxic organics removal. Prerequisite: CEE 540 and CEE 482 or equivalent.

CEE 543 Aquatic Chemistry (4) Benjamin, Ferguson, Murray Principles of chemical equilibrium applicable to natural water systems and water and waste treatment processes. Chemical thermodynamics. Characteristics of acid/base, gas/liquid, solid/liquid, and oxidation/reduction equilibria. Computer models for chemical speciation. Prerequisite: Graduate standing or permission of instructor.

CEE 544 Physical-Chemical Treatment Processes (4) Principles and design of major physical-chemical unit processes used in water, wastewater, and hazardous waste treatment. Processes include chemical and reactor kinetics, filtration, chemical coagulation, ion exchange, adsorption, and gas transfer. Development of mathematical models, laboratory demonstrations, and evaluation of current design practice. Prerequisite: CEE 485 or permission of instructor.

CEE 545 Advanced Environmental Chemistry (3) Behavior of controlled chemical species (heavy metals, pesticides, disinfection by-products, and endocrine disruptors) and persistent organic pollutants in the environment. Modeling of chemical interactions pertinent to environmental technologies (ozonation, advanced oxidation, photochemical transformations, halogenation, dehalogenation, application of zero-valence metals and electrochemical controls). Prerequisite: aquatic chemistry or permission of instructor.

CEE 546 Topics in Ecological Effects of Wastewater (3) Application of ecological concepts for analysis and interpretation of bioenvironmental problems and data (eutrophication, acid rain, and toxicity). Students participate in presentation and discussion of current research. Prerequisite: CEE 462 or BIOL 473 or permission of instructor.

CEE 547 Lake and Watershed Management (3) Application of current techniques for lake and watershed analysis and modeling using fundamentals of limnology. Approaches to restoring eutrophic lakes, land use impacts on water quality. Practical exercises using data from real lake systems. Prerequisite: CEE 462/ FISH 434, BIOL 473, or permission of instructor.

CEE 549 Advanced Topics in Environmental Engineering, Chemistry, and Biology (3) Special topics of current importance in environmental engineering. Application of fundamental chemical and biological principles to the study of such phenomena as the behavior of aqueous colloids, corrosion processes, bacterial metabolism in chemically complex solutions, and acid precipitation. May be taken more than once for credit. Prerequisite: CEE 540, CEE 541.

CEE 550 Environmental Chemical Modeling (3) Benjamin, Murray Physical/chemical principles controlling the fate and distribution of environmental pollutants, and use of models to apply those principles. Includes modeling of physical transport in conjunction with chemical equilibrium and reaction kinetics. Applications include acid mine drainage, acid deposition, and groundwater and lake water contamination. Offered: jointly with OCEAN 524.

CEE 552 Environmental Regulations (3) GE
Principal emphasis on regulations pertaining to construction site stormwater runoff, including regulatory background and requirements, how to analyze potential site problems and prepare plans to solve them, and specifying practices to avoid or reduce water pollutant releases. Briefer coverage of regulations concerning air pollutions, wetlands, hazardous wastes, and endangered species.

CEE 553 Seminar-Topics in Atmospheric Chemistry (1-3, max. 6) Charlson, Harrison
Seminar for atmospheric scientists, chemists, engineers in problems associated with the chemical composition of the atmosphere. Covers wide variety of topics, ranging from the natural system to urban pollution and global atmospheric change. Faculty lectures, student participation. Prerequisite: ATM S 301 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with ATM S 525.

CEE 554 Acoustics of Environmental Noise (4) Offered: jointly with M E 528.

CEE 555 Topics in Environmental Health (3)
Introduction to human biology, including physiology, epidemiology, and toxicology. Study of contemporary environmental health problems and practices as they relate to radiological health, solid-waste disposal, occupational health, biometeorology, and bioengineering.

CEE 556 Hazardous Air Pollution (3) Control of emissions of hazardous or toxic air pollutants. Government regulations, determination of needed control efficiency. Emission control by thermal incineration, catalytic incineration, flares, condensation, carbon adsorption, and absorption (wet and dry). Hazardous waste incinerators. Case studies. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 562.

CEE 557 Air Resources Management (3)
Technical, administrative, and legal aspects of air conservation. Current case studies involving engineering analysis, air-quality modeling, and regulatory aspects at local, state, and federal governmental levels.

CEE 558 Control of Gaseous Air Pollutants (3) Physical and chemical processes used to control gaseous air pollutants. Adsorption into liquids. Aqueous spray dryer scrubbers. Adsorption beds. Control of sulfur oxide and nitrogen oxide. Case studies of control systems. Prerequisite: CHEM E 435 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 566; even years.

CEE 559 Control of Particulate Air Pollutants (3) Processes used to control emissions of particulate air pollutants. Use of settling chambers, cyclones, fabric filters, wet scrubbers, and electrostatic precipitators to control aerosol particles. Case studies of particulate air-pollutant control systems. Prerequisite: CEE 468 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 567; odd years.

CEE 560 Risk Assessment for Environmental Health Hazards (3/4) Faustman Examines context, methodologies, data, uncertainties, and institutional arrangements for risk assessment. Qualitative and quantitative approaches to identification, characterization, and control of environmental hazards to health emphasized through didactic and case studies. Offered: jointly with ENV H 577/PB AF 589; A.

CEE 570 Hydrodynamics (4) Applications of the equations of motion to the flow of ideal and real fluids. Fundamentals of fluid potential motion. Viscous flows; Navier-Stokes equations and some exact solutions. Boundary-layer theory. Introduction to turbulence. Two- and three-dimensional examples, including free surface flows. Applications of field equations to problems of engineering significance. Prerequisite: CEE 342 or equivalent.

CEE 571 Hydrodynamics in Water Quality (3)
Theoretical, field study, and laboratory model approaches to diffusion in transport problems of concern to water resources engineers. Prerequisite: CEE 342 or permission of instructor.

CEE 572 Water Wave Mechanics (3) Theory of water waves. Classical water wave problem and approximate solution techniques. Evolution equations for and their solutions wave systems. Viscous damping effects and mass transport. Nonlinear shallow-water waves and the Korteweg-deVries equation. Waves on beaches. Prerequisite: CEE 342 or permission of instructor; recommended: graduate-level course in fluid mechanics.

CEE 573 Advanced Computational Hydraulics (4) Review of hydrodynamic and transport equations for hydraulic engineering application; numerical solution methods; implementation and practice with existing two- and three-dimensional numerical models; numerical model calibration and verification techniques; case studies. Theoretical and civil engineering decision makers aspects. Prerequisite: CEWA 474, CEE 570, CEE 571 or permission of instructor.

CEE 574 Advanced Hydrology (3) Detailed treatment of statistical methods used in hydrologic analysis. Stochastic hydrology, detailed examination and use of a deterministic watershed model (e.g., Stanford Watershed Model). Prerequisite: graduate standing in civil and environmental engineering or permission of instructor.

CEE 576 Water Resources Planning (3) Palmer
Engineering, social, and economic factors involved in water resource development and management; water policies, programs, and administration; use relationships and conflicts; considerations for regional water resource systems. Offered: W.

CEE 577 Water-Quality Management (3)
Application of biological, ecological, and chemical processes to modeling of water quality and use of such models in appropriate management of water resource systems. Includes units on the modeling of temperature, BOD, nutrient, phytoplankton, zooplankton, and other processes in lakes, streams, and estuaries. Recommended: CEE 476, CEE 485, CEE 462/FISH 434, and CEE 491.

CEE 578 Water Resource System Management and Operations (3) Burges, Palmer A readings course in recent literature related to the modeling and management of water resources. Topics include drought management, expansion of existing water supplies, hydropower production, streamflow forecasting, water demand forecasting, regional water planning, climate change, and other topical issues. Recommended: CEE 556; CEE 557. Offered: A.

CEE 579 Advanced Traffic Detection Systems (3) Wang Introduction to advanced tracking and detection technologies in transportation engineering, including Global Positioning Systems (GPS), inductance loop detection systems, remote traffic microwave radar, computer-vision based technologies, and other emerging detection technologies with cutting-edge research in these areas.

CEE 580 Urban Transportation Planning (4) Rutherford Introduction to transportation planning, including trends and issues, land use and transportation interaction, surveys, public involvement, demand management, technology, forecasting, impacts, and policy strategies.

CEE 581 Travel Demand Forecasting (4) Rutherford Application of mathematical models to forecast urban travel behavior. Introduces emerging methods, land use models, travel demand models, including trip generation, trip distribution, mode choice, and network assignment. Discusses validation and ethics.

CEE 582 Intelligent Transportation Systems (3) Application of modern computer and communication technologies to transportation systems. Benefits to public agencies, commercial companies, and travelers. Coordination between private and public sectors. Intelligent Transportation System*s (ITS) social, organizational, and operational changes.

CEE 583 Airport Engineering (3) Definitions and terminology relating to airport engineering. Characteristics of aircraft, air traffic control, and resulting impact upon design process. Airport capacity, configuration, and planning associated with terminal design. Emphasis on geometric and structural design of pavements and airside. Design projects relating to airport engineering required. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

CEE 584 Analytical Methods in Transportation I (3) Application of analytical and statistical methods to transportation planning problems. Analysis of probability distributions that describe variables. Development of statistical models for predicting transportation phenomena. Elementary sampling theory hypothesis testing, regression analysis, time series analysis, applied to transportation data. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

CEE 585 Analytical Methods in Transportation II (3) Applications of advanced econometric methods to transportation issues. Topics include, but not limited to, systems of equations, duration models, limited dependent variable approaches, and count models. Hands-on modeling, with numerous data sets, available for application. Collaborative projects. Prerequisite: CEE 584 or permission of instructor.

CEE 586 Pedestrian Travel, Land Use, and Urban Form (3) Graduate seminar concentrating on walking as a mode of transportation in cities and city-regions, including social, cognitive, and perpetual dimensions of pedestrian movement and behavior theory. Offered: Sp.

CEE 587 Global Trade, Transportation, and Logistics Management (4) Goodchild, Schmitt, Shelton Provides an overview of trade, transportation, and logistics activities. Develops an understanding of the physical and information flows in supply chains, and the economic drivers of supply chain choices. Includes methods to analyze and improve logistics and transportation systems, including applications of policy, technology, and infrastructure. Offered: jointly with GTTL 501/OPMGT 535; AWSp.

CEE 588 Land Use/Transportation Models (3)
Review of theoretical basis of several existing models used to forecast urban growth patterns and their associated land use, transportation, and energy requirements. Model validation studies in relation to empirical studies of urban growth and change. Environmental implications of alternative urban growth patterns. Offered: jointly with URBDP 530.

CEE 589 Transit Systems Planning (3)
Planning, operational methods for urban public transportation. Review of technological, operating characteristics of vehicles and systems; financing, management, institutional aspects. Paratransit. Short-range planning, operational strategies, revenue-fare structures. Service monitoring. Mode choice, transit demand relating to service. Computer-aided methods for planning, design of transit systems. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor.

CEE 590 Traffic Systems Operations (3)
Operational planning, management of arterial and freeway traffic systems. Review of transportation system management strategies to achieve more efficient use of existing infrastructure, including improved and innovative traffic control systems and demand management policies, measures of effectiveness, impact assessment, traveler response. Introduction to use of relevant computer models and packages.

CEE 591 Freight Transportation (3) Overview of the technical and institutional aspects of transporting freight. Topics include the different modes of moving freight, the technology of transferring freight between modes at ports and terminals, issues that impact freight movement such as congestion and government regulation, and the future of freight mobility.

CEE 592 Statistical Fundamentals for Construction and Materials Applications (3)
Mahoney Overviews statistical measures used in various construction and materials decision-making processes. Subjects include data distributions, hypothesis tests (making decisions with statistics), regression analysis, sampling, quality control and assurance, and experimental design. Uses construction data to illustrate these measures. Offered: Sp.

CEE 593 Construction Labor Law (3) Goldblatt
In-depth study of construction labor topics, including labor-management organization, legislation, and regulation, collective bargaining, and job site administration. Examines importance of labor relations in construction firms, whether in a union setting or an open shop environment.

CEE 594 Computer-Aided Construction (3)
Wang Application of information technology to construction management and cost estimating. Topics include, but not limited to, computerized construction, fundamentals of computer hardware, construction management software tools, Web publishing, GPS application, and construction data management. Offered: S.

CEE 595 Construction Materials (3) Mahoney, Muench Examines the use of aggregates, bituminous mixtures, Portland cement concrete, roller compacted concrete, soil and site stabilization, utility cuts and flowable backfill in construction projects. Emphasis on the behavior of materials in various construction applications. Offered: W.

CEE 596 Pavement Construction (3) Mahoney, Muench Examines pavement construction, including pavement contracts and specifications, quality control and assurance programs, and plant and laydown operations. Reviews both national and international pavement construction practices. Offered: Sp.

CEE 597 Pavement Construction and Quality Control (3) Covers concepts of hot mix asphalt (HMA) and portland cement concrete (PPC) pavement construction including plant production, transport, placement, compaction, early age behavior, long-term performance, emerging technologies and research. Benefits students with a construction or transportation focus. Uses combination of instructor lectures, guest speakers and student led discussions

CEE 599 Special Topics in Civil and Environmental Engineering (1-3, max. 15)
Rutherford Special topics in civil and environmental engineering offered occasionally by permanent or visiting faculty members.

CEE 600 Independent Study or Research (2-5) Rutherford Topics covered depend on the faculty who offer the course and student interest. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

CEE 601 Internship (2) Internship in an established program between industry, government, and the University. Prerequisite: permission of graduate program coordinator and committee chair.

CEE 700 Master's Thesis (*) Prerequisite: permission of adviser.

CEE 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Prerequisite: permission of adviser.

Computer Science and Engineering

Computer Science and Engineering

CSE 100 Fluency in Information Technology (5) QSR Introduces skills, concepts, and capabilities necessary to effectively use information technology. Includes logical reasoning, managing complexity, operation of computers and networks, and contemporary applications such as effective Web searching and database manipulation, ethical aspects, and social impacts of information technology. Not available for credit to students who have completed CSE 142 or ENGR 142. Offered: jointly with INFO 100.

CSE 142 Computer Programming I (4) NW, QSR Basic programming-in-the-small abilities and concepts including procedural programming (methods, parameters, return values), basic control structures (sequence, if/else, for loop, while loop), file processing, arrays and an introduction to defining objects. Offered: AWSpS.

CSE 143 Computer Programming II (5) NW, QSR Continuation of 142. Concepts of data abstraction and encapsulation including stacks, queues, linked lists, binary trees, recursion, instruction to complexity and use of predefined collection classes. Prerequisite: CSE 142. Offered: AWSpS.

CSE 190 Current Topics in Computer Science and Engineering (1-5, max. 15)

CSE 303 Concepts and Tools for Software Development (3) Introduction to key concepts and tools in the development of software not introduced in the introductory programming courses. Includes programming with explicit memory management and layout (e.g. C or C++), techniques for group software development, modern design, implementation, and testing patterns and strategies, and societal impact. Prerequisite: CSE 143.

CSE 321 Discrete Structures (4) Fundamentals of set theory, graph theory, enumeration, and algebraic structures, with applications in computing. Prerequisite: CSE 143; either MATH 126, MATH 129, or MATH 136.

CSE 322 Introduction to Formal Models in Computer Science (3) Finite automata and regular expressions; context-free grammars and pushdown automata; nondeterminism; Turing machines and the halting problem. Emphasis on understanding models and their applications and on rigorous use of basic techniques of analysis. Induction proofs, simulation, diagonalization, and reduction arguments. Prerequisite: CSE 321.

CSE 326 Data Structures (4) Abstract data types and their implementations as data structures. Efficient of algorithms employing these data structures; asymptotic analyses. Dictionaries: balanced search trees, hashing. Priority queues: heaps. Disjoint sets with union, find. Graph algorithms: shortest path, minimum spanning tree, topological sort, search. Sorting. Not available for credit for students who have completed CSE 373. Prerequisite: CSE 321.

CSE 341 Programming Languages (4) Basic concepts of programming languages, including abstraction mechanisms, types, and scoping. Detailed study of several different programming paradigms, such as functional, object-oriented, and logic programming. No credit if CSE 413 has been taken. Prerequisite: CSE 143.

CSE 370 Introduction to Digital Design (4) Introductory course in digital logic and its specification and simulation. Boolean algebra, combinational circuits including arithmetic circuits and regular structures, sequential circuits including finite-state-machines, use of programmable logic devices. Simulation and high-level specification techniques are emphasized.

CSE 373 Data Structures and Algorithms (3) Fundamental algorithms and data structures for implementation. Techniques for solving problems by programming. Linked lists, stacks, queues, directed graphs. Trees: representations, traversals. Searching (hashing, binary search trees, multiway trees). Garbage collection, memory management. Internal and external sorting. Intended for non-majors. No credit to students who have completed 326, 374, or E E 374. Prerequisite: CSE 143.

CSE 378 Machine Organization and Assembly Language (4) Differences and similarities in machine organization; central processors; fundamentals of machine language and addressing; assembly language programming, including macros; operating system interfaces. No credit to students who have completed 410. Prerequisite: CSE 143; CSE 303; CSE 370.

CSE 399 CSE Foreign Study (*) Upper division computer science or computer engineering course, taken through an approved study abroad program, which there are no direct University of Washington equivalents. Credit/no credit only.

CSE 401 Introduction to Compiler Construction (3) Fundamentals of compilers and interpreters; symbol tables; lexical analysis, syntax analysis, semantic analysis, code generation, and optimizations for general purpose programming languages. No credit to students who have taken 413. Prerequisite: CSE 322; CSE 326; CSE 341; CSE 378.

CSE 403 Software Engineering (4) Fundamentals of software engineering using a group project as the basic vehicle. Topics covered include the software crisis, managing complexity, requirements specification, architectural and detailed design, testing and analysis, software process, and tools and environments. Prerequisite: CSE; 303; CSE 326; CSE 341; recommended: project experience in an academic or work setting.

CSE 410 Computer Systems (3) Structure and components of hardware and software systems. Machine organization, including central processor and input-output architectures; assembly language programming; operating systems, including process, storage, and file management. Intended for non-majors. No credit to students who have completed 378 or 451. Prerequisite: CSE 373.

CSE 413 Programming Languages and Their Implementation (3) Basic concepts and implementation strategies for modern functional and object-oriented programming languages such as Scheme and Java. Intended for non-majors. No credit to students who have completed CSE 341 or CSE 401. Prerequisite: CSE 373.

CSE 415 Introduction to Artificial Intelligence (3) NW Principles and programming techniques of artificial intelligence: LISP, symbol manipulation, knowledge representation, logical and probabilistic reasoning, learning, language understanding, vision, expert systems, and social issues. Intended for non-majors. Not open for credit to students who have completed 473. Prerequisite: CSE 373.

CSE 417 Algorithms and Computational Complexity (3) Design and analysis of algorithms and data structures. Efficient algorithms for manipulating graphs and strings. Fast Fourier Transform. Models of computation, including Turing machines. Time and space complexity. NP-complete problems and undecidable problems. Intended for non-majors. Prerequisite: CSE 373.

CSE 421 Introduction to Algorithms (3) Techniques for design of efficient algorithms. Methods for showing lower bounds on computational complexity. Particular algorithms for sorting, searching, set manipulation, arithmetic, graph problems, pattern matching. Prerequisite: CSE 322; CSE 326.

CSE 427 Computational Biology (3) Algorithmic and analytic techniques underlying analysis of large-scale biological data sets such as DNA, RNA, and protein sequences or structures, expression and proteomic profiling. Hands-on experience with databases, analysis tools, and genome markers. Applications such as sequence alignment, BLAST, phylogenetics, and Markov models. Prerequisite: CSE 326.

CSE 428 Computational Biology Capstone (5) Designs and implements a software tool or software analysis for an important problem in computational molecular biology. Prerequisite: CSE 326.

CSE 431 Introduction to Theory of Computation (3) Models of computation, computable and noncomputable functions, space and time complexity, tractable and intractable functions. Prerequisite: CSE 322.

CSE 440 Introduction to HCI: User Interface Design, Prototyping, and Evaluation (5) Human-Computer Interaction (HCI) theory and techniques. Methods for designing, prototyping, and evaluating user interfaces to computing applications. Human capabilities, interface technology, interface design methods, and interface evaluation tools and techniques. Prerequisite: CSE 326.

CSE 441 Advanced HCI: Advanced User Interface Design, Prototyping, and Evaluation (5) Human-Computer Interaction (HCI) theory and techniques. Advanced methods for designing, prototyping, and evaluating user interfaces to computing applications. Novel interface technology, advanced interface design methods, and prototyping tools. Prerequisite: CSE 440.

CSE 444 Introduction to Database Systems (4) The relational data model and the SQL query language. Conceptual modeling: entity/relationships, normal forms. XML, XPath, and XQuery. Transactions: recovery and concurrency control. Implementation of a database system. A medium sized project using a relational database backend. Prerequisite: CSE 303; CSE 326.

CSE 446 Machine Learning (3) Methods for designing systems that learn from data and improve with experience. Supervised learning and predictive modeling: decision trees, rule induction, nearest neighbors, Bayesian methods, neural networks, support vector machines, and model ensembles. Unsupervised learning and clustering. CSE majors only. Prerequisite: CSE 326; either STAT 390 or STAT 391.

CSE 450 Animation Production Seminar (1) Open to all students who have an interest in digital animation. Reviews and analyzes films, animated feature films, and television commercials. Emphasizes the technical and aesthetic basics of animation production in industry studio environments.

CSE 451 Introduction to Operating Systems (4) Principles of operating systems. Process management, memory management, auxiliary storage management, resource allocation. No credit to students who have completed 410 or E 474. Prerequisite: CSE 326; CSE 378.

CSE 454 Advanced Internet and Web Services (5) Design of Internet search engines, including spider architecture, inverted indices, frequency rankings, latent semantic indexing, hyperlink analysis, and refinement interfaces. Construction of scalable and secure web services.

Datamining Webserver logs to provide personalized and user-targeted services. Large project. Prerequisite: CSE 326.

CSE 455 Computer Vision (4) Introduction to image analysis and interpreting the 3D world from image data. Topics may include segmentation, motion estimation, image mosaics, 3D-shape reconstruction, object recognition, and image retrieval. Prerequisite: CSE 303; CSE 326; recommended: MATH 308.

CSE 456 Story Design for Computer Animation (4) Animation principles and production for story development and design. Design, development, and production of several storyreels, which are a tool for the pre-production of animated features and shorts. Student use authoring tools to present finished work.

CSE 457 Computer Graphics (4) Introduction to computer image synthesis, modeling, and animation. Topics may include visual perception, displays and framebuffers, image processing, affine and projective transformations, hierarchical modeling, hidden surface elimination, shading, ray-tracing, anti-aliasing, texture mapping, curves, surfaces, particle systems, dynamics, character animation, and animation principles. Prerequisite: CSE 303; CSE 326; recommended: MATH 308.

CSE 458 Computer Animation (5) Introduction to basic principles of computer generated animation. Focus on the modeling and lighting of animated characters. Students from Art, CSE, and Music team up on projects to be built on commercially-available modeling and lighting packages. Prerequisite: either CSE 457, ART 380, or MUSIC 403.

CSE 459 Pre-Production for Collaborative Animation (5) Pre-production of collaboratively designed animated shorts. In-depth analysis of classical and computer generated works. Character design and pre-planning, model sheets, character rigging, storyreel and animatics, character motion, design for multiple characters, and principles of animation as applied to character motion and effects. Prerequisite: CSE 458.

CSE 460 Animation Capstone (5) Apply the knowledge gained in previous animation courses to produce a short animated film. Topics include scene planning, digital cinematography, creature and hard surface modeling, animatics and basics of character animation, and rendering techniques. Prerequisite: CSE 458, CSE 459.

CSE 461 Introduction to Computer-Communication Networks (4) Computer network architectures, protocol layers, network programming. Transmission media, encoding systems, switching, multiple access arbitration. Network routing, congestion control, flow control. Transport protocols, real-time, multicast, network security. Prerequisite: CSE 326.

CSE 464 Advanced Topics in Digital Animation (5) Students design individual animated works for professional quality demo reels. 2- and 3-D animatics, special effects design, advanced character animation techniques, 3-D paint techniques and integration, short design, sequence planning, non-photorealistic rendering options, interactive animation for pre-planning, and advanced production techniques and strategies. Prerequisite: CSE 458.

CSE 466 Software for Embedded Systems (4)

Software issues in the design of embedded systems. Microcontroller architectures and peripherals, embedded operating systems and device drivers, compilers and debuggers, timer and interrupt systems, interfacing of devices, communications and networking. Emphasis on practical application of development platforms. Prerequisite: CSE 326; CSE 370; CSE 378.

CSE 467 Advanced Digital Design (4)

Advanced techniques in the design of digital systems. Hardware description languages, combinational and sequential logic synthesis and optimization methods, partitioning, mapping to regular structures. Emphasis on reconfigurable logic as an implementation medium. Memory system design. Digital communication including serial/parallel and synchronous/asynchronous methods. Prerequisite: CSE 326; CSE 370.

CSE 468 Very Large Scale Integration (5)

Introduction to CMOS technology and circuit design; implementation of combinational and sequential logic; VLSI design methodologies; CAD tools for layout, simulation, and validation. Students design a VLSI chip using modern CAD tools. Prerequisite: CSE 370.

CSE 471 Computer Design and Organization (4)

CPU instruction addressing models, CPU structure and functions, computer arithmetic and logic unit, register transfer level design, hardware and microprogram control, memory hierarchy design and organization, I/O and system components interconnection. Laboratory project involves design and simulation of an instruction set processor. Prerequisite: CSE 370; CSE 378.

CSE 472 Introduction to Computational Linguistics (5) NW/VLPA Hoard

Introduction to computer applications of linguistic theory, including syntactic processing, semantic and pragmatic interpretation, and natural language generation. Prerequisite: either LING 200 or LING 400; either LING 461 or CSE 321. Offered: jointly with LING 472.

CSE 473 Introduction to Artificial Intelligence (3)

Principal ideas and developments in artificial intelligence: Problem solving and search, game playing, knowledge representation and reasoning, uncertainty, machine learning, natural language processing. Not open for credit to students who have completed 415. Prerequisite: CSE 326; recommended: CSE 341.

CSE 476 Embedded System Design (5)

System building course to provide students with a complete experience in embedded system design. Students will design, simulate, construct, debug, and document a substantial project of their choosing. Lectures will focus on case studies and emerging components and platforms. Prerequisite: CSE 451; CSE 466.

CSE 477 Digital System Design (5)

Capstone design experience. Prototype a substantial project mixing hardware, software, and communication components. Focuses on use of embedded processors and programmable logic in digital system design, case studies, and emerging components and platforms. Provides a complete experience in embedded system design and management. Prerequisite: CSE 451; CSE 466; CSE 467.

CSE 481 Capstone Software Design (5, max. 15)

Students work in teams to design and implement a software project involving multiple areas of the CSE curriculum. Emphasis is placed on the development process itself, rather than on the product. Prerequisite: CSE major; CSE 326; CSE 341; CSE 378; substantial programming experience, such as in CSE 451 or CSE 457.

CSE 484 Computer Security (4)

Foundations of modern computer security, including software security, operating system security, network security, applied cryptography, human factors, authentication, anonymity, and web security. Prerequisite: CSE 326; CSE 378.

CSE 490 Special Topics in Computer Science and Engineering (1-5, max. 15)

Lectures, discussions, and possibly labs on topics of current interest in computer science and engineering not covered by other CSE undergraduate courses.

CSE 497 Undergraduate Research Seminar (1)

Students prepare and give a public talk on their faculty-sponsored research projects.

CSE 498 Senior Project ([1-9]-, max. 9)

A report (and perhaps demonstration) describing a development, survey, or small research project in computer science or an application to another field. Objectives are: (1) integrating material from several courses, (2) introducing the professional literature, (3) gaining experience in writing a technical document, and (4) showing evidence of independent work. Work normally extends over more than one quarter, for a maximum of 6 credits for 498; 9 credits are required for 498H.

CSE 499 Reading and Research (1-24, max. 24)

Available in special situations for advanced computer science majors to do reading and research in field, subject to approval of undergraduate adviser and CSE faculty member. Free elective, but does not replace core course or computer science elective. Credit/no credit only.

CSE 501 Programming Language Analysis and Implementation (3)

Design and implementation of compilers and run-time systems for imperative, object-oriented, and functional languages. Intra- and interprocedural analyses and optimizations. Prerequisite: CSE major and CSE 341; recommended CSE 401.

CSE 503 Software Engineering (3)

Specification, implementation, and testing of large, multiperson, software systems. Topics include abstraction, information hiding, software development environments, and formal specifications. Prerequisite: CSE major and CSE 322, CSE 326, and CSE 378 or equivalents.

CSE 504 Advanced Topic in Software Engineering (3)

Topics vary but may include software design and evolution, formal methods, requirements specifications, software and system safety, reverse engineering, real-time software, metrics and measurement, programming environments, and verification and validation. Prerequisite: CSE major or permission of instructor.

CSE 505 Principles of Programming Languages (3)

Design and formal semantics of modern programming languages, includes functional and object-oriented languages. Prerequisite: CSE major and CSE 341.

CSE 506 Advanced Topics in Programming Languages (3)

May include functional, object-oriented, parallel, and logic programming languages; semantics for languages of these kinds; type declaration, inference, and checking (including polymorphic types); implementation issues, such as compilation, lazy evaluation, combinators, parallelism, various optimization techniques. Implementation project required. Prerequisite: CSE major, CSE 501 which may be taken concurrently, and CSE 505.

CSE 510 Advanced Topics in Human-Computer Interaction (3)

Content varies, including interface issues for networks, embedded systems, education applications, safety and critical systems, graphics and virtual reality, databases, and computer-supported cooperative work.

CSE 515 Statistical Methods in Computer Science (3)

Introduction to the probabilistic and statistical techniques used in modern computer systems. Graphical models, probabilistic inference, statistical learning, sequential models, decision theory. Prerequisite: either STAT 341 or STAT 391, and graduate standing in computer science, or permission of instructor.

CSE 519 Current Research in Computer Science (1, max. 3)

Weekly presentations on current research activities by members of the department. Only Computer Science graduate students may register, although others are encouraged to attend. Credit/no credit only.

CSE 520 Computer Science Colloquium (1, max. 9)

Weekly public presentations on topics of current interest by visiting computer scientists. Credit/no credit only

CSE 521 Design and Analysis of Algorithms I (3)

Principles of design of efficient algorithms: recursion, divide and conquer, balancing, dynamic programming, greedy method, network flow, linear programming. Correctness and analysis of algorithms. NP-completeness. Prerequisite: CSE major and CSE 326 or equivalent. CSE majors only.

CSE 522 Design and Analysis of Algorithms II (3)

Analysis of algorithms more sophisticated than those treated in 521. Content varies and may include such topics as algebraic algorithms, combinatorial algorithms, techniques for proving lower bounds on complexity, and algorithms for special computing devices such as networks or formulas. Prerequisite: CSE major and CSE 521.

CSE 523 Computational Geometry (3)

Algorithms for discrete computational geometry. Geometric computation, range searching, convex hulls, proximity, Voronoi diagrams, intersection. Application areas include VLSI design and computer graphics. Prerequisite: CSE major and CSE 521; recommended: CSE 457 or equivalent.

CSE 524 Parallel Algorithms (3)

Design and analysis of parallel algorithms: fundamental parallel algorithms for sorting, arithmetic, matrix and graph problems and additional selected topics. Emphasis on general techniques and approaches used for developing fast and efficient parallel algorithms and on limitations to their efficacy. Prerequisite: CSE major and CSE 521.

CSE 525 Randomized Algorithms and Probabilistic Analysis (3)

Beane, Guruswami, Karlin, Lee Examines algorithmic techniques: random selection, random sampling, backwards analysis, algebraic methods, Monte Carlo methods, and randomized rounding; random graphs; the probabilistic method; Markov chains and random walks; and analysis tools: random variables, moments and deviations, Chernoff bounds, martingales, and balls in bins. Prerequisite: CSE 521 or equivalent; CSE majors only. Offered: WSp.

CSE 527 Computational Biology (3)

Introduces computational methods for understanding biological systems at the molecular level. Problem areas such as mapping and sequencing, sequence analysis, structure prediction, phylogenetic inference, regulatory analysis. Techniques such as dynamic programming, Markov models, expectation-maximization, local search. Prerequisite: graduate standing in biological, computer, mathematical or statistical science, or permission of instructor.

CSE 528 Computational Neuroscience (3)

Introduction to computational methods for understanding nervous systems and the principles governing their operation. Topics include representation of information by spiking neurons, information processing in neural circuits, and algorithms for adaptation and learning. Prerequisite: elementary calculus, linear algebra, and statistics, or by permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with NEUBEH 528.

CSE 531 Computability and Complexity I (3)

Deterministic and nondeterministic time and space complexity, complexity classes, and complete problems. Time and space hierarchies. Alternation and the polynomial-time hierarchy. Circuit complexity. Probabilistic computation. Exponential complexity lower bounds. Interactive proofs. Prerequisite: CSE majors only; CSE 322 or equivalent.

CSE 532 Computational Complexity II (3)

Advanced computational complexity including several of the following: circuit complexity lower bounds, #P and counting classes, probabilistically-checkable proofs, derandomization, logical characteristics of complexity, communication complexity, time-space tradeoffs, complexity of data structures. Prerequisite: CSE majors only; Recommended: CSE 531.

CSE 533 Advanced Topics in Complexity Theory (3)

An in-depth study of advanced topics in computational complexity. Prerequisite: CSE major.

CSE 536 Theory of Distributed Computing (3)

Formal approaches to distributed computing problems. Topics vary, but typically include models of distributed computing, agreement problems, impossibility results, mutual exclusion protocols, concurrent reading while writing protocols, knowledge analysis of protocols, and distributed algorithms. Prerequisite: CSE major.

CSE 540 Discrete System Simulation (3)

Principles of simulation of discrete, event-oriented systems. Model construction, simulation and validation. Distributed and parallel simulation techniques. Basic statistical analysis of simulation inputs and outputs. Use of C, an object-oriented language, and S, a statistical analysis package. Prior familiarity with the concepts of probability and statistics desirable. Prerequisite: CSE major.

CSE 543 Computer System Performance (3)

Emphasizes the use of analytic models as tools for evaluating the performance of centralized, distributed, and parallel computer systems.

Prerequisite: CSE major and CSE 451.

CSE 544 Principles of Database Systems (3)

Data models and query languages (SQL, datalog, OQL). Relational databases, enforcement of integrity constraints. Object-oriented databases and object-relational databases. Principles of data storage and indexing. Query-execution methods and query optimization algorithms. Static analysis of queries and rewriting of queries using views. Data integration. Data mining. Principles of transaction processing.

CSE 546 Data Mining (3) Methods for identifying valid, novel, useful, and understandable patterns in data. Induction of predictive models from data: classification, regression, and probability estimation. Discovery of clusters and association rules.

CSE 548 Computer Systems Architecture (3)

Notations for computer systems. Processor design (single chip, look-ahead, pipelined, data flow). Memory hierarchy organization and management (virtual memory and caches). Microprogramming. I/O processing. Multiprocessors (SIMD and MIMD). Prerequisite: CSE major and CSE 451.

CSE 549 High-Performance Computer Architectures (3)

Algorithm design, software techniques, computer organizations for high-performance computing systems. Selected topics from: VLSI complexity for parallel algorithms, compiling techniques for parallel and vector machines, large MIMD machines, interconnection networks, reconfigurable systems, memory hierarchies in multiprocessors, algorithmically specialized processors, data flow architectures. Prerequisite: CSE major and CSE 548 or permission of instructor.

CSE 551 Operating Systems (3)

Operating system design and construction techniques. Concurrent programming, operating system kernels, correctness, deadlock, protection, transaction processing, design methodologies, comparative structure of different kinds of operating systems, and other topics. Prerequisite: CSE major and CSE 451.

CSE 552 Distributed and Parallel Systems (3)

Principles, techniques, and examples related to the design, implementation, and analysis of distributed and parallel computer systems. Prerequisite: CSE major and CSE 551.

CSE 553 Real-Time Systems (3)

Design and construction of software for real-time computer systems. Software architectures. Requirements and specification methods. Scheduling algorithms and timing analysis. Real-time operating systems. Real-time programming languages. Selected case studies. Prerequisite: CSE major and CSE 451.

CSE 557 Computer Graphics (3)

Introduction to image synthesis and computer modeling, emphasizing the underlying theory required for undertaking computer graphics research. Topics include color theory, image processing, affine and projective geometry, hidden-surface determination, photorealistic image synthesis, advanced curve and surface design, dynamics, realistic character animation. Prerequisite: CSE major, solid knowledge of linear algebra.

CSE 558 Special Topics in Computer

Graphics (3) Advanced topics in computer graphics not treated in CSE 557. Topics vary from year to year but typically include advanced aspects of image synthesis, animation, and 3D photography. Prerequisite: CSE major and CSE 557 or permission of instructor.

CSE 561 Computer Communication and Networks (3) Fundamentals of data transmission: coding, message formats, and protocols. Organization of computer networks. Examples of network implementations. Prerequisite: CSE or E E major and CSE 451 or equivalent.

CSE 567 Principles of Digital Systems

Design (3) Principles of logic design, combinational and sequential circuits, minimization techniques, structured design methods, CMOS technology, complementary and ratioed gates, delay estimation and performance analysis, arithmetic circuits, memories, clocking methodologies, synthesis and simulation tools, VLSI processor architecture. Prerequisite: CSE major and basic knowledge of logic design.

CSE 568 Introduction to VLSI Systems (3)

Introduction to CMOS technology and circuit design; combinational logic-design alternatives; register-design and system-clocking methodologies; datapath and subsystem design; VLSI system-design methodologies; CAD tools for synthesis, layout, simulation, and validation; design of a complex VLSI chip. Prerequisite: CSE 567 or permission of instructor. CSE majors only.

CSE 571 AI-based Mobile Robotics (3)

Overview of mobile robot control and sensing. Behavior-based control, world modeling, localization, navigation, and planning Probabilistic sensor interpretation, Bayes filters, particle filters. Projects: Program real robots to perform navigation tasks. Prerequisite: CSE major and CSE 473, or permission of instructor.

CSE 573 Artificial Intelligence I (3)

Intensive introduction to artificial intelligence: Problem solving and search, game playing, knowledge representation and reasoning, uncertainty, machine learning, natural language processing. Prerequisite: CSE 421 or equivalent; exposure to logic, probability and statistics; CSE major.

CSE 574 Artificial Intelligence II (3)

Advanced topics in artificial intelligence. Subjects include planning, natural language understanding, qualitative physics, machine learning, and formal models of time and action. Students are required to do projects. Prerequisite: CSE major and CSE 573.

CSE 576 Computer Vision (3)

Overview of computer vision, emphasizing the middle ground between image processing and artificial intelligence. Image formation, preattentive image processing, boundary and region representations, and case studies of vision architectures. Prerequisite: Solid knowledge of linear algebra, good programming skills, CSE or E E major or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with E E 576.

CSE 577 Special Topics in Computer Vision

(3) Topics vary and may include vision for graphics, probabilistic vision and learning, medical imaging, content-based image and video retrieval, robot vision, or 3D object recognition. Prerequisite: CSE/E E 576 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with E E 577.

CSE 581 Parallel Computation in Image

Processing (3) Parallel architectures, algorithms, and languages for image processing. Cellular array, pipelined and pyramid machines, instruction sets, and design issues. Parallel implementations of filtering, edge detection, segmentation, shape, stereo, motion, relaxation algorithms, multiresolution methods, and iconic-to-symbolic transforms. Students write and debug programs for parallel computers. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

CSE 590 Research Seminar (*) Several offerings each quarter, on topics of current interest. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

CSE 591 Group Projects in Computer Science (1-3, max. 3) Focuses on specialized topics and research activities in computer science. Credit/no credit only.

CSE 597 Performance Analysis (4) Broad introduction to computer system performance evaluation techniques and their application. Includes measurement/benchmarking, stochastic and trace driven simulation, stochastic queuing networks, and timed Petri nets. Applications of the techniques are studied using case study papers. CSE majors only. Not open for credit to students who have completed CSE 543.

CSE 599 Special Topics in Computer Science (1-3, max. 15) Studies of emerging areas and specialized topics in computer science.

CSE 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only.

CSE 700 Master's Thesis (*) Credit/no credit only.

CSE 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Credit/no credit only.

Computer Science and Engineering Professional Master's Program

CSE P 501 Compiler Construction (4) Principles and practice of building efficient implementations of modern programming languages. Lexical, syntactic, and semantic analysis of programs. Intermediate program representations. Intra- and interprocedural analysis and optimization. Run-time system techniques. Related programming environment facilities such as source-level debuggers and profilers. Prerequisite: CSE majors only.

CSE P 503 Principles of Software Engineering (4) Study of major developments in software engineering over the past three decades. Topics may include design (information hiding, layering, open implementations), requirements specification (informal and formal approaches), quality assurance (testing, verification and analysis, inspections), reverse and re-engineering (tools, models, approaches). Prerequisite: CSE majors only.

CSE P 505 Programming Languages (4) A study of non-imperative programming paradigms such as functional, object-oriented, logic, and constraint programming. Programming language semantics and type theory. Prerequisite: CSE majors only.

CSE P 510 Human Computer Interaction (4) Topics in human-computer interaction, including tools and skills for user interface design, user interface software architecture, rapid prototyping and iterative design, safety and critical systems, evaluation techniques, and computer supported cooperative work. Prerequisite: CSE majors only.

CSE P 521 Applied Algorithms (4) Principles of design of efficient algorithms with emphasis on algorithms with real world applications. Examples drawn from computational geometry, biology, scientific computation, image processing, combinatorial optimization, cryptography, and operations research. Prerequisite: CSE majors only.

CSE P 524 Parallel Computation (4) Survey of parallel computing including the processing modes of pipelining, data parallelism, thread parallelism, and task parallelism; algorithmic implications of memory models; shared memory and message passing; hardware implementations; bandwidth and latency; synchronization, consistency, interprocessor communication; programming issues including implicit and explicit parallelism, locality, portability. CSE majors only.

CSE P 531 Computability and Complexity Theory (4) Survey of the theory of computation including Turing Machines, Church's Thesis, computability, incompleteness, undecidability, complexity classes, problem reductions, Cook's theorem, NP-completeness, randomized computation, cryptography, parallel computation, and space complexity. Some emphasis will be placed on historical and philosophical aspects of the theory of computation. Prerequisite: CSE PMP majors only.

CSE P 544 Database Management System (4) Introduction to the principles of database management systems. Topics include database system architecture, data models, theory of database design, query optimization, concurrency control, crash recovery, and storage strategies. CSE majors only.

CSE P 545 Transaction Processing (4) Technology supporting reliable large-scale distributed computing, including transaction programming models, TP monitors, transactional communications, persistent queuing, software fault tolerance, concurrency control and recovery algorithms, distributed transactions, two-phase commit, data replication. Prerequisite: CSE majors only.

CSE P 546 Data Mining (4) Methods for identifying valid, novel, useful, and understandable patterns in data. Induction of predictive models from data: classification, regression, probability estimation. Discovery of clusters and association rules.

CSE P 548 Computer Architecture (4) Architecture of the single-chip microprocessor: instruction set design and processor implementation (pipelining, multiple issue, speculative execution). Memory hierarchy: on-chip and off-chip caches, TLBs and their management, virtual memory from the hardware viewpoint. I/O devices and control: buses, disks, and RAID's. Prerequisite: CSE majors only.

CSE P 552 Distributed Systems (4) Principles, techniques, and examples related to the design, implementation, and analysis of distributed computer systems. Prerequisite: CSE PMP majors only.

CSE P 557 Current Trends in Computer Graphics (4) Introduction to computer image synthesis, modeling, and animation emphasizing the state-of-the-art algorithm applications. Topics may include visual perception, image processing, geometric transformations, hierarchical modeling, hidden-surface elimination, shading, ray-tracing, anti-aliasing, texture mapping, curves, surfaces, particle systems, dynamics, realistic character animation, and traditional animation principles. Prerequisite: CSE majors only.

CSE P 561 Network Systems (4) Current choices and challenges in network systems. Fundamental concepts combined with emphasis on evaluation of design/operations alternatives. Topics include alternative link, network, and transport-layer technologies, topologies, routing, congestion control multimedia, Ipv6, aTM v. IP, network management and policy issues. Prerequisite: CSE majors only.

CSE P 567 Design and Implementation of Digital Systems (4) Overview of current implementation technologies for digital systems including custom integrated circuits, field-programmable logic, and embedded processors. Systems components such as buses and communications structures, interfaces, memory architectures, embedded systems, and application-specific devices. Focus on the design of large systems using modern CAD tools. Prerequisite: CSE majors only.

CSE P 573 Applications of Artificial Intelligence (4) Introduction to the use of Artificial Intelligence tools and techniques in industrial and company settings. Topics include foundations (search, knowledge representation) and tools such as expert systems, natural language interfaces and machine learning techniques. Prerequisite: CSE majors only.

CSE P 576 Computer Vision (4) Provides an overview of computer vision, emphasizing the middle ground between image processing and artificial intelligence. Image formation, pre-attentive image processing, boundary and region representations, and case studies of vision architectures.

CSE P 590 Special Topics in Computer Science (1-4, max. 20)

CSE P 595 Software Entrepreneurship (4) Provides an overview of the major elements of entrepreneurial activity in software, including market identification and analysis, evaluation and planning of the business, financing, typical operating and administrative problems, and alternatives for growth or sale.

CSE P 596 Business Basics Computer Science Professionals (4) Business principles relevant to the software industry in four areas: competitive strategy, finance, accounting, and human resources. Organized as a series of case studies and lectures. Progresses from an emphasis on tools to a more high-level look at competitive dynamics in high-tech industries.

CSE P 600 Independent Study or Research (1-4)

Electrical Engineering

E E 215 Fundamentals of Electrical Engineering (4) NW Introduction to electrical engineering. Basic circuit and systems concepts. Mathematical models of components. Kirchoff's laws. Resistors, sources, capacitors, inductors, and operational amplifiers. Solution of first and second order linear differential equations associated with basic circuit forms. Prerequisite: either MATH 126 or MATH 136; PHYS 122.

E E 233 Circuit Theory (5) Electric circuit theory. Analysis of circuits with sinusoidal signals. Phasors, system functions, and complex frequency. Frequency response. Computer analysis of electrical circuits. Power and energy. Two port network theory. Laboratory in basic electrical engineering topics. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 215.

E E 235 Continuous Time Linear Systems (5) Introduction to continuous time signal analysis. Basic signals including impulses, pulses, and unit steps. Periodic signals. Convolution of signals. Fourier series and transforms in discrete and continuous time. Computer laboratory. Prerequisite: either MATH 136, MATH 307, or AMATH 351 any of which may be taken concurrently; PHYS 122; CSE 142, which may be taken concurrently.

E E 271 Digital Circuits and Systems (5) Overview of digital computer systems. Digital logic, Boolean algebra, combinational and sequential circuits and logic design, programmable logic devices, and the design and operation of digital computers, including ALU, memory, and I/O. Weekly laboratories. Prerequisite: CSE 142.

E E 299 Special Topics in Electrical Engineering (1-5, max. 5) New and experimental approaches to basic electrical engineering. May include design and construction projects.

E E 331 Devices and Circuits I (5) Physics, characteristics, applications, analysis, and design of circuits using semiconductor diodes and field-effect transistors with an emphasis on large-signal behavior and digital logic circuits. Classroom concepts are reinforced through laboratory experiments and design exercises. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 233.

E E 332 Devices and Circuits II (5) Characteristics of bipolar transistors, large- and small-signal models for bipolar and field effect transistors, linear circuit applications, including low and high frequency analysis of differential amplifiers, current sources, gain stages and output stages, internal circuitry of op-amps, op-amp configurations, op-amp stability and compensation. Weekly laboratory. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 331.

E E 341 Discrete Time Linear Systems (5) Discrete time signals and systems, impulse response, convolution, Z-transforms, discrete time Fourier analysis. Computer laboratory. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 235.

E E 351 Energy Systems (5) Develops understanding of modern energy systems through theory and analysis of the system and its components. Discussions of generation, transmission and utilization are complemented by environmental and energy resources topics as well as electromechanical conversion, power electronics, electric safety, renewable energy, and electricity blackouts. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 233.

E E 361 Applied Electromagnetics (5) Introductory electromagnetic field theory and Maxwell's equations in integral and differential forms; uniform plane waves in linear media; boundary conditions and reflection and transmission of waves; guided waves; transmission lines and Smith chart; electrostatics. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 233; MATH 324; PHYS 123.

E E 398 Introduction to Professional Issues (1) Afromowitz Covers topics of interest to students planning their educational and professional path, including; salaries, the value of advanced degrees, societal expectations of engineering professionals, the corporate enterprise, ethical dilemmas, patents and trade secrets, outsourcing, and the global market.

E E 399 Special Topics in Electrical Engineering (1-5, max. 5) New and experimental approaches to current electrical engineering problems. May include design and construction projects.

E E 400 Advanced Topics in Electrical Engineering (1-5, max. 10) Contemporary topics at the advanced undergraduate elective level. Faculty presents advanced elective topics not included in the established curriculum.

E E 401 Engineering Design in Large Teams (4) Engineering design process, including project management, team formation, working with technical literature, concept development (e.g., brainstorming, morphological analysis, biomimetics, theory of inventive problem solving), intellectual property, high-tech ventures. Prerequisite: E E 215.

E E 402 Engineering Design in Large Teams: Robotics II (5) Engineering design process applied to robot design. Involves project management, mentoring, marketing, and multi-disciplinary collaboration. The team designs, prototypes, manufactures, assembles, texts, modifies, troubleshoots, and learn to operate a system that competes in an international design contest. Prerequisite: E E 215; E E 401.

E E 406 Engineering Design for K-12 Outreach (3) Wilson Design process targeted toward development of relevant activities for K-12 audiences in such areas of science and engineering. Instruction in basic design process, design specification combined with an overview of relevant cognitive/social development in K-12. Prerequisite: either E E 271, E E 331, E E 341, E E 351 or E E 361.

E E 415 Computer-Aided System Analysis and Design (3) Concepts, principles, and techniques concerned with the design, testing, and application of general-purpose problem-oriented computer programs for analyzing large-scale systems. Offered: Sp.

E E 416 Random Signals for Communications and Signal Processing (4) Probability and random processes in communications. Random variables, distributions, and expectation. Statistical filter design for detection and estimation. Prerequisite: E E 341; either STAT 390 or IND E 315.

E E 417 Modern Wireless Communications (4) Liu Introduction to wireless networks as an application of basic communication theorems. Examines modulation techniques for digital communications, signal space, optimum receiver design, error performance, error control coding for high reliability, multipath fading and its effects, RF link budget analysis, WiFi and Wimax systems. Prerequisite: E E 341; either IND E 315, MATH 390, or STAT 390. Offered: W.

E E 418 Network Security and Cryptography (3) Fundamental principles of cryptography and its application to network and communication security. An introduction to the fundamental tools in cryptography and the protocols that enable its application to network and communication security. Prerequisite: MATH 308; either MATH 390, STAT 390, or IND E 315. Offered: Sp.

E E 420 Design in Communications (4) Design projects in communications. Frequent projects solved by student teams. Reports and presentations. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 417 which may be taken concurrently.

E E 433 Analog Circuit Design (5) Design of analog circuits and systems applying modern integrated circuit technology: operational amplifiers, differential amplifiers, active filters, voltage references and regulators. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 332.

E E 436 Medical Instrumentation (4) Introductory course in the application of instrumentation to medicine. Topics include transducers, signal-conditioning amplifiers, electrodes and electrochemistry, ultrasound systems, electrical safety, and the design of clinical electronics. Laboratory included. For upper-division and first-year graduate students who are preparing for careers in bioengineering-both research and industrial.

E E 440 Introduction to Digital Imaging Systems (4) Hwang Image representation and standards, visual perception and color spaces, spatial domain image filtering and enhancement, image restoration, image transforms, image and video coding, image geometrical transformation and camera modeling. Prerequisite: E E 341.

E E 442 Digital Signals and Filtering (3) Methods and techniques for digital signal processing. Review of sampling theorems, A/D and D/A converters. Demodulation by quadrature sampling. Z-transform methods, system functions, linear shift-invariant systems, difference equations. Signal flow graphs for digital networks, canonical forms. Design of digital filters, practical considerations, IIR and FIR filters. Digital Fourier transforms and FFT techniques. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 341.

E E 443 Design and Application of Digital Signal Processing (5) Application of learned theories/algorithms and available computer technologies to modern image and speech processing problems. Two-dimensional signals and systems. Image transform, enhancement, restoration, coding. Characteristics of speech signals, linear predictive coding (LPC) of speech, pitch detection, and LPC speech synthesis, speech recognition, hardware designs for signal processing. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 442. Offered: Sp.

E E 447 Control System Analysis I (4) Linear Servomechanism theory and design principles. Pole-zero analysis, stability of feedback systems by root locus and real-frequency response methods. Design methods of Bode and Nichols. Introduction to advanced topics in automatic control theory, state variable methods. Prerequisite: E E 233; E E 235; MATH 308.

E E 448 Control Systems Sensors and Actuators (3) Study of control systems components and mathematical models.

Amplifiers, DC servomotors, reaction mass actuators. Accelerometers, potentiometers, shaft encoders and resolvers, proximity sensors, force transducers, piezoceramic materials, gyroscopes. Experimental determination of component models and model parameters. Two 3-hour laboratories per week. Prerequisite: either A A 447 or E E 447. Offered: jointly with A A 448.

E E 449 Design of Automatic Control Systems (4) Design problems for aerospace vehicles, systems with unstable dynamics, lightly damped modes, nonminimum phase, nonlinear dynamics. Computer-aided analysis, design, and simulation, with laboratory hardware-in-the-loop testing. Team design reviews, oral presentations. Prerequisite: either A A 448 or E E 448. Offered: jointly with A A 449.

E E 452 Power Electronics Design (5) Electronic conversion and control of electrical power. Includes semiconductor switching devices, power converter circuits, design of magnetics, and control of power converters. Also ac/ac, ac/dc, and dc/dc power converters; circuit simulation; extensive laboratory work a four-week power converter design project. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 331; 1.0 in E E 351.

E E 453 Electric Drives (5) Elements of drive systems, speed-torque characteristics of electric motors and industrial loads, solid-state converter. Starting and braking methods of loaded motors. Speed control of electric motors. Solid-state drives. Transient analysis of loaded motors. Special forms of individual- and multimotor drives. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 351.

E E 454 Power System Analysis (4) Introduction to methods of analyzing power systems. Includes symmetrical components, calculation of line parameters, representation of transmission lines and power components, and power flow control. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 351.

E E 455 Power System Dynamics and Protection (4) Analysis of symmetrical and unsymmetrical power systems' networks, fault analysis, and stability studies. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 351.

E E 456 Computer-Aided Design in Power Systems (4) Design-oriented course in power system engineering. Students are assigned a project concerning system operation and planning, steady-state and dynamic behaviors of power systems, or distribution systems. Each involves formulation of design criteria, development of approach, application of existing software. Prerequisite: either 1.0 in E E 454 or 1.0 in E E 455.

E E 457 Electric Energy Distribution Systems (4) Introduction to electric utility distribution systems. Primary and secondary network analysis and design, distribution substation problems, distribution transformers, capacitor application, overcurrent and overvoltage protection. System planning and reliability. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 351.

E E 461 Introduction to Computer-Communication Networks (4) Computer network architectures and protocols. OSI Layers and performance analysis. Transmission media, switching, multiple access arbitration. Network routing, congestion control, flow control. Transport protocols, real-time, multicast, network security. Prerequisite: CSE 143; either MATH 390/STAT 390, STAT 391, IND E 315.

E E 462 Principles of Mobile Robotics (4) Design-oriented course in autonomous mobile robots. C programming, microprocessors, motors, gears, sensors, advanced sensing techniques, serial communications, PID control, algorithmic control, reactive control, multi-tasking. Laboratory exercises include design, construction, and testing of autonomous mobile robots, which compete at the end of the term.

E E 463 Autonomous Mobile Robots (4) Design-oriented course in autonomous mobile robots. C programming, motors, sensors, IR and RF wireless communication, digital image processing, and robot motion control. Laboratory exercises include design, construction, and testing of autonomous mobile robots, which compete at the end of term. Prerequisite: E E 462.

E E 465 Fiber Optics, Devices, and Applications (4) Wave propagation in optical waveguiding structures, signal distortion, coupling of modes, modulation, sources and detectors, fabrication and measurement methods, communication and sensor systems. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 332; recommended: E E 361.

E E 467 Antennas: Analysis and Design (4) Fundamentals of antennas, analysis, synthesis and computer-aided design, and applications in communications, remote sensing, and radars. Radiation pattern, directivity, impedance, wire antennas, arrays, numerical methods for analysis, horn antennas, microstrip antennas, and reflector antennas. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 361.

E E 471 Computer Design and Organization (5) Introduction to computer architecture, algorithms, hardware design for various computer subsystems, CPU control unit design, hardwired and microprogrammed control, memory organization, cache design, virtual memory, I/O organization, and I/O hardware design. Prerequisite: either E E 271 or CSE 370; CSE 143.

E E 472 Microcomputer Systems (5) Concepts of multi-level machines and computer systems organization. Utilizing microprocessors, digital computer studied at assembly- and high-language levels with emphasis on concepts of central processor architecture, memory organization, input/output and interrupts. Assembly language programming concepts applied to solution of various laboratory problems including I/O programming. Prerequisite: either E E 271 or CSE 370; CSE 143.

E E 473 Linear Integrated Circuits (5) Design of linear integrated circuits applying modern MOS and BJT integrated circuit technologies: single-stage amplifiers; current-mirror DC bias and active load circuits; stability and frequency compensation of single-stage and two-stage operational amplifiers; output stages; current and voltage reference circuits. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 332.

E E 476 Digital Integrated Circuit Design (5) Sechen Comprehensive view of digital integrated circuit design. Topics to be covered include the design of inverters, static logic circuits, switch logic, and synchronous logic. Students design, simulate, and layout a complete digital IC using modern computer-aided design tools. Prerequisite: either E E 271 or CSE 370; E E 331; CSE 143.

E E 477 VLSI II (5) Sechen Provides a fairly deep understanding of how IC-based memory and datapath blocks are designed using static and dynamic CMOS technologies. Gives students extensive experience with industry-standard computer-aided design tools, including Cadence (Virtuoso, DRC, LVS) and Avanti (Hspice). Credit not allowed for both E E 477 and E E 525. Prerequisite: E E 476.

E E 478 Design of Computer Subsystems (5) Design of digital computer subsystems and systems, using SSI, MSI, and LSI digital components. Combinational logic, sequential logic, memory hardware designs, I/O hardware and interface design, system design steps, high-speed digital circuit design, noise reduction techniques, and hardware description language. One four-hour laboratory each week and design project. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 331; 1.0 in E E 472.

E E 480 Microwave Engineering I (4) Analysis and design of transmission lines and matching circuits. Lossy transmission lines. Mode structures in metallic and dielectric waveguides. Microwave resonators and magnetic devices. Smith chart and matching techniques. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 361.

E E 481 Microwave Electronic Design (4) Design of microwave circuits using S-parameter techniques. Measurement techniques, CAD of microwave systems. Includes design, fabrication, and evaluation of a microwave amplifier. Prerequisite: 1.0 in E E 332; 1.0 in E E 361.

E E 482 Semiconductor Devices (4) Fundamentals of semiconductor theory: carrier diffusion and drift; concept of direct and indirect energy materials, effective mass of mobile carriers; device physics: homo- and heterojunctions, operating principles of bipolar, junction, and MOS field-effect transistors. Prerequisite: E E 332; E E 361.

E E 484 Sensors and Sensor Systems (4) Introduction to optical and solid-state chemical and physical sensors. Topics include transduction mechanisms, design parameters, fabrication methods and applications.

E E 485 Introduction to Photonics (4) Introduction to optical principles and phenomena. Topics include electromagnetic theory of light, interference, diffraction, polarization, photon optics, laser principles, Gaussian beam optics, semiconductor optics, semiconductor photonic devices. Prerequisite: E E 361 or PHYS 123.

E E 486 Fundamentals of Integrated Circuit Technology (3) Processing physics, chemistry and technology, including evaporation, sputtering, epitaxial growth, diffusion, ion implantation, laser annealing, oxidation, chemical vapor deposition, photoresists. Design considerations for bipolar and MOS devices, materials and process characterization. Future trends. Prerequisite: either E E 482 or MSE 351. Offered: jointly with MSE 486.

E E 499 Undergraduate Research and Special Projects (2-5, max. 10) Undergraduate research or design project carried out under the supervision of a faculty sponsor.

E E 500 Graduate Seminar (1, max. 9) Weekly seminars on current topics in electrical engineering. More than one section may be offered in a given quarter. Credit/no credit only.

E E 501 Radar Remote Sensing (3) Sahr
General introduction to radar remote sensing of geophysical targets. Fundamentals of radar systems, range-time diagram, ambiguity function, pulse compression, spectrum estimation for underspread and overspread targets; multi-antenna correlations, interferometry, closure phases; maximum entropy source imaging; Aperture Synthesis (SAR and ISAR).

E E 502 Introduction to Microelectro Mechanical Systems (4) Theoretical and practical aspects in design, analysis, and fabrication of MEMS devices. Fabrication processes, including bulk and surface micromachining. MEMS design and layout. MEMS CAD tools. Mechanical and electrical design. Applications such as micro sensors and actuators, or chemical and thermal transducers, recent advances. Offered: jointly with M E 504/ MSE 504.

E E 503 Modeling of MEMS (4) Mamishv
Explores microelectromechanical systems (MEMS) including lumped modeling, conjugate power variables, electrostatic and magnetic actuators, linear transducers, linear system dynamics, design optimization, and thermal analysis. Numerical modeling topics include electro (quasi) static, mechanical, electromechanical, magneto (quasi) static, and fluidic phenomena; parametric analysis, visualization of multi-dimensional solutions; and verification of validity of results. Offered: Sp.

E E 505 Probability and Random Processes (4) Foundations for the engineering analysis of random processes: set theoretic fundamentals, basic axioms of probability models, conditional probabilities and independence, discrete and continuous random variables, multiple random variables, sequences of random variables, limit theorems, models of stochastic processes, noise, stationarity and ergodicity, Gaussian processes, power spectral densities. Prerequisite: graduate standing and understanding of probability at the level of E E 416.

E E 506 Communication Theory I (3) Ritcey
Review of stochastic processes. Communication system models. Channel noise and capacity. Optimum detection, modulation and coding, convolutional coders and decoders. Typical channels, random and fading channels. Waveform communication, optimum filters. Prerequisite: E E 505 or equivalent.

E E 507 Communication Theory II (3) Ritcey
Review of stochastic processes. Communication system models. Channel noise and capacity. Optimum detection, modulation and coding, convolutional coders and decoders. Typical channels, random and fading channels. Waveform communication, optimum filters. Prerequisite: E E 506 or equivalent.

E E 508 Stochastic Processes (3) Ritcey
Modeling and analysis of random processes encountered in engineering applications. Stationarity and ergodicity. Harmonic analysis, power spectral densities. Karhunen-Loeve expansions. Poisson, Gaussian, and Markov processes. Stochastic integrals and differential equations. Prerequisite: E E 505 or permission of instructor.

E E 510 Mathematical Foundations of Systems Theory (4) Mathematical foundations for system theory presented from an engineering viewpoint. Includes set theory; functions, inverse functions; metric spaces; finite dimensional linear spaces; linear operators on finite dimensional spaces; projections on Hilbert spaces. Applications to engineering systems stressed. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 510/A A 510/M E 510; A.

E E 511 Introduction to Statistical Learning (4) Covers classification and estimation of vector observations, including both parametric and nonparametric approaches. Includes classification with likelihood functions and general discriminant functions, density estimation, supervised and unsupervised learning, feature reduction, model selection, and performance estimation. Prerequisite: either E E 505 or CSE 515. Offered: W.

E E 512 Graphical Models in Pattern Recognition (4) Bayesian networks, Markov random fields, factor graphs, Markov properties, standard models as graphical models, graph theory (e.g., moralization and triangulation), probabilistic inference (including Pearl's belief propagation, Hugin, and Shafer-Shenoy), junction trees, dynamic Bayesian networks (including hidden Markov models), learning new models, models in practice. Prerequisite: E E 508; E E 511. Offered: Sp.

E E 514 Information Theory I (4) Includes entropy, mutual information, Shannon's source coding theorem, data compression to entropy limit, method of types, Huffman coding, Kraft inequality, arithmetic coding, Kolmogorov complexity, communication at channel capacity (channel coding), coding theory, introduction to modern statistical coding techniques, differential entropy, and Gaussian channels. Prerequisite: E E 505.

E E 515 Information Theory II (4) Includes advanced modern statistical coding techniques (statistical coding), advanced codes n graphs, source coding with errors (rate distortion), alternating minimization principles, channel coding with errors, network information theory, multiple description coding, and information theory in other areas including pattern recognition, bio-informatics, natural language processing, and computer science. Prerequisite: E E 514.

E E 516 Computer Speech Processing (4) Bilmes, Kirchhoff, Ostendorf Introduction to automatic speech processing. Overview of human speech production and perception. Fundamental theory in speech coding, synthesis and reproduction, as well as system design methodologies. Advanced topics include speaker and language identification and adaptation. Prerequisite: E E 505; E E 518.

E E 517 Statistical Language Processing (4) Bilmes, Kirchhoff, Ostendorf Introduction to major issues in natural language processing and human language technology, with emphasis on statistical approaches. Addresses topics in statistical parsing and tagging, dialogue systems, information extraction, and machine translation. Prerequisite: E E 505.

E E 518 Digital Signal Processing (4) Atlas
Digital representation of analog signals. Frequency domain and Z-transforms of digital signals and systems design of digital systems; IIR and FIR filter design techniques, fast Fourier transform algorithms. Sources of error in digital systems. Analysis of noise in digital systems. Prerequisite: knowledge of Fourier analysis techniques and graduate standing, or permission of instructor.

E E 519 Stochastic Analysis of Data From Physical Systems (4) Atlas Computer systems for acquisition and processing of stochastic signals. Calculation of typical descriptors of such random processes as correlation functions, spectral densities, probability densities. Interpretation of statistical measurements made on a variety of physical systems (e.g., electrical, mechanical, acoustic, nuclear). Lecture plus laboratory. Prerequisite: E E 505 or equivalent.

E E 520 Spectral Analysis of Time Series (4) Estimation of spectral densities for single and multiple time series. Nonparametric estimation of spectral density, cross-spectral density, and coherency for stationary time series, real and complex spectrum techniques. Bispectrum. Digital filtering techniques. Aliasing, prewhitening. Choice of lag windows and data windows. Use of the fast Fourier transform. The parametric autoregressive spectral density estimate for single and multiple stationary time series. Spectral analysis of nonstationary random processes and for randomly sampled processes. Techniques of robust spectral analysis. Prerequisite: one of STAT 342, STAT 390, STAT 481, or IND E 315. Offered: jointly with STAT 520.

E E 521 Multidimensional Signal Processing (3) Marks Multidimensional (MD) signals and systems, MD sampling theorem, sample dependence in higher dimensions, MD FIR filter design using windows and the McClellan transform, MD IIR filter stability and design. Current topics in MD signals and systems. Prerequisite: E E 442 or E E 518 or equivalent.

E E 524 Wavelets: Data Analysis, Algorithms, and Theory (3) Review of spectral analysis. Theory of continuous and discrete wavelets. Multiresolution analysis. Computation of discrete wavelet transform. Time-scale analysis. Wavelet packets. Statistical properties of wavelet signal extraction, smoothers. Estimation of wavelet variance. Offered: jointly with STAT 530; Sp.

E E 525 VLSI II (5) Sechen Analyzes how IC-based memory and datapath blocks are designed using static and dynamic CMOS technologies. Gives students extensive experience with industry-standard computer-aided design tools, including Cadence (Virtuoso, DRC, LVS) and Avanti (Hspice). Credit not allowed for both E E 477 and E E 525. Prerequisite: E E 476.

E E 526 VLSI III (4) Helms, Sechen, Soma Ultra-high speed digital logical families based on output prediction logic; high-speed division; input and output pad design; state-of-the-art latch and flip-flop design; clock distribution, including PLLs and DLLs; noise considerations in high-speed digital IC design. Prerequisite: E E 477 or E E 525.

E E 527 Solid-State Laboratory Techniques (4) Darling Principles and laboratory techniques used in solid-state electronics research. Basic familiarity with practices and equipment used on-campus. Laboratory safety; materials handling, storage and disposal; clean room use; photoresist characteristics; mounting, bonding, and probing; wet chemical etching; vacuum evaporation; patterning of metal films using photoresist. Extensive laboratory with limited enrollment. Prerequisite: graduate standing and permission of instructor.

E E 528 Physics and Modeling of VLSI

Fabrication (4) Physics of VLSI fabrication, emphasizing processing modeling and simulation. CMOS process, sequences, point defects and diffusion, ion implantation and annealing, film growth kinetics, deposition and etching, advanced photolithography. Process interactions and process integration. Extensive use of process simulation software. Prerequisite: either E E 486/MSE 467, E E 520/M E 504/MSE 504, or E E 527. Offered: jointly with MSE 528.

E E 529 Semiconductor Optics and Optical

Devices (4) Afromowitz, Yee Perturbations of energy states in semiconductors; direct and indirect transitions; absorption processes; optical constants; absorption spectroscopy; radiative and nonradiative transitions; processes occurring at p-n junctions; junction devices; LEDs and lasers, photovoltaics; self-electro-optic effect device; modern laser structures. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor.

E E 531 Semiconductor Devices and Device

Simulation (4) Darling, Lauritzen, Yee Physical principles in semiconductor devices. Generation, recombination, p-n junctions, MOS, metal-semiconductor and other interface structures. Carrier transport at low and high level injection levels. Device simulation used to demonstrate physical principles and basic device operation. Project using device simulation. Prerequisite: E E 482 or graduate standing.

E E 533 Photodetectors and Photodetection

(4) Afromowitz, Yee Includes both the device physics and signal processing aspects of photodetection. Photodiodes, photoconductors, photomultipliers, and solar cells are covered. Noise, signal to noise ratios and imaging considerations are also discussed. Prerequisite: E E 482 or graduate standing.

E E 534 Power Electronics (4) Detailed study of DC-to-AC inverters, pulse-width modulated and resonant DC-to-DC converter topologies; drive and protection circuits for efficient switching of semiconductor devices. Includes extensive computer-aided circuit simulation and power supply control. Prerequisite: graduate standing.

E E 536 Design of Analog Integrated Circuits and Systems (4)

(4) Helms, Soma Design of analog VLSI: specifications, design, simulation, layout. Covering CMOS and Bi CMOS technologies. Prerequisite: E E 433 or equivalent and graduate standing in electrical or computer engineering, or permission of instructor.

E E 537 Computation Methods for Circuit

Analysis and Simulation (3) Introduction to numerical algorithms and computer-aided techniques for the simulation of electronic circuits. Theoretical and practical aspects of important analyses: large-signal nonlinear DC, small-signal AC, nonlinear transient, and large-signal steady-state. Simulation concepts applied to the modeling and characterization of various electronic devices.

E E 538 Topics in Electronic Circuit Design

(1-5, max. 5) Topics of current interest in electronic circuit and system design. Course content varies from year to year, based on current professional interests of the faculty member in charge. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

E E 539 Advanced Topics in Solid-State

Electronics (1-5, max. 5) Lectures on discussions of topics of current interest in the field of solid-state electronics for advanced graduate students having adequate preparation in solid-state theory. Subject matter may vary according to the interests of students and faculty. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

E E 540 VLSI Testing (4)

(4) Soma VLSI testing and design-for-test techniques, covering digital systems, mixed analog-digital systems, integrated sensor systems, and radio-frequency systems. Projects include test algorithm design, testing of fabricated circuits, and parametric testing of state-of-the-art industry circuits. Prerequisite: either E E 477 or E E 525.

E E 542 Advanced Embedded Systems Design

(5) Peckol Studies advanced embedded system design principles and practices. Emphasizes formal design methodologies such as hardware-software co-design, investigates techniques for performance optimization, and examines distributed embedded systems. Prerequisite: E E 478. Offered: A.

E E 543 Models of Robot Manipulation (3)

Hannaford Mathematical models of arbitrary articulated robotic (or biological) arms and their application to realistic arms and tasks, including the homogeneous coordinate model of positioning tasks, the forward and inverse kinematic models, the Jacobian Matrix, and the recursive Newton-Euler dynamic model. Prerequisite: linear algebra and graduate standing or permission of instructor.

E E 544 Advanced Robot Manipulation (4)

Hannaford, Meldrum Continuation of the analysis of robot manipulation, considering kinematic redundancy, control of robot manipulators in contact with the environment, teleoperation, and grasping with multi-fingered hands. Students will perform a project and critique a research paper in the area of the project. Prerequisite: E E 543.

E E 545 Autonomous Multi-Robot Systems (4)

Design-oriented course in autonomous multi-robot systems. Wireless peer communication protocols, multi-robot control methodologies and computational issues. Laboratory exercises include design, construction, and testing of multiple autonomous mobile robots, which compete as a team at the end of the term. Prerequisite: either E E 462 or E E 463 or graduate student standing.

E E 546 Advanced Topics in Control System

Theory (1-5, max. 5) Topics of current interest in control system theory for advanced graduate students with adequate preparation in linear and nonlinear system theory. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered when adequate enrollment develops prior to close of advance registration.

E E 547 Linear Systems Theory (4)

Linearity, linearization, finite dimensionality, time-varying vs. time-invariant linear systems, interconnection of linear systems, functional/structural descriptions of linear systems, system zeros and invertibility, linear system stability, system norms, state transition, matrix exponentials, controllability and observability, realization theory. Prerequisite: either A A 447, E E 447 or M E 471. Offered: jointly with A A 547/M E 547.

E E 548 Linear Multivariable Control (3)

Introduction to MIMO systems, successive single loop design comparison, Lyapunov stability theorem, full state feedback controller design, observer design, LQR problem statement, design, stability analysis, and tracking design. LQG design, separation principle, stability robustness. Prerequisite: A A 547/E E 547/M E 547. Offered: jointly with A A 548/M E 548.

E E 549 Estimation and System Identification

(3) Fundamentals of state estimation for linear and nonlinear systems. Discrete and continuous systems. Probability and stochastic systems theory. Models with noise. Kalman-Bucy filters, extended Kalman filters, recursive estimation. Numerical issues in filter design and implementation. Prerequisite: E E 505 or AMATH 506 or STAT 506; recommended: 548 or A A 548. Offered: jointly with A A 549/M E 549.

E E 550 Nonlinear Optimal Control (3)

Calculus of variations for dynamical systems, definition of the dynamic optimization problem, constraints and Lagrange multipliers, the Pontryagin Maximum Principle, necessary conditions for optimality, the Hamilton-Jacobi-Bellman equation, singular arc problems, computational techniques for solution of the necessary conditions. Prerequisite: graduate standing; recommended: A A 548 or E E 548. Offered: jointly with A A 550/M E 550.

E E 551 Power System Protection (4)

Liu The protection of electric power systems from overcurrents and overvoltages. Analysis and design of overcurrents resulting from faults, lightning induced or otherwise, or from excessive loads or power swings. Analysis and design of overvoltages resulting from switching transients or lightning. Principal concern is with relays and lightning arrestors as protection means. Prerequisite: E E 455 or equivalent.

E E 552 Power Systems Dynamics and

Control (4) Damborg, El-Sharkawi Advanced computer modeling and analysis of power systems. Application of modern systems and control theories. Prerequisite: E E 351 and E E 455 or permission of instructor.

E E 553 Power System Economics (4)

Christie, Damborg, Liu Economic structure of power systems. Problem formulation, optimization methods and programming for economic analysis of power system operation and planning. Economic dispatch, load forecasting, unit commitment, interchange, planning and reliability analysis. Provides background to pursue advanced work in planning and operation. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor.

E E 554 Large Electric Energy Systems

Analysis (4) Christie, Liu Deals with problems whose solution depends upon the inversion of sparse matrices that occur in the planning and operational studies of large interconnected energy systems. Application studies include system model development, state estimation, and load flow. Prerequisite: E E 456 or permission of instructor.

E E 555 Fundamentals of Intelligent Systems

(4) Fundamentals and applications of intelligent systems and biologically inspired algorithms such as neural networks, evolutionary computations, swarm optimization and fuzzy systems. Solving complex engineering applications with a combination of these technologies as well as with more traditional approaches such as statistical system theories.

E E 559 Special Topics in Electrical Energy

Systems (1-5, max. 5) Topics of current interest in electrical power and energy devices and systems. Content varies from year to year, based on current professional interests of faculty member in charge. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

E E 562 Artificial Intelligence for Engineers (3) Shapiro Covers main areas of artificial intelligence (AI) without need for extensive prerequisites. Programming languages for AI; problem solving; representations; control strategies; searching strategies; predicate calculus; rule-based deduction; goal-directed planning; knowledge-based systems. Prerequisite: CSE 373 or equivalent.

E E 565 Computer-Communication Networks I (4) Network architectures and protocols; layered model; reliable transmission protocols at the data control layer; Transmission Control Protocols (TCP); routing algorithms; performance modeling, and analysis of packet-switched networks. Multi-access. Projects involving routing and multi-access principles. Prerequisite: E E 505 or equivalent.

E E 566 Computer-Communication Networks II (3) Local area, metropolitan area, satellite, and packet radio networks; routing algorithms for wide area networks; optimal design of packet-switched networks; congestion and flow control; fast packet switching; gigabit networks. Prerequisite: E E 565 or permission of instructor.

E E 567 Mobile Radio Networks (3) Wireless communication networks, including digital broadcasting, wireless LAN, wireless access networks and ultra wide band (UWB); OFDM modem design; MAC and RLP; TCP/UDP over wireless; cross-layer protocol optimization; radio network planning. Prerequisite: E E 506; E E 565.

E E 568 Image Processing Computer Systems (4) Kim All components of digital image-processing computer systems. Two-dimensional filtering and optimal filter design as well as basic image processing operations. Selected advanced image processing topics. Individual student project. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with BIOEN 568.

E E 570 Manifolds and Geometry for Systems and Control (3) Morgansen Introduction to fundamentals of calculus on manifolds and group theory with applications in robotics and control theory. Topics include: manifolds, tangent spaces and bundles, Lie groups and algebras, coordinate versus coordinate-free representations. Applications from physics, robotics, and control theory. Offered: jointly with A A 570 and M E 570; W; even years.

E E 571 High Frequency Circuits and Antennas: Computation of Fields and Waves (4) Planar microstrip structures are high frequency circuits and antennas used in communication, aerospace and computer industries. Examines the computation of fields and waves in such structures. How to calculate circuit parameters and radiation characteristics. Structures studied include microstrip lines, coupled lines, antennas, resonators, and discontinuities. Prerequisite: E E 482, E E 572, or equivalent.

E E 572 Electromagnetic Theory and Applications I (4) Electromagnetic waves in layered media; complex waves, leaky and slow waves, waves in periodic structures, optical fibers, ionosphere and other guiding structures; transients and dispersive media; waveguides and cavities; beam waves; eigenfunctions and eigenvalues. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor.

E E 573 Electromagnetic Computations and Applications I (4) Tsang Fundamentals of computational electromagnetics, method of moments, integral equations, basis functions, iterative methods, periodic structures and Green's Functions finite difference time domain method, Yee's lattice, absorbing boundary conditions, variational principles, and finite element method. Applications in antennas, waveguides, and scattering problems. Prerequisite: E E 572 or permission of instructor.

E E 574 Electromagnetic Computations and Applications II (4) Tsang Current topics in computational electromagnetics, fast multipole multilevel method, sparse matrix canonical grid method, wavelet based methods, recursive method, spectral time domain method. Applications in large scale problems such as array antennas, radar cross section, rough surface scattering, and dense media scattering. Prerequisite: E E 573 or permission of instructor.

E E 575 Waves in Random Media (4) Tsang Propagation and scattering of electromagnetic, optical, and acoustic waves in turbulence and random media, scattering from rough surfaces and randomly distributed particles. Atmospheric turbulence, fog, rain, smog, clear-air turbulence detection, remote sensing, terrain scattering, scattering from blood cells and tissues, scattering by ocean waves. Applications to atmospheric sciences, bioengineering, geoscience, ocean engineering. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor.

E E 576 Computer Vision (3) Overview of computer vision, emphasizing the middle ground between image processing and artificial intelligence. Image formation, preattentive image processing, boundary and region representations, and case studies of vision architectures. Prerequisite: Solid knowledge of linear algebra, good programming skills, CSE or E E major or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with CSE 576.

E E 577 Special Topics in Computer Vision (3) Topics vary and may include vision for graphics, probabilistic vision and learning, medical imaging, content-based image and video retrieval, robot vision, or 3D object recognition. Prerequisite: CSE/E E 576 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with CSE 577.

E E 578 Optimization in System Sciences (3) Mesbahi Covers convex sets, separation theorems, theorem of alternatives and their applications, convex analysis, convex functions, conjugation, subgradients, convex optimization, duality and applications, linear and semi-definite programming. Linear matrix inequalities, optimization algorithms, applications in system theory and control, bilinear, rank minimization, optimization software. Recommended: A A/M E/E E 547. Offered: jointly with A A/M E 578; W.

E E 579 Advanced Topics in Electromagnetics, Optics, and Acoustics (1-5, max. 5) Topics of current interest in electromagnetics, optics, and acoustics. Content varies from year to year, based on current professional interests of faculty member in charge. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

E E 580 Geometric Methods for Non-Linear Control Systems (3) Morgansen Analysis and design of nonlinear control systems focusing on differential geometric methods. Topics include controllability, observability, feedback linearization, invariant distributions, and local coordinate transformations. Emphasis on systems evolving on Lie groups and linearly uncontrollable systems. Prerequisite: A A 570/E E 580/M E 580. Offered: jointly with A A 580/M E 580; Sp; even years.

E E 581 Digital Control (3) Chizeck Sampled-data systems, and z-transform. Frequency domain properties. Sampling D/A and A/D conversion. Controller design via discrete-time equivalents, direct methods, state feedback and observers. Quantization effects. LQR control and introduction to LQG optimal control. Prerequisite: either E E/A A/ or M E 548. Offered: jointly with A A/M E 581; W.

E E 582 Introduction to Discrete Event Systems (3) Berg Modeling DES with automata and Petri nets. Languages. State estimation and diagnostics. Control specifications. Feedback control. Dealing with uncontrollability and unobservability. Dealing with blocking. Timed automata and Petri nets. Prerequisite: A A 447/E E 447/ M E 471. Offered: jointly with A A 582/M E 582; even years; Sp.

E E 583 Nonlinear Control Systems (3) Analysis of nonlinear systems and nonlinear control system design. Phase plane analysis. Lyapunov stability analysis. Describing functions. Feedback linearization. Introduction to variable structure control. Prerequisite: A A/E E 447/M E 471. Offered: jointly with M E/A A 583; odd years; Sp.

E E 585 System Identification and Adaptive Control (3) Theory and methods of system identification and adaptive control. Identification of linear-in-parameter systems, using recursive LS and extended LS methods; model order selection. Indirect and direct adaptive control. Controller synthesis, transient and stability properties. Prerequisite: either E E 505 or AMATH 506 or STAT 506; E E 548/A A 548/M E 548. Offered: jointly with M E 585/A A 585.

E E 586 Digital Video Coding Systems (4) Sun Introduction to digital video coding algorithms and systems. Theoretical and practical aspects of important topics on digital video coding algorithms, motion estimation, video coding standards, systems issues, and visual communications. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor.

E E 587 Multimedia Compression and Networking (4) Hwang Addresses four major components of multimedia: 1) data compression of multimedia (e.g., speech, audio, image, and video); 2) quality of service (QoS) issues for data transmission over IP; 3) multimedia streaming and conferencing applications; and 4) intellectual property management and protection (IPMP) of multimedia contents. Co-requisite: E E 518.

E E 589 Advanced Topics in Sensors and Sensor Systems (3) Topics of current interest in sensors and sensor systems. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

E E 590 Advanced Topics in Digital Computers (2-5, max. 15) Lectures or discussions of topics of current interest in the field of digital systems. Subject matter may vary from year to year. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

E E 591 Robotics and Control Systems Colloquium (1, max. 3) Colloquium on current topics in robotics and control systems analysis and design. Topics presented by invited speakers as well as on-campus speakers. Emphasis on the cross-disciplinary nature of robotics and control systems. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with A A/CHEM E/M E 591.

E E 592 Electrical Engineering Research Survey (1) Weekly presentations on current research activities by members of the department. Credit/no credit only.

E E 593 Feedforward Control (3) Devasia Design feedforward controllers for precision output tracking; inversion-based control of non-minimum-phase systems; effect of plant uncertainty on feedforward control; design of feedforward controllers for applications such as vertical take off and landing aircraft, flexible structures and piezo-actuators. Prerequisite: A A 547/E E 547/M E 547. Offered: jointly with A A/M E 593; Sp; even years.

E E 594 Robust Control (3) Basic foundations of linear analysis and control theory, model realization and reduction, balanced realization and truncation, stabilization problem, coprime factorizations, Youla parameterization, matrix inequalities, H-infinity and H2 control, KYP lemma, uncertain systems, robust H2, integral quadratic constraints, linear parameter varying synthesis, applications of robust control. Offered: jointly with A A 594/M E 594; odd years; Sp.

E E 595 Advanced Topics in Communication Theory (1-5, max. 5) Extension of 507, 508, 518, 519, 520. Material differs each year, covering such topics as: detection theory, decision theory, game theory, adaptive communication systems, nonlinear random processes. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

E E 596 Advanced Topics in Signal and Image Processing (2-5, max. 5) Topics of current interest in signal and image processing. Content may vary from offering to offering. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

E E 597 Networked Dynamics Systems (3) Provides an overview of graph-theoretic techniques that are instrumental for studying dynamic systems that coordinate their states over a signal-exchange network. Topics include network models, network properties, dynamics over networks, formation control, biological networks, observability, controllability, and performance measures over networks. Prerequisite: A A 547/E E 547/M E 547. Offered: jointly with A A 597/ME 597.

E E 599 Selected Topics in Electrical Engineering (*) Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

E E 600 Independent Study or Research (*)

E E 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*)

through team-based hands-on activities. Explores the profession of industrial engineering. Discusses resources available to Industrial Engineering students at the University of Washington. Offered: Sp.

IND E 250 Fundamentals of Engineering Economy (4) NW Basics of industrial cost analysis and accounting. Application of interest computations to engineering decision making. Analysis of engineering alternatives based on use of interest computations, valuations, depreciation, and cost estimates. Offered: ASp.

IND E 315 Probability and Statistics for Engineers (3) NW Application of probability theory and statistics to engineering problems, distribution theory and discussion of particular distributions of interest in engineering, statistical estimation and data analysis. Illustrative statistical applications may include quality control, linear regression, and analysis of engineering data sets. Prerequisite: either MATH 136 or MATH 307. Offered: A/WSpS.

IND E 316 Design of Experiments and Regression Analysis (4) NW Kapur Introduction to the analysis of data from planned experiments. Analysis of variance for multiple factors and applications of orthogonal arrays and linear graphs for fractional factorial designs to product and process design optimization. Regression analysis with applications in engineering. Prerequisite: IND E 315. Offered: jointly with STAT 316.; W.

IND E 321 Statistical Quality Control (4) Mastrangelo Design of quality control and assurance systems. Statistical Process Control (SPC) design and implementation. Control charts for attributes and variables. Process capability analysis and process improvement techniques. Statistical tolerance design. Quality management and recent developments. Prerequisite: IND E 315. Offered: W.

IND E 337 Introduction to Manufacturing Systems (4) Storch Description of manufacturing systems. Includes discussion of current trends in manufacturing. Introduces process flow analysis, manufacturing organizations including job-shop, assembly lines, and group technology, manufacturing inventory philosophies (just-in-time, MRP, OPT), work environment, and work simplification. .

IND E 351 Human Factors in Design (4) Engineering considerations of the abilities and limitations of the human aspect in the design of operational systems and components. Functional, psychological, physiological, and environmental considerations. Offered: Sp.

IND E 410 Linear and Network Programming (4) Zabinsky Modeling and optimization of linear network problems. Topics include: optimization of linear systems, mathematical model design, simplex method, primal-dual algorithms, parametric programming, goal programming, network problems and algorithms, and PERT/CPM. Prerequisite: either MATH 136 or MATH 308; CSE 142. Offered: A.

IND E 411 Stochastic Models and Decision Analysis (4) Zabinsky Stochastic systems analysis to industrial engineering problems. Topics include: Markov chains, queueing theory, queueing applications, and decision analysis. Prerequisite: IND E 315; IND E 410. Offered: W.

IND E 412 Integer and Dynamic Programming (4) Ghate, Zabinsky Modeling and optimization of problems and dynamic programming approach to optimization. Topics include: integer programming formulation techniques, linear and Lagrangian relaxation, branch-and-bound and cutting-plane methods, integer programming applications, and dynamic programming. Prerequisite: IND E 411. Offered: Sp.

IND E 424 Simulation (4) Beamon Discrete-event simulation methodology emphasizing model formulation and construction with modern simulation languages and environments, statistical basis for evaluating model results, design and management of simulation projects. Application to manufacturing, retail, and service industries. Prerequisite: IND E 337, which may be taken concurrently; IND E 411. Offered: W.

IND E 426 Reliability Engineering and System Safety (4) Kapur Reliability and system safety measures. Life distributions and their applications in reliability. System reliability models. Design by reliability and probabilistic design. Reliability and safety analysis through FMECA and FTA. Reliability estimation and measurement by testing for binomial, exponential, and Weibull distributions. Prerequisite: IND E 315. Offered: Sp.

IND E 430 Manufacturing Scheduling and Inventory (4) Beamon Manufacturing scheduling and inventory control for different work organizations. Coverage of workforce scheduling, job- and flow-shop scheduling and order release, production line balancing, MRP II, Lean Production, and data management. Particular attention to computer-based aspects of management and scheduling for manufacturing and service industries. Prerequisite: IND E 337; IND E 410, both of which may be taken concurrently. Offered: A.

IND E 433 Introduction to Computational Manufacturing (4) Fundamentals in computer aided design/manufacturing. Visualization, 3-D wireframes, curves and surfaces, solid modeling. Numerical control machining, robotics, and assembly. Prerequisite: IND E 337; IND E 410. Offered: W.

IND E 439 Plant Layout and Material Handling (4) Beamon Design of new or expanding industrial facilities. Consideration of work organization and layout. Study of basic design of plant systems, including plumbing, electrical, HVAC, illumination, acoustics, and waste handling. In depth coverage of material handling system design and equipment choices. Prerequisite: IND E 410 which may be taken concurrently. Offered: A.

IND E 455 User Interface Design (4) Furness Design oriented to cover fundamentals of user interface design; models on human computer interaction, software psychology, input devices, usability, cognitive and perceptual aspects of human-computer interaction, advanced interface, and research methodologies are discussed. Offered: jointly with T C 455; A.

IND E 470 Systems Engineering (4) Concepts of system approach, system hierarchies, functional analysis, requirements, trade studies, and other concepts used to define and integrate complex engineering systems. Introduction to risk analysis and reliability, failure modes and effects analysis, writing specifications, and lean manufacturing. Offered: jointly with A A 470.

Industrial Engineering

IND E 101 Introduction to Industrial Engineering (1) I&S Examines the basic concepts and methods of industrial engineering

IND E 494 Design in the Manufacturing Firm (4) Storch Engineering design in manufacturing firms is presented. Topics include design methodology, concurrent engineering, and project management. Focus on the relationship between product design and manufacturing (design for production and assembly). Prerequisite: IND E 337; T C 333. Offered: W.

IND E 495 Industrial Engineering Design (4) Storch Capstone senior design project involving identification and synthesis of industrial engineering skills. Students apply their knowledge of industrial engineering to actual industrial problems. Prerequisite: IND E 494; IND E 351. Offered: Sp.

IND E 496 Technology-Based Entrepreneurship (3) Concentrates on hands-on aspects of innovation and entrepreneurial enterprise development. Examines relationships between innovation, iterative prototyping, and marketing testing. Students identify market opportunities, create new technology-based products and services to satisfy customer needs, and construct and test prototypes. Prerequisite: IND E 250. Offered: jointly with M E 496.

IND E 498 Special Topics in Industrial Engineering (1-5, max. 9) Lecture and/or laboratory.

IND E 499 Special Projects (2-5, max. 9) .

IND E 513 Linear Optimization Models in Engineering (3) Ghate, Zabinsky Advanced formulation techniques to expand applications of linear programming to large-scale models. Appreciation of role of optimization models in engineering applications through introduction of techniques such as decomposition. Individual engineering projects. Prerequisite: IND E 410 and MATH 308 or permission of instructor.

IND E 515 Fundamentals of Optimization (5) Maximization and minimization of functions of finitely many variables subject to constraints. Basic problem types and examples of applications; linear, convex, smooth, and nonsmooth programming. Optimality conditions. Saddlepoints and dual problems. Penalties, decomposition. Overview of computational approaches. Prerequisite: linear algebra and advanced calculus. Offered: jointly with AMATH 515/MATH 515.

IND E 516 Applications of Optimization in Engineering Design (3) Zabinsky Discussion of issues arising in applications of optimization to engineering design. Emphasis on formulating problems and selecting appropriate solution techniques. Random search methods for problems otherwise computationally intractable. Individual projects in engineering optimal design. Prerequisite: AMATH/MATH/IND E 515 and MATH 328 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with AMATH 510.

IND E 518 Seminars on Advances in Manufacturing and Management (1) Ramulu Current topics and advances made in manufacturing and management. Topics presented by invited speakers from academia and industry. Emphasis on the multidisciplinary nature of manufacturing and management Offered: jointly with M E 518 AWSp.

IND E 521 Quality Control in Manufacturing (3) Matrangelo Design of quality control systems in manufacturing. Use of advanced statistical process controls, sampling inspection techniques, process capability, and other statistical tools. Also includes vendor sourcing and control tools, methods for establishing specifications and tolerances, quality function deployment, and other quality control techniques. Prerequisite: graduate standing.

IND E 524 Robust Design and Quality Engineering (3) Kapur Introduction to robust design and quality engineering. Applications of design of experiments for product and process design optimization. Experimental design using orthogonal arrays and linear graphs. System models using Chebyshev's orthogonal polynomials. Robustness in design and quality improvement for complex systems including Taguchi methods for quality engineering. Prerequisite: IND E 316 or equivalent.

IND E 526 Reliability in Product Design and Testing (3) Kapur Product assurance including reliability and quality engineering. Reliability design, measurement, and optimization. Advanced topics in probabilistic design. Design of reliability test plans and analysis of test data. Design of reliability programs and their management. Prerequisite: graduate standing.

IND E 531 Computer Integrated Manufacturing (3) Design and analysis of advanced manufacturing systems from a strategic as well as technological perspective. Focus on information generation, management, and coordination aspects of complex manufacturing organizations. Examination of system integration alternatives and consequences for relationships with customers and suppliers. Prerequisite: IND E 431 or equivalent. Offered: jointly with M E 505.

IND E 533 Computational Methods in Design and Manufacturing (3) Sampling size and accuracy: uniform, random, and Hammersley. Approximation of curves and surfaces. Optimization: minima and maxima. Search and gradient techniques. Line integral for geodesic and optimal path. Offered: jointly with M E 507.

IND E 535 Engineering Simulation (3) Beamon Advanced applications of discrete event, continuous, and combined discrete-continuous simulation modeling, detailed examination of fundamental computer programming concepts underlying the design and development of simulation languages, variance reduction techniques, and output analysis for various engineering, service systems, and manufacturing applications. Prerequisite: IND E 424 or equivalent.

IND E 537 Introduction to Manufacturing Systems (3) Storch Description of manufacturing systems. Includes discussion of current trends in manufacturing, especially lean principles. Introduces process flow analysis, manufacturing organizations including job-shop, assembly lines, and group technology, manufacturing inventory philosophies (just-in-time, MRP, OPT), work environment, and work simplification. Offered: jointly with ENV H 537; A.

IND E 538 Large Assembly Manufacturing Systems (3) Storch Presents principles of group technology, zone construction, product-oriented work breakdown structure. Application to shipbuilding, aircraft, rail-car, and truck manufacture. Techniques of production planning, scheduling and control, organization, and plant layout, as well as the role of the computer, are studied in detail. Prerequisite: graduate standing.

IND E 543 Virtual Interface Technology (1/3, max. 3) Furness Explores advanced concepts and technologies for interfacing humans to complex machines, with focus on virtual interfaces. Interface design principles reviewed from psychological and technological perspectives. Hardware, software, and mindware aspects of virtual interfaces investigated. Applications postulated and designed. Prerequisite: graduate standing in College of Engineering or permission of instructor.

IND E 544 Virtual World Development (3) Furness Software implementation, physiological and cognitive constraints, and the mathematics and philosophy of inclusion. Development of software tools, editing and interaction techniques, disposition of virtual world entities, nature of space, situated knowledge, divergent models for multiple participants, experiential mathematics, cyberspace. Cultural, legal, moral, ethical issues. Prerequisite: IND E 543 or permission of instructor.

IND E 545 User-Centered Design (4) Turns Explores the user-centered design paradigm from a broad perspective, emphasizing how user research and prototype assessment can be integrated into different phases of the design process. Students learn to think like a user-centered designer and carry out activities that are key to user-centered design. Offered: jointly with T C 518.

IND E 551 Elements of Dynamic Enterprise Modeling (3) Introduces practical techniques for modeling, analyzing, and implementing real-time enterprise control systems in application area such as manufacturing, supply chain flow control, and logistics decision schemas. Uses basic mathematical tools supported with a symbolic algebra software tool. Requires basic computer skills. Offered: A.

IND E 552 Introduction to Real-Time Enterprise Control (3) Provides students with principles, designs, techniques and algorithms for synthesizing real-time control of enterprise processes, using hybrid systems theory. Application areas include supply chain flow control, logistics decision schemas, transportation systems, dynamic reconciliation procedures, minimum cost production, and maximum profit price/ordering strategies. Prerequisite: IND E 551, or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

IND E 553 Modeling and Automation of Enterprise Processes (3) Third course in a three-course sequence. Provides architecture, algorithms and procedures for designing and implementing enterprise control policies for automating and enhancing enterprise functionality. Emphasis on hybrid system theories. Prerequisite: IND E 552, or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

IND E 564 Recognition of Health and Safety Problems in Industry (2) Develops skills in occupational health and safety hazard recognition in a variety of important northwest industries. Focuses on process understanding and hazard recognition skills during walk-through inspections of several local facilities, stressing a multidisciplinary approach. Offered: jointly with ENV H 564.

IND E 566 Introduction to Ergonomics (3) Basic principles of ergonomics in work environment applied to problems of worker and management. Topics include measurement of physical work capacity, problems of fatigue and heat stress, applied biomechanics, worker-machine interactions and communication, design of displays and controls. Prerequisite: basic human physiology or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with ENV H 566/NSG 508; odd years; Sp.

IND E 567 Applied Occupational Health and Safety (3) Camp, Johnson Application of occupational safety and health principles. Student teams perform evaluations, assess production methods/processes and exposures, health and safety procedures and programs, and develop engineering and administrative controls. Students perform on a consulting project with a local company including budgeting, project reporting, and presentation. Offered jointly with ENV H 559 and NSG 505. Offered: Sp.

IND E 569 Occupational Biomechanics (4) Lectures and laboratories address human occupational biomechanical and physiological limits and measurement, analysis, and modeling techniques that are used by ergonomists for design of safe, healthful, and productive physical work. Prerequisite: IND E 566 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with ENV H 569; even years, Sp.

IND E 570 Supply Chain Systems (3) Beamon Develops concepts related to the design, evaluation, and performance of supply chain systems through an exploration of contemporary practice and research, focusing on current issues, analytical frameworks, and case studies. Prerequisite: IND E 315 or equivalent.

IND E 591 Seminar (1-) Credit/no credit only. Topics of current interest in industrial engineering. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Industrial Engineering or permission of instructor. : A.

IND E 592 Seminar (1-) Credit/no credit only. Topics of current interest in industrial engineering. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Industrial Engineering or permission of instructor. : W.

IND E 593 Seminar (-1) Credit/no credit only. Topics of current interest in industrial engineering. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Industrial Engineering or permission of instructor. : Sp.

IND E 599 Special Topics in Industrial Engineering (1-5, max. 9) Prerequisite: permission of supervisor.

IND E 600 Independent Study or Research (*)

IND E 700 Master's Thesis (*)

IND E 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*)

Materials Science and Engineering

MSE 170 Fundamentals of Materials Science (4) NW Fundamental principles of structure and properties of materials utilized in practice of engineering. Properties of materials are related to atomic, molecular, crystalline structure. Metals, ceramics, multiphase systems, and polymeric materials. Relationships between structure and electrical, mechanical, thermal, chemical properties. For advanced freshmen and sophomores. Prerequisite: either CHEM 150, CHEM 152, or CHEM 155. Offered: AWSpS.

MSE 298 Introduction to Modern Materials (1) Materials and advances in materials are at the core of a large number of significant technological advances. Seminar format highlights processing, properties, and uses of a broad class of materials for a variety of applications, each introduced by a faculty member from the department. Offered: Sp.

MSE 310 Introduction to Materials Science and Engineering (3) Introduces the materials field to new department majors. Examples are drawn from ceramics, metals, polymers, electronic materials and composites. Structure-properties-manufacturing-design relationships are emphasized. Materials selection design project. Introduction to research. Offered: A.

MSE 311 Integrated Junior Laboratory I (2) Laboratory experimental techniques including writing, literature search, research planning and computer applications. Optical microscopy experiments, sample preparations, X-ray equipment, and X-ray diffraction analysis of materials. Offered: A.

MSE 312 Integrated Junior Laboratory II (2) Materials processing related laboratory experiments, including powder synthesis, redox reactions of particulate materials, grain growth, recrystallization, phase transformation, green tape processing, particle interaction and rheology, slip and tape casting and dry processing, sol-gel processing, polymer processing, sintering behavior, metal welding, and heat treatment. Offered: W.

MSE 313 Integrated Junior Laboratory III (2) Kinetics and phase transformation related laboratory experiments, including solidification. Mechanical properties related laboratory experiments, including stress-strain behavior of materials and elastic modulus of materials, effect of work hardening on stress strain behavior, and effect of surface condition of the strength of glass. Offered: Sp.

MSE 321 Thermodynamics and Phase Equilibrium (4) Phase equilibria in materials systems of one, two and three components. Determination of phase diagrams. Quantitative applications of thermodynamics to systems of interest to materials scientists; detained review of thermodynamic laws and principles. Offered: A.

MSE 322 Kinetics and Microstructural Evolution (4) Applications of thermodynamic and kinetic principles to the study of transport processes, transformations and reactions in engineering materials. Thermal activation and rates of processes, nucleation and growth, phase transformations, grain growth, sintering, among other processes. Prerequisite: MSE 321. Offered: W.

MSE 331 Crystallography and Structure (3) Theory and practice of x-ray diffraction with applications to materials sitemaps. Principles of crystal symmetry, lattice systems, and stereographic projections. Bragg's law of diffraction, Laue conditions, diffraction by X-rays, single crystal and powder diffraction techniques and their applications to lattice, phase, strain, and texture analyses. Prerequisite: MSE 170. Offered: A.

MSE 333 Materials Characterization (3) Principles and applications of analytical techniques, imaging, diffraction and spectroscopy for materials characterization including crystal structures, texture formation, phase analysis. Nano- and micro-structures of materials including defects and second phases, chemistry, bonding, compositions of materials. Demonstrations and lab experiments involving light scattering and diffraction techniques. Prerequisite: MSE 170; MSE 331. Offered: S.

MSE 342 Materials Processing I (3) Provides students with the fundamentals and applications of metal and alloy processing techniques. Focuses on relationships between the processing fundamentals and practice, and between processing, microstructure, and properties. Ferrous and non-ferrous metal and alloy processing are discussed. Prerequisite: MSE 170; MSE 322. Offered: W.

MSE 351 Electron Theory of Engineering Materials (3) Introduction to elementary solid-state concepts in materials, free electrons, and band theories. Principles to conduction in metals, insulators, semiconductors, and applications of semiconductors and devices. Prerequisite: MSE, 170, MSE 331. Offered: W.

MSE 352 Functional Properties of Materials I (3) Introduction to thermal properties, electrical (ionic and polaron) conduction and optical properties, including origins of color, interaction of light wave with materials, lasers and optoelectronics. Focuses on the relations between physical properties and chemical composition, crystal structure and microstructure. Prerequisite: MSE 351. Offered: S.

MSE 362 Mechanical Behavior of Materials I (3) Influence of structure on the mechanical properties materials. Definition of different mechanical properties and experimental techniques to measure them. Elastic, viscoelastic and plastic deformation. Introduction to fracture. Prerequisite: MSE 170. Offered: Sp.

MSE 421 Case Studies in Thermodynamics (3) Applications of thermodynamics to the steady state. Statistical interpretation of entropy. Heterogeneous equilibria. Thermodynamics of solutions. Defects in solids and thermodynamics of surfaces. Prerequisite: MSE 321, MSE 322. Offered: A.

MSE 431 Failure Analysis and Durability of Materials (3) Treats the areas of failure analysis and durability in a wide range of materials applications. Reviews concepts in mechanical and environmental behavior of materials. Includes instruments available to engineers, both destructive and nondestructive, and case studies. Prerequisite: MSE 333; MSE 342; MSE 362.

MSE 442 Materials Processing II (3) Develops a basic understanding of both engineering and science aspects of ceramic processing. Fundamentals of powder processing and characterization, green body formation, sintering, microstructural development and properties. Prerequisite: MSE 342. Offered: A.

MSE 443 Extractive Process Analysis (3) Extractive processes analyzed by the methods of material and energy balances, computational thermodynamics, process kinetics and reactor theory. Introduction to process optimization. Prerequisite: MSE 321. Offered: S.

MSE 452 Functional Properties of Materials II (4) Dielectric materials including ferroelectrics, piezoelectrics and pyroelectrics, magnetic properties, high temperature superconductivity, shape memory materials. Detailed discussion on relations of these properties with atomic and crystal structures, and applications. Prerequisite: MSE 351, MSE 352. Offered: W.

MSE 462 Mechanical Behavior of Materials II (4) Influence of structure on the mechanical properties of materials. Stress-strain tensors and response of materials to multiaxial loads, Effect of symmetry on elastic properties; spring dashpot analogs for viscoelasticity; strengthening mechanisms and continuum plasticity; failure probability and toughening mechanisms; creep, fatigue and stress corrosion cracking. Prerequisite: MSE 362. Offered: W.

MSE 463 Corrosion and Wear of Materials (4) Mechanisms of corrosion, thermodynamics, kinetics of corrosion. Passivity; Pourbaix diagrams; corrosion rate testing and measurements; forms of corrosion; effects of alloy and environmental variables; corrosion testing. Wear mechanisms: adhesive, abrasive, erosive. Fretting; surface roughness, wear testing. Coatings for corrosion and wear protection. Offered: S.

MSE 471 Introduction to Polymer Science and Engineering (3) Introduction of preparative methods of polymers; physical chemistry of polymeric molecules in solution, liquid and solid phase; thermodynamics of polymers; methods of characterization; mechanical properties; fabrication techniques; properties of commercial polymers. Recommended: one quarter of physical chemistry and one quarter of organic chemistry. Offered: A.

MSE 473 Noncrystalline State (4) Chemistry and physics of inorganic glass and amorphous semiconductors; structure, properties, and processing of vitreous materials. Prerequisite: MSE 170; MSE 321; MSE 331. Offered: S.

MSE 475 Introduction to Composite Materials (4) Microstructural design and processing of composite materials; polymeric, metallic, and ceramic matrices; fibers and fiber-reinforced composites, thermal, mechanical, and electrical properties. Recommended: basic background in materials science and engineering (level of MSE 170), mechanics of materials (level of CEE 220), and linear algebra and familiarity with matrix operations (level of MATH 308 or 318). Offered: A.

MSE 477 High Temperature Materials (4) Chemical and mineralogical composition; processing methods; thermal, physical, and chemical properties and tests; application in high-temperature processes. Prerequisite: MSE 310, MSE 321.

MSE 481 Science and Technology of Nanostructures (3) Comprehensive introduction to the developing field of nanoscience and nanotechnology. Includes materials properties as a function of length-scale and dimensionality, applications in medicine/biology, electronics, magnetism, and electro-mechanical systems. Cooperative learning approaches involving student participation with team assignments, class activities, lectures, and laboratory visits. Offered: W.

MSE 484 Materials Chemistry (3) NW Overview of basic principles, techniques, and applications associated with solid materials. Topics include description of crystals, examples of crystal structures, structural analysis, band structures of solid materials, preparation of materials, materials for microelectronics, and materials for information technology. Prerequisite: CHEM 453 or CHEM 455. Offered: jointly with CHEM 484; A.

MSE 485 Introduction to Electronic Packaging and Materials (3) The governing equations of transport phenomena: mechanical, thermal, and electromagnetic behavior, thermomechanical and electromagnetic properties of packaging materials, electromagnetic characteristics of circuit and transmission lines, thermal management and reliability analysis of packaging, interconnect and material processing technology. Prerequisite: MSE 170. Offered: jointly with M E 485; A.

MSE 486 Fundamentals of Integrated Circuit Technology (3) Processing physics, chemistry and technology, including evaporation, sputtering, epitaxial growth, diffusion, ion implantation, laser annealing, oxidation, chemical vapor deposition, photoresists. Design considerations for bipolar and MOS devices, materials and process characterization. Future trends. Prerequisite: either E E 482 or MSE 351. Offered: jointly with E E 486; W.

MSE 487 Laboratory in Electronic Packaging and Materials (1) Laboratory course to accompany M E 485 Experiments related to design, processing and reliability of electronic packaging used in consumer electronics. Corequisite: MSE 485. Offered: jointly with M E 487; A.

MSE 489 Integrated Circuit Laboratory (1) Hands-on experience in the building of a PMOS device, complete with oxidation, diffusion, photolithography, etching, metallization, and testing. Prerequisite: E E 486/MSE 486, which may be taken concurrently. Offered: jointly with E E 489; W.

MSE 491 Design in Materials Engineering I (2) Integration of technical materials engineering concepts with professional components related to materials engineering. Reviews materials design, teamwork, leadership, engineering economics, and ethics. Reports on the professional components important to the senior thesis and begin a two-quarter, team design project on materials engineering. Prerequisite: MSE 313. Offered: W.

MSE 492 Design in Materials Engineering II (2) Integration of technical materials engineering concepts with professional components related to materials engineering. Reviews process design, manufacturability, and quality control. Complete the two-quarter team design project on materials engineering. Prerequisite: MSE 491. Offered: Sp.

MSE 497 Undergraduate Research (1-5, max. 12) Research in materials under faculty supervision other than the MSE senior project. Cannot be used toward the technical elective requirements in the MSE major. Credit/no credit only.

MSE 498 Special Topics (1-5, max. 8) Special topics in materials science and engineering offered as a course with lectures, conferences, or laboratory. Offered: AWSpS.

MSE 499 Special Project (*, max. 5) Materials science and engineering field or laboratory investigations in group or individual setting. Written report required. Offered: AWSpS.

MSE 501 Advanced Processing of Inorganic Materials (3) Discusses advanced processes of inorganic materials including metals, ceramics and electronic materials, such as high temperature processing, sintering, solidification, single crystal growth from liquid, and vapor phase deposition. Emphasizes both the fundamentals and practical approaches of these processing techniques. Offered: even years; A.

MSE 502 Sol-Gel Processing (3) Fundamentals of colloid science and the physics and chemistry of the sol-gel process. Emphasizes the synthesis and applications of various materials, such as multi-component oxides, nano-composites, meso- and microporous materials, organic/inorganic hybrids, and biomaterials that have important applications in both leading technologies and modern industries. Offered: odd years; A.

MSE 504 Introduction to Microelectro Mechanical Systems (4) Theoretical and practical aspects in design, analysis, and fabrication of MEMS devices. Fabrication processes, including bulk and surface micromachining. MEMS design and layout. MEMS CAD tools. Mechanical and electrical design. Applications such as micro sensors and actuators, or chemical and thermal transducers, recent advances. Offered: jointly with E E 502/M E 504; A.

MSE 510 Bonding, Crystallography, and Symmetry-Related Properties of Materials (3) Rigorous introduction to the fundamentals of bonding, symmetry, crystallography, and related properties. Quantum mechanical foundation of cohesion and properties of solids. Geometric approach to understanding symmetry elements in 2-D and 3-D, including point groups, space groups, stereographic projections, and bravais lattices. Tensor properties of crystals related to crystallography and symmetry. Offered: A.

MSE 512 Experimental Transmission Electron Microscopy (3) Fundamentals of electron optics as applied to microscopy; applications of contrast theories and electron diffraction with emphasis on defects and multiphase structures in crystalline solids. Prerequisite: MSE 510. Offered: W.

MSE 513 Transmission Electron Microscopy Laboratory (2) One four-hour laboratory and one two-hour discussion/demonstration per week; metallic, ceramic, electronic biological sample preparation techniques; diffraction, imaging, and spectroscopy techniques in electron microscopy. Prerequisite: MSE 512 which may be taken concurrently. Offered: W.

MSE 515 Advanced Transmission Electron Microscopy (3) Principles of image formation in crystalline and amorphous materials at the atomic resolution level; high spatial resolution electron diffraction with emphasis on convergent beam electron diffraction; quantitative elemental compositional and chemical analysis with energy dispersive x-ray spectroscopy and electron energy loss spectroscopy; high voltage electron microscopy. Prerequisite: MSE 512 and MSE 513. Offered: odd years; Sp.

MSE 518 Advanced Mineralogy (3) Crystal symmetry: point groups, space groups. Mathematical description of crystal structures; group theory and irreducible representations; tensor description of physical properties; stress, strain, piezoelectricity, elasticity; structural and magnetic phase transition, Landau theory, deformation and creep in crystals; elasto-viscous properties of Earth's mantle, crystal chemistry and solid state reactions. Offered: jointly with ESS 537; Sp.

MSE 520 Seminar (1, max. 6) Review of research problems in recent literature. Registration required for all graduate students. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWP/S.

MSE 524 Applied Rate Phenomena (3) Introduction to rate theory and transport processes. The principal thrust is on applications in ceramics and metallurgy. Prerequisite: basic course in transport phenomena or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

MSE 525 Kinetics and Phase Transformations (3) Thermodynamic basis for kinetic processes, including diffusion and phase transformation kinetics. Diffusion problems and solution methodologies, statistical treatment of diffusion, solid-liquid and solid-solid transformations, ordering transitions. Special topics related to grain growth, sintering, martensitic transformations. Prerequisite: MSE 322 and MSE 421 or equivalent. Offered: Sp.

MSE 528 Physics and Modeling of VLSI Fabrication (4) Physics of VLSI fabrication, emphasizing processing modeling and simulation. CMOS process, sequences, point defects and diffusion, ion implantation and annealing, film growth kinetics, deposition and etching, advanced photolithography. Process interactions and process integration. Extensive use of process simulation software. Prerequisite: either E E 486/MSE 467, E E 520/M E 504/MSE 504, or E E 527. Offered: jointly with E E 528.

MSE 541 Defects in Materials (3) Detailed study of the general properties and effects of point, line, and planar defects in crystalline solids. Prerequisite: MSE 331 or equivalent. Offered: W.

MSE 544 Mechanical Behavior of Materials (3) Mechanical properties of metals, ceramics, and polymers. Elasticity and viscoelasticity. Macroscopic and microscopic aspects of deformation and fracture. Continuum plasticity and microscopic hardening mechanisms. High temperature deformation. Fracture mechanics, brittle and ductile fracture. Deformation and fracture mechanisms maps. Prerequisite: MSE 510 and MSE 541 or permission of instructor.

MSE 550 Magnetism, Magnetic Materials, and Related Technologies (3) A comprehensive introduction to magnetism, magnetic materials, and related applications. Discusses intrinsic and phenomenological concepts of magnetism, ordered magnetic materials (emphasizing their structure-sensitive properties), magnetic phenomena, small particles/thin films, and applications (magnetic recording, permanent magnets, quantitative imaging of magnetic domains, surface and interface magnetism, giant magneto-resistance). Offered: Sp.

MSE 555 Biomimetics: Bioinspired Design and Processing of Materials (4) How biological organisms produce materials with controlled structure, chemistry and hierarchy to attain physical properties far superior to traditional engineering materials. Fundamental biological building materials, their synthesis, and their self-assembly with emphasis on examples of soft and hard tissues.

MSE 559 Thin Film Science, Engineering, and Technology (3) The physics, chemistry, and engineering aspects of thin film deposition and technology. Vapor phase deposition emphasized. Topics include reactor types, vapor phase transport and hydrodynamics, surface and mass transport limited kinetics, nucleation and growth, homoepitaxy, heteroepitaxy, and thin film characterization. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 559.

MSE 560 Organic Electronic and Photonic Materials/Polymers (3) Physical and material concepts determining properties of organic electronic and photonic materials. Discusses electronic structure, physico-chemical characterization, and device application. Includes introduction of electronic band structure of polymers, electrically conducting polymers; organic nonlinear optical electroluminescent materials; polymer optical fibers; low-photon absorption materials for 3-D microfabrication. Offered: jointly with CHEM 564.

MSE 562 Introduction to Electronic Composites (3) Fundamentals of microstructure-macro-property relation of electronic composites. This course covers applications (computers, laser packages, medical devices, MEMS, avionics), functions (mechanical, thermal, electromagnetic and optical), microstructure-macro-property relations, processing issues, and modeling of electronic composites. Recommended: 475 or M E 450. Offered: jointly with M E 562; odd years; Sp.

MSE 563 Advanced Composites: Design and Manufacturing (3) Manufacturing and processing techniques of metal-, polymer-, and ceramic-matrix composites; design considerations related to manufacturing techniques; non-destructive testing of composite structures. Fiber-matrix interfacial features and interactions. Interfacial thermodynamics applied to selection of fiber-matrix combinations. Prerequisite: MSE 475 or M E 450 or equivalent by permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with M E 563; Sp.

MSE 565 Electron Theory of Materials (3) Solid-state concepts of materials. Atomic bonding, statistical mechanics, Brillouin zone theory. Applications to conduction, optical, and magnetic properties of metals, semiconductors, and insulators. Prerequisite: MSE 466 or equivalent. Offered: W.

MSE 568 Active and Sensing Materials (3) Fundamental knowledge of the nano-structure property relations of active and sensing materials, and their devices. Examples of the active and sensing materials are: shape memory alloys (SMAs), ferromagnetic SMAs, ferroelectric, pyroelectric and piezoelectric materials, thermoelectrics, electroactive and conducting polymers, photoactive polymers, photovoltaics, and electrochromic materials. Offered: jointly with M E 568; Sp.

MSE 590 Advanced Seminar in Materials Science and Engineering (2) Advanced topics in material science, led by faculty with specific expertise in the area of interest. Topics to be chosen and announced quarterly.

MSE 598 Engineering Materials Problems (4) Involves a concentrated project which may include the design of a system or process, or analysis of a set of data related to the materials engineering area. Requires a professional quality report and an oral presentation of the results.

MSE 599 Special Topics in Materials Science (1-5, max. 5) Studies of special advanced topics in materials science. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWP/S.

MSE 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Offered: AWP/S.

MSE 700 Master's Thesis (*) Offered: AWP/S.

MSE 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Offered: AWP/S.

Mechanical Engineering

Mechanical Engineering

M E 123 Introduction to Visualization and Computer-Aided Design (4) NW/VLPA Adee Methods of depicting three-dimensional objects and communicating design information. Development of three-dimensional skills through freehand sketching and computer-aided design using parametric solid modeling. Offered: AWP/S.

M E 124 Visualization and Computer-Aided Design Laboratory (2) NW/VLPA Adee Methods of depicting three-dimensional objects and communicating design information. Development of three-dimensional visualization skills through computer-aided design using parametric solid modeling. Offered: AWP/S.

M E 230 Kinematics and Dynamics (4) NW Fabien Kinematics of particles, systems of particles, and rigid bodies; moving reference frames; kinetics of particles, systems of particles, and rigid bodies; equilibrium, energy, linear momentum, angular momentum. Prerequisite: A A 210.

M E 323 Engineering Thermodynamics (5) Kramlich Engineering thermodynamics, including thermodynamic concepts and properties, the first and second laws of thermodynamics, energy conversion, refrigeration, humidification, and combustion. Engineering design applications. Prerequisite: CHEM 142; MATH 126; PHYS 121.

M E 331 Introduction to Heat Transfer (4) Emery Study of heat transfer by conduction, radiation, and convection; elementary heat-exchanger design. Prerequisite: either M E 333 or CEE 342.

M E 333 Introduction to Fluid Mechanics (5) Riley Introduction to the basic fluid laws and their application. Conservation equations, dynamic similarity, potential flow, boundary-layer concepts, effects of friction, compressible flow, fluid machinery, measurement techniques. Prerequisite: AMATH 301; M E 323; either MATH 307 or AMATH 351.

M E 341 Energy and Environment (3) NW Malte Energy use. Fossil energy conversion. Oil, gas, coal resources. Air impacts. Nuclear energy principles, reactors, fuel cycle. Prerequisite: either MATH 112, MATH 124, or Q SCI 291; either CHEM 120, CHEM 142, PHYS 114, or PHYS 121. Offered: jointly with ENVIR 341/CHEM E 341; A.

M E 354 Mechanics of Materials Laboratory (5) Tuttle Properties and behavior of engineering materials including stress-strain relations, strength, deformation mechanisms, strength, deformation, fracture, creep, and cyclic fatigue. Introduces experimental techniques common to structural engineering, interpretation of experimental data, comparison of measurements to numerical/analytical predictions, and formal, engineering report writing. Lecture and laboratory. Prerequisite: MSE 170, CEE 220.

M E 355 Introduction to Manufacturing Processes (4) Ramulu Study of manufacturing processes, including interrelationships between the properties of the material, the manufacturing process and the design of components. Interpretation of experimental data, comparison of measurements to numerical/analytical predictions, and formal, engineering report writing. Prerequisite: M E 354.

M E 356 Machine Design Analysis (4) Chung Analysis, design, and selection of mechanical and electromechanical subsystems and elements, such as gears, linkages, cams, motors, and bearings. Lecture and laboratory. Prerequisite: M E 354.

M E 373 Introduction to System Dynamics (5) Garbini Mathematical modeling, analysis, and design of physical dynamic systems involving energy storage and transfer by lumped-parameter linear elements. Time-domain response by analytical methods and numeric simulation. Laboratory experiments. Prerequisite: either AMATH 351 or MATH 307; either AMATH 352 or MATH 308; E E 215; M E 230.

M E 374 Systems Dynamic Analysis and Design (5) Garbini Extension of M E 373. Frequency response analysis, generalized impedance concepts and applications, Fourier series analysis and Laplace transform techniques. Modeling and analysis of electromechanical actuators and rotating machinery. Laboratory experiments and design projects. Prerequisite: AMATH 301; M E 373.

M E 395 Introduction to Mechanical Design (4) Cooper Design process and methodology; decision making; optimization techniques; project planning; engineering economics; probabilistic and statistical aspects of mechanical design; ethical and legal issues. Lecture and laboratory. Prerequisite: M E 123; M E 323; M E 373; IND E 315 or MATH 390.

M E 403 Material-Removal Processes (3) Ramulu Cutting and noncutting processes for material removal in the shaping of manufactured products. Study of forces and of power consumption and relative costs in the various processes. Prerequisite: M E 355 which may be taken concurrently.

M E 406 Corrosion and Surface Treatment of Materials (3) Sandwith Corrosion fundamentals and forms (galvanic, crevice, pitting, stress corrosion, erosion, hydrogen and leaching). Principles of design, materials selection, cathodic protection and surface treatments (coatings, carburizing, nitriding and plating) applied to reduce corrosion. Failure analysis applied to case studies.

M E 409 Introduction to Numerical Control and Computer-Aided Manufacturing (3) Ramulu Control system fundamentals, numerical control (NC) machine control systems, and the design aspect of NC machine tools, programming methods of NC machines, computer-aided manufacturing, CNC, DNC, and process optimization. Prerequisite: M E 355 which may be taken concurrently.

M E 415 Sustainability and Design for Environment (3) Cooper Analysis and design of technology systems within the context of the environment, economy, and society. Applies the concepts of resource conservation, pollution prevention, life cycle assessment, and extended product responsibility. Examines the practice, opportunities, and role of engineering, management, and public policy. Offered: jointly with ENVIR 415/CEE 495.

M E 424 Combustion Systems and Pollutant Formation (4) Malte Combustion theory, including chemical thermodynamics, chemical kinetics, mixing and diffusion, and flame structure. Combustion chamber design concepts and performance. Pollutant formation and combustion methods for minimizing pollutant formation. Prerequisite: M E 323; recommended: M E 331; M E 333.

M E 425 HVAC Engineering (4) Emery Heating, ventilating, and air conditioning of built environment. Human comfort, psychometric processes, load computations, fluid distribution, and controls. Design analysis of HVAC system is taught in the lectures and applied in the class project. Prerequisite: M E 323; M E 331.

M E 426 Sustainable Energy Design (4) Malte Energy systems with renewable (solar) energy and efficient use of energy. Project-based learning: analysis, systems engineering, design, component characteristics, and environmental impacts. Prerequisite: M E 333.

M E 430 Advanced Energy Conversion Systems (4) Kramlich Advanced and renewable energy conversion systems and technologies are treated. Included are high efficiency combined cycles; renewable energy conversion involving solar, wind, and biomass; direct energy conversion and fuel cells; and nuclear energy. Environmental consequences of energy conversion and environmental control are discussed. Prerequisite: M E 323.

M E 431 Advanced Fluid Mechanics (4) Mescher Advanced topics in fluid mechanics, including kinematics, potential theory and vortex dynamics, viscous flow, turbulence, experimental and numerical methods, and design. Prerequisite: M E 333.

M E 432 Gas Dynamics (3) Dynamic and thermodynamic relationships for the flow of a gas. Application of thermodynamic processes involving nozzles, diffusers, compressors, and turbines. Prerequisite: either M E 333 or CEE 342. Offered: by request only.

M E 433 Turbomachinery (4) Aliseda Thermodynamics, gas dynamics, and fluid mechanics of axial and centrifugal compressors, pumps, and turbines. Selection of components for engineering applications. Design problems and/or laboratory experiments to illustrate operating characteristics of turbomachines.

M E 436 Friction and Wear of Materials (3) Study of principles of friction and wear behavior of materials and of those material properties that affect such behavior. Principles of lubrication. Applications to design of surfaces for wear resistance. Prerequisite: M E 333; M E 356.

M E 440 Advanced Mechanics of Materials and Solids (3) Study of mechanics of deformable bodies, including three-dimensional stress and strain tensors and their transformations. Equations of compatibility, continuity and equilibrium. Elastic constants. Failure criteria including fracture, yield and instability.

Deflection relations for complex loading and shapes. Indeterminate problems. Design applications and numerical methods. Prerequisite: M E 354.

M E 442 Renewable Energy (4) NW Malte Introduction to renewable energy. Principles and practices: solar, wind, water, and biomass energy conversion. Prerequisite: either MATH 112, MATH 124, or Q SCI 291; either CHEM 120, CHEM 142, PHYS 115, or PHYS 122. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 442/ENVIR 442.

M E 445 Introduction to Biomechanics (4) Sanders Presents the mechanical behavior of tissues in the body and the application to design of prostheses. Tissues studies include bone, skin, fascia, ligaments, tendons, heart valves, and blood vessels. Discussion of the structure of these tissues and their mechanical response to different loading configurations. An important part of the class is a final project. Offered: jointly with BIOEN 440.

M E 450 Introduction to Composite Materials and Design (3) Tuttle Stress and strain analysis of continuous fiber composite materials. Orthotropic elasticity, lamination theory, failure criterion, and design philosophies, as applied to structural polymeric composites. recommended: MSE 475.

M E 459 Introduction to Fracture Mechanics (3) Ramulu Deformation processes leading to fracture, and linear elastic fracture mechanics. Fatigue crack propagation. Fracture control and failure analysis. Prerequisite: M E 354; M E 356.

M E 460 Kinematics and Linkage Design (3) Ganter Synthesis of linkage-type mechanisms using graphical and computer methods.

M E 468 Air-Pollution Control Equipment Design (3) Pilat Designs to control air pollutants from stationary sources. Procedures for calculating design and operating parameters. Fundamental mechanisms and processes of gaseous and particulate control equipment for absorption and adsorption of gaseous pollutants; electrostatic precipitation and filtration of particular pollutants. Actual case studies. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 468/CEE 494.

M E 469 Applications of Dynamics in Engineering (4) Storti Application of the principles of dynamics to selected engineering problems, such as suspension systems, gyroscopes, electromechanical devices. Includes introduction to energy methods, Hamilton's principle and Lagrange equations and the design of dynamic system. Prerequisite: M E 374.

M E 470 Mechanical Vibrations (3) Reinhal Single-degree-of-freedom linear systems techniques. Matrix techniques for multi-degree-of-freedom linear systems. Applications in vibration isolation, transmission, and absorption problems and instrumentation. Prerequisite: M E 373.

M E 471 Automatic Control (4) Berg Dynamic system modeling; control system stability and performance analysis; compensator design by Bode and root-locus methods. Prerequisite: M E 374.

M E 473 Instrumentation (4) Garbini Principles and practice of industrial and laboratory measurement. Dynamics of instrument response; generalized performance analysis of sensor systems; theory of transducers for motion, force, pressure, flow, and other measurements. Lecture and laboratory. Prerequisite: M E 374.

M E 474 Systems Modeling and Simulation (3) Fabien Unified approach to modeling of systems, and computer simulation of systems behavior. Selecting system variables; writing state, loop, and node equations; modal response and state transition response; system functions and convolution; analogs. Applications to control, vibrations, and other problems. Prerequisite: M E 374.

M E 477 Embedded Computing in Mechanical Systems (4) Garbini Analysis of electromechanical systems employing microcomputers for control or data acquisition. Microcomputer architecture, memory organization, C language programming, interfaces, and communications. Particular emphasis on design of hardware and software interfaces for real-time interaction with mechanical systems. Weekly laboratory. Prerequisite: M E 374.

M E 478 Finite Element Analysis (4) Reinhal Development of theory and concepts of finite element analysis. Applications in all areas of mechanical engineering, including mechanics of solids, heat transfer, and design of dynamical systems. Weekly computer exercises. Prerequisite: M E 123; M E 374; either MATH 308 or AMATH 352.

M E 480 Introduction to Computer-Aided Technology (4) Ganter Principles of computer-aided technology. Computer-aided design, engineering, drafting, and manufacturing; computer-aided design systems, geometry, computer graphics, hardware, computer-aided vehicle/system design synthesis. System demonstrations, laboratories, and site visits. Prerequisite: M E 123; CSE 142.

M E 481 Combustion Engines and Alternatives (4) Kramlich, Malte Thermodynamics, fuels, performance, combustion, and exhaust emissions control for spark ignition and compression ignition piston engines. New technologies, including hybrid combustion-electric fuel cell engines. Principles and practice. Prerequisite: M E 323. Recommended: M E 333.

M E 485 Introduction to Electronic Packaging and Materials (3) Taya The governing equations of transport phenomena: mechanical, thermal, and electromagnetic behavior, thermomechanical and electromagnetic properties of packaging materials, electromagnetic characteristics of circuit and transmission lines, thermal management and reliability analysis of packaging, interconnect and material processing technology. Prerequisite: MSE 170. Offered: jointly with MSE 485.

M E 487 Laboratory in Electronic Packaging and Materials (1) Taya, Stoebe Laboratory course to accompany M E 485 Experiments related to design, processing and reliability of electronic packaging used in consumer electronics. Corequisite: M E 485. Offered: jointly with MSE 487.

M E 490 Naval Architecture (3) Adee Theory of naval architecture; ship's lines, hydrostatic curves, intact and damaged stability, launching.

M E 491 Naval Architecture (3) Adee Theory of naval architecture; strength, ABS rules, water waves, ship and platform motions.

M E 492 Naval Architecture (3) Adee Theory of naval architecture; dimensional analysis, resistance, model testing, propellers, steering.

M E 495 Mechanical Engineering Design (4) Cooper Design laboratory involving the identification and synthesis of engineering factors to plan and achieve specific project goals. Current literature and prerequisite texts are used as reference sources. Lecture and laboratory. Prerequisite: M E 395.

M E 496 Technology-Based Entrepreneurship (3) Concentrates on hands-on aspects of innovation and entrepreneurial enterprise development. Examines relationships between innovation, iterative prototyping, and marketing testing. Students identify market opportunities, create new technology-based products and services to satisfy customer needs, and construct and test prototypes. Prerequisite: IND E 250. Offered: jointly with IND E 496.

M E 498 Special Topics in Mechanical Engineering (1-5, max. 6) Lecture and/or laboratory. Maximum of 6 credits may be applied toward an undergraduate degree.

M E 499 Special Projects (2-5, max. 6) Written report required.

M E 501 Modern Manufacturing Processes (3) Ramulu General survey and introduction to modern manufacturing engineering processes. Fundamental principles and practices of modern manufacturing processes. Case studies and exercises relating the course material directly to modern industrial practice. Offered: A.

M E 502 Plasticity and Metal Forming (3) Stress-strain and stress-strain-rate relations in metal forming; plastic instability. Work of deformation. The slip-line field, load bounding, applications to frames, drawing, forging, and extrusion. Offered: odd years.

M E 504 Introduction to Microelectro Mechanical Systems (4) Theoretical and practical aspects in design, analysis, and fabrication of MEMS devices. Fabrication processes, including bulk and surface micromachining. MEMS design and layout. MEMS CAD tools. Mechanical and electrical design. Applications such as micro sensors and actuators, or chemical and thermal transducers, recent advances. Offered: jointly with E E 502/ MSE 504.

M E 505 Computer Integrated Manufacturing (3) Design and analysis of advanced manufacturing systems from a strategic as well as technological perspective. Focus on information generation, management, and coordination aspects of complex manufacturing organizations. Examination of system integration alternatives and consequences for relationships with customers and suppliers. Offered: jointly with IND E 531.

M E 507 Computational Methods in Design and Manufacturing (3) Sampling size and accuracy: uniform, random, and Hammersley. Approximation of curves and surfaces. Optimization: minima and maxima. Search and gradient techniques. Line integral for geodesic and optimal path. Offered: jointly with IND E 533.

M E 508 Theory and Design for Mechanical Measurements (3) Fundamental concepts of mechanical measurements, principles of sensors and transducers, signal conditioning and data acquisition, advanced experiment planning and analysis, and applications in mechanical engineering.

M E 510 Mathematical Foundations of Systems Theory (4) Damborg Mathematical foundations for system theory presented from an engineering viewpoint. Includes set theory; functions, inverse functions; metric spaces; finite dimensional linear spaces; linear operators on finite dimensional spaces; projections on Hilbert spaces. Applications to engineering systems stressed. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with A A 546/CHEM E 510/E E 510; A.

M E 515 Life Cycle Assessment (3) Cooper Presents and discusses the computation structure and data sources for environmental Life Cycle Assessment. Uses Life Cycle Assessment to analyze materials, products, and services. The analysis either identifies opportunities for improvements or selects a superior alternative on the basis of pollution prevention and resource conservation. Offered: W.

M E 518 Seminars on Advances in Manufacturing and Management (1) Ramulu Current topics and advances made in manufacturing and management. Topics presented by invited speakers from academia and industry. Emphasis on the multidisciplinary nature of manufacturing and management Offered: jointly with IND E 518; AWSp.

M E 520 Seminar (-1, max. 6) Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

M E 521 Thermodynamics (3) Kramlich Fundamental concepts of temperature, thermodynamic properties, and systems. The first, second, and combined laws. Development of the relations of classical thermodynamics. Introduction to statistical thermodynamics. Prerequisite: M E 323 and graduate standing in mechanical engineering or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

M E 522 Thermodynamics (3) Malte Topics from statistical thermodynamics, including the Boltzmann, Bose-Einstein, and Fermi-Dirac statistics. Solutions of the Schrodinger wave equation and evaluation of the partition function for translation, rotation, and vibration. Prerequisite: M E 521 or permission of instructor. Offered: by request only.

M E 523 Energy and Environment Seminar (1) Malte Student discussions of topics in combustion science and technology, alternative fuels, renewable energy, environmental consequences of energy conversion, and design for environment. Also, presentations by outside experts. May be repeated for credit. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

M E 524 Combustion (3) Kramlich Chemical and physical processes of combustion with applications to design of combustors, fuel selection, and consideration of environmental effects. Prerequisite: graduate standing in mechanical engineering or permission of instructor. Offered: odd years; Sp.

M E 525 Applied Acoustics I (3) Introduces acoustics through various applications such as medical ultrasound, underwater sound, noise control and vibrations. Includes linear acoustics, wave equation, planewave solutions, acoustics scales; reflection, refraction, scattering and diffraction, acoustic sources, radiation form transmission through plates. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Engineering, allied field, or permission from instructor. Offered: Sp.

M E 526 Special Topics in Acoustics (3)
Advanced study of special topics in acoustics, such as medical ultrasound, underwater sound, noise control and vibrations. Prerequisite: ME 525, or permission from instructor. Offered: A.

M E 528 Acoustics of Environmental Noise (4)
Offered: jointly with CEE 554.

M E 530 Heat Conduction and Radiation (3)
Mescher Heat conduction advanced fundamentals, emphasizing microscale applications. Radiative transfer for transparent and for absorbing and scattering media, emphasizing combustion, biomedical, and atmospheric/oceanic environmental applications. Forward and inverse problems for both conduction and radiation. Prerequisite: graduate standing in mechanical engineering or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

M E 531 Conductive Heat Transfer (3) Analysis of steady-state and transient heat conduction in single- and multidimensional systems by mathematical, graphical, numerical, and analogical methods. Prerequisite: graduate standing in mechanical engineering or permission of instructor. Offered: by request only.

M E 532 Convective Heat Transfer (3)
Kramlich Introduction to fluid flow and boundary-layer theory as applicable to forced- and natural-convection heat transfer. Condensation and boiling heat transfer. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

M E 533 Fluid Mechanics I (3)
Riley Basic conservation laws and kinematics of fluid flow constitutive relationships, Newtonian fluids, dimensional analysis, vorticity dynamics, inviscid flows, applications. Offered: A.

M E 534 Fluid Mechanics II (3)
Riley Review of basic principles, some exact solutions and their interpretation, waves (water waves, sound waves, shock waves), boundary layers, jets and wakes, flow stability, turbulence, applications. Prerequisite: M E 533 or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

M E 535 Computational Techniques in Mechanical Engineering (3)
Emery Advanced heat transfer studies of interest to mechanical engineers. Subject coverage varies from year to year. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

M E 537 Topics in Fluid Mechanics (3)
Selected fluid mechanics relevant to current advances in research and application. Topics selected vary with faculty and student interest, but have included flow stability, special topics in turbulence, and turbulent reacting flows. Offered: by request only.

M E 538 Turbulent Boundary Layer Theory (3)
Characteristic features of turbulent boundary layers; development of the turbulent boundary layer equations; equilibrium boundary layers; integral methods of solution based on power law and wall-wake velocity profiles; methods of solution based on higher order constitutive equations; application to diffuser flows and free shear flows; new developments and physical models. Offered: odd years; A.

M E 541 Fatigue of Materials (3)
Ramulu Macro and micro aspects of fatigue of metals and fatigue mechanisms. Analytical methods for fatigue and life assessment in advanced materials. Offered: W.

M E 543 Fluid Turbulence (3) Methods of characterizing fluid turbulence; probability concepts; spatial and temporal velocity correlations; spectral energy transfer; turbulent diffusion; isotropic turbulence and Kolmogoroff's hypothesis; Taylor's hypothesis; hot-wire measurement techniques. Prerequisite: 3 credits of graduate level fluid mechanics or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; W.

M E 544 Advanced Turbulence Modeling Techniques (3)
Riley The Reynolds stress transport equations; plane homogeneous shear flow; modeling the pressure-strain, diffusion, and dissipation rate correlation tensors; one and two-equation turbulence models; near-wall turbulence and wall functions; limitations of length scale and eddy viscosity modeling. Prerequisite: 3 credits of turbulence related course work. Offered: even years by request only; Sp.

M E 547 Linear Systems Theory (4) Linearity, linearization, finite dimensionality, time-varying vs. time-invariant linear systems, interconnection of linear systems, functional/structural descriptions of linear systems, system zeros and invertibility, linear system stability, system norms, state transition, matrix exponentials, controllability and observability, realization theory. Prerequisite: either A A 447, E E 447 or M E 471. Offered: jointly with E E 547/A A 547; A

M E 548 Linear Multivariable Control (3)
Introduction to MIMO systems, successive single loop design comparison, Lyapunov stability theorem, full state feedback controller design, observer design, LQR problem statement, design, stability analysis, and tracking design. LQG design, separation principle, stability robustness. Prerequisite: A A 547/E E 547/M E 547. Offered: jointly with A A 548/E E 548.

M E 549 Estimation and System Identification (3) Fundamentals of state estimation for linear and nonlinear systems. Discrete and continuous systems. Probability and stochastic systems theory. Models with noise. Kalman-Bucy filters, extended Kalman filters, recursive estimation. Numerical issues in filter design and implementation. Prerequisite: E E 505 or AMATH 506 or STAT 506; recommended: 548 or A A 548. Offered: jointly with A A 549/E E 549.

M E 550 Nonlinear Optimal Control (3)
Calculus of variations for dynamical systems, definition of the dynamic optimization problem, constraints and Lagrange multipliers, the Pontryagin Maximum Principle, necessary conditions for optimality, the Hamilton-Jacobi-Bellman equation, singular arc problems, computational techniques for solution of the necessary conditions. Prerequisite: graduate standing; recommended: A A 548 or E E 548. Offered: jointly with A A 550/E E 550; odd years.

M E 551 Elasticity I: Elastostatics (3)
Taya Elastostatics, including general formulations of

2D and 3D elastostatic problems (stress function method, complex variable method, displacement potential method). Eshelby's method is emphasized and used to solve 2D and 3D problems with special application to composite materials. Offered: W.

M E 552 Elasticity II: Viscoelasticity and Elastodynamics (3)
Taya Elastodynamics includes wave propagation in linear elastic and linear viscoelastic solids where solids are monolithic materials, composite materials. Viscoelasticity part includes the stress-strain equations in terms of convolution integral, Fourier transform and Laplace transform modes. Simple and fundamental problems are solved by several techniques as demonstration. Offered: even years; Sp.

M E 553 Adhesion Mechanics (3)
Tuttle Introduction to adhesive systems and test/evaluation techniques. Stress/strain analysis methods used with adhesive joints. Examples of practical applications. Prerequisite: graduate student status or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; Sp.

M E 555 Thermoelasticity (3)
Emery Basic equations of thermoelasticity for isotropic elastic solids. Analysis of disks, cylinders, spheres, beams, and plates under steady temperature and sudden and slow heating and cooling. Introduction to thermoelastic stability. Prerequisite: M E 551 or permission of instructor. Offered: by request only.

M E 556 Experimental Stress Analysis I (3)
Tuttle Theory and practice of experimental techniques including strain gages and strain gage-based devices, thermocouples, LVDTs, and transducer design. Lecture and laboratory. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

M E 557 Experimental Stress Analysis II (3)
Tuttle Theory and practice of optical mechanics, including interferometric techniques (moiré and holographic), geometric moiré methods, and photoelasticity. Lecture and laboratory. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; W.

M E 559 Introduction to Fracture Mechanics (3)
Ramulu Applications of linear fracture mechanics to failure analysis and fracture control based on actual case studies. Fracture toughness and fatigue testing techniques, crack initiation and propagation fatigue life prediction of mechanical components subjected to environmental effects. Offered: W.

M E 560 Advanced Theory of Fracture (3)
Ramulu Theories of linear fracture mechanics, fracture dynamics, ductile fracture, stable crack growth and mixed mode fracture. Discussion of advanced topics from recent literature. Prerequisite: M E 559 or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; Sp.

M E 562 Introduction to Electronic Composites (3)
Taya Fundamentals of microstructure-macro-property relation of electronic composites. This course covers applications (computers, laser packages, medical devices, MEMS, avionics), functions (mechanical, thermal, electromagnetic and optical), microstructure-macro-property relations, processing issues, and modeling of electronic composites. Recommended: M E 450 or MSE 475. Offered: jointly with MSE 562; Sp.

M E 563 Advanced Composites: Design and Manufacturing (3) Manufacturing and processing techniques of metal-, polymer-, and ceramic-matrix composites; design considerations related to manufacturing techniques; non-destructive testing of composite structures. Fiber-matrix interfacial features and interactions. Interfacial thermodynamics applied to selection of fiber-matrix combinations. Prerequisite: M E 450 or MSE 475 or equivalent by permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with MSE 563; Sp.

M E 564 Mechanical Engineering Analysis (3) Storti Application of mathematical methods to the description and analysis of systems in mechanical engineering. Analogies in heat transfer, fluid flow, stress distribution, dynamics, and feedback control. Prerequisite: graduate standing in mechanical engineering or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

M E 565 Mechanical Engineering Analysis (3) Storti Applications of vectors, matrices, and partial differential equations to mechanical engineering systems, including computational techniques and analogies. Prerequisite: graduate standing in mechanical engineering or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

M E 566 Introduction to Random Processes (3) Probability and random variables. Ensemble averaging, probability density function, auto- and cross-correlation functions. Brownian motion, Poisson process. Ergodicity. Frequency domain analysis, auto- and cross-spectrum, transfer function. Fundamentals of digital spectral analysis. Applications in fluid mechanics, acoustics and vibrations. Offered: by request only; even years; A.

M E 568 Active and Sensing Materials (3) Fundamental knowledge of the nano-structure property relations of active and sensing materials, and their devices. Examples of the active and sensing materials are: shape memory alloys (SMAs), ferromagnetic SMAs, ferroelectric, pyroelectric and piezoelectric materials, thermoelectrics, electroactive and conducting polymers, photoactive polymers, photovoltaics, and electrochromic materials. Offered: jointly with MSE 568; Sp.

M E 570 Manifolds and Geometry for Systems and Control (3) Morgansen Introduction to fundamentals of calculus on manifolds and group theory with applications in robotics and control theory. Topics include: manifolds, tangent spaces and bundles, Lie groups and algebras, coordinate versus coordinate-free representations. Applications from physics, robotics, and control theory. Offered: jointly with A A 570 and E E 570; W; even years.

M E 572 Methodologies for Engineering Design: Conceptual Design (3) Kumar Methodologies particularly useful in the conceptual or preliminary phase of a design. The design process. Impact of formulating independent functional requirements. Physical and functional coupling in design. Case studies in conceptual design of products and processes. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; W.

M E 573 Methodologies for Engineering Design: Probabilistic Mechanical Design (3) Ramulu Study, implementation of probabilistic methods to design. Loading, geometry, stress, strain/deflection described as random variables, compared to material properties/behavior in terms of random variables. Design, analysis, reliability, risk analyses conducted on common structures with results compared to conventional deterministic approaches. Projects using probabilistic methods to optimize selected component designs. Offered: even years; Sp.

M E 578 Optimization in System Sciences (3) Mesbahi Covers convex sets, separation theorems, theorem of alternatives and their applications, convex analysis, convex functions, conjugation, subgradients, convex optimization, duality and applications, linear and semi-definite programming. Linear matrix inequalities, optimization algorithms, applications in system theory and control, bilinear, rank minimization, optimization software. Recommended: A A/M E/E E 547. Offered: jointly with A A/E E 578; W.

M E 579 Fluid Power Systems (3) Design, analysis, and control of fluid power systems. Steady-state analysis of valves, actuators, and transmissions. Dynamic modeling, response, stability, and control analysis via linear element representation and computer simulation. Prerequisite: graduate standing in mechanical engineering or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

M E 580 Geometric Methods for Non-Linear Control Systems (3) Morgansen Analysis and design of nonlinear control systems focusing on differential geometric methods. Topics include controllability, observability, feedback linearization, invariant distributions, and local coordinate transformations. Emphasis on systems evolving on Lie groups and linearly uncontrollable systems Prerequisite: A A 570/E E 570/M E 570. Offered: jointly with A A 580/E E 580; Sp; even years.

M E 581 Digital Control (3) Chizeck Sampled-data systems, and z-transform. Frequency domain properties. Sampling D/A and A/D conversion. Controller design via discrete-time equivalents, direct methods, state feedback and observers. Quantization effects. LQR control and introduction to LQG optimal control. Prerequisite: either E E/A A or M E 548. Offered: jointly with A A/E E 581; W.

M E 582 Introduction to Discrete Event Systems (3) Berg Modeling DES with automata and Petri nets. Languages. State estimation and diagnostics. Control specifications. Feedback control. Dealing with uncontrollability and unobservability. Dealing with blocking. Timed automata and Petri nets. Prerequisite: A A 447/E E 447/ M E 471. Offered: jointly with A A 582/E E 582; even years; Sp.

M E 583 Nonlinear Control Systems (3) Berg Analysis of nonlinear systems and nonlinear control system design. Phase plane analysis. Lyapunov stability analysis. Describing functions. Feedback linearization. Introduction to variable structure control. Prerequisite: A A/E E 447/M E 471. Offered: jointly with E E/A A 583; odd years: Sp.

M E 584 Combustion in Airbreathing Propulsion (3) Fundamentals of gasdynamics, mixing, and thermodynamics applies to the analysis and design of gas turbine, ramjet and scramjet engine combustors, with treatment of computer simulation. Offered: by request only.

M E 585 System Identification and Adaptive Control (3) Theory and methods of system identification and adaptive control. Identification of linear-in-parameter systems, using recursive

LS and extended LS methods; model order selection. Indirect and direct adaptive control. Controller synthesis, transient and stability properties. Prerequisite: either E E 505 or AMATH 506 or STAT 506; E E 548/A A 548/M E 548. Offered: jointly with M E 585/E E 585.

M E 588 Dynamics and Vibrations (3) Shen Variational techniques, Hamilton's principle, Lagrange's equations applied to dynamics of particles and rigid bodies. Vibration analysis of multi-degree-of-freedom and continuous systems. Prerequisite: graduate standing in engineering or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

M E 589 Vibrations (3) Storti Study of systems with nonlinear damping and restoring forces excited by deterministic or random inputs. Applications in measurement, testing, and design of mechanical systems. Nonlinear systems are emphasized. Prerequisite: M E 588 or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; W.

M E 590 Vibrations (3) Reinhall Study of systems with nonlinear damping and restoring forces excited by deterministic or random inputs. Applications in measurement, testing, and design of mechanical systems. Random inputs are emphasized. Prerequisite: M E 588 or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; Sp.

M E 591 Robotics and Control Systems Colloquium (1, max. 3) Berg Colloquium on current topics in robotics and control systems analysis and design. Topics presented by invited speakers as well as on-campus speakers. Emphasis on the cross-disciplinary nature of robotics and control systems. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with A A/CHEM E/E E 591; AWSp.

M E 593 Feedforward Control (3) Devasia Design feedforward controllers for precision output tracking; inversion-based control of non-minimum-phase systems; effect of plant uncertainty on feedforward control; design of feedforward controllers for applications such as vertical take off and landing aircraft, flexible structures and piezo-actuators. Prerequisite: A A 547/E E 547/M E 547. Offered: jointly with A A/ E E 593; Sp; even years.

M E 594 Robust Control (3) Basic foundations of linear analysis and control theory, model realization and reduction, balanced realization and truncation, stabilization problem, coprime factorizations, Youla parameterization, matrix inequalities, H-infinity and H2 control, KYP lemma, uncertain systems, robust H2, integral quadratic constraints, linear parameter varying synthesis, applications of robust control. Offered: jointly with A A 594/E E 594; odd years; Sp.

M E 597 Networked Dynamics Systems (3) Provides an overview of graph-theoretic techniques that are instrumental for studying dynamic systems that coordinate their states over a signal-exchange network. Topics include network models, network properties, dynamics over networks, formation control, biological networks, observability, controllability, and performance measures over networks. Prerequisite: A A 547/E E 547/M E 547. Offered: jointly with A A 597/E E 597.

M E 598 Topics in Research (1) Doctoral seminar. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

M E 599 Special Projects (1-5, max. 9) Written report required. Prerequisite: permission of department Chairperson. Offered: AWSpS.

M E 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Written report required. Offered: AWSpS.

M E 700 Master's Thesis (*) Offered: AWSpS.

M E 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Offered: AWSpS.

Mechanical Engineering Industrial Engineering

MEIE 516 Advanced Topics in Engineering Statistics (3) Roberts, Zabinsky Topics are flexible and tailored to the needs of the particular student group involved. Topics usually considered: regression, correlation, experimental design, Monte Carlo techniques, Markov processes, extreme value theory, time-series analysis. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor.

MEIE 599 Special Projects in Industrial Engineering (1-5, max. 9) Prerequisite: permission of industrial engineering program director. Offered: AWSp.

Technical Communication

T C 100 Introduction to Technical Communication (5) Topics may include: virtual communities, human-computer interaction, web design, usability testing, visual design, and others. Explores course content through individual and group hands-on projects. Offered: A.

T C 231 Introduction to Technical Writing (3) Principles of organizing, developing, and writing technical information. Report forms and rhetorical patterns common to scientific and technical disciplines. Technical writing conventions such as headings, illustrations, style, and tone. Numerous written assignments required. Required for all engineering majors. Prerequisite: either C LIT 240, both ENGL 109 and ENGL 110, ENGL 111, ENGL 121, ENGL 131, ENGL 182, ENGL 197, ENGL 198, ENGL 199, or ENGL 281. Offered: AWSpS.

T C 310 Introduction to Communication Design (5) Turns Functions of, and relationships among, major software tools in the context of common technical communication design problems. Students practice explaining and justifying design solutions in terms of key features and user characteristics. Offered: A.

T C 317 Survey of Usability Research Techniques(5) Introduces usability research methods used in the product-development process; contextual inquiry, surveys and interviews, focus groups, user profiling, usability testing, cognitive walkthroughs, heuristics, and others. Offered: Sp.

T C 318 Survey of User Experience Design (5) Provides a project-based introduction to the user interface design process and is oriented toward practical methods for approaching a design problem. Focuses on developing conceptual designs based on user need. Offered: Sp.

T C 319 Survey of Concepts in Human-Computer Interaction (5) Studies the social, cognitive, behavioral and contextual aspects of information systems and informational dimensions of the human-computer interface, and other user-centered design concepts. Surveys research literature of human information behavior, as well as ethical standards. Offered: W.

T C 333 Advanced Technical Writing and Oral Presentation (4) Emphasis on the presentation of technical information to various audiences. Style of writing required for proposals, reports, and journal articles. Oral presentation principles, including use of visuals, as well as organizing and presenting an effective talk. For engineering majors. Prerequisite: T C 231. Offered: AWSpS.

T C 400 Scientific and Technical Communication (5) Kasonic, Kolko Principles and practices of writing to communicate scientific and technical information to a variety of readers, including the expert, general scientific and technical reader, manager, and general public. Examines research and issues in the TC field including social contexts and environments (legal, ethical, cultural). Required of technical communication majors. Prerequisite: T C 231. Offered: A.

T C 401 Style in Scientific and Technical Writing (5) Spyridakis Grammatical structures and stylistic strategies within specific professional contexts. Achieving clarity and conciseness through word choice and placement, using a variety of sentence structures for appropriate emphasis, handling details, establishing effective tone. Required of technical communication majors. Prerequisite: T C 231. Offered: A.

T C 402 Scientific and Technical Editing (5) Farkas, Kolko Editorial responsibilities and practice in the communication of scientific and technical information; the editor's role both as editor and as supervisor of publication groups. Addresses managing collaborative teams and basic XML concepts and metadata. Required of technical communication majors. Prerequisite: T C 400 with a minimum grade of 3.0; T C 401 with a minimum grade of 3.0. Offered: W.

T C 403 Publication Project Management (3) Plumb Responsibilities and practice in managing publication projects in scientific and technical organizations. Project design, coordination, production, and evaluation, including planning, organizing, staffing, and directing. Required of technical communication majors. Offered: Sp.

T C 407 Software User Assistance (5) Farkas Concepts and skills for preparing manuals, online help systems, performance-support systems, and other forms of locally stored and Web-based software user assistance. Includes principles of human-computer interaction, usability evaluation, and the software-development process. Students create both end-user and developer documentation. Prerequisite: T C 310. Offered: Sp.

T C 408 Public Documents: Proposals, EISs, Assessments (3) Bereano Analyzing special documents of public character: proposals, EISs, questionnaires, technology assessments. Understanding socio-political milieu in which they are planned, organized, written; the specialized audiences (e.g., agencies with their missions, guidelines, constituencies; citizen groups; commercial interests) they serve. Documents, the decision-making process. Offered: odd years; Sp.

T C 411 Visual Media in Technical Communication (5) I&S/VLPA Williams Use of visuals in print and electronic communication. Topics include vision, perception, comparison of text and visual media principles for the selection and use of visual media, information graphics icons, page and screen design typography, and color. Offered: W.

T C 412 Print Production (5) Sauer, Williams Introduction to print production for technical communicators. Topics include digital pre-press, printing, binding, and finishing. Offered: Sp.

T C 415 Production Editing (4) Williams The editorial role in the preparation of text and visual materials for production. The editor's responsibilities and prerogatives as they relate to those of other professionals in the production phase of the publications field.

T C 422 Style in Technical Writing (3) Grammatical structures and stylistic strategies. Achieving clarity and conciseness through word choice and placement, using a variety of sentence structures for appropriate emphasis, handling details, establishing effective tone.

T C 435 Introduction to Content Management (3) Principles and practices of building, managing and using content management systems in the technical communication workplace. Examines both the intricacies of collaborative workflow technologies and the organizational contexts that surround them.

T C 436 Design and Authoring of CAI (3) Winn Introduction to the design of computer-assisted-instructional programs. Types of learning, characteristics of effective instruction. Students design and produce CAI programs using authoring systems for computers. Offered: jointly with EDC&I 436; A.

T C 437 Web Design and Web Publishing (5) I&S/VLPA Farkas Design principles and skills including navigation, functional design, visual design, and content development. Includes the ongoing process of Web publishing. Addresses societal issues pertaining to the Web and Internet. Students build a website and plan for ongoing Web publishing. Prerequisite: T C 310. Offered: W.

T C 438 Web Technologies (5) Markup languages and styles, JavaScript, Flash, Photoshop, and the fundamentals of digital sound and video. Includes an introduction to server-side technologies. Students expand their existing design skills to encompass the use of these Web technologies. Prerequisite: T C 310; T C 437. Offered: Sp.

T C 455 User Interface Design (4) Furness Design oriented to cover fundamentals of user interface design; models on human computer interaction, software psychology, input devices, usability, cognitive and perceptual aspects of human-computer interaction, advanced interface, and research methodologies are discussed. Offered: jointly with IND E 455; A.

T C 461 Japanese for Technical and Business Professionals I (5) VLPA Kato Strengthens knowledge of grammar and vocabulary and applies this to basic technical business communication situations. Covers cultural concepts underlying these situations. Reviews authentic materials on technology-related topics. Teaches skills to analyze sentence structure for accurate interpretation. Lab work required. Placement test before admission. Offered: A.

T C 462 Japanese for Technical and Business Professions II (5) VLPA Kato Covers the functional/situational conversation skills necessary in technical and business communication situations, plus the cultural concepts underlying these situations. Reviews skills (such as prediction) for more effective reading and improves skills for analyzing complex sentence structure. Additional grammar, vocabulary, and kanji are introduced. Lab work required. Prerequisite: T C 461. Offered: W.

T C 463 Japanese for Technical and Business Professions III (5) VLPA Kato Covers the functional/situational conversation skills necessary in technical and business communication situations, plus the cultural concepts underlying these situations. Further improves skills introduced in previous courses and reviews skills for understanding inter-sentence structure. Additional grammar, vocabulary, and kanji introduced. Lab work required. Prerequisite: T C 462. Offered: Sp.

T C 493 Senior Study (5) Integration of knowledge and skills acquired during major program into one paper or project. Offered: AWSpS.

T C 495 Professional Practice (3-10, max. 10) Williams Supervised internship in a publications organization approved by the faculty adviser. A minimum of one internship is required of students majoring in technical communication. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

T C 496 Directed Research in Technical Communication (1-5, max. 10) Students, working in teams under the supervision of individual faculty members, review relevant literature, pose research questions, design and conduct studies, and present the results in papers prepared either for submission to a professional journal or for presentation at a professional conference. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

T C 497 Study Abroad: Technical Communication (3-5, max. 15) Upper-division technical communication courses, for which there are no direct University of Washington equivalents, taken through the Department of Technical Communication's Study Abroad Program. Offered: S.

T C 498 Special Topics (1-5, max. 15) Special topics in technical communication to be offered occasionally by permanent or visiting faculty members.

T C 499 Special Projects (1-5, max. 10) Individual undergraduate projects in technical communication. Offered: AWSpS.

T C 501 Theoretical Dimensions of Technical Communication (4) Coney, Sauer Theories and research drawn from a variety of fields that inform such topics as the historical and social context of technical communication, the aims of technical discourse, readability, invention and audience, audience analysis, technical style, and graphics. Prerequisite: admission to an engineering master's program or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

T C 502 Empirical Traditions in Technical Communication (4) Williams Introduction to empirical traditions that inform research and practice in field of technical communication. Topics include epistemological assumptions underlying empirical research, empirical methods, and survey of results of empirical research on effects of text and visual media on comprehension, recall, and performance. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

T C 505 Computer-Assisted Communication (4) Kolko Explores computer-assisted communication from three perspectives: (1) cultural roles of communication technologies; (2) relationships between communication and information including information technologies in the workplace, academe, and other settings; and (3) application to design including models for audience analysis, task analysis, and cognitive systems engineering. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

T C 509 Writing the Scientific Article (3) Haselkorn, Illman Examination of principles and practice of writing research manuscripts, articles, abstracts, and oral presentations. Detailed examination of scientific publication process includes issues of style, organization, and ethics. Students draft, critique, and revise their own manuscripts and learn to review the manuscripts of others. Offered: Sp.

T C 510 Information Design (4) Farkas Examination of the design principles and procedures underlying the creation of both print and electronic information presentations. Topics include: print vs. electronic media, designing for the page and screen, information topologies, and hypermedia. Seminar includes a design project. Prerequisite: T C 501 or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

T C 511 Visual Media in Technical Communication (5) Williams Use of visuals in print and electronic media. Topics include vision, attention and perception, semiotics, depiction, information graphics, icons, typography, and principles of page and screen design. Offered: W.

T C 512 International Technical Communication (4) Spyridakis Examines theory, research, and practice in the internationalization and localization of paper and electronic documents. Topics include cultural models and schemata, contrastive rhetoric, controlled languages, translation, visuals, and usability testing. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

T C 515 Ecological Information Systems (4) Introduction to cognitive work analysis framework. Prepares for active role in design and evaluation of information systems. Familiarization with basic concepts of cognitive systems engineering and practice in field study, data analysis, and transforming field findings into requirements for the design of an information system. Offered: jointly with LIS 515.

T C 516 Research Theory and Application in Technical Communication (4) Spyridakis Introduction to research methods in technical communication. Students examine the relationship between theory and research, hypothesis testing, experimental designs, modes of observation, sampling, validity, and data analysis and interpretation. Prerequisite: introductory statistics course. Offered: Sp.

T C 517 Usability Testing (4) Ramey Discusses the human-computer interface (HCI) as the communicative aspect of a computer system. Analyzes usability issues in HCI design, explores design-phase methods of predictability, and introduces evaluative methods of usability testing. Prerequisite: substantial experience with computers and graduate standing, or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

T C 518 User-Centered Design (4) Turns Explores the user-centered design paradigm from a broad perspective, emphasizing how user research and prototype assessment can be integrated into different phases of the design process. Students learn to think like a user-centered designer and carry out activities that are key to user-centered design. Offered: jointly with IND E 545; W.

T C 520 Technical Communication Systems (4) Haselkorn Emphasizes the role and function of communication as a key to understanding organizational frameworks and managerial practices. Traditional and innovative approaches to viewing and managing technical communication. Roles, responsibilities, impact of technology. Offered: W.

T C 521 Seminar: Current Issues in Technical Communication (1-2, max. 3) Presentations on current issues in technical communication. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: T C graduate student status or permission of instructor. Offered: AW.

T C 523 Seminar: Issues in TC Scholarship and Professional Activity (1, max. 3) Exploration of advanced issues in technical communication scholarship and practice. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: TC PhD student status or permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

T C 537 User-Centered Web Design (5) Farkas Theory and practice of the user-centered web development process. Principles and processes for documenting and implementing various development stages, including requirements analysis, user needs analysis, information architecture, prototyping, mockups, and production.

T C 561 Advanced Japanese for Technical and Business Professions 1 (4) Tsutsui Focuses on reading skills (e.g., vocabulary, phrases, grasping main ideas and paragraph structure) and familiarizes students with Japanese web sites and web reading tools. Students also develop the skills necessary for giving oral reports on technical/business articles. Teaches skills for writing summaries. Prerequisite: T C 463. Offered: A.

T C 562 Advanced Japanese for Technical and Business Professions 2 (4) Tsutsui Further develops reading skills. Students read more extensively, expand their technical/business vocabulary, and improve skills for grasping main ideas quickly. Students also improve oral skills for report giving and discussion and writing skills for emails and summaries. Lab work is required. Prerequisite: either T C 561, T C 495, or T C 601.

T C 563 Advanced Japanese for Technical and Business Professions 3 (4) Tsutsui Integrates the reading, oral, and writing skills acquired through the first-year and second-year technical/business Japanese sequences. Students work on research projects, give formal presentations, and submit project reports. Substantial individual readings are involved as well as individual conferences with the instructor on research methods, readings, and report drafts. Prerequisite: T C 562. Offered: Sp.

T C 596 Directed Research in Technical Communication (1-5, max. 10) Students, working in teams under the supervision of individual faculty members, review relevant literature, pose research questions, design and conduct studies, and present the results in papers prepared either for submission to a professional journal or for presentation at a professional conference. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

T C 597 Approaches to Teaching Technical Communication (1-2, max. 2) Kasonic Readings in pedagogical theory of technical communication and discussion of practical applications. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: concurrent teaching appointment or permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

T C 598 Special Topics (1-5, max. 6) Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

T C 599 Special Projects (1-5, max. 5) Written report required. Prerequisite: permission of graduate adviser or committee chair. Offered: AWSpS.

T C 700 Master's Thesis (*) Prerequisite: permission of thesis adviser. Offered: AWSpS.

T C 800 Doctoral Dissertation (1-10) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of thesis adviser. Offered: AWSpS.

College of Forest Resources

College of Forest Resources

CFR 500 Graduate Orientation Seminar (1) Introduction to graduate study at the College, student resources and services, and current research. Offered: A.

CFR 501 Forest Ecosystems-Community Ecology (5) Community ecology of forest ecosystems. Quantitative methods of community description. Role of limiting factors, competition and disturbance in determining community composition, structure and stability. Introduction to forest ecosystem productivity. History and application of successional theory. Prerequisite: basic ecology course or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

CFR 502 Data Collection, Analysis, and Presentation (3) Bakker Design of scientific experiments, collection of data, and use of computers to store, analyze and present data. Limited by equipment availability to 8 students; Urban Horticulture students have priority. Offered: Sp.

CFR 503 Current Issues in Restoration Ecology and Environmental Horticulture (1, max. 10) Critical evaluation and discussion of published research in urban horticulture and restoration. Students and faculty present and discuss research methods and questions from current literature. Offered: AWSp.

CFR 504 Research Processes in Forest Resources (4) Comprehensive survey of research processes for entering graduate students. Diagnostic and prescriptive evaluation of student research capabilities. Problem and hypothesis formulation, study design, multi-method strategies for gathering and analyzing data, and interpretation and presentation of results.

CFR 505 Introduction to Pulp, Paper, and Bioproducts (3) Hodgson, Gustafson Introduction to pulp and paper technology for PSE graduate students who do not have a prior background in pulp and paper. Broad overview of pulp and paper technology and the pulp and paper industry. Offered: concurrently with PSE 201; A.

CFR 507 Soils and Land Use Problems (4) Harrison Environmental concerns of soils; how soil properties control potential and reasonable possibilities of land use. Includes factors controlling soil stability, hydrology, fertility, and movement of pollutants. Field trip oriented with weekly activity summaries. Students also conduct field trips to soil-use problem sites.

CFR 509 Natural Resource Issues: Unspoken Basics (3) Natural resource issues emerge from interactions between humans and their biophysical world. Understanding resource problems and solutions requires integration of numerous areas of knowledge and methods of discovery. Objectives include exposure to, and development of, fundamental issues and skills essential for natural resource professionals. Offered: W.

CFR 510 Graduate Studies in Forest Soils (1-5) Offered: AWSpS.

CFR 512 Biogeochemical Cycling in Soils and Forest Ecosystems (3) Zabowski Elemental cycles in forests and soils. Fundamentals of processes involved in cycling are addressed along with alterations resulting from environment, vegetation, and soil types. Consideration of cycles of nutrients, metals, and other elements. Weekly discussion section reviews literature on biogeochemical cycling. Prerequisite: one soils course or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; W.

CFR 513 Advanced Soil Genesis and Classification (5) Zabowski Soil formation, morphology, classification, and relationship to the environment. Labs and field trips illustrate properties and processes of forest and grassland soils in Washington. Requires two weekend field trips and a graduate project. Prerequisite: ESC 210 or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; Sp.

CFR 514 Advanced Forest Soil Fertility and Chemistry (4) Harrison Chemical properties of soil, nutrient and toxic elements; supply, retention, and loss of nutrients in soils; utilization of geochemical and ecosystem models such as GEOCHEM, MAGIC, TRICLE-DOWN, and ILWAS in developing a quantitative understanding of the chemical function of forest ecosystems. Prerequisite: general chemistry and geology of soils. Offered: odd years; Sp.

CFR 515 Advanced Soil and Plant Analysis (3) Harrison Plants and animals must acquire nutrient elements from their environment. Quantifying the composition of samples is the first step in understanding the processes in natural and manmade systems. Sampling, handling, preparation, storage, and analysis stressed. Prerequisite: one botany or plant science course, instrumental analysis, soils. Offered: even years; Sp.

CFR 519 Conducting and Publishing an Industry Performance Review (3, max. 12) Paun Focuses on the concepts of accounting, finance, and financial statement analysis; techniques for analyzing firm performance; and conducting competitor analyses. Conduct in-depth, comparative performance analyses of U.S. and Canadian paper firms and publish the findings as a peer-reviewed manuscript in a journal. Offered: WSp

CFR 520 Geographic Information Systems in Forest Resources (5) Applications of GIS technology to forest science and management. Fundamental of GIS systems: data sources, preprocessing, map analysis, output; remote sensing as a source of GIS data, image analysis, and classification. Emphasis on GIS as a source of management and technical information requests. Offered: AWSp.

CFR 521 Current Topics in Forest Resources (2-5, max. 10) Critical evaluation and discussion of published research in the broad field of forest resources. Topics and requirements vary. Offered: AWSp.

CFR 522 Plant-Microbe Interactions (1) Doty Discusses current research related to forest tree-microbe interactions. Credit/no credit only. Offered: Sp.

CFR 525 Advanced Wildland Hydrology (4) Bolton Advanced treatment of hydrologic cycle and basic hydrologic methods as applied to wildlands. Effects of forest management activities on hydrologic processes. Graduate focus on a detailed field or modeling hydrologic analysis. Offered: W.

CFR 526 Seminar in Advanced Silviculture (3) Ford Seminar on current and emerging silvicultural issues and underlying biological principles. Topics include: stand management to enhance wildlife, biodiversity and high productivity in sub-tropical and tropical regions; computer simulation of stand growth; adaptation to changes in management objectives; soil conditions and productivity during stand rotation; and minimizing effects of catastrophic disruption. Prerequisite: ESRM 428. Offered: W.

CFR 527 Ecosystems Seminar (1) Discussion by invited speakers on current research related to ecosystems. Credit/no credit only. Offered: A.

CFR 528 International Forestry (3) Gara, Greulich Discussion on biological, social, and economic basis linked with forest practices in the world. Focuses on examples of how forests and renewable resources are both exploited and managed, with thoughts on how these resources can be sustainability managed. Emphasizes group presentations and seminar style discussion. Offered: Sp.

CFR 529 Water Center Seminar (1) Steinmann Weekly seminars covering water resources and watershed topics with lectures from scientists on and off campus. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with FISH 529/PB AF 521; AWSp.

CFR 535 Fire Ecology (3) Fire regime concept as applied to fire ecology. Methodology for fire history research. History and function of forest fire in western United States with emphasis on Pacific Northwest. One weekend field trip. Offered: A.

CFR 541 Advanced Landscape Ecology (5)
Lawler Investigates the causes and consequences of spatial patterns in ecology. Concentrates on applied questions and approaches, covering topics such as scaling, landscape processes, pattern measurement, biogeography, landscape modeling, and conservation planning. Prerequisite: CFR 501. Offered: W.

CFR 545 Principles of Forest Entomology (3)
Gara Historical perspective of the discipline, introduction to general entomology and taxonomy, forest insect ecology, integrated pest management concepts for defoliators, bark beetles, wood borers, and urban forestry pests. Offered: W.

CFR 547 Stream and River Ecology (5) Naiman
Characterizations of stream and river ecosystems from a watershed perspective. Emphasis on fundamental processes affecting the structure and dynamics of aquatic communities and the riparian zone. Resource conflicts, new technologies, field trips, and class projects. Recommended: general ecology, forestry-fisheries interactions. Offered: jointly with FISH 547; Sp.

CFR 549 Urban Horticulture Seminar (1, max. 6) Discussion by invited speakers on current topics in urban horticulture. Credit/no credit only. Offered: A.

CFR 550 Graduate Seminar (2-5, max. 10)
Graduate seminar to evaluate and discuss current research topics in forest resources. Topics and requirements vary. Offered: AWSp.

CFR 554 Wildlife Seminar (1-2, max. 10)
Manuwal, West Discussion of current research and application in wildlife biology and conservation. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

CFR 561 Public Presentation in Urban Horticulture (2) Wott Students learn to make public presentations in scientific, professional, and popular contexts and to interpret technical information for professional and lay audiences. Support materials, such as audiovisuals and graphics are discussed. Offered: W.

CFR 564 Advanced Forest Biometry (3/5)
Turnblom Classical problems in analysis of forest populations and growth theory, and principles of parametric analysis and estimation processes in forest biometry. Offered: odd years; A.

CFR 571 Resource Policy and Administration (5) Study based on understanding of the actors, arenas, issues, and policy communities that form the context for policy development and implementation. Exploration of approaches to policy inquiry. Consideration of implications for both policy and management. Students develop a study design for course project. Offered: jointly with PB AF 592.

CFR 590 Graduate Studies (1-5, max. 5) Study in fields for which there is not sufficient demand to warrant the organization of regular courses. Offered: AWSpS.

CFR 591 Seminar in Resource Policy and Management (1) Ryan Introduction and orientation for concurrent degree program between the Evans School of Public Affairs and the College of Forest Resources. Examines research and literature on contemporary issues related to the integration of natural resource science, policy, and management, through discussion among faculty, students, and invited speakers. Offered: jointly with PB AF 591; A.

CFR 592 Environmental Policy Processes (3)
Cullen Presents background to establish the need for environmental policy. Explores in a comparative manner, examining both successes and failures, various strategies that have been used or proposed to protect the environment. Offered: jointly with PB AF 590.

CFR 595 Graduate Teaching Practicum (1-5, max. 5) Principles of teaching and learning applied to undergraduate instruction in the College of Forest Resources Development, delivery, and evaluation of lectures and homework assignments. Graduate teaching experience for CFR students only. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

CFR 600 Independent Study or Research (*)
Offered: AWSpS.

CFR 601 Graduate Internship in Forest Resources (3-9, max. 9) Graduate internship under the supervision of a college faculty member. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

CFR 700 Master's Thesis (*) Offered: AWSpS.

CFR 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Offered: AWSpS.

Environmental Sciences and Resource Management

ESRM 100 Introduction to Environmental Science (5) I&S/NW Harrison Covers the importance of the environment in society with particular emphasis on worldwide distribution and uses of resources, the role of natural and man-made environments, and causes of environmental degradation. Introduces ethics of conservation and recycling. Cannot be taken for credit if ESC 110 already taken. Offered: AWSpS.

ESRM 101 Forests and Society (5) I&S/NW
Survey course covering forest ecosystems of the world, history of forestry and forest conservation, how forest ecosystems function, wildlife in forests, environmental issues in forestry, forest management, economics and products, and new approaches to forest management. Open to majors and nonmajors. Offered: Sp.

ESRM 150 Wildlife in the Modern World (5) I&S/NW Manuwal Covers major wildlife conservation issues in North America. Some global issues are also treated. Examples of topics include the conservation of large predators, effects of toxic chemicals on wildlife, old-growth wildlife, conservation of marine wildlife, recovery of the bald eagle, and gray wolf. Offered: A.

ESRM 200 Society and Sustainable Environments (5) I&S/NW Bradley, Ryan Introduces the application of social concepts and theories to understanding and managing urban, urbanizing and wildland landscapes in a sustainable manner. Of particular interest are factors that shape patterns on the landscape and resulting social and economic benefits. Explores landscapes across the urban to wildland gradient. : Sp

ESRM 201 Sustaining Pacific Northwest Ecosystems (5) I&S/NW Edmonds, Reichard
Introduces the principles of ecology across an urban to wildland gradient and discusses how these landscapes can be sustainably managed. Explores basic ecological theories, plant communities, soil, climate, pollution, hydrology, and wildlife in classroom, labs, and field trips. Offered: A.

ESRM 210 Introductory Soils (4) NW Zabowski
Physical, chemical, and biological properties that affect distribution and use patterns of this important ecosystem component. Includes soil morphology and genesis, plant nutrition and nutrient cycling, soil water, microbiology, and application of soil properties to environmental concerns. One Saturday field trip. Offered: A.

ESRM 235 Introduction to Environmental Economics (5) NW Introduces environmental and natural resource economics. Discusses fundamental economic concepts, including markets and private property. Includes basic tools used in the economic assessment of environmental problems and applies these methods to key environmental issues.

ESRM 250 Introduction to Geographic Information Systems in Forest Resources (5) NW, QSR Applications of GIS technology to forest science and management. Fundamentals of GIS systems: data sources, preprocessing, map analysis, output; remote sensing as a source of GIS data, image analysis, and classification. Emphasis on GIS as a source of management and technical information requests. Offered: AW.

ESRM 300 Principles of Sustainability (2) I&S/NW Bare Overview of principles of sustainability, including discussion of current literature, presentation, and discussion with practitioners, and methods for balancing social, economic, and ecological consequences of proposed policies and actions. Students develop a plan to further their studies in natural resources and environmental sustainability. Prerequisite: ESRM 200; ESRM 201. Offered: W.

ESRM 304 Environmental and Resource Assessment (5) I&S/NW, QSR The processes of measuring, monitoring, and assessment; illustrated in diverse environmental and resource case studies. Explores the scientific method, hypothesis testing, sampling, and experimental designs, the role of questionnaires and polling techniques, remote sensing techniques, and population measurements. Prerequisite: either Q SCI 381 or STAT 311, either of which may be taken concurrently. Offered: A.

ESRM 310 Trees in Our Environment (5) NW
Explores tree form and function from perspectives of dendrology, ecology, and adaptation in wildland and urban environments. Lectures, projects, and field investigations introduce 50-60 trees of the Pacific Northwest. Acquire skills to increase knowledge of trees. Prerequisite: either BIOL 162 or BIOL 220. Offered: Sp.

ESRM 311 Soils and Land Use (3) NW
Harrison Intended for students concerned with environmental problems in the Puget Sound basin; also for those who intend to become professionally involved in land-planning decisions. Focus is on the significance of soils in understanding environmental problems and in promoting intelligent land-use decisions. Basic concepts of soil systems are presented, stressing those aspects important in making land-planning decisions. Offered: W.

ESRM 315 Natural Resource Issues: Old-Growth and Forest Management (5) I&S/NW Franklin Biological and social elements of current conflicts, especially those associated with old-growth and its disposition. Ecology of Pacific Northwest forests and landscapes, history of forest practices, application of emerging science, proposed alternative practices and policies, including analysis of current proposal and its predecessors and successors. Open to majors and nonmajors. Offered: Sp.

ESRM 320 Marketing and Management from a Sustainability Perspective (5) I&S/NW Paun Introduction to business concepts relating to marketing, human resource management, small businesses and entrepreneurship, and economics in the context of environmental resource management. Offered: A, S.

ESRM 321 Finance and Accounting from a Sustainability Perspective (5) I&S/NW Paun Introduction to business concepts relating to finance, accounting, and international business in the context of environmental resource management. Offered: WS.

ESRM 323 Silviculture (5) NW Turnblom Silviculture techniques, including nursery practices, clear-cutting, seed trees, shelterwood, selection cutting, site preparation, regeneration methods, thinning, fertilization, chemicals, and regional silviculture in the Northeast, Southeast, Midwest, Rocky Mountains, California, Pacific Northwest, and Alaska. Multiple-use field trips. Offered: Sp.

ESRM 325 Forest Bioresources (3) NW Doty Explores current topics in forest bioresources with an emphasis on bioenergy, remediation of pollutants, and carbon sequestration. Prerequisite: either BIOL 162 or BIOL 180. Offered: A.

ESRM 326 Wildlife Habitat and Silviculture (3) NW Principles of wildlife habitat in forest and range ecosystems. Silvicultural principles applicable to wildlife conservation and management. Prerequisite: either ESRM 302 or ESRM 303. Offered: Sp.

ESRM 328 Forestry-Fisheries Interactions (4) NW Schiess Characteristics of forestry-fisheries interactions in terrestrial and aquatic landscapes. Effects of changes in landforms on forest and aquatic communities. River basin and watershed features. Forest stand dynamics, forest hydrology, fish and wildlife histories and behavior. Resource conflicts and resolution. Offered: jointly with FISH 328; even years; Sp.

ESRM 331 Landscape Plant Recognition (3) NW Reichard Field recognition of important groups of woody landscape plants, emphasizing diversity at the genus and family levels. Cultivated plant nomenclature. Plant descriptive characters evident in the field with eye and hand lens. Hardiness and landscape applications. Recommended: either BIOL 117 or BOTANY 113. Offered: jointly with BIOL 331; SpS.

ESRM 350 Wildlife Biology and Conservation (5) NW Manuwal Wildlife ecology and population biology, and interrelationships between wild animals and humans, including encouragement of wildlife population growth and productivity, control of pest populations, and preservation of endangered species with emphasis on forest environments and forest faunas. Open to nonmajors. Prerequisite: either BIOL 102, BIOL

162, BIOL 180, BIOL 202, BIOL 203, or BIOL 220, any of which may be taken concurrently. Offered: W.

ESRM 351 Wildlife Research Techniques (8) NW Manuwal, West Scientific approaches to the field study of wildlife populations and habitat, including species identification and natural history, experimental design, and report writing. Emphasis on direct experience with current field techniques used in the study of vertebrate populations and habitat. Prerequisite: either BIOL 162, BIOL 180, or ESRM 350; recommended Q SCI 381. Offered: Sp.

ESRM 362 Introduction to Restoration Ecology (5) I&S/NW Ewing An introduction to ecological restoration of damaged ecosystems. Examines the philosophical base of restoration as well as the social, biological and political forces that impact the success of any restoration project. Includes lectures, readings, case studies and field trips. Offered: jointly with ENVIR 362; A.

ESRM 368 Natural Resource Measurements (4) NW Turnblom Introduction to principles of measurement, basic field measurement skills, measurement of vegetation, including stand examination, timber cruising, size, weight, volume and biomass of trees, and stream flow. Laboratories include field exercises on sampling techniques for trees and lesser vegetation and linear regression modeling to predict quantities from basic measurements. Prerequisite: either IND E 315 or Q SCI 381; recommended ESRM 304. Offered: W.

ESRM 381 Management of Wildland Recreation and Amenities (3) NW Bradley Introduction and overview of wildland recreation and amenities management. Agency history and objectives explored along with integration of recreation with other land uses. Water, forestry, wildlife, and wilderness resources for recreational uses discussed along with role of private enterprise in recreation and amenities. Topics of current and local interest. Offered: W.

ESRM 399 Undergraduate Internship (1-5, max. 15) Internship experience with a public agency or private company, supervised and approved by a faculty member. Preparation of professional report reflecting on the experience is required. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

ESRM 400 Natural Resource Conflict Management (3) I&S/NW Ryan Introduction to the causes, dynamics, and consequences of natural resource conflicts as well as the range of procedural interventions used to manage conflict. Specific cases of environmental conflict and alternative dispute resolution procedures are examined. Emphasis on developing skills to effectively analyze, manage, and resolve natural resource conflicts. Offered: W.

ESRM 401 Spring Comes to the Cascades (3) NW Hinckley Examines the interaction between forests, environment and growth at three locations in the Cascades, from lowlands to alpine. Field trips and associate observations are linked to classroom or group project activities and are used to understand a number of ecological, physiological and meteorological concepts.

ESRM 402 Curation and Education in Public Gardens (3) I&S/NW Wott Techniques of curatorial practice relevant to living collections of plants, including documentation, policies, conservation, and display. Aspects of establishing and implementation of a public horticulture program including assessment, program tools and methods, and funding in a public environment. Offered: even years; A.

ESRM 403 Forest and Economic Development in the Developing World (4) NW Eastin Examines the relationship between forests and economic development in tropical countries. Topics include the role of population growth, poverty, land tenure, and international trade on forest use as well as theories of economic development. Case examples of forest-based economic development in different countries and regions. : A.

ESRM 404 Forest Science Inquiry for Teachers (5) Inquiry-based scientific methods for K-12 instruction; asking how and why questions; stating answerable questions; forming hypothesis to answer questions; testing hypothesis by making observations, making measurements, and conducting experiments; displaying results. Writing curriculum plans to implement district and state requirements. Offered: S.

ESRM 409 Soil Ecology (5) NW Vogt Soil organisms in forest and other ecosystems, decomposition, nutrient cycling. Nitrogen transformation, mycorrhizae, effects of forest management. Offered: A.

ESRM 410 Forest Soils and Site Productivity (5) NW Harrison Considers unique properties and processes occurring in forest soils throughout the world with emphasis on soils of Pacific Northwest and aspects of forest soils that affect productivity. Two all-day Saturday field trips and one Saturday-Sunday field trip required. Recommended: ESRM 210. Offered: odd years; A.

ESRM 411 Plant Propagation: Principles, and Practice (3) NW Wott Science and practice of plant propagation including sexual (seed) and asexual (cutting, layering, grafting) propagation. Includes discussion of physiological effects, methodology and laboratory exercises. Wide variety of plants covered. Intended for majors in urban horticulture and urban forestry and others interested in reproducing landscape plants. Recommended: 10 credits of introductory biology or botany, or equivalent. Offered: Sp.

ESRM 412 Native Plant Production (3) NW Reichard, Wott Advanced plant propagation techniques, emphasizing native plants, propagation for restoration projects, and unique problems associated with providing appropriate plant material for restoration or conservation purposes. Emphasizes greenhouse and fieldwork, and includes lectures, field trips, and a class project. Recommended: ESRM 411, which may be taken concurrently. Offered: Sp.

ESRM 413 Soil Genesis and Classification (5) NW Zabowski Soil formation, morphology, classification, and relationship to the environment. Labs and weekend field trips illustrate properties and processes of forest and grassland soils in Washington. Recommended: ESRM 210. Offered: even years; Sp.

ESRM 414 Forest Soil Fertility and Chemistry (3) NW Harrison Tree growth depends, in part, on the interaction between chemical and biological activities within a given soil: the biological and chemical parameters that influence the growth; soil solution chemistry and surface reactions; reactions and processes that control essential plant nutrient levels and forms in soil solutions. Recommended: ESRM 210. Offered: even years; Sp.

ESRM 415 Biology, Ecology, and Management of Plant Invasions (5) NW Reichard Explores how biological invasions are one of the most serious threats to the preservation of biodiversity worldwide. Explores the vectors which move plants and their pests, the biology and impacts of the invasive species, and management and policy approaches. Prerequisite: one of the following: BIOL 162, BIOL 220, BIOL 333, BIOL 471, BIOL 472, ESRM 401, ESRM 472, or ESRM 473. Offered: A, odd years.

ESRM 416 Field Survey of Wildland Soils (3) NW Harrison, Zabowski Study of soils in remote sites about which little information is available. Focus is field trip in Cascade Mountains just north of Glacier Peak with prior study of hiking area, soil and ecosystem changes, and wilderness use. Offered: S.

ESRM 420 Wildland Fire Management (5) NW Principles of wildland fire behavior, ecology, and management. Weather, fuels, and topography effects on fire behavior. Forest structure influence on historical and current fire ecology. Principles of firesafe forests. Management issues of fire control and use in wilderness, multiple-use forest, and the wildland-urban interface. Offered: A.

ESRM 423 International Trade, Marketing, and the Environment (3) I&S/NW Roos Introduction to international trade, marketing, and environmental business. Concepts include plan writing, exporting and importing, carbon credits, green marketing, and how global exchange rates affect environmental assets such as forests.

ESRM 425 Ecosystem Management (5) NW Franklin Scientific and social basis for ecological forestry. Forest practices to achieve integrated environmental and economic goals based upon material models of disturbance and stand development including alternative harvesting methods; adaptive management and monitoring; certification and global issues. Offered: A.

ESRM 426 Wildland Hydrology (4) NW Bolton Introduction to the hydrologic cycle and basic hydrologic methods as applied to wildlands. Effects of forest management activities on hydrologic processes. Offered: W.

ESRM 427 Integrated Management of Forest Landscapes in a Changing World (3) Franklin Examines objectives of 21st century forest management along a continuum from economic to ecologic and dominance of mixed objectives; development of integrated approaches to simultaneously achieving ecological and economic goals at large scales and in mixed ownerships; recognizing and dealing with uncertainties associated with social and environmental changes. Prerequisite: ESRM 425. Offered: Sp.

ESRM 428 Principles of Silviculture and Their Application (5) NW Ford Focuses on the biology of major tree species in the PNW and their use in silviculture, stand development in plantation forest systems and its relationship to forest yield, the advantages and limitations of plantation silviculture relating to specific biotic, abiotic and economic conditions and management for objectives other than time yield. Prerequisite: ESRM 323. : A.

ESRM 429 Water Center Seminar (1, max. 6) NW Steinemann Weekly seminars covering water resources and watershed topics with lectures from scientists on and off campus. Credit/ no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

ESRM 430 Aerial Photos/Remote Sensing Natural Resources (3) NW Principles of photogrammetry, interpretation, and remote sensing; and their application to management of natural resources and wildlands. Uses for watersheds, forest resources, wildlife, point and nonpoint pollution, land-use planning, and outdoor recreation. Offered: Sp.

ESRM 435 Forest Entomology (3) NW Gara Introduction to general entomology, characteristics, life histories, ecological relations, prevention, and control of forest insects. Offered: A.

ESRM 436 Laboratory in Forest Entomology (2) NW Gara Introduction to the insect orders; identification of forest insects and their damage. One field trip to study insect problems required. Offered: A.

ESRM 441 Landscape Ecology (5) NW Franklin Basic landscape ecology concepts, including patches, corridors, networks, spatial dynamics; island biogeographic principles; landscape analysis methods; landscape models. Applications of landscape ecology in resources management (e.g., cumulative effects, cutting, patterns, anadromous fisheries, management of wildlife populations, and open-space planning). Recommended: ESRM 326. Offered: W.

ESRM 444 Forest Ecosystems Protection: Insects and Diseases (5) Edmonds, Gara Examines the effects of insects and diseases on wildland and managed forest ecosystems: defoliators, bark beetles, wood boring insects, abiotic and biotic diseases, insects and diseases in intensively managed forests, principles of insect and disease management. Prerequisite: either ESRM 301, 302 or 303 (can be taken concurrently). Offered: odd years: Sp.

ESRM 450 Wildlife Ecology and Conservation (5) NW Marzluff Covers advanced principles of wildlife ecology such as habitat selection, population viability, and landscape ecology, and illustrates how they apply to wildlife conservation problems with terrestrial, aquatic, and marine wildlife. Students must share costs of field trips. Prerequisite: either ESC 350 or ESRM 350; either CFR 250 or ESRM 250; recommended: introductory statistics. Offered: W.

ESRM 451 Urban Plant Protection (5) NW Gara Working knowledge on insects and diseases of plants growing in the urban environment. Emphasis placed on pest and damage recognition, control methods, and integrated pest management systems. Offered: even years; Sp.

ESRM 452 Field Ornithology (3) NW Manuwal Students learn field identification skills and are introduced to field methodologies through required indoor labs, field trips, and field exercises. Exercises include study of survey techniques, feeding ecology, and behavior. Students are required to share field trip costs. Prerequisite: either BIOL 102, BIOL 162, BIOL

180, BIOL 202, BIOL 203, or BIOL 220, any of which may be taken concurrently. Offered: odd years; A.

ESRM 455 Wildlife Seminar (1, max. 8) NW Manuwal, West Discussion of current research and application in wildlife biology and conservation. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

ESRM 456 Biology and Conservation of Birds (3) NW Manuwal Major principles of natural history, avian reproductive biology, population ecology, and national and international conservation strategies for both hunted and un hunted birds. Emphasis on western United States. Prerequisite: either BIOL 102, BIOL 162, BIOL 180, BIOL 202, BIOL 203, or BIOL 220, any of which may be taken concurrently. Offered: odd years; A.

ESRM 457 Fish and Wildlife Toxicology (3/5) NW Overview of fish/wildlife toxicology: history of the field; regulations; methods used to assess risks contaminants pose to fish/wildlife; classes of contaminants and their direct, sublethal and indirect effects; and contemporary threats of contaminants to fish/wildlife, their habitats and prey. Includes laboratory. Offered: jointly with FISH 455; W.

ESRM 458 Management of Endangered, Threatened, and Sensitive Species (5) NW Marzluff Biological underpinnings and political realities of endangered species management, including: legal issues, recovery teams, citizen rights, extinction, rarity, proactive management, captive propagation, reintroduction, species endangered in the Pacific Northwest. Students revise endangered species recovery plans. Offered: A.

ESRM 459 Wildlife Conservation in Northwest Ecosystems (3) NW Manuwal, West Extended field course offers Wildlife Science students personal interactions with wildlife managers and wildlife populations in strategic public and private lands in the northwestern United States and southern Canada. Students will share costs of trip. Offered when there is sufficient student demand. Prerequisite: ESRM 350; may not be repeated. Offered: Sp.

ESRM 460 Institutionalizing Sustainable Ecological Practices. (5) I&S/NW Introduction to how sustainability and conservation are possible. Case studies of successful institutionalization of sustainable ecological functions, including curbside and biosolids recycling, ecological restoration, bioremediation, sustainable wood production, and product certification. Emphasis on individual student projects. Offered: jointly with ENVIR 460; Sp.

ESRM 461 Forest Management and Economics (5) I&S/NW Greulich Presents important contemporary decision tools, especially how they are used by forest managers so they can interpret, critique and develop their basic applications in forestry. Topics include optimization techniques, including linear and nonlinear programming, concepts in interest and time evaluation of alternatives, marginal cost analysis and computer spreadsheet assisted analysis. Prerequisite: Q SCI 381 or STAT 311; Q SCI 291 or MATH 124. Offered: W.

ESRM 462 Restoration Ecology Capstone: Introduction (2) NW Ewing, Fridley First of a three-course capstone sequence in restoration ecology. Students review and assess project plans and installations. Class meets with members of previous capstone classes to review their projects. Offered: jointly with ENVIR/TESC/BES 462. Offered: A.

ESRM 463 Restoration Ecology Capstone: Proposal and Plan (3) NW Ewing, Fridley
Student teams prepare proposals in response to requests for proposals (RFPs) from actual clients. Clients may be governments, non-profit organizations, and others. Upon acceptance of the proposal, teams prepare restoration plans. Prerequisite: ESRM 462. Offered: jointly with ENVIR/TESC/BES 463. Offered: W.

ESRM 464 Restoration Ecology Capstone: Field Site Restoration (5) NW Ewing, Fridley
Teams take a restoration plan developed in ESRM 463 and complete the installation. Team participation may include supervision of volunteers. Teams prepare management guidelines for the client and conduct a training class for their use. Prerequisite: ESRM 463. Offered: jointly with ENVIR/TESC/BES 464. : Sp.

ESRM 465 Economics of Conservation (3) I&S/NW Perez-Garcia
Economic principles and their use in the analysis of contemporary conservation problems. Particular emphasis directed toward the conservation of forest resources in the Pacific Northwest and related policy issues. : Sp.

ESRM 468 Forest Operations (5) Schiess
Examines forest land surveying, low volume road access planning, and timber harvesting concepts. Low volume road design principles and practical application of field road location. Overview of road drainage design, construction techniques and maintenance. Reviews basic harvest systems and setting design processes, including cost, production control, environmental and safety considerations. Prerequisite: ESRM 250; ESRM 323; ESRM 368. Offered: Sp.

ESRM 470 Natural Resource Policy and Planning (5) I&S/NW Bradley, Ryan
Introduction to and analysis of environmental policy-making processes, with a focus on forest and land policy and law. Use of policy models to examine the interaction of agencies, interest groups, Congress, and the courts in the legislative process. Policy implementation, evaluation, and change are also addressed. Offered: A

ESRM 471 Urban Forest Landscapes (5) NW Bradley
Comprehensive view of urban forest and urban forest landscapes. Includes close examination of factors that differentiate urban forest landscapes along the urban to wildland gradient. Compare legal, social, political, administrative, physical, and biological variations. Offered: Sp.

ESRM 472 Wetland Ecology and Management (5) NW Ewing
Wetland types and functions, global and North American distribution, wetland plant types, soil chemistry. The influence of stresses on wetland composition and form. Autecology of wetland plants; response to and detection of stresses. Impacts of urbanization; management techniques. Recommended: either BIOL 471, BIOL 472, BOTANY 354, or BOTANY 371. Offered: A.

ESRM 473 Ecosystem-Based Restoration Ecology (5) NW Ewing
Philosophy of restoration, structural components of ecosystem degradation, analysis of restoration projects and methods, and an ecosystem by ecosystem review of how systems are restored. An ecology courses that emphasizes applied scientific knowledge of ecosystems. Recommended: plant ecology, plant identification, horticulture, landscape ecology coursework. Offered: W.

ESRM 478 Plant Ecophysiology (5) NW Kim
Explores physiological mechanisms that underlie ecological observations, including how above- and below-ground microclimates develop and affect plant physiological processes. Discusses acclimation to environmental change along with species differences in physiological processes and plant's occupation of heterogeneous environments. Laboratories emphasize field measurement techniques. Prerequisite: either BIOL 102, BIOL 162, or BIOL 220. Offered: jointly with BIOL 424; W

ESRM 479 Restoration Design (5) I&S/NW Fridley
Covers the design process in ecosystem restoration demonstrated through examples of restoration necessitated by a number of extractive processes and other consumptive practices in human society. Examples include agriculture, forestry, grazing, wetland damage, water use, mining, recreation, urban activities, transportation and waste management. : Sp.

ESRM 480 Landscape Plant Science and Sustainable Management (5) NW Kim Principles and practices of plant management in urban and modified landscapes. Physiological basis for plant management and selection; site analysis and preparation; plant installation and aftercare; plant performance evaluation; long-term sustainable management and plant health care. Recommended: either ESRM 210 or ESRM 311; either BIOL 116 or BIOL 117. Offered: A.

ESRM 489 Foreign Study (1-5, max. 15)
Individual foreign study of topics for which there is not sufficient demand to warrant the organization of regular classes. Offered: AWSpS.

ESRM 490 Special Topics (1-5, max. 15)
Individual tutorial study of topics for which there is not sufficient demand to warrant the organization of regular classes. Offered: AWSpS.

ESRM 494 Senior Thesis Proposal (5)
Selection of a thesis topic, literature review, and preparation of a formal senior thesis proposal. Students select a faculty advisor to assist them in the proposal writing process. Regular or Honors credit. Offered: AWSpS.

ESRM 495 Senior Project (5)
Individual study of an environmental science and resource management problem under direction of a faculty member. Requires a written project report. Generally taken in last year of residence. Offered: AWSpS.

ESRM 496 Senior Thesis (5)
Statistical analysis and presentation of research results and discussion of results in a thesis paper. Students work with faculty advisors to complete field or laboratory research and then prepare the senior thesis. Offered: AWSpS.

ESRM 499 Undergraduate Research (1-5, max. 15)
Individual research supervised by a faculty member. For advanced students desiring to extend their educational experience. Offered: AWSpS.

Paper Science and Engineering

PSE 102 Paper, Society, and the Environment (5) I&S/NW Gustafson
Types of products and patterns of use. Overview of manufacturing processes in terms of raw material, costs, world trade and consumer requirements. Environmental implications of manufacturing, recycling, and disposal of paper and its byproducts. Societal and environmental costs of substituting petroleum-based or nonwood raw materials in paper products. Offered: A.

PSE 104 Products and Energy from Renewable Resources (5) I&S/NW
Introduction to the structure, composition, and availability of renewable resources. Conversion of these materials into solid products, energy, and useful chemicals. Particular attention to the production of fiber (paper/board), fuels (ethanol/aromatics), and specialty chemicals (biopolymers, medicines, etc.). Includes weekly laboratory session. : Sp.

PSE 201 Introduction to Pulp, Paper, and Bioproducts (3) NW Gustafson, Hodgson, McKean
Broad overview of the science and technology of producing pulp and paper. Introduction of the PSE major course sequence and various career options. Examination of Pacific Northwest pulp and paper production facilities. Offered: concurrently with CFR 505; A.

PSE 202 Pulp and Paper Lab and Field Studies (1) NW Gustafson, Hodgson, McKean
Laboratory and field trip studies in pulp and paper technology. Visits to local forest product manufacturing facilities. Required for PSE majors. Credit/no credit only. Offered: A.

PSE 211 Creativity and Society (5) VLPA, I&S Allan
Explores the nature of creativity and innovation in U.S. and other societies. Investigates the processes of thinking and techniques of idea generation in fields such as art, music, science, engineering and medicine. Offered: A.

PSE 248 Paper Properties (4) NW
Acquaints students with raw material characteristics, physical and mechanical concepts, nomenclature, and procedures related to evaluating paper and paperboard product properties. Emphasizes structural, optical, mechanical, and moisture related properties. Prerequisite: PSE 201. Offered: A.

PSE 309 Creativity and Innovation (2) VLPA Allan
Understanding creativity and creative thinking; its challenges and dynamics through knowledge, judgment, planning, and observation. Techniques of creative thinking. Design and development of creative games. Computer-aided creative thinking. Creation, protection, and exploitation of a useful idea, including bargaining and negotiations. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 309; Sp.

PSE 399 Undergraduate Internship (1-5, max. 15)
Internship experience with a public agency or private company, supervised and approved by a faculty member. Preparation of professional report reflecting on the experience is required. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

PSE 402 Paper Physics (3) NW Johnson
Exploration of paper product behavior from a materials science perspective. Fundamental laws of physics, both deterministic and statistical, will be used to explain experimental results. Discusses and analyzes theoretical models to explain paper behavior. Prerequisite: PSE 248; PHYS 121, 122, 123. Offered: A.

PSE 404 Raw Materials and Wet End Chemistry of Papermaking (3) NW McKean, Hodgson Examines fiber properties for producing various paper and paperboard products. Studies the effects of fiber length, coarseness, and general morphology on properties. Explores characteristics, processing and use of secondary fiber and nonwood fiber. Introduces surface and colloid chemistry; papermaking •ewet end chemistry•; fillers, and functional additives. Prerequisite: PSE 201; PSE 202; PSE 248. Offered: Sp.

PSE 406 Natural Products Chemistry (3) NW Bura Covers the essential in natural products chemistry ? celluloses, hemicelluloses, lignins, and extractives. Describes structure and chemistry of lignocellulosic biomass, as well as current work in the conversion of residues to bioethanol. Prerequisite: either CHEM 237 or CHEM 335.

PSE 450 Paper Science and Engineering Seminar (1, max. 4) Discussion of current topics in the science and technology of pulp and paper production. Emphasis on employer expectations of students in the paper science industry. Credit/no credit only. Offered: Sp.

PSE 476 Pulping and Bleaching Processes (3) Gustafson Conversion of wood to mechanical and chemical pulps. Kraft, sulfite, and semi-chemical pulping processes. Chemical recovery systems. Bleaching of mechanical and chemical pulps. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 471; W.

PSE 477 Papermaking Processes (3) Fiber sources and properties. Secondary fibers. Stock preparation, sheet forming, water removal, finishing. Coating, lamination, and printing. Paper products. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 472; A.

PSE 478 Pulp and Paper Laboratory (2) Laboratory experiments in chemical and semi-chemical pulping of wood. Bleaching of chemical and high-yield pulps. Physical and chemical characteristics of pulp fibers. Prerequisite: PSE 476. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 473; Sp.

PSE 479 Pulp and Paper Laboratory II (3) Paper testing, paper additives, flocculation, drainage, retention, heat transfer, and fluid dynamics in papermaking from virgin and recycled raw materials. Prerequisite: PSE 402; PSE 477. Offered: W.

PSE 480 Pulp and Paper Process Control (3) Gustafson Control of pulp and paper processes. Sensors, actuators, interface equipment, and computer control strategies common to this industry. Prerequisite: PSE 476; PSE 477. Offered: W.

PSE 481 Pulp and Paper Unit Operation (3) Unit operations of particular interest in the pulp and paper industry in addition to those covered in CHEM E 330 and 340. Prerequisite: CHEM E 340. Offered: W.

PSE 482 Paper Science and Engineering Design I (3) I&S/NW Briggs, Gustafson Basic engineering economics applied to design of pulp and paper facilities. Analysis of engineering alternatives based on use cost analysis and accounting tools. Introduction to process and mill design. Prerequisite: 2.0 in PSE 406; 2.0 in PSE 476; 2.0 in PSE 477. Offered: Sp.

PSE 487 Paper Science and Engineering Design II (5) Comprehensive design of pulp and paper processes, including: economic feasibility studies; process equipment design, optimization, and control; and overall process integration and layout. Safety and ethics in the design process. Prerequisite: PSE 482, which may be taken concurrently. Offered: Sp.

PSE 488 Polymer Chemistry (3) Allan Fundamental review of synthetic and natural polymers, including kinetics of formation, molecular weight distributions, and solid-state and solution properties. Prerequisite: either CHEM 237 or CHEM 335. Offered: W.

PSE 489 Foreign Study (1-5, max. 15) Individual foreign study of topics for which there is not sufficient demand to warrant the organization of regular classes. Offered: AWSpS.

PSE 490 Special Topics (1-5, max. 15) Individual tutorial study of topics for which there is not sufficient demand to warrant the organization of regular classes. Offered: AWSp.

PSE 491 Undergraduate Studies (1-5, max. 5) Individual tutorial study of topics for which there is not sufficient demand to warrant the organization of regular classes. Offered: AWSp.

PSE 492 Undergraduate Studies (1-5, max. 5) Individual tutorial study of topics for which there is not sufficient demand to warrant the organization of regular classes. Offered: AWSpS.

PSE 494 Senior Thesis Proposal (5) Selection of a thesis topic, literature review, and preparation of a formal senior thesis proposal. Students select a faculty advisor to assist them in the proposal writing process. Regular or Honors credit.

PSE 495 Senior Project (5) Individual study of an environmental science and resource management problem under direction of a faculty member. Requires a written project report. Generally taken in last year of residence. Offered: AWSpS.

PSE 496 Senior Thesis (5) Statistical analysis and presentation of research results and discussion of results in a thesis paper. Students work with faculty advisors to complete field or laboratory research and then prepare the senior thesis. Offered: AWSpS.

PSE 497 Pulp and Paper Internship (1-2, max. 3) Technical and economic analysis of commercial pulp and paper installations. Structured visits to industrial operations to observe technical aspects of pulp and paper curriculum in practice. Preparation of visitation reports and analysis in seminar setting. Offered: AWSpS.

PSE 499 Undergraduate Research (1-5, max. 15) Individual research supervised by a faculty member. For advanced students desiring to extend their educational experience. Offered: AWSpS.

The Information School

Informatics

INFO 100 Fluency in Information Technology (5) QSR Introduces skills, concepts, and capabilities necessary to effectively use information technology. Includes logical reasoning, managing complexity, operation of computers and networks, and contemporary applications such as effective Web searching and database manipulation, ethical aspects, and social impacts of information technology. Offered: jointly with CSE 100.

INFO 198 Introductory Seminars in Informatics (1-5, max. 13) Selected introductory topics in informatics oriented toward freshman and non-major undergraduates and presented in a seminar format. Topics and content vary to represent the interests of the Information School faculty. Credits do not automatically apply to major/minor requirements.

INFO 200 Intellectual Foundations of Informatics (5) Information as an object of study, including theories, concepts, and principles of information, information seeking, cognitive processing, knowledge representation and restructuring, and their relationships to physical and intellectual access to information. Development of information systems for storage, organization, and retrieval. Experience in the application of theories, concepts, and principles.

INFO 220 Information Research Strategies (3/5) I&S Use information technology for research and information problem-solving. Create web sites or other presentations, as well as find, manage, and evaluate information, and learn the ethical and legal constraints on information use.

INFO 221 Information Research Strategies in History (3) I&S Information research and problem solving in the context of history. Focuses on identifying information, need, information seeking, evaluation and presentation, and selection of the appropriate sources. Offered: jointly with HIST 221.

INFO 222 Understanding Photographs as Historic Documents (3) I&S/NW Introduction to understanding how to view and interpret information contained in photographs. Examines the photograph as artifact, intent of the photographer, photographic cuds and meanings; how such information is used, misused, and manipulated for various purposes and how to navigate archival institutions in search of photographs. Offered: jointly with HIST 222.

INFO 299 Study Abroad - Informatics (1-5, max. 15) For participants in study abroad program. Specific course content varies. Credits do not automatically apply to major requirements.

INFO 310 Individual Perspectives on Information Systems (5) I&S Social, cognitive, behavioral, and contextual aspects of information systems, including human information behavior, interpersonal interaction, and social responses to information technology. Emphasis on well-being and information exchanges as a communicative event. Exposure to experimental and naturalistic methodologies through laboratory assignments and field work.

INFO 320 Information Needs, Searching, and Presentation (5) Introduction to information needs, database and information organization and structure, Web and database searching and browsing, and information presentation. Examination of underlying principles in knowledge representation, indexing, record structures, online search process, search strategies and tactics, assessment of user needs, reference interviewing, post-processing, organization and presentation of information.

INFO 330 Information Structures (5) Introduction to the concepts and methods used to analyze, store, manage, and present information and navigation. Equal weight is given to understanding structures and implementing them. Topics include information analysis and organization methods, XML, and metadata concepts and application.

INFO 340 Database Management and Information Retrieval (5) NW Theories and models in system-centered approaches to information retrieval and database management. Information retrieval and database management systems include text and multimedia databases, web search engines and digital libraries. Issues in system design, development and evaluation, and tools for searching, retrieval, user interfaces, and usability. Prerequisite: CSE 373.

INFO 341 Computer Networks and Distributed Applications (5) NW Basic concepts of local and wide area computer networking including an overview of services provided by networks, network topologies and hardware, packet switching, client/server architectures, network protocols, and network servers and applications. Also addresses management, security, authentication, and policy issues associated with distributed systems. Prerequisite: CSE 143.

INFO 344 Web Tools and Development (5) Introduction to fundamental web technologies with an emphasis on scripting and programming. Includes both client and server technologies. Examines effective information architecture for Web sites, information presentation on Web pages, privacy policies, and Web security. Prerequisite: CSE 142.

INFO 360 User-Centered Design (5) Introduces the theory and practice of user-centered design. Examines methods for identifying users' needs, understanding users' behaviors, envisioning and prototyping new systems, and evaluating the usability of systems. Emphasis on incorporating people in the design process from initial field observations to summative usability testing.

INFO 380 Information Systems Analysis and Management (5) Examines the evolution of how information is defined and managed in order to add value to organizations. Views information management and the CIO as key facilitators in creating or improving relationships, processes, competitiveness, products, and services.

INFO 414 Information Behavior (5) Advanced study of information behavior. Focus on the user-centered approach and the research literature of human information behavior. Introduces methods for evaluating and translating the results of user behavior studies into the design of information services and systems. Prerequisite: INFO 310.

INFO 419 Special Topics in Social Aspects of Information (1-5, max. 10) Various topics in the social aspects of information. Offered by visitors or resident faculty.

INFO 424 Information Visualization and Aesthetics (5) VLPA Examines the visualization of information: the effects of human perception, the aesthetics of information design, the mechanics of visual display, and the semiotics of iconography. Examples may include census, epidemiological, crime, earth satellite, and medical data in the contexts of special computer applications, user populations, and cultures. Prerequisite: CSE 143.

INFO 430 Knowledge Organization and Representation (5) Advanced study of knowledge organization using classificatory structures and creation of metadata element sets for representation. Conceptual and practical foundations for creating systems for information organization and representation. The creation, application, and use of a variety of systems and techniques for information organization and representation. Prerequisite: INFO 300; INFO 320.

INFO 440 Design Methods for Interaction and Systems (5) NW Theoretical and practical examination of the information systems design process. Techniques for assessing the need for technology, specifying the system design, and involving users in the design process are explored. Design methods include social impact statements, future scenarios, mock-ups, rapid prototyping, field-testing, heuristic evaluation. Prerequisite: CSE 373.

INFO 444 Value-Sensitive Design (5) Introduction to value-sensitive design (VSD), information system design that accounts for human values in a principled and comprehensive manner. Examination of existing systems from a VSD perspective. Explores VSD research methods including conceptual, technical, empirical investigations. Key values include accountability, autonomy, consent, privacy, property, trust, sustainability. Prerequisite: CSE 373.

INFO 445 Advanced Database Design, Management, and Maintenance (5) Advanced perspectives on DBMS theory, architecture, and implementation. Conceptual, logical, physical modeling. Index structures, query optimization and performance tuning, relational algebra, transaction processing, and concurrency control. Operational databases, decision support systems, and data warehousing. Projects in database implementation and integration. Social implications of large distributed database systems. Prerequisite: INFO 340; CSE 373.

INFO 446 Advanced Search Engine Systems (5) Focus on design, development and evaluation of search engines. Theories and models in information retrieval for text and multimedia databases, Web search engines, recommendation systems, and digital libraries. Topics include language issues, data-mining, machine learning, user-profiling, visualization, user interfaces, usability. Coursework involves analytical comparisons of search engines. Prerequisite INFO 340.

INFO 447 Computer Supported Cooperative Work (5) Focuses on design and use of collaboration technologies to communicate, share information, and coordinate activity. Emphasis on behavioral and social aspects of adopting and using these technologies. Topics include the history of work in this and related fields, collaboration support for teams, organizations, and communities. Prerequisite: INFO 310.

INFO 449 Special Topics in Information Technology (1-5, max. 10) Various topics in information technology.

INFO 450 Information Ethics and Policy (5) Provides a framework for analyzing the ethical, legal, economic, and socio-political issues surrounding information, information technologies, and the information industries. Explores policy and ethical issues of information access and control including; intellectual property, file sharing, free speech, privacy, and national security.

INFO 454 Information Policy: Domestic and Global (5) National and international information policy: public and private sector policy in terms of privacy, access, and exploitation; technology infrastructures and policies supporting the information industries; digital convergence and the emerging mega-industries. Prerequisite: INFO 311.

INFO 458 Reading Seminar in Social Aspects of Information Systems (2, max. 12) Addresses foundational issues in social aspects of information systems. Introduction to the intellectual traditions that underlie fields such as computer ethics, social informatics, and value sensitive design. Format entails in-depth discussions based on careful reading of primary source texts selected by seminar participants.

INFO 470 Research Methods in Informatics (5) Introduction to the research process investigating information needs, creation, organization, flow, retrieval, and use. Stages include: research definition, questions, objectives, data collection and management, data analysis, and data interpretation. Techniques include: observation, interviews, questionnaires, and transaction-log analysis. Prerequisite: STAT 220 or STAT 311.

INFO 481 Project Management in Informatics (4) Introduces project management principles within the context of Informatics. Provides knowledge that managers need to implement information systems on time and within budget. Concentrates on methods and issues in organizing, planning, and controlling projects, and the use of computer-based project management tools.

INFO 484 Information Entrepreneurship (5) Investigates the development of innovative human-centered informatics products, with emphasis on the unique challenges and opportunities in high-value information products. Includes competition, strategic planning, tactical marketing, informatics product launches, and applied infopreneurship. Teamwork to create and present plans for innovative informatics products/services. Prerequisite: either INFO 300, INFO 310, or INFO 311.

INFO 490 Design and Development of Interactive Systems (4-8, max. 8) Design and formative evaluation of an interactive information system to solve a real problem. Student-organized team projects are encouraged. Must be taken for a minimum of 5 credits.

Prerequisite: INFO 340; INFO 341; INFO 380; INFO 440.

INFO 495 Internship in Informatics (1-5, max. 12) Internship in the private or public sector, as approved by faculty member. Work jointly supervised by faculty member (or approved academic sponsor) and an on-site work supervisor. .

INFO 498 Special Topics in Informatics (1-5, max. 15) Various topics in informatics.

INFO 499 Independent Study (1-5, max. 15) Readings, design projects, or research under faculty supervision. .

<2>Information School

INFX 501 Concepts in Algorithmic Thinking for Information (1) Presents programming concepts in the context of information science including the concepts of the algorithm, data storage, expressions, syntax, logic, objects, commands, and events. Introduces the algorithmic manipulation of information objects, and the mindset and methods of computer programming and application development. Credit/no credit only.

INFX 502 Database Concepts for Information Professionals (1) Introduces the terminology and concepts of working with relational database management systems. Emphasizes working with tables and extracting information from data using Structures Query Language (SQL) commands and tools. Credit/ no credit only.

INFX 503 Website Design Concepts for information Professionals (1) Introduces the context and construction of websites presenting an integrated understanding of we design principles, information behavior, and technical skills. Emphasizes the roll of markup in information display and organization, the development of large sites, web strategy, and site construction. Credit/no credit only.

INFX 504 Networking and Network Applications for Information Professionals (1) Introduces the concepts, terminology and technologies of digital networks, including how networks operate and the influence networks have on the workplace and society. Includes preparation to think critically about the impacts of networking technologies on organizations, work groups and information systems. Credit/no credit only.

Information Management and Technology

IMT 500 The Information Management Framework (1) Overview of the major concepts in the MSIM curriculum. Includes an introduction to the concept of information as well as its relation to organizational management, technology, and design and culture.

IMT 501 Technology Foundations for Information Professionals (1-5, max. 5) Introduction to selected topics in information technology including systems concepts, computer architecture, computer network communication, discrete mathematics, database design, algorithms and data structures, imperative programming, markup languages, and end-user programming tools.

IMT 510 Human Aspects of Information Systems (4) Social, organizational, cognitive, behavioral and contextual aspects of information, including basic concepts in human information behavior, conceptual and practical frameworks used to study human-information interaction, and social responses to information technology. User-based and work-based evaluation and design of information systems. Exposure to experimental and interview methodologies.

IMT 520 Information Services and Resources (4) Concepts, processes, and skills of information involving creation, production, distribution, selection, collection, and services to facilitate access. Analysis of the information mediation process, including determining information needs; searching for, evaluation and presentation of appropriate results; and modalities for delivery of services.

IMT 525 Information Management and Technology in Sports (3) Explores the information perspective, including the role and the use of information, information management, and information technologies applied to the sports context. Examines modern and emerging information management and technology systems and their design and use in administering intercollegiate athletic functions.

IMT 530 Organization of Information Resources (4) Introduction to issues in organization of information and information objects including analysis of intellectual and physical characteristics of information objects; use of metadata and metadata standards for information systems; theory of classification, including semantic relationships and facet analysis; creation of controlled vocabularies; and display and arrangement.

IMT 531 Metadata Design and Interoperability (3) Design principles of metadata schemas and application profiles ? implementation of interoperable application profiles using XML technology. Focuses on achieving syntactic and semantic interoperability among diverse metadata schemas and application profiles. Prerequisite: either IMT 530, IMT 541, or instructor's permission.

IMT 532 Ontology Design and Interoperability (3) Studies semantic interoperability among different metadata schemas and ontologies. Elaborates on concepts and technology related to Topic Maps, RDF Schema, and Web Ontology Language (OWL) to achieve advanced and semantic data modeling of complex data that exist in the real world. Prerequisite: IMT 531 or instructor's permission.

IMT 540 Design methods for Interaction and Systems (4) Introduction to the theory and practice of user-centered design. Examines design methods for identifying and describing user needs, specifying and prototyping new systems, and evaluating the usability of systems. Examines design methodologies such as contextual design and value-sensitive design, giving specific emphasis to human-information interaction. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

IMT 541 Principles of Database and Semi-Structured Data Systems (5) Introduction of database management systems for teh storage and access of structured and semi-structured information. Examines the relational model, Structured Query Language (SQL), Entity-Relationship modeling, database design methodology ) conceptual, logical, and physical design), and Extensible Markup Language (XML) for storage, retrieval, and interchange. Prerequisite: IMT 540.

IMT 542 Principles of Information Retrieval Systems (3) Introduction to information systems for the storage and retrieval of unstructured information. Examines information retrieval architectures, processes, retrieval models, query languages, and methods of system evaluation. Gives emphasis to Internet-based services for storing and accessing information to be used in integrated application development. Prerequisite: IMT 540.

IMT 546 Data Communications and Networking (4) Local and wide area computer networking including network topologies and hardware, packet switching, client/server architectures, network protocols, and network servers and applications. Addresses server operating systems, management, security, authentication, and policy issues associated with distributed networks. Prerequisite: IMT 510.

IMT 548 Information System Design (5) Theoretical and practical examination of information systems analysis and design processes as they apply in the workplace. Explores techniques for assessing the need for technology, defining specifications, and involving users in the design process. Design methods include social impact statements, future scenarios, mock-ups, rapid prototyping, and field-testing. Prerequisite: IMT 540.

IMT 550 Policy, Law, and Ethics in Information Management (3) Select concepts, processes, and issues related to the organizational contexts within which information professionals practice. Topics include information as public/private good, intellectual property, privacy, confidentiality, information liability, and information policy. Focus on contemporary issues affecting the role of the information manager.

IMT 551 Foundations of Organizational Information Assurance (3) Examines concepts, elements, strategies, skills related to the life cycle of information assurance ? involving policies, practices, mechanisms, dissemination and validation ? that ensure the confidentiality, integrity, and availability of information and information systems. Analysis of the information assurance planning process, including determination and analysis of information assurance organization goals, the threat spectrum, risk, and legal and ethical issues.

IMT 552 Information Assurance Risk Assessment and Management (3) Examines the concepts, processes and skills related to risk management in information assurance involving risk assessment, risk analysis and mitigation planning. Analysis of the risk management process through several structured approaches that facilitate information assurance decision-making. Prerequisite: IMT 551.

IMT 553 Establishing and Managing Information Assurance Strategies (3-5) Applies and combines information assurance concepts, processes and skills to solve case studies from practitioner experiences and explore the role of policy in creating a successful information assurance program. Prerequisite: IMT 551, IMT 552.

IMT 580 Management of Information Organizations (4) Introduction to internal and external management issues and practices in information organizations. Examines key topics drawn from the fields of organizational theory and behavior, including planning and decision-making, organizational structure, leadership and motivation. Reviews strategic and operational issues including human and organizational issues related to technology introduction, use, and management.

IMT 581 Information and the Management of Change (3) Practical application of the critical roles and aspects of information and information processes in the management of organizational change. Topics include organization learning, knowledge management as a process, business process change, change project management, business/competitive intelligence, benchmarking, and best practices. Prerequisite: IMT 580.

IMT 582 Strategic Information Initiatives (4) Studies and applies strategic information initiatives within an organization, including: readiness assessment, organizational mandates, information inventories, content management, information audits, and information architecture initiatives. Focuses on building business cases for and leading information initiatives in organizations. Prerequisite: IMT 581.

IMT 583 Finance and Accounting Foundations for Information Professionals (3) Introduction to financial accounting, including the principles of double-entry accounting, balance sheets, income, and cash flow statements. Covers key financial ratios and their use for various analytical purposes, along with the elements of a financial plan or budget. Prerequisite: IMT 510; IMT 580.

IMT 584 Marketing Foundations for Information Professionals (3) Introduction to the principles of marketing. Looks at how to assess an environment from a marketing perspective, consumer and business behavior, market segmentation, product/service strategies, new product development processes, pricing, channels, retail/wholesale, marketing communication, and direct selling. Prerequisite: IMT 510; IMT 580.

IMT 585 Human Resource Management Foundations for Information Professionals (3) Introduction to human resource management for information professionals. Covers the principles of job analysis, employee selection, interviewing, training, and appraisal. Prerequisite: IMT 510; IMT 580.

IMT 586 Information Dynamics I (4) Introduction to the concepts and methods of information feedback, systems thinking, soft systems methodology (SSM), and "soft operations research," as well as the quantitative modeling of complex dynamic systems by means of differential and integral equations (system dynamics). Offered: jointly with INSC 586.

IMT 587 Information Dynamics II (4) Advanced concepts and methods of information feedback, systems thinking, soft systems methodology (SSM), and "soft operations research," as well as the quantitative modeling of complex dynamic systems by means of differential and integral equations (system dynamics), including model building, testing, and validating. Prerequisite: IMT 586.

IMT 588 Project Management in Information Organizations (4) Examines roles, responsibilities, and methods of planning, and controlling projects. Analysis of critical issues such as the relationship between project management and; organizational culture, structure, and processes; cross-functional and globally distributed teams; project governance, metric, and risk and performance management; communication, decision-making, and conflict resolution; organizational learning, change and knowledge management. Offered: jointly with INSC 588.

IMT 589 Special Topics in Information Management (1-4, max. 12) Special study and research in topics of current concern to faculty and students.

IMT 595 Stakeholders, Information, and Technology (3-5, max. 5) Capstone experience. Addresses system integration and the increasing demand to apply a broad range of technologies to the information needs of diverse user groups during the implementation of comprehensive information systems across an organization. Encourages student-organized individual/team projects. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: completion of IMT core courses 510 through 582.

IMT 598 Emerging Trends in Information Management and Technology (3) Focus on emerging trends in information management and information technology. Attention given to their impact on the functions of the chief information officer and others managing the acquisition, retention, use and disposition of information and the enabling technologies. Exploration of methods and resources for trend discovery and tracking. Prerequisite: IMT 510.

IMT 590 Fieldwork in Information Management (1-4, max. 12) Supervised fieldwork. May be taken in as many as six consecutive quarters. Prerequisite: enrollment in the MSIM program.

IMT 600 Independent Study or Research in Information Management (1-4) Supervised independent study or research. May be taken in as many as six consecutive quarters. Prerequisite: enrollment in the MSIM program.

Information Science

INSC 500 Faculty Seminar(2) Presentations by faculty concerning research projects in which they are involved.

INSC 501 Theoretical Foundations for Information Science (3) In-depth exploration of the philosophical, theoretical, methodological, and historical foundation of information science and the study of information.

INSC 510 Theoretical Foundations of Human Information Behavior (4) Study of constructs, concepts, models, and theories information scientists use in studying human information behavior. Socio-cognitive aspects of individuals needing, seeking, giving, and using information. Models of information behavior, conceptual frameworks, assumptions, analytical tools, and the factors that differentiate groupings of information users and predict or influence information behavior.

INSC 512 Community Analysis (4) Explores key concepts of community in its broadest sense, methodological approaches for analyzing information needs and available resources, how to design information services in response to identified needs, and service evaluation. Facilitating the information behavior of all groups within a community and identifying how their needs interconnect. Prerequisite: LIS 510. Offered: jointly with LIS 512.

INSC 518 Seminar in Human Information Interaction (4) Investigates conceptual frameworks, assumptions, analytical tools, concepts, models, and theories in human information interaction (HII). Topics may include theories of information behavior, information behavior in everyday life, social informatics, HII in organizations, or personal information management. Previous readings in HII preferred. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

INSC 530 Knowledge Representation (2/4) In-depth survey of the various approaches to knowledge representations in areas such as taxonomy, library classification, anthropology, cognitive psychology, linguistics, and artificial intelligence.

INSC 535 Classification Theory (3) Survey of classificatory principles from bibliographic, philosophical, socio-cognitive, and linguistic perspectives. Overview of history of bibliographic classification and exploration of some existing bibliographic classification systems. Ramification of theoretical approach for classification practice. Prerequisite: LIS 530. Offered: jointly with LIS 535.

INSC 540 HCI Design Foundations for Interactive Systems (4) Develops knowledge and skills for design-based inquiry of interactive systems. Practices user-centered design methods and studies theories of human-computer interaction, including: goal-based design and task analysis, scenario-based design, soft systems methodology, value sensitive design, universal design, and participatory design.

INSC 542 HCI Design Studio for Interactive Systems (4) Develops knowledge and skills for design-based inquiry of interactive systems. Includes a quarter-long project using appropriate methods and iteratively engages research, design, prototyping, and evaluation activities. Opportunity to reflect upon practice and receive critical review of work throughout the quarter.

INSC 544 Information Retrieval System (3) Covers theories and models in information retrieval (IR) and reviews user-centered and system-centered approaches. Issues involved in the design, development and evaluation of IR systems are examined including: methods and tools for document analysis, retrieval techniques, search engines, interfaces, usability, evaluation. Offered: jointly with LIS 544.

INSC 550 Information Policy (4) Doctoral seminar in the foundations of information policy including intellectual freedom s public/private good, intellectual property, privacy, and digital convergence, and the reshaping of information practices and information industries. Prerequisite: Permission of instructor.

INSC 555 Information and Values (4, max. 12) Explores value systems within a range of different social and technological environments.

INSC 565 Teaching Practicum I (3) Doctoral student participation in teaching in a faculty-taught course. Credit/no credit only.

INSC 566 Teaching Practicum II (3) Doctoral student takes primary teaching responsibility for a course under supervision of a faculty liaison. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: INSC 565.

INSC 570 Research Design (4) Introduction to empirical research, basics of theory construction and research design, types of research, ethical issues, instruments and techniques for descriptive research, measures of association. Employs an integrated (qualitative and quantitative) and focused approach.

INSC 571 Quantitative Methods in Information Science (5) Describes uses, characteristics, and theoretical bases of research methods and data analysis techniques used in quantitative research, emphasizing uses in information and library science. Topics include experimental design, descriptive and inferential statistics, the normal distribution, elementary probability, nonparametric statistics, and exploratory data analysis techniques. Prerequisite: INSC 570.

INSC 572 Qualitative Methods in Information Science (5) Principles and approaches to conducting qualitative research in information science, including how to design a qualitative study, role of context, methods of data collection and analysis, increasing the trustworthiness of data, minimizing observer effect, how to incorporate and build theory. Exposure to field research and data analysis. Prerequisite: INSC 570.

INSC 575 Research Practicum I (3) Students work with a researcher from the Information School as an active member of a research team. Credit/no credit only.

INSC 576 Research Practicum II (3) Students will work with an approved researcher as an active member of a research team. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: INSC 575 or permission of instructor.

INSC 578 Research Seminar (1-2, max. 15) Research presentations on a wide variety of topics in Information Science.

INSC 579 Research Colloquium in Information Science (2, max. 6) Research colloquium on various research topics in information science. Faculty, visitors, and students present current research. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

INSC 580 Organizational Theories of Information Systems (4) Survey of major trends of management of information systems (MIS) research. Introduces behavioral, economic, strategic, and technical research perspectives of MIS research. Reviews seminal articles in each area, identifies future research trends, develops research proposals, and conducts a small research project. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

INSC 581 Organizational Theories of Information Systems (4) Surveys major strands of management of information systems research. Covers the behavioral, economic, strategic, and technical research perspectives of MIS research.

INSC 586 Information Dynamics I (4) Introduction to the concepts and methods of information feedback, systems thinking, soft systems methodology (SSM), and "soft operations research," as well as the quantitative modeling of complex dynamic systems by means of differential and integral equations (system dynamics). Offered: jointly with IMT 586.

INSC 588 Project Management in Information Organizations (4) Examines roles, responsibilities, and methods of planning, and controlling projects. Analysis of critical issues such as the relationship between project management and; organizational culture, structure, and processes; cross-functional and globally distributed teams; project governance, metric, and risk and performance management; communication, decision-making, and conflict resolution; organizational learning, change and knowledge management. Offered: jointly with IMT 588.

INSC 598 Special Topics in Information Science (3, max. 12)

INSC 599 Independent Study in Information Science (1-5, max. 15) Readings, design projects, or research under faculty supervision. Prerequisite: permission of instructor and Ph.D. program chair.

INSC 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only.

INSC 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Credit/no credit only.

Information Technology Applications

ITA 340 Introduction to Web Publishing (3) Introduction to markup languages and publishing web content. Students gain understanding of HTML coding and extensions, image manipulation, information architecture, and web site publishing. Other topics include: the Web Accessibility Initiative, survey of Graphical User Interface (GUI) HTML editors, online privacy and security, and eXtensible Markup Language (XML).

ITA 341 Client-side Scripting and Design (3) Introduction to web browser design environment, scripting languages, JavaScript, Document Object Model (DOM), and creation of dynamic HTML web pages (DHTML) in combination with Cascading Style Sheets (CSS). Other topics include: client-server architecture and web design principles in the contexts of technical feasibility, usability, and accessibility. Prerequisite: ITA 340.

ITA 342 Introduction to SQL and Data Storage Technologies (3) Fundamentals of database design in a client-server architecture useful for web applications. Subsequent topics build upon foundation by introducing the Structured Query Language (SQL), open source tools MySQL and PHP for database processing, security issues in database applications, and XML as an alternate database storage technology. Prerequisite: ITA 341

ITA 343 Server-Side Programming and Web-data Integration (3) Provides framework to integrate server-side programming concepts and techniques, database technologies, and client-side scripting to design and implement dynamic web applications. Examines techniques using PHP, design and implementation of database (MySQL) connections, web application security, and XML data publication. Prerequisite: ITA 342.

Library and Information Science

LIS 462 Skills Approach to Information, Communications, and Technology (ICT) Literacy (3) Introduction to the Big6<sup>TM</sup> Skills approach to information, communications, and technology (ICT) literacy for personal, school, district, or higher education settings. Includes technology within the Big6 framework, connection to standards, instructional design, assessment, curriculum mapping, peer collaboration, the parent connection, program planning, and implementation.

LIS 498 Special Topics (1-5, max. 15) Library service and information science subject matter in seminars, workshops, or other appropriate formats. Topics vary and may be repeated for credit.

LIS 500 The Life Cycle of Information (2) Overview of the major concepts, processes and systems, actors, and operations in the life cycle of information. Introduction to the creation, publishing and distribution, evaluation and selection, organization, access, retrieval, and use of information. Exploration of the social context in which these processes and their stakeholders interact. Credit/no credit only.

LIS 505 Archival and Manuscript Services (3) Selection, organization, and uses of archival and manuscript collections. Emphasis on the principles and techniques; some attention to the administration of state archival and historical institutions' collections. Lecture, demonstration, and laboratory.

LIS 507 Preservation and Conservation of Library Materials (3) Consideration of the many factors contributing to the physical vulnerability of library materials of all kinds and an overview of resources and strategies for those who determine preservation policy or manage the application of such policy. No technical background necessary.

LIS 508 History of Recorded Information (4) Exploration of the history and ongoing transformation of recorded information within three broad spheres of human life: public communication, administrative and commercial operation, and personal communication.

LIS 510 Information Behavior (4) Introduction to the user-centered approach to information behavior. Theoretical foundations of various information behaviors such as information need, utilizing, gathering, seeking, and evaluating. Synthesis of user studies, construction of user profiles, performance of gap analysis, and application of the results of user studies to improve services and system design. Prerequisite: LIS 500.

LIS 511 Systems Analysis (4) Introduction to the systems approach including basic concepts in the approach, dimensions of systems and steps in systems design. Emphasis is on the analysis, evaluation and design of information systems and services. Prerequisite: LIS 500.

LIS 512 Community Analysis (4) Explores key concepts of community in its broadest sense, methodological approaches for analyzing information needs and available resources, how to design information services in response to identified needs, and service evaluation. Facilitating the information behavior of all groups within a community and identifying how their needs interconnect. Prerequisite: LIS 510. Offered: jointly with INSC 512.

LIS 515 Ecological Information Systems (4) Introduction to cognitive work analysis framework. Prepares for active role in design and evaluation of information systems. Familiarization with basic concepts of cognitive systems engineering and practice in field study, data analysis, and transforming field findings into requirements for the design of an information system. Offered: jointly with T C 515.

LIS 519 Special Topics in Information Behavior (1-4, max. 18) Introduction to innovative and specialized topics in information behavior. Course may be offered irregularly and may be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: LIS 510.

LIS 520 Information Resources, Services, and Collections (4) Concepts, processes, and skills related to parts of the life cycle of knowledge involving creation, production, distribution, selection, collection, and services to facilitate access. Specific discussion topics include characteristics of recorded knowledge; organizations and services devoted to managing access to recorded knowledge; principles associated with development of recorded knowledge and collections. Prerequisite: LIS 500.

LIS 521 Principles of Information Services (4) Analysis of the information mediation process, including determination and analysis of information needs; searching for, evaluation, and presentation of appropriate results; modalities for delivery of services; and current and future techniques. Prerequisite: LIS 520.

LIS 522 Collection Development (3) Access to materials as context for development and management of library collections in academic, public, school libraries. Community analysis, library mission; collection development policies, criteria, levels, responsibilities; aids to selection; collection evaluation, use studies; controversial materials.

LIS 523 Advanced Information Services (4) Investigation of the development, administration, and evaluation of information services for supporting the research process both within and across organizations. Prerequisite: LIS 521 or permission of instructor.

LIS 526 Government Publications (3) Introduction to government publications of the United States and their acquisition, organization, and use. Other topics covered include the public's right to know, the Federal Depository Library Program, government influences in our daily lives, and future directions in government information. Credit/no credit only.

LIS 527 Business Information Resources (3) Survey of the extent and nature of business information and its sources, and of business information producers and consumers. Study and use of both print and on-line sources.

LIS 528 Health Sciences Information Needs, Resources, and Environment (3) Characteristics of users of health sciences information; health professionals, researchers, consumers and patients; environments (academic health sciences centers, hospitals, clinics, and public libraries); evaluation of information resources in health care; types and uses of health information management systems; policy issues, professional standards, education, and certification. Offered: jointly with MEDED 570.

LIS 529 Special Topics in Information Resources, Services and Collections (1-5, max. 18) Introduction to innovation and specialized topics in information resources, services and collections. Prerequisite: LIS 500, LIS 520.

LIS 530 Organization of Information and Resources (4) Introduction to issues in organization of information and documents including: analysis of intellectual and physical characteristics of documents; principles and practice in surrogate creation, including standards and selection of metadata elements; theory of classification, including semantic relationships and facet analysis; creation of controlled vocabularies; and display and arrangement. Prerequisite: LIS 500, which may be taken concurrently.

LIS 531 Catalogs, Cataloging, and Classification (4) Develops an understanding of library catalogs as information retrieval systems. Introduces library cataloging and classification. Focus on principles and standards in the creation of catalogs and cataloging records. Includes practice in descriptive and subject cataloging and classification. User perspective emphasized throughout. Prerequisite: LIS 500, LIS 530.

LIS 533 Advanced Cataloging and Classification (4) In-depth theory and practice in library cataloging and classification. Includes introduction to cataloging materials in a variety of formats. Prerequisite: LIS 500, LIS 530, and LIS 531.

LIS 535 Classification Theory (3) Survey of classificatory principles from bibliographic, philosophical, socio-cognitive, and linguistic perspectives. Overview of history of bibliographic classification and exploration of some existing bibliographic classification systems. Ramification of theoretical approach for classification practice. Prerequisite: LIS 530. Offered: jointly with INSC 535.

LIS 536 Indexing and Abstracting (3) Exploration of issues in subject representation. Survey of different approaches, techniques, and methods for representing the subject matter of documents, including an evaluation of the role of users and context in subject representation. Formulation of policies for indexing and abstracting services. Prerequisite: LIS 530.

LIS 537 Construction of Indexing Languages (4) Exploration of the design, construction, evaluation, and maintenance of controlled indexing languages, including studies of how users are integrated into the design process. Through completion of thesaurus construction project, prepares students to design index languages, plan and implement a design project, and evaluate indexing languages. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: LIS 530.

LIS 538 Metadata: Evolving Principles and Practices (3) Principles, skills and practices in the conceptualization and implementation of metadata and metadata systems with a focus on semantic interoperability in distributed environments. Topics include metadata development for attribute and value spaces, metadata registry roles and services, organizational mechanisms, Web Services and advanced search engines. Prerequisite: LIS 530, LIS 540 or equivalent.

LIS 539 Special Topics in Organization of Information and Resources (1-4, max. 18) Introduction to innovative and specialized topics in the organization of information and resources. Prerequisite: LIS 500, LIS 530.

LIS 540 Information Systems, Architectures and Retrieval (5) Introduction and overview of information systems, system architectures, and retrieval models. Emphasis given to the role of users in the design, development, and evaluation of information retrieval and database management systems. Prerequisite: LIS 500, which may be taken concurrently.

LIS 541 Internet Technologies and Applications (3) Overview of Internet technologies including networking hardware, the TCP/IP protocol suite, addressing, packets and routing, the client/server model. End-user applications for communication and collaboration such as telnet, FTP, email, conferencing, and streaming media. Web site creation, development, and management. Credit/no credit only.

LIS 542 Conceptual Database Design (5) Introduction to relational database theory and technology from an information science perspective. Focuses on traditional transactional database theory, architecture and implementation in a user-centered systems context. Introduces set and graph theory, relational algebra, and data warehouses. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: LIS 511 or LIS 540.

LIS 543 Design of Information Systems (3) Discusses how theories of conceptual data modeling affect design of database and information systems, examines relationships between modeling and implementation, and bridges gaps between theoretical understanding of database design and implementation issues. Implements conceptual schemata development in LIS 542.

LIS 544 Information Retrieval System (3) Covers theories and models in information retrieval (IR) and reviews user-centered and system-centered approaches. Issues involved in the design, development and evaluation of IR systems are examined including: methods and tools for document analysis, retrieval techniques, search engines, interfaces, usability, evaluation. Offered: jointly with INSC 544.

LIS 545 Programming for Information Systems (5) Introduction to structured object-oriented programming for information systems. Focus on fundamental principles of programming with attention to elementary algorithms and data structures, interface design, user testing, and knowledge representation. Prerequisite: LIS 540 or permission of instructor.

LIS 546 Network System Administration (4) Introduction to local area network hardware, topologies, operating systems, and applications. Covers aspects of network setup and management including network and application protocols, system configuration, security and Internet connectivity. Hands-on experience with network applications and operating systems. Prerequisite: LIS 500.

LIS 549 Special Topics in Information Systems, Architectures, and Retrieval (1-4, max. 18) Introduction to innovative and specialized topics in information systems, architectures, and retrieval. Prerequisite: LIS 540.

LIS 550 Information in Social Context (4) Concepts, processes, and issues related to the larger social context within which the life cycle of knowledge is played out. Discussion topics include intellectual freedom, information as public/private good, intellectual property, privacy, confidentiality, information liability, information and telecommunications policy, the economics of information, and other professional values. Prerequisite: LIS 500, which may be taken concurrently.

LIS 551 Intellectual Freedom in Libraries (3)

Analysis of issues related to intellectual freedom, particularly to implications for libraries and librarians. Consideration of current legal climate, conformity versus freedom in modern world, librarian as censor, social responsibility and individual freedom, intellectual freedom of children, prospects for future. Credit/no credit only.

LIS 554 Information Policy: Domestic and Global (5) National and international information policy: public and private sector policy in terms of privacy, access, and exploitation; technology infrastructures and policies supporting the information industries; digital convergence and the emerging mega-industries. Prerequisite: LIS 550 or permission of instructor.

LIS 558 Reading Seminar in Social Aspects of Information Systems (2) Addresses foundational issues in social aspects of information systems. Introduces students to the intellectual traditions that underlie fields such as computer ethics, social informatics, and value sensitive design. Format entails in-depth discussions based on careful reading of primary source texts selected by seminar participants. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

LIS 559 Special Topics in the Social Context of information (1-4, max. 18) Introduction to innovative and specialized topics in the social context of information. Course may be offered irregularly and may be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: LIS 550.

LIS 560 Instructional and Training Strategies for Information Professionals (3) Develops knowledge and skills in instruction and training functions for library and information settings. Issues and strategies for learning and teaching. Design, development, and evaluation of information and technology literacy programs. Addresses the needs of users when designing and delivering instruction. Prerequisite: LIS 500, which may be taken concurrently.

LIS 561 Storytelling: Art and Techniques (3) Storytelling, past and present, noting its development as an art form. Analyzing storytellers materials (folk literature and literary forms) throughout historical periods. Essential techniques necessary to this artistic skill. Planning storytelling programs for various ages, interest groups, and situations, utilizing folk, classic, and contemporary literature.

LIS 565 Children's Materials: Evaluation and Use (4) Library materials for children from infancy through elementary grades. Focus on resources in all media that serve informational, educational, cultural, and recreational needs of the young. Focuses on standard bibliographies and other resources designed to meet informational needs of adults serving children. Prerequisite: LIS 500, LIS 510, LIS 520, or permission of instructor.

LIS 566 Young Adult Materials: Evaluation and Use (4) An overview of materials reflecting adolescents' interest in media and addressing their educational, cultural, and recreational needs. Students evaluate print literature, electronic and other non-print media for young adults. Content also designed to assist adult caregivers of adolescents. Prerequisite: LIS 500, LIS 510, and LIS 520 or permission of instructor.

LIS 567 Public Library Services for Youth (3)

Administration of youth departments in public libraries; planning and promoting programs and services; evaluation of library collections; community and professional roles of the youth librarian. Prerequisite: LIS 500 or permission of instructor.

LIS 568 Information Literacy for Teaching and Learning (3) Explores theories, process, and practical applications of information literacy. Examines the development of information literacy programs for libraries, community agencies, business, education or other information settings. Explores integral relationship between technology and information literacy, and continual evaluation.

LIS 569 Special Topics in Instructional and Training Strategies for Information Professionals (1-5, max. 18) Introduction to innovative and specialized topics in instructional and training strategies for information professionals. Prerequisite: LIS 560.

LIS 570 Research Methods (4) Research as a process from problem definition and formulation of questions to design, data collection, analysis, and reporting. Students recognize research opportunities, translate them into researchable frameworks, design research projects, and implement results in libraries and other information agencies. Prerequisite: LIS 500, which may be taken concurrently.

LIS 579 Special Topics in Research Methods (1-4, max. 18) Introduction to innovative and specialized topics in research methods. Prerequisite: LIS 500, LIS 570.

LIS 580 Management for Information Organizations (4) Introduction to internal and external management issues and practices in information organizations. Internal issues include organizational behavior, organizational theory, personnel, budgeting, planning. External issues include organizational environments, politics, marketing, strategic planning, funding sources. Prerequisite: LIS 500, which may be taken concurrently.

LIS 581 Marketing and Planning for Libraries (3) Approaches to planning and marketing library products/services. Examines partnerships that can be forged between elements of marketing and appropriate futures strategies for libraries. Discusses marketing and planning as integrated processes with attention to short- and long-term goals and objectives. No particular library institutional setting is assumed. Prerequisite: LIS 500, which may be taken concurrently.

LIS 582 Strategic Planning and Management of Information Technology (3) Exploration of methods of strategic planning for managing information resources and technology to support online information services and the role of the systems librarian and CIO. Topics include mission and goals, strategic planning, the information technology function within organizations, and the desirable abilities of managers and leaders. Prerequisite: LIS 580.

LIS 584 Knowledge Management (3) Introduction to contemporary topics in management of knowledge creation and use in organizations. Discussion topics include knowledge generation, knowledge taxonomy, knowledge transfer, organizational knowledge management practice, and knowledge management systems. Prerequisite: LIS 500; LIS 580, or permission of instructor

LIS 585 Administration of the School Library Media Program (3) Develops competency in administering materials, equipment, and services of library media program as integral part of educational process of school. Focuses on developing skills in acquiring, organizing, and managing full range of learning resources for access and use, and communicating the program to users. Required for school library media specialists. Prerequisite: LIS 580.

LIS 586 Public Libraries and Advocacy (3) Examines the purpose and role of public libraries in an information society. Includes governance, services, and planning with special emphasis on advocacy for the library and community.

LIS 587 Library Technology Systems (4) Developing criteria for selection and design of information technology systems for libraries and information centers. Applying criteria in evaluation of hardware and software. Examining related management challenges, such as vendor relations, financing options, personnel requirements, and design of auxiliary activities. Prerequisite: LIS 540, LIS 580, or permission of instructor.

LIS 588 Special Librarianship (3) Seminar in the practice of special librarianship in business and industrial firms, government agencies, and the free-lance sector. User services and information resources. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: LIS 580.

LIS 589 Special Topics in Management of Information Organization (1-4, max. 18) Introduction to innovative and specialized topics in management of information organizations. Prerequisite: LIS 500, LIS 580.

LIS 590 Directed Fieldwork (2-4, max. 8) Minimum of 100 hours, maximum of 200 hours of professional, supervised fieldwork in a library or professional information setting. Fieldwork is a one-quarter experience; however, this may be repeated in a different setting with a different set of learning objectives for a subsequent quarter. Library and Information Science majors only. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: 30 credits in Library and Information Science program.

LIS 591 Legal Research I (3) Introduction to legal bibliography and law librarianship. Basic primary and secondary legal bibliographic tools. Integration of manual and computer resources for effective legal research. Emphasis on state materials. Offered: jointly with LAW A 598.

LIS 592 Legal Research II (3/4) Legal tools that answer more complex legal research problems, such as federal legislative histories, sources of administrative law, specialized subject research. Federal emphasis. Builds on skills and techniques taught in LIS 591/LAW A 598. Extensive work with online resources. Prerequisite: LIS 591 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with LAW A 599.

LIS 593 Selection and Processing of Law Library Materials (3) Study of tools for collection development and collection development plans in law libraries. All law library technical processes, including acquisitions, budgeting, cataloging, and serials. Prerequisite: LIS 591 or permission of instructor.

LIS 594 Law Library Administration (4) Administration in law libraries, including organization, personnel, and management issues

(e.g., interviewing, hiring, firing), communications, library planning, and bookkeeping. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: LIS 591 or permission of instructor.

LIS 595 Current Issues in Law Librarianship (4-, max. 4) From a list of current topics in law librarianship, students select a topic, research it fully, write a major paper, and present their paper. Topics may include citation reform, ethics, and publisher practices. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: Law Librarianship majors or permission of instructor.

LIS 598 Special Topics in Information and Library Science (1-6, max. 18) Seminar dealing with various topics in information and library science. Offered by visitors or resident faculty.

Topics are changed from quarter to quarter. May not be offered every quarter. Prerequisite: determined by specific course.

LIS 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only.

LIS 700 Master's Thesis (*) Credit/no credit only.

Interdisciplinary Graduate Programs

---

Biomolecular Structure and Design

BMSD 520 Research Seminar (1, max. 9) Group conferences on graduate student research. Prerequisite: BMSD graduate student or permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

BMSD 540 Literature Review (2) Emphasizes critical evaluation of original articles in literature from all fields relevant to Biomolecular Structure and Design. Scientific writing and oral presentations emphasized. Concurrent registration in BIOC 530 required. Prerequisite: first-year BMSD student or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

BMSD 541 Literature Review in Biomolecular Structure and Design (2) Emphasizes critical evaluation of original articles in literature from all fields relevant to Biomolecular Structure and Design. Scientific writing and oral presentations emphasized. Prerequisite: first-year BMSD student or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

BMSD 542 Literature Review in Biomolecular Structure and Design (2) Emphasizes critical evaluation of original articles in literature from all fields relevant to Biomolecular Structure and Design. Scientific writing and oral presentations emphasized. Prerequisite: first-year BMSD student or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

BMSD 599 Introduction to Research in Biomolecular Structure and Design (3-6, max. 24) Student works with one of the research groups within the Biomolecular Structure and Design Program for one quarter and then rotates to another laboratory for one additional quarter. Minimum two quarters, maximum four. Prerequisite: BMSD student or permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

Global Trade, Transportation, and Logistics

GTTL 501 Global Trade, Transportation, and Logistics Management (4) Goodchild, Schmitt, Shelton Provides an overview of trade, transportation, and logistics activities. Develops an understanding of the physical and information flows in supply chains, and the economic drivers of supply chain choices. Includes methods to analyze and improve logistics and transportation systems, including applications of policy, technology, and infrastructure. Offered: jointly with CEE 587/OPMGT 535; AWSp.

GTTL 502 Seminar in Global Trade, Transportation, and Logistics (4) Interdisciplinary seminar that brings together students with academics and practitioners at the forefront of trade, transportation, and logistics in discussions of selected topics. Additionally, students research issues of special interest. Prerequisite: OPMGT 535, GTTL 501, or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with OPMGT 536; Sp.

GTTL 598 Global Aviation Management (3) Integrates aviation-related engineering, marketing, logistics, global trade, transport geography, and finance disciplines. Introduction to airplane, airport, and air traffic technology; aircraft/air traffic control/airline terminology; and aviation practices.

GTTL 599 Special Topics in Global Trade, Transportation, and Logistics Studies (1-5, max. 15) Selected topics with special emphasis on issues of pressing importance to the world trading community. Topics vary with departmental discretion. Prerequisite: Graduate students or permission of instructor.

GTTL 600 Independent GTTL Studies(*) Opportunity to pursue GTTL-related issues that may not be explored in established UW courses. May involve projects undertaken in conjunction with entities beyond the University, subject to instructor approval.

GTTL 601 Internship in GTTL Studies(3-5, max. 9) Opportunity to pursue relevant research or to gain practicum experience in the employment of a department-approved public or private entity.

Graduate School

GRDSCH 610 Teaching Mentorship (3, max. 6) Individualized project, under the direction of a faculty member, focused on issues of teaching and learning at the college/university level and designed to enhance the student's ability to make innovative contributions in teaching. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of faculty member, graduate program coordinator, and the Associate Dean of the Graduate School.

GRDSCH 615 Teaching Assistant Preparation (1-6, max. 6) Department or University-wide training for teaching and research assistants. Credit/no credit only.

GRDSCH 616 Research Assistant Preparation (1-6, max. 6) Department or University-wide training for research assistants. Credit/no credit only.

GRDSCH 620 Teaching Mentorship Seminar (2) Interdisciplinary seminar. Individual mentorship projects are presented and discussed, as are more general topics related to the teaching mentorship experience. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: GRDSCH 610 which may be taken concurrently or permission of the Associate Dean of the Graduate School.

GRDSCH 630 Special Topics in College/University Teaching (2, max. 6) Interdisciplinary discussion of topics related to college/university teaching, with an emphasis on innovative teaching and preparing for faculty careers. Designed to address topics across disciplines, as a complement to discipline-specific courses offered in departments. Credit/no credit only.

Individual Ph.D.

IPHD 800 Independent Study (*)

Molecular and Cellular Biology

MCB 511 Cell Cycle Control (3) Breeden, Roberts, Edgar Studies recent advances in understanding cell-cycle control, arising from genetics and biochemical studies of fission and budding yeast, marine invertebrates, Drosophila, amphibians, and cultured cells. Addresses the biochemical processes and molecular interactions and the rate-limiting events in the cell cycle, and the coupling of those events to physiological signals. Offered: A.

MCB 513 Development Journal Seminar (1, max. 12) Moens, Soriano, Swalla Examines current literature about specific topics in developmental biology. The seminar chooses current monthly topics and the group meets weekly to discuss published research papers. Topics may include: germ cell specification; cell migration and morphogenesis; axis formation; somitogenesis and stem cells. Offered: AWSp.

MCB 514 Molecular and Cellular Biology Literature Review (2) Raible Emphasizes critical evaluation of the original literature orally and in writing. Open only to first-year students in the Molecular and Cellular Biology Program.

MCB 515 Molecular and Cellular Biology Literature Review (2) Emerman Emphasizes critical evaluation of the original literature orally and in writing. Open only to first-year students in the Molecular and Cellular Biology Program. Offered: W.

MCB 516 Molecular and Cellular Biology Literature Review (2) Emerman Emphasizes critical evaluation of the original literature orally and in writing. Open only to first-year students in the Molecular and Cellular Biology Program. Offered: S.

MCB 517 Topics in Molecular and Cellular Biology (1-5, max. 12) Advanced in-depth coverage of specific areas of molecular and cellular biology of current interest. Lectures by University of Washington faculty and invited speakers involved in research in this area. A basic knowledge of principles of molecular and cellular biology assumed.

MCB 519 Topics in Cancer (1, max. 6) Examination of ways to integrate basic, clinical, and public health sciences to increase understanding of human biology and disease. Seminars in introduction to cancer research as viewed by basic, clinical, and public health sciences, origins of cancer, cancer prevention, cancer progression, and therapies for cancer. Credit/no credit only.

MCB 520 Tutorial in Molecular and Cellular Biology (1-2, max. 2) Emerman Special topics reading and discussion. Offered: A.

MCB 521 Embryos, Genes and Development (4) Parkhurst, Priess, Soriano Introduction to vertebrate and invertebrate development emphasizing cellular, genetic, and molecular mechanisms. Focuses on development of fruit flies, nematodes, and mice. Emphasizes embryological processes including induction, determination, pattern formation. Relationship between development and evolution. Technologies include transgenic animals, genetics, mosaic analysis, homologous recombination, somatic cell genetics, embryonic manipulations. Offered: W.

MCB 532 Human Pathogenic Viruses (3) Galloway, Linail Replication, regulation, and pathogenesis of several groups of human viruses, including human immunodeficiency virus and papillomaviruses. Emphasis on the unique aspects of the viral-like cycles as they relate to effects on infected cells and organisms. Guest lecturers focus on viral immunology, measles, herpes simplex virus and HHV-8. Offered: W.

MCB 542 Nucleic Acids and Enzymes (2) Stoddard Covers the biology, evolution, mechanisms, and structure/function relationships of enzymes that act on DNA and RNA. Focuses both on various molecular systems, and also on important techniques used for their study, including high resolution structure determination, single molecule methods, kinetics and thermodynamic binding analyses, and protein engineering. Offered: Sp.

MCB 560 Biotechnology Externship (2-12, max. 12) Moon Supervised research in a biotechnology company. Prerequisite: permission of instructor and doctoral candidacy. Offered: AWSpS.

MCB 580 Teaching Practicum in Molecular and Cellular Biology (3, max. 6) Supervised training in the teaching of molecular and cellular biology. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

MCB 599 Introduction to Research in Molecular and Cellular Biology (*, max. 20) The student rotates through one research laboratory involved in the Molecular and Cellular Biology Program per quarter. Open only to first-year students in the Molecular and Cellular Biology Program. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

MCB 600 Independent Study or Research (*)

MCB 700 Master's Thesis (*) Offered: AWSpS.

MCB 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*)

Museology

MUSEUM 580 Introduction to Museology (5) Museum history, philosophy, and basic operations, including organization, income, collection management, conservation, exhibition, security, education, research, and ethics.

MUSEUM 581 Preservation and Management of Collections (5) I&S Lecture and demonstration of fundamental principles of collection management issues, emphasizing collection management needs of museum collection of all types. Application of principles through integrated collection management lab experiences addressing concerns of artifact handling, cataloging, photo-documentation, storage, and registration.

MUSEUM 582 Preservation of Collections II (5) I&S Lecture and demonstrations in the recognition and treatment of museum conservation problems for specimens of all types. Application of basic principles to specific preventive and active conservation and restoration problems encountered by curatorial personnel.

MUSEUM 583 Museum Operations Practicum (1-5, max. 15) Application of general museological training in one or more areas of supervised operation areas, including registration, education, exhibition, development, marketing or public relations, through project-oriented work in the Burke Museum or other approved University facility. Recommended: MUS 581, MUS 582.

MUSEUM 584 Museum Curation Practicum: Archaeology (1-5, max. 15) Application of museological training in curation of archeological collections including ethnographic, geological, or zoological collection materials in the Burke Museum. Supervised work ranges from fundamental collection documentation and research to preventive conservation, storage, and other special curation projects. Recommended: MUS 581.

MUSEUM 585 Museum Curation Practicum: General Collections (1-5, max. 15) Application of museological training in the curation of art, historic, botanical, geological, zoological, or other collections. Supervised work ranges from fundamental collection documentation and research to preventive conservation or storage, and other special curation projects. Recommended: MUS 581.

MUSEUM 588 Special Topics in Museology (1-5, max. 15) In-depth examination of selected current issues within the field of museology.

MUSEUM 590 Seminar in Museum Theory and Administration (5) Examination of principles of administrative theory and museum operations. Administrative structures and policies, management theory, board issues, organizational conflicts, planning issues, collection concerns, financial constructs, professional standards, and museum/community relations from an organizational and management perspective. Recommended: MUS 580. Offered: jointly with ANTH 590.

MUSEUM 593 Seminar in Museum Exhibition (5) Theory, methodology, and fundamental principles of museum exhibition process. Exhibition elements include planning, conceptual development, interpretation, design, production, installation, evaluation, and community impact of museum exhibitions. Application of exhibition principles through term exhibit project. Recommended: MUSEUM 590.

MUSEUM 594 Seminar in Museum Education (5) Focus on museums as educational institutions with consideration of the place of education in the mission of museums, the educational role of museums compared to that of other institutions, the museum's diverse audiences and their needs, and the educational methods and techniques museums may employ in pursuing their goals. Recommended: MUSEUM 580.

MUSEUM 598 Museum Internship (1-15, max. 15) Faculty supervised off-campus internships in museums and allied institutions. Each internship is individually established and provides students with practical experience and the opportunity to apply and learn new professional skills. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Recommended: MUSEUM 580; MUSEUM 581; MUSEUM 582; MUSEUM 590.

MUSEUM 600 Independent Study or Research (1-10)

MUSEUM 700 Master's Thesis (1-10)

MUSEUM 710 Master's Project (1-10, max. 10) Credit/no credit only.

Neurobiology and Behavior

NEUBEH 501 Introduction to Neurobiology (4) Surveys all aspects of molecular and cellular neuroscience, including the electrical properties of neurons, synaptic physiology, and neuronal cell biology. Includes lecture discussion of original literature. Offered: A.

NEUBEH 502 Introduction to Neurobiology (5) Sherk Systems level survey of vertebrate system, focusing on sensory system, on motor system, and on neuroanatomy. Lectures cover topics in sensory and motor systems. Laboratory includes brain dissection and study of intact, prosected, and sectioned brain and spinal cord. Emphasis is on human nervous system. Offered: W.

NEUBEH 503 Cognitive and Integrative Neurobiology (4) Phillips Survey of all aspects of neuroscience, including a discussion of higher neural processes like motivation, decision making, attention, learning, and memory. Lecture and discussion of original literature. Offered: Sp.

NEUBEH 510 Seminar in Neurobiology and Behavior (0.5) Biweekly seminar on current topics. Required for students in the Graduate Program in Neurobiology and Behavior and for students supported on Graduate Neuroscience Program Training Grant. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

NEUBEH 515 Teaching Practicum in Neurobiology and Behavior (3-6, max. 15)

Supervised training in the teaching of neuroscience and related scientific topics. Prerequisite: graduate standing in the Neurobiology and Behavior graduate program and permission of the instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

NEUBEH 526 Introduction to Laboratory Research in Neurobiology (4)

Students become familiar with, and assist in, the performance of research on ongoing projects in designated laboratories. Emphasis on employed methodology and techniques. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: first-year graduate students in neurobiology. Offered: AWSpS.

NEUBEH 527 Current Topics in Neurobiology and Behavior (1)

Sullivan Presentation and discussion of current research provides exposure to diverse areas of neurobiology and behavior research. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate student in neurobiology and behavior program or permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

NEUBEH 528 Computational Neuroscience (3)

Fairhall, Rao Introduction to computational methods for understanding nervous systems and the principles governing their operation. Topics include representation of information by spiking neurons, information processing in neural circuits, and algorithms for adaptation and learning. Prerequisite: elementary calculus, linear algebra, and statistics, or by permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with CSE 528.

NEUBEH 532 Discussion in Cell Signaling and Molecular Physiology (2)

Fairhall, Rieke Discusses fundamental issues in cell excitability and molecular and cellular physiology. Focuses on problem solving and reading from original literature. Emphasizes student participation. Prerequisite: first-year graduate students in neurobiology or physiology and biophysics. Offered: jointly with P BIO 532; W.

NEUBEH 541 Neuroendocrinology (3)

Steiner Emphasizes the cellular and molecular aspects of several topics in neuroendocrinology, including neuropeptide genes, reproduction, steroid hormone regulation of gene expression, mechanisms of hormone action, endocrine rhythms, and neural oscillations. Prerequisite: either BIOL 201, BIOL 202, and BIOL 203, or BIOL 180, BIOL 200, and BIOL 220; BIOC 440, BIOC 441, BIOC 442 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with P BIO 509; W, odd years only.

NEUBEH 545 Quantitative Methods in Neuroscience (3)

Rieke, Shadlen Discusses quantitative methods applicable to the study of the nervous system. Revolves around computer exercises/discussion of journal papers. May include linear systems theory, Fourier analysis, ordinary differential equations, stochastic processes, signal detection and information theory. Prerequisite: NEUBEH 501, 502, 503, or by permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with P BIO 545; W; odd years.

NEUBEH 549 Molecular Basis of Neurodegenerative Disease (2)

La Spada,

Muchowski, Pallanck Introduces a broad range of neurodegenerative diseases, focusing upon the approaches that have led to recent discoveries and emphasizing the elucidation of mechanisms and pathways of disease pathogenesis. Offered: jointly with GENOME 549/PHCOL 549; W.

NEUBEH 550 Biophysics of Calcium Signaling (1)

Hille, Santana Introduction to cellular calcium signaling including theoretical and technical issues of calcium signal detection and biological conclusions. Prerequisite: CONJ 531 Offered: jointly with P BIO 550; Sp.

NEUBEH 551 Mouse Models (1)

(1) Illustrates the use of transgenic and targeted-gene disruption technologies for developing mouse models of the disease. Introduces the methodology of producing transgenic and knock out mice. Discusses several examples of disease models using the most recent primary literature as a source. Offered: jointly with P BIO 551.

NEUBEH 552 Synaptic Integration (1)

Binder, Powers Discussion of recent papers on how neurons in the central nervous system integrate concurrent synaptic inputs. Includes: effects of driving force on synaptic currents, effects of conductances on dendritic properties, transfer of currents from dendrites to soma, and transformation of currents into spike train outputs. Offered: jointly with P BIO 552.

NEUBEH 553 Learning and Memory: Synapses and Systems (2)

Jagadeesh, Sullivan Five-week mini-course evaluates the current state of knowledge on the mechanisms that allow people to learn and remember. After introductory overviews of the cellular and molecular mechanisms underlying long-term synaptic plasticity and the multiple systems existing for learning and memory, students choose specific topics for discussion. Offered: jointly with P BIO 553.

NEUBEH 554 Motor Learning: Cellular and Network Mechanisms (1)

Fetz, Perlmutter Five-week mini-course reviews the current state of research on cellular and network mechanisms of motor learning. After an introductory overview of behavioral and physiological examples of motor learning in various species and systems, students choose specific topics for discussion, using the primary literature as a source. Offered: jointly with P BIO 554.

NEUBEH 555 Sensory Receptors (1)

Detwiler, Rieke Five-lecture mini-course examines how different kinds of sensory receptors detect and respond to different modalities of sensory stimuli. Discussion focuses on the cellular and molecular mechanisms of the underlying transduction processes and the experimental evidence that they are based on. Offered: jointly with P BIO 555

NEUBEH 556 Axon Pathfinding Mechanisms (1)

Bothwell Examines mechanisms governing axon growth cone behavior during embryonic development and during regeneration in the injured adult. Discusses approaches employing both invertebrate and vertebrate model systems. Offered: jointly with P BIO 556.

NEUBEH 557 Ion Channel Gating (1)

Zagotta Compares and contrasts mechanisms of gating in ligand-gated and voltage-gated ion channels. Covers basics of ligand gating and voltage gating, kinetic schemes, inactivation and desensitization, gating currents and partial agonists, and ion channel structure. Offered: jointly with P BIO 557.

NEUBEH 559 Neurobiology of Disease (3)

Garden, Moeller, Neumaier, Weiss Introduces medically important neurological and psychiatric diseases and experimental approaches to understanding the basis for diseases and their treatments. Covers stroke, epilepsy, autoimmune diseases of the CNS, neurodegenerative diseases, autism, psychosis, anxiety disorders and mood disorders. Offered: jointly with NEURL 559/P BIO 559.

NEUBEH 600 Independent Study or Research (*)

Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

NEUBEH 700 Master's Thesis (*)

Offered: AWSpS.

NEUBEH 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*)

Offered: AWSpS.

Nutritional Science

NUTR 300 Nutrition for Today (3)

NW Kirk Science of nutrition as it relates to individual food choices, health behaviors, public health. Health topics include wellness, obesity, eating disorders, sports nutrition, prevention of chronic disease. Nutrients and nutritional needs across the lifespan. Issues facing society including food safety, biotechnology, use of supplements and botanicals. Offered: A.

NUTR 405 Phys Activity in Health and Disease (3)

Duncan Impact of physical activity on individual and public health. Overview of physiological adaptations to activity, exercise prescription, exercise epidemiology, and prevention of chronic diseases. Public health recommendations for activity in the U.S. population, and the effects of the build environment on activity. Prerequisite: BIOL 118. Offered: jointly with EPI 405; Sp.

NUTR 441 Chemistry of Foods (3)

Peck Principles of food science integrated with laboratory sessions that observe the effects of various parameters of food composition, and applied sensory evaluation. Explores current trends in the culinary sciences to promote pleasurable eating. Recommended: general and organic chemistry. Offered: even years; S.

NUTR 445 Food Safety and Production Laboratory (2)

Peck Examination of food safety systems including HACCP methodology. Experiential study of food production, receiving systems, inventory control, menu planning, budget consideration, and cost control. Offered: W.

NUTR 462 Medical Nutrition Therapy I (2)

Peck Intervention strategies, counseling skills, and diet modifications that pertain to chronic disease prevention and management. Corequisite: NUTR 562. Offered: Sp.

NUTR 463 Medical Nutrition Therapy II (2)

Peck Didactic training in nutrition support theories and skill development for interpretation of laboratory values. Management of fluids and electrolytes, and nutrition interventions in acute care. Prerequisite: .NUTR 462; corequisite: NUTR 563. Offered: S.

NUTR 465 Nutritional Anthropology (3) I&S/ NW

Neill Concerns interrelationships between biomedical, sociocultural, and ecological factors, and their influence on the ability of humans to respond to variability in nutritional resources. Topics covered include diet and human evolution, nutrition-related biobehavioral influences on human growth, development, and disease resistance. Prerequisite: BIO A 201. Offered: jointly with BIO A 465.

NUTR 499 Undergraduate Research (1-5, max. 10) Independent study and research supervised by a faculty member with appropriate academic interest. Offered: AWSpS.

NUTR 500 Graduate Seminar: Current Issues in Nutrition (1, max. 4) A review of current topics in nutritional science and public health nutrition. Provides a forum for student and faculty presentation, and review of current research efforts. Prerequisite: graduate student in nutrition. Offered: AWSp.

NUTR 505 Phys Activity in Health and Disease (3) Duncan Impact of physical activity on individual and public health. Overview of physiological adaptations to activity, exercise prescription, exercise epidemiology, and prevention of chronic diseases. Public health recommendations for activity in the U.S. population, and the effects of the build environment on activity. Prerequisite: BIOL 118. Offered: jointly with EPI 502; Sp.

NUTR 511 Survey of Advanced Nutrition (2-3) Bruemmer, Chan Advanced introduction to nutritional sciences. Topics include macronutrient and micronutrient metabolism, energy balance and obesity, nutrient utilization in physical activity, nutritional needs and recommendations throughout the lifecycle, and the relationships between nutrition and atherosclerosis, diabetes, and cancer risk. Offered: A.

NUTR 520 Nutrition and Metabolism I (3) Rosenfeld Metabolic/physiologic concepts related to energy balance, carbohydrate, and protein nutrition. Addresses energy producing pathways, as well as food sources, digestion, absorption, and utilization of carbohydrates, protein, and various micronutrients. Additional topics include low carbohydrate diets, vegetarianism, protein deficiency, and inborn errors in carbohydrate, and protein metabolism. Prerequisite: biochemistry. Offered: A.

NUTR 521 Nutrition and Metabolism II (3) Rosenfeld Discussion of normal lipid components of animal tissues, with review of their metabolism and physiological functions. Topics include digestion, absorption, transport, and utilization of dietary fats, cholesterol, and fat-soluble vitamins. Discusses in depth the roles played by lipids and various micronutrients in altering risk of atherosclerosis. Prerequisite: biochemistry. Offered: W.

NUTR 522 Nutrition and Metabolism III (3) Kirk Advanced Study of biologically essential minerals and vitamins. To include absorption, transport, function, storage, excretion; imbalance, deficiency and toxicity; dietary structures; role of these nutrients in prevention diseases directly or indirectly. Offered: Sp.

NUTR 526 Maternal and Infant Nutrition (3) Johnson Influence of maternal and infant nutrition on the health of populations. Nutrition-related physiological, psychological, and social factors in pregnancy, lactation, and infancy. Application of evidence-based approaches to maternal and infant nutrition recommendations and interventions for populations and high-risk individuals. Prerequisite: human nutrition and human physiology. Offered: A.

NUTR 527 Nutrition: Childhood Through Adolescence (3) Rees, Trahms Interactions of nourishment with behavior, growth, and development of children, from infancy through adolescence. Critical evaluation of normative data and special problems, as well as strategies for individual and public health interventions. Prerequisite: graduate student in nutritional sciences or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; Sp.

NUTR 528 Nutrition in Aging (3) Drewnowski Physiological, psychological, social, cultural, and economic factors affecting health nutrition and status in the middle and later years. Prerequisite: human nutrition and human physiology. Offered: odd years; Sp.

NUTR 529 Nutrition Research Design (3) Duncan Critical review of selected nutrition literature. Evaluation of experimental design, research protocols, data analyses, and data presentations. Prerequisite: BIOD 511. Offered: odd years; A.

NUTR 530 Nutrition for Children with Special Health Care Needs (3) Lucas Principles of nutrition screening and assessment, clinical nutritional care, family-centered care, and health services as applied to meeting nutritional needs of children with special health care needs. Both population-based and individual care concepts are explored for children with a variety of chronic conditions. Offered: odd years; Sp.

NUTR 531 Public Health Nutrition (4) Johnson Explores the functions and essential services of public health as they apply to assuring access to a safe and nutritious food supply. Examines the practice of public health nutrition: nutrition environment, program planning, implementation, and evaluation; policy development, implementation and evaluation, and links between basic science and public health nutrition practice. Prerequisite: introductory nutrition. Offered: W.

NUTR 532 Fieldwork in Public Health Nutrition (1-12, max. 12) Peck Experience and service learning in organizations that plan, deliver, and promote population-based nutrition education and nutrition services. Prerequisite: Nutritional Sciences graduate student and permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

NUTR 536 Nutrition Education Principles and Practice (2) Peck Examines principles of design and presentation of nutrition education for specific groups including developing goals and objectives, selection of components including activities, visual aides, and specifications of evaluation processes. Explores principles of communication, written and oral, in presenting nutrition education including learning styles, cultural competence, literacy levels, including, working with the media. Offered: W.

NUTR 537 Laboratory Rotation (1-4, max. 6) Exposure to research being conducted in the laboratories of the graduate nutrition faculty. Provides hands-on experience in laboratory research. Introduces the student to on-going research for preparation of dissertation topics. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

NUTR 538 Nutritional Epidemiology (3) Beresford Application of epidemiological methods to current studies of diet, nutrition, and chronic disease. A discussion of current issues and controversies enable students to plan studies in nutritional epidemiology and disease prevention. Prerequisite: EPI 511 or EPI 512 and BIOD 511 or permission of instructors. Offered: jointly with EPI 538; A.

NUTR 545 Food Safety and Health (3) Bruemmer Presentation of emerging issues in food safety, sustainable agriculture and biotechnology. Examines both domestic and global pressures on the food supply. Examines international policies that promote regional solutions for a safe food supply and access to nutritious foods. Recommended: course in microbiology. Offered: W.

NUTR 550 Obesity: Prevention and Control (3) Drewnowski Integrated biomedical and social approached to obesity and provides opportunities to design and evaluate strategies for obesity prevention and control. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

NUTR 551 Nutrition and Gene Expression (3) Rosenfeld Lectures, student presentations, and discussions of current research on nutrient:gene interactions. Focus on how dietary factors act both directly as transcriptional regulators or indirectly as inducers of signal transduction cascades leading to alterations in expression of proteins associated with cellular nutrient metabolism. Prerequisite: NUTR 520, NUTR 521, NUTR 522, or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

NUTR 555 Nutrition in Developing Countries (3) Gorstein Introduces issues of nutrition in developing countries, with an emphasis on the control and prevention of under nutrition and micronutrient deficiencies. Offered: jointly with G H 555; Sp.

NUTR 561 Dietetics Internship (6-10, max. 30) Peck Focuses on the competencies for entry-level practice in dietetics. Autumn and winter quarters include core experiences in wellness, public health, food service, ambulatory care, home health, and clinical services. Spring quarter activities are devoted to either nutrition therapy or public health, depending on student's career goals. Prerequisite: clinical students only. Offered: AWSp.

NUTR 562 Nutrition and Chronic Disease (4) Bruemmer Epidemiology/pathophysiology of chronic disease related to nutrition (e.g., obesity, cardiovascular disease, osteoporosis, hypertension, diabetes). Examines nutritional risk/protective factors in relation to public health, individual nutrition, and clinical intervention. Prerequisite: physiology, biochemistry. Offered: Sp.

NUTR 563 Nutrition in Acute Care (4) Bruemmer Assessment of the nutritional demands and hypermetabolic response of trauma, surgery, organ failure, burns, AIDS, and neoplastic disease. Examines specialized nutritional support and substrate requirements in the acute care setting. Prerequisite: NUTR 562, or permission of instructor. Offered: S.

NUTR 564 Management of Nutrition Services (4) Bruemmer Policy and administrative issues that impact delivery of nutrition services in health care environments. Topics include organization behavior, productivity, financial environments, clinical management, and human resources. Offered: odd years; S.

NUTR 590 Special Topics in Nutritional Science (1-4, max. 4) Examines emerging issues in nutrition. Reviews the evidence and potential policy implications. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

NUTR 595 Nutritional Sciences Master's Practicum (1-12, max. 12) Peck Supervised practice experience providing students an opportunity to learn how nutritional sciences are applied to public health settings and in the formulation and application of public health policy. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: HSERV 511; NUTR 531; EPI 511; NUTR 520; 521; 522. Offered: AWPpS.

NUTR 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Offered: AWPpS.

NUTR 700 Master's Thesis (*) Offered: AWPpS.

NUTR 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWPpS.

Quantitative Ecology and Resource Management

QERM 502 Statistical Consulting for the Life Sciences (1-4) Conquest Consulting experience in data analysis, applied statistics, experimental design, parameter estimation, and sampling. Student provides consultation services to students and faculty. Students spend one classroom hour per week under faculty supervision discussing problems encountered. Prerequisite: QERM 482, QERM 483, STAT 421, STAT 423, or BOST 514, BOST 515, or equivalents, and permission of instructor. Offered: W.

QERM 514 Analysis of Ecological and Environmental Data I (4) Conquest Overview of generalized linear models (GLMs), their use in forestry, fisheries, wildlife ecology, and environmental monitoring. Analysis of the statistical tests that fall under GLMS: chi-square tests on contingency tables, t-tests, analysis of variances, etc. Statistical software S+/R used throughout. Offered: Sp.

QERM 521 Scientific Method in Resource Management (4) Ford Describes process of scientific discovery and strategies used for problems in ecology and natural resources management. Relationships between growth and use of objective knowledge in natural resources management is explored through case studies.

QERM 550 Ecological Modeling and Spatial Analysis (5) Ford Describes the principles of ecological modeling, and theoretical and methodological issues involved in their design and implementation. Emphasizes the analysis of spatial processes and how such analyses are used in developing ecological models. Students make and analyze a spatial process and/or construct a model of their own choice. Offered: W.

QERM 597 Seminar in Quantitative Ecology (2) Current topics in quantitative ecology and resource management. Fisheries, forestry, and marine resources. Offered: ASp.

QERM 598 Special Topics in Quantitative Resource Management (1-3, max. 12) Population and community ecology, systems ecology, and physical processes in ecosystems. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

QERM 599 Research in Quantitative Resource Management and Ecology (*, max. 12) Topics can be theoretical in nature or combined theory and experiment. Research might be a prelude to thesis or dissertation research. Credit/no credit only.

QERM 600 Independent Study or Research (*)

QERM 700 Master's Thesis (*)

QERM 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*)

Quaternary Sciences

QUAT 417 Environmental Change in the Glacial Ages (3) NW Porter Physical, biological evidence of climatic change during Quaternary Period; emphasizing stratigraphy, chronology. Impact of alternating glacial/interglacial cycles on earth's terrestrial, marine environments. Theories on causes of climatic variation. Offered: jointly with ESS 433.

QUAT 501 Seminar/Conference in Quaternary Environments (1, max. 6) Interdisciplinary seminar or conference in the changing natural environments of the Quaternary Period, with emphasis on climatic changes and their effects. Speakers from the University and elsewhere present lectures on their specialties, followed by discussion. Credit/no credit only.

QUAT 502 Interdisciplinary Quaternary Investigations (2, max. 6) Research course for interdisciplinary investigation of Quaternary problems. Student attends sessions of QUAT 501 and pursues a problem-oriented case study concurrently under faculty direction. Required paper on case study. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing.

QUAT 504 Special Topics in Quaternary Sciences (1-3, max. 3) Environments and climate changes of past two million years (Quaternary Period) in context of modern surface processes, including historical changes, prehistorical environments of postglacial period, and Ice Age events. Provides scientific perspective on scale of modern and man-made environmental changes, including those of climate, in context of recent earth history. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: background courses in earth sciences and ecology.

Interdisciplinary Undergraduate Programs

Program on the Environment

ENVIR 100 Environmental Studies: Interdisciplinary Foundations (5) I&S/NW Introduces the interdisciplinary approach to environmental studies. Examines the ethical, political, social and scientific dimensions of current and historical environmental issues, at the local and global scale. First in a three course sequence required of Environmental Studies majors. Offered: ASp.

ENVIR 150 Orientation to Environmental Studies (2) Broad overview of environmental studies. Faculty members and professionals from outside the University identify opportunities for study and work in the field and offer suggestions for optimal academic preparation. Strong emphasis on class participation and experiential learning.

ENVIR 200 Environmental Studies: Communication and Research (5) I&S

Focuses on reading, writing, presentation, and critical analysis of written material, in an interdisciplinary context of environmental problems. Develops proficiency in use of bibliographic databases, scholarly journals, and the Internet as research tools. Second in three course series required of Environmental Studies majors. Prerequisite: ENVIR 100. Offered: WSp.

ENVIR 210 Introduction to Environmental Modeling (5) NW,QSR Introduction to the use of computer modeling software in environmental policy and decision making. In weekly computer lab meetings, students use established programs to analyze the outcomes of management strategies and policy decisions relating to topics such as conservation of endangered species, climate change, and deforestation. Offered: jointly with Q SCI 210.

ENVIR 220 Urban Ecology (5) I&S/NW Examines nature-society interactions in urban settings. Drivers, patterns, processes, impacts and consequences of urban and urbanizing ecosystems. Presents the state of our knowledge of urban ecology in its interdisciplinary format. Offered: W.

ENVIR 215 Earth, Air, Water: The Human Context (5) NW Rhines Lab-based introduction to Earth's environment, primarily for non-scientists: energy, atmosphere, ocean, and biosphere stability. Beginning from basic science, growing toward impacts and applications; e.g., study of the sun's energy spectrum and greenhouse effect, construction of solar box cookers, study of energy profiles of developing countries. Offered: Sp.

ENVIR 235 Introduction to Environmental Economics (5) I&S/NW Introduces non-economics majors to environmental and natural resource economics. Discussion of fundamental economic concepts, including markets and private property. Students learn basic tools used in the economic assessment of environmental problems and apply these methods to key environmental issues. Offered: jointly with ECON 235/ESRM 235.

ENVR 243 Environmental Ethics (5) I&S Clatterbaugh, Coburn, Woody Focuses on some of the philosophical questions that arise in connection with environmental studies. Topics to be considered include: the ideological roots of current issues, values and the natural world, public policy and risk assessment, intergenerational justice, and social change. Offered: jointly with PHIL 243.

ENVR 260 The Puget Sound Ecosystem (3/5) I&S/NW Examines historical human impacts on the land/water ecosystem of the Puget Sound, roles of regional governance and citizen action, and prospects for ecological restoration. Computer labs and field trips for additional credit. Offered: jointly with OCEAN 260.

ENVR 296 Study Abroad ? Environmental Studies (1-15, max. 15) Environmental studies course taken through an approved study abroad program, for which there are no direct UW equivalents. Credit does not apply to major requirements without approval.

ENVR 300 Environmental Studies: Synthesis and Application (5) I&S/NW Multi-scale case studies of socially and scientifically complex environmental problems, including how the Earth works as a biogeochemical system, ecological principles, human health, energy, and global change. Emphasizes quantitative environmental analysis. Third in a required three course series of Environmental Studies majors. Prerequisite: ENVR 200; recommended: ENVR major foundational courses. Offered: WSp.

ENVR 313 Environmental Earth Science (5) NW Swanson Analysis of geologic constraints upon human activity and the environmental consequences of such activity. Topics include hillslope processes, fluvial and groundwater processes, earthquake and volcanic hazards, and environmental aspects of deforestation and atmospheric pollution. Prerequisite: either ESS 101, ESS 210, ESS 211, GEOL 101, GEOL 201, or GEOL 205. Offered: jointly with ESS 315; A.

ENVR 330 Climate Change Impacts on Marine Ecosystems (5) NW Links the physics of climate to marine ecosystem processes, exploring both observed climate impacts from the past and projected ecosystem changes due to human-caused climate change in the future. Case studies include polar, sub-arctic, temperate, tropical and upwelling ecosystems, and ocean-acidification and its projected impacts. Required: high school or college physics and algebra with a basic understanding of Newton's Laws and the ability to comprehend and construct vector diagrams. Offered: jointly with FISH 330.

ENVR 341 Energy and Environment (3) NW Malte Energy use. Fossil energy conversion. Oil, gas, coal resources. Air impacts. Nuclear energy principles, reactors, fuel cycle. Prerequisite: either MATH 112, MATH 124, or Q SCI 291; either CHEM 120, CHEM 142, PHYS 114, or PHYS 121. Offered: jointly with M E 341/CHEM E 341; A.

ENVR 350 Independent Fieldwork (1-3, max. 5) Fieldwork, coursework, or other learning experience conducted off-campus, but supervised by UW faculty. 1 academic credit for 30 hours of environment-related work per quarter. Credit/no credit only.

ENVR 360 Environmental Norms in International Politics (5) I&S Ingebritsen

Surveys development of international environmental consciousness from 1960s to present. Models of "green development"; ways in which norms for resource use have entered global politics. Patterns of state compliance with international environmental agreements, and why states fall short of meeting their international obligations. Offered: jointly with SCAND 350/SIS 350.

ENVR 362 Introduction to Restoration Ecology (5) I&S/NW Gold An introduction to ecological restoration of damaged ecosystems. Examines the philosophical base of restoration as well as the social, biological and political forces that impact the success of any restoration project. Includes lectures, readings, case studies and field trips. Offered: jointly with ESRM 362; A.

ENVR 371 Anthropology of Development (5) I&S Sivaramakrishnan Development refers to social, economic, cultural, political transformations viewed as progress. Studied from anthropological perspectives. Historical, social context for emergence of ideas of development. Role of development in promoting national cultures. Impact of development on individual citizenship, families, rural-urban relations, workers, business, environment. Prerequisite: one 200-level ANTH course. Offered: jointly with ANTH 371.

ENVR 379 Environmental Sociology (5) I&S/NW Lee Social processes by which environmental conditions are transformed into environmental problems; scientific claims, popularization of science, issue-framing, problem-amplification, economic opportunism, and institutional sponsorship. Examination of social constructs such as ecosystem, community, and free-market economy. Use of human ecology to assess whether the current framing of environmental problems promotes ecological adaptability. Offered: jointly with ESRM 371/SOC 379; WS

ENVR 380 Study Abroad: Comparative International Perspectives on Cities and the Environment (15) I&S/NW Interdisciplinary approach to integrating urban and environmental issues in two or more world cities. Includes site visits and interactions with foreign scholars and practitioners. Topics may include coastal development, transportation, parks, marine conservation, indigenous cultures, environmental planning, gentrification, urban governance, and watershed management. Offered: jointly with TEST 380/T URB 380.

ENVR 384 Global Environmental Politics (5) I&S Examines the globalization of environmental problems, including climate change, ozone depletion, and loss of biodiversity, as well as the globalization of political responses to these problems within the framework of globalization as set of interlinked economic, technological, cultural and political processes. Offered: jointly with POL S 384.

ENVR 415 Sustainability and Design for Environment (3) Cooper Analysis and design of technology systems within the context of the environment, economy, and society. Applies the concepts of resource conservation, pollution prevention, life cycle assessment, and extended product responsibility. Examines the practice, opportunities, and role of engineering, management, and public policy. Offered: jointly with CEE 495/M E 415; S.

ENVR 416 Ethics and Climate Change (5) I&S Gardiner Critical examination of the ethical issues surrounding climate change. Prerequisite: either one philosophy or one environmental studies course. Offered: jointly with PHIL 416.

ENVR 417 Advanced Topics in Environmental Philosophy (5) I&S Gardiner, Light Critical examination of issues in environmental philosophy. Topics vary. Prerequisite: one philosophy course. Offered: jointly with PHIL 417.

ENVR 418 Communications and the Environment (5) I&S Examines the role of mass media in the resolution of environmental problems. Topics include strengths and weaknesses of media coverage, use of media by environmental groups and government agencies, media effects on public opinion, and mass communication and social movements. Offered: jointly with COM 418.

ENVR 433 Environmental Degradation in the Tropics (5) I&S/NW Considers theories and controversies of environmental degradation in the tropics, ecological and social case studies of Central American rain forests and Southeast Asian coral reefs, and implications of environmental management techniques. Offered: jointly with SIS 433/SMA 433.

ENVR 439 Attaining a Sustainable Society (1/3, max. 3) I&S/NW Karr Discusses diverse environmental issues, the importance of all areas of scholarship to evaluating environmental challenges, and the connections between the past and the future, to reveal integrative approaches to protect the long-term interests of human society. Offered: jointly with FISH 439; A.

ENVR 442 Renewable Energy (4) NW Malte Introduction to renewable energy. Principles and practices: solar, wind, water, and biomass energy conversion. Prerequisite: either MATH 112, MATH 124, or Q SCI 291; either CHEM 120, CHEM 142, PHYS 115, or PHYS 122. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 442/M E 442.

ENVR 450 Special Topics in Environmental Studies (1-5, max. 15) Format may range from seminar/discussion to formal lectures to laboratory or modeling work.

ENVR 451 Comparative Historical and Social Ecology of the Tropics (5) I&S Sivaramakrishnan Historical and social aspects of tropical environmental change. Comparative analysis of resource management, conservation, and environmental regulation issues in Asia, Africa, and Latin America from cultural and political economic perspectives. Special focus on issues of state policy, expert knowledge, social conflict, and international politics. Prerequisite: ANTH 210. Offered: jointly with ANTH 451.

ENVR 459 Culture, Ecology and Politics (5) I&S Pena Critical studies of class, gender and race differences in environmental politics. The political-economic dimensions of ecological change. Contemporary environmental movements including the varieties of bioregionalism, deep ecology, ecofeminism, ecosocialism, environmental justice, and social ecology. Offered: jointly with ANTH 459.

ENVR 460 Institutionalizing Sustainable Ecological Practices. (5) I&S/NW Lee Introduction to how sustainability and conservation are possible. Case studies of successful institutionalization of sustainable ecological functions, including curbside and biosolids recycling, ecological restoration, bioremediation, sustainable wood production, and product certification. Emphasis on individual student projects. Offered: jointly with ESC 460; Sp.

ENVR 462 Restoration Ecology Capstone: Introduction (2) NW First of a three-course capstone sequence in restoration ecology. Students review and assess project plans and installations. Class meets with members of previous capstone classes to review their projects. Offered: jointly with ESRM/TESC/BES 462.

ENVR 463 Restoration Ecology Capstone: Proposal and Plan (3) NW Student teams prepare proposals in response to requests for proposals (RFPs) from actual clients. Clients may be governments, non-profit organizations, and others. Upon acceptance of the proposal, teams prepare restoration plans. Prerequisite: ENVR 462. jointly with ESRM/TESC/BES 463.

ENVR 464 Restoration Ecology Capstone: Field Site Restoration (5) NW Teams take a restoration plan developed in ESRM 463 and complete the installation. Team participation may include supervision of volunteers. Teams prepare management guidelines for the client and conduct a training class for their use. Prerequisite: ENVR 463. Offered: jointly with ESRM/TESC/BES 464.

ENVR 474 Problem Analysis in Urban Ecology (5) I&S/NW Alberti, Bradley, Hill, Marzluff, Ryan, ZumBrunnen Investigates pressing local issues in urban ecology and develops each into a researchable project proposal. Examines and evaluates how different disciplines study environmental issues, explores criteria for conducting and evaluating quality research, develops skills in problem formulation, and sharpens proposal writing skills. Offered: jointly with GEOG 486/CFR 474; A.

ENVR 475 Environmental Impacts of Small Scale Societies (5) I&S/NW Grayson, Smith Examines the environmental impacts (positive and negative) among prehistoric and historic/ethnographic small-scale (hunter-gatherer and horticultural) societies worldwide, and debates these impacts, within a theoretical framework provided by evolutionary ecology and biogeography. Offered: jointly with BIO A 475.

ENVR 476 Introduction to Environmental Law and Process (3) I&S Bryant, Hershman Use and application of key statutes in marine living resources management. Overview of administrative law and process. Basic legal research, reading, and briefing selected judicial opinions. Participatory case study component. Designed for non-law graduate and advanced undergraduate students. Offered: jointly with SMA 476; A.

ENVR 477 Marine Conservation (3) NW Parrish Terrestrially based concepts of conservation biology applied to marine systems: human activities affecting the marine environment including fishing and pollution, influence of legal and cultural frameworks, and ecosystem management. Prerequisite: either BIOL 102, BIOL 162, BIOL 180, or BIOL 203. Offered: jointly with BIOL 477; W.

ENVR 478 Topics in Sustainable Fisheries (3, max. 9) Parrish Seminar series featuring local, national and internationally known speakers in fisheries management and conservation. Case studies. Conservation/restoration in practice. Pre-seminar discussion section focusing on select readings. Final paper. Topics may include harvest management, whaling, by-catch, salmon, marine protected areas, introduced species, citizen action, co-management, and marine ethics. Offered: jointly with FISH 478/BIOL 478; odd years; W.

ENVR 480 Marine Resource Conservation and Management (3) I&S/NW Gallucci, Miller Techniques and philosophy for conservation, management and development of harvested marine populations. Emphasis on integration of ecological, sociological, and economic dimensions of institutional decision making for policy formation in uncertain environments. Offered: jointly with FISH 480/SMA 480.

ENVR 486 Problem Analysis in Urban Ecology (5) NW Alberti, Bradley, Hill, Marzluff, Ryan, ZumBrunnen Investigates pressing local issues in urban ecology and develops each into a researchable project proposal. Examines and evaluates how different disciplines study environmental issues, explores criteria for conducting and evaluating quality research, develops skills in problem formulation, and sharpens proposal writing skills. Offered: jointly with ESRM 474/GEOG 486/URBDP 443; A.

ENVR 487 Applied Theory and Methods in Urban Ecology (5) I&S/NW Alberti, Bradley, Hill, Marzluff, Ryan, ZumBrunnen Discusses broad perspectives in urban ecology and how to analyze data relevant to urban ecology problems. Students write objectives and methods for a selected urban ecology problem that critiques different methodological approaches and reviews/synthesizes literature. Prerequisite: either ENVR 486, CFR 474, or GEOG 486. Offered: jointly with CFR 475/ GEOG 487; W.

ENVR 488 Research in Urban Ecology (5) I&S/NW Alberti, Bradley, Hill, Marzluff, Ryan, ZumBrunnen Teams analyze, present, and begin to interpret data that is relevant to addressing issues in urban ecology. Write and orally present revised objectives and methods sections of interdisciplinary project and present results section. Prerequisite: either ENVR 486, CFR 475, or GEOG 487. Offered: jointly with CFR 476/GEOG 488; Sp.

ENVR 490 Pre-Capstone Seminar (2) Critique readings on environmental education and applied environmental work. Define a capstone experience based on personal interests and skills and complete a learning contract and a contextual bibliography for ENVR 491. Recommended: 15 credits of ENVR 201/202/ 203. Offered: ASP.

ENVR 491 Capstone Experience (2-8, max. 8) Capstone experiences, arranged during ENVR 490, may include internships and other applied environmental work, directed research on environmental topics, or team efforts. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: ENVR 490. Offered: AWSpS.

ENVR 492 Post-Capstone Seminar (3) Build writing skills around course readings and discussion. Complete three final products: a capstone analysis paper summarizing and contextualizing work in ENVR 491; an integrative essay reflecting on personal education; and a formal capstone presentation. Prerequisite: ENVR 491. Offered: ASP.

ENVR 496 Study Abroad -- Advanced Environmental Studies (1-15, max. 15) Environmental Studies course taken through an approved study abroad program for which there are no direct UW equivalents. Credit does not apply to major requirements without approval.

ENVR 497 Seminar in Environmental Studies (1-3, max. 6) Intensive and advanced reading and discussion of selected works in interdisciplinary environmental studies. Credit/ No credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

ENVR 498 Independent Study (1-5, max. 5) Independent reading and/or research. Limited to majors and minors in Environmental Studies.

ENVR 499 Undergraduate Research (1-15, max. 15) Undergraduate research in Environmental Studies. Offered: AWSpS.

ENVR 500 Graduate Seminar in Environmental Studies (1-5, max. 15) Exploration of multidisciplinary themes in environmental studies. Topics vary.

ENVR 501 Graduate Seminar in Environmental Management (1-5, max. 15) Addresses a contemporary interdisciplinary issue in environmental management by integrating the perspectives and theories of science/ technology, public policy, and business. Format emphasizes interactive, hands-on approaches to problem solving, with visiting lectures by academic and/or external practitioners.

ENVR 502 Business Strategy and the Natural Environment (4) Applies economic and business principles (marketing, accounting, operations) to understand interactions between business and the natural environment and how environmental issues influence business strategy. Theory and case studies explore strategies that both respond to and seek competitive advantage from firms' interactions with the environment.

ENVR 503 Role of Scientific Information in Environmental Decisions (3) Examines how science contributes to decisions that affect the natural environment: how science and scientists help frame debates and decisions; how scientific findings are incorporated into decision making processes; and how scientists and nonscientists deal with uncertainty.

ENVR 511 Environmental Management -- Keystone Project I (2) Interdisciplinary project teams address regional environmental issues. May include working with external community partner agency. Environmental Management Certificate students only.

ENVR 512 Environmental Management -- Keystone Project II (3) Interdisciplinary project teams address regional environmental issues. May include working with external community partner agency. Continuation of projects from autumn quarter. Prerequisite: ENVR 511.

ENVR 513 Environmental Management -- Keystone Project III (3) Interdisciplinary project teams address regional environmental issues. May include working with external community partner agency. Continuation of projects from winter quarter. Prerequisite: ENVR 512.

ENVR 535 Foresight in Science and Technology: Choices and Consequences (3) Examination of the foresight (or lack of it) with which we practice science and use technology. Contrasts potential risks of various choices with potential benefits. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with PHYS 535/PHIL 501.

ENVR 550 Global Commercialization of Environmental Technologies (4) Students work on faculty-supervised interdisciplinary teams (with students from business, sciences/engineering, and public policy) developing business plans for commercializing environmentally friendly technologies around the world. The projects involve collaborating with the EPA's Environmental Technology Commercialization Center, with Battelle Labs, and with Puget Sound businesses. Offered: jointly with B BUS 550.

ENVR 585 Climate Impacts on the Pacific Northwest (4) Mantua, Snaver Knowledge of past/future patterns of climate to improve Pacific Northwest resource management. Topics include: the predictability of natural/human-caused climate changes; past societal reactions to climate impacts on water, fish, forest, and coastal resources; how climate and public policies interact to affect ecosystems and society. Offered: jointly with ATM S/ESS/SMA 585; Sp.

ENVR 600 Independent Study or Research (1-5) Independent reading and research. Limited to students enrolled in the Program on the Environment's graduate certificate programs.

Bioengineering

BIOEN 201 Bioengineering Tools (2) Thomas Introduction to bioengineering; laboratory safety, acquisition and analysis, presentation tools for biomedical applications. Prerequisite: MATH 126; PHYS 121; corequisite: CSE 142; PHYS 122. Offered: W.

BIOEN 299 Introduction to Bioengineering (1) Verdugo Lectures on the various aspects of bioengineering; orientation in bioengineering studies and practice. Credit/no credit only. Offered: ASp.

BIOEN 301 Bioengineering Systems Analysis (4) Lewis, Neils, Pun Investigates static and dynamic problems that are found in medicine and biology. Exposes real biomedical applications of first- and second-order differential equations. Analyzes current bioengineering and biomedical problems and make measurements of the systems that present those problems. Weekly laboratories. Prerequisite: BIOEN 201; either BIOL 180 or BIOL 201; CSE 142; PHYS 122; corequisite: either BIOL 200 or BIOL 202; MATH 307. Offered: Sp.

BIOEN 302 Introduction to Biomedical Instrumentation (4) Folch, Neils Introduces the theory of measurement and the practicalities of measurement of biological variables. Basic amplifier theory, discussion of noise in physical systems and its reduction. Uses actuators to test biomedical systems. Prerequisite: BIOEN 301; CSE 142; E E 215. Offered: A.

BIOEN 303 Bioengineering Signal Processing (4) Gao, Li, Neils Introduction of signal processing techniques necessary to record and analyze medical and biological data. Uses transform calculus to analyze differential equations and develop approximations to functions. Introduces sampling and applies it to biological data. Prerequisite: BIOEN 302; BIOEN 304. Offered: W.

BIOEN 304 Introduction to the Bioengineering Analysis of Physiology I (4) Sauro Introduction of engineering analysis of physiological systems. Course covers cellular function through its control by the central nervous system. Prerequisite: BIOEN 301; CSE 142. Offered: A

BIOEN 305 Introduction to the Bioengineering Analysis of Physiology II (4) Regnier Introduction to the cardiovascular system. Explores the cardiovascular system as an engineering system in which the heart is a pump, and the load and distribution of blood to organs on the heart depend on the demands of the system. Introduces principles of fluid transport.

Prerequisite: BIOEN 302; BIOEN 304; co-requisite: either STAT 390 or IND E 315. Offered: W

BIOEN 357 Introduction to Molecular Bioengineering (4) Bryers Introduces molecular bioengineering. Molecules as building blocks to engineer surfaces. Molecular therapeutics, drug delivery, diagnosis and biomaterials. Examines design principles for biomedical materials and devices. Prerequisite: either BIOL 200 or BIOL 202; BIOEN 303; BIOEN 305; recommended: either CHEM 223, CHEM 237, or CHEM 335. Offered: Sp.

BIOEN 420 Medical Imaging (4) Yuan Various medical imaging modalities (x-rays, CT, MRI, ultrasound, PET, SPECT, etc.) and their applications in medicine and biology. Extends basic concepts of signal processing (BIOEN 303) to the two and three dimensions relevant to imaging physics, image reconstruction, image processing, and visualization. Prerequisite: BIOEN 303; MATH 308; CSE 143. Offered: A.

BIOEN 440 Introduction to Biomechanics (4) Sanders Presents the mechanical behavior of tissues in the body and the application to design of prostheses. Tissues studies include bone, skin, fascia, ligaments, tendons, heart valves, and blood vessels. Discussion of the structure of these tissues and their mechanical response to different loading configurations. An important part of the class is a final project. Offered: jointly with M E 445; Sp.

BIOEN 455 BioMEMS (4) Folch Introduction to BioMEMS. State-of-the-art techniques in patterning biomolecules, machining three-dimensional microstructures and building microfluidic devices. Various biomedical problems that can be addressed with microfabrication technology and the engineering challenges associated with it. Biweekly labs. Prerequisite: BIOEN 303. Offered: W.

BIOEN 457 Advanced Molecular Bioengineering (4) Stayton Fundamentals of molecular recognition: thermodynamics, forces, kinetics. Manipulation of recognition processes for current molecular bioengineering research and development. Fundamental physical chemistry of molecular recognition in the context of biomedicine. Therapeutics based on cells. Prerequisite: BIOEN 357; BIOC 405. Offered: Sp.

BIOEN 467 Biochemical Engineering (3) Baneyx Application of basic chemical engineering principles to biochemical and biological process industries such as fermentation, enzyme technology, and biological waste treatment. Rapid overview of relevant microbiology, biochemistry, and molecular genetics. Design and analysis of biological reactors and product recovery operations. Prerequisite: either CHEM 223 with CHEM E 340 or either CHEM 237 or CHEM 335; recommended: CHEM E 465. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 467; Sp.

BIOEN 481 Bioengineering Design and Capstone Principles (4) Vaezy Teaches design principles in bioengineering and guides the development of design-based senior capstone projects. Prerequisite: BIOEN 303; BIOEN 305. Offered: Sp.

BIOEN 482 Bioengineering Capstone Project ([2-6]-, max. 8) Independent senior design project. Prerequisite: BIOEN 357; BIOEN 481; corequisite: STAT 390. Offered: AWSpS.

BIOEN 485 Computational Bioengineering (4) Thomas, Vicini Introduction to computational, mathematical and statistical approaches to the analysis of biological systems, including systems and control theory, molecular models and bioinformatics. Lectures and laboratory sessions emphasize practical problems in kinetics, metabolism and genomics. Prerequisite: CSE 143; BIOEN 305; MATH 308. Offered: A.

BIOEN 490 Engineering Materials for Biomedical Applications (3) Horbett Combined application of principles of physical chemistry and biochemistry, materials engineering, to biomedical problems and products. Applications include implants and medical devices, drug delivery systems, cell culture processes, diagnostics, and bioseparations. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 490; A.

BIOEN 491 Controlled-Release Systems: Principles and Applications (3) Pun Mechanisms for controlled release of active agents and the development of useful drug delivery systems for this purpose. Release mechanisms considered include diffusive, convective, and erosive driving forces. Delivery routes include topical, oral and in vivo. Some special case studies covered in detail. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 491; W.

BIOEN 492 Surface Analysis (3) B. Ratner Understanding of solid surfaces for research and development in microelectronics, catalysis, adhesion, biomaterials, science wear, and corrosion science. Newer methods available to study surfaces of materials. Electron emission spectroscopies (ESCA, Auger): ion scattering, ion spectroscopic, photon spectroscopic, and thermodynamic methods. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 458; Sp.

BIOEN 497 Bioengineering Education Outreach (1-2, max. 6) Work with K-12 schools or community organizations. Current science education research and instructional techniques. May involve presentations or instruction in hands-on activities.

BIOEN 499 Special Projects (2-6, max. 50) Individual undergraduate bioengineering projects under the supervision of an instructor. In addition, classes on selected topics of current interests as announced. Offered: AWSpS.

BIOEN 510 Bioengineering Seminars (1) Introductory seminar for new graduate students; review of departmental research.

BIOEN 511 Biomaterials Seminar (1) Hoffman, Horbett, Ratner Presentation of student research results. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 511.

BIOEN 513 Current Topics in Cardiac Physiology (1, max. 3) Regnier Current research in cardiac physiology. Student presentation and discussions of current research methodologies.

BIOEN 518 Nanotechnology Seminar (1, max. 18) Emphasizes frontier research in nanoscience and nanotechnology and on intellectual interactions within the nanotechnology community. Presented by experts in the field, with most being from other institutions. Prerequisite: graduate standing and permission of instructor. Credit/No Credit only. Offered: jointly with CHEM 597; AWSp.

BIOEN 520 Orthopedic Biomechanics (4) Ching Mechanical engineering applied to musculoskeletal system with emphasis on techniques in orthopedic surgery. Measurement of mechanical properties of tissues. mechanics of bone, soft tissue, and muscle, mechanics of upper extremity, spine, and lower extremity. Engineering in surgery, gait analysis, joint replacement, fracture fixation. Prerequisite: BIOEN 440.

BIOEN 522 Biomechanics of Soft Tissue (3) Sanders Applies soft tissue biomechanics to medical research. Develops specific biomechanical questions and experiments to address those aims or hypotheses.

BIOEN 540 Biosystem Identification (4) Vicini Fundamentals of mathematical modeling in medicine and biology. Introduction to compartmental models: a priori, a priori identifiability. Data measurement error, parameter estimation. Maximum likelihood, least squares. Introduction to tracer-tracee models, pharmacokinetics, pharmacodynamics. Models to test hypotheses. Hands-on computer experience. Prerequisite: ordinary differential equations, introductory statistics, or permission of instructor.

BIOEN 542 Computer Simulation in Biology (3) Bassingthwaighte, Graham Introduction to mathematical modeling of biological phenomena. Tutorial text explains how to derive equations for simple models and apply them to generate simulation data. Application topics include kinetics of biomolecular reactions and enzyme saturation, membrane transport, organismal predation, competition and growth, compartmental and spatially distributed models, physiological control systems, probabilistic models. Prerequisite: P BIO 405 and P BIO 406 or equivalent or permission of instructor.

BIOEN 555 Cellular and Molecular Biomechanics and Cell Function (3) Pollack

Examines basic mechanisms of cell function with emphasis on motion. Includes principles of physics and chemistry, building to organelle structure and function; gel-like nature of cell and critical role of cell water; streaming, motility, contraction, mitosis, transport, and other cell basics.

BIOEN 560 Ultrasound in Bioengineering (4) Vaezy Fundamentals of ultrasonic generation, formation, reception, and treatment of absorption, scattering, and transmission. Conventional and new methodology. (A, B, T-M mode, imaging, Doppler, tissue characterization, and nonlinear effects.) Prerequisite: E/E/M E 525 for nonbioengineering students or permission of instructor.

BIOEN 561 Biomedical Optics (4) Advanced theories of optical and spectroscopic measurement with emphasis on biomedical laser applications. Laser principles, instrumentation, and current practice in various biomedical uses, covering such areas as medicine, surgery, and biology. Prerequisite: BIOEN 302 or equivalent, or permission of instructor.

BIOEN 565 Nuclear Magnetic Resonance in Biomedicine (2) Basic physics of nuclear magnetic resonance (NMR) imaging and spectroscopy are presented. Research applications of NMR in physiology and biochemistry are reviewed with emphasis on the brain. Grade based on written tests and small research paper. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with RADGY 550.

BIOEN 568 Image-Processing Computer Systems (4) Kim Components of digital processing computer systems. Two-dimensional filtering and optimal filter design as well as basic image-processing operations. Selected advanced image-processing topics introduced. Individual student project. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with E E 568.

BIOEN 571 Polymeric Materials (3) B. Ratner Relationships between configuration, conformation, molecular order, microstructure, properties of polymeric materials. Concepts relevant to tailoring polymer molecules and microstructures for specific applications. Interactions between polymers and their in-service environment. Characterization and processing techniques relevant to polymeric materials. Prerequisite: one semester or two quarters of organic chemistry. Offered: jointly with MSE 571.

BIOEN 573 Biosensors and Biomedical Sensing (3) Yager In-depth overview of the principal types of biosensors. Topics include: how biological molecules are used in sensing, how the sensors operate, how different sensors compare, under what circumstances sensors can be useful, and the applicability of sensors to biomedical sensing. Prerequisite: BIOEN 436 or permission of instructor.

BIOEN 576 Laboratory Techniques in Protein Engineering (4) Stayton Practical introduction to fundamentals of recombinant DNA technology and protein engineering. Gene design, bacterial molecular biology, genetic engineering strategy. Laboratory project focused on making site-directed protein mutations. Techniques include the Polymerase Chain Reaction, DNA sequencing, DNA cutting/splicing, protein expression. Prerequisite: background in biochemistry or molecular biology or consent of instructor.

BIOEN 577 Cell and Protein Reaction with Foreign Materials (3) Horbett Study of ways in which cell and protein interactions with foreign materials affect the biocompatibility of biomaterials. Description of the phenomenology and mechanisms of protein adsorption, mammalian cell adhesion, and cell receptor biology and of methods used to study these phenomena. Surface properties of materials discussed in context of the course. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

BIOEN 578 Biomembranes (3) Yager Develops an understanding of the molecular principles that underlie the self-assembly of surfactants into natural and model membranes; in particular, on the relationship between the chemical structure of lipid molecules and the three-dimensional aggregates that they form in water.

BIOEN 579 Host Response to Biomaterials (3) Giachelli Basic cell and molecular biology of the pathologies associated with biomaterial implantation that limit bioprosthetic use, including hemostasis, infection, acute and chronic inflammation, wound healing and fibrosis, and structural alterations. Major methods for histological analysis of retrieved implants. Prerequisite: general biology, BIOEN 490 (may be taken concurrently) or permission of instructor.

BIOEN 584 Computational and Integrative Bioengineering (4) Vicini Advanced computational, mathematical, and statistical approaches to the analysis of biological systems, including molecular models, time series, fractal systems, population kinetic analysis, and stochastic simulation. Lectures and laboratory sessions emphasize practical problems in kinetic analysis, metabolism, and genomics. Final project, written and oral reports. Prerequisite: BIOEN 485.

BIOEN 586 Tissue Engineering (3) Giachelli, Horbett Explores methods to restore or replace function in the cardiovascular, epithelial, urinary, nervous, skeletal, and other systems in the human body by use of constructs that contain living cells. Presents scaffold preparation, angiogenesis, and use of stem cells.

BIOEN 590 Advanced Topics in Biomaterials (3) Horbett Major, controversial issues in application of synthetic materials to medical problems. Blood compatibility, bioadhesion, intraocular lenses, contact lenses, polyurethanes, biodegradation, protein adsorption, corrosion, bone fixation, new materials, artificial heart, medical device regulation. Prerequisite: BIOEN 490 or CHEM E 490. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 590.

BIOEN 592 Surface Analysis (3) B. Ratner Understanding of solid surfaces for research and development in microelectronics, catalysis, adhesion, biomaterials science, wear and corrosion science. Newer methods available to study surfaces of materials. Electron emission spectroscopies (ESCA, Auger); ion scattering, ion spectroscopic, photon spectroscopy, and thermodynamic methods. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 558.

BIOEN 598 Research Rotation(1-10, max. 30) Research rotation in the laboratories of core or adjunct faculty in the Department of Bioengineering. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

BIOEN 599 Special Topics in Bioengineering (1-6, max. 15) Offered at a graduate level periodically by faculty members within the Department of Bioengineering; concerns areas of research activities with current and topical interest to bioengineers. Prerequisite: undergraduate or graduate courses (or equivalent) determined individually for each special topic.

BIOEN 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

BIOEN 700 Master's Thesis (*) Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

BIOEN 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

Global Health

G H 201 Newly Emerging Diseases in Public Health (2) NW White Newly recognized and emerging disease pose a major problem for public health. AIDS, hantavirus infections, Ebola virus infections, and the role of bacterial infection in the causation of stomach ulcers are examples of problems to be studied. Other timely diseases are presented in this lecture discussion course. Offered: A.

G H 401 Introduction to Global Health (1) Wade Addresses a variety of themes in global health which serve as a base for an introductory-level understanding of the field. Emphasizes the diverse, disciplinary perspectives on global health. Credit/no credit only. Offered: A.

G H 402 Multidisciplinary Perspectives in Global Health (1) Gonzales, Wade Presenters from a variety of disciplines discuss their experiences working on global health issues in resource-poor settings. Speakers illustrate how their work is influenced by communication, culture, economic and socio-political realities. Credit/no credit only. Offered: Sp.

G H 500 Global Health Seminar (1, max. 6) Explores issues relevant to global health; themes vary by quarter. Required course for Global Health MPH and Global Health Certificate students. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

G H 501 Introduction to Global Health (1) Wade Addresses a variety of themes in global health which serve as a base for an introductory-level understanding of the field. Emphasizes the diverse, disciplinary perspectives on global health. Offered: A.

G H 502 Multidisciplinary Perspectives in Global Health (1) Gonzales, Wade Presenters from a variety of disciplines discuss their experiences working on global health issues in resource poor settings. Speakers illustrate how their work is influenced by communication, culture, economic and socio-political realities. Offered: Sp.

G H 505 P-Advanced Global Health (2) Kimball Prepares health profession students for work in developing countries. Includes health care delivery systems, political, social, and economic determinants of health, major global health issues, and personal well-being while abroad. Lecture and seminar format with guest speakers, student presentations, and discussion. Offered: jointly with MED 560; Sp.

G H 511 Problems in International Health (4) Gloyd Explores social, political, economic, environmental determinants of developing countries' health; traces development of societal responses to problems. Includes: origins of primary health care; child survival; traditional systems; population; water; sanitation; international agencies; impact of economic policies. Case study formulating pharmaceutical policy in a developing country. Offered: A.

G H 514 Global Population Health (3) Bezruchka Looks at determinants of population health in different countries, to learn about the constraints of typical public health and development paradigms. Topics include colonialism, development and underdevelopment, political economy, culture, health behaviors, hierarchy, health care and medical harm. Offered: Sp.

G H 521 International Program Management and Evaluation (3) Downer, O'Malley Overview of the program planning cycle as applied to international program management. Uses case studies and application exercises to develop skills in designing assessment activities for program planning; developing, testing, and implementing programmatic interventions; managing resources and people, monitoring activities; and evaluating program outcomes. Offered: W.

G H 531 Research Methods in Developing Countries (3/4) Gloyd, Mock Simple, practical methodologies to obtain and validate information regarding health status and health services in developing countries. Usefulness, validity, limitation of vital records, health reports, household (and cluster) surveys, nutritional anthropometry, and qualitative methods discussed. Lectures, computer lab, and student participation in community-based survey. Offered: jointly with EPI 539; W.

G H 532 Responsible Conduct of International Research (3) Farquhar Prepares international and U.S. students to develop research proposals, conduct international field research, and present scholarly work. Topics include proposal writing, human subjects protection, data management, peer review, scholarly integrity, responsible authorship, and grants and budget management. Open to graduate and non-matriculated students. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with EPI 586; A.

G H 544 Maternal and Child Health in Developing Countries (3) Mercer Emphasizes critical health problems of women and children in developing countries in social, economic, and cultural contexts. Practical approaches to developing MCH programs shared via lecture/discussions, exercises, and small group work. Students acquire skills in baseline assessment, setting objectives, planning and evaluating interventions, and involving communities. Offered: jointly with HSERV 544: W.

G H 553 Reproductive Health, Population and Development (2) Povey Provides students with an introduction to demographic conditions in Third World countries and an understanding of the consequences of rapid population growth on health and the environment. The context and effectiveness of family planning programs is a major focus. Offered: A.

G H 555 Nutrition in Developing Countries (3) Gorstein Introduces issues of nutrition in developing countries, with an emphasis on the control and prevention of under nutrition and micronutrient deficiencies. Offered: jointly with NUTR 555; Sp.

G H 561 Tropical Medicine (1) Buckner, Pottinger Intended for professional health science students interested in learning the pathophysiology, epidemiology, and clinical presentation of disease conditions that are more commonly seen in less-developed countries, resource-limited settings, or tropical climates, and how to diagnose, treat, and follow the resolution of these diseases with commonly limited resources. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with MED 561; Sp.

G H 562 AIDS: A Multidisciplinary Approach (2) Farquhar Comprehensive overview of the public health, clinical, and laboratory aspects of human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) infection and disease. Topics include the pathogenesis, natural history, and management of HIV infections. The impact of HIV/AIDS on community and global health care and prospects for prevention and control. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with EPI 530/MED 530; A.

G H 565 Diseases of Public Health Importance and Strategies for their Control (3) Public Health perspective of major disease of national and global importance. Discussion of origins, establishment, progression, and pathogenesis of diseases. Importance of immunological, intercellular and external factors, and strategies of disease prevention. Requires a grounding in cellular and molecular biology, microbiology, and immunology. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: Jointly with PABIO 550.

G H 566 Biochemistry and Genetics of Pathogens and Their Hosts (4) Provides a strong foundation in biochemistry, molecular biology, and genetics for students interested in disease. Principles will be illustrated through examples focusing on pathogens, and infectious and non-infectious disease. Prerequisite: undergraduate level course work in molecular biology or biochemistry or permission of instructor. Offered: Jointly with PABIO 551.

G H 590 Selected Topics in Global Health (1-4, max. 12) Focuses on topics relevant to global health. Offered: AWSpS.

G H 592 Program Seminars (1-6, max. 6) Addresses specific educational needs of students within the Department of Global Health. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

G H 593 MPH Thesis Workshop (1) Hagopian Introduces students to the issues involved in conceptualizing and completing thesis projects and the various international health organizations and faculty members available as resources to projects. Prerequisite: first-year Global Health MPH students. Offered: AWSp

G H 595 Master's Practicum (1-6, max. 6) Supervised practice experience providing an opportunity to apply knowledge and skills in a setting of relevance to global health. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of faculty advisor. Offered: AWSpS.

G H 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

G H 700 Master's Thesis (*) Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

Quantitative Science

Q SCI 210 Introduction to Environmental Modeling (5) NW, QSR Introduction to the use of computer modeling software in environmental policy and decision making. In weekly computer lab meetings, students use established programs to analyze the outcomes of management strategies and policy decisions relating to topics such as conservation of endangered species, climate change, and deforestation. Offered: jointly with ENVIR 210.

Q SCI 291 Analysis for Biologists I (5) NW, QSR Introduction to differential calculus, emphasizing development of basic skills. Examples promote understanding of mathematics and applications to modeling and solving biological problems. Topics include optimization and curve analysis. Prerequisite: either MATH 120, a minimum score of 2 on advanced placement test, or a minimum score of 67% on MATHPC placement test. Not available for credit to students who have completed MATH 124 with a 2.0 or higher. Offered: AWSpS.

Q SCI 292 Analysis for Biologists II (5) NW, QSR Gallucci, Greulich, Johnson Introduction to integral calculus, emphasizing development of basic skills. Examples promote understanding of mathematics and applications to modeling and solving biological problems. Topics include areas under curves, volumes, and differential equations. Prerequisite: minimum grade of .7 in Q SCI 291. Not available for credit to students who have completed MATH 125 with a 2.0 or higher. Offered: WSpS.

Q SCI 381 Introduction to Probability and Statistics (5) NW, QSR Applications to biological and natural resource problems stressing the formulation and interpretation of statistical tests. Random variables, expectations, variances, binomial, hypergeometric, Poisson, normal, chi-square, "t" and "F" distributions. Prerequisite: either MATH 120, MATH 124, MATH 125, MATH 126, MATH 144, or Q SCI 291, or a minimum score of 2 on advanced placement test, or a minimum score of 67% on MATHPC placement test. Offered: AWSpS.

Q SCI 454 Ecological Modeling (5) NW Examines concepts in ecological modeling focusing on the rational, interpretation, and motivation for modeling in ecological sciences. Explores individual, population, and ecosystem-based models. Excel-based computer exercises, model building and interpretation, readings. Recommended: prior coursework in ecology and statistics. Offered: jointly with FISH 454.

Q SCI 458 Fisheries Stock Assessment (4) NW Hilborn Emphasizes quantitative analysis of fisheries data to determine how the fishery would respond to alternative management actions. Major topics include production models, stocks and recruitment, catch at age analysis, and formulation of harvest strategies. Recommended: either Q SCI 456 or FISH 456. Offered: jointly with FISH 458; Sp.

Q SCI 480 Sampling Theory for Biologists (3) NW Theory and applications of sampling finite populations including: simple random sampling, stratified random sampling, ratio estimates, regression estimates, systematic sampling, cluster sampling, sample size determinations, applications in fisheries and forestry. Other topics include sampling plant and animal populations, sampling distributions, estimation of parameters and statistical treatment of data. Prerequisite: Q SCI 482; recommended: Q SCI 483. Offered: jointly with STAT 480; odd years.

Q SCI 482 Statistical Inference in Applied Research I: Hypothesis Testing and Estimation for Ecologists and Resource Managers (5) NW Analysis of variance and covariance; chi square tests; nonparametric procedures multiple and curvilinear regression; experimental design and power of tests. Application to biological problems. Use of computer programs in standard statistical problems. Prerequisite: either STAT 311 or Q SCI 381. Offered: AW.

Q SCI 483 Statistical Inference in Applied Research II: Regression Analysis for Ecologists and Resource Managers (5) NW Analysis of linear regression models and introduction to nonlinear models. Model selection using generalized F-tests; residual analysis. Application to categorical, count, binomial, transformed variables. Introduction to matrix formation of regression models and applications. Prerequisite: either Q SCI 381 or Q SCI 482. Offered: W.

Q SCI 486 Experimental Design (3) NW Topics in analysis of variance and experimental designs: choice of designs, comparison of efficiency, power, sample size, pseudoreplication, factor structure. Prerequisite: Q SCI 482; recommended: Q SCI 483. Offered: jointly with STAT 486; even years.

Q SCI 497 Special Topics in Quantitative Science (1-15, max. 15) NW Topics not normally offered in regular curriculum. Format ranges from seminar/discussion, formal lectures, laboratory or modeling work. Offered: AWSpS.

Q SCI 498 Internship (1-15, max. 15) Internship experience with a public agency or private company, supervised and approved by a faculty member. Preparation of professional report reflecting on the experience is required. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

Q SCI 499 Research Experience (1-15, max. 15) Special studies in quantitative ecology and resource management for which there is not sufficient demand to warrant the organization of regular courses. Credit/no credit only.

University Conjoint

UCONJ 100 Introduction to Health Professions (1) Garcia Opportunities in health professions. Information on educational requirements, professional/patient interaction, licensing, registering for practice in profession, salaries, and career opportunities.

UCONJ 290 Diversity Issues in the Health Care Environment (1-2, max. 2) I&S Introduction to the complexity of the issues surrounding culture and health, the interrelatedness of ethnic and cultural characteristics and health care access, health and health care concerns of specific communities, traditional and alternative health care practices, and community-based promotion and disease prevention programs.

UCONJ 410 Health in the Context of Italian Culture (5) While in Italy, participants study relationship between current health issues, contemporary Italian history, socio-cultural environment, and European Union; health status of vulnerable populations; characteristics of culture and health care system that promote healthy outcomes; differences between health behaviors and outcomes in Italy and US. Offered: A.

UCONJ 411 Psychology of Aging (3) Kiyak Focuses on developing the skills necessary for critically evaluating current psychological theories of aging, research findings in this area, and the implications of findings on the aging person. Special consideration given to the effects of socioeconomic, sex, and ethnic differences in the psychology of aging. Open to upper-division undergraduates and beginning graduate students interested in the field of gerontology.

UCONJ 412 The Family in Later Life (3) Focuses on issues affecting older persons and their families. Addresses demographic influences on families; roles, rules for and function of family members; inter-generational relationships; economics, political, and social policy affecting family life; and cultural variations and supportive resources for older persons and their families.

UCONJ 413 Current Issues in Aging (3) Describes the population trends at work in the United States and other developed nations with significant societal implications for care and management of elders. Evaluates selected public policies related to aging. Gives students proficiency in using resources related to aging on the Internet. Evaluates alternative long-term care models.

UCONJ 420 Biological Safety Practices (1) Kenny General introduction to appropriate laboratory procedures used for handling potentially hazardous biological agents. Particular focus on laboratory safety and appropriate protocols that should be employed by those engaged in infectious disease and recombinant DNA research. Credit/no credit only.

UCONJ 422 Sexually Transmitted Diseases: An Overview (2) Gardner Clinically oriented course designed to provide a knowledge base for upper division health science students to participate effectively in community outreach programs for the prevention of sexually-transmitted diseases. Offered cooperatively by the departments of Pharmacy and Medicine.

UCONJ 440 Biological Aspects of Aging (3) Introductory course on aspects of the biology of human aging and of functional changes associated with normal aging and with those illnesses that may be present in the elderly. Focus on the relationship between changes in physical function, environment, and quality of life. Includes theoretical perspective on aging as well as the aging process in specific physiological systems. Designed for upper-level undergraduate students with an interest in aging.

UCONJ 442 Social and Cultural Aspects of Aging (3) Involves faculty members from the various social science fields examining the range and variation of relationships among age-linked attitudes and cultural values related to aging; the social and economic factors that influence the elderly in contemporary society; the effects of ethnic and sex differences in sociocultural aging. Open to upper-division undergraduates and beginning graduate students interested in gerontology.

UCONJ 443 Interdisciplinary Seminar on Aging (1-6, max. 15) Borgatta Interdisciplinary examination of the contemporary theoretical literature on gerontology and long-term care. For upper-level undergraduate and graduate students with an interest in aging. Quarterly offerings available from the Institute on Aging.

UCONJ 444 Interdisciplinary Collaborative Teams in Health Care (1-5, max. 10) Course open to students in UW Health Sciences schools. Students function as an interdisciplinary learning group within a problem based learning framework. The primary goal of the course is to promote the development of interdisciplinary practice in the care of urban and rural underserved patient populations. Credit/no credit only.

UCONJ 445 Bioterrorism Awareness for Health Professionals (1) Provides content in bioterrorism awareness for students in the health professions. First in a two-course interdisciplinary sequence focusing on awareness level training designed to enhance recognition of an injury of illness potentially arising as a result of exposure to select chemical and biological agents. Credit/no credit.

UCONJ 446 Bioterrorism Preparedness and Response for Health Professionals (2, max. 6) Focuses on bioterrorism preparedness and response for health professionals. Includes planning, system, and policy issues with an emphasis on clinical relevance. Content compliments UCONJ 445 (not a prerequisite).

UCONJ 450 Health Care in the Underserved Community (1) Recommended for students who are working with underserved communities. Students learn about the underserved population served by the community health projects on campus with a focus on inter-professional patient care.

UCONJ 490 Social Sensitivity in Health Care (3) I&S Multidisciplinary course for health professions students. Health professionals' roles in dealing with social, cultural, and physical barriers to health care of low-income groups and ethnic people of color. Personal involvement through field experiences and faculty drawn from affected communities as well as health sciences, social work schools. Credit/no credit only.

UCONJ 497 Health Care in a Rural Community (3) Critical analysis built upon concepts relative to interdisciplinary health-care delivery in a rural community. Students develop an organizational model for rural health care and study innovative ways of mobilizing community resources and support for a comprehensive rural health-care system. Pharmacy students, nurses, and other health professionals study application of theory in an appropriate clinical setting within the conceptual framework of each student's professional field.

UCONJ 500 Seminar in Interprofessional Collaboration ([1-3]-, max. 7) Interdisciplinary teams composed of students and community members placed in diverse urban settings to address an identified community need by developing and implementing collaborative, community-based projects. Seminars emphasize interprofessional collaborative practice, intrapersonal understanding, interpersonal group process skills, organizational savvy, community awareness, and sociocultural sensitivity. Graduate School of Public Affairs. Offered: AW/Sp.

UCONJ 503 International Health (1) Wade Weekly seminar introduces students to issues and opportunities of participating in health care systems in other countries. Guest speakers bring many perspectives of international health care experiences. Class discussions help prepare students for international placements.

UCONJ 504 Advanced Interdisciplinary Case Studies in Global Health (3) Gorstein, Kurth, Shell-Duncan Uses actual multidisciplinary case studies to 1) analyze quantitative parameters of diseases, 2) contrast the descriptive and analytic approaches of health sciences, anthropology and nutritional sciences, 3) integrate diverse disciplinary perspectives into cohesive information, 4) organize class presentations, and 5) apply critical thinking in approaching complex health issues. Offered: Sp.

UCONJ 505 Professional Interpersonal Styles of Communication with Families to Enhance Health Outcomes (3) Complex communication processes evaluated and applied to the family as unit of interaction within interdisciplinary context. Empirical based communication practices analyzed considering family variables adherence, satisfaction, health outcomes, and cost effectiveness. Engagement in experiential learning through challenging clinical scenarios. Emphasizes cultural competencies. Prerequisite: professional student or permission of instructor.

UCONJ 510 Integrating Arts in the Classroom (4) Prepares prospective elementary education teachers to understand and acquire arts literacy through a comprehensive approach to learning and teaching in and through the arts. Course is school and arts-site based, inclusive of multiple art forms. Based on comprehensive art principles, and project oriented. Credit/no credit only. Offered: Sp.

UCONJ 511 Issues in Home Health Care Delivery (3) Service delivery issues relevant to provision of health care services across the life span in the home setting. Home health care as an important component in health care system. Individual and multidisciplinary practice of health care disciplines. Emphasis on research literature. Prerequisite: graduate student standing, upper division with permission of instructor.

UCONJ 513 Dynamics of Patient Management: Diabetes Mellitus (2) Analysis of advanced knowledge related to interdisciplinary management of diabetes. Commonalities and differences in provider approaches, recent research and its effect on management practices, collaborative communication, knowledge application. Brief interactive presentations, decision-making opportunities, discussion. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in pharmacy, dietetics, nursing; third- or fourth-year medical student; or permission of instructor.

UCONJ 515 Promoting Health Behavior for Individuals and Families (2/4, max. 4) Brandt, Jordan, Kieckhefer, Lewis, Solchany, Spieker Practice-focused, evidence-based, theory-driven intervention strategies to promote healing and health behavior at selected points from birth to death. Relevant for clinicians from diverse health settings. Emphasis on clinical skill development including decision-making and outcome management applicable for individuals and families. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

UCONJ 517 Interdisciplinary Clinical Research Methods Seminar (2) LeResche, Mitchell Introduction to clinical research methods, including selection of research questions, study design, measurement, data analysis and practical aspects of conducting research in clinical settings. Offered: Only for students from Health Sciences schools who are conducting research under the Multidisciplinary Predoctoral Clinical Research Program; CR/NC; S.

UCONJ 520 Molecular Biophysics Research Seminar (1) Parson A series of research seminars for faculty and students involved with the molecular biophysics program. Credit/no credit only.

UCONJ 524 Developmental Neurobiology (3) Raible, Reh, Roelink, Rubel Survey of contemporary issues in developmental neurobiology, including neurogenesis and differentiation; electrophysiological, morphological, and neurochemical regulation of cellular phenotype; neuronal pathways and synaptic contacts; cellular and synaptic plasticity; and behavior. Examination of molecular biological, morphological, electrophysiological, and behavioral approaches. Prerequisite: background in neurophysiology, neuroanatomy, molecular neurobiology. Offered: Sp.

UCONJ 525 Overview of Faculty Research in Neurobiology (1) Reviews research topics currently being studied in neurobiology. Student preparation consists of reading pertinent articles published on each topic. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: first-year graduate student in neurobiology.

UCONJ 530 Issues in Indian Health (3) Survey of historical and contemporary issues in Indian Health. Covers Indian contributions to health, traditional Indian Medicine, current disease epidemiology, development of Federal Indian Health policy, the Indian Health Service, tribal health programs, and consequences of major legislation on Indian Health. Prerequisite: current health science student or permission of instructor.

UCONJ 531 Introduction to Mind Body Medicine-An Experiential Elective (2) Sessions contain a didactic component followed by an experiential component and cover a variety of self-care techniques including meditation, exercise, and nutrition. The goals are to promote personal well being, a healthy lifestyle, reduce burnout, and reduce academic difficulties. Credit/no credit only.

UCONJ 540 Environmental Change and Human Health: The Role of the Health Professional (1/2, max. 2) Oberle, Rosenblatt Explores the effect of environmental deterioration on human health, and presents tools to address the problem. Offered: Sp.

UCONJ 548 Current Issues in First Nations Behavioral Health: Mental Health and Substance Abuse (3) Historical and intergenerational antecedents of tribal psychiatric and substance abuse disorders. Oppression, economic circumstances, and family functioning as shaping mechanisms for attachment. Implications of insufficient attachment for neuro-development and developmental psychopathology. Traditional vs. mental health and substance abuse assessment and treatment. Self as provider to tribal clients, communities, systems.

UCONJ 555 Principles of STD/HIV Research (3) Provides MD and PhD fellows and graduate students with a comprehensive overview of the current state of knowledge in specific areas of STD/HIV research, including study design, laboratory methods, production of instruments for data collection, and methods for data analysis. Credit/no credit only.

UCONJ 584 Plant Tumors (1, max. 9) Gordon Discussion of the literature of plant tumors and current research work being carried on in this area at the University. Offered cooperatively by the departments of Biochemistry, Botany, and Microbiology and Immunology. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: offered only to persons actively pursuing work in this area.

UCONJ 599 Selected Readings in Interdisciplinary Clinical Research (1, max. 6) Marshall, Mitchell Analysis and synthesis of selected readings and works in progress related to multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary clinical research. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: UCONJ 517; permission of instructor. Offered:

School of Law

Law

LAW 300 Introduction to Law (3-6, max. 5) I&S Understanding the legal system, its functions in the social-economic order, legal reasoning, and the world of legal education and the legal profession. Open to nonlaw students only.

LAW 410 Problems in Professional Responsibility (4) I&S

LAW 415 Criminal Justice (3) I&S Examines pre-trial rights of persons suspected or accused of crime, primarily those rights covered by the Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, and Fourteenth Amendments of the U.S. Constitution.

LAW 416 International Contracting: Negotiation and Drafting (3) I&S Skills course designed to introduce process and problems of negotiating and drafting international agreements. Client interviewing and counseling and negotiation and drafting of a contract between parties in the United States and Japan. Credit/no credit only. Open to nonlaw students only.

LAW 422 Copyright (3) I&S

LAW 429 Public Land Law (3) I&S

LAW 440 Legal Issues of Internet Law (3) I&S Introduces the basic legal issues raised by networked digital technologies, such as the Internet. Covers jurisdiction, speech, privacy/access, propriety rights (copyrights, domain names), emerging law, leading policy debates, as well as fundamental Internet technical skills. Offered: S.

LAW 442 Land Law and the Urban Environment (3) I&S Examination of the major legal tools available to shape the urban environment by controlling the use of land. Considers zoning, subdivision controls, urban renewal, private land-use restrictions, and the rules of nuisance law. Credit/no credit only. Open to law and nonlaw students.

LAW 443 The Legal Process I (3/5) I&S The system of law and its functions rather than substantive law pertaining to any particular subject or discipline. Open only to nonlaw students. Credit/no credit only.

LAW 444 Constitution and American Public Education (3-6, max. 6) I&S Examines the relationships between the Constitution of the United States and the American system of public education, excluding higher education, in areas of constitutional freedom and legal controls, racial desegregation, and equal educational opportunity, including equal financing of the public schools. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with EDLPS 444.

LAW 445 Major Issues in American Constitutional Law (3) I&S Significant themes in American constitutional law. Doctrine of judicial review, application of the Bill of Rights to the states, Supreme Court's recognition of fundamental rights, the Equal Protection clause, the Religion clauses, freedom of speech, and Presidential powers. Open to law and nonlaw students.

LAW 447 Critical Perspectives in Law (3) I&S Examination of modern critical legal thought and critics views regarding proposed alternative forms of social ordering.

LAW 467 American Law and the American Indian (3) I&S Relationship between Indians and the United States from 1789 to the present. Significant constitutional, legislative, and judicial actions. Legal events explored within their political, military, social, and cultural contexts. Comparisons with other minority-group experiences. Offered: jointly with HSTAA 416.

LAW 476 International Economic Relations and Trade Policy (3) I&S Consideration of international control of national trade policies and permissible transnational reach of national trade or other regulation The General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) and the international monetary system examined from legal and economic perspective. Examination and comparison of prescriptive jurisdiction to public international law.

LAW 477 Law Literature and Film (2-4, max. 4) I&S/VLPA An examination of literary and cinematic portrayals of and issues important to law, lawyers, and the legal system. Considers both portrayals purporting to depict the legal system as well as works envisioning lawyers and the legal system in a "better world."

LAW 481 Land, American Culture and the Law: Perspectives on the Use and Ownership of the Natural Environment (1-6, max. 6) I&S

LAW 489 Law and Aging (3) I&S Survey of principal areas of law of special concern to aging population, considering health care and health care decision-making, public and private income maintenance programs, taxation, guardianships, conservatorships and other methods of protecting the property of the elderly, counseling, and professional responsibility.

LAW 600 Independent Study or Research (*)

LAW 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*)

Focuses on the law, regulation, and policy implications of contraception; new reproductive and genetic technologies, including surrogate parenthood, sperm and egg donation, in-vitro fertilization, and other methods of conquering infertility; and abortion.

LAW H 509 End of Life: Rights and Choices (2) Address controversial legal issues engendered by our increasing control over the end of life. Focuses on patient autonomy issues at the end of life including withdrawal of life support, surrogate decision making, advance directives, and patient choice to hasten death with medical assistance (physician aid in dying). Offered: Sp.

LAW H 510 Topics in Law and Medicine ([1-4], max. 4)

LAW H 512 Health Law (2) Kuszler Analysis of law, the legal system and current legal problems as they related to the financing and delivery of health care services. Offered: jointly with HSERV 551; A.

LAW H 520 Genetics and the Law (2) Kuszler Considers the legal issues arising from new genetic technologies and information. Statutes, regulations, and cases used to demonstrate the constitutional, contract, and tort law complications resulting from dissemination of these technological advances. Prerequisite: LAW E 562/MHE 514/PHG 512 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with PHG 523.

LAW H 524 Forensic Evidence (3) Examines the application of the rules of evidence in cases that involve forensic evidence. Examines paradigmatic cases involving homicide and physical or sexual assault, although the principles examined are applicable generally in civil and criminal cases.

LAW H 525 Criminal Law and Procedure (3) Provides an understanding of U.S. criminal law and criminal procedure. Explores basic principles of liability, defenses, and basic constitutional principles governing interactions between police and suspects. Open to forensic nursing students and graduate law students, but not JD students.

LAW H 530 Disability Law (3) Considers the definition of disability as defined by statute (ADA, FRA), case law, and social perception. Focuses on education law and entitlements, assess to and discrimination in employment, housing, public transportation, and health care.

LAW H 531 Disability Clinic (4-, max. 12) Clinical training in disability law issues, including access to Medicaid and other public benefits, assistive technology issues, transit accessibility, and low-wage worker accommodation issues, among other possible issues. Students represent clients at Columbia Legal Services under supervision of CLS attorneys. Prerequisite: LAW H 530.

LAW H 534 Mental Health and the Law (3) Covers medical and legal definitional issues as well as major civil and criminal law issues, including standards and procedures for involuntary commitment; consent for, and informed refusal of, treatment; de-institutionalization/community-based treatment; the insanity defense; competency to stand trial; and punishment of the mentally ill convict.

LAW H 536 Research Ethics and Regulation (3) Mastroianni Explores the ethical principles and concepts and U.S. laws related to (1) research conducted with animals, (2) research on humans, and (3) the responsible conduct of research Required for graduate students in the Department of Medical History and Ethics, School of Medicine. Offered: jointly with MHE 536. W.

LAW H 540 Health and Human Rights (3) Examines the basic concepts in the fields of human rights law and public health, and uses those concepts to examine the interdependence and tensions between the two fields. Introduction to the fields of public health and human rights law, examining the impact of health policies and programs on human rights.

LAW H 570 Biotechnology and the Law (3)

LAW H 580 Advanced Health Law (3) Considers the impact of antitrust law, fraud, and abuse prohibitions, the corporate practice of medicine doctrine, tax law and other state and federal laws upon emerging health care entities. Focuses on integrated health care delivery systems. Prerequisite: LAW H 501.

Intellectual Property Law

LAW P 501 Intellectual Property Law Core (8) Intensive study of intellectual property law core subjects: patents, copyrights, trade secrets, and trademarks. Examines fundamental principles their underlying policies, and how the laws interrelate. Open to J.D students with permission of instructor. Not open to students who have taken LAW A 522, Law A 546, or Law E 588.

LAW P 503 Introduction to Legal Systems and Skills for Intellectual Property Law (2-3, max. 3) Introduction to the U.S. system of state and federal courts in the context of intellectual property. Discusses how intellectual property laws come from the common law as well as state and federal statutes and regulations. Teaches legal research, writing, case briefing, and analysis skills.

LAW P 504 Economic Analysis of Intellectual Property (2-3) Explores the intersection between intellectual property law and economics from both a macro and micro economic perspective; economic justification of intellectual property law; and portfolio management tools that can evaluate intellectual property protection as an investment. Prerequisite: either LAW P 501 or LAW E 567. Recommended: economics. Offered: W.

LAW P 509 Intellectual Property and Unfair Competition (2-3) Bangasser Examines in-depth application of competition law and policy to the creation and exploration of the Intellectual property. Offered: Sp.

LAW P 510 Advanced Writing Seminar in Intellectual Property Law and Policy (2-, max. 4) Gomulkiewicz Develops advanced research and writing skills under the direction of an advisor. Students present a substantial research paper on copyright, patent, trademark, or unfair competition, for the Intellectual Property Law and Policy LL.M. Offered: WSp.

LAW P 528 LL.M. Intellectual Property Law Practicum (1-4, max. 6) Experience with an approved non-profit organization, judicial or legislative body, or governmental agency on issues related to intellectual property law and policy. Students work under the guidance of experienced practitioners; both student and field supervisor provide the supervising law faculty member with a final written evaluation. Credit/no credit only.

LAW P 539 Law, Technology, and Economic Development (2-3, max. 3) Snyder, Winn Provides an overview of selected principles and theories of development economics, and considers the implications of technological innovation, intellectual property rights, government regulation, trade policy, and technical standards for the achievement of development objectives. Mass media coverage of current developments enriches class discussions.

LAW P 545 Advanced Patent Law Seminar (3) Taylor Study of public policy and practice considerations relating to patenting research results in high technology. Examines the most up-to-date issues in legal protection of technology from the comparative law perspective. Students write and present a research paper on a topic related to patent law and policy. Prerequisite: LAW A 546. Offered: W.

LAW P 590 Graduate Intellectual Property Law Tutorial (1-4, max. 4) Focuses on a specialized area of intellectual property law. Limited to students in the Graduate Program in Intellectual Property Law and Policy. Tutorial must be approved by the program director.

Law (Taxation)

LAW T 502 Federal Tax Controversies and Procedures (3)

LAW T 503 Problems of Timing (2-3, max. 3)

LAW T 504 Property Dispositions and Transactions (3)

LAW T 505 Introduction to Income Taxation (2) Addresses a number of fundamental income tax concepts, including the computation of individual tax liability, statutory exclusions, deductions, and gains. Also deals with issues related to character and timing.

LAW T 506 Tax Practice and Skills (1) Orientation to core concepts of tax practice, including administrative structure and nature of tax law, nuances of statutory interpretation, and the relative authority of statutory, administrative, and judicial sources. Includes overview of print and online tools for federal tax research.

LAW T 507 Federal Tax Policy Seminar (2-, max. 4) Examines the theoretical and policy considerations applied in assessing existing and proposed federal tax regimes. Topics include: the nature of the income tax as a tax on saving and consumption; consumption taxes as alternatives to taxes on income; tax policy and charitable giving; taxes and the poor; and more.

LAW T 510 Estate and Gift Taxation (3)

LAW T 511 Taxation of Partners and Partnerships ([1-4]-, max. 4)

LAW T 512 Exempt Organizations ([2-4]-, max. 4)

LAW T 513 Estate Planning (3)

LAW T 515 International Taxation I (3)

LAW T 516 International Taxation II (3)

LAW T 517 Estate and Gift Taxation II (2)

LAW T 518 Taxation of S Corporations (2)

LAW T 519 Canadian-United States Tax Issues (2) Ko Overview to various cross-border issues, including the Canadian income tax (and its GST tax), residency for Canadian tax purposes, principles relating to operation of Canadian business in the United States and profit repatriation and U.S. investment in Canada and similar repatriation issues.

LAW T 520 Tax Ethics (2) Considers the role of ethics in tax practice and its application to specific problems faced by tax professionals. Explores substantive rules governing tax. Addresses ethical problems of tax professionals in connection with structuring transactions, resolving tax controversies with and presenting cases to the IRS, and representing litigants in tax controversies.

LAW T 521 Compensation and Benefits I (3)

LAW T 522 Compensation and Benefits II (2)

LAW T 523 International Estate Planning (2)

LAW T 524 Transfer Pricing Seminar (2) Andrade Reviews section 482 of U.S. Internal Revenue Code and the Treasury regulations thereunder with a focus on multinational corporations (MNCs) and their related party transactions that are subject to the arm's length standard. Application of U.S. transfer pricing regulations to related party transactions involving MNCs.

LAW T 525 Advising Privately-Owned Businesses (3) Explores the role of the lawyer as an advisor through case studies examining a range of structural planning issues and the practical and analytical challenges of the planning process. Emphasizes tax and business considerations, and creative planning strategies. Prerequisite: LAW A 530; LAW A 515, which may be taken concurrently.

LAW T 526 Federal Tax Clinic (2/3-, max. 9) Clinical training in federal tax litigation under the supervision of members of the law school faculty.

LAW T 528 Graduate Tax Practicum (2) Field-based experience in a department-approved public or private entity, of eight hours per week minimum under the guidance of experienced practitioners. The student and practitioner produce a final report summarizing the practicum experience to the supervising faculty member, who decides whether to award academic credit. Credit/no credit only.

LAW T 530 Corporate Reorganizations and Acquisitions (2-3, max. 3) Examines the federal income taxation of business entities and their owners. Limited to coverage of the fundamental concepts of corporate and partnership taxation.

LAW T 531 Advanced Corporate Tax Problems (2) Examination (through case studies) of consolidated tax returns, limits on the use of tax benefits, carryover of tax attributes, classifications of debt versus equity, and corporate penalty taxes.

LAW T 532 Taxation of Estates, Trusts, and Beneficiaries (2-3, max. 3)

LAW T 533 Tax Crimes: Investigations, Prosecutions, and Penalties (2) Chiconie Focuses on elements of tax and related crimes with a view of the governmental investigative tools and powers, including IRS summonses, search warrants, and Grand Jury investigations. Covers taxpayer's rights and defenses in a criminal case; the IRS voluntary disclosure program; and the elements of civil penalties. Offered: AWSp.

LAW T 534 State and Local Taxation (4)

LAW T 536 Taxation of Trans-Pacific Transactions (2/3)

LAW T 537 Business Planning ([2-6]-, max. 6)

LAW T 538 Estate Planning for Business Interests (2-3) Business succession and estate planning issues for the owners of closely held business, including shareholder agreements, recapitalizations, family limited partnerships and limited liability companies, taxable acquisitions, split dollar agreements, redemptions to pay death taxes, electing small business trusts and more. Prerequisite: LAW T 510

LAW T 539 Matrimonial Tax (2) Covers tax aspects of married relationships and the tax impact of the dissolution of a marriage. Includes joint returns, the marriage tax penalty, innocent spouse relief from joint return liability, pre-nuptial agreements, transfer tax effects of inter-spousal transfers, alimony, child support, and marital property transfers incident to divorce.

LAW T 541 Limited Liability Companies (2)

LAW T 543 Advanced Partnership Tax (2) Builds on the material covered in the basic course, Taxation of Partners and Partnership. It covers more sophisticated aspects of partnership allocations; transactions between partners and partnerships; and sale or exchange of partnership interests. Prerequisite: LAW T 511.

LAW T 544 Tax Aspects of Charitable Giving (20) Examines income, gift and estate tax consequences of charitable gifts of cash and property. Includes: theoretical and policy bases of charitable deduction; technical requirements; effect of receipt of benefits; percentage limitations based on donee and type of property; application of carryover rules; effect of partial cash or cash equivalent consideration.

LAW T 545 International Taxation of Intellectual Property (2) Smith Overview of the tax consequences of various types of common commercial arrangements that involve the development, ownership, and use of intangible property within multinational groups. Explores tax efficient arrangements such as contract research and licensing arrangement, cost-sharing arrangement, and the use of intangible holding companies.

LAW T 546 Taxation of Real Estate Interests (2) An in-depth study and analysis of the tax consequences of acquiring, developing, operating, and disposing of interests in real property. Focuses on practical approaches to structuring sale-leaseback transactions, syndications, installment sales, and like-kind exchanges. Considers the application of the passive activity loss rules in real estate.

LAW T 547 International Taxation of Electronic Commerce (2-, max. 4) Electronic commerce is defined as the exchange of digital information in connection with the purchases and sale of goods and services. Seminar and discussion format. Explores the potential methods and approaches for the taxation of earnings associated with electronic commerce.

LAW T 548 Tax Writing (2) Designed to improve writing skills as they relate to practice of tax law. Students draft many types of tax documents. Also considers professional responsibility aspects of tax practice. Recommended: LAW T 506.

School of Medicine

Anesthesiology

ANEST 498 Undergraduate Thesis (*) Sivarajan
By special arrangement. Time and credit to be arranged. Offered: AWPpS.

ANEST 499 Undergraduate Research (*)
Sivarajan Specific research problems relating to pulmonary, cardiovascular, renal, obstetric, and central nervous system functions, and their alteration by anesthetic techniques and agents. (Six weeks, full-time. Limit: two students.) Offered: AWPpS.

ANEST 501 P-Preceptorship in Anesthesiology (1) Sivarajan An opportunity for first- and second-year medical students to gain experience with medical practice situations by observing clinical faculty members in their offices. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

ANEST 680 P-Basic Anesthesia Clerkship (4)
Sivarajan Introduction to the principles of airway management, ventilatory support, use of local anesthetics, techniques of patient monitoring and fluid therapy. Skills taught include airway management, venipuncture, lumbar puncture and endotracheal intubation. Prerequisite: third- or fourth-year student. (Two weeks, full-time. Limit: three to five students each two-week period.) Affiliated hospitals. Offered: AWPpS.

ANEST 681 P-Advanced Clerkship in Anesthesiology (8) Sivarajan Clerkship for students desiring greater exposure to anesthesiology as a specialty. Individual programs can be arranged in the following areas: surgical anesthesia, obstetrical anesthesia, and pain clinic. Prerequisite: Third- or fourth-year student. (Four weeks, full-time. Limit: two students per period.) Affiliated hospitals. Offered: AWPpS.

ANEST 697 P-Anesthesiology Special Electives (*, max. 24) Sivarajan Special clerkships, externships, or research opportunities can at times be made available at institutions other than the University of Washington. Students wishing to elect this course should obtain a special assignment form from the Dean's office at least one month before advance registration. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. (Four to twelve weeks, full-time.) Offered: AWPpS.

ANEST 699 P-WWAMI Anesthesiology Special Electives (*, max. 24) By special arrangement for qualified students, special clerkships or externships may be available at institutions other than the University of Washington located within the WWAMI region. Prerequisite: permission of department.

Biochemistry

BIOC 405 Introduction to Biochemistry (3)
NW Brockerhoff, Daum, Hol, Survey of basic principles of biochemistry and molecular biology, emphasizing broad understanding of chemical events in living systems in terms of metabolism and structure-function relationships of biologically important molecules. Suitable for pre-majors, for students interested in careers in medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, medical technology. Prerequisite: either BIOL 200, BIOL 201, or both BIOL 101 and GENET 371; either CHEM 223, CHEM 237, or CHEM 335. Offered: A.

BIOC 406 Introduction to Biochemistry (3)
NW Hurley, Merz Survey of basic principles of biochemistry and molecular biology, emphasizing broad understanding of chemical events in living systems in terms of metabolism and structure-function relationships of biologically important molecules. Suitable for pre-majors, for students interested in careers in medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, medical technology. Prerequisite: BIOC 405. Offered: W.

BIOC 426 Basic Techniques in Biochemistry (4)
NW Chung, Petra Introduction to basic biochemistry experiments. Acquaints students (largely Biochemistry majors) with basic biochemical laboratory techniques. Prerequisite: BIOC 440, which may be taken concurrently. Offered: ASP.

BIOC 440 Biochemistry (4) NW Bosch, Klevit Biochemistry and molecular biology (with quiz sections) for undergraduate students in molecular and cellular biology, for biochemistry majors, and graduate students in other science departments. Prerequisite: 2.5 in either BIOL 201 or BIOL 200; 2.5 in either CHEM 224, CHEM 239, or CHEM 337; 2.0 in either MATH 124, MATH 134, or MATH 144. Offered: A.

BIOC 441 Biochemistry (4) NW Parson, Young Biochemistry and molecular biology (with quiz sections) for undergraduate students in molecular and cellular biology, for biochemistry majors, and graduate students in other science departments. Prerequisite: 2.2 in BIOC 440. Offered: W.

BIOC 442 Biochemistry (4) NW Kimelman, Palmiter Biochemistry and molecular biology (with quiz sections) for undergraduate students in molecular and cellular biology, for biochemistry majors, and graduate students in other science departments. Prerequisite: either 2.2 in BIOC 406 or 2.2 in BIOC 441. Offered: Sp.

BIOC 496 Research Seminar for Undergraduates (1, max. 2) NW formal presentations of student research. One credit applies to research component of a relevant major. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with CHEM 496; Sp.

BIOC 499 Undergraduate Research (*)
Investigative work on enzymes, proteins, lipids, molecular biology, developmental biology, intermediary metabolism, physical biochemistry, and related fields. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWPpS.

BIOC 515-519 (For description, see listing for "Current Literature Conferences" at the end of this section.)

BIOC 520 Seminar (1) Seminar dealing with timely topics in the field of biochemistry. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

BIOC 525-529 (For description, see listing for "Current Literature Conferences" at the end of this section.)

BIOC 530 Introduction to Structural Biology (3) Baker, Gelb, Hol, Klevit, Stenkamp, Stoddard

Graduate-level discussion of the structure, function, and chemistry of proteins, control of enzymatic reactions. Prerequisite: a comprehensive course in biochemistry and permission. Offered: A.

BIOC 533 Topics In Biochemistry (1, max. 30)
Provides in-depth examination of current topics in biochemistry, molecular biology, and structural biology. Designed to help participants in basic science departments become acquainted with latest ideas on selected topics. Emphasis on analysis of key concepts in the field with reference to classical papers and recent literature. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

BIOC 534 Topics In Molecular Biophysics (1.5) Emphasis on methods used to study macromolecular structure and dynamics, including x-ray crystallography, NMR, optical spectroscopy, computer modeling, protein folding and ligand binding. Two topics covered each quarter; students may register for one or both. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

BIOC 535-539 (For description, see listing for "Current Literature Conferences" at the end of this section.)

BIOC 540 Literature Review (2) Parson Emphasizes critical evaluation of original articles in the literature. For first-year graduate students in biochemistry and students of other science departments, with permission. Offered: jointly with BMSD 540 A.

BIOC 541 Literature Review (2) Palmiter Emphasizes critical evaluation of original articles in the literature. For first-year graduate students in biochemistry and students of other science departments, with permission. Offered: W.

BIOC 542 Literature Review (2) Morris Emphasizes critical evaluation of original articles in the literature. For first-year graduate students in biochemistry and students of other science departments, with permission. Offered: Sp.

BIOC 546-548 (For description, see listing for "Current Literature Conferences" at the end of this section.)

BIOC 555-559 (For description, see listing for "Current Research Conferences" at the end of this section.)

BIOC 565-569 (For description, see listing for "Current Research Conferences" at the end of this section.)

BIOC 575-579 (For description, see listing for "Current Research Conferences" at the end of this section.)

BIOC 581 Introduction to Biochemical Research (4, max. 16) Student works with one of the research groups within the department for one quarter and then rotates to other laboratories for second and third quarters. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in biochemistry or permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

BIOC 586-588 (For description, see listing for "Current Research Conferences" at the end of this section.)

BIOC 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 700 Master's Thesis (*) Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Offered: AWSpS.

<4>Current Literature Conferences

BIOC 515- 519, 525- 529, 535- 539, 546- 548 Current Literature Conference in Biochemistry Weekly literature reviews of topics pertinent to ongoing research in biochemistry. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. (Only 25 credits may be counted toward degree.)

BIOC 515 Matrix Macromolecules in Morphogenesis and Development (1, max. 30)

BIOC 516 Molecular Mechanisms of Blood Clotting (1, max. 30) Davie Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 517 Protein Structure (1, max. 30) Baker Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 518 Signaling in Development (1, max. 30) Ruohola-Baker Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 525 Phytoremediation (1, max. 4) Literature survey of phytoremediation topics. Discussion of latest techniques for the use of plants to concentrate heavy metals in the soil and of plants and plant-bacteria combinations to detoxify various organic contaminants. Credit/no credit only.

BIOC 526 Control of Growth and Differentiation During Development (1, max. 30) Hauschka Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 528 Signal Transduction (1, max. 30) Hurley Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 529 Molecular Biology of Early Development (1, max. 30) Kimelman Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 535 Macromolecular Structure (1, max. 30) Klevit Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 536 Control of Cell Growth (1, max. 30) Morris Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 537 Regulation of Gene Expression (1, max. 30) Palmiter Offered: AWSpS.

<4>Current Research Conferences

BIOC 555- 559, 565-569, 575-579, 586- 588 Current Research Conferences in Biochemistry Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate student and postdoctoral research in biochemistry. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. (Only 25 credits may be counted toward degree.)

BIOC 555 Cell and Molecular Biology of Connective Tissue Proteins (1, max. 30) Bornstein Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 556 Enzymatic and Genetic Aspects of Blood Clotting (1, max. 30) Davie Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 557 Growth Regulation by Calcium Binding Proteins (1, max. 30) Davis Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 559 Membrane Biochemistry and Cell Growth (1, max. 30) Glomset Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 560 Protein Folding (1, max. 30) Baker Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 561 Origin of Polarity (1, max. 30) Ruohola-Baker Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 565 Plant Molecular Genetics (1, max. 30)

BIOC 566 Growth and Differentiation of Skeletal and Cardiac Muscle (1, max. 30) Hauschka Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 568 Molecular and Genetic Aspects of G Protein Signal Transduction (1, max. 30) Hurley Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 569 Inductive Events in Early Development (1, max. 30) Kimelman Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 575 NMR Analysis of Proteins and Nucleic Acids (1, max. 30) Klevit Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 576 Sequential Analysis of Growth Regulation (1, max. 30) Morris Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 577 Gene Regulation in Transgenic Mice (1, max. 30) Palmiter Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 578 Electron Transport in Photosynthesis (1, max. 30) Parson Offered: AWSpS.

BIOC 588 Molecular Biology of Yeast Gene Regulation (1, max. 30) Young Offered: AWSpS.

Biological Structure

B STR 301 General Anatomy (4) NW Pittack Survey of systemic human anatomy, including human skeletal system, muscular system, respiratory system, circulatory system, nervous system, digestive system, endocrine system, urinary system, and reproductive system. For second-, third-, and fourth-year undergraduates. Offered: Sp.

CONJ 401, 402, 403 Human Anatomy and Physiology (4, 4, 4) See Conjoint Courses.

B STR 431 Introduction to Neuroanatomy (4) NW Broderson, Mulligan, Westrum Survey of the anatomy and functional organization of the human central nervous system, with clinical applications. Prerequisite: admission to the School of Dentistry. Offered: W.

CONJ 480 Neuroscience and Rehabilitation Professionals (5) See Conjoint Courses.

B STR 498 Undergraduate Thesis (*) Individual research projects under the supervision of an instructor. For senior medical students. Offered: AWSpS.

B STR 499 Undergraduate Research (*) Individual research projects in cellular and developmental biology, experimental immunology, reproductive biology, neurobiology, molecular structure, morphometrics, computer modeling, and related fields under the supervision of an instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

B STR 501 Gross Anatomy and Embryology (1-13, max. 13) Clark Lecture and laboratory dissection course in regional anatomy: thorax, abdomen, pelvis, perineum. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: A.

B STR 502 Gross Anatomy (1-5, max. 5) Graney Lecture and laboratory dissection course in regional anatomy: upper and lower extremities. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: W.

B STR 510 Seminar in Anatomy (1) Graney Scientific and historical basis of selected studies in biological structure, anatomy, and human development. Original literature used as basis for textbook descriptions is reviewed. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

B STR 512 Human Microanatomy (4) Muller Lectures and laboratory treating the specialized tissues and organs of the body from the microscopic and ultramicroscopic points of view. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: A.

B STR 515 Biological X-Ray Structure Analysis (3) Stenkamp Theory of x-ray diffraction, with emphasis on applications to biological systems. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: W.

B STR 519 Current Problems in Macromolecular Structure (2, max. 10) Stenkamp A discussion of macromolecular structures related to specific areas of biological research. Emphasis on discussion of relevant research papers and use of computer graphics to visualize the molecular structures. Offered: AWSpS.

CONJ 520 Anatomy and Autopsy (1/2, max. 2) Fligner See Conjoint Courses.

B STR 520 Structure Based Design of Drugs (3) Hol, Verlinde Lecture and discussion on research papers illustrating protein structure based design of new drugs. Review of methods and extensive discussion of all known mechanisms of drug resistance. Offered: even years; W.

B STR 521 Advanced Biomacromolecular Crystallography (3) Hol, Merritt, Stenkamp Aspects of protein crystallography ranging from crystal growth, phase determination methods, density averaging to refinement, fiber diffraction of DNA and proteins. Offered: odd years; Sp.

CONJ 524 Structural Basis of Neural Transduction (1.5) See Conjoint Courses.

UCONJ 524 Developmental Neurobiology (3) Raible, Reh, Roelink, Rubel See University Conjoint Courses.

B STR 530 P-Gross Anatomy and Embryology for Dental Students (8/13, max. 13) Broderson, Clark Normal anatomy of the thorax, abdomen, pelvis, and perineum are discussed and dissected employing cadavers. The development of the organ systems is presented and related to definitive adult structure. Developmental anomalies and diagnostic anatomy are also discussed. Prerequisite: admission to School of Dentistry. Offered: A.

B STR 540 Special Problems in Anatomy (1-6, max. 6) Special projects in anatomy under sponsorship of faculty member. Prerequisite: graduate, medical, or dental student standing and permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

B STR 541 P-Microscopic Anatomy for Dental Students (4) Muller Lecture and laboratory work in microscopic anatomy. For dental students taking HUBIO 510; others by permission of instructor. Offered: A.

CONJ 542 Development (1.5) See Conjoint Courses.

CONJ 545 Molecular Interactions and Medicine (1.5) See Conjoint Courses.

B STR 555 Laboratory Rotation in Biological Structure (*, max. 5) Introduction to experimental design, research methods, and scientific thought in laboratories of faculty members. Provides hands-on experience, an entrance into the literature of the field, and opportunities for discussion with all members of the laboratory. First-year dental students only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

B STR 557 Biomolecular Structure Seminar (1) Hol Literature review of key research in Biomolecular Structure in the form of short presentations by participants followed by discussion. Critical evaluation of methods and results regarding properties and protein structure determination. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in biological structure or biochemistry and permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

B STR 580 P-Anatomy Teaching Practicum (*, max. 8) Clark Opportunity for medical student (or other professional student) to gain teaching experience in biological structure and human biology courses, including gross anatomy, histology, and neuroanatomy. May include lecture, laboratory, conference, depending on student interest, experience. Credit based on course credit in which student is assisting. Prerequisite: permission of course chairperson. Offered: AWSp.

B STR 584 Seminar in Neurogenesis (1) Birmingham-McDonogh Discussion of current research on process by which neurons are generated in the nervous system. Offered: AWSpS.

CONJ 585 Surgical Anatomy (1-3, max. 12) Graney See Conjoint Courses.

B STR 591 X-Ray and NMR Analysis of Macromolecular Structure (1, max. 9) Hol Weekly discussion of current topics in research on molecular structure, usually emphasizing techniques of x-ray crystallography. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

B STR 598 Reading in Biological Structure (2) Critical evaluation of research in biological structure, including current problems, methods and future directions by reading and discussing research and review papers. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

B STR 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Offered: AWSpS.

B STR 700 Master's Thesis (*) Offered: AWSpS.

B STR 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Offered: AWSpS.

Comparative Medicine

C MED 407 Principles of Animal Experimentation: The Mouse (3) Brabb, Grossmann, Treuting Focus on biology and care of mice used in medical research, and the experimental design and ethics of animal research. Includes lectures and problem-based learning. For graduate and advanced undergraduate students. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

C MED 499 Undergraduate Laboratory Research (1-6, max. 6) Ladiges, Price Specific problems in comparative medicine. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

C MED 512 Introduction to the Anatomical Analysis of Animal Disease (2) Brabb, Iritani, Treuting Use of animals in experimental study of disease; techniques of animal necropsy, characterization, interpretation of gross and microscopic lesions, correlation of lesions with altered physiological processes, differentiation between naturally occurring and experimentally induced lesions. Prerequisite: PATH 444, PATH 445, or equivalent, and permission of instructor. Enrollment limited: two students per quarter. Offered: AWSpS.

C MED 514 Comparative Pathology Conference (1, max. 6) Liggit, Treuting Focus on histopathology of naturally occurring and experimentally induced lesions of primates, laboratory and domestic animals, fish, wildlife, and birds. Participants discuss the lesions and the basic pathogenetic mechanisms that underlie them. Prerequisite: PATH 500 or equivalent and permission of instructor. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

C MED 516 Current Literature in Laboratory Animal Medicine (1, max. 12) Liggit Critical evaluation of recent articles on laboratory animal medicine and science. Emphasis on literature dealing with spontaneous diseases of laboratory animals, biology and husbandry, zoonotic diseases, and animal models of human disease. Experimental design, use of animals in research, and methods of reviewing manuscripts. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

C MED 518 Clinical Conference Seminar (1, max. 12) Price Clinical reports of cases of spontaneous and induced diseases, animal models of human disease, and zoonotic diseases discussed. Disease prevalence and preventive medicine measures. Diagnostic exercises. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

C MED 520 Biology of Laboratory Animals (1) Brabb, Frevert, Iritani, Treuting Fundamentals of the morphological, functional, and applied aspects of anatomy, physiology, pharmacology, biochemistry, and immunology of the commonly used laboratory animal species. Similarities and differences within, and between, species, including man. Husbandry, genetics, behavior, and nutrition. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: A.

C MED 521 Biology of Laboratory Animals (1) Brabb, Iritani, Treuting Fundamentals of the morphological, functional, and applied aspects of anatomy, physiology, pharmacology, biochemistry, and immunology of the commonly used laboratory animal species. Similarities and differences within, and between, species, including man. Husbandry, genetics, behavior, and nutrition. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: W.

C MED 526 Epidemiology of Diseases Communicable from Nature (3) DiGiacomo, Rausch, Weigler Explores the public health aspects of zoonotic diseases, their epidemiology and approaches to control. Focuses on the major viral, rickettsial, bacterial, protozoal, helminthic, and fungal diseases transmitted from wild and domesticated animals to humans. Prerequisite: C MED 511, C MED 512, or C MED 520 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with EPI 526; Sp.

C MED 530 Diseases of Laboratory Animals (1) Brabb, Iritani, Treuting Analysis of etiology, pathogenesis, pathology, and disease processes in rodents, lagomorphs, carnivores, and nonhuman primates. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: A.

C MED 531 Diseases of Laboratory Animals (1) Brabb, Iritani, Treuting Analysis of etiology, pathogenesis, pathology, and disease processes in rodents, lagomorphs, carnivores, and nonhuman primates. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: W.

C MED 540 Animal Models (1) Brabb, Iritani, Treuting Naturally occurring and experimentally induced analogs of human diseases in animals with emphasis on diseases in search of animal models, and approaches to identifying new models. Animal models of categorical disease (e.g., cancer, atherosclerosis, gerontology) discussed. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

C MED 590 Selected Topics in Animal Medicine (2-5, max. 10) Brabb, Frevert, Iritani, Treuting Radiation biology, genetics, anesthesiology and experimental surgery, preventive medicine, and ethical aspects of use of animals in biomedical teaching and research. Specific topics vary from year to year, depending on the expertise of the annual visiting professor. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

C MED 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

C MED 601 Internship Rotation — Laboratory Animal Medicine (1-) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: DVM degree. Offered: AWSpS.

C MED 700 Master's Thesis (*) Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

Conjoint (Medicine)

CONJ 401 Human Anatomy and Physiology (4) Linder, Melby An integrated course on the structure and function of the human body with laboratory work in gross anatomy, histology, and physiology. Primarily for pharmacy doctoral students. Others by special permission of instructors. Prerequisite: either BIOL 201, BIOL 202, and BIOL 203, or BIOL 220; either CHEM 155, CHEM 160, or CHEM 162. Offered: A.

CONJ 402 Human Anatomy and Physiology (4) Linder, Melby An integrated course on the structure and function of the human body with laboratory work in gross anatomy, histology, and physiology. Primarily for pharmacy doctoral students. Others by special permission of instructors. Prerequisite: CONJ 401. Offered: W.

CONJ 403 Human Anatomy and Physiology (4) Linder, Melby An integrated course on the structure and function of the human body with laboratory work in gross anatomy, histology, and physiology. Primarily for pharmacy doctoral students. Others by special permission of instructors. Prerequisite: CONJ 402. Offered: Sp.

CONJ 475 Alcoholism: A Course for Medical Students and Students in the Allied Health Sciences (2) Kivlahan, Samson A lecture course for medical students in the allied health sciences in any year that will cover an introduction to the epidemiology, diagnostic strategies, natural history, physiologic effects, and treatment of alcohol-related disorders. Offered: Sp.

CONJ 480 Neuroscience for Rehabilitation Professionals (5) Anderson, Mulligan, Slimp Survey of the structure and function of the central nervous system, emphasizing sensorimotor systems and higher integrative functions, coupled with clinical correlations. Required for occupational therapy, physical therapy, and prosthetic/orthotic students. Others by permission.

CONJ 504 Topics of Molecular Medicine (1.5) Monnat Focuses on an important topic in medicine and science. Lectures introduce clinical and basic science background, followed by a seminar/discussion with speakers. Prerequisite: Graduate standing and permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

CONJ 505 P-Pain Clinic Preceptorship (1) One morning a week for a total of 30 hours per quarter spent observing patient care in either inpatient or outpatient settings at University of Washington Medical Center; associated readings. Prerequisite: first- or second-year medical student standing. Coordinator: Pain Center.

CONJ 513 Clinical Medical and Human Genetics (4) Rotations through Medical Genetics clinics for graduate students enrolled in the Molecular Medicine Pathway. Students review clinical data, identify the molecular basis of genetic disorders and assess how scientific studies have changed the assessment and natural history of these conditions. Limit of 4 students per quarter. Offered: AWSpS.

CONJ 514 Molecular Medicine (3) Rosen Graduate-level introduction to the interplay of basic science and clinical medicine. Covers inflammation, vascular disease, metabolic disorders, cancer biology, and molecular-, gene-, and cell-based therapies. Each topic introduced with a patient history. Offered: jointly with MOLMED 514; W.

CONJ 515 Interdisciplinary Health and Human Services Delivery in Rural Communities (1) House Provides opportunities for students in health and human services to explore current trends and issues of service delivery in rural communities. Demographics, economics, community structure, culture, and professional/personal issues are addressed. Prerequisite: major standing in a health or human services profession. Credit/no credit only. Offered: W.

CONJ 516 What Every Physician Should Know About Oral Health (1) Lewis, Mouradian, Slayton Didactic elective for students interested in understanding oral health and its relationship to systemic health. Special interest to students planning careers in primary care, public health, or who are likely to practice in rural or underserved communities. Includes weekly seminars and clinical demonstrations. Credit/no credit only. Offered: Sp.

CONJ 520 Anatomy and Autopsy (1/2, max. 2) Fligner Students attend autopsies at UWMC affiliated hospitals for demonstration of normal anatomic relationships and gross pathological changes in various diseases. Offered as elective concurrent with HUBIO 520P. Prerequisite: HUBIO 510P or equivalent, permission of instructor, and orientation. Offered: WSp.

CONJ 524 Structural Basis of Signal Transduction (1.5) Xu Focuses on the structure-function relationship of key enzymes in signal transduction (protein/lipid kinases; phosphatases etc.) and the structural consequences of protein phosphorylation. Teaches students to look into critical structural details using PC or Mac. Prerequisite: undergraduate course in biochemistry and basic cell biology, or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

CONJ 526 Introduction to Systems Biology and Quantitative Approaches to Biomedical Sciences (1.5) Aitchison Covers philosophy of systems biology, experimental design, and the linkages between discovery and hypothesis driven science. Reviews quantitative systems biology tools for genomics, proteomics, modeling and data integration, and emerging technologies. Offered: W.

CONJ 530 Directing Stem Cells Toward Regenerative Medical (1.5) GE An introduction to the rapidly developing field of human embryonic stem cells in regenerative medicine crossing all medical disciplines including ethics. A strong background in biological sciences is required. Offered: Sp.

CONJ 531 Signaling Mechanisms in Excitable Cells (1.5) Hille Membrane electricity. Structure and roles of voltage-gated and ligand-gated ion channels in electrical signaling. Calcium as a second messenger. Exocytosis and its regulation. Phototransduction in photoreceptors. Prerequisite: comprehensive undergraduate course in general biochemistry and molecular biology, or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

CONJ 532 Signal Transduction from the Cell Membrane to the Nucleus (1.5) Beavo, Moon, Storm Intracellular signaling pathways leading from cell membrane receptors to nucleus. Pathways activated by seven transmembrane receptors and G-proteins, insulin/PI3 kinase, nitric oxide and WNTs and mechanisms of signal termination. Cytokine/Jak/Stat signaling and role of subcellular localization in signal transduction. Prerequisite: basic knowledge of biochemistry. Offered: A.

CONJ 533 The Dynamic Chromosome (1.5) Henikoff, Roth The chromosome viewed as the ultimate organelle. How chromosomes are maintained and propagated. Epigenetic regulation of genes. Genetic, biochemical, and cytologic methods for understanding chromosome functions. Prerequisite: cell biology, biochemistry, and genetics. Offered: A.

CONJ 534 Selected Problems in Nervous System Development (1.5) Introduces students to current issues in developmental neurobiology. Topics include regionalization of the neuroectoderm, mechanisms of neurogenesis, axon patterning and plasticity, and cell death. Not intended to be comprehensive; examines the experimental basis for current views in the field of a few topical issues.

CONJ 535 RNA Structure and Biological Function (1.5) Ferre-D'Amare, Stoddard Survey of the diversity of cell-biological roles played by RNA with emphasis on structural principles and structure-function relationships. Readings from the current literature to cover both, methods for the study of RNA, and examples of the function of this nucleic acid as part of the machinery for gene expression. Offered: W.

CONJ 536 Experimental Design in Cell Biology (1.5) Focuses on experimental design in cell biology. A topic of current research interest is covered in depth in order to follow a line of investigation and critically evaluate the strengths and limitations of various experimental strategies. Offered: jointly with BIOL 546.

CONJ 537 Mechanism of Transcriptional Regulations (1.5) Tsukiyama Focuses on biochemical mechanisms of gene transcription covering a broad range of transcriptional regulation, including mechanisms of transcriptional initiation, elongation and termination. Discusses regulation of transcription by chromatin. Includes a special lecture regarding regulation of transcription in cell growth and differentiation. Offered: A.

CONJ 538 Genetic Instability and Cancer (1/1.5) Maizels, Monnat Seminar focusing on molecular pathways that maintain genomic stability in all cells and that carry out programmed changes in genomic structure in the immune system. Special attention devoted to understanding how failure in these pathways leads to genomic instability and malignancy. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

CONJ 539 Biological Basis of Neoplasia (1.5) Kemp, Zarbi Lecture/discussion on cellular and molecular mechanisms underlying phenotypes associated with cancer, including genetic predisposition, injury, and instability; alteration in control of cell division and cell death; failure of differentiation; tumor angiogenesis and metastasis. Molecular biology of tractable model systems is emphasized. Prerequisite: introductory biochemistry and cell biology. Offered: S.

CONJ 540 Basic Science of Urologic Complications (3) Introduction to the multidisciplinary nature of the most common urologic complications ranging from prostate cancer to erectile dysfunction. Covers epidemiology, clinical and surgical treatments, current dogmas and approaches/models in basic study of underlying disease mechanisms, and a journal review of each complication. Prerequisite: biological science course.

CONJ 541 Molecular Biology of Cellular Processes (1.5) Bornstein Translational control; cytoskeleton and molecular motors; protein targeting, sorting and secretion; apoptosis; regulation of cell function by extracellular matrix. Prerequisite: comprehensive undergraduate course in biochemistry and molecular biology or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

CONJ 542 Development (1.5) Raible, Roelink Molecular mechanisms of development; molecules and pathways used for the patterning of developing organisms. Similarities and differences in the making of plants, invertebrates, and vertebrates. Prerequisite: Comprehensive undergraduate courses in Biology, Molecular Biology, or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

CONJ 544 Protein Structure, Modification and Regulation (1.5) Stoddard, Strong Overview of general principles of protein structure, including forces that contribute to folding and stabilization, followed by an extended coverage of the means by which protein structure and function are modified and regulated. Examples from recent developments in protein folding, processing, and allosteric regulation. Prerequisite: introductory biochemistry and cell biology.

CONJ 545 Molecular Interactions and Medicine (1.5) Verlinde Forces governing molecular interactions in biology; with a focus on medicine. Principles of computer modeling techniques in use for predicting the molecular behavior of proteins, ligands and their complexes. In computo ligand discovery; drug design, and the understanding at the atomic level of some genetic diseases. Two computer lab sessions. Offered: Sp.

CONJ 546 Survey of Technologies for Molecular Biology (1.5) Bumgarner Provides a broad overview of modern technologies used in molecular biology with particular emphasis on DNA sequencing and gene expression. In addition to methods and applications for the technologies, examines the theoretical basis and underlying instrumentation through which these technologies are implemented. Offered: A.

CONJ 547 Molecular Evolution of Viral-Host Interactions (1.5) Katze Focuses on the interactions between viruses and the cells they infect, with special emphasis on evolutionary battle that occurs between the invading virus and its host. Examines new technologies being used to molecularly dissect virus-host interactions. Offered: Sp.

CONJ 548 Modeling Proteins and Proteomes (1.5) Samudrala Provides hands-on experience for modeling protein structures, using the models to predict function, and applying the prediction methods to all proteins encoded by an organismal genome. Provides an overview of protein structure, how it mediates function, and its importance for understanding protein interaction networks. Focuses on the technologies involved for protein structure modeling. Prerequisite: familiarity with Linux/Unix operating systems and protein structure from a biochemical/biophysical perspective. Offered: W.

CONJ 549 Microbial Population Biology (1.5) Mittler Principles of ecology and evolution as they apply to microorganisms. Prerequisite: advanced undergraduates with permission of instructor. Offered: even years; Sp.

CONJ 550 P-Clinical Infectious Diseases (3) Spach Lecture series by faculty members from various departments, authorities in the field of clinically important infectious diseases. Lectures, reading assignments, and handouts emphasize epidemiology, clinical manifestations, laboratory findings, diagnosis, treatment, and prevention. Oriented for second-year medical students. Credit/no credit only. Offered: W.

CONJ 551 Immunity (1.5) Strong Provides an understanding of the central cellular and molecular players in the mammalian immune system at a level appropriate for the non-specializing graduate student. Selected topics include the molecular basis of B and T cell activation and effector functions and the mechanisms of innate immunity. Offered: Sp.

CONJ 552 Metabolic Flexibility in Biology (1.5) Focuses on small molecules and the ways that chemistry of these molecules facilitates life under changing conditions. Includes systems from microbiology to human physiology to understand aspects of cancer, aging, and animation. Explores topics including bioenergetics/metabolic flux, adaptation, and allometric scaling. Prerequisite: undergraduate organic chemistry and biochemistry.

CONJ 553 Clinical Management of HIV and STIs (3) Through weekly seminars and a web-based curriculum, provides in-depth case-based training on the diagnosis and clinical management of HIV and other STIs. Interactive course with speakers who have experience in both resource-rich and resource-limited settings.

CONJ 554 Fundamentals of Hypnosis (1) McCann, Schneeweiss Examines phenomena associated with hypnosis, as well as its safe use in clinical practice. Offered: Sp.

CONJ 556 Drug Addiction: Mechanisms, Prevention, and Treatment (2) Chavkin Presents the key advances, insights, methods, and challenges for our understanding of drug addiction from psychological, pharmacological, psychiatric, community prevention, legal, and neurodevelopmental perspectives. Enhances familiarity with the multidisciplinary approaches required to understand addiction as a disease. Offered: A.

CONJ 585 Surgical Anatomy (1-3, max. 12) Graney Guided dissection of selected regions, supplemented by conferences. Offered conjointly by the departments of Biological Structure and Surgery. Prerequisite: permission of department. Coordinator: Department of Biological Structure.

CONJ 677 P-Clinical Allergy and Immunology (*, max. 12) Callanan (Boise Veterans Affairs Hospital), Henderson (University of Washington Medical Center) Clinic and office experience in diagnosing and managing allergic disease. Clinical conferences, hospital rounds on clinical immunology and allergy. Student may elect a flexible program, emphasizing adult or pediatric allergy. Prerequisite: MED 665 or basic clerkships in Departments of Family Medicine or Pediatrics. (Four weeks, full-time.) Offered: AWSpS.

CONJ 678 P-Pain Clinic Clerkship (8) Full-time, four-week clerkship emphasizing comprehensive care of patients with chronic pain from benign diseases and cancer. Faculty members from multiple departments provide student with didactic and bedside experiences; student member of treatment team. Involves both inpatient and outpatient activities. Prerequisite: completion of human biology series, MED 665.

CONJ 680 P-Detoxification and Rehabilitation Program for Alcoholism and Drug Abuse (*, max. 16) Reoux Supervised introduction to alcoholic detoxification and rehabilitation and drug abuse. Supervised clinical experience in a variety of alcoholism and drug abuse treatment programs; accompanied by a core series of lectures and discussions. For medical students only. Prerequisite: PBSCI 664, PBSCI 665, PBSCI 666, PBSCI 667, or PBSCI 668.

CONJ 690 P-Clerkship in Chronic Care (8) Exposure to four areas: Rehab Medicine, Geriatrics, Pain, and Palliative Care. While students choose one focus area; weekly group didactic sessions expose students to all areas through lectures, group discussions, standardized patients, and case scenarios. Offered: AWSpS.

CONJ 691 P-Clerkship in Chronic Care - Boise (8) Required clerkship for 4th Year Medical students, concentrating on geriatrics, palliative care, and rehab medicine using lectures, group discussions, standardized patients, and case scenarios.

CONJ 696 P-WRITE Clinical Electives (*, max. 24) Clinical electives for WRITE program. Offered: AWSpS.

CONJ 697 International Exchange Clerkship (12) Hunt Participation in health care delivery systems in developing countries; observation of relationship of host country's traditional medicine with Western medicine. Students live in cross-cultural setting to better understand their own assumptions about health care and life styles. Offered: Sp.

CONJ 698 P-Foreign Medical Student Clerkship (*, max. 24) A limited number of students from foreign medical schools are accepted for individually designed clinical clerkships at available sites after all UWMC students are accommodated. Prerequisite: permission of Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, School of Medicine.

CONJ 699 P-Clinical Clerkships (*, max. 32)

Family Medicine

FAMED 499 Undergraduate Research (*) Research activities arranged with University or community-based physicians in diversified areas relating to family medicine. Prerequisite: permission of course coordinator. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 501 P-Introduction to Family Medicine: Preceptorship (2.5) Students spend one morning per week for one or more quarters working with a practicing community family physician. Prerequisite: first- and second-year medical students, permission of course coordinator. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 505 P-Rural/Urban Preceptorship (*, max. 12) Opportunity to work in a variety of underserved medical settings in rural and urban areas of Washington, Wyoming, Alaska, Idaho, and Montana. Prerequisite: permission of course coordinator. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 545 Preclinical Geriatric Elective (2) Covers disease and disability prevention, health promotion, and positive attitudes that can contribute to successful aging. Emphasis on optimum aging, site visits, and extensive contact with diverse older people. Prerequisite: permission of course faculty.

FAMED 546 Preclinical Hospice Volunteer Training Elective (3) Using lectures, small groups, role play, and readings, covers the basic knowledge, skills and attitudes that need to be mastered as a hospice volunteer. Students participate as hospice volunteers as part of their field experience. Offered: jointly with MHE 517.

FAMED 547 Spirituality in Health Care (2) Examination of the beliefs, values, meaning, and spirituality of health professionals for the well-being of their patients as well as for themselves. Offered: jointly with MHE 518/SOC W 587.

FAMED 555 P-Wilderness Medicine (1/2) Elective provides didactic and field experience for third-year medical students in types of medical emergencies and clinical problems unique to rural and wilderness communities, including trauma, survival hypothermia, altitude, frostbite, heat illness, lightning, and river rescue. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of course coordinator.

FAMED 556 Spanish for Health Professionals (1) Instruction in interviewing Spanish-speaking patient. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of course faculty or coordinator.

FAMED 557 Hispanic Health and Health Care Disparities (1) Acosta Covers Hispanic culture and language, history of Hispanics in the United States, Hispanic health status issues, and effective strategies for working across cultures and linguistic barriers. Designed to help the learner understand and respond better to the healthcare needs of the Hispanic community.

FAMED 560 P-Indian Health Problem-Based Learning Cases (1) Presents common Indian health problems via problem-based learning cases. Prerequisite: permission of course coordinator.

FAMED 630 P-WRITE Family Medicine Clinical Clerkship (*, max. 24) Basic clinical clerkship for students enrolled in the WRITE Program. Prerequisite: permission of course coordinator.

FAMED 640 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Boise (12) Stresses ambulatory primary care with emphasis on comprehensive, integrated care to patients of both genders and all ages. Student functions as clerk in community or residency site, and participates in care of assigned patients in a variety of settings: office, hospital, home, community resources. Prerequisite: third- or fourth-year medical students. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 641 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Spokane (12) For description and prerequisite, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 642 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Madigan (12) For description and prerequisite, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 643 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Tacoma (12) For description and prerequisite, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 644 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — University of Washington Medical Center (12) For description and prerequisite, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 645 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Group Health (12) For description and prerequisite, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 646 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Swedish First Hill (12) For description and prerequisite, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 647 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Swedish Cherry Hill (12) For description and prerequisite, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 648 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Renton Valley (12) For description and prerequisite, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 649 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Olympia (12) For description and prerequisites, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 650 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Anacortes (12) For description and prerequisite, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 651 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Omak (12) For description and prerequisite, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 652 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Spokane Valley (12) For description and prerequisite, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 653 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Anchorage (12) For description and prerequisite, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 655 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Havre (12) For description and prerequisite, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 656 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Whitefish (12) For description and prerequisite, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 657 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Pocatello (12) For description and prerequisite, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 658 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Sea Mar Clinic (12) For description and prerequisite, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 659 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Country Doctor (12) For description and prerequisite, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 660 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Yakima (12) For description and prerequisites, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 661 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine — Bremerton (12) For description and prerequisites, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 662 Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine - Buffalo (12) For description and prerequisites, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 663 Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine - Petersburg (12) For description and prerequisites, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 664 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine - Billings(12) Stresses ambulatory primary care with emphasis on comprehensive, integrated care to patients of both genders and all ages. Student functions a clerk in community/residency site. Participates in care of assigned patients, using office, hospital, home, community resources. Prerequisite: third- or fourth-year medical student. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 665 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine -- Missoula (12) Stresses ambulatory primary care with emphasis on comprehensive, integrated care to patients of both genders and all ages. Student functions a clerk in community/residency site. Participates in care of assigned patients, using office, hospital, home, community resources. Prerequisite: third- or fourth-year medical student. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 666 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine -- Torrington (12) Stresses ambulatory primary care with emphasis on comprehensive, integrated care to patients of both genders and all ages. Student functions a clerk in community/residency site. Participates in care of assigned patients, using office, hospital, home, community resources. Prerequisite: third- or fourth-year medical student. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 670 P-Advanced Preceptorship in Underserved WWAMI Area (*, max. 24) Students gain experience, knowledge, and skills needed to care for rural, specific ethnic or underserved populations in Washington, Wyoming, Alaska, Montana, and Idaho. Prerequisite: third- or fourth-year medical students, permission of course coordinator. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 671 P-Advanced Preceptorship in United States (*, max. 24) Supplemental experience in rural/urban practice or a family medicine department in a setting not already established through the family medicine curriculum. Prerequisite: third- or fourth-year medical students, permission of course coordinator. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 672 P-Advanced Preceptorship International (*, max. 24) For medical students desiring primary care experience abroad. Special project deals with influences of social, cultural, educational, and economic forces on health care delivery. Prerequisite: third- or fourth-year medical students, permission of course coordinator. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 673 P-Advanced Preceptorship at WWAMI Clinical Centers (*, max. 12) Supplemental experience in Family Medicine for late third- or fourth-year students at selected WWAMI clinical centers. Prerequisite: completion of basic 6-week clerkship in Family Medicine; permission of course coordinator. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 674 Advanced Interviewing in Primary Care (8) Emphasizes developing competency in patient-centered interviewing, interview organization and time management and will be introduced to primary care counseling skills and methods of health behavior change. Prerequisite: permission of course faculty.

FAMED 675 P-Clinical Elective in Complementary and Alternative Medicine (8) Clinical elective for students interested in a better understanding of CAM. Includes four different weekly clinical placements with selected CAM providers in the community: naturopathic physician, chiropractor, acupuncturist, and massage therapist. Also includes a weekly two-hour seminar discussing the evidence supporting the use of alternative treatments. Prerequisite: permission of course faculty.

FAMED 680 P-Traditional Indian Medicine Clerkship in Primary Care Setting (*, max. 16) Broadens students' knowledge about the traditional Indian perception of health and illness, and expands their experience and skills with Traditional Indian Medicine (TIM) by interacting with a TIM practitioner, Native physician, patients and their families, and the local Native community. Prerequisite: either UCONJ 530, Indian Health Pathway declaration, or permission of course coordinator or faculty. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 681 P-Indian Health Care Clerkship (*, max. 16) Examines the health disparities, health systems, and cultural/community strengths associated with American Indian/Alaska Native or other indigenous peoples. Prerequisite: either UCONJ 530, Indian Health Pathway declaration, or permission of course coordinator or faculty. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 688 P-Family Medicine Subinternship (8) Students serve as interns for Family Medicine services associated with residency programs under the supervision of family medicine residents and attending physicians. Schedules mix inpatient and ambulatory experiences as determined by the site and the student has the same call as R-1 on service.

FAMED 698 P-Clinical Clerkship in Family Medicine, Away (12) For description and prerequisites, see 640. Offered: AWSpS.

FAMED 699 P-WWAMI Family Medicine Special Electives (*, max. 24) By special arrangement for qualified students, special clerkships or externships may be available at institutions other than the University of Washington located within the WWAMI region. Prerequisite: permission of course coordinator. Offered: AWSpS.

Genome Sciences

GENOME 261 Genomes and Society (4) NW Schivell Explores current technological advances in genome research and how these advances are impacting society. Topics include sequencing of the human genome, stem cell research, cloning, genetically modified foods, immunizations/public health, and genetic therapy. Appropriate for non-science majors. Offered: W.

GENOME 351 Human Genetics: The Individual and Society (4) NW Principles of Mendelian inheritance as illustrated by human traits and diseases; chromosomes and sex determination; distribution of genes in populations; natural selection and evolution; counseling and genetic engineering; ethical issues. Appropriate for non-science majors. Offered: W.

GENOME 371 Introductory Genetics (5) NW Covers gene transmission, including chromosome mapping, genetic pathways; mutational analysis biological processes emphasizing mutations affecting chromosome transmission. Introduction to genomics—cloning and sequence analysis of whole genomes. Emphasizes formal genetic mechanisms, molecular techniques. For biological sciences majors. Prerequisite: minimum grade of 1.5 in BIOL 180; minimum grade of 1.5 in either BIOL 200 or BIOL 201; may not be repeated. Offered: AWSpS.

GENOME 372 Genomics and Proteomics (5) NW Covers emerging fields of genomics and proteomics. Discusses key technologies and their applications to the study of human and model organism genomes. Prerequisite: GENOME 371. Offered: W.

GENOME 373 Genomic Informatics (4) NW Focuses on methods for analyzing large genetic data sets and their application to biological problems, including sequence alignment and search methods, gene prediction, phylogenetic trees, and microarray analysis. Requires basic programming skills.

GENOME 411 Gene Action (5) NW Molecular genetics: description of fundamental genetics processes such as mutation, repair, genetic exchange, recombination, and gene expression. Use of genetic strategies to analyze complex biological processes. Focus is on prokaryotic organisms. Prerequisite: BIOL 201; either CHEM 223, CHEM 237, or CHEM 335. Offered: jointly with MICROM 411; W.

GENOME 414 Molecular Evolution (5) NW Survey of empirical approaches to the study of molecular evolution and ecology, drawing on examples from a variety of taxa and the recent literature. Topics include DNA sequencing and systematics, fingerprinting approaches in behavioral ecology, and adaptive evolution at the molecular level. Prerequisite: BIOL 354. Offered: jointly with BIOL 414

GENOME 453 Genetics of the Evolutionary Process (3) NW Contributions of genetics to the understanding of evolution. Processes of mutation, selection, and random genetic events as they affect the genetic architecture of natural populations and the process of speciation. Emphasis on experimental data and observation, rather than mathematical theory. Prerequisite: either GENOME 371 or GENOME 372.

GENOME 454 The Origins of Genetics (4) NW Discovery and eventual triumph of Mendelism in the early twentieth century. Concepts of heredity from ancient times to the nineteenth century. Mendel's work and its rediscovery. Evidence contributing to cornerstone of classical genetics — the chromosome theory of heredity. Prerequisite: either GENOME 351, GENOME 371, or GENOME 372. Offered: A.

GENOME 463 Hands-On Science for Elementary School Teachers (5) Offers prospective and practicing teachers an opportunity to learn science through the hands-on teaching methods recommended for teaching science at the elementary level.

GENOME 465 Advanced Human Genetics (4) NW Eichler, King Explores genetic analysis of naturally occurring variation in humans; origins and consequences of mutation, as mediated by selection, migration, population structure and drift; approaches to finding human disease genes and characterizing them at the molecular level; relevance of to other species to analysis of human genes. Prerequisite: GENOME 371; either GENOME 372 or BIOC 440. Offered: W.

GENOME 466 Cancer Genetics (3) NW Focuses on three types of cancer-related genetics. DNA repair, mitotic recombination, chromosome loss and imbalance, and other aspects of genomic instability. Metastatic cancer as an example of natural selection and evolution. Yeast and nematodes as models for the study of cancer genetics. Prerequisite: either GENOME 371 or GENOME 372. Offered: odd years.

GENOME 475 Debates in Genetics(3) Utilizes the original scientific literature as the basis for discussion of a range of genetic issues that impact society. Discussions are student-led; evaluations are based both on participation in class and on a research paper. Prerequisite: BIOL 200; either GENET 371 or GENOME 371.

GENOME 490 Undergraduate Seminar (2, max. 6) NW Seminar for advanced undergraduate students engaged in individual research projects or those who wish to gain an understanding of genetic research by analysis of the primary literature. Assignments emphasize the rationale for research projects and the presentation and interpretation of research findings. Offered: AWSpS.

GENOME 496 Peer Teaching Assistants in Genome Sciences (1-5, max. 5) Direct experience in the classroom teaching a discussion section for non-majors in genome sciences courses. Peer teaching assistants attend lectures and weekly preparation meetings and gain in-depth background on the subject material. In addition, peer TAs are given training in teaching techniques and course preparation. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: GENOME 371.

GENOME 499 Undergraduate Research (*, max. 30) Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

GENOME 501 Introduction to Research Materials (1-10) The student undertakes a research project in one of the research groups within the department for a quarter at a time. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in the Department of Genome Sciences or permission of graduate program coordinator. Offered: AWSpS.

GENOME 503 An Inquiry Approach to Teaching Genetics at the Introductory High School Level (2, max. 6) Provides advanced science content on topics in genetics and bioethics that are taught in secondary biology classrooms, as well as pedagogical strategies for conveying concepts to pre-college students. Workshop participation required.

GENOME 504 StarNet: Research Experiences for Students and Teachers (3, max. 9) Explores the scientific knowledge, technical skills, and pedagogical strategies related to teaching DNA sequencing and bioethics in a high school classroom. Workshop participation required.

GENOME 505 StarNet: Teacher Research Experience (9) Participating teachers carry out an independent research project in a University of Washington laboratory. Teachers, scientists, and StarNet staff meet weekly for an informal research talk.

GENOME 506 The Science Education Partnership (5, max. 15) Provides secondary school teachers training in molecular biology, genetics and biotechnology, as well as resources and ongoing support designed to enhance biology instruction. Workshop participation required.

GENOME 520 Seminar (1, max. 15) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in the Department of Genome Sciences or permission of graduate program coordinator. Offered: AWSp.

GENOME 522 Journal Club (1) Presentation and discussion of current scientific literature. For Genome Sciences graduate students only. Credit/No credit only. Offered: AWSp.

GENOME 523 Research Reports (1) Thomas Presentation and discussion of current student research. Fore Genome Sciences grad students only. Credit/No credit only. Offered: AWSp.

GENOME 525 Current Literature in Human Genetics (1) Topics from current literature in human genetics. Students and faculty each present one topic per quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate or postdoctoral status. Offered: AWSp.

GENOME 540 Introduction to Computational Molecular Biology: Genome and Protein Sequence Analysis (4) Algorithmic and probabilistic methods for analysis of DNA and protein analysis. Students must be able to write computer programs for data analysis. Prior coursework in biology and probability highly desirable. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: W.

GENOME 541 Introduction to Computational Molecular Biology: Molecular Evolution (4) Computational methods for studying molecular evolution. Students must be able to write computer programs for data analysis. Prior coursework in biology and probability highly desirable. Prerequisite: GENOME 540 or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

GENOME 547 Scientific Writing (1.5) For graduate students principally in their second and third year. Focuses on the preparation of research manuscripts for publication. Also considers other scientific writing such as thesis proposals and fellowship and grant applications.

GENOME 549 Molecular Basis of Neurodegenerative Disease (2) La Spada, Muchowski, Pallanck Introduces a broad range of neurodegenerative diseases, focusing upon the approaches that have led to recent discoveries and emphasizing the elucidation of mechanisms and pathways of disease pathogenesis. Offered: jointly with NEUBEH 549/PHCOL 549; W.

GENOME 550 Methods and Logic in Genetics (3) Critical reading and detailed discussion of genetics-related scientific research papers. Material emphasizes methodological and logical themes of importance in modern genetics, for example: origin of mutants, genetic epistasis, pulse labeling, and in vivo gene function. Prerequisite: first-year genetics graduate students only. Offered: A.

GENOME 551 Mechanisms of Gene Regulation in Prokaryotes and Eukaryotes (1.5) I&S A detailed examination of the mechanisms of transcription and translation in prokaryotes and eukaryotes as determined by experimental genetics, molecular biology and biochemistry.

GENOME 552 Technologies for Genome Analysis (1.5) Discussion of current and newly-emerging technologies in genome analysis with regard to applications in biology and medicine and to potential advantages and limitations. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: A.

GENOME 553 Advanced Genetic Analysis (1.5) Classical genetic analysis is a powerful approach to dissect complex biological processes. Selective removal, addition, or alteration of specific proteins to identify and order genes in a pathway, define protein function, determine tissue and temporal requirements for gene function, and distinguish among competing hypotheses to explain biological phenomena.

GENOME 554 Genomic Informatics (1.5) Many complete genome sequences are known. Each of these encodes the instructions for making an entire organism, but how can we hope to decipher the code? Focuses on methods for analyzing genome sequences, ranging from large-scale organizational pattern to gene prediction and detailed local alignment methods.

GENOME 555 Protein Technology (1.5) Focuses on current and emerging technologies and approaches in protein analysis, and considers applications of these technologies in biology, biotechnology and medicine. Prerequisite: BIOC 440; GENOME 551; GENOME 552; GENOME 553; GENOME 554.

GENOME 556 Developmental Genetics (1.5) Genetic control of early development in a range of organisms, emphasizing systems in which cellular, genetic, and molecular approaches have combined to make significant contributions to understanding. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: W.

GENOME 557 Meiosis (1.5) A comprehensive consideration of meiotic mechanisms emerging from genetic and molecular analysis of model organisms focuses on the molecular basis of chromosomal synapsis, homologous recombination, and meiotic disjunction. The relationship of these mechanisms to the structure of the human genome and the analysis of complex traits are also considered.

GENOME 559 Introduction to Statistical and Computational Genomics (3) Rudiments of statistical and computational genomics. Emphasis on basic probability and statistics, introduction to computer programming, and relevant Web databases.

GENOME 561 Molecular Population Genetics and Evolution (1.5) Surveys recent literature to gain an understanding of the basic principles of molecular population genetics and evolution as applied to analysis of genome data. Requires some computer analysis of genome data.

GENOME 562 Population Genetics (4) Felsenstein Mathematical and experimental approaches to the genetics of natural populations, especially as they relate to evolution. Emphasis on theoretical population genetics. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: alternate years; W.

GENOME 565 Advanced Human Genetics (4) NW Eichler, King Explores genetic analysis of naturally occurring variation in humans; origins and consequences of mutation, as mediated by selection, migration, population structure and drift; approaches to finding human disease genes and characterizing them at the molecular level; relevance of to other species to analysis of human genes. Prerequisite: GENOME 371; either GENOME 372 or BIOC 440. Offered: W.

GENOME 570 Phylogenetic Inference (3) Felsenstein Methods for inferring phylogenies (evolutionary trees) — biological assumptions, statistical foundations, and computational methods. A comprehensive introduction for graduate students in the biological sciences to phylogenetic methods using data from molecular sequences, continuous and discrete characters, and gene frequencies. Prerequisite: introductory courses in evolution and in statistics. Offered: alternate years; W.

GENOME 576 Genetic and Genomic Analysis of Bacteria (1.5) In-depth coverage of genetic and genomic strategies used to analyze complex biological processes in bacteria. Focuses on general approaches, with examples drawn from studies of pathogenic organisms where possible. A combination of lectures and seminar-style discussions of primary literature.

GENOME 580 Ethics in Biomedical Research and Teaching (1) Explores ethical issues in research and teaching and discusses avenues of responsible conduct.

GENOME 581 Seminar in Drosophila Genetics (1) Berg Discussions of contemporary research in and novel methods for genetic, cell biological, and molecular biological analysis of Drosophila development. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

GENOME 582 Seminar in Mouse Genetics (1) Braun Discussion of contemporary research in and novel methods for genetic, cell biological, and molecular analysis of mammalian development, with utilization of transgenic techniques. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

GENOME 583 Seminar in Molecular Cytology (1) Byers Discussions of contemporary research in and novel methods for genetic, cell biological, and molecular biological analysis of spindle behavior in the mitotic cell cycle of budding yeast. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

GENOME 584 Seminar in DNA Replication (1) Brewer, Fangman Discussions of contemporary research in and novel methods for genetic, cell biological, and molecular biological analysis of budding yeast, with emphasis on the mechanisms and control of DNA replication. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

GENOME 585 Seminar in Bacterial Genetics (1) Manoil Discussions of contemporary research in and novel methods for genetic, cell biological, and molecular biological analysis of bacterial assembly mechanisms, with emphasis on the topogenesis of membrane proteins. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

GENOME 586 Seminar in Mammalian Genetics (1) Sibley Discussions of contemporary research in and novel methods for genetic, cell biological, and molecular biological analysis of mammalian genetics, with emphasis on lymphoblast development. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

GENOME 587 Seminar in Nematode Genetics (1) Thomas Discussions of contemporary research in and novel methods for genetic, cell biological, and molecular biological analysis of nematode development, with emphasis on neurogenesis and other developmental processes. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

GENOME 590 Population Genetics Seminar (1) Felsenstein Weekly presentation by participants of current literature and ongoing research in evolution, molecular evolution, evolutionary genetics of natural populations, human population genetics, and quantitative genetics applied to animal and plant breeding. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: GENOME 562 or permission of instructor.

GENOME 599 Special Topics in Molecular Biotechnology (*, max. 12) Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

GENOME 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

GENOME 700 Master's Thesis (*) Offered: AWSpS.

GENOME 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Offered: AWSpS.

Human Biology

HUBIO 500 P-Medical Practice Preceptorship at WWAMI Sites (1, max. 3) Personal experience with, and insight into, medical practice situations. Student is stationed with carefully selected clinical faculty members in their offices in accordance with the student's preference of discipline at the WWAMI sites. Registration limited to first-year medical students at WWAMI sites. Offered: AWSpS.

HUBIO 501 P-Human Biology Special Projects (*) MacLaren Designed for medical students electing a special study project related to the Introduction to Clinical Medicine or other human biology courses, which are offered during the first and second years in the School of Medicine. Primarily intended for students in remedial or extended programs. Prerequisite: permission of assistant dean for curriculum. Offered: AWSpS.

HUBIO 505 P-WWAMI Preceptorship (1) Opportunity for first-year medical students at WWAMI sites to gain personal experience with medical practice situations by being assigned to selected clinical faculty members in their offices. Offered: ASp.

HUBIO 510 P-Microscopic Anatomy: Histology (6) Farr Lectures and laboratories in microscopic anatomy designed to provide the principles and concepts of histology, to define the morphological characteristics of the cells, tissues, and organs of the human body, and to relate this information to functional processes studied in concurrent and subsequent courses. Offered: A.

HUBIO 511 P-Gross Anatomy and Embryology (8/13, max. 13) Clark Structural organization of human body at the macroscopic level to provide a foundation for physical examination and functional assessment of the human organism. Integrates embryological development with study of the cadaver and examination of the normal living body. Concentrates on exploration of the body cavities and the viscera they contain. Offered: A.

HUBIO 512 P-Mechanisms in Cell Physiology (5) Detwiler Physiology of the cell membrane, including ionic and electrical potential gradients; active transport, excitability, and action potentials; biophysics of sensory receptors; neuromuscular transmission; muscle energetics and contractility; spinal reflexes and central synaptic transmission; autonomic nervous system; energy metabolism and temperature regulation; epithelial transport; gastrointestinal motility and secretions. Offered: A.

HUBIO 513 P-Introduction to Clinical Medicine (3-) Goldstein Instruction in communication skills and interview techniques to form the basis for the doctor-patient relationship and for the skills of communicating with patients. The patient profile is obtained. Attention to developing comfort in the physician role. Offered: A.

HUBIO 514 P-Biochemistry I-A (4-) Maizels Classical molecular and cellular biochemistry, cellular physiology and molecular genetics. Metabolic interrelationships as they occur in the individual stressed and related to disturbances in disease states. Offered: A.

HUBIO 516 P-Systems of Human Behavior I-A (3-) Murray, Walker Effects of behavioral factors in major management problems faced in medical practice relating to cultural background, social role, sexual identity, and belief systems. Acquisition of skills in analyzing behavior, defining objectives, and designing precise treatment strategies. Offered: A.

HUBIO 520 P- Molecular and Cellular Basis of Disease (6) Norwood Patterns of cell and tissue response to injury. Mechanisms of cell injury, the inflammatory process, immunology, immunopathology, thrombosis, normal and abnormal growth, neoplasia, clinicopathological correlation. Offered: W.

HUBIO 522 P-Introduction to Clinical Medicine (-4-) Goldstein Medical history is introduced and instruction in data collection is begun. Experience in conducting medical interviews with patients to obtain the medical history and patient profile. Special problems related to interviewing are addressed. Offered: W.

HUBIO 523 P-Introduction to Immunology (2) Wilson Basic concepts such as antigens; antibodies; complement; B- and T-lymphocyte function, including interactions with each other and with accessory cells; immunological tolerance; major histocompatibility complex; and role of these basic concepts in immunopathology (immunodeficiencies, hypersensitivities, autoimmunity, blood transfusion, and transplantation). Offered: W.

HUBIO 524 P-Biochemistry I-B (-4) Maizels Classical molecular and cellular biochemistry, cellular physiology and molecular genetics. Metabolic interrelationships as they occur in the individual stressed and related to disturbances in disease states. Offered: W.

HUBIO 526 P-Systems of Human Behavior I-B (-2) Johnston, Walker Effects of behavioral factors in major management problems faced in medical practice relating to cultural background, social role, sexual identity, and belief systems. Acquisition of skills in analyzing behavior, defining objectives, and designing precise treatment strategies. Offered: W.

HUBIO 530 P-Clinical Epidemiology and Evidence-Based Medicine (2) Kestenbaum Community health and disease, including assessment of disease risk and mechanisms of epidemic detection, spread, and control; interpretation of research design, data analysis, bias source; and clinical epidemiology, including evaluation and application of diagnostic tests, natural history of disease, and quantitative aids for clinical decision making. Offered: W.

HUBIO 531 P-Head, Neck, Ear, Nose, and Throat (5)

HUBIO 532 P-Nervous System (8) Dacey, Mulligan An integrated approach to the normal structure and function of the nervous system, including the eye. Presents neuropathological examples as well as clinical manifestations of neurological disease.

HUBIO 534 P-Microbiology and Infectious Disease (9) Moseley An introduction to medical microbiology and infectious diseases. Emphasizes the biology of microbial pathogens and the mechanisms of pathogenesis. Covers clinical manifestations, epidemiology, general principles of diagnosis, therapy, and prevention of infectious disease. Offered: Sp.

HUBIO 535 P-Introduction to Clinical Medicine (-4) Goldstein Adult screening physical examination is taught through the use of lecture, audiovisual aids, and small-group tutorial, where students in supervised setting practice the physical examination on one other. Further practice in the performance and recording of the patient profile and medical history. Offered: Sp.

HUBIO 540 P-Cardiovascular System (6) Feigl Interdisciplinary approach to cardiovascular medicine, including anatomy, physiology, radiology, pathology, medicine, and surgery. Function of the cardiovascular system in health and disease. Offered: A.

HUBIO 541 P-Respiratory System (4) Culver Interdisciplinary approach to the respiratory system, including anatomy of thorax and lungs, ventilation mechanics, blood-gas transport, gas exchange, acid-base balance, and the physiology and pathology of obstructive, restrictive, and pulmonary-vascular diseases. Offered: A.

HUBIO 542 P-Introduction to Clinical Medicine (4-) Goldstein Advanced instruction in interview technique, history taking, and physical examination, with emphasis on detection of abnormalities. Offered: A.

HUBIO 543 P-Principles of Pharmacology I (5) Vincenzi Includes general principles of pharmacology and the specific pharmacology of major drugs acting on the autonomic and cardiovascular systems. Offered: A.

HUBIO 544 P-Endocrine System (3) Anawalt Normal, gross, and microscopic anatomy and physiology of the endocrine system. Illustrations examining the clinical relevance of homeostasis, feedback, and other controlling mechanisms previously learned. Endocrine integration of metabolism. Clinically important endocrine pathophysiology. Offered: A.

HUBIO 546 P-Systemic Pathology (4) Schmidt Multidisciplinary approach to some diseases that affect more than one organ system (nervous, cardiovascular, respiratory) and that are caused by different mechanisms (congenital, inflammatory, vascular, traumatic, metabolic, neoplastic). Offered: Sp.

HUBIO 550 P-Introduction to Clinical Medicine (-4) Goldstein Advanced instruction in interview technique, history taking, and physical examination, with emphasis on identification of problems and correlation of findings with pathophysiological mechanisms. Offered: W.

HUBIO 551 P-Gastro-Intestinal System (4) Saunders Anatomy of the gastrointestinal system; physiology and pathology of digestion and hepatic function; and physical and laboratory examination. Offered: W.

HUBIO 552 P-Hematology (3) Becker Familiarizes students with the basic pathophysiological mechanisms leading to disturbances of red cell, white cell, and platelet production, as well as abnormalities of hemostasis presenting clinical problems. Pathophysiology, rather than minute details of individual disease, is stressed. Offered: W.

HUBIO 553 P-Musculoskeletal System (4) Schmale Gross, surface, applied, and radiographic anatomy. Clinical manifestations in the musculoskeletal system and pathophysiology of trauma, aging, infection, and inflammation, as well as congenital and metabolic disorders. Dissections, physical examinations, and problem based learning. Offered: W.

HUBIO 554 P-Genetics (2) Horwitz Review of basic genetic principles and their applications in clinical medicine. Includes human chromosomal disorders; patterns of inheritance, genetic counseling, amniocentesis; pathogenesis of hereditary diseases, monogenic and multifactorial; role of genetics in common diseases; behavioral genetics; drug-gene interactions; and prevention and treatment of genetic diseases, including prenatal diagnosis and population screening. Offered: A.

HUBIO 555 P-Medicine, Health, and Society (3) Harris Interdisciplinary introduction to health services designed for future health care practitioners. Examines the history, organization, and effectiveness of the U.S. health care system. Stresses the student's ability to adopt a broad perspective across health care disciplines and traditional boundaries. Offered: W.

HUBIO 559 P-Problem Based Learning (3) Teitz Teaches students to methodically solve medical problems by gathering, sorting, and interpreting data. Students learn life-long self-education and self-evaluation skills. Provides practice working as a health care team by including medical, nursing, and physician assistant students in each group. Offered: W.

HUBIO 560 P-Introduction to Clinical Medicine (-5) Goldstein Introduction to clinical and laboratory diagnosis. Offered: Sp.

HUBIO 562 P-Urinary System (4) Ryan Anatomy, physiology, and pathology of the kidney, ureter, bladder, and prostate; pathophysiology and treatment of common fluid and electrolyte problems; renal pharmacology; major clinical urinary system syndromes, with current diagnostic approaches and therapy. Offered: Sp.

HUBIO 563 P-Brain and Behavior (3) Pascualy Major psychiatric disorders are defined and described, and a systematic approach to differential diagnosis is presented. Conceptual development, pathogenesis, epidemiology, nomenclature, and the terminology used in psychiatry are discussed. Offered: Sp.

HUBIO 564 P-Principles of Pharmacology II (3) Chavkin Lectures and conferences on drugs that act on the central nervous system. Emphasis on physiological and biochemical mechanisms, with consideration of therapeutic and adverse effects. Offered: Sp.

HUBIO 565 P-Reproduction (4) Steiner Normal development of the human reproductive system. Sexual differentiation, puberty, endocrine control of testicular and ovarian function, gamete biology, fertilization, implantation, immunology and endocrinology of pregnancy, labor and delivery, pathology of the male and female reproductive organs, contraception, prolactin and lactation, aging and infertility. Offered: Sp.

HUBIO 567 P-Skin System (2) Colven Gross and microscopic anatomy. Physiology, protection, temperature control, pigmentation, and photosensitivity. Pathology and genetics of skin abnormalities, including tumors. Introduction to clinical evaluation, including physical examination and illustrating examples of inflammatory, vascular, immunological (including drug hypersensitivity), and neoplastic diseases. Offered: A.

HUBIO 568 Clinical Nutrition (1) Lipkin Principles and practice of clinical nutrition, including role of nutrients in normal growth and development, pathogenesis of chronic disease, and nutrition in the management of certain disease states. Offered: Sp.

HUBIO 590 P-Medical Information for Decision Making (1) Tarczy-Hornoch Introduction to methods for: a) identifying and retrieving high quality, relevant documents for clinical decision making, b) applying rigorous criteria when reading primary research studies, reviews of primary studies, or other medical information sources that report on the effectiveness of therapeutic or preventive interventions. Prerequisite: first-year medical students. Offered: W.

HUBIO 596 P-WWAMI Non-Clinical Selectives II (*)

HUBIO 597 P-Independent Investigative Inquiry (8) Independent research with faculty sponsor and completion of paper in fulfillment of the independent investigative inquiry graduation requirement. Offered: Sp.

HUBIO 598 P-WWAMI Non-Clinical Selectives (*) Courses offered at WWAMI university sites designed to satisfy the non-clinical selective graduation requirement for medical students. Offered: AWSp.

HUBIO 599 P-Independent Study in Medical Science (6) Marshall Independent research with faculty sponsor and completion of paper as partial fulfillment of non-clinical selective graduation requirement. Offered: Sp.

HUBIO 600 PA-Capstone Course: Preparation for Residency (2) Norris A combination of large group lectures and small group discussions and workshops reviewing clinical skills in history-taking and physical examinations, imaging studies, common and emergency drugs, ACLS, infectious disease control, common clinical problems, and other topics that are encountered in residency training. Offered: Sp.

Immunology

IMMUN 441 Introduction to Immunology (4) NW General properties of immune responses; cells and tissues of immune system; lymphocyte activation and specificity; effector mechanisms; immunity to microbes; immunodeficiency and AIDS; autoimmune diseases; transplantation. Prerequisite: either BIOL 220 or BIOL 202; may not be repeated; recommended: GENET 371, GENET 372, BIOC 405, or BIOC 440. Offered: jointly with MICROM 441; A.

IMMUN 499 Undergraduate Research (*, max. 24) Investigative work on a variety of topics, including mechanisms of antigen recognition, T-cell development and differentiation, immunogenetics, lymphocyte activation, MHC gene structure and function, retrovirology, and the pathogenesis of autoimmune diseases, among others. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 532 Advanced Immunology (4) Weinmann Examines the molecular and cellular basis of immune function. Students must have completed a baccalaureate degree in a biological specialty and be conversant with molecular genetics. Topics include: hematopoiesis, antigen receptor structure, lymphocyte development, antigen presentation, and cytokines. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology; other graduate students with permission of instructor. Offered: W.

IMMUN 533 Host Defense to Cancer (2) Clark Addresses the mechanisms of cellular homeostasis, balancing cells of immune system, programmed cell death, immune surveillance, cancer immunotherapy. Companion course with IMMUN 535. Prerequisite: graduate standing in immunology; other graduate students with permission of instructor. Offered: odd years, Sp, weeks 1-5.

IMMUN 534 Central Issues in Immunology (2, max. 4) Presentations by participants of topics relating to the broad study of immunology. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: Sp.

IMMUN 535 Host Defense to Infection (2) Clark Addresses the mechanisms protecting against pathogens that infect patients with cancers; immune regulation; new developments in vaccines. Companion course with IMMUN 533. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology; other graduate students with permission of instructor. Offered: even years, Sp, weeks 1-5.

Current Research Conferences Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate students and postdoctoral research in immunology. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter.

IMMUN 550 Selected Topics in Immunology (1, max. 30) Formal seminar-discussion course for advanced students focused on recent developments in the field and consisting of literature research and intensive in-depth study of important and timely topics. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSp.

IMMUN 551 Research Conference in Regulation of T Cell-Dependent B Cell Maturation (1, max. 30) Clark Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate students and postdoctoral research in immunology. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 552 Immunogenetics and Autoimmunity (1, max. 30) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 553 Research Conference in Recombination and Repair in B Cell Development (1, max. 30) Maizels Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate students and postdoctoral research in immunology. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 554 Research Conference in Immunogenetic Aspects of Human Autoimmunity (1, max. 30) Nepom Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate students and postdoctoral research in immunology. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 555 Research Conference in Model of Autoimmune Disease and Their Regulation (1, max. 30) Goverman Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate students and postdoctoral research in immunology. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 556 Research in Conference in Regulation of Autoimmunity and Allergic Inflammation (1, max. 30) Ziegler Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate student and postdoctoral research in immunology. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSPS.

IMMUN 557 Research Conference in Thymic Environment (1, max. 30) Farr Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate student and postdoctoral research in immunology. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 558 Research Conference in Apoptosis and Autoimmunity (1, max. 30) Elkon Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate student and postdoctoral research in immunology. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSPS.

IMMUN 559 Cytokine Gene Regulation (1, max. 30) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 560 Research Conference in Progress in T Cell Research (1, max. 30) Bevan, Fink, Goverman, Kaja, Rudensky Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate student and postdoctoral research in immunology. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 561 Research Conference in Mechanisms of Peripheral Tolerance (1, max. 30) Fink Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate student and postdoctoral research in immunology. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 562 Research Conference in Developmental Regulation of T Cell Function (1, max. 30) Wilson Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate student and postdoctoral research in immunology. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 563 Research Conference in Macrophage Biology: Signaling and Phagocytosis (1, max. 30) Aderem Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate student and postdoctoral research in immunology. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 564 Research Conference in Cellular/Molecular Regulation of T Cell Responses (1, max. 30) Greenberg Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate student and postdoctoral research in immunology. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 565 Research Conference in Innate Immune Defenses Against Virus Infection (1, max. 30) Gale Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate students and postdoctoral research in immunology, with a major focus placed on understanding virus and host regulation of innate immune processes. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 566 Research Conference in Role of Innate Mechanisms in Generation and Maintenance of Protective Immune Memory (1, max. 30) Kaja Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate students and postdoctoral research in immunology. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 567 Research Conference in Antigen Processing and Presentation (1, max. 30) Rudensky Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate students and postdoctoral research in immunology. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 568 Research Conference in Regulation of the Inflammatory Response of Myeloid Cells (1, max. 30) Hamerman Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate students and postdoctoral research in immunology, with a major focus placed on understanding the regulation of the inflammatory response of myeloid cells. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 569 Genetics of Diabetes (1, max. 30) Lernmark Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate students and postdoctoral research in immunology. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 570 Cytokine Signaling in Lymphocytes (1, max. 30) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology.

IMMUN 571 Research Conference in Development and Activation of B Cells (1, max. 30) Rawlings Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate student and postdoctoral research in immunology. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSPS.

IMMUN 572 Research Conference in Signal Transduction in B-Cells (1 max. 30) Scharenberg Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate student and postdoctoral research in immunology. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSPS.

IMMUN 573 Immunology Seminar Series (1, max. 30) Weekly discussion in which original research results are presented and discussed. Emphasis is on new and original contributions to field of immunology and related areas; occasional seminars are concerned with review of important topics. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology; other graduate students with firm background in Immunology and permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

IMMUN 574 Research Conference in Kaposi's Sarcoma-Associated Herpesvirus: Interactions with B-Cells and Endothelial Cells (1, max. 30) Lagunoff Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate student and postdoctoral research in immunology. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSPS.

IMMUN 575 Research Conference in Infection and Immunity (1, max. 30) Bevan Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate student and postdoctoral research in immunology. Students may register for more than one conference each quarter. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 576 Research Conference in Transcriptional Regulation in the Immune System (1, max. 30) Weinmann Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate student and postdoctoral research in immunology. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 577 Research Conference in Lymphocyte Homing and Function (1, max. 30) Campbell Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate student and postdoctoral research in immunology. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 578 Research Conference in Immunology and the Pathogenesis of Tuberculosis (1, max. 30) Ramakrishnan Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate student and postdoctoral research in immunology. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 579 Research Conference in Costimulation and Autoimmune Disease (1, max. 30) Latchman Weekly group conferences concerning ongoing graduate student and postdoctoral research in immunology. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 599 Introduction to Immunology Research (1-7, max. 7) Current problems in immunological research. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 700 Master's Thesis (*) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

IMMUN 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

Laboratory Medicine

LAB M 321 Medical Technology: Introductory Clinical Hematology (6) Calvo Lecture and laboratory coverage of theoretical and practical aspects important in the evaluation of blood cells, to include their production, morphology, function, and associated pathology. Instrumentation used in testing included, as well as quality control and quality assurance issues. Offered: W.

LAB M 322 Medical Technology: Introductory Clinical Chemistry (5) Chen-Levy Lecture and laboratory covering the theoretical and practical concepts associated with testing procedures performed in clinical chemistry. Offered: A.

LAB M 418 Topics in Clinical Chemistry (5) Chen-Levy Continuation of LAB M 322. Lecture and laboratory exercises covering fundamentals of instrumentation and methodology in the clinical chemistry laboratory. Offered: Sp.

LAB M 419 Clinical Coagulation (4) Calvo Lecture and laboratory coverage of the theory of the hemostatic system, to include tests used in the diagnosis/monitoring of patients with abnormal bleeding and/or thrombosis. Instrumentation as appropriate for testing included. Quality control and quality assurance discussed. Offered: S.

LAB M 420 Laboratory Analysis of Urine and Body Fluids (3) Lampe Lecture and laboratory covering urinalysis testing procedures and associated disease entities. Analysis of other body fluids. Methods of microscopic examination by use of bright-field, phase, and polarizing microscopy. Offered: S.

LAB M 421 Medical Microbiology (1/6, max. 6) Lampe Lecture and laboratory coverage of human infections and diagnostic procedures used for isolation, identification, and antimicrobial susceptibility testing of the microorganisms associated with disease. Offered: S.

LAB M 423 Clinical Chemistry (*-, max. 24) Chen-Levy Clinical testing using automated and manual methods. Measurement of pancreatic function and intestinal absorption, renal and liver function, enzymes, electrolytes, blood gases, lipids, toxicology, urinalysis, endocrinology, and immunology. Offered: AWSp.

LAB M 424 Clinical Microbiology (*-, max. 24) Lampe Techniques used in the diagnostic microbiology laboratory, including quality control, specimen evaluation, identification of pathogenic microorganisms, and antimicrobial susceptibility testing. Offered: AWSp.

LAB M 425 Clinical Hematology (*-, max. 24) Calvo Clinical study of techniques used in the diagnostic evaluation of blood cells, including production, proliferation, survival, morphologic, and functional features. Assessment of proteins and cells important in hemostasis included. Quality control and quality assurance issues considered. Biomolecular techniques appropriate for evaluation of the hematologic and hemostatic systems discussed. Offered: AWSp.

LAB M 426 Clinical Immunohematology (1-7, max. 7) Nestor Lecture and laboratory covering theory of transfusion medicine and serological procedures used in the evaluation of cellular antigen systems. Principles of immunology and genetics included as appropriate for the techniques performed; screening of donor units to provide a safe product discussed. Quality control and quality assurance issues considered. Offered: W.

LAB M 427 Selected Studies in Laboratory Medicine (*-, max. 24) Lampe Selected clinical study in the major scientific disciplines of laboratory medicine, to include molecular diagnostics, or pursuance of a clinical research study. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

LAB M 499 Undergraduate Research (*) Specific project in clinical laboratory investigation. Offered: AWSpS.

LAB M 502 Laboratory Medicine Grand Rounds (1, max. 6) Fine Grand rounds are concerned with current topics in the field of laboratory medicine. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

LAB M 510 Laboratory Medicine Research Conference (1, max. 6) Tait Presentation and discussion of ongoing research and development projects by faculty, residents, fellows, and graduate students. Open to graduate students in laboratory medicine and other medical sciences. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

LAB M 520 Seminar in Organization and Management in Laboratory Medicine (3) Chandler Core course for the Master of Science degree in laboratory medicine. Prerequisite: graduate student standing in laboratory medicine or permission of instructor. Offered: odd years; Sp.

LAB M 521 Advanced Laboratory Hematology (1, max. 6) Sabath Lectures on diagnostic clinical hematology with emphasis on clinicopathological correlation. For laboratory medicine graduate students with special interest in diagnostic clinical hematology. Prerequisite: graduate standing and permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

LAB M 522 Hematopathology Seminar (2) Wood Identification of normal lymphocyte and bone marrow subpopulations, diagnosis of leukemias, lymphomas, and benign conditions that resemble them. Emphasis on histopathology, cytochemical, immunological, and molecular markers. Clinicopathologic correlation. Offered: jointly with PATH 522; even years; W.

LAB M 590 P-Research Projects in Laboratory Medicine (*) Tait Opportunity for laboratory experience on a research problem related to laboratory medicine. Students investigate areas of potential clinical importance. Projects selected from areas such as chemistry, coagulation, hematology, immunology, microbiology, virology, molecular diagnostics, and computer applications. Research goals established by instructor in discussion with student. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

LAB M 596 Clinical Chemistry Seminar (2) Rainey Theory and practice of clinical chemistry. For postdoctoral and graduate students in clinical chemistry. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

LAB M 601 Internship (3-9, max. 9) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in laboratory medicine. Offered: AWSpS.

LAB M 680 P-Clinical Laboratory Testing: Methods and Interpretation (*) Wener Provides the third- and fourth-year medical student with the opportunity to evaluate clinical laboratory data in the clinical laboratory setting. One-on-one teaching using case material and actual clinical samples. Offered: AWSpS.

LAB M 685 P-Laboratory Case Studies for Clinical Diagnosis (4) Astion Clinical case presentations and discussions aimed at test selection, disease-induced alterations, efficient algorithms, factors confounding interpretation, testing economics. Prerequisite: completion of required clerkships. (Four weeks half-time) Offered: A.

LAB M 699 P-WWAMI Laboratory Medicine Special Electives (*, max. 24) By special arrangement for qualified students, special clerkships or externships may be available at institutions other than the University of Washington located within the WWAMI region. Prerequisite: permission of department.

LAB M 700 Master's Thesis (*) Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

MEDEX Northwest

MEDEX 450 Basic Science in Clinical Medicine (6) Review of important basic science concepts that include relevant topics for a health care clinician. Prerequisite: permission of the MEDEX Program. Offered: WS.

MEDEX 451 Anatomy and Physiology for the MEDEX Practitioner (6) Anatomy and physiology of the following organ systems:

HEENT, respiratory, cardiovascular, gastrointestinal, reproductive, renal, musculoskeletal, and neurologic. Required for entering students to the MEDEX program who have not satisfied program prerequisites in anatomy and physiology. Offered: S.

MEDEX 452 Pathophysiology for Primary Care (6) Basic pathological and pathophysiological concepts of diseases commonly encountered in primary-care practice. Pathophysiology studied per organ system. Offered: A.

MEDEX 453 Basic Clinical Skills (5) Provides the student with mastery of a screening history and physical examination and thoroughness in data-collection skills. Offered: ASP.

MEDEX 454 Adult Medicine I (7) Problem-oriented approach to the diagnosis and management of common primary care conditions. Introduction to relevant laboratory and radiological procedures. Organ system approach. Offered: W.

MEDEX 456 Maternal and Child Health for the MEDEX Practitioner I (3) Designed to acquaint students with principles of prenatal care and primary-care pediatrics. Offered: W.

MEDEX 457 Behavioral Medicine I (2) Develops and demonstrates skills needed for assessment, diagnosis and management of common emotional problems in a clinical setting. Offered: A.

MEDEX 458 Behavioral Medicine (2) Develops and demonstrates skills needed for assessment, diagnosis and management of common emotional problems in a clinical setting. Offered: W.

MEDEX 459 Behavioral Medicine (2) Develops and demonstrates skills needed for assessment, diagnosis and management of common emotional problems in a clinical setting. Offered: SP.

MEDEX 460 Principles of Patient Management (3) Provides systematic approach to pharmacological therapies including drug choice, risk factor identification and administration. Includes non-pharmacological therapies and emphasizes health education and health promotion strategies. Offered: W.

MEDEX 461 Principles of Patient Management (3) Provides systematic approach to pharmacological therapies including drug choice, risk factor identification and administration. Includes non-pharmacological therapies and emphasizes health education and health promotion strategies. Offered: Sp.

MEDEX 462 Maternal and Child Health for the MEDEX Practitioner II (3) Continuation of 456. Emphasis on diagnosis and treatment of common pediatric problems. Offered: Sp.

MEDEX 463 Clinical Clerkships I (19) Full-time clinical clerkship spent in institution-based or specialty practice settings with the supervision of licensed health care providers. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

MEDEX 465 Clinical Clerkships II (19) Continuation of clinical clerkships spent in institution-based or specialty practice settings with supervision of licensed health care providers. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

MEDEX 466 Family Practice Clerkship for the MEDEX Practitioner I (19) Ballweg Family practice under the supervision of physicians throughout the Pacific Northwest. Common primary-care problems. Students and preceptors are educated in the utilization and management of the physician assistant in practice. Students keep computerized records of patient encounters and complete a variety of written assignments. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

MEDEX 467 Family Practice Clerkship for the MEDEX Practitioner II (19) Ballweg Further experience in primary-care practice with emphasis on independent patient management by the student supervised by family practitioners. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

MEDEX 468 Emergency Medicine I for the MEDEX Practitioner (2) Approach to the diagnosis and management of common emergency conditions for primary care physician assistants. Organ system approach. Offered: W.

MEDEX 469 Emergency Medicine II for the MEDEX Practitioner (2) Continuation of MEDEX 468. Approach to diagnosis and management of common emergency conditions for primary care physician assistant. Organ system approach. Offered: Sp.

MEDEX 470 Professional Role Development (1) Explores professional role development, health access issues, licensing issues, health care quality, interdisciplinary relationships, diverse populations and the health care environment. Offered: A.

MEDEX 471 Professional Role Development (1) Explores professional role development, health access issues, licensing issues, health care quality, interdisciplinary relationships, diverse populations and the health care environment. Offered: W.

MEDEX 472 Professional Role Development (1) Explores professional role development, health access issues, licensing issues, health care quality, interdisciplinary relationships, diverse populations and the health care environment. Offered: Sp.

MEDEX 473 Technical Skills (1) Introduces clinical skills and procedures through hands-on experiences. Offered: A.

MEDEX 474 Technical Skills (1) Introduces clinical skills and procedures through hands-on experiences. Offered: W.

MEDEX 475 Technical Skills (1) Introduces clinical skills and procedures through hands-on experiences. Offered: Sp.

MEDEX 499 Special Field Projects/Independent Study (1-19, max. 19) Clinical clerkships and independent study activities. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

Medical Education

MEBI 499 Undergraduate Research (*, max. 12) Investigative research or directed readings in medical education and in biomedical and health informatics. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

MEBI 510 Topics in Medical Education Research (1/3, max. 12) Selected research topics in medical education. Development of skills in critical analysis and production of original research. Optional: 1 additional credit for seminar focusing on application of issues in education practice. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

MEBI 511 Current Issues in Medical Education (2) Addresses current issues in medical education in the context of historic and contemporary developments. Topics include curriculum development, teaching, and learning, clinical knowledge and reasoning, assessment, professional development, program evaluation, and certification. Offered: A.

MEBI 512 Leadership in Academic Medicine (1) Explores the theoretical and practical aspects of leadership in academic medicine. Topics include qualities of effective leadership, leadership styles, and impact of institutional organization and culture on leadership. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: S.

MEBI 520 Teaching Methods in Medical Education (2) Ambrozy Empirical and theoretical merits of different teaching methods as applied to medical education. Structuring and leading group discussions, using questions, organizing and delivering lectures, identifying styles of clinical supervision, providing constructive feedback, and presenting effective clinical demonstrations. Offered: W.

MEBI 521 Evaluation of Learning in the Health Sciences (3) Carlne Basic issues and methods for evaluation of learning: cognitive performance, psychomotor skills, and reasoning abilities in classroom, laboratory, and clinical settings. Practical applications of instruments such as multiple-choice questions, essays, oral examinations, checklists, rating scales, simulations, and patient management problems. Recommended: MEBI 520. Offered: Sp.

MEBI 522 Research in Medical Education (2) Scott Individualized, problem-based overviews of research methods and research design pertinent to research and scholarship in medical education. Development and sequencing of research projects from conceptualization through literature review, including proposal development, project implementation, data management, analysis, and write-up. Assessment and critical reading of related literature stressed. Offered: A.

MEBI 530 Medical Informatics (3) Tarczy-Hornoch Overview of biomedical and health informatics concepts, theories, and applications, including the historical evolution and the current and future research directions within the context of information flow in health care settings. Offered: A.

MEBI 531 Life and Death Computing (3) Kalet Computing and programming concepts and methods underlying the solution of safety-critical and complex problems in biology, medicine, and health for both research and practice. Includes an introduction to programming in Common Lisp, network programming, and bioinformatics. Prerequisite: CSE 142 or equivalent. Offered: A.

MEBI 532 Computing Concepts for Medical Informatics II (3) Kalet Continuation of topics begun in MEBI 531: multiprogramming and operating system principles, client-server, network programming with sockets, macros, higher level languages, software engineering. Prerequisite: MEBI 531 or equivalent. Offered: W.

MEBI 533 Public Health and Informatics (3) Introduction to the emerging field of public health informatics. Covers general public health topics as well as key public health informatics issues and applications. Evaluates a public health information system. Prerequisite: either MEBI 530 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with HSERV 509; Sp.

MEBI 534 Biology and Informaticists (3) Brinkley A computing and information oriented treatment of the core concepts of human biology, addressing structure and function at three levels or organization: organism, cell, and gene. Each level includes examples of key anatomic and physiologic concepts, presented from a computational perspective and with the use of electronic resources. Offered: A.

MEBI 535 Clinical Topics for Informaticists (3) Masuda Builds on Biology for Informaticists and introduces the student to a variety of clinical disciplines, representative clinical problems from these disciplines, and informatics issues and applications within these disciplines. Lecturers include faculty from the Schools of Medicine, Nursing, Pharmacy, and Dentistry. Prerequisite: MEBI 530, MEBI 531, MEBI 534. Offered: W.

MEBI 536 Bioinformatics and Gene Sequence Analysis (3) Rose Nature and relevance of molecular sequence information, computer-based protein, and DNA sequence analysis, molecular sequence and genomic databases, and methods for database accession and interrogation. Prerequisite: background in molecular biology and permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with PABIO 536/PHG 536; Sp.

MEBI 537 Informatics Research and Evaluation Methods (4) Gennari Introduces the many facets of evaluation and research for Biomedical and Health Informatics projects. Focuses on formal studies of the application of information technology in medicine, conducted while an information resource is under development and after the resource is in routine service. Offered: A.

MEBI 540 Critically Appraising and Applying Evidence in Health Care (3) Wolf Literature appraisal skills for various articles (therapy effectiveness, diagnostic tests, literature reviews, clinical measurement, prognosis, quality of care, decision analysis, causation/etiology, guidelines, and economic evaluation). Appraisal of clinical information from literature, strengths/weaknesses of data, analyses, study design/applicability to a current patient's problem. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with HSERV 528; W.

MEBI 541 Introduction to Systematic Reviews and Meta-analysis of Evidence (2) Wolf Conceptual understanding of the quantitative methods used to synthesize evidence. Methods for pooling evidence across independent studies, pooling binary/continuous outcomes, differences between fixed and random effects models, and guidelines for appraising published systematic reviews/meta-analyses. Prerequisite: introductory level courses in statistics, epidemiology or biostatistics. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with HSERV 529/EPI 541; Sp.

MEBI 550 Knowledge Representation and Applications (3) Kalet A readings class in knowledge representation, as described in the primary artificial intelligence and biomedical informatics literature. Topics may include: frame-based systems, description logics, theorem proving, complexity vs. tractability, ontologies, rule-based systems, and biomedical domain applications. Prerequisite: any artificial intelligence course (e.g., CSE 415 or better), or permission of instructor.

MEBI 552 Clinical Decision Support (3) Doctor Provides foundation in clinical decision making and support (including decision analysis, Bayesian analysis, belief networks, artificial intelligence, neural networks) presented in the context of local and national decision support systems and the movement to decrease errors in healthcare. Prerequisite: MED 530, MED 531, MED 535, MED 537, CSE 415 or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

MEBI 554 Biomedical Information Interactions and Design (3) Demiris, Pratt Introduction to theoretical frameworks and research methodologies that underpin the study of human-information interactions and the design of biomedical information systems to support them. Emphasis on understanding informational needs and specifications that drive the design of health information systems. Offered: Sp.

MEBI 570 Health Sciences Information Needs, Resources, and Environment (3) Fuller Characteristics of users of health sciences information; health professionals, researchers, consumers and patients; environments (academic health sciences centers, hospitals, clinics, and public libraries); evaluation of information resources in health care; types and uses of health information management systems; policy issues, professional standards, education, and certification. Offered: jointly with LIS 528.

MEBI 580 Computing Fundamentals for Health Providers (3) Enables health professionals to solve work/practice challenges using existing features of desktop computers. Emphasizes productivity concepts. Introduces extended features of common software packages, as well as basic concepts/methods of small system management and support. Prerequisite: admission to Health Informatics Certificate Program or by instructor permission. Offered: jointly with NURS 521;W.

MEBI 590 Selected Topics in Health Informatics (1-3, max. 12) Computers and information technology are improving and changing healthcare education, research, and clinical practice. Informatics faculty and researchers from the UW and affiliated institutions present their research findings as well as discuss their views of national developments in their respective disciplines. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

MEBI 591 Biomedical Health Informatics Research Colloquium (1) Provides forum for extensive interactive research discussions. Format is round table with short presentations and long facilitated discussion amongst students and core BHI faculty. Both students and faculty present. Topics primarily research focused (ongoing and proposed research.), but also journal articles, current topics of debate, and other. Credit/no credit only.

MEBI 598 Special Topics in Biomedical and Health Informatics (1-4, max. 12) Readings, lectures, and discussions pertaining to a significant biomedical and health informatics problem or an emerging issue. Topics vary. Offered: AWSpS.

MEBI 599 Independent Study or Research (*, max. 12) .

MEBI 600 Independent Study/Research (1-10) Individual readings or study, including independent study in preparation for doctoral examinations, research, etc. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

MEBI 700 Master's s Thesis (1-15) Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

MEBI 800 Doctoral Dissertation (1-10)

Medical History and Ethics

MHE 401 History of Modern Medicine (3) I&S Berryman Survey of evolution of medical theory, practice, and institutions in European and American society from the late 18th century to the present. Medical background not required. Recommended: prior courses in sciences and/or history.

MHE 402 Ethical Theory (5) I&S Jecker Reviews the principal theories for normative ethical discourse, such as utilitarianism and deontology, and major metaethical commentary on those theories. Illustrated by classical and modern authors. Recommended: one basic course in ethics. Offered: jointly with PHIL 412.

MHE 404 Metaethical Theory (5) I&S Jecker Study of major ethical writings in the twentieth century, with principal emphasis on the Anglo-American tradition. Recommended: one introductory philosophy course. Offered: jointly with PHIL 413.

MHE 411 Introduction to Bioethics (3) I&S Jecker Basic concepts, principles, and methods of analysis, with application to some major issues in the field of bioethics. Case studies utilized to illustrate nature of questions arising in bioethics and to provide students with opportunity to develop skills in ethical analysis.

MHE 417 Disease in History (3) I&S Whorton Study of Western civilization's experience with epidemic disease, the growth of understanding of the causes of disease, the formation of a philosophy of prevention, and the development of programs to protect the public health. Emphasis on the last two centuries. Medical background not required.

MHE 440 Philosophy of Medicine (5) I&S Jecker Familiarizes students with central issues in the philosophy of medicine. Focuses on the nature of medical knowledge, the connection between theory and observation, the meaning of medical concepts, and the relationship between theories and the world. Recommended: prior courses in philosophy, history of science, or history of medicine. Offered: jointly with PHIL 459.

MHE 474 Justice in Health Care (5) I&S/VLPA Jecker Examination of the ethical problem of allocating scarce medical resources. Emphasis on fundamental principles of justice that support alternative health policies. Recommended: prior courses in philosophy or medical ethics. Offered: jointly with PHIL 411.

MHE 481 The Pursuit of Health in American Society (3) I&S Berryman, Whorton Examination of the development of concern for personal health over the past two centuries, and of the evolution of philosophies and practices of health promotion. Emphasis on the influence of both medicine and popular culture on shaping of attitudes toward diet, exercise, alcohol, drugs, sex, and other health behavior.

MHE 483 The Rise and Development of Sports Medicine (3) I&S Berryman Evolution of medical thought related to exercise for good health, training for sport participation, and treatment of sport-related injuries. Begins with ancient period, concludes with present. Development of specialization in sports medicine, sport team physicians, preventive medicine, concepts of fitness and wellness as related to exercise prescription, and exercise science.

MHE 485 Concepts of the Body in Nineteenth- and Twentieth-Century America (3) I&S Berryman Investigation of ideas relating to corporeal self in nineteenth- and twentieth-century America. Evolution of physical ideals of manliness/femininity, how ideals related to surrounding culture, how different bodily activities developed to realize ideals. Athleticism, physiognomy, beauty contests, body building, decorations, cosmetics, anthropometry, and phrenology.

MHE 497 Medical History and Ethics Special Electives (*-)

MHE 498 Undergraduate Thesis (*)

MHE 499 Undergraduate Research (*, max. 5) Investigative work in biomedical ethics or history of the biomedical sciences.

MHE 501 Alternative Approaches to Healing (2) Schneeweiss Philosophies and practices of the major alternative approaches to healing. Historical characterization of alternative medicine accompanied by presentations by practitioners of chiropractic, naturopathic, homeopathic, and traditional Chinese medicine. Credit/no credit only.

MHE 505 Professional Seminar I (3) Methods for identifying a bioethics research question and developing a systematic approach to investigating it, including utilization of bibliographic sources in bioethics, philosophy, history. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

MHE 506 Professional Seminar II (2) Capstone course for M.A. in Bioethics. Includes conducting research in ethics, writing, giving oral presentations, facilitating seminars, developing curriculum vitae, and career planning.

MHE 511 P-Medical Ethics (2) Ethics course designed especially for first- and second-year medical students. Study of ethical problems arising in clinical setting of medicine, introducing students to philosophical analysis and argument in practical contexts. Seminar-discussion format with readings from contemporary authors. Credit/no credit only.

MHE 512 P-The Human Face of Medicine (2) Foundation of human values undergirding medical practice. Images of physician — motivations for medicine, empathy versus detachment in doctor-patient relationship, health for the health-professional — the art of coping, limits of power — when medicine fails to cure, uses/abuses of technology, physician's role in public health issues, the healing process.

MHE 513 P-Ethical Responsibilities of Medical Practice (2) Provides intensive and practical guidance about management of principal ethical and legal problems that arise in clinical practice: informed consent, confidentiality, decisions regarding life-support, advance directives and surrogate decision-makers, duty to care for indigent and risky patients. Offered: one-week intensive; S.

MHE 514 Legal, Ethical, and Social Issues in Public Health Genetics (3) Kuszler, Mastroianni Equips the student to anticipate and assess potential legal, ethical, and social barriers complicating the incursion of new genetic advances, information, and technologies into public and private health care delivery efforts. Prerequisite: GENET 371 or equivalent. Offered: jointly with LAW H 504/PHG 512.

MHE 515 Public Commentary on Ethical Issues in Health Genetics (3) Explores issues in public health genetics through academic commentary, personal narratives, science fiction, and film using ethical frameworks from narrative ethics, feminist ethics, and principlism. Includes cloning, assisted reproduction, prenatal genetic testing presymptomatic genetic testing, gene therapies, scientific responsibility, and GMOs. Graduate students only. Offered: jointly with PHG 525.

MHE 516 Ethical Frameworks for Public Health Genetics (2) Mastroianni Case-based application of ethical principles in genetic medicine to range of problems arising in genetics practice, policy, research. Examination of traditional problems including eugenics and testing/screening for genetic disease, as well as emerging problems in population and environmental genetics. Prerequisite: MHE 514/PHG 512. Offered: jointly with PHG 522.

MHE 517 Preclinical Hospice Volunteer Training Elective (3) Farber, McCormick Using lectures, small groups, role play, and readings, covers the basic knowledge, skills and attitudes that need to be mastered as a hospice volunteer. Students participate as hospice volunteers as part of their field experience. Offered: jointly with FAMED 546.

MHE 518 Spirituality in Health Care (2) Farber, McCormick Examination of the beliefs, values, meaning, and spirituality of health professionals for the well-being of their patients as well as for themselves. Offered: jointly with FAMED 547/SOC W 587.

MHE 521 The Ethical Challenges of Modern Medicine (3) McCormick Case-study approach to contemporary ethical issues in medicine, utilizing techniques of ethical analysis and argument in examining actual cases arising in our pluralistic culture, where values are often in conflict. Open to graduate and professional students and others with appropriate background.

MHE 522 Ethical Problems Surrounding Death (3) McCormick Issues arising in care and treatment of dying patients and their families, including truthful disclosure, use of life-supports, "euthanasia," coping with death and grief. Intersection of patient and professional values related to care in terminal phase of illness. Open to graduate and professional students and others with appropriate background.

MHE 523 Biomedical Ethics (3) McCormick Selected topics in medical ethics emphasizing methods of ethical reasoning about moral dilemmas and contributions of philosophical theories and principles to practical problems of medicine. Students provided with opportunities to test their value assumptions and analytical skills. Open to graduate and professional students and others with appropriate background.

MHE 530 Genetic Discovery in Medicine and Public Health (3) Burke Addresses the clinical and societal implications of genetic knowledge, with an emphasis on the ethical and policy issues surrounding the use of genetic technology in medicine and public health from 1900 to the present. Offered: jointly with PHG 542.

MHE 536 Research Ethics and Regulation (3) Mastroianni Explores the ethical principles and concepts and U.S. laws related to (1) research conducted with animals, (2) research on humans, and (3) the responsible conduct of research. Required for graduate students in the Department of Medical History and Ethics, School of Medicine. Offered: jointly with LAW H 536.

MHE 541 Exercise in Modern Medicine (1) Berryman Survey of role and place of exercise in modern medicine. Historical and contemporary analysis of physical activity and sports medicine in the American health system. Presentations by clinicians about their experiences in: orthopaedics, exercise physiology, sports nutrition, sports psychology, pediatric sports medicine, special issues of female athletes, environmental medicine.

MHE 542 Legal and Ethical Issues in Advanced Practice Nursing (3) Shannon Reviews selected ethical issues in health care and legal guidelines relevant to health care decision-making. Explores bioethics as a type of applied ethics. Focuses on preparing students for ethical challenges in advanced nursing roles. Offered: jointly with NURS 522.

MHE 548 Introduction to Clinical Ethics (5) Burke Introduction to history, practice, and research methods in clinical ethics. Case-based examination of methods including principlism, casuistry, narrative methods, virtue ethics. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

MHE 549 Current Topics in Clinical Ethics I (3) Dudzinski Analysis of complex ethical cases from UWSOM clinical departments, literature, and media. Case discussion focuses on implications for delivery of medical care. Prerequisite: MHE 548 or permission of instructor.

MHE 550 Current Topics in Clinical Ethics II (3) Fryer-Edwards Analysis of complex ethical cases from UWSOM clinical departments, literature, and media. Case discussion focuses on public policy implications. Prerequisite: MHE 548 or permission of instructor.

MHE 551 Human Genomics: Science, Ethics, and Society (4) Fullerton Places recent advances in human molecular genetics and genomics in ethical and social context. Focuses on the rise of population-based approaches to complex trait mapping and their impact on societal understandings of community, ancestry, and public health. Prerequisite: GENOME 371;

GENOME 372; PHG 512; or instructor permission. Offered: jointly with PHG 551; A.

MHE 552 Advanced Qualitative Methods (4) Starks Examines and compares phenomenology, discourse analysis, and grounded theory. Reviews the history of ideas and critically reads examples of published articles to appreciate how each method frames questions and produces different analyses.

MHE 595 Ethics Practicum (1-6, max. 6) Students participate in clinical ethics rounds, case discussions, review of research protocols, or other professional activities related to bioethics. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: by permission of instructor.

MHE 596 Masters Research Project ([1-12]-, max. 12) Research project culminating in a scholarly paper suitable for publication in a peer-reviewed journal. Credit/no credit only. Majors only.

MHE 597 Special Topics in Medical Ethics (1-, max 15) Various special topics in medical ethics. Offered: AWSpS.

MHE 600 Independent Study or Research (*)

Medicine

MED 498 Undergraduate Thesis (*) Paauw Offered: AWSpS.

MED 499 Undergraduate Research (*) Paauw Case studies, with laboratory research. Available to undergraduates and medical students. Offered: AWSpS.

MED 505 P-Preceptorship in Medicine (1) Paauw To provide opportunity for first- and second-year medical students to gain personal experience with medical practice situations by being stationed with carefully selected clinical faculty members in their offices. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of department. Offered: AWSpS.

MED 506 P-Emergency Medicine Preceptorship (1) Jobe, Richling Provides opportunities for first- and second-year medical students to gain experience working in an emergency setting. Students shadow faculty in Emergency Medicine during their shifts. Includes learning about common conditions seen in the emergency department and the opportunity to work on history taking and physical exam skills. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered AWSpS.

MED 510 Health Issues of Sexual Minorities (1) Greenberg Introduction to the special health care issues and barriers confronting persons identified as bisexual, gay, lesbian, or transgendered. Includes lectures, panels, and case presentations by faculty and community experts. Offered: Sp.

MED 530 AIDS: A Multidisciplinary Approach (2) Hawes Comprehensive overview of the public health, clinical, and laboratory aspects of human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) infection and disease. Topics include the pathogenesis, natural history, and management of (HIV) infections. The impact of HIV/AIDS on community and global health care and prospects for prevention and control. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with EPI 530/GLOBLH 570; A.

MED 531 P-Human Genetics (*) Stamatoyannopoulos Weekly seminar dealing with a variety of topics in medical genetics given by faculty of the Division of Medical Genetics and related departments and divisions. Open to medical students with a good foundation in genetics. Offered: AWSp.

MED 533 P-Clinical Endocrinology (2) Cummings Emphasis on the most major and dependable symptoms, signs, laboratory tests, and therapy for clinical endocrinopathies. Patient illustrated. Limited to second-year medical students. Offered: W.

MED 534 Wilderness Medicine (1) Dickema Provides training in medical emergencies and clinical situations unique to wilderness settings where access to medical care is limited. Experience gained in patient assessment and the management of common wilderness situations including altitude illness, burns, trauma, diving injuries, hypo- and hyperthermia, and toxin exposures.

MED 546 Clinical Applications of Gene Therapy (2) Lieber Overview of the current status of gene therapy. Discusses its role in the future practice of medicine. Lecture and literature reviews. Offered: S.

MED 547 Quantitative Methods in Medical Genetics (2) Computational methods of use for medical genetics. Review of problem sets. Topics range from basic probability to linkage analysis. Prerequisite: genetics and permission of instructor.

MED 549 Clinical Medical Genetics (1) Review of current clinical advances in medical genetics. Includes lectures and discussion of cases from medical genetics clinic. Prerequisite: genetics or human genetics and permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

MED 550 P-An Introduction to Emergency Medicine (1) Mengert Presentation of common medical and surgical emergencies and their urgent management, especially within the framework of rapid patient assessment and stabilization. Lecture topics include chest pain and myocardial infarction, basic arrhythmia management, and burn and wound care. Offered: Sp.

CONJ 550 P-Clinical Infectious Diseases (3) Spach See Conjoint Courses.

MED 555 P-Mind, Body, and Pen: Writing and the Art of Becoming a Physician (1) Provides forum for medical students to write about issues in medicine and medical education. Focuses on writing as a process for giving voice to the conflicting demands and dilemmas of becoming a physician. Explores personal narratives, dreams and disappointments, chronic illness and death, empathy and revulsion, authenticity and power. Offered: W.

UCONJ 555 Principles of STD/HIV Research (3) Lukehart See University Conjoint Courses.

MED 556 Visual Thinking: How to Observe in Depth (1) Uses Visual Thinking Strategies to look at art and enhance diagnostic acumen. Expands observational and critical thinking skills, and encourages open-ended discussion. Skills applied in assessing patients. Combination of slide sessions and observation of original objects at Seattle museums.

MED 560 P-Advanced Global Health (2) Kimball Prepares health profession students for work in developing countries. Includes health care delivery systems, political, social, and economic determinants of health, major global health issues, and personal well-being while abroad. Lecture and seminar format with guest speakers, student presentations, and discussion. Offered: Sp.

MED 561 Tropical Medicine (1) Intended for professional health science students interested in learning the pathophysiology, epidemiology, and clinical presentation of disease conditions that are more commonly seen in less-developed countries, resource-limited settings, or tropical climates, and how to diagnose, treat, and follow the resolution of these diseases with commonly limited resources. Credit/no credit only.

MED 565 P-The Healer's Art: Awakening the Heart of Medicine (1) Wicks Encourages cultivation of human dimensions in practice of medicine while strengthening personal commitment to medicine as a life's work. Facilitates student recognition of commonality of personal concerns among peers and student response to the dimension of mystery in the experience of illness as well as development the capacity for awe. Offered: W.

MED 599 P-Transfusion Machine (3) Reiner Group discussions and didactic sessions cover broad category of transfusion medicine. Hands-on laboratory experience in red cell serology/compatibility, coagulation, and histocompatibility with emphasis on diagnosis and management of clinical problems. Based at Puget Sound Blood Center. Prerequisite: fourth-year medical student standing; third-year student standing with permission of instructor.

MED 604 P-Clinical Preceptorship in Internal Medicine (8) Shima (Forks) Working closely with primary-care physicians, the student is exposed to the private practice of internal medicine in a small community. Operating on a one-to-one basis with an internist, the student evaluates and manages inpatients and outpatients on a primary care, consultative, and emergency basis. Prerequisite: MED 665. (Four weeks, full-time.) Offered: AWSpS.

MED 630 P-WRITE Medicine Clinical Clerkship (*, max. 24) Basic clinical clerkship for students enrolled in the WRITE Program. Prerequisite: completion of basic curriculum; third- and fourth-year students; acceptance in the WRITE program.

MED 640 P-Dermatology Clinic (*, max. 5) Olerud Students attend dermatology clinic on Monday mornings and Thursday afternoons for twelve weeks. Two half-days per week. Prerequisite: MED 665. Offered: AWSpS.

MED 642 P-Clinical Oncology (8) Stewart (Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center) Students functioning as primary physicians are responsible for the workups and daily care of patients receiving marrow transplants, high-dose chemotherapy or immunotherapy on an intensive-care research ward. Emphasis is on the management and supportive care of patients with pancytopenia and immunosuppression, transplantation biology, cancer chemotherapy, and infectious disease problems. Prerequisite: MED 665. (Four weeks.) Offered: AWSpS.

MED 644 P-Management of Sexually Transmitted Diseases (2) Golden, Handsfield

Instruction and clinical experience in diagnosis, treatment, management, and patient counseling of sexually transmitted diseases. Instruction in genitourinary physical examination skills; relevant laboratory techniques and management of patients with STDs. Prior to the elective, each student must review a packet of didactic materials. Prerequisite: MED 665, SURG 665, and OB GYN 665. Offered: AWPSP.

MED 650 P-Advanced Medical Genetics (*, max. 5) Jarvik, Horwitz, Stamatoyannopoulos Summer course intended for third-year students who would like to increase their background in specific areas of medical genetics. Involves seeing patients with the instructor, reviewing the literature, analyzing clinical information, and writing a review on a selected topic. Prerequisite: HUBIO 554. Offered: S.

MED 655 P-Clinical HIV Care (8) Harrington Full-time outpatient and inpatient elective in HIV care for senior medical students. Students see patients for routine care and acute medical problems that do not require hospitalization, as well as provide inpatient consults. Prerequisite: MED 665.

MED 656 P-Clinical Nutrition (8) Bruemmer, Purnell, Weigle Instruction in nutritional assessment and care of both inpatients and outpatients. Students work with preceptors at a variety of hospital and clinic teaching sites, attend nutrition-related seminars, and practice interview skills on standardized patients. Prerequisite: HUBIO 568; MED 665.

MED 660 P-Emergency Medicine Clerkship (*, max. 16) Copass, Strote Clerkship emphasizes the management of ambulatory emergencies, severely injured, and critically ill patients. Requirement can be met at either HMC or UWMC Emergency Departments. Prerequisite: FAMED; MED; OB/GYN; PEDS; PBSCI; and SURG required clerkships.

MED 661 Emergency Medicine Elective (8) Basics of emergency medicine, including the primary survey, secondary survey, and approach to the critically ill patient. Students supervised by emergency boarded staff physicians at Madigan Army Medical Center Emergency Department. Prerequisite: basic clerkship in medicine, surgery, obstetrics, or pediatrics.

MED 665 P-Clinical Clerkship (*, max. 24) Paauw Third-year medical students assume increasing responsibility for care of hospitalized patients in a teaching-hospital setting and participate in a four-week outpatient experience emphasizing continuity of care. Daily rounds with resident and attending physicians, with lectures and conferences. Progress evaluated by supervising physicians and a written examination. (Twelve weeks, full-time.) Offered: AWPSP.

MED 666 P-Advanced Clinical Clerkship in Internal Medicine-WWAMI (12) Paauw Advanced clinical clerkship in internal medicine in three small urban communities. Supervised, structured experience in dealing with situations commonly encountered by the practicing internist. Continuity of care and the relationship between care given in the ambulatory setting and in the hospital, as well as by other community health services, is emphasized. Prerequisite: MED 665. (Six weeks, full time. Limit: six students.) Offered: AWPSP.

CONJ 677 P-Clinical Allergy and Immunology (*, max. 12) Henderson See Conjoint Courses.

MED 678 P-Clinical Dermatology (8) Olerud Participation in dermatology clinics and inpatient consultations at University of Washington Medical Center; Harborview Medical Center; Children's Hospital Medical Center; Seattle V.A. Hospital; Meridian, Idaho; Caspeter, Wyoming; and Bellingham, Washington. Journal club and clinical conferences each week with entire staff. A continuing series of teaching seminars and weekly dermatopathology conferences. Prerequisite: MED 665. (Four weeks.) Offered: AWPSP.

MED 679 P-Clinical Gastroenterology (8) Lee, Novan (Sacred Heart Spokane) Participation in consulting ward rounds, procedures, conferences, and selected clinics with full-time divisional staff at University and Veterans Administration hospitals, and at Pacific and Harborview medical centers, plus directed tutorial work. Prerequisite: MED 665. (Four weeks, full-time.) Offered: AWPSP.

MED 680 P-Rheumatology (8) Elkon Full-time inpatient-outpatient clerkship in rheumatology. Clinical experience provided in diagnosis and treatment of rheumatic diseases, utilizing outpatient clinics and hospitalized patients at the University of Washington Medical Center, Harborview Medical Center, or VAMC. Emphasis on concepts in pathophysiology, diagnosis, and treatment of these diseases. In addition to patient contact, reading, seminars, and preceptorial sessions are the methods of instruction. Prerequisite: MED 665. Offered: AWPSP.

MED 681 P- Dermatologic Surgery (8) Dermatologic surgery elective for senior medical students. Instruction in Mohs surgery, conventional skin surgery, cosmetic procedures, wound healing and closure, and intraoperative and postoperative patient management. Prerequisite: MED 665.

MED 682 P-Clinical Cardiology and Electrocardiography (8) Caldwell (Seattle V.A. Hospital), Corson (Harborview Medical Center), Herzog (Anchorage Veterans Administration Hospital), Mascette (Madigan Hospital Medical Center), Novan (Sacred Heart, Spokane), Otto (University of Washington Medical Center) Clerkship in clinical cardiology-combined inpatient-outpatient assignments, ECG interpretation. Prerequisite: MED 665. (Four weeks.) Offered: AWPSP.

MED 683 P-Clinical Respiratory Disease and Critical Care Medicine (8) Lakshminahrayan (Seattle V.A. Hospital), Pierson (Harborview Medical Center), Roth (Madigan) Thompson (Boise Veterans Administration Medical Center), Tonelli (University of Washington Medical Center) Training in respiratory disease diagnosis and pulmonary therapy, with special emphasis on cardiopulmonary function testing and interpretation. Inpatient and outpatient teaching rounds, conferences, and basic science integration. Prerequisite: MED 665. (Four weeks.) Offered: AWPSP.

MED 684 P-Clinical Hematology/Oncology (8) Abkowitz (University of Washington Medical Center), Broudy (Harborview Medical Center), Collins (Boise Veterans Administration Medical Center), Roth (Seattle V.A. Hospital), Zuckerman (Boise Veterans Administration Medical Center) Outpatient and inpatient experience with hematologic/oncologic disorders. The elective includes teaching rounds, conferences, and evaluation of laboratory work. Prerequisite: MED 665. (Four weeks.) Offered: AWPSP.

MED 685 P-Clinical Genetics (*, max. 24) Bird, Byers, Motulsky, Stamatoyannopoulos Full-time clinical clerkship in medical genetics. Provides extensive exposure to variety of genetic diseases and genetic counseling. Students work in three clinics (Monday, Tuesday, Thursday), response to in-house consultation requests, attend rounds at Children's Hospital and Medical Center and University of Washington Medical Center and seminars at University of Washington Medical Center (Wednesday, Friday). Prerequisite: MED 665. Offered: AWPSP.

MED 686 Medical Consultation (8) Hamlin Full-time outpatient and inpatient elective in peri-operative medical consultation for senior medical students. Students see patients in the medical consultation clinic, then follow them daily when they come in for surgery. Prerequisite: MED 665. Offered: AWPSP.

MED 688 P-Ward Medicine Subinternship (*, max. 24) Harvey (Anchorage), R. Jones (Madigan Hospital Medical Center), McGee (Veterans Administration Medical Center), Paauw (University of Washington Medical Center), Schoene (Providence), Sheffield (Harborview Medical Center) Students act in the capacity of interns on the medical wards under supervision of house staff and visiting physicians. They attend all regular medicine rounds and conferences as their schedules permit. Prerequisite: MED 665. (Four or six weeks.) Offered: AWPSP.

MED 689 P-Clinical Infectious Diseases (8) Stamm (University of Washington Medical Center) Students participate in the consulting service throughout the hospital, attend daily plate rounds, conferences, and seminars. (Four weeks.) Corey (Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center), Holmes (Harborview Medical Center), Miller (Seattle V.A. Hospital), Morris (Madigan Army Medical Center), Novan (Spokane), Stevens (Boise Veterans Administration Hospital). Participate in consulting service throughout hospital to learn microbiological aspects of infectious diseases through the clinical laboratories. Prerequisite: MED 665. (Four weeks.) Offered: AWPSP.

MED 690 P-Cardiology Subinternship (8) Otto (University of Washington Medical Center) Students act in the capacity of interns on the cardiology service under the supervision of house officer. Prerequisite: MED 665. (Four weeks.) Offered: AWPSP.

MED 691 P-Primary Care (8/12) Paauw Six-week, full-time ambulatory care block in primary care internal medicine. Students participate in several clinics at University of Washington Medical Center following a panel of patients in medicine, rheumatology, and virology clinics. Prerequisite: MED 665 and permission of instructor. Offered: AWPSP.

MED 692 P-Clinical Endocrinology and Metabolism (*, max. 12) Weigle (Seattle-based program); Bunner (Madigan) Clerkship in clinical endocrinology and metabolism combined inpatient and outpatient assignments at selected hospitals. Prerequisite: MED 665. Offered: AWPSP.

MED 693 P-Nephrology and Fluid Balance (8)
Couser (University of Washington Medical Center), Narasimhan (Boise Veterans Administration Hospital), Novan (Spokane Sacred Heart), Sherrard (Seattle V.A. Hospital), Zager (Harborview Medical Center) Students see clinical nephrologic problems under close supervision, participate in nephrology and transplant rounds, see consults with renal fellow and attending, and work up patients in renal clinics, participate in seminars with clerks from all three hospitals. Prerequisite: MED 665. (Four weeks.) Offered: AWPSP.

MED 694 P-Harborview Evening Clinic (2)
Assefi A longitudinal elective for senior medical students who assume primary responsibility for a panel of medical patients in an outpatient clinic. Direct care of patients is supplemented by didactic sessions dealing with issues in ambulatory care. Students are strongly encouraged to participate for four quarters. Prerequisite: MED 665 and permission of instructor. Offered: AWPSP.

MED 695 P-Clinical Aspects of Aging (8)
Abrass, Hazzard (Harborview Long Term Care Service, Harborview Medical Center, and Seattle V.A. Medical Center), Cusak (Boise V.A. Medical Center) Work with elderly patients as subintern with Senior Care Program. Inpatient and ambulatory setting in nursing homes and patients' homes. Interdisciplinary approach. Prerequisite: MED 665. Offered: AWPSP.

MED 697 P-Medicine Special Electives (*, max. 24) Paauw Special clerkship, externship, or research opportunities that can at times be made available at institutions other than University of Washington. Faculty can advise students of opportunities. Students wishing to elect this course should obtain from Dean's office a special assignment form at least three months before preregistration. Prerequisite: permission of department. (Two, four, six, or twelve weeks.) Offered: AWPSP.

MED 699 P-WWAMI Medicine Special Electives (*, max. 24) By special arrangement for qualified students, special clerkships or externships may be available at institutions other than the University of Washington located within the WWAMI region. Prerequisite: permission of department.

Microbiology

MICROM 101 Microbes and Society (5) NW
Anderson, Brill Intended for liberal arts majors and students not majoring in the biological sciences. Focuses on activities of bacteria, viruses, and other microorganisms, and their influence on humans. Microbe-related topics include disease, bioterrorism, food, biotechnology, and ecology. Examines the nature of scientific inquiry, along with major biological concepts. Offered: W.

MICROM 301 General Microbiology (3) NW
Anderson, Lara, Nester Acquaints students with microorganisms and their activities. Topics include microbial cell structure and function, metabolism, microbial genetics, and the role of microorganisms in disease, immunity, and other selected applied areas. Prerequisite: either CHEM 120, CHEM 140, CHEM 142, or CHEM 145; recommended: biology; organic chemistry. Offered: ASP.

MICROM 302 General Microbiology Laboratory (2) NW
Anderson, Chandler, Gray Laboratory course primarily for students taking 301. Covers a variety of microbiological techniques, with experiments designed to illustrate major concepts of bacteriology, virology, and immunology. No auditors. Recommended: MICROM 301 which may be taken concurrently. Offered: ASP.

MICROM 402 Fundamentals of General Microbiology Laboratory (3) NW
Fulton, Gray Isolation of a broad range of nonpathogenic bacteria from natural sources, using selective and enrichment techniques, with microscopic, biochemical, and molecular identification. Related exercises include genetics, physiology, quantitation, and growth energetics. Prerequisite: either BIOL 200 or BIOL 201; recommended: MICROM 410 which may be taken concurrently. Offered: ASP.

MICROM 410 Fundamentals of General Microbiology I (3) NW
Lara, Traxler Survey of the microbial world, metabolism, biosynthesis, regulation, growth, structure, and function. Required for students majoring in microbiology; recommended for students majoring in biology. Prerequisite: either BIOL 200 or BIOL 201; either CHEM 223, CHEM 237, or CHEM 335. Offered: A.

MICROM 411 Gene Action (5) NW
Gray, Libby, Manoil Molecular genetics: description of fundamental genetic processes such as mutation, repair, genetic exchange, recombination, and gene expression. Use of genetic strategies to analyze complex biological processes. Focuses on prokaryotic organisms. Prerequisite: either BIOL 200 or BIOL 201; either CHEM 223, CHEM 237, or CHEM 335. Offered: jointly with GENOME 411; W.

MICROM 412 Fundamentals of General Microbiology III (3) NW
Leigh Structure, biochemical properties, and genetics of the major groups of prokaryotes. Prerequisite: either BIOL 200, BIOL 201, or BIOL 203; recommended: either CHEM 223, CHEM 237, or CHEM 335; MICROM 410. Offered: Sp.

MICROM 431 Prokaryotic Recombinant DNA Techniques (3) NW
Anderson, Chandler Laboratory course emphasizing concepts and techniques/methodologies in recombinant DNA research employing bacteria and their viruses. Topics and experiments/demonstrations include genomic and plasmid DNA isolation, restriction mapping, cloning, transposon mutagenesis, sequencing, and Western and Southern blotting. No auditors. Prerequisite: either BIOL 200, BIOL 201, or MICROM 301. Offered: W.

MICROM 435 Microbial Ecology (3) NW
Staley Consideration of the various roles that microorganisms, particularly bacteria and cyanobacteria, play in environmental processes. The interrelationships among microorganisms and the effects of the physical, chemical, and biological properties of their environment are discussed and assessed. Prerequisite: either BIOL 180, BIOL 201, or BIOL 203. Offered: even years; Sp.

MICROM 440 Introductory Bacteriology for Medical Technologists (1) NW
Anderson Limited introduction to basic microbiology, with focus on structure, metabolism, and genetics of medically important organisms. Open only to medical technology students. Credit/no credit only. Offered: A.

MICROM 441 Introduction to Immunology (4) NW General properties of immune responses; cells and tissues of immune system; lymphocyte activation and specificity; effector mechanisms; immunity to microbes; immunodeficiency and AIDS; autoimmune diseases; transplantation. Prerequisite: either BIOL 220 or BIOL 202; recommended: either GENET 371, GENET 372, BIOC 405, or BIOC 440. Offered: jointly with IMMUN 441; A.

MICROM 442 Medical Bacteriology (3) NW
Cookson, Fulton Medically important bacterial pathogens are discussed in terms of the clinical, therapeutic, and epidemiological aspects of diseases caused by them, molecular mechanisms of pathogenesis and their identification in the clinical laboratory. Laboratory course 443 coordinates. Prerequisite: either BIOL 200 or BIOL 201; recommended: MICROM 410; MICROM 441. Offered: W.

MICROM 443 Medical Microbiology Laboratory (3) NW
Anderson, Chandler, Fulton Required for medical technology students, microbiology majors; elective for medical students. Procedures for isolation and identification of pathogenic bacteria, testing their susceptibility to antibiotics. No auditors. Prerequisite: either BIOL 200 or BIOL 201; recommended: MICROM 410. Offered: AW.

MICROM 444 Medical Mycology and Parasitology (4) NW
Anderson, Fulton, Schmer, White Consideration of medically important fungi and parasites, with emphasis on their biology in relation to disease and its laboratory diagnosis. For medical technology students, microbiology majors, and medical students as an elective. Prerequisite: either BIOL 200 or BIOL 201; recommended: immunology. Offered: Sp.

MICROM 445 Medical Virology (2) NW
Lagunoff An introductory course emphasizing basic understanding of medical virology and viral pathogenesis. The biochemical, replication, host-parasite relationships and pathogenesis of animal viruses are examined. Prerequisite: either BIOL 180, BIOL 200, or BIOL 201; Sp.

MICROM 450 Molecular Biology of Viruses (3) NW
Champoux Introduction to the molecular biology of viruses and virus-host relationships. Designed for advanced undergraduates and graduate students in the biological sciences. Coverage includes bacterial and animal viruses, with an emphasis on the molecular mechanisms of viral gene expression and regulation. Prerequisite: either BIOL 200 or BIOL 201; recommended: MICROM 410, MICROM 411, GENET 371, or GENET 372. Offered: W.

MICROM 482 Peer Teaching Assistants in Microbiology (1-5, max. 10) Direct experience in teaching a microbiology laboratory class. Peer TAs attend concurrent accompanying lecture course, meet weekly to coordinate, give introductory lab remarks, supervise the execution of lab exercises, and assist in preparing/grading of quizzes/exams. Training in teaching techniques, approaches. Student evaluation provided. CR/NC only. Prerequisite: MICROM 402; MICROM 410. Offered: AWPSP.

MICROM 490 Aquatic Microbiology (3/5) NW
Herwig Basic principles of aquatic microbiology and aquatic microbial ecology: role and identity of aquatic microorganisms; introduction to modern methodologies for research. Laboratory work with local freshwater and marine samples for those enrolled in the five-credit section.

Recommended: 15 credits of biological science, 10 credits of chemistry. Offered: jointly with FISH 490; Sp, odd years.

MICROM 495 Honors Undergraduate Research (*) Leigh Specific problems in microbiology or immunology. Offered: AWSpS.

MICROM 496 Undergraduate Library Research (2) An introduction to library research techniques and to microbiological literature. Staff assign a topic and supervise the project. Offered: AWSpS.

MICROM 499 Undergraduate Laboratory Research (*) Leigh Specific problems in microbiology or immunology. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

MICROM 500 Introduction to Research (*, max. 20) Introduction to research areas of the faculty and the techniques employed in their investigations. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in microbiology or permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

MICROM 510 Physiology of Bacteria (3) Harwood Topics of current interest concerning the molecular biology and physiology of bacteria. Prerequisite: MICROM 410 and BIOC 440, 441, and 442, or permission of instructor. Offered: odd years; W.

MICROM 520 Seminar (1) Leigh Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

MICROM 522 Current Research in Microbiology (1) Champoux Weekly student and faculty seminar presentations based on the current literature. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in microbiology. Offered: AWSp.

MICROM 526 Research of Cell Surface Problems (1) Traxler Weekly research seminar and discussion of scientific literature pertaining to the process of membrane protein biogenesis. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

MICROM 529 Mechanisms of Bacterial Pathogenesis (1) Fang Student and faculty seminar presentations based on current research pertaining to mechanisms of bacterial pathogenesis at the molecular and cellular levels. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in microbiology. Offered: AWSp.

MICROM 530 Evolution of Prokaryotic Diversity (3) Leigh Evolution, diversity, and genomics of prokaryotic microorganisms. Lectures, discussions, and reading of current literature. Open to graduate students in the biological sciences and advanced undergraduates with permission of instructor. Offered: even years; W.

MICROM 531 Prokaryotic Diversity and Evolution Laboratory (2) Leigh Enrichment, isolation, and molecular phylogenetic characterization of selected prokaryotic organisms. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: even years; W.

MICROM 532 Seminar in General Microbiology (1, max. 15) Leigh Weekly seminar concerning research topics in the genetics and biochemistry of selected bacteria. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: MICROM 410, permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

MICROM 533 Herpesvirus Research Meeting (1) Lagunoff Weekly research seminar and discussion of scientific literature pertaining to the study of molecular virology of Kaposi's Sarcoma-associated herpesvirus. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

MICROM 534 Research Seminar in Salmonella Pathogenesis (1) Fang Provides a formal group setting for discussion and evaluation of a student's research progress. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

MICROM 553 Molecular Mechanisms of Bacterial Pathogenesis (3) Collins Mechanisms of bacterial pathogenesis explored at the molecular, genetic, and cellular levels through selected models as presented in the current scientific literature. Prerequisite: MICROM 411 or equivalent. Offered: odd years; A.

MICROM 554 Seminar in Molecular and Medical Microbiology (1, max. 15) Collins, Cookson Weekly one-hour seminar in which recent advances in molecular biology of microbial pathogenesis or the current research of the participants is presented and discussed critically. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

MICROM 555 Advanced Clinical Microbiology (2.5) Limaye Attendance at daily plate rounds of the Division of Clinical Microbiology. Designed to increase understanding of clinical microbiological work and its application to the care of the patient. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: MICROM 443 and permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

MICROM 560 Research and Journal Club in Retrovirology (1) Linial Weekly research seminar and discussion of literature in areas of retroviral replication and transformation. Prerequisite: graduate or permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

MICROM 562 Oncogene and Retrovirus Research Seminar (1) Linial, Overbaugh Weekly discussions of ongoing research related to retroviral replication, retroviral oncogenes and pathology. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

MICROM 563 Research Seminar in Mycobacterial Pathogenesis (1) Ramakrishnan. Discussion of research topics in the study of the pathogenesis of tuberculosis and the microbial and host factors contributing to this complex infection. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

MICROM 585 Research in Cell and Molecular Biology (1, max. 15) Champoux Weekly research seminar. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

MICROM 588 Research in Applied Microbiology (1) Lidstrom Weekly research seminar and discussion of scientific literature pertaining to applied microbiology. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with CHEM E 588; AWSpS.

MICROM 599 Research Presentations (2) Current research review. Credit/no credit only.

MICROM 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

MICROM 700 Master's Thesis (*) Credit/no credit only.

MICROM 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

Neurological Surgery

NEUR S 498 Undergraduate Thesis (*) Avellino, Bobola, D'Ambrosio, Ellenbogen, Horner, Moroud, Morrison, Rostomily, Silber Offered: AWSpS.

NEUR S 499 Undergraduate Research (*) Avellino, Bobola, D'Ambrosio, Ellenbogen, Horner, Moroud, Morrison, Rostomily, Silber Investigation of special problems as an intimate member of the research team in the neurological surgery laboratories. Research to lead to a thesis, if desired. List of projects available on request. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

NEUR S 505 P-Preceptorship in Academic Neurosurgery (1) Avellino, Britz, Ellenbogen, Goodkin, Kliot, J. Ojemann, Rostomily, Sekar, Silbergeld Opportunity for first- and second-year medical students to observe the research, teaching, and patient-care activities of academic neurosurgery. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

NEUR S 542 Clinical and Basic Research Correlates of Epilepsy (2) Avellino, G. Ojemann, J. Ojemann, Silbergeld Clinical symptoms and treatment of epilepsy; related basic research in neuroanatomy, neurophysiology, neuropsychology, and neuropharmacology of epilepsy. Prerequisite: HUBIO 532 for medical students; permission of instructor for others.

NEUR S 680 P-Neurological Surgery Clerkship (*, max. 8) Avellino, Ellenbogen Student serves clinical clerkship as an intimate member of the staff, participating in inpatient and outpatient care, both preoperative and postoperative, involving neurological surgery patients. University of Washington Medical Center or a University-affiliated hospital may be selected, subject to approval of the department. Prerequisite: HUBIO 563. (Four weeks.) Offered: AWSpS.

NEUR S 697 P-Neurological Surgery Special Electives (*, max. 24) Avellino, Ellenbogen By specific arrangement, for qualified students, special clerkship, externship, or research opportunities can be made available at institutions other than the University of Washington. Students wishing to elect this course should obtain from the Dean's office a special assignment form at least one month before preregistration. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

NEUR S 699 P-WWAMI Neurological Surgery Special Electives (*, max. 24) Avellino, Ellenbogen By special arrangement for qualified students, special clerkships or externships may be available at institutions other than the University of Washington located within the WWAMI region. Prerequisite: permission of department.

Neurology

NEURL 495 Community Rehabilitation of the Neurologically Impaired: Internship (*, max. 5) Fraser, Clemmons Supervised work with a neurologically disabled vocational rehabilitation population within a multidisciplinary vocational rehabilitation unit. Offered: AWSpS.

NEURL 499 Undergraduate Research (*, max. 25) Provides an opportunity to gain research experience and direct participation in clinical or basic science investigation in neurological topics. Offered: AWSpS.

NEURL 505 P-Preceptorship in Neurology (1) Kraus Provides an opportunity for first and second-year medical students to gain personal experience with neurology practice situations by being stationed with carefully selected clinical faculty members in their offices. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

NEURL 536 Topics in Clinical Neurology (1) Spain Lectures on epilepsy, stroke, coma, drug overdose, dementia, headache, myelopathies, infectious disease. Offered: S.

NEURL 555 Frontiers in Neuroimmunology (1) Moeller Current concepts and developments in neuroimmunology. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: either NBIO 301 or IMMUN 441. Offered: AWSpS.

NEURL 559 Neurobiology of Disease (3) Garden, Moeller, Neumaier, Weiss Introduces medically important neurological and psychiatric diseases and experimental approaches to understanding the basis for diseases and their treatments. Covers stroke, epilepsy, autoimmune diseases of the CNS, neurodegenerative diseases, autism, psychosis, anxiety disorders and mood disorders. Offered: jointly with NEUBEH 559/P BIO 559.

NEURL 634 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Anchorage (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Alaska Native Medical Center in Anchorage, Alaska. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 637 P-Introduction to Neurology-Missoula (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Montana Neurobehavioral Specialist in Missoula, MT. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery or pediatrics.

NEURL 638 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Great Falls (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Advanced Neurology Specialists in Great Falls, Montana. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 639 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Neurology Associates, Billings (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Neurology Associates in Billings, Montana. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 640 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Billings Clinic (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Billings Clinic in Billings, Montana. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 643 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Dr. Lyons, Boise (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at the office of Dr. George Lyons in Boise, Idaho. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 644 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Dr. Vincent, Idaho Falls (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at the office of Dr. Stephen Vincent in Idaho Falls, Idaho. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 645 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Dr. Garland, Idaho Falls (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at the office of Dr. Erich Garland in Idaho Falls, Idaho. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 647 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Dr. Lindholm, Boise (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at the office of Dr. Karin Lindholm in Boise, Idaho. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 648 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Dr. Coats, Coeur d'Alene (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at the office of Dr. Michael Coats in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 654 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Dr. Greeley, Spokane (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at the office of Dr. David Greeley in Spokane, Washington. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 655 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Dr. Clark, Spokane (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at the office of Dr. J. Robert Clark in Spokane, Washington. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 656 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Wenatchee (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Wenatchee Valley Medical Center in Wenatchee, Washington. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 657 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Dr. Sloop, Yakima (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at the office of Dr. Richard Sloop in Yakima, Washington. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 658 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Olympia Neurology (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Olympia Neurology in Olympia, Washington. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 659 P-Introduction to Neurology -- NW Neurology, Lakewood (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Northwest Neurology, a Franciscan Medical Group clinic, in Lakewood, Washington. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 660 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Madigan (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Madigan Army Medical Center in Tacoma, Washington. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 661 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Neurology and Neurosurgery Associates, Tacoma (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Neurology and Neurosurgery Associates in Tacoma and Puyallup, Washington. Students will spend time at both clinics. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 662 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Group Health, Tacoma (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Group Health Tacoma Medical Center in Tacoma, Washington. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 663 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Group Health, Eastside (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Group Health Eastside Specialty Center in Redmond, Washington. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 664 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Burien (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at South Seattle Neurology Associates in Burien. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 665 P-Introduction to Neurology -- UWMC (8) Kraus Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology, at UWMC. For third- or fourth-year students. Prerequisite: medicine, or family medicine, or surgery, or pediatrics. Offered: AWSpS.

NEURL 666 P-Introduction to Neurology -- HMC (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Harborview Medical Center in Seattle, Washington. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 667 P-Introduction to Neurology -- VA (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at the VA Medical Center in Seattle, Washington. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 668 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Northwest Hospital (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Northwest Hospital in Seattle, Washington. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 669 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Virginia Mason (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Virginia Mason Medical Center in Seattle, Washington. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 670 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Minor and James (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Minor and James Medical in Seattle, Washington. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 671 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Swedish (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Swedish Medical Center I in Seattle, Washington. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 672 P-Introduction to Neurology -- Group Health, Seattle (8) Provides the medical student with a general understanding of basic clinical neurology at Group Health Capitol Hill Campus in Seattle, Washington. Prerequisite: completion of one required clerkship in medicine, family medicine, surgery, or pediatrics.

NEURL 681 P-Seizure Clinic Clerkship (2.5) A. Wilensky Evaluation and follow-up of patients with seizure disorders. Limited contact with inpatients. Prerequisite: MED 665 and permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

NEURL 685 Epilepsy and Clinical Electroencephalography (*, max. 12) Miller Introduction into epilepsy and the use and interpretation of the electroencephalogram and other clinical studies used to assess it, under the direct supervision of several of the faculty epileptologists and clinical neurophysiologists. Offered: AWPpS.

NEURL 686 P-Clinical Neurology (8) Swanson Clerkship including both inpatient and outpatient experiences and didactic sessions on neurological subjects. Student assigned to one of the affiliated hospitals and supervised by neurology residents and full-time staff. Offered: AWPpS.

NEURL 687 P-Advanced Clinical Clerkship in Child Neurology (*, max. 8) Gospa Advanced course in neurology dealing with neurological disease in children. Supervision by child neurology residents and attending. Prerequisite: NEURL 665, third- and fourth-year medical students. (Limit: one student.) Offered: AWPpS.

NEURL 697 P-Neurology Special Electives (*, max. 24) By special arrangement for qualified students, special clerkships or externships may be available at institutions outside the WWAMI region. Students should obtain special assignment form from the Dean's Office at least one month prior to preregistration. Prerequisite: permission of department advisor. Offered: AWPpS.

NEURL 699 P-WWAMI Neurology Special Electives (*, max. 24) By special arrangement for qualified students, special clerkships or externships may be available at institutions other than the University of Washington located within the WWAMI region. Prerequisite: permission of advisor. Offered: AWPpS.

Obstetrics and Gynecology

OB GYN 498 Undergraduate Thesis (*) By arrangement.

OB GYN 499 Undergraduate Research (*) .

OB GYN 550 P-Voluntary Pregnancy Termination: An Overview of Medical and Social Issues (2) Easterling, Miller A flexible curriculum which allows the medical student to observe in an abortion clinic, read articles and a textbook on abortion. Can be used by medical student as elective credit.

OB GYN 551 Perinatal Care Elective (1) Provide an introduction and overview of perinatal care for first- or second-year medical students with emphasis on late third trimester, labor and delivery, and postpartum. Opportunity to observe the patient-provider relationship. Optional labor and delivery observation. Offered: AWPpS.

OB GYN 579 P-Obstetric and Gynecologic Investigation (*) The investigation may cover any one of the following fields: normal and complicated pregnancy, hormone assays in obstetrics and endocrinology, obstetric and gynecologic oncology, genetics. By arrangement.

OB GYN 590 HIV and STIs in Women and Children (3) Examines the emerging global public health crisis and the plight of women and children with HIV/STIs. Reviews targeted approaches pertaining to women and children and their vulnerability to HIV/STIs. Prerequisite: EPI 511 or EPI 512-513. Offered: jointly with EPI 507; Sp.

OB GYN 665 P-Introduction to Obstetrics and Gynecology, UH-HMC (*, max. 12) Introductory clerkship providing comprehensive medical care and counseling to female patients. Includes management and delivery of obstetrical patients, diagnosis and management of gynecologic diseases, hospital rounds, outpatient clinics, seminars, tutorial, and community health-care agencies for women. Rotations occur at UWMC and Harborview Medical Center. Prerequisite: HUBIO 565. (Six weeks. Limit: four students.)

OB GYN 666 P-Introduction to Obstetrics and Gynecology, Boise (*, max. 12) Clerkship equivalent to 665 offered at Boise, Idaho (WWAMI). Includes experience in several private physician offices. Prerequisite: HUBIO 565. (Six weeks. Limit: one student. Not offered summer quarter.)

OB GYN 667 P-Introduction to Obstetrics and Gynecology, Madigan (*, max. 12) Clerkship equivalent to 665 offered at Madigan Army Medical Center, Tacoma. Prerequisite: HUBIO 565. (Six weeks. Limit: three students.)

OB GYN 668 P-Introduction to Obstetrics and Gynecology, Spokane (12) Clerkship equivalent to 665 offered at Spokane (WWAMI). Includes experience in several private physicians' offices. Prerequisite: HUBIO 565. (Six weeks. Limit: two students.)

OB GYN 669 P-Introduction to Obstetrics and Gynecology, Swedish (12) Clerkship equivalent to 665 offered at Swedish Hospital Medical Center. Prerequisite: HUBIO 565. (Six weeks. Limit: one student.) Not offered summer quarter.

OB GYN 670 P-Introduction to Obstetrics and Gynecology, GH-Central (12) Clerkship equivalent to 665 offered at the Central facility of Group Health Cooperative of Puget Sound in Seattle. Students spend time in delivery room, surgery, and clinic, and have a specific preceptor assigned. Prerequisite: HUBIO 565. (Six weeks. Limit: two students.)

OB GYN 671 P-Introduction to Obstetrics and Gynecology, Anchorage (12) Clerkship equivalent to 665 offered at Anchorage, Alaska (WWAMI). Includes experience in several private physicians' offices as well as Providence Hospital. Prerequisite: HUBIO 565. (Six weeks. Limit: four students.)

OB GYN 672 P-Introduction to Obstetrics and Gynecology, GH-East (12) Clerkship equivalent to 665 offered at the Eastside facility of Group Health Cooperative of Puget Sound in Redmond. Students spend time in delivery room, surgery, and clinic, and have a specific preceptor assigned. Prerequisite: HUBIO 565. (Six weeks. Limit: one student.)

OB GYN 673 P-Introduction to Obstetrics and Gynecology, Military, Madigan (12) Clerkship equivalent to 665 offered at Madigan Army Medical Center. Students spend time in delivery room, surgery, and clinic, and have a specific preceptor assigned. Prerequisite: HUBIO 565. (Six weeks. Limit: two students.)

OB GYN 676 P-Introduction to Obstetrics and Gynecology, Missoula (12) Clerkship equivalent to 665 offered in Missoula, Montana. Students spend time in delivery room, surgery, and clinic, and have a specific preceptor assigned. Prerequisite: HUBIO 565. (Six weeks. Limit: one student.)

OB GYN 677 P-Introduction to Obstetrics and Gynecology, Rock Springs (12) Equivalent of OB GYN 665, offered in Rock Springs, Wyoming. Student rotates among outpatient clinic, labor and delivery, operating suites, and medical/surgical inpatient areas. (Limit: two students.) Offered: AS.

OB GYN 678 P-Introduction to Obstetrics and Gynecology, Billings (*, max. 12) Clerkship equivalent to OB GYN 665 offered at Spokane (WWAMI). Includes experience in several private physicians' offices. Prerequisite: HUBIO 565. (Six weeks. Limit: one student.)

equivalent to OB GYN 665 offered at Spokane (WWAMI). Includes experience in several private physicians' offices. Prerequisite: HUBIO 565. (Six weeks. Limit: one student).

OB GYN 681 P-Gynecological Oncology Subspecialty (8) Experience in reproductive tract malignancy, chemotherapy, and radiation therapy. Student follows selected patients through primary surgery, recovery, and initial adjuvant treatment, as well as continuing treatment in both clinic and inpatient settings. Prerequisite: basic OB GYN Clerkship; permission of departmental. (Limit: two students each four weeks.)

OB GYN 682 P-Antenatal High-Risk Obstetrics (8) Four weeks on high-risk antenatal obstetrics ward and clinic. Students responsible for initial workups, daily laboratory evaluations, continuing care of high-risk antepartum patients. Weekly conference with obstetrics attending; presentation of one or more topics per rotation. Excellent coordination with resident and attending staff required to maintain patient-care continuity. Prerequisite: permission of departmental. (Limit: two students each four weeks.)

Ophthalmology

OPHTH 498 Undergraduate Thesis (*, Kinyoun (University of Washington Medical Center) Thesis-based research in vision and ophthalmology. Elective. Offered: AWSpS.

OPHTH 499 Undergraduate Research (*, Kinyoun (University of Washington Medical Center) Laboratory or clinical research in morphology, biochemistry, immunology, experimental pathology, or clinical studies of the eye and visual system. Offered: AWSpS.

OPHTH 501 P-Ophthalmology Preceptorship (1) Kinyoun Individualized experiences with one or more of the full-time faculty members of the department covering research, teaching, and patient care. Student observes activities in the clinic, hospital ward, operating room, and research laboratories. Prerequisite: first- and second-year medical student standing and permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

OPHTH 681 P-Ophthalmology Clerkship (4) Sires (Harborview Medical Center) Students gain experience in the diagnosis and treatment of common ocular disorders. Basic examination techniques, including tonometry, ophthalmoscopy, and biomicroscopy. Prerequisite: completion of human biology series. (Limit: one student.) Offered: AWSpS.

OPHTH 683 P-Pediatric Ophthalmology Clerkship (4) Weiss (Children's Hospital and Regional Medical Center) Student examines and observes treatment of children with ocular diseases and learns to differentiate trivial from potentially blinding disorders. Programmed text in general ophthalmology furnished. Prerequisite: University of Washington student and completion of human biology series. (Two weeks, full-time. Limit: one student.) Offered: WS.

OPHTH 685 P-Ophthalmology Clerkship (4) Orcutt (VA. Puget Sound Health Care System) Participation in diagnosis and treatment of medical and surgical ocular disease. Outpatient examinations, inpatient surgery, as well as neuro-ophthalmologic, retinal, and glaucoma consultations. Basic techniques involved in tonometry, ophthalmoscopy, and biomicroscopy of eye. Prerequisite: completion of human biology series. (Limit: one student.) Offered: AWSpS.

OPHTH 686 P-Ophthalmology Clerkship (4) Gorman (Group Health Central) Diagnosis and treatment of ocular diseases in outpatients. Weekly assignment to Group Health ophthalmologist responsible for the care of walk-in and urgent patients, which may demonstrate findings pertinent to the future practice of primary-care physicians. Examination techniques, including tonometry, ophthalmoscopy, and biomicroscopy. Prerequisite: completion of human biology series. (Limit: one student.) Offered: AWSpS.

OPHTH 687 P-Ophthalmology Clerkship (4) Kinyoun (University of Washington Medical Center) Diagnosis and management of commonly seen eye diseases. Subspecialty clinics include cornea, retina, neuro-ophthalmology, glaucoma, contact lenses, and strabismus. Student attends regularly scheduled conferences in ophthalmic basic and clinical science. Prerequisite: completion of human biology series. (Limit: one student.) Offered: AWSpS.

OPHTH 688 P-Ophthalmology Clerkship (8) Kinyoun, Werner Four-week externship at Alaska Native Medical Center in Anchorage. Opportunity to learn and practice common eye examination techniques, including slit-lamp biomicroscopy, tonometry, and funduscopy. Patients seen three days a week; two days spent in the operating room. Prerequisite: completion of human biology series, MED 665, and SURG 665; fourth-year medical students only. Offered: AWSpS.

OPHTH 697 P-Ophthalmology Special Electives (*, max. 24) Kinyoun By specific arrangement, for qualified students, special clerkship, externship, or research opportunities can at times be made available at institutions or clinics other than the UW. Students wishing to elect this course should obtain from the Dean's office a special assignment form at least one month before preregistration. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

OPHTH 699 P-WWAMI Ophthalmology Special Electives (*, max. 24) By special arrangement for qualified students, special clerkships or externships may be available at institutions other than the University of Washington located within the WWAMI region. Prerequisite: permission of department. Offered: AWSpS.

Orthopaedics

ORTHP 498 Undergraduate Thesis (*, Eyre) Student works directly with a preceptor in selecting a suitable area for laboratory or clinical research in the area of orthopaedics, and develops a thesis for recognition. Offered: AWSpS.

ORTHP 499 Undergraduate Research (*, Eyre) Investigation of pertinent musculoskeletal problems in the orthopaedic laboratories as part of the research group. Offered: AWSpS.

ORTHP 505 P-Preceptorship in Orthopaedic Surgery (1) Opportunity for first- and second-year medical students to gain experience with clinical faculty members in the community. Students observe general aspects of private practice from a longitudinal perspective. Prerequisite: permission of department. Offered: AWSpS.

ORTHP 585 P-Sports Medicine (2) O'Kane Lectures, patient problem presentations, and seminar discussions to explore impact of exercise and sport participation on various body systems. Includes nutritional concerns, biomechanics of certain sports injuries and cardiovascular, pulmonary, and musculoskeletal concerns. Prerequisite: second-year medical student standing. Offered: Sp.

ORTHP 675 P-Preceptorship in Orthopaedics (*, max. 4) Student spends full time with the preceptor during all his or her working day in order to gain a better understanding of the diagnosis and the management of problems of the musculoskeletal system as seen in the private orthopaedic practice. Prerequisite: SURG 665 or HUBIO 553 and permission of department. (Two weeks, full-time.) Offered: AWSpS.

ORTHP 676 P-Pediatric Orthopaedics (*, max. 8) Conrad, Mosca, Schmale, Song, White Acquaints students with all aspects of musculoskeletal problems in childhood. Didactic conferences and seminars, and opportunities for active participation in both inpatient and outpatient care at Children's Hospital and Medical Center, and correlative anatomy and pathology. Prerequisite: SURG 665 or HUBIO 553. (Four weeks, full-time.) Offered: AWSpS.

ORTHP 677 P-Musculoskeletal Trauma (*, max. 8) Allan, Barei, Beingessner, Bellabarba, Benirschke, Bransford, Chapman, Dunbar, Hanel, Hansen, Henley, Katolik, Mirza Harborview Medical Center. Emergency room, wards, operating room, and outpatient clinics. Instruction in general and special clinics, including hand, hip, foot, and fracture, with emphasis placed on physical examination of the patient. Students take correlative anatomy and pathology. Prerequisite: SURG 665, HUBIO 553. (Four weeks, full-time.) Offered: AWSpS.

ORTHP 678 P-Musculoskeletal Oncology (8/12) Conrad, Weisstein In-depth experience on musculoskeletal oncology service with primary involvement in initial evaluation, staging, treatment, and postoperative follow-up of patients with various musculoskeletal malignancies. Elective involves experience in surgical, oncologic, radiologic, and pathologic principles of managing sarcomas. Prerequisite: basic orthopaedic elective or permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

ORTHP 680 P-General Orthopaedic Clerkship (*, max. 8) Bransford, Chansky Veteran's Administration Hospital: structured to provide a basic education in the fundamentals of the musculoskeletal system. Heavy emphasis is placed on the reconstructive alternatives in the treatment of degenerative joint diseases. Prerequisite: completion of HUBIO series; third- and fourth-year students. Enrollment limited to three. Offered: AWSpS.

ORTHP 681 P- Sports Medicine Orthopaedic Clerkship (8) Green, Larson, O'Kane, Kadel, Teitz, Wahl Orthopaedic subspecialty clerkship at University of Washington Medical Center. Preceptor-based outpatient, inpatient, emergency, or operative orthopaedic care. Students work primarily in one subspecialty area and in one general orthopaedic clinic. For students who plan careers in orthopaedic surgery. Prerequisite: completion of HUBIO series, third- and fourth-year medical students. Offered: AWSpS.

ORTHP 682 P-Outpatient Orthopaedics (8) Outpatient orthopaedic experience at University of Washington Medical Center. Emphasis on physical exam, diagnosis, radiographic evaluation, and non-operative treatment. Rotation through general orthopaedics as well as all subspecialty areas. For students who plan careers in primary care. Prerequisite: completion of HUBIO series. Offered: AWSpS.

ORTHP 684 Disorders of the Spine (8) Chapman, Lee, Wagner Evaluation and assessment strategies of spinal disorders for patients of all ages and a wide variety of clinical conditions including trauma, deformity, degenerative disorders, metabolic, and inflammatory diagnoses. Opportunities exist to participate in outpatient, surgical, and conference based teaching sessions aimed at all experience levels and individualized for practitioners with interest in medical specialties, emergent care, radiology, physiatry, intervention pain management, and surgical specialties. Offered: AWSpS.

ORTHP 685 P-Adult Reconstruction: Total Joint Service (8) Preceptor-based outpatient, inpatient, emergency, and operative orthopaedic care. Students work with faculty in the Total Joint Service which specializes in lower extremity adult reconstructive surgery, including: complex primary hip/knee arthroplasty; less invasive approaches to hip/knee arthroplasty; revision hip/knee arthroplasty; periacetabular and proximal femoral osteotomy; osteotomy about the knee; and hip arthroscope. Offered: AWSpS.

ORTHP 687 P-Shoulder and Elbow (8) Matsen, Warme Preceptor-based outpatient, inpatient, emergency, and operative orthopaedic care. Work with the faculty in the Shoulder and Elbow Service, which provides comprehensive evaluation and management for a wide range of shoulder and elbow problems, including: arthritis, dislocation or instability, fractures, rotator cuff/ tendon tears, joint stiffness, and unsuccessful previous surgery. Offered: AWSpS.

ORTHP 697 P-Orthopaedic External Elective (*, max. 12) Special arrangements can be made for students desiring to take orthopaedic electives at other institutions. Programs generally approved include orthopaedic clerkships at other universities or at large orthopaedic institutes. Prerequisite: HUBIO 553 and permission of department. Offered: AWSpS.

ORTHP 699 P-WWAMI Orthopedics Special Electives (*, max. 24) By special arrangement for qualified students, special clerkships or externships may be available at institutions other than the University of Washington located within the WWAMI region. Prerequisite: permission of department.

Otolaryngology—Head and Neck Surgery

OTOHN 498 Undergraduate Thesis (* ) Rubel, Weymuller Student works directly with department faculty in selecting a suitable area for laboratory or clinical research in the area of otolaryngology, and develops a thesis for recognition. Offered: AWSpS.

OTOHN 499 Undergraduate Research (* ) Rubel, Weymuller Research opportunities offered under direction in the area of otolaryngology. (Twelve weeks.) Offered: AWSpS.

OTOHN 501 P-Preceptorship in Otolaryngology — Head and Neck Surgery (1) Hillel One morning a week for a total of 30 hours per quarter spent observing patient care in either inpatient or outpatient settings at the University of Washington Medical Center; associated readings. Prerequisite: first- or second-year medical student standing. Coordinator: OTOHNS office. Offered: AWSpS.

OTOHN 680 Otolaryngology — Head and Neck Surgery Clerkship UW (4/8, max. 24) Futran, Hillel, Manning, Whipple Introduction to surgical subspecialty of otolaryngology-head and neck surgery. Structured to allow broad introduction to breadth of specialty. Students see patients in clinic, join inpatient rounds, have an opportunity to go to operating room. Rotations at UWMC, VAH, HMC, CHMC, Swedish. Prerequisite: human biology series; recommended: MED 665 or SURG 665. Offered: AWSpS.

OTOHN 683 P-Otolaryngology — Head and Neck Surgery Clerkship Madigan (*, max. 8) (Madigan Army Medical Center) Individual externship training at an outpatient clinic, where visits average twelve hundred per month, supplemented by inpatient assignments. Students may reside at the hospital during externship, using facilities of bachelor officer quarters and hospital mess. Prerequisite: completion of human biology series. (Two or four weeks, full-time.); recommended: MED or SURG 665. Offered: AWSpS.

OTOHN 686 P-Otolaryngology — Head and Neck Surgery Clerkship Greater Seattle Private Practice (*, max. 4) Weymuller Clinical in-depth study for the student whose interest lies in pathology of the head and neck. Reasonable flexibility to arrange course content that provides exposure to all aspects of patient care. Prerequisite: permission of chairman; recommended: MED 665 or SURG 665. Offered: AWSpS.

OTOHN 697 P-Otolaryngology — Head and Neck Surgery Away Externship (8) Weymuller By specific arrangement. Special clerkship, externship, or research opportunities can at times be made available at institutions other than the University of Washington. Students wishing to elect this course should obtain a special assignment form from the Dean's office at least one month before preregistration. Prerequisite: permission of chairman. Offered: AWSpS.

OTOHN 699 P-Otolaryngology — Head and Neck Surgery Clerkship WWAMI (4/8, max. 8) By special arrangement for qualified students, special clerkships or externships may be available at institutions other than the University of Washington located within the WWAMI region. Prerequisite: permission of department.

Pathology

PATH 450 Cell Biology of Aging (3) Martin, Rabinovitch, Wolf Pathophysiology of aging at cell and tissue levels (cell replication limits, telomere shortening, accrual of oxidative damage, caloric restriction effects, loss of postreplicative cells, longevity assurance genes). Proseminar based on student participation. Undergraduate honors students, graduate students with biology, zoology, genetics or medical sciences back grounds. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: W.

PATH 498 Undergraduate Thesis (*) Elective.

PATH 499 Undergraduate Research (*) Elective.

PATH 500 Molecular Basis of Disease (3) Parks Designed for first and second-year graduate students to introduce the concepts of general pathology at the cellular and molecular levels. Offered: W.

PATH 501 Pathology Proseminars (1) Small group discussions and presentations by students based on critical reading of original papers, or on concurrent seminars, in many areas of experimental pathology and medicine. Topic varies by quarter. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

PATH 502 Inflammation and Repair (2) Lecture-seminar; a seminar course dealing with an in-depth examination of the processes involved in inflammation and repair. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: even years.

PATH 507 Introduction to Pathology Research (2) Bornfeldt, Swisshelm Current developments and approaches to investigation of the molecular and cellular basis of disease. Members of the Pathology faculty present and discuss their own research projects. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: A.

PATH 510 Introduction to Pathology Methods (3) Bowen-Pope Laboratory course designed to introduce graduate students to the fundamentals of image analysis, histology, histopathology, post mortem evaluation, surgical pathology, and other methods used to investigate disease etiology, progression, and manifestation in humans and in animal models. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

PATH 511 Topics in Experimental Pathology (1-2, max. 10) Bornfeldt Focus on areas of research relevant to experimental pathology. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

C MED 512 Introduction to the Anatomical Analysis of Animal Disease (5, max. 10) See Comparative Medicine courses.

PATH 512 Molecular Basis of Disease: Death and Repair (1.5) First in a series designed to introduce students to medically important diseases and physiologic processes and experimental approaches to elucidating the cellular processes underlying these diseases. Covers basic cell/tissue processes that underlie normal homeostasis and most disease and, including apoptosis, necrosis, stem cells, inflammation, granulation tissue, tissue regeneration, repair and fibrosis.

PATH 513 Mechanisms of Neurodegeneration (1.5) Introduction to the cellular and molecular mechanisms that underlie neurodegenerative diseases, including introduction to the normal development and anatomy of the central nervous system, a review of epidemiologic, genetic, and clinical research tools used in the investigation of these diseases, and a systematic review of the major neurodegenerative diseases.

C MED 514 Comparative Pathology Conference (1, max. 6) See Comparative Medicine courses.

PATH 515 Molecular Basis of Disease: Atherosclerosis and Myocardial Infarction (1.5) Bornfeldt, Bowen-Pope, Clowes, Dichek, Murry, Raines, Schwartz, Wight Introduces medically important diseases and experimental approaches to understanding the basis for diseases and their treatments. Covers atherosclerosis, including lipids, extracellular matrix, cell signaling, inflammation, and downstream complications such as myocardial infarction and arrhythmias. Offered: Sp.

PATH 516 Molecular Basis of Human Genetic Disease (3) Introduces the underlying mechanisms in human genetic disorders, ranging from the single nucleotide, through genomic instability, and chromosomal rearrangements. Includes tissue and organ specific examples of the manner in which these disorders provide insights into human biology. Offered: Sp.

PATH 517 The Biology and Pathology of Aging (3/4) Wolf Surveys the biology and pathologies of the aging phenomena in multiple species and at multiple organismal levels from whole animals to molecules. Prerequisite: coursework in biology, biochemistry, molecular biology, and genetics. Offered: Sp.

PATH 520 Experimental Pathology Seminar (1) Review of current research in various areas of experimental pathology by members of the department and visiting scientists. Credit/no credit only.

PATH 521 Anatomy and Autopsy (1) Fligner Students view an autopsy, and learn how autopsy can diagnose disease, determine cause of death, and improve patient care. Requirements include orientation session, autopsy, and a Clinical-Autopsy conference. Participants must be free at least one morning per week to attend an autopsy at UWMC. Prerequisite: UW medical students only. Offered: WSp.

PATH 522 Hematopathology Seminar (2) Sabath Identification of normal lymphocyte and bone marrow subpopulations, diagnosis of leukemias, lymphomas, and benign conditions that resemble them. Emphasis on histopathology, cytochemical, immunological, and molecular markers. Clinicopathologic correlation. Offered: jointly with LAB M 522; W; even years.

PATH 530 Human Cytogenetics (*, max. 4) Disteche Sources and methods of preparation and identification of human chromosomes. Molecular structure and mapping of chromosomes. Human cytogenetic pathology: karyotype-phenotype interactions, chromosome breakage, and cancer cytogenetics. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: even years.

PATH 544 General and Systemic Pathology ([2-3]-, max. 5) Narayanan Basic pathologic processes that underlie disease, including cell alterations, genetic and developmental pathology, environmental pathology, neoplasia, immunopathology, inflammation, infection, and systemic diseases. Correlates gross, functional, and biochemical alterations. For first-year dental students and graduate students. Requires reasonable grounding in biological and chemical sciences. Prerequisite for nondental students: permission of instructor.

PATH 551 Experimental and Molecular Pathology (2-5, max. 20) Introduction to experimental pathology. A tutorial course designed to introduce a graduate student (medical, dental) or senior undergraduate to selected methods and problems through literature surveys and/or laboratory experience. Exploration of causes at the cellular and molecular levels in the study of disease is emphasized. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

PATH 552 Contemporary Anatomic Pathology (2-5, max. 30) Schwartz Study of recent developments in anatomic pathology. Subject includes areas of basic science and review of systemic pathology. Recent developments and interpretation of these findings are stressed. For pathology residents, fellows, and trainees. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

PATH 555 Environmental Pathology (3) Monnat, Rhim Modern morphologic, cell biological, and molecular approaches to environmental disease associated with exposure/predisposition. Lectures, seminar discussion, and student presentations. Prerequisite: PATH 410 or PATH 444 or HUBIO 520; recommended: ENV H 514 and ENV H 515. Offered: alternate years.

CONJ 560, 561 Tumor Biology (3, 2) See Conjoint Courses.

PATH 560 Molecular Analysis of Human Disease (*, max. 10) Review and discussion of contemporary research on molecular basis of human disease. Focus on mutational mechanisms, genetic instability, AIDS, and cancer. Students participate in weekly group discussion and work with faculty to select, develop, and present discussion topic. Prerequisite: medical, graduate, or professional standing and permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

PATH 562 P-Cardiovascular Pathology Conference (*) Reichenbach Course consists of two parts: a laboratory review of gross and microscopic cardiovascular pathology of selected autopsied cases followed by a combined clinical (medical and/or surgical) and pathology conference discussing these cases. Prerequisite: HUBIO 540 and permission of instructor.

PATH 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only.

PATH 667 P-Renal Pathology Laboratory (*, max. 6) Laboratory elective for third- and fourth-year medical students. Read current literature, review various renal biopsies and urine sediments, and read standard texts prior to a weekly topic-oriented conference. All students earn 1 credit for one-hour seminar per week. May be taken concurrently with MED 693. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

PATH 680 P-Diagnostic Pathology Clerkship — University of Washington Medical Center (*, max. 24) Swanson Medical student participation in dissection and study of autopsy and surgical pathology cases. Cases worked up under senior staff, including dissection, microscopic examination, and literature review. Attendance at pathology conferences and seminars expected. Prerequisite: third- or fourth-year student standing.

— Harborview Medical Center (*, max. 24)
Deubner.

PATH 682 P-Diagnostic Pathology Clerkship
— Veterans Administration Hospital (*, max. 24)
Thorning.

PATH 683 P-Diagnostic Pathology Clerkship
— Medical Examiner's Office (*, max. 24)
Raven.

PATH 687 P-Diagnostic Pathology Clerkship
— Children's Hospital and Medical Center (*, max. 24)
Patterson.

PATH 688 P-Diagnostic Pathology Clerkship
— Madigan Army Medical Center (*, max. 24).

PATH 690 P-Diagnostic Pathology Clerkship
— Northwest Medical Center (*, max. 24)
Patton

— General Hospital of Everett (*, max. 24).

PATH 697 P-Pathology Special Electives (*, max. 24) By specific arrangement, students can have clerkships, externships, or research opportunities at institutions other than the University of Washington. Students who wish to elect this course should obtain Special Assignment forms from the Dean's office at least one month before advance registration. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

PATH 699 P-WWAMI Pathology Special Electives (*, max. 24) By special arrangement for qualified students, special clerkships or externships may be available at institutions other than the University of Washington located within the WWAMI region. Prerequisite: permission of department.

PATH 700 Master's Thesis (*)

PATH 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*)

Pediatrics

PEDS 498 Undergraduate Thesis (*) Bennett
For medical students. Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 499 Undergraduate Research (*)
Bennett Participation in various clinical or basic research programs in progress, specifically: child development, developmental biology, human embryology and teratology, medical genetics, infectious diseases, neonatology, neuroembryology, cardiology, endocrinology and metabolism, immunology, respiratory disease. Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 505 P-Preceptorship in Pediatrics (1)
Bennett To provide opportunity for first- and second-year medical students to gain personal experience with medical practice situations for pediatricians by being stationed with carefully selected clinical faculty members in their offices. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Enrollment limited. Coordinator: Department of Pediatrics. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 530 P- Homeless Youth and Their Medical Care (1) Bonnar, Breuner Clinic-based setting for seminar and interview practice with adolescents; students learn how to deal with special health problems and other related problems of "street kids" through interviews and observations. Credit/no credit only. Offered: W.

PEDS 611 City Doc FREE-TEEN Clinic (*, max. 24) Breuner, Giesel Participation in a free clinic for out-of-home youth, either Monday or Tuesday evenings. Clinical services include general medical care, with a focus on reproductive health, STD evaluations/treatment, and the impact of a homeless lifestyle on general health. Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 625 Pediatric Emergency Medicine (8)
Elective in Pediatric Emergency Department at Children's Hospital and Regional Medical Center. Students manage patients with the supervision of a Pediatric Emergency Medicine attending or fellow. Includes the opportunity to manage patients with a wide spectrum of disease processes as well as learn key emergency medicine procedural skills. Prerequisite: 4th year medical students who have completed their core pediatrics rotation. Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 630 P-WRITE Pediatrics Clinical Clerkship (*, max. 24) Basic clinical clerkship for students enrolled in the WRITE Program. Prerequisite: completion of basic curriculum; third- and fourth-year students; acceptance in the WRITE program.

PEDS 657 P-Pediatric General Clerkship - Missoula (*, max. 24) General introductory inpatient and outpatient pediatric clerkship. Provides exposure to diverse settings where children receive health services. The six-week experience takes place in three active pediatric practices with appropriate outpatient and inpatient opportunities and at Community Medical Center.

PEDS 658 P-Pediatric General Clerkship - Boise (*, max. 24) General introductory inpatient and outpatient pediatric clerkship. Provides exposure to diverse settings where children receive health services. The six-week experience takes place in three active pediatric practices with appropriate outpatient and inpatient opportunities and at St. Luke's Medical Center.

PEDS 659 Pediatric General Clerkship -- Billings, MT (*, max. 24) Kummer, Starr General introductory inpatient and outpatient pediatric clerkship. Exposes students to diverse settings where children receive health services. The six-week experience takes place primarily in two active pediatric group practices with appropriate outpatient and inpatient opportunities. Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 660 Pediatric General Clerkship -- Cheyenne, WY (*, max 24) Horam Introductory inpatient and outpatient pediatric clerkship that exposes students to environments in settings where children receive medical and health services. The 6-week experience takes place primarily in an active pediatric group practice with appropriate outpatient and inpatient opportunities. Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 661 P-Pediatric General Clerkship -- Anchorage (*, max. 24) McArthur General introductory pediatric clerkship. One-half in hospital setting; one-half in outpatient department, clinic, or private office. Open to all third- and fourth-year medical students. Prerequisite: HUBIO 563. (Six weeks, full time. Limit: twenty-four students.) Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 662 P-Pediatric General Clerkship (*, max. 24) Newman General introductory pediatric clerkship. One-half in hospital setting; one-half in outpatient department, clinic, or private office. Location preferences are considered. Open to all third- and fourth-year medical students. Prerequisite: HUBIO 563. (Six weeks, full time. Limit: twenty-four students.) Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 663 P-Pediatric General Clerkship -- Mary Bridge (*, max. 24) Kodama General introductory pediatric clerkship. One-half in hospital setting; one-half in outpatient department, clinic, or private office. Location preferences are considered. Open to all third- and fourth-year medical students. Prerequisite: HUBIO 563. (Six weeks, full time. Limit: twenty-four students.) Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 664 P-Pediatric General Clerkship -- Pocatello, ID (*, max. 24) Denton General introductory pediatric clerkship. One-half in hospital setting; one-half in outpatient department, clinic, or private office. Open to all third- and fourth-year medical students. Prerequisite: HUBIO 563. (Six weeks, full time. Limit: twenty-four students.) Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 665 P-Pediatric General Clerkship -- Seattle, WA (*, max. 24) Bennett General introductory pediatric clerkship. One-half in hospital setting; one-half in outpatient department or clinic. Open to all third- and fourth-year medical students. Prerequisite: HUBIO 563. (Six weeks, full time. Limit: twenty-four students.) Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 666 P-Pediatric General Clerkship -- Great Falls, MT (*, max. 24) Marron General introductory pediatric clerkship. One-half in hospital setting; one-half in outpatient department, clinic, or private office. Open to all third- and fourth-year medical students. Prerequisite: HUBIO 563. (Six weeks, full time. Limit: twenty-four students.) Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 667 P-Pediatric General Clerkship -- Madigan (*, max. 24) Newman General introductory pediatric clerkship. One-half in hospital setting; one-half in outpatient department, clinic, or private office. Open to all third- and fourth-year medical students. Prerequisite: HUBIO 563. (Six weeks, full time. Limit: twenty-four students.) Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 668 P-Pediatric General Clerkship -- Spokane, WA (*, max. 24) Maixner General introductory pediatric clerkship. One-half in hospital setting; one-half in outpatient department, clinic, or private office. Open to all third- and fourth-year medical students. Prerequisite: HUBIO 563. (Six weeks, full time. Limit: twenty-four students.) Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 669 P-Neonatal Pediatrics-Clerkship (*, max. 24) Loren Participation in the activities in the newborn and premature divisions; ward rounds, seminars, conferences, and familiarization with certain laboratory techniques, particularly those relating to acid-base balance. Prerequisite: PEDS and OB GYN core clerkships. (Limit: two students.) Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 670 P-Pediatric Infectious Diseases (*, max. 24) Smith Students see and work up clinic consultations and present in detail to attending physician. Daily rounds include problem-solving discussions and didactic presentations in broad category of infectious diseases. Opportunity for experience in clinical research and laboratory techniques. Prerequisite: PEDS and MED core clerkships; third- or fourth-year medical student standing. (Limit: one student.) Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 671 Pediatric Endocrinology (*, max. 24) Fechner Focuses on the evaluation of the normal progression of hormone mediated processes in children and the recognition, diagnosis and management of a variety of endocrine problems. Includes participation in clinics, inpatient endocrine rounds and a variety of conferences at Children's Hospital and Regional Medical Center.

PEDS 673 P-Office Practice (*, max. 12) Bennett Opportunity to observe and function in the private office settings of a number of clinical pediatric faculty and to accompany pediatricians as they pursue their daily activities in the community. Prerequisite: PEDS 665. Offered: AWSpS.

CONJ 677 P-Clinical Allergy and Immunology (*, max. 12) See Conjoint Courses.

PEDS 679 P-Clinical Problems in Developmental Disabilities (*, max. 12) Bennett Experience in multidisciplinary evaluation and management of the handicapped child. Student performs pediatric evaluations, obtains appropriate consultations, observes additional professional assessments (e.g., psychological testing), and plans rehabilitation program. Opportunity to provide parent counseling. Prerequisite: PEDS 665. (Limit: one student.) Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 680 P-Pediatric Clinics (*, max. 24) Bennett One to ten half-day sessions may be elected each week for four weeks in the following areas: general pediatrics, endocrinology, neurology, immunology, arthritis, cardiology, congenital defects and retardation, well-child, teratology, adolescent medicine, allergy, cystic fibrosis, hematology, prematurity, neonatology, and poison control. Enrollment limited. Prerequisite: PEDS 665.

PEDS 681 P-Pediatric Genetics (*, max. 24) Raff Clinical focus on evaluation and management of children with genetic disorders. Exposure to genetic counseling, the evaluation of children with hereditary structural defects, and diagnosis and management of children with inborn errors of metabolism. Emphasis on genetic mechanisms that cause human disease. Prerequisite: PEDS 665. (Two, four, six, or twelve weeks. Limit: one student.) Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 683 P-Pediatric Nephrology (8) Symons Four-week elective clerkship at Children's Hospital and Medical Center. Students participate in nephrology and transplant rounds, consult with renal fellows and attendings, and work up patients in renal clinics. Participation in seminars; special course in fluid balance. Prerequisite: third- or fourth-year medical student, PEDS 665, and MED 665 or equivalent. (Limit: two students.) Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 684 P-Pediatric Pulmonary Medicine (8) Redding Respiratory disorders, diagnostic techniques and treatments unique to children in the inpatient, intensive care, and outpatient settings. Application of principles of pulmonary physiology to clinical problems. Students conduct consultations under the supervision of the attending and present a topic of choice. Inpatient rounds and clinics. Prerequisite: PEDS 665, fourth-year medical student standing. (Limit: one student.) Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 685 P-Pediatric Hematology and Oncology (*, max. 24) Geyer One-on-one teaching plus four weekly didactic sessions. Specific training in techniques and interpretation of bone marrow aspirations, intravenous chemotherapy, transfusions, and laboratory techniques of hematologic evaluation. Self-learning programs available. Prerequisite: PEDS 665. (Two, four, six, or twelve weeks, full-time.) (Limit: one student.) Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 686 P-Pediatric Cardiology (*, max. 24) Johnston Emphasis on physical diagnosis and electrocardiography and on clinical knowledge of diagnostic techniques and surgical possibilities for inpatients and outpatients with cardiovascular problems. Opportunity to observe catheterizations and cardiovascular operations. Weekly clinics and twice-daily inpatient rounds. Prerequisite: PEDS 665. (Limit: one student.) Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 691 P-Advanced Pediatric Clerkship (*, max. 24) Bennett Inpatient and/or outpatient experience with responsibilities comparable to intern for patient workup, diagnosis, and care. Available at any one, or combination, of affiliated hospitals, including WWAMI units in Alaska, Idaho, Montana, or Washington. Students interested in this option should make arrangements well in advance of registration. Prerequisite: PEDS 665. (Limit: two students.) Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 697 P-Pediatric Special Electives (*, max. 24) Bennett By specific arrangement, for qualified students, special clerkship externship or research opportunities at institutions other than University of Washington. The faculty can advise of possible opportunities. Obtain special assignment form from Dean's office at least one month before preregistration. Prerequisite: permission of instructor at away site. Offered: AWSpS.

PEDS 699 P-WWAMI Pediatrics Special Electives (*, max. 24) Bennett By special arrangement for qualified students, special clerkships or externships may be available at institutions other than the University of Washington located within the WWAMI region. Prerequisite: permission of department at away site.

Pharmacology

PHCOL 401 General Pharmacology I (2-4, max. 4) Wang Principles governing drug-receptor interactions, dose-response relationships, desensitization, and tolerance. Drug toxicity, allergy, mutagenesis, and carcinogenesis. Pharmacogenomics and DNA/RNA therapies. General pharmacology of drugs acting on the endocrine and vascular systems. For pharmacy students and other undergraduates. Recommend: background in biology, biochemistry, and introductory physiology. Offered: A.

PHCOL 402 General Pharmacology II (3/4) Storm General pharmacology of drugs acting on the autonomic, cardiovascular, and central nervous systems. For Pharmacy students and other undergraduates. Prerequisite: PHCOL 401. Offered: W.

PHCOL 434 General Pharmacology (2) Grubbs, Watson Lectures concerning the action of drugs on physiological and pathological processes with special emphasis on agents of special importance in the practice of dentistry. For dental students. Offered: A.

PHCOL 435 General Pharmacology (2) Grubbs Lectures concerning the action of drugs on physiological and pathological processes with special emphasis on agents of special importance in the practice of dentistry. For dental students. Offered: W.

PHCOL 498 Undergraduate Thesis (*) Offered: A.

PHCOL 499 Undergraduate Research (*) Participation in departmental research projects. Offered: AWSpS.

PHCOL 507 Pharmacology Seminar (1) Presentation of comprehensive reports on recent medical and scientific literature in fields of current importance. Research progress reports, and reports on results of completed research. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

PHCOL 510 Drug Discovery and Emerging Therapeutics (2) Zheng Consideration of the general principles and current approaches involved in modern drug discovery and development, with an emphasis on basic concepts in drug action, delivery, and metabolism. Discussion of novel drug discovery techniques and emerging non-standard therapeutics. Prerequisite: organic chemistry, biochemistry, and introductory anatomy and physiology. Offered: W.

PHCOL 511 Autonomic/Cardiovascular Pharmacology (2.5) Nathanson Consideration of the pharmacology of the cardiovascular and autonomic nervous systems. Emphasizes the mechanisms of neurotransmitter, hormone, drug action at autonomic synapses, and the molecular basis for physiology and pathophysiology of the cardiovascular system. Lectures, group discussion, and analysis of recent research. Prerequisite: organic chemistry, biochemistry, introductory anatomy, and physiology. Offered: W.

PHCOL 512 Neuropharmacology (2) Bajjalieh Consideration of the neurobiological basis of drug action on the central nervous system, including mechanism of action and therapeutic use in psychiatric disorders; neurodegeneration/neuroinflammation; control of neuronal excitability and pain; and drug abuse and addiction. Lecture, group discussion, and analysis of recent research. Recommended: organic chemistry, biochemistry, introductory anatomy, and physiology. Offered: Sp.

PHCOL 513 Endocrine Pharmacology and Chemotherapeutics (2) McKnight Consideration of the pharmacology of endocrine systems including the hypothalamic/pituitary regulatory peptides, glycoprotein hormones/growth factors, peptide and steroid hormones. Basic principles of chemotherapy of endocrine and other cancers, as well as viral and microbial diseases. Lecture, group discussion, and analysis of recent research. Prerequisite: organic chemistry, biochemistry, introductory anatomy, and physiology. Offered: Sp.

PHCOL 514 Current Topics in Pharmacology (1) McKnight Current research related to the mechanisms of drug action presented in a seminar format. Presentations include relevant background material as well as detailed experimental results taken from current research articles. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

PHCOL 515 General Pharmacology Laboratory (*, max. 9) Laboratory course for professional and graduate students who wish to do independent laboratory research under the direction of a specific faculty member. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

PHCOL 519 Introduction to Laboratory Research in Pharmacology (4) Storm On a rotation basis students carry out individual research projects in the laboratories of different faculty members. At the end of each quarter students make formal presentations of their work. For first-year graduate students in pharmacology. Offered: AWSpS.

PHCOL 529 Ion Channel Pharmacology (2) Catterall, Tempel Current topics in ion channel structure, function, genetics, and pharmacology, including consideration of role in electrical signaling in cell membranes and information transfer and processing in nervous system, inherited diseases of ion channels, and sites and mechanisms of action of drugs and toxins. Prerequisite: CONJ 532 and CONJ 536 or permission of instructor. Offered: odd years; A.

PHCOL 530 Neuronal Signaling Pathways (2) Beavo, Pham, Storm, Xia Advanced consideration of the molecular events between drug or hormone binding to receptors and the resulting responses. Emphasizes roles played by signal transduction pathways in regulation of synaptic plasticity, memory formation, neuronal apoptosis and developmental neurobiology. Prerequisite: UCONJ 532 or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; W.

PHCOL 531 Genetic Analysis of Signaling Systems (3) McKnight, Moon Current topics involving signal transduction are discussed with an emphasis on genetic analysis of multicellular systems and creative experimental design. Prerequisite: 9 credits of graduate-level courses in molecular and cellular biology, biochemistry, or genetics, or permission of instructor. Offered: odd years; Sp.

PHCOL 534 Molecular Basis of Addictive Drug Action (2) Chavkin, Mackie, Stella Advanced consideration and discussion of current literature addressing the basis of opiate, psychostimulant, and cannabinoid effects on signal transduction events, electrical activity of neurons, and drip-motivated behaviors in animal models of human drug abuse. Prerequisite: PHCOL 512 or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; A.

PHCOL 535 Transcriptional Control in Human Disease (3) Bomsztyk, Wang Advanced consideration and discussion of the mechanisms regulating transcription/gene expression and of aberrant transcription factors which disrupt this process found in cancer and other human diseases. Prerequisite: PHCOL 512 or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; Sp.

PHCOL 550 An Overview of Faculty Research (1) Wang Reviews research topics currently being studied in pharmacology. Student reads articles published on each topic. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: first-year student standing in pharmacology. Offered: A.

PHCOL 560 Regulation of Cell Function by Cyclic Nucleotide Phosphodiesterases (1) Beavo Discussion of research strategies, methodologies, and literature relating to regulation of cyclic nucleotide levels in the cell. Emphasis on practical problem solving, data analysis, and presentation of methods important to understanding published data and designing new experiments in this area of research. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

PHCOL 561 Molecular Properties of Ion Channels (1) Catterall Discussion of research strategies, methodologies, and literature concerning the structure, function, and regulation of sodium and calcium channels and the mechanism of action of drugs on them. Emphasis on experimental problem solving, data analysis, and presentation. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

PHCOL 562 Regulation of Synaptic Physiology (1) Chavkin Discussion of research strategies and methodologies involved in the regulation of signal transduction and synaptic physiology. Emphasis on practical problem solving, data analysis, and presentation methods important to modern scientific work. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

PHCOL 563 Signal Transduction Mechanisms in Neuroplasticity and Neuron Growth (1) Storm Discussion of research strategies, methodologies, and literature relating to signal transduction mechanisms important for neuroplasticity and regulation of neuron growth in the central nervous system. Emphasis on practical problem solving, data analysis, and presentation methods important to modern scientific work. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

PHCOL 564 Cellular Regulation by Protein Kinases (1) McKnight Analysis of research problems, techniques, and emerging concepts in the study of the function of protein kinases. Emphasis on critical evaluation of research and development of presentation skills. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

PHCOL 565 Intercellular Signaling in Development (1) Moon Molecular genetic approaches to dissecting the roles and mechanisms of intracellular signaling during development. Emphasis on vertebrate genes related to Drosophila segment polarity genes. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

PHCOL 566 Molecular Pharmacology of Neurotransmitter and Neurokinin Receptors (1) Nathanson Discussion of research strategies and methodologies in the areas of molecular neurobiology and signal transduction of muscarinic receptors, G-proteins, and neurokinin receptors. Emphasis on practical problem solving, data analysis, and presentation methods important to modern scientific work. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

PHCOL 567 Mechanisms of Carcinogenesis (2) Xia Lectures/presentations of biochemical and molecular basis of carcinogenesis induced by environmental agents, including approaches to identification of carcinogens. Role of cell proliferation and cell death (apoptosis) in cancer formation and cancer treatment. Molecular mechanisms that regulate proliferation and apoptosis. Prerequisite: ENV H 516, ENV H 405, or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with ENV H 567; A.

PHCOL 568 Pharmacology of Free Radicals (1) Vincenzi Advanced considerations of current literature and experimental design, implementation and interpretation of research dealing with the effects of reactive oxygen species and free radicals on cell membranes and cells. Discussion of the relationships of such phenomena to human disease and the effects of drugs thereon. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

PHCOL 569 Molecular Genetics of Potassium Channel Function (1) Tempel Discussion of research strategies, methodologies, and literature concerning the structure, function, and regulation of potassium channel genes and their role in behavior as studied in mutant mice. Emphasis on experimental problem solving, data analysis, and presentation. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

PHCOL 571 Molecular Mechanisms of Neurosecretion (1) Bajjalieh Discussion of research strategies, methodologies, and literature relating to regulation of cyclic nucleotide levels in the cell. Emphasis on experimental problem solving, data analysis, and presentation. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

PHCOL 572 Transcriptional Regulation of Growth Control Genes (1) Wang Discussion of research strategies, methodologies, and literature relating to proliferative growth control, cellular differentiation, and gene expression. Emphasis on practical problem solving, data analysis, and presentation. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

PHCOL 573 Signaling Systems Linked to Neuroinflammation (1) Stella Discussion of research strategies, methodologies and literature related to neuroinflammation, microglial cell activation, and the cannabinoid signaling pathway. Emphasis on solving practical problem, data analysis, and presentation. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: A, W, Sp, S.

PHCOL 575 Structural Biology of Ubiquitination (1) Zheng Discussion of research strategies, methodologies and literature concerning the structure, function, and regulation of ubiquitin-protein ligases and the mechanism underlying ubiquitination and ubiquitin-dependent proteolysis. Emphasis on experimental problem solving, data analysis, and presentation. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSPS.

PHCOL 576 Pharmacological, Molecular, and Functional Characterization of G-protein Coupled Receptors (1) Hague Discusses research strategies, methodologies, and literature relating to the pharmacological characterization, molecular biology, and functional coupling of GPCRs. Emphasizes practical problem solving, data analysis, and presentation. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Credit no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

PHCOL 577 Regulatory Roles of Ubiquitin in the Nucleus (1) Gardner Focuses on the design and implementation of research aimed at understanding the nuclear functions of the small protein modifier ubiquitin. Strongly emphasizes the understanding of current literature, experimental design and troubleshooting, data analysis, and presentation of experimental results. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Credit no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

PHCOL 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Pharmacology graduate students only. Offered: AWSpS.

PHCOL 700 Master's Thesis (*) Pharmacology graduate students only. Offered: AWSpS.

PHCOL 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Pharmacology graduate students only. Offered: AWSpS.

Physiology and Biophysics

CONJ 401, 402, 403 Human Anatomy and Physiology (4, 4, 4) Linder, Melby See Conjoint Courses.

P BIO 424 Vision and Its Physiological Basis (5) NW Teller Behavioral neurobiology of human vision: color vision, acuity and spatial vision, light and dark adaptation, visual development. Correlation of visual functioning with known optical, biochemical, physiological, and anatomical substrates. Prerequisite: 2.0 in either PSYCH 333, NBIO 302, or PHIL 160. Offered: jointly with PSYCH 424; W.

P BIO 498 Undergraduate Thesis (*) Offered: AWSpS.

P BIO 499 Undergraduate Research (*) Offered: AWSpS.

P BIO 505 Human Physiology (4-) Wordeman Intensive coverage of physiology across the life span through lectures, conference. Includes excitable tissue, neurophysiology, skeletal muscle; spinal reflex; autonomic nervous system; temperature regulation, neuroendocrinology, and reproductive physiology. Required for dental, graduate nursing, and bioengineering students. Also offered for graduate students. Offered: A.

P BIO 506 Human Physiology (-4) Hlastala Intensive coverage of physiology across the life span through lectures, conference. Includes cardiovascular, respiratory physiology renal, body fluids; gastrointestinal, and acid base balance. Required for dental, graduate nursing, and bioengineering students. Also offered for graduate students. Offered: W.

P BIO 507 Cardiovascular and Respiratory Physiology (3) Cardiovascular physiology: the heart, microcirculation, hemodynamics, regional circulation, and reflex integration. Respiratory physiology: the lung, pulmonary circulation, alveolar ventilation, gas exchange, control of breathing, acid-base regulation, exercise. Offered: W.

P BIO 508 Introduction to Laboratory Research in Physiology (2-5) Students participate in the performance of ongoing projects in designated research laboratories. Emphasis is on experimental design, methodology and techniques. For first- and second-year graduate students in physiology and biophysics to provide a basis for future independent research. Offered: AWSpS.

P BIO 509 Neuroendocrinology (3) Steiner Emphasizes the cellular and molecular aspects of several topics in neuroendocrinology, including neuropeptide genes, reproduction, steroid hormone regulation of gene expression, mechanisms of hormone action, endocrine rhythms, and neural oscillations. Prerequisite: either BIOL 201, BIOL 202, and BIOL 203, or BIOL 180, BIOL 200, and BIOL 220; BIOC 440, BIOC 441, BIOC 442 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with NEUBEH 541; W, odd years only.

P BIO 510 Physiology Survey (2) Reading and discussion of the research literature in cellular, molecular, and systems physiology. Students write a critical evaluation of each paper in the manner of a peer review. All three quarters are required for second-year P BIO students. Prerequisite: completion of one year of P BIO graduate study. Offered: A.

P BIO 511 Physiology Survey (2) Reading and discussion of the research literature in cellular, molecular, and systems physiology. Students write a critical evaluation of each paper in the manner of a peer review. All three quarters are required for second-year P BIO students. Prerequisite: completion of one year of P BIO graduate study. Offered: W.

P BIO 512 Physiology Survey (2) Reading and discussion of the research literature in cellular, molecular, and systems physiology. Students write a critical evaluation of each paper in the manner of a peer review. All three quarters are required for second-year P BIO students. Prerequisite: completion of one year of P BIO graduate study. Offered: Sp.

P BIO 513 Practicum in Teaching Physiology and Biophysics (4) Students undertake instructional material development, presentation of materials and develop problem-solving techniques. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AW.

P BIO 516 Physiological Proseminar (7) Hlastala Guided survey of the experimental literature in cardiovascular and respiratory physiology. Course conducted as seminar with oral analysis of assigned papers and topics. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: A.

P BIO 518 Research Topics in Cardiovascular Physiology (1) Feigl Graduate students and faculty members present and discuss current literature and research. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

P BIO 519 Membrane and Muscle Biophysics Seminar (1) Hille Lectures on current research topics in cell membrane function and muscle contraction. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

P BIO 520 Physiology Seminar (*) Selected topics in physiology. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

P BIO 522 Selected Topics in Respiratory Physiology (1-3, max. 3) Hildebrandt Advanced seminar on selected topics, including pulmonary mechanics, gas exchange, lung fluid balance, regulation of breathing, pulmonary circulation, respiration in the neonate, liquid breathing, airway dynamics, lung structure and development, cardiopulmonary interactions, exercise physiology. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

P BIO 523 Heat Transfer and Temperature Regulation (2-5, max. 5) Bregelmann Thermal exchange between the body surface and the environment. Heat production and distribution within the body. Properties of cutaneous and deep temperature receptors. Neural integration and homeothermy. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

P BIO 525 Readings in Advanced Physiology and Biophysics (*) Guided study of the experimental literature of physiology and biophysics. Essays are written and discussed with the staff. Emphasis is placed on critical analysis, accuracy of expression, bibliographical technique, and other factors of good scholarship. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: A.

P BIO 526 Readings in Advanced Physiology and Biophysics (*) Guided study of the experimental literature of physiology and biophysics. Essays are written and discussed with the staff. Emphasis is placed on critical analysis, accuracy of expression, bibliographical technique, and other factors of good scholarship. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: W.

P BIO 527 Readings in Advanced Physiology and Biophysics (*) Guided study of the experimental literature of physiology and biophysics. Essays are written and discussed with the staff. Emphasis is placed on critical analysis, accuracy of expression, bibliographical technique, and other factors of good scholarship. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: SpS.

CONJ 531 Signaling Mechanisms in Excitable Cells (1.5) See Conjoint Courses.

P BIO 532 Discussion in Cell Signaling and Molecular Physiology (2) Discusses fundamental issues in cell excitability and molecular and cellular physiology. Focuses on problem solving and reading from original literature. Emphasizes student participation. Prerequisite: first-year graduate students in neurobiology or physiology and biophysics. Offered: jointly with NEUBEH 532; W

P BIO 541 Motor Systems I: Peripheral, Spinal, and Cortical Mechanisms (3) Binder, Fetz Discussion of research papers on the physiology of the motor unit and the spinal and cortical neurons that control motor unit activity. Prerequisite: NEUBEH 501-503 or permission of instructor.

P BIO 542 Motor Systems II: Brainstem Mechanisms (3) Anderson, Fuchs Critical discussion of research papers and resulting concepts regarding the roles of various brainstem systems in controlling somatic and ocular movements. Each student is responsible for leading the discussion of one topic. Prerequisite: NEUBEH 502 and NEUBEH 503 or equivalent and permission of instructor.

P BIO 545 Quantitative Methods in Neuroscience (3) Rieke, Shadlen Discusses quantitative methods applicable to the study of the nervous system. Revolves around computer exercises/discussion of journal papers. May include linear systems theory, Fourier analysis, ordinary differential equations, stochastic processes, signal detection and information theory. Prerequisite: NEUBEH 501, 502, 503, or by permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with NEUBEH 545;W; odd years.

P BIO 547 Readings in Cell Physiology (2/3, max. 15) Hille Reading and discussion of research literature on excitable cells. Emphasis on membrane excitability, transport, contractility, growth factors, and extracellular matrix. Topics vary. Prerequisite: CONJ 501 or equivalent. Offered: W.

P BIO 550 Biophysics of Calcium Signaling (1) Hille, Santana Introduction to cellular calcium signaling including theoretical and technical issues of calcium signal detection and biological conclusions. Prerequisite: CONJ 531 Offered: jointly with NEUBEH 550; Sp.

P BIO 551 Mouse Models (1) Illustrates the use of transgenic and targeted-gene disruption technologies for developing mouse models of the disease. Introduces the methodology of producing transgenic and knock out mice. Discusses several examples of disease models using the most recent primary literature as a source. Offered: jointly with NEUBEH 551.

P BIO 552 Synaptic Integration (1) Binder, Powers Discussion of recent papers on how neurons in the central nervous system integrate concurrent synaptic inputs. Includes: effects of driving force on synaptic currents, effects of conductances on dendritic properties, transfer of currents from dendrites to soma, and transformation of currents into spike train outputs. Offered: jointly with NEUBEH 552.

P BIO 553 Learning and Memory: Synapses and Systems (2) Jagadeesh, Sullivan Five-week mini-course evaluates the current state of knowledge on the mechanisms that allow people to learn and remember. After introductory overviews of the cellular and molecular mechanisms underlying long-term synaptic plasticity and the multiple systems existing for learning and memory, students choose specific topics for discussion. Offered: jointly with NEUBEH 553.

P BIO 554 Motor Learning: Cellular and Network Mechanisms (1) Fetz, Perlmutter Five-week mini-course reviews the current state of research on cellular and network mechanisms of motor learning. After an introductory overview of behavioral and physiological examples of motor learning in various species and systems, students choose specific topics for discussion, using the primary literature as a source. Offered: jointly with NEUBEH 554.

P BIO 555 Sensory Receptors (1) Detwiler, Rieke Five-lecture mini-course examines how different kinds of sensory receptors detect and respond to different modalities of sensory stimuli. Discussion focuses on the cellular and molecular mechanisms of the underlying transduction processes and the experimental evidence that they are based on. Offered: jointly with NEUBEH 555 systems. Offered: jointly with NEUBEH 556.

P BIO 556 Axon Pathfinding Mechanisms (1) Bothwell Examines mechanisms governing axon growth cone behavior during embryonic development and during regeneration in the injured adult. Discusses approaches employing both invertebrate and vertebrate model

P BIO 557 Ion Channel Gating (1) Zagotta Compares and contrasts mechanisms of gating in ligand-gated and voltage-gated ion channels. Covers basics of ligand gating and voltage gating, kinetic schemes, inactivation and desensitization, gating currents and partial agonists, and ion channel structure. Offered: jointly with NEUBEH 557.

P BIO 558 Concepts and Mechanisms in Mitosis (2) Ashbury, Wordeman Examines how the mitotic spindle organizes and separates duplicated chromosomes during cell division. Overview of spindle components and key mechanistic concepts. Discusses recent or classic papers from the primary literature.

P BIO 559 Neurobiology of Disease (3) Garden, Moeller, Neumaier, Weiss Introduces medically important neurological and psychiatric diseases and experimental approaches to understanding the basis for diseases and their treatments. Covers stroke, epilepsy, autoimmune diseases of the CNS, neurodegenerative diseases, autism, psychosis, anxiety disorders and mood disorders. Offered: jointly with NEURL 559/NEUBEH 559.

P BIO 594 Neurological Study Unit (0.5) Faculty and student discussion of neurological topics illustrated with clinical cases or demonstrations include the following: physiology, neuroanatomy, neurology, neuropathology, neurosurgery, and psychiatry. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite for medical students: HUBIO 532. Offered: AW.

P BIO 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Offered: AWSp.

P BIO 700 Master's Thesis (*) Offered: AWSpS.

P BIO 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Offered: AWSpS.

Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences

CONJ 475 Alcoholism: A Course for Medical Students in the Allied Health Sciences (2) See Conjoint Courses.

PBSCI 498 Undergraduate Thesis (*) Opportunity to complete work on psychiatric research projects or to pursue a specific psychiatric topic in depth, for instance, through library research.

PBSCI 499 Undergraduate Research (*, max. 15) Opportunities are available for participation in a wide variety of ongoing research in the behavioral sciences and clinical psychiatry, or for the development of an individual investigative project under the supervision of a faculty sponsor.

PBSCI 505 P-Psychiatry Preceptorship (1) Combs Opportunity for first- and second-year medical students to gain direct experience with clinical faculty members in psychiatry. Includes opportunities to observe different areas of psychiatry including addiction, child, geriatrics, community, crisis, and consultation. Prerequisite: permission of department. Offered: AWSp.

PBSCI 515 War and Mental Health (1) Examines the impact of war on mental health in both military and civilian populations. Focuses on posttraumatic stress disorder, including assessment, treatment, epidemiology, and neurobiology. Addresses other psychiatric disorders, substance abuse, brain injury, and psychosocial effects. Credit no credit only.

PBSCI 525 P-Psychiatry and the Law (3) Goldenberg Concentration on major issues in psychiatry and law. Outside speakers from legal, judicial, and psychiatric communities. Lectures on assessment in forensic settings, competence to stand trial, and criminal responsibility. Discussions on personality disorders and correctional environments. For psychiatric residents and graduate psychology, psychosocial nursing, social work, and law students.

PBSCI 530 P-Developmental Psychoanalytic Psychotherapy (2) Schimmelbusch Examines how failures of psychological development lead to disorders of regulation of affects and cognition, and how psychoanalytic treatment reinstates normal development. Treatment process viewed from a psychoanalytic and psychobiological perspective. Clinical case discussion integrates theoretical concepts.

PBSCI 535 Modern Concepts of Psychoanalysis (2) Schimmelbusch Examines childhood developmental stages in light of inborn and environmental determinants. Correlates developmental phases with adult personality functioning. Views emotional development from a psychoanalytic and psychobiological point of view. Clinical case discussion integrates theoretical concepts.

PBSCI 546 Psychiatric Epidemiology (3) Vander Stoep Applies epidemiological methods to the study of mental illnesses. Topics include historical studies; distribution of mental illness, classification and measurement; epidemiology of depression; genetic and environmental etiological factors; developmental epidemiology. Prerequisite: either EPI 511, EPI 512, HSERV 591, or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

PBSCI 548 P-Aging and Adult Development (1-3, max. 3) Aging in Western technologically advanced societies frequently involves losses in status, stamina, and economic and social supports. Consideration given to losses among the aged. Students select projects in the area of aging and work at their own levels of expertise and sophistication. Seminar format with guided reading.

PBSCI 560 P-Psychological Interventions for Primary Care Physicians (1) Kent Focuses on the integration of primary care and mental health issues. Reading, lectures, videos, and role plays are utilized to review evidenced-based psychological interventions which can be employed in an outpatient primary care setting. Emphasizes issues of somatization, depression, anxiety, and health behavior change.

PBSCI 591 P-Seminars and Conferences in Psychiatry: Seminar in Clinical Neuropsychology (*) Introduction to neuropsychological studies of brain-behavior relationships. Exposure to neuropsychological assessment procedures and manifestation of neurocognitive deficits in selected mental and medical disorders, e.g., epilepsy, AIDS, sleep disorders, trauma, toxin exposure, vascular disorders, psychiatric disorders. Develop knowledge of neuropsychology.

logical assessment procedures and applications to diverse medical conditions. Prerequisite: psychological assessment experience.

PBSCI 600 Research in Psychiatry (1-15) Independent laboratory research under the guidance and supervision of research scientists in the Psychiatry Department. Faculty permission required. Offered: .

PBSCI 630 P-WRITE Psychiatry Clinical Clerkship (*, max. 24) Basic clinical clerkship for students enrolled in the WRITE Program. Prerequisite: completion of basic curriculum; third- and fourth-year students; acceptance in the WRITE program.

PBSCI 662 P- Basic Psychiatry Clerkship - Missoula (12) Students work at St. Patrick Hospital with adult and adolescent inpatients and in the emergency room for emergent care exposure. Students will have outpatient experience through the Adult Intensive Outpatient program, Pain Treatment Center and in faculty outpatient practices. Didactics include psychopharmacology, addiction, psychosis, mood disorders, child and geriatric psychiatry. Prerequisite: completion of the HUBIO series; third and fourth year students.

PBSCI 663 P- Basic Psychiatry Clerkship - Billings (12) Students work at St. Patrick Hospital with adult and adolescent inpatients and in the emergency room for emergent care exposure. Students will have outpatient experience through the Adult Intensive Outpatient program, Pain Treatment Center and in faculty outpatient practices. Didactics include psychopharmacology, addiction, psychosis, mood disorders, child and geriatric psychiatry. Prerequisite: completion of the HUBIO series; third and fourth year students.

PBSCI 665 P-Basic Clinical Clerkship (12) Dagadakis, McCreery, Mehta Inpatient clerkship in psychiatry. Students have primary responsibility under the direction of attending psychiatrists and residents for diagnosis and care of patients at University of Washington Medical Center, Harborview Medical Center, or Veterans Administration Hospital. Emergency room, crisis intervention, consultation to patients with psychiatric dysfunction. Familiarity with psychopharmacology and short-term hospitalization emphasized. (Six weeks, full-time.)

PBSCI 666 P-WWAMI Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences Clerkship (12) Kletti Rotation aims to increase student's skills in basic psychiatry, social psychiatry, transcultural psychiatry, and community psychiatry. Orientation is around the diagnosis, treatment, and clinical management of White, Aleut, Indian, and Eskimo children and adults in outpatient, inpatient, and community settings. Third-, fourth-year medical students. Prerequisite: HUBIO 563. (Limit: three students.)

PBSCI 667 P-Basic Psychiatry Clerkship, Boise (12) Hines Basic psychiatry clerkship at Veterans Administration Medical Center in Boise, Idaho. Fulfills graduation requirement for clerkship in Psychiatry.

PBSCI 668 P-Psychiatry Clerkship, Spokane (12) Bakker Students work on adult, geriatric, and adolescent inpatient psychiatric units of Sacred Heart Medical Center, following patients after transfer to partial hospitalization or outpatient clinic. Didactics include basic psychiatric diagnosis, treatment, and pharmacotherapy. Prerequisite: completion of HUBIO series; third and fourth-year medical students.

PBSCI 669 Basic Psychiatry Clerkship, Wyoming (12) Students work in the Wyoming Behavioral Institute with adult, adolescent, and child inpatients. Students have some outpatient experience and emergent care assessment experience at the Wyoming Medical Center. Didactics and discussion include topics such as psychopharmacology, emergent care and assessment, diagnosis, and substance abuse issues.

PBSCI 670 P-Clerkship in Consultation/ Liaison Psychiatry UWMC (*, max. 24) Walker Assessment of patients with major psychosocial problems associated with physical disease, including: problems stemming from the way the illness is perceived and experienced, liaison with other clinical disciplines on complex diagnosis and treatment of problems. (Limit: one student; four weeks.) Prerequisite: HUBIO 563; either PBSCI 665, PBSCI 666, PBSCI 667, or PBSCI 668.

PBSCI 671 P-Clerkship in Consultation/ Liaison Psychiatry HMC (*, max. 24) Elliott Prerequisite: either PBSCI 665, PBSCI 666, PBSCI 667, or PBSCI 668. (Limit: two students.)

PBSCI 672 P-Elective Clerkship in Primary Care Psychiatry at Boise VAMC (8/12) Blackburn, Leone, Marsh Assessment and treatment of patients with acute psychiatric problems in a primary care/rural setting. Consultation work on general medicine and surgery; assessment and dealing with outpatient psychiatric problems as they initially present. Evaluations, crisis intervention strategies, and brief therapies stressed. Prerequisite: either PBSCI 665, PBSCI 666, PBSCI 667, or PBSCI 668. (Four to six weeks; UW students only.)

PBSCI 673 P-Outpatient Psychiatry Elective (*, max. 24) Foster Offered at Harborview Outpatient Center. Students function as subinterns, conducting diagnostic interviews, initiating and managing pharmacotherapeutic treatment regimens, and providing crisis intervention, under the supervision of the full-time attending at Psychopharmacology Clinic. Prerequisite: either PBSCI 665, PBSCI 666, PBSCI 667, or PBSCI 668. (Four to six weeks, full-time.)

PBSCI 676 P-Inpatient Clerkship in Psychiatry at American Lake VA (8/12) Chandran For medical students with a defined interest in psychiatry who wish to develop their knowledge and skills in the evaluation, management, and treatment of a wide range of acute and chronic psychiatric conditions requiring inpatient hospital treatment. Prerequisite: either PBSCI 665, PBSCI 666, PBSCI 667, or PBSCI 668. (Four to six weeks, full-time.)

PBSCI 677 P-Alcohol and Drug Treatment Clerkship at American Lake VA (8/12) Lim Student assists in every phase of the substance-abuse treatment, including admission interviews, patient evaluation, problem identification, group and individual psychotherapy, assertiveness training, anger control, human sexuality, medical evaluation and treatment, couples therapy, discharge and aftercare planning. Experience primarily clinical. Prerequisite: either PBSCI 665, PBSCI 666, PBSCI 667, or PBSCI 668. (Four to six weeks, full-time.)

PBSCI 678 P-Clerkship in Psychiatric Long-Term Care and Rehabilitation (*, max. 12) Chandran Two- to six-week clerkship provides learning experiences in rehabilitation of long-term psychiatric patients with medical illness. Multidisciplinary team approach, working with homeless mentally ill. Diagnostic skills emphasized. Spectrum of diseases (cardiovascular, Huntington's, organic brain syndrome) is such that physical rehabilitation is not an emphasis. Prerequisite: HUBIO 563; either PBSCI 665, PBSCI 666, PBSCI 667, or PBSCI 668.

PBSCI 680 P-Clerkship in Emergency Psychiatry (*, max. 24) Gardiner Emphasis on clinical evaluation, acute management, and treatment planning for individual patients. Experience in coordinating these activities with other emergency room personnel, and various hospital and community resources. Emphasis on skills useful to physicians in any specialty. Third- and fourth-year medical students only. Prerequisite: either PBSCI 665, PBSCI 666, PBSCI 667, or PBSCI 668. (Four or six weeks, full-time.)

PBSCI 685 P-Geriatric Psychiatry Clerkship (*, max. 12) Pascualy Two- to six-week elective (four weeks highly recommended). Participation in the evaluation and care of older persons with psychopathology, such as intellectual impairment and depression, in a variety of settings. Emphasis on improving clinical skills regarding diagnosis and treatment of common behavioral problems in the elderly. Prerequisite: either PBSCI 665, PBSCI 666, PBSCI 667, or PBSCI 668.

PBSCI 688 P-Subinternship in General Psychiatry (*, max. 16) Students function as interns under the supervision of house staff and attending psychiatrists. Further development of their diagnostic and therapeutic skills emphasized. Special areas of interest, such as family intervention, substance abuse, psychoses, neuropsychiatry, community psychiatry, administration, research pursued. Prerequisite: either PBSCI 665, PBSCI 666, PBSCI 667, or PBSCI 668; permission of instructor. (Four or six weeks, full-time.)

PBSCI 696 P-Advanced Clerkship in Child Psychiatry (*, max. 24) Varley Provides students an opportunity to participate in evaluation and treatment. Experiences in specialized clinics are also available. It is suggested that the student contact the instructor prior to enrollment. Prerequisite: either PBSCI 665, PBSCI 666, PBSCI 667, or PBSCI 668. (Four or six weeks, full-time. Limit: two students.)

PBSCI 697 P-Psychiatry Special Electives (*, max. 24) By special arrangement, clerkships, externships, and research opportunities can be made available at the University and other institutions. Students obtain permission from Dr. Hunt before obtaining a special assignment form from the Dean's office one month before advance registration. Students contact affiliating institutions. Does not fulfill the requirement for a basic clerkship in psychiatry.

PBSCI 699 P-WWAMI Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences Special Electives (*, max. 24) By special arrangement for qualified students, special clerkships or externships may be available at institutions other than the University of Washington located within the WWAMI region. Prerequisite: permission of department.

Radiation Oncology

R ONC 499 Undergraduate Research (*, max. 24) Douglas, Kalet, Kane, Kelly, Koh, Laramore, Liao, Patel, Phillips, Russell, Schwartz, Wang, Wilbur, Yas Opportunities in clinical or laboratory investigation in radiation oncology, radiation physics, or computer-related research. Student participation in ongoing or new projects. Open to students in the biological or physical sciences.

R ONC 695 P-Clinical Cancer Management (*, max. 8) Douglas Participation in the clinical management of patients with cancer, emphasizing a multi-modality approach. Includes clinical assessment, planning of radiation treatment, and follow-up evaluation of patients. Special procedures include three-dimensional treatment planning, implant brachytherapy and intraoperative radiation. Daily teaching conferences with faculty and residents. Prerequisite: MED 665 or permission of instructor.

R ONC 697 P-Radiation Oncology Special Elective (*, max. 24) Douglas By specific arrangement for qualified students, special clerkship, externship or research opportunities can be made at institutions other than the University of Washington. Students should obtain a "Special Assignment" form from the Dean's Office at least one month before advance registration. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

R ONC 699 P-WWAMI Radiation Oncology Special Electives (*, max. 24) Douglas By special arrangement for qualified students, special clerkships or externships may be available at institutions other than the University of Washington located within the WWAMI region. Prerequisite: permission of department.

Radiology

RADGY 498 Undergraduate Thesis(*) Supervised clinical and/or laboratory research in the broad field of medical imaging, culminating in a thesis. Offered: AWSpS.

RADGY 499 Undergraduate Research (*) Opportunity to gain research experience and direct participation in either clinical or basic sciences investigation in diagnostic and/or nuclear medicine. Offered: AWSpS.

RADGY 505 P-Preceptorship in Nuclear Medicine (1, max. 24) Eary (University of Washington Medical Center) Opportunity for first- and second-year medical students to gain experience with faculty in clinical and academic environments. Students observe general aspects of the Nuclear Medicine Division, including clinical problems, the different relationships in the clinic between physician and patient, and several research aspects of the division. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

RADGY 508 Physical Aspects of Medical Imaging (4) Stewart Quantitative physical principles of medical imaging are presented for electromagnetic and sonic radiation. Methods of image formation and analysis are discussed for conventional film radiography, CT, DSA, PET, B-mode ultrasound and Doppler ultrasound. Offered: jointly with BIOEN 508/ENV H 528.

RADGY 550 Nuclear Magnetic Resonance in Biomedicine (2) Hayes, Kushmerick, Richards, Yuan Basic physics of nuclear magnetic resonance (NMR) imaging and spectroscopy are presented. Research applications of NMR in physiology and biochemistry are reviewed with emphasis on the brain. Grade based on written tests and small research paper. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with BIOEN 565; odd years; Sp.

RADGY 580 P-Nuclear Medicine Technique, Physics, and Instrumentation (2.5) Lewellen Provides familiarization with basic nuclear phenomena and with the instrumentation used in the practice of nuclear medicine. There are discussions and laboratory exercises. Practical experience in instrument operation and sample counting are provided. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: S.

RADGY 693 P-Introduction to Diagnostic Radiology (4) Schulte Half-time clerkship in the field of medical imaging. Lectures, case discussions, film reading, and independent study provide an overview of the subspecialty areas of diagnostic radiology and nuclear medicine. Emphasis on utilization and selection of imaging tests, radiologic anatomy, and interpretation of commonly encountered studies. Offered: AWSpS.

RADGY 694 P-Advanced Clinical Clerkship (8) Schulte Full-time clerkship provides a more in depth experience in diagnostic radiology and nuclear medicine. Required rotations in the subspecialty areas of radiology augment the basic lecture series and case discussions of Radiology 693. For those with a special interest in diagnostic radiology. Prerequisite: permission of instructor and departmental education coordinator. Offered: AWSpS.

RADGY 695 P-Radiology Sub-specialty Elective (*, max. 8) Schulte Clinical rotation in one of the sub-specialty areas of radiology at the University of Washington and affiliated hospitals. Requires special arrangements and permission from a preceptor and the education coordinator in Radiology. Two or four weeks. Offered: AWSpS.

RADGY 696 P-Nuclear Medicine Clerkship (*, max. 12) Eary Daily participation at University of Washington Medical Center nuclear medicine clinic emphasizing technical performance, diagnostic interpretation, and clinical relevance of nuclear imaging. Daily clinical teaching conferences of the division. Four- and six-week clerkships can be preplanned in areas such as pulmonary, cardiovascular, renal, bone, computer analysis. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

RADGY 697 P-Radiology Special Electives (*, max. 24) Schulte Radiologic training in a nonaffiliated institution. Permission and arrangements must be made at the time of registration through direct communication between the student and the education coordinator in Radiology. A written outline from a preceptor at the intended site required. Prerequisite: permission of radiology education coordinator. Offered: AWSpS.

RADGY 699 P-WWAMI Radiology Special Electives (*, max. 24) By special arrangement for qualified students, special clerkships or externships may be available at institutions other than the University of Washington located within the WWAMI region. Prerequisite: permission of department.

Rehabilitation Medicine

REHAB 300 Introduction to Occupational Therapy (1) Rollinger Introduction to occupational therapy profession. Provides historical perspectives, theoretical foundations, and clinical case studies in various practice arenas. Credit/no credit only. Offered: ASP.

REHAB 340 Spinal Orthotics (5) Yamane Instruction and review of anatomy and biomechanics of the spine, patient evaluation, and prescription considerations as related to spinal orthotics. Lectures provide background knowledge of orthotic treatment principles for spinal pathologies. Laboratory experience includes patient evaluation, impression and measurement techniques, fabrication methods, and fitting criteria. Required for prosthetics and orthotics majors.

REHAB 341 Upper Extremity Prosthetics I (4) Okumura Principles of upper extremity prosthetic management and prescription considerations: functional evaluation, preprosthetic care, use of prosthetic components and materials, fabrication, harnessing, prosthetic training, documentation, and billing. Incorporates anatomy, biomechanics, and pathomechanics with clinical experience as they pertain to upper extremity prosthetics. Required for prosthetics and orthotics majors.

REHAB 342 Upper Extremity Prosthetics II (4) Okumura Principles of upper extremity prosthetic management and prescription considerations: functional evaluation, preprosthetic care, use of prosthetic components and materials, fabrication, harnessing, prosthetic training, documentation, and billing. Incorporates anatomy, biomechanics, and pathomechanics as they pertain to upper extremity prosthetics. Required for prosthetics and orthotics majors. Prerequisite: REHAB 341.

REHAB 343 Upper Extremity Orthotics (2-4, max. 4) Yamane Lecture and laboratory instruction in patient evaluation, prescription considerations, componentry, and fabrication procedures for upper extremity orthoses. Required for prosthetics and orthotics majors.

REHAB 400 Medical Science (4) Lectures in fields related to: general surgery, obstetrics and gynecology, internal medicine, neurology, rehabilitation medicine, orthopaedics, psychiatry and behavioral sciences, rheumatology, and pediatrics. Required for occupational therapy, prosthetics and orthotics, and physical therapy students. Credit/no credit only.

REHAB 401 Medical Science (4) Lectures in fields related to: general surgery, obstetrics and gynecology, internal medicine, neurology, rehabilitation medicine, orthopaedics, psychiatry and behavioral sciences, rheumatology, and pediatrics. Required for occupational therapy, prosthetics and orthotics, and physical therapy students. Credit/no credit only.

REHAB 402 Medical Science Laboratory (1, max. 2) To introduce students to the role of allied health professionals in the treatment of pathologies presented in 400, 401 lectures. Credit/no credit only.

REHAB 403 Physiological Principles for Rehabilitation Professionals (2) Slimp Normal and pathological physiology of the cardiovascular, respiratory, and musculoskeletal systems as a basis for evaluation and intervention in occupational therapy, physical therapy, and prosthetics/orthotics. Required for majors.

REHAB 413 Special Studies in Physical Therapy (1-15, max. 24) Theory and practice in specialized areas of physical therapy. Credit/no credit only.

REHAB 414 Psychological Aspects of Rehabilitation (2) I&S Patterson Psychological processes underlying adjustment to disability; application of behavioral/analysis systems in patient therapy management; effects of cognitive or personality deficits on patient performance and treatment strategies. Credit/no credit only.

REHAB 416 Principles of Physical Therapy Administration (2, max. 4) Guthrie The nature of administration, economic trends, operational policy, aspects of supervision, ethical and legal influences applicable to a physical therapy department. Required for physical therapy students. Credit/no credit only.

REHAB 420 Lower Extremity Prosthetics I (8) Abrahamson Instruction in patient evaluation, casting, cast modification, socket fabrication, static and dynamic alignment, alignment duplication, suspension systems, and documentation for transtibial amputation. Required for prosthetics and orthotics majors; others by permission of instructor.

REHAB 421 Lower Extremity Prosthetics II (11) Abrahamson Instruction in transfemoral patient evaluation, casting, cast modification, socket fabrication, static and dynamic alignment, alignment duplication, suspension systems, and documentation. Methods of fitting through knee and hip disarticulation levels demonstrated. Required for prosthetics and orthotics majors; others by permission of instructor.

REHAB 423 Lower Extremity Orthotics I (6) Yamane Patient evaluation and prescription considerations for orthotic management of the lower extremity. Lectures provide instruction in the biomechanics of the lower extremity during ambulation, clinical indications and fitting criteria for a variety of orthotic devices. Laboratory sessions provide experience in fabrication principles, and impression and measurement techniques. Required for prosthetics and orthotics majors.

REHAB 424 Lower Extremity Orthotics II (8) Yamane Orthotic treatment of pathological conditions that affect the knee and hip addressed. Focus is placed on development of prescription recommendation, fabrication, fitting, and follow-up of orthoses that support, assist, or stabilize the knee and hip. Required for prosthetics and orthotics majors; others by permission of instructor.

REHAB 427 Applied Prosthetics and Orthotics I (1-, max. 4) Halner Presentation and discussion of current clinical practice using research and journal articles and case presentations. Required for prosthetics and orthotics majors; others by permission of instructor. Credit/no credit only.

REHAB 428 Applied Prosthetics and Orthotics II (1-4, max. 13) Experience in patient management under the preceptorship of certified practitioners at clinical affiliation sites. Required for prosthetics and orthotics majors.

REHAB 430 Engineering Concepts (2) Okumura Principles of mechanics and strength of materials, force analysis, and hydraulic control in relationship to orthotics and prosthetics design. Required for prosthetics and orthotics majors.

REHAB 442 Applied Kinesiology (4) Guthrie Study of joint motion and muscle function in relation to both the normal and abnormal state, emphasizing gait. Specific techniques employed in the field of rehabilitation medicine are analyzed. Required for Department of Rehabilitation Medicine students; others by permission.

REHAB 444 Functional Musculoskeletal Anatomy (4-) Guthrie Functions of musculoskeletal system as applied to patterns of motion. Anatomy of peripheral-vascular and peripheral-nervous system. Required for occupational therapy students, prosthetics and orthotics students, and physical therapy students; others by permission of instructor.

REHAB 445 Functional Musculoskeletal Anatomy (-4) Guthrie Functions of musculoskeletal system as applied to patterns of motion. Anatomy of peripheral-vascular and peripheral-nervous system. Required for occupational therapy students, prosthetics and orthotics students, and physical therapy students; others by permission of instructor.

REHAB 448 Applied Kinesiology Laboratory (1) Guthrie, Okumura, Powell, Robinson, Rollinger Instruction and laboratory focus on practical experience and clinical problem solving in kinesiology. Potential topics include muscle and joint motion testing, sensory/perceptual assessment, prosthetic and orthotic devices, wheelchair use, gait training.

REHAB 451 Functional Anatomy Laboratory (1) Bennett, Rollinger Study of musculoskeletal, peripheral-vascular, and peripheral-nervous systems from prosected material. Required for physical therapy, occupational therapy, and prosthetic/orthotic students.

REHAB 452 Functional Anatomy Laboratory (1) Bennett, Rollinger Study of musculoskeletal, peripheral-vascular, and peripheral-nervous systems from prosected material. Required for physical therapy, occupational therapy, and prosthetic/orthotic students.

REHAB 476 Prosthetic and Orthotic Evaluation and Use (2) Okumura Instruction in mechanical component substitution for functional losses. Emphasis is on biomechanical principles, prosthetic-orthotic components, and alignment and fitting techniques. Credit/no credit only. Required for physical therapy students.

REHAB 496 Special Topics in Rehabilitation (1-9, max. 14) Guided opportunity for in-depth study in specific areas of rehabilitation. Topics vary.

REHAB 498 Undergraduate Thesis (*) .

REHAB 499 Undergraduate Research (*) Opportunity to design, perform, and analyze research investigation in problem areas in rehabilitation medicine. These include clinical and basic research problems in, for example, head and spinal injury, chronic disease, pain neurophysiology, electrodiagnosis, communication, and bioengineering.

REHAB 500 Clinical Clerkship in Physical Therapy (4) Robinson Observation, instruction, and supervised practice in treatment of patients in diverse clinical settings. Emphasis is given to the application of previously learned material and skills to specific clinical problems. Required for physical therapy students. Credit/no credit only.

REHAB 502 Pediatric Physical Therapy (4, max. 8) McCoy Provides foundational knowledge in development and an overview of pediatric physical therapy practice for children with atypical development. Presents examination, evaluation, and development of physical therapy plans of care for children with various disabilities within the frameworks of family-centered care and disablement models.

REHAB 503 Lifespan III: Geriatric Physical Therapy (3) Matsuda Theory and principles of exercise procedures used when treating the geriatric patient. Includes a discussion of age related changes in the systems essential to movement control; factors contributing to physical disability and frailty with aging; adaptation of assessment and treatment procedures to the geriatric patient. Lectures and laboratories.

REHAB 504 Physical Therapy Procedures I: Assessment (2) Maitland Development of clinical competence in patient assessment techniques from a neuromusculoskeletal perspective. Special emphasis on upper quadrant anatomy, posture evaluation and medical record documentation.

REHAB 505 Introduction to Pharmacology (2) Guthrie Pharmacological survey of drugs commonly prescribed for clients seen in a physical therapy practice setting. Presentations on basic principles. Additional data search and group reports. Overview of medical emergencies. Credit/no credit only.

REHAB 506 Physical Therapy Procedures II: Assessment (2) Development of clinical competence in patient assessment techniques from a neuromusculoskeletal perspective. Discussion of normal and pathological findings. Special emphasis on lower quadrant anatomy, posture evaluation, and medical record documentation skills. Lecture and laboratory format.

REHAB 507 Physical Therapy Procedures III: Modalities (3-4) Principles and practice of physical therapy clinical treatment procedures utilizing therapeutic modalities. Lecture and laboratory format.

REHAB 508 Principles of Therapeutic Exercise (4) McQuade Theory, principles and practice of exercise procedures used for treatment purposes in physical therapy, including motor learning, variables of motor performance, and exercise prescription. Lectures and laboratories. Simulated patient problems.

REHAB 509 Physical Therapy Procedures: Functional Skills Assessment (1) Robinson

Development of clinical competence in assessment and training of basic patient functional skills, including handling techniques, transfers and assisted ambulation.

REHAB 510 Rehabilitation Psychology (2) Pepping Processes and management methods for assimilation of disability, enhancing patient participation in rehabilitation process, and for helping in maintenance of performance; behavioral management and case conference strategies; rehearsal of contingency management techniques. Required for residents; others by permission of instructor.

REHAB 511 Musculoskeletal IV: Clinical Management (5) Physical therapy clinical evaluation and management of patients with musculoskeletal dysfunction. Special emphasis on upper quadrant anatomy. Lecture and laboratory format.

REHAB 512 Musculoskeletal V: Clinical Management (4) Maitland Physical therapy clinical evaluation and management of patients with musculoskeletal dysfunction. Special emphasis on lower quadrant anatomy. Lecture and laboratory format.

REHAB 513 Special Studies in Physical Therapy (1-5, max. 15) Theory and practice in specialized areas of physical therapy. Includes organization and administration of specialized programs, advanced evaluation and treatment techniques, role of the consultant. Credit/no credit only.

REHAB 514 Systems Review for Physical Therapists (3) Maitland Development of advanced physical assessment skills to provide students with the ability to determine if a patient's disorder is within the scope of practice for physical therapy or requires referral to another healthcare provider. Lectures and laboratory format, with an emphasis on the lab component. Credit/no credit only.

REHAB 516 Medical Information for Rehabilitation Counselors (3) Johnson Lectures in medical science field regarding the etiology, prognosis, and physical restoration of common disabling conditions. Case studies are used extensively, and major emphasis is placed on vocational implications of physical disability. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

REHAB 517 Physical Therapy Seminar (2-3, max. 21) Kartin Group seminar format focused on physical therapy topics pertaining to transcurricular and professional practice issues. Credit/no credit only.

REHAB 519 P-Preceptorship in Rehab Medicine (1) Hays Explores the field of physical medicine and rehabilitation. Students observe a physiatrist one half day each week, and gain understanding of the management of acute injuries, chronic disease, and disabilities. Offered: AWSpS.

REHAB 520 Seminar (1-5, max. 5) Conferences, seminars, discussions of advanced physical medicine and rehabilitation topics for graduate students, residents and postdoctoral fellows in rehabilitation medicine. Lectures, discussion, and laboratory work in selected aspects appropriate to elected area of study for applicants for master-level degree.

REHAB 522 Neurophysiological Topics in Rehabilitation Medicine (2) Anderson Review of traditional neurophysiological concepts and an exposition of recent advances in neurophysiological research related to the practice of rehabilitation medicine. Prerequisite: resident standing in rehabilitation medicine or permission of instructor.

REHAB 523 Neuroscience III: Applied Neurology (4) Kelly Theory and principles of advanced exercise procedures used when treating patients with neurologic pathology. Includes the application of principles of motor learning and control; facilitation and inhibition of variables affecting functional motor performance; adaptation of assessment and treatment procedures to patients with different types of neurologic impairments. Lectures and laboratories.

REHAB 527 Neuroscience IV: Special Topics in Neurologic Rehabilitation (3) Kelly Critical analysis and application of physical therapy assessment and treatment techniques to problems related to specific adult neurological disorders. Neurological disorders to be covered include stroke, spinal cord injury, traumatic brain injury, and multiple sclerosis.

REHAB 528 International Clinical Clerkship (2) Robinson Short-term clinical education experience outside the United States. Participants work in a mentored relationship as part of a multi-disciplinary rehabilitation team providing direct clinical services and consultation to patients and their care-givers. Sponsored sites selected and screened by Clinical Coordinator. Students may choose area of clinical focus. Credit/no credit only.

REHAB 529 Professional and Practice Issues in Physical Therapy (2) Guthrie Augments the student's understanding of the profession and current issues in healthcare. Includes healthcare delivery, scope of practice, professional organization, political activism, specialist certification, licensure, collaboration, therapeutic relationships, disclosure, privacy, and informed consent. Credit/no credit only.

REHAB 530 Medical Aspects of Vocational Counseling (2-3) Johnson Introduction to vocational implications of physical and emotional disabilities. Methods, counseling techniques, therapeutic modalities, community resources used in producing vocational assistance for persons with disabilities. Prerequisite: resident standing in rehabilitation medicine or permission of instructor.

REHAB 532 Clinical Affiliation for Rehabilitation Counselors (5-6) Johnson Under preceptorship of rehabilitation counseling staff, students counsel and evaluate patients with severe physical, emotional, or social problems; administer vocational testing; obtain placement on job stations; work with community resources for vocational/educational placement; and develop activity-oriented schedules. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

REHAB 536 Patient Evaluation and Clinical Decision Making (1-2, max 8) General principles and practice of physical therapy patient evaluation and use of the clinical decision-making models. The application of patient management principles through examination techniques and documentation strategies. Lecture and laboratory format.

REHAB 537 Functional Mobility Skills (2) Matsuda Principles and practice of physical therapy interventions related to functional mobility skills, including transfer training, wheelchair fitting, wheelchair mobility, gait training, and caregiver training.. Lecture and laboratory format.

REHAB 538 Integumentary, Edema Management, and Circulatory Screening for PT (2) Robinson Principles and practice of physical therapy evaluation and interventions related to wound care, burn care, edema management, circulatory screening, and splinting applications. Lecture and laboratory format.

REHAB 539 Communication Disorders in Rehabilitation Medicine (1) Yorkston Overview of communication disorders secondary to central and peripheral nervous system impairment. Emphasis on facilitating identification of speech/language disorders with discussion of implications for rehabilitation. .

REHAB 540 Acute Care Practice in Physical Therapy (2) Robinson Principles and practice of physical therapy evaluation and interventions related to individuals with diagnoses in the recent onset (or acute) stage of development.

REHAB 544 Functional Anatomy for Physiatrists (2-) Goldstein Lectures and demonstrations to illustrate functional anatomy as applied by physicians in the practice of clinical rehabilitation. Intended to enhance functional assessments and to improve neuro/musculo/skeletal diagnosis and treatment through greater understanding of the underlying anatomy. Prerequisite: resident standing in rehabilitation medicine; others by permission of instructor.

REHAB 545 Functional Anatomy for Physiatrists (-2) Goldstein Lectures and demonstrations to illustrate functional anatomy as applied by physicians in the practice of clinical rehabilitation. Intended to enhance functional assessments and to improve neuro/musculo/skeletal diagnosis and treatment through greater understanding of the underlying anatomy. Prerequisite: resident standing in rehabilitation medicine; others by permission of instructor.

REHAB 546 Teaching Practicum in Rehabilitation (1-3, max. 3) Integration of knowledge and skills in teaching through teaching in the classroom or presentation of a minicourse, workshop, or in-service training series. Prerequisite: MEDED 520 and permission of instructor.

REHAB 550 Neuropsychology in Rehabilitation (2) Bombardier, Ehde Examination and management of patients with brain lesions, as well as an understanding of the consequences of such conditions. Prerequisite: graduate standing in rehabilitation medicine.

REHAB 555 P-Neuromuscular Electrodiagnosis (2.5) Kraft Demonstration of fundamentals of electromyography and peripheral nerve stimulation followed by participation in clinical electrodiagnosis examinations. Develops awareness of knowing when such procedures are indicated for patients and interpreting results rather than developing proficiency in performing these examinations. Prerequisite: HUBIO 560 and permission of instructor.

REHAB 556 Foundations of Rehabilitation Science (3) Johnson, Yorkston Overview of rehabilitation science and social constructs of disability emphasizing bio-psycho-social-environmental models of the enabling-disabling process across the lifespan. Lays the philosophical and theoretical foundations for the study of rehabilitation as a science and is designed to promote interdisciplinary thinking. Prerequisite: graduate student, instructor permission.

REHAB 557 Qualitative and Quantitative Research in Rehabilitation (3) Ciol, Dudgeon Provides an orientation and critical analysis of current practices in disability and rehabilitation research by appraising methodologies and strategies used to investigate consequences of human function, activity performance, and social participation. Topics include introduction to qualitative and quantitative methodologies with respect to rehabilitation research. Prerequisite: Instructor permission. Offered: W.

REHAB 566 Special Topics in Rehabilitation (1-9, max. 14) Philosophy and concepts in the interdisciplinary rehabilitation of persons with major disabilities, including advanced content in the rehabilitation theory and process of selected categories.

REHAB 567 Practicum in Rehabilitation (1-12, max. 24) Specialized practicum experience in environment providing rehabilitation services. Practicum arrangements and permission by instructor.

REHAB 568 Biophysics as Applied to Physical Medicine (2) Esselman Propagation and absorption characteristics of physical forms of energy used for treatment in physical medicine. Physiologic effects basic to prescription of the physical therapy modalities. Prerequisite: resident standing in rehabilitation medicine; others by permission of instructor.

REHAB 570 Foundations of Occupational Therapy (5) Powell An overview of the practice of occupational therapy, emphasizing the role of occupational performance in context, frames of reference, clinical reasoning, and purposeful activity. Introduces the diversity of occupational therapy practice environments through didactic and clinical experiences. Offered: A.

REHAB 571 Occupational Performance through the Life Span (4) Stewart Overview of human development as it relates to occupational performance and functional adaptation in the ages and stages of life from infancy through old-old age. Emphasis will be placed on environmental influences, activity, and occupational roles, tasks, and component behaviors as they relate to individuals in different ages and stages. Offered: W.

REHAB 572 Occupational Therapy Theory and Practice in Psychosocial Dysfunction I (1-7, max. 7) Engel An overview of bodies of knowledge in psychosocial practice as related to occupational performance. Learning topics include major frames of reference, effects of psychosocial disorders on occupational performance (life activities), and occupational therapy evaluation and intervention skills. Lectures, reading, class discussions, role-playing, problem-based learning, and fieldwork comprise the learning experiences. Offered: SpS.

REHAB 573 Occupational Therapy in Community Practice (4) Engel Bodies of knowledge in occupational performance as they relate to the emerging area of community-based practice. Includes traditional and evidence based practice in the realms of health promotion, prevention, evaluation, and intervention. Lectures, assigned readings, class discussions, role playing, site visits, films, laboratory exercises, and problem-based learning tutorials. Offered: Sp.

REHAB 574 Occupational Therapy Theory and Practice in Physical Disabilities I (6) Dudgeon Provides theoretical bases and clinical practice skills used in evaluation and intervention of occupational performance (life activities). Focus is on individuals with sensorimotor (physical) and/or cognitive impairments. Practical applications of theory occur through lecture, laboratory, and problem-based learning approaches. Offered: A.

REHAB 575 Occupational Therapy Theory and Practice in Physical Disabilities II (5) Powell Provides theoretical bases and clinical practice skills used in evaluation and intervention of occupational performance (life activities). Focus is on individuals with sensorimotor (physical) and/or cognitive impairments. Practical applications of theory occur through lecture, laboratory, and problem-based learning approaches. Offered: W.

REHAB 576 Occupational Therapy Theory and Practice in Pediatrics (1-7, max. 7) Provides knowledge and skills necessary for providing occupational therapy evaluation, intervention, and transition services focused on occupational performance (life activities) for children and teens with disabilities and their families. Offered: W.

REHAB 577 Occupational Therapy Theory and Practice in Geriatrics (5) Powell Occupational therapy evaluation and intervention with older adults. Covers psychology, physiology, and socio-demographics of aging. Emphasis on interaction skills with the elderly and occupational performance (life activities). Laboratory experiences and fieldwork in the practice setting enhance didactic coursework. Offered: Sp.

REHAB 578 Occupational Performance Analysis (3) Kanny Skills in the analysis, adaptation, and sequencing of therapeutic and functional activities as they apply to occupational performance. Analysis focuses on performance components (sensorimotor, cognitive, psychosocial, psychosocial, psychological), temporal aspects (chronological, developmental), and environmental aspects (physical, social, cultural). Offered: S.

REHAB 579 Therapeutic Communication (3) Kanny Introduces basic principles and skills of effective interpersonal communication in dyadic interactions and in groups. Emphasis on effective listening, interviewing, and principles and concepts of occupational therapy groups. Lectures, readings, class discussions, role playing, and in-class exercises comprise the learning experiences. Offered: Sp.

REHAB 580 Introduction to Research in Rehabilitation (3) Dudgeon Evaluation of rehabilitation research literature and design of research studies relevant to rehabilitation. Offered: S.

REHAB 581 Application of Measurement Systems (3) Deitz Provides basis for critically evaluating and using tests and measurements in occupational therapy evaluation. Focus on reliability, validity, norms, test development process, statistics relevant to tests and measurement, and ethical implications of testing. Critical evaluation of selected standardized test used in occupational therapy. Offered: A.

REHAB 582 Assistive Technology in Rehabilitation (3) Dudgeon Overview of the field of assistive technology as it impacts occupational performance in self-care, work, and leisure activities. Covers interface devices, computer applications, environmental controls, augmentative communications, power mobility, seating and positioning systems, and sensory enhancements. Offered: W.

REHAB 584 Health-Care Trends and Issues (3) Kanny Overview of the health services system in the United States and current trends and issues facing occupational therapists within this system. Content includes: health service providers, reimbursement of health care services, regulation, personnel and role delineation, and health policy and advocacy. Offered: A.

REHAB 585 Leadership: Administration and Management (4) Kanny Provides student with knowledge and skills needed for leadership positions in occupational therapy practice. Focuses on administration and management functions including strategic planning, program planning, marketing, fiscal management, program evaluation, and personnel management. Offered: W.

REHAB 587 Industrial Rehabilitation (3) Dudgeon Provides knowledge and skills related to vocational assessment and industrial rehabilitation for individuals with medical or psychosocial problems. Emphasizes worker characteristics, job analysis, and accommodation in business and industrial settings. Clinical simulation components provide applications to specific diagnostic, impairment, or disability conditions. Offered: Sp.

REHAB 591 Graduate Project (1-4, max. 7) Graduate project focused on research, administration, education, practice, policy, or other scholarly or creative work. Required of graduate, entry-level occupational therapy and physical therapy students. Offered: AWSpS.

REHAB 592 Principles of Orthotic Use in Rehabilitation (2) Chang General principles and clinical applications of orthoses in patient management, with exposure to research issues in orthotic design.

REHAB 593 Principles of Prosthetic Use in Rehabilitation (1) Czerniecki General principles of prevention of amputation, prosthetic design, biomechanics, and clinical applications of upper and lower extremity prostheses.

REHAB 594 Clinical Fieldwork in Occupational Therapy (10, max. 20) Rollinger 12-week, full-time, fieldwork, delivering occupational therapy services to clients focusing on application of meaningful occupation under direct supervision. Exposure to varied clients across the lifespan and in various setting reflective of current practice. Students must complete a minimum of two 12-week placements. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

REHAB 595 Clinical Affiliation in Physical Therapy ([2-10]-, max. 30) Robinson Clinical practice of physical therapy techniques under supervision in community-based clinics. Credit/no credit only.

REHAB 596 Electromyography and Clinical Neurophysiology (4) Kraft Didactic course covering electromyography and clinical neurophysiology. First part covers basic neurophysiology and second covers electromyography, nerve conduction studies, somatosensory-evoked potentials, residual- and auditory-evoked potentials, single fiber EMG, late response, quantitative analysis, and macro EMG. Prerequisite: resident standing in rehabilitation medicine; others by permission of instructor.

REHAB 597 Electromyography and Electrodiagnosis Laboratory (1-) Kraft Elective work in clinical electromyography and other electrodiagnostic methods. Prerequisite: resident standing in rehabilitation medicine; others by permission of instructor.

REHAB 598 Electromyography and Electrodiagnosis Laboratory (1-) Kraft Elective work in clinical electromyography and other electrodiagnostic methods. Prerequisite: resident standing in rehabilitation medicine; others by permission of instructor.

REHAB 599 Electromyography and Electrodiagnosis Laboratory (1) Kraft Elective work in clinical electromyography and other electrodiagnostic methods. Prerequisite: resident standing in rehabilitation medicine; others by permission of instructor.

REHAB 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only.

REHAB 685 P-Chronic Disease and Disability (4) Cox, Hays Meets chronic-care requirement for medical students. Structured clinical experience on rehabilitation medicine services. Differences between acute and chronic medicine, identification of disability problems, and therapeutic techniques for removing disability. Hospitals are within University system, local area, and WWAMI area. Prerequisite: third-year medical student standing.

REHAB 686 P-Rehabilitation Medicine Clerkship — Pediatrics (8/12) Hays, Jaffe, Massagli Meets chronic-care requirement for medical students. Incorporates material of 685 and expands into disabling pediatric disease. School planning, family counseling, community support services included. Four- or six-week package permits inpatient, outpatient, and consultation experience. Recommended for students contemplating pediatrics. Prerequisite: third-year medical student standing.

REHAB 687 P-Rehabilitation Medicine Clerkship (8/12) Hays Meets chronic-care requirement for medical students. Incorporates material of 685 and expands into disability problems. Four- or six-week package permits inpatient, outpatient, and consultation experience. Recommended for careers in family medicine, internal medicine, rheumatology, cardiology, neurology, geriatrics, orthopedic surgery, neurosurgery, and cardiovascular surgery. Prerequisite: third-year medical student standing.

REHAB 689 P-Spinal Cord Injury (8/12) Little Introduction to diagnosis, management, rehabilitation of patients with spinal-cord injuries. Interaction with rehabilitation team, psychiatrists, and subspecialists in urology, neurosurgery, and plastic surgery. Performance at subintern level expected. Veterans Administration Medical Center only. Prerequisite: MED 665, SURG 665.

REHAB 695 P-Rural Rehabilitation Medicine Clerkship (8) Hays Structured clinical experience in identification and treatment of disability problems in rural (nonmajor urban) communities. Satisfies chronic care/rehabilitation medical graduation requirements. Prerequisite: completion of at least six months of clinical clerkships, permission of instructor.

REHAB 697 P-Rehabilitation Medicine Special Elective (*, max. 24) Equivalent to 686, 687, or 688. Satisfies requirements in rehabilitation medicine/chronic care. Student arranges with another university, using the "Special Assignment Form." Students can qualify after review, similar experience at another university. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

REHAB 700 Master's Thesis (*) Credit/no credit only.

Surgery

SURG 498 Undergraduate Thesis (*) Langdale Offered to those students who have engaged in undergraduate research in general surgery. (Full- or part-time.)

SURG 499 Undergraduate Research (*) Langdale Provides an opportunity to participate in ongoing research projects or carry out an independent research project under supervision of Department of Surgery faculty. Practical experience in experimental design and execution is provided under direct supervision of selected faculty members. (Full- or part-time.)

SURG 505 P-Preceptorship in Surgery (1) Langdale Opportunity for first- and second-year medical students to gain personal experience with clinical faculty members in the community. Students observe general aspects of private practice, including clinical problems seen; practice limitation; doctor-doctor, doctor-patient, and doctor-nurse relationships in the office and hospital. Prerequisite: permission of department.

SURG 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Langdale

SURG 630 P-WRITE Surgery Clinical Clerkship (*, max. 24) Basic clinical clerkship for students enrolled in the WRITE Program. Prerequisite: completion of basic curriculum; third- and fourth-year students; acceptance in the WRITE program.

SURG 665 P-Clinical Clerkship (*, max. 12) Langdale (Harborview Medical Center, Providence Medical Center, University of Washington Medical Center, Veterans Affairs Medical Center, Virginia Mason Medical Center) Diagnosis and management of problems amenable to surgical therapy. Physiological basis of surgical care, differential diagnosis and decision making, and the basic principles of surgical management. Care of inpatients and outpatients, including participation in the operating rooms. Prerequisite: HUBIO 563. (Six weeks. Limit: twenty students.)

problems. Physiological basis of surgical care, differential diagnosis and decision making, and basic principles of surgical management. Care of inpatients and outpatients, including participation in the operating rooms. Fulfills graduation requirement for Surgery. Prerequisite: completion of HUBIO series. (Six weeks. Limit: two students.)

SURG 667 P-Clinical Clerkship Spokane (12) Diagnosis and management of surgical problems. Physiological basis of surgical care, differential diagnosis and decision-making, and basic principles of surgical management. Care of inpatients and outpatients, including participation in the operating rooms. Fulfills graduation requirement for Surgery. Prerequisite: completion of HUBIO series.

SURG 668 P-Clinical Clerkship Casper (12) Text Offered: . Diagnosis and management of problems amenable to surgical therapy. Physiological basis of surgical care, differential diagnosis and decision making, and the basic principles of surgical management. Care of inpatients and outpatients, including participation in the operating rooms. Prerequisite: HUBIO 563.

SURG 669 P-Clinical Clerkship Billings (12) faculty Diagnosis and management of problems amenable to surgical therapy. Physiological basis of surgical care, differential diagnosis and decision making, and the basic principles of surgical management. Care of inpatients and outpatients, including participation in the operating rooms. Prerequisite: HUBIO 563.

SURG 670 P-Clinical Clerkship Missoula (12) faculty Diagnosis and management of problems amenable to surgical therapy. Physiological basis of surgical care, differential diagnosis and decision making, and the basic principles of surgical management. Care of inpatients and outpatients, including participation in the operating rooms. Prerequisite: HUBIO 563.

SURG 671 P-Clinical Clerkship Madigan (12) Diagnosis and management of problems amenable to surgical therapy. Physiological basis of surgical care, differential diagnosis and decision-making, and the basic principles of surgical management. Care of inpatients and outpatients, including participation in the operating rooms. Prerequisite: HUBIO 563.

SURG 681 P-Peripheral Vascular Disease (4/8, max. 8) Clowes (Veterans Affairs Medical Center) Peripheral arterial and venous problems, including methods of clinical evaluation; new diagnostic procedures; and the available methods of treatment. Patient workup, performance of diagnostic studies, and presentation of case material to the staff. Prerequisite: SURG 665, HUBIO 563. (Two or four weeks. Limit: one student.)

SURG 682 P-Clinical Burn Care (*, max. 12) Heimbach (Harborview Medical Center) Offered on the burn unit of Harborview Medical Center. Exposure to the care of patients with thermal injury, including management of severe metabolic and septic problems and opportunity to participate in surgical procedures. Exposure to plastic and reconstructive surgery. Prerequisite: SURG 665. (Four or six weeks. Limit: two students.)

SURG 683 P-Pediatric Surgery Externship (8/12) Tapper (Children's Hospital and Regional Medical Center) Surgical conditions peculiar to the particular age group with a preponderance of congenital and neoplastic conditions that are amenable to surgical treatment. A reasonable background of knowledge in human embryology and genetics is recommended. Prerequisite: SURG 665. (Four or six weeks. Limit: two students.)

SURG 685 P-Cardiothoracic Surgery Externship (*, max. 12) Verrier (University of Washington Medical Center) Serve as subintern, participate in patient care while learning cardiopulmonary hemodynamics of cardiac and thoracic surgery. Observe a wide variety of both cardiac and thoracic disease entities. Participate in the open-heart procedures in the operating room. Opportunity to gain additional understanding of physiology of cardiopulmonary bypass. (Four or six weeks. Limit: two students.)

SURG 686 P-Plastic Surgery Clerkship and Preceptorship (*, max. 12) Vedder (University of Washington affiliated hospitals) Introduces fundamental techniques and enhances knowledge of plastic surgery, wounds, trauma, burns, cancers, and pediatric and adult cosmetic and reconstructive surgery. Participate in all surgery-related activities. Prerequisite: SURG 665; MED 665. MS III only, two weeks, 4 credits, limit 2; MS III/MS IV four/six weeks (recommended), 8/12 credits, limit 4.

SURG 687 P-Transplantation Surgery Clerkship (8) Perkins (University of Washington Medical Center) Clerkship is in the University regional multi-organ transplantation center. Student participates fully in the care of all transplant patients, on twice daily multidisciplinary rounds, in pre-operative conference, and in the operating room and on the donor harvest team. Weekly didactic teaching sessions. Prerequisite: SURG 665 and MED 665. (Four weeks. Limit: two students.)

SURG 688 P-Subinternship in General Surgery (*, max. 16) Langdale (Veterans Affairs Medical Center, Harborview Medical Center, Providence Medical Center, University of Washington Medical Center) Offered on the general surgery wards of the University-affiliated hospitals. Diagnosis, preoperative care, and postoperative care; management of surgical emergencies, the ICU patient, and outpatient follow-up of discharged patients. Students function at the intern level under close supervision of the staff and house staff. Prerequisite: SURG 665. (Four or six weeks. Limit: six students.)

SURG 689 P-Community Surgery Clerkship (8) Langdale Designed to supplement basics learned in 665. Excellent opportunity to participate in general, thoracic, vascular, and plastic surgery in a group practice in a smaller city. Recommended for students entering primary care. Prerequisite: SURG 665 and permission of department. (Four weeks. Longview. Limit: one student. Coeur d'Alene. Limit: one student.)

SURG 690 P-Alaska Native Medical Center Surgery Sub-Internship (8/12) Langdale Designed to supplement basics learned in 665. Excellent opportunity to participate in general, thoracic, vascular, and plastic surgery in a specialized population of patients. Recommended for students entering primary care.

Prerequisite: SURG 665 and permission of department. (Four or six weeks. Alaska Native Medical Center, Anchorage. Limit: one student.)

SURG 691 P-Surgical Intensive Care Unit Sub-Internship (8) Langdale Designed to augment experience gained in 665. Excellent opportunity to participate in the management of critically ill patients under the close supervision of the staff/house staff. Recommended for students entering surgery or primary care. Prerequisite: SURG 665. (Harborview Medical Center. Limit: two students. Veterans Affairs Medical Center. Limit: one student.)

SURG 692 P-Ambulatory Surgery Clerkship (4) Waldhausen Rotation focuses on increasing the student's ability as a primary care physician to recognize and form an initial plan of management for common surgical problems seen in the outpatient setting. Offered: AWPSP.

SURG 693 P-Rural Surgery Clerkship, Buffalo (8) Designed to supplement basics learned in SURG 665. Opportunity to participate in general surgery and various other subspecialties in a smaller city. Recommended for students entering primary care. Prerequisite: SURG 665, permission of department. (Four weeks. Buffalo. Limit: one student.)

SURG 694 P-Rural Surgery Clerkship, Riverton (8) Designed to supplement basics learned in SURG 665. Opportunity to participate in general surgery and various other subspecialties in a smaller city. Recommended for students entering primary care. Prerequisite: SURG 665, permission of department. (Four weeks. Riverton. Limit: one student.)

SURG 697 P-Surgery Special Electives (*, max. 24) Langdale Special clerkship, externship, or research opportunities can at times be made available at institutions other than the University of Washington. Students wishing to elect this course should obtain from the Dean's office a special assignment form at least one month before preregistration. Prerequisite: SURG 665 and departmental permission. (Four, six, or twelve weeks.)

SURG 698 P-Clinical Clerkship Away (*, max. 24) Clerkship equivalent to SURG 665, at sites outside the Seattle metropolitan area.

SURG 699 P-WWAMI Surgery Special Electives (*, max. 24) By special arrangement for qualified students, special clerkships or externships may be available at institutions other than the University of Washington located within the WWAMI region. Prerequisite: permission of department.

Urology

UROL 498 Undergraduate Thesis (*) Provides an opportunity for medical students to write in the area of urology.

UROL 499 Undergraduate Research (*) The student participates in current urologic research projects under supervision of full-time staff. Certain specific problems may be elected by the student. Elective for medical students.

UROL 501 P-Urology Preceptorship (1) Individual experiences with one or more of the full-time department faculty members covering research, teaching, and patient care. Students observe activities in the clinic, hospital ward, operating room, and research laboratories. Prerequisite: first- or second-year medical student standing; permission of instructor.

UROL 675 P-Urology Preceptorship (*, max. 8) Student follows a private practice preceptor in all of his or her work. Becomes acquainted with the office management of urological problems. Prerequisite: UROL 680, HUBIO 562. (Two or four weeks.)

UROL 680 P-Urology Clerkship (*, max. 8) Berger, Ellis, Grady, Krieger, Lange, Mayo, J. Miller, L. Miller, Mitchell, Penson, Porter, Takayama, Wessells Full activities of clinical service. Basic principles of urology emphasized. Prerequisite: HUBIO 562. (Two or four weeks.)

UROL 681 P-Female Urology (4) J. Miller, L. Miller Observation of cases of lower urinary tract disorders specific to women, emphasizing behavioral management and multidisciplinary care. Ninety-five percent of cases observed are women. Not intended as the only exposure to urology for students considering urology as career choice. Prerequisite: third- or fourth-year standing and permission of instructor.

UROL 685 P-Urology Subinternship (*, max. 12) Berger, Ellis, Grady, Krieger, Lange, Mayo, J. Miller, L. Miller, Mitchell, Penson, Porter, Takayama, Wessells Subintern is responsible for patient workups and for preoperative and postoperative care and participates in the operating room. Prerequisite: MED 665 or pediatrics basic clerkship, or permission of instructor.

UROL 690 P-Urology Specialties (*, max. 8) For those who wish further exposure to a specific aspect of urology. Students can spend time with one attending at University of Washington Medical Center, Harborview Medical Center, Children's Hospital and Medical Center, or Veterans Administration Hospital studying oncology, infections, infertility, stone disease, impotence, or other aspects of urology. Prerequisite: UROL 680 and permission of instructor.

UROL 697 P-Urology Special Electives (*, max. 24) Special clerkship, externship, or research opportunities can at times be made available at institutions other than the University of Washington. Students wishing to elect this course should obtain from the Dean's office a special assignment form at least one month before preregistration. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. (Six or twelve weeks.)

UROL 699 P-WWAMI Urology Special Electives (*, max. 24) By special arrangement for qualified students, special clerkships or externships may be available at institutions other than the University of Washington located within the WWAMI region. Prerequisite: permission of department.

Nursing

NURS 200 Critical Approach to Women's Health (3) Interdisciplinary examination of women's health from a critical social-political approach. Discusses issues of gender, race, class, heterosexism, etc. in relation to women's health policies.

NURS 201 Growth and Development Through the Life Span (5) I&S Focuses on processes of human growth and development from prenatal life to old age. Emphasizes influence of growth and development on achievement of health, and how awareness of growth and development theory and research helps guide health promotional efforts directed toward persons of various ages and life styles. Open to nonmajors.

NURS 202 Difference and Identity on University Campus (5) Allen Novels, autobiographies, films, and music are used to explore how American who are seen as white are characterized by people who are seen as non-white. Since many freshmen find campus life more socially diverse than their home communities, the focus is on young adults and college environments.

NURS 203 Health Care Terminology for Nursing (2) Designed to improve reading, writing, listening, and comprehension skills with respect to health care terminology. Offered: SpS.

NURS 301 Clinical Applications of Anatomy and Physiology (3) Application of anatomic and physiologic concepts to selected clinical phenomena. Focuses on integrated responses and functional health patterns. Exemplars of developmental and lifespan factors are identified. Includes experiential activities to enhance integration of content. Offered: AS.

NURS 303 Foundations of Professional Nursing (2-3) Exploration of the profession of nursing, including past and present work of nurses, the experience of being ill and seeking health care, and the U.S. health care system. Offered: Sp.

NURS 304 Human Responses I (3) Examines normal and pathophysiological responses to states of health and illness. Examines internal and external defense systems, balance and regulation of body systems, and integration of these concepts in the assessment and management of patient problems. Offered: A.

NURS 308 Human Responses II (3) Examines normal and pathophysiological responses to states of health and illness. Examines internal and external defense systems, balance and regulation of body systems, and integration of these concepts in the assessment and management of patient problems. Offered: W.

NURS 309 Pharmacotherapeutics in Nursing Practice I (2-) Emphasizes the principles of pharmacology, drug therapy, pharmacologic-therapeutic classes of drugs, clinically important prototype drugs, and drug information resources. Nursing issues related to drug administration are also discussed. First of a 2-quarter sequence. Offered: A.

NURS 310 Pharmacotherapeutics in Nursing Practice II (2-3) Emphasizes the principles of pharmacology, drug therapy, pharmacologic-therapeutic classes of drugs, clinically important prototype drugs, and drug information resources. Nursing issues related to drug administration are also discussed. Second of a two-quarter sequence. Offered: W.

NURS 401 Care in Illness I (5) Introduces major concepts relevant to the experience of acute and chronic illness, including physiological, pathophysiological, behavioral and experimental human responses, assessment of functional health status and interdisciplinary therapeutics in common alteration across the lifespan. First of a two-quarter sequence. Offered: W

NURS 404 Gerontological Nursing (2) Focuses on theoretical and practical information about basic and complex concepts and issues relevant to the nursing care of older people across the continuum of care.

NURS 405 Care in Illness II (5) Continuation of 401, further examining selected psychopathologic and pathophysiologic alterations in health of individuals in context of families across life span. Emphasizes assessing functioning in psychosocial, cultural, person-environment relationships, and health care resources to plan nursing strategies for acutely/chronically ill individuals of all ages.

NURS 407 Culture, Diversity, and Nursing Practice (3) Analyzes the impact of cultural, social, and global factors on the health of multicultural and diverse groups at the individual, population, and systems levels. Students gain knowledge and skills to effectively respond to the health care needs of multicultural societies through non-discriminatory and culturally appropriate nursing care practice. Offered: Sp.

NURS 408 Nursing Care with Families in the Community (3) Application of biopsychosocial and social environmental theories and assessments to diagnose alterations in health/mental health of families, small groups in community settings. Emphasizes interpersonal and clinical therapies; coordination of community resources, evaluating effectiveness of changes; characteristics of nursing care in home visiting.

NURS 410 Legal and Ethical Issues in Clinical Practice (3) Identification of ethical and legal issues and the ensuing dilemmas relevant to the profession of nursing and nurses as health professionals and citizens. Selected problems and dilemmas affecting nurses, nursing, and the delivery of health care analyzed using specific moral-ethical perspectives. Offered: AW.

NURS 412 Health Care Systems (3) Introduction to analysis of health care systems with emphasis on political economy of health, access and utilization, disparities in health, public and private health insurance and reimbursement issues. Comparison of U.S. and other national health care systems. Offered: Sp.

NURS 413 Health in a Developing Nation: Study Abroad (5) Dorrenbos Experimental learning opportunity in a developing resource-poor county. Explores the country's health challenges and health care system, including policies and interventions aimed to reduce inequalities in health. Addresses socio-cultural, environmental, economic, political, and ecological factors.

NURS 415 Nursing of Families: Childbearing and Childrearing (5) Applies family concepts to nursing of childbearing and childrearing families. Focuses on family as context for care of individuals. Emphasizes use of physiological, psychological, developmental, cultural, and environmental theories for health promotion, disease prevention, and nursing therapeutics. Offered: AW.

NURS 417 Psychosocial Nursing in Health and Illness (3) Examines psychosocial disorders/issues of life transitions from integrated perspective of biological, social sciences, nursing, and humanities. Emphasizes utilizing psychosocial nursing and interpersonal therapeutics for assessment, intervention, health promotion with individuals/families/groups at risk for experiencing psychosocial disorders. Prerequisite: NCLIN 418, which may be taken concurrently. Offered: AW.

NURS 430 Interpersonal Relationships in Nursing (3) Theory, current research, and practice in communication to develop and maintain interpersonal relationships with clients and health care colleagues. Lecture/discussion and laboratory learning opportunities include concepts of relationship development and disorder, interpersonal and group therapeutic communication processes, health care interviewing, and social support.

NURS 445 Topics in Nursing (1-10, max. 10) Guided survey and discussion of current literature on major topics in physiological nursing. Seminar/lecture with analysis and discussion of selected topics and readings. May have clinical component. Implications for nursing practice and health care emphasized.

NURS 450 Study Abroad Preparation: International Nursing in Context (1-,max 4) Carr, Kennedy, Lindenberg, Muecke Introduction to the language (if other than English), history and culture of the host country, and examination of international health issues pertinent to the country. Required course for students taking a Study Abroad quarter. Course may be taken as distance learning. Offered: AWSpS.

NURS 466 Continuing Education in Nursing (3) Planning, developing, and evaluating continuing education programs in various institutions and agencies. Includes the application of adult learning principles to a variety of situations, such as workshops, in-service and staff development programs.

NURS 488 Youth at High Risk for Drug Abuse, Suicide Behaviors, Aggression, and Depression (3) Study of adolescent problem behaviors: causes, connections, and contexts. Two central themes are understanding vulnerability to drug abuse, suicide behaviors, and other related behaviors within social network contexts and exploring implications for prevention and early intervention programming.

NURS 489 Alcohol Problems in Family and Society (3) Analysis of family problems associated with alcoholism. Emphasis on psychological, cultural, and social implications; examination of various counseling practices employed and theories of prevention.

NURS 492 Anthropology of Refugees (3) I&S

The refugee phenomenon, its emergence in postcolonial world, and structure of life history of refugees. Ethnic change, involuntary deculturation, and acculturation as they occur in refugee life histories. Prerequisite: one 200-level ANTH course or LING 203. Offered: jointly with ANTH 492.

NURS 495 Child Rearing, Culture, and Health (3) I&S Cross-cultural study of the child-rearing practices, cultural norms, and health behavior of children and adolescents in diverse societies. Comparative approaches, different theoretical postures, and empirical research findings are used. Offered: jointly with ANTH 440.

NURS 499 Special Electives (1-4, max. 15) Seminars on selected nursing issues of clinical problems, with independent study option, under supervision of nursing faculty. Offered: AWSpS.

NURS 500 Children and Adolescents with Special Health Needs, Their Families and Communities (3/4, max. 4) Acker, Brandt, Kieckhefer, Jolley, Magyary Includes advanced health care approached for providers of children and adolescents with chronic physical, neurobiological, developmental, or psychosocial problems. Emphasizes evidence based, culturally competent, and comprehensive assessment, referral and management strategies. Describes exemplars of leadership processes related to policy, care coordination, family centered, and multidisciplinary approaches. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: A.

NURS 501 Advanced Mental Health Interventions with Children (3) Developmentally based assessment and therapeutic approaches relevant for children with psychosocial health problems. Consideration to matching therapeutic approaches with specific nature of symptomatology and other child, family, cultural, and environmental characteristics, including social and educational systems. Individual and group evaluation research emphasized. Prerequisite: NURS 500.

NURS 502 Human Responses in Health and Illness I (3) Survey of selected human responses to environmental demands in health and illness as expressed at physiologic, pathophysiologic, experiential, and behavioral levels. Such concepts as host defenses, ventilation, circulation, elimination, and nutrition are discussed. Prerequisite: graduate standing.

NURS 503 Human Responses in Health and Illness II (3) Survey of selected human responses to environmental demands in health and illness at physiologic, pathophysiologic, experiential, and behavioral levels. Such concepts as immune response, stress response, circadian rhythms, pain, sleep, cognition, and consciousness. Prerequisite: graduate standing.

NURS 504 Clinical Nursing Therapeutics (1-6, max. 6) Critical analysis of therapeutic modalities to assist patients with a variety of responses to health problems. Includes selected therapies such as suction/drainage, positioning to address responses in critical, life threatening, and chronic/continuing health states. Varying credits assigned for modules covering particular therapies. Prerequisite: NURS 502, NURS 503, or permission of instructor.

NURS 505 Selected Topics in Psychosocial and Community Health Nursing (2-10, max. 10) In-depth exploration of the major theoretical issues in psychosocial nursing. Seminar with analysis and discussion of selected topics and readings and implications for research and health care.

NURS 506 Role and Context of Advanced Practice Psychiatric Mental Health Nursing (3) Introduction to advanced practice roles in Psychiatric Mental Health Nursing. Diverse populations, practice settings, health care systems, standards of practice, certification, and licensing criteria relevant to the advanced practice role examined within the context of a broad range of ethical, clinical, and educational issues. Examines future directions. Credit/no credit only.

NURS 507 Mental Health of Older Adults (3) Examines the dynamics of mental health research and practice in normal, optimal and pathological aging. Focuses on psychosocial and environmental influences on mental health of older adults. Topics include: models of aging, cognitive impairment, depression, severe mental illness, and successful strategies to enhance mental health in older adults.

NURS 508 Seminar in Group Treatment (2) Seminar on the theoretical basis for working with various treatment groups. Analysis of selected approaches to group treatment. Analysis of leader responsibilities and functions in the development of therapeutic group experiences.

NURS 509 Issues in Violence and Aggression for Health Professionals (3) Focuses on research and theory of violent/aggressive behavior. Perspectives of victim, offender, family, community, society examined. Focus is recognition of violence against women. Course is designed to challenge students to clarify beliefs, values related to topics such as rape, homicide, domestic violence. Prerequisite: graduate nursing student or permission of instructor.

NURS 510 Primary Care Foundations: Diagnosis and Management of Common Health Concerns (1-3, max. 9) Focus on diagnosis and management of common primary care problems of adolescents and adults, including older adults, within advanced nursing practice. Emphasizes individual and family responses and nursing strategies including differential diagnosis, treatment, patient education, and follow-up. Content focus changes each quarter. Prerequisite: permission of instructor; recommended: concurrent field work.

NURS 511 Seminar in Neonatal Nursing (3) Neonatal neurobehavioral and physiologic adaptation within context of physical and social environment. Neonatal responses to alterations in growth and illness. Assessment modalities and therapeutic strategies used during the neonatal period. Prerequisite: NURS 514 or permission of instructor.

NURS 512 Critical and Interdisciplinary Approaches to Women's Health (3) Critical examination of the historical, socio-political, and scientific influences on women's health.

Issues of sexism, racism, and heterosexism discussed from the perspective of different disciplines. Offered: jointly with WOMEN 512.

NURS 513 Seminar in Contemporary Women's Health Issues (1-5, max. 12) Critical analysis of contemporary and historical literature relevant to health care for women across the life span. Synthesis of a holistic view of women's health to guide research and practice. Offered: jointly with WOMEN 513.

NURS 514 Physiologic Adaptations in Women and Children: Physiologic Adaptations During Pregnancy and Postpartum (1-6, max. 6) Blackburn Analyzes the developmental physiologic adaptations in four units: women/reproductive processes, pregnancy/postpartum, fetus/neonate, and infancy through adolescence. Emphasis on implications for nursing practice. Examination of evidence-base for selected intervention strategies.

NURS 515 Common Adolescent Health Problems (3) Focuses on assessment, clinical decision making, and management of common adolescent problems. Concepts and theories of health promotion, adolescent development, and intervention strategies are explored to provide a broad framework for caring for adolescents in primary settings.

NURS 516 Pediatric Pulmonary Anatomy and Physiology: Clinical Applications (2) Examines evidenced-based approach to pediatric pulmonary conditions. Includes lung structure and function from infancy through adolescence with detailed analysis of the components parts of the pulmonary system, i.e., neurological control, upper and lower airways, parenchyma, and chest wall.

NURS 517 Pediatric Pulmonary Pathophysiology: Clinical Applications (2) Evidence-based approach to pediatric pulmonary pathophysiology and current treatment. Critical analysis and application of interdisciplinary management and long-term follow-up for children with pulmonary special health care needs. Emphasizes family centered care and professional leadership role of the advanced practice nurse. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

NURS 518 Advanced Practice Pediatric Primary Care Management (3) Focuses on use of clinical decision making framework to develop theoretically and empirically sound individualized management plans for the young child, with physical and behavioral symptoms of common pediatric illness, in the primary care setting. Prerequisite: PNP or FNP specialty, or permission of instructor.

NURS 519 Curriculum Development in Nursing Education (3) Theoretical rationale for curriculum development, study of curricular problems in nursing in relation to the elements of the curriculum as described in a curricular design. Prerequisite: graduate standing.

NURS 520 Evaluation of Clinical Performance in Nursing (3) For graduate students preparing for faculty or staff development positions in nursing. Theory and principles of evaluation. Instruments to appraise clinical nursing performance developed as part of course requirements. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor.

NURS 521 Computing Fundamentals for Health Providers (3) Enables health professionals to solve work/practice challenges using existing features of desktop computers. Emphasizes productivity concepts. Introduces extended features of common software packages, as well as basic concepts/methods of small system management and support. Prerequisite: admission to Health Informatics Certificate Program or by instructor permission. Offered: jointly with MEDED 580;W.

NURS 522 Legal and Ethical Issues in Advanced Practice Nursing (3) Shannon Reviews selected ethical issues in health care and legal guidelines relevant to health care decision-making. Explores bioethics as a type of applied ethics. Focuses on preparing students for ethical challenges in advanced nursing roles. Offered: jointly with MHE 542; Sp.

NURS 523 Communities, Populations, and Systems: Theoretical Foundations (3) Focus on construction and analysis of research-based philosophies and theories related to nursing practice at the community, population, and systems levels. Synthesize and apply knowledge about social and environmental justice, determinants of health, and human health responses to populations and communities. Examine and evaluate leadership roles for nurses in community settings.

NURS 524 Conceptual Foundations for Care Systems Management (3) Critical analysis of nature and theoretical bases of care systems management practice. Concepts of nursing and organization science foundations to person-provider transaction management and leadership in context of economic, political, and social environments and health outcomes. Prerequisite: graduate standing.

NURS 525 Managing Clinical Effectiveness Within Care Systems (3) Optimizing person-provider clinical therapeutic transactions at multiple levels of care systems complexity and population aggregation. Emphasis on designing, managing and evaluating clinical effectiveness and efficiency within care systems. Prerequisite: NURS 524 or permission of instructor.

NURS 526 Managing Organizational Effectiveness Within Care Systems (3) Analysis of management strategies for attaining effective and efficient organizational structures and processes within health care systems. Prerequisite: NURS 524 or permission of instructor.

NURS 527 Managing Effective Access and Utilization Within Care Systems (3-4) In-depth inquiry into health care access and resource utilization patterns among diverse populations, with emphasis on management strategies for establishing effective population-system fit. Additional credit for exploring access and utilization patterns within specific populations.

NURS 528 Implications of Human Embryology and Genetics for Clinical Practice (3) Normal development of the human embryo and fetus and principles of human genetics. Alterations in development leading to common anomalies and implications for clinical practice. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor.

NURS 529 Childhood Common Developmental and Behavior Issues (2) Focus on common developmental and behavioral issues presented by children and their families in primary care setting. Emphasis on the developmental, family, and cultural aspects of assessment and management of the common issues.

NURS 530 Conceptual Frameworks for Parent-Child Nursing (3) Designed to assist graduate students in exploration, criticism, and analysis of selected concepts, frameworks, and models relevant to parent-child nursing practice. Group seminar work focuses on the discussion of issues influencing the roles and practice of clinical nurse specialists in parent-child nursing. Skills necessary for developing a conceptual framework for practice.

NURS 531 Selected Topics in Family and Child Nursing (1-6, max. 12) In-depth examination of the literature pertinent to major theoretical issues in parent and child nursing. Seminar with analysis and discussion of selected topics and readings. Implications for research, prevention, and health care stressed. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

NURS 532 Professional Issues in Advanced Parent and Child Nursing (2-5, max. 5) History and current issues in advanced parent and child nursing practice and interface with health care systems. Advanced practice roles in provision, implementation, and evaluation of health care services for women, children, and families. Opportunity for application to specific advanced practice roles. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

NURS 533 Healthcare of Cancer Survivors (2) Focuses on teaching the health science graduate students about cancer survivorship issues. Discusses the health concerns of those who have been cured of their initial malignancy but are still at risk of long-term effects of chemotherapy, radiation, and surgery.

NURS 534 Seminar in Nursing in Gerontology (3) Gerontological research findings applied to complex nursing problems in maintenance of health and maximum functioning in the aged.

NURS 535 Seminar in Neuroscience Nursing (3) Guided survey of clinical and experimental literatures regarding selected concepts of human functioning mediated by the nervous system: consciousness, mentation, movement, sensation, integrated regulation, coping with disability. Clinical and research measurement, current research and implications for further research, clinical applications.

NURS 536 Biological Aspects of Cancer: Implications for Care (3) Survey of major concepts from tumor biology and implications for advanced oncology nursing practice. Areas covered include carcinogenesis, cancer epidemiology, pathology, metastasis, treatments (chemotherapy, radiation, surgery, immunotherapy), and cancer detection and prevention. Discussion of role of advance nurse clinician and complex patient responses are incorporated into discussion of basic biological concepts.

NURS 537 Symptom Management in Cancer Care and Serious Illness (3) Berry, Nguyen Focuses on assessment, integration of research findings into clinical decision-making, diagnostic reasoning, and management of common symptoms experienced by adult patients with cancer and/or serious illness. Explores individual and family responses to serious illness and malignant processes. Emphasizes concepts of prevention, tailored patient/family education, management and evaluation strategies. Offered: Sp.

NURS 538 Management of Adults with Respiratory Dysfunction (3) In-depth examination of problems such as abnormal secretions and shortness of breath associated with respiratory dysfunction due to pulmonary diseases and other pathophysiological states.

NURS 539 Seminar in Critical-Care Nursing (3, max. 9) Systematic inquiry into pathophysiology, initial nursing management, and systems of care for the critically ill adult or child.

NURS 540 Special Topics in Biobehavioral Nursing and Health Systems (3-6, max. 9) Guided survey of the experimental literature of major topics in physiological nursing, including cardiopulmonary, biology of aging, neuromuscular, cancer, and endocrine. Course conducted as a seminar with analysis and discussion of selected topics and readings. Implications for future research and health care are emphasized.

NURS 541 Women's s Health Care: Diagnosis and Management (1-6, max. 6) Examines advanced practice women's health care issues including unique health issues for women, health maintenance, contraceptive care, diagnosis, and treatment of women's health problems across the lifespan. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

NURS 542 Theoretical Foundations of Advanced Practice Nursing: Childbearing I (4) Analyzes and applies concepts of advanced practice nursing/nurse-midwifery care, specific to the normal childbearing woman, during preconception, antepartum, intrapartum, and postpartum. Examines primary care management of pregnant client within the context of the individual, family, socio-cultural environment, and health care system. Prerequisite: NURS 541.

NURS 543 Theoretical Foundations of Advanced Practice Nursing: Childbearing II (1-4, max. 4) Analyzes and applies concepts of advanced practice nursing/nurse-midwifery care, specific to at-risk childbearing woman, during preconception, antepartum, intrapartum, and postpartum. Examines primary care management of at-risk pregnant client within the context of the individual, family, socio-cultural environment, and health care system. Offered: W.

NURS 544 Psychosocial Adaptations of Individuals and Families during the Perinatal Period (3) Adaptation of individuals and families during the perinatal period, with emphasis on psychosocial adaptation, consumer education, transition to parenthood, parent-infant interaction and community based support. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

NURS 545 Care of the Neonate and Infant (2-3, max. 3) Adaptation of neonate to the extrauterine environment and continuum of care to promote the health of infants within the context of family, community, and other environments. Prerequisite: NURS 514, NURS 528, or permission of instructor.

NURS 546 Interpersonal Aspects of Behavior (3) Selected theories in relation to psychosocial development and adaptation across life span for individuals, families, and small groups and as explanatory models of major psychosocial disabilities. General and psychosocial nursing models evaluated for heuristic value for research and practice. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor.

NURS 547 Biologic Aspects of Psychosocial Disabilities (3) Analysis of biological processes influencing psychosocial behavior in response to internal and external stimuli. Research and theory of neuroendocrine mechanisms in psychosocial disabilities. Analysis of nursing management and evaluation of biopsychosocial modalities used in modification of behavior. Prerequisite: graduate standing in nursing or permission of instructor.

NURS 548 Introduction to Infant Mental Health (3) Reviews the basics of infant mental health (IMH) and development from a development interdisciplinary perspective. Special attention on brain development, sensory integration, early communication, emotion regulation. Emphasizes history of infant mental health field, incorporating IMH into policies, systems, and various treatment approaches.

NURS 549 Assessment in Psychosocial Nursing (3) Conceptual and clinical approaches to advanced-level data collection and diagnostic reasoning in psychiatric/psychosocial disorders. Synthesizes knowledge from psychosocial nursing and multiple allied fields to enhance learners' cognizance of principles for establishing accurate and comprehensive data bases and sound multifaceted diagnostic formulations. Emphasizes DSM diagnostic scheme.

NURS 550 White Privilege and Racism in Health and Human Services (3) Explores relationships among the psychosocial health of people of color, American cultural patterns of intersecting forms of oppression (e.g., gender, race, and class) and the role of health professionals in defining, ameliorating and/or aggravating psychosocial distress. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with WOMEN 550.

NURS 551 Theoretical Foundations of Primary Care (1-3, max. 4) Presentation and interpretation of theoretical basis of advanced nursing practice in primary care. Provides students with conceptual foundation upon which to base their development as nurse practitioners. Prerequisite: graduate standing; permission of instructor.

NURS 552 Health Promotion (2-3) Emphasis on evidence for health promotion, risk reduction, screening, and disease prevention through the lifespan in primary care. Examines issues, including cultural diversity, impacting individual, family, and population health; evidence supporting risk assessment and behavior change; factors contributing to health disparities; and barriers to health at micro and macro levels. Prerequisite: permission of instructor; recommended: nurse practitioner students take fieldwork concurrently.

NURS 553 The Mentally Ill Offender in Correctional and Community Settings (3) Survey of social, political, economic, legal, and moral problems posed by individuals with mental disorders who commit crimes. Covers historical antecedents and current responses of correctional and mental health systems to mentally ill offenders, prevalence and correlates of incarceration, and roles of professionals in correctional mental health field. Credit/no credit only. Offered: W.

NURS 554 Psychosocial Interventions in Nursing (3) Course focuses on conceptual foundations and interpersonal skills for therapeutic interventions to promote personal change and effective adaptation. Emphasizes forming and maintaining a therapeutic alliance and utilizing a client-centered approach to define problems and select appropriate therapeutic interventions. Examines traditional, non-traditional, and multicultural therapeutic perspectives.

NURS 555 Psychopathology, Assessment, and Diagnostics of Children 3 and Under (2-, max. 4) Psychopathology, mental health assessment, and diagnostics in children aged 3 and under, framed by the Diagnostic Classification for Developmental and Mental Health Disorders (DC:0-3). Develops skills and techniques necessary in infant mental health. Prerequisite: acceptance into Infant Mental Health Certificate program or permission of instructor. Offered: WSP.

NURS 556 Addictions and Substance Abuse: Biopsychosocial Perspectives (3) Psychosocial and pathophysiological aspects of substance use examined for their effects on individuals and families throughout life span. Theories and empirical findings serve as basis for evaluating preventive and therapeutic nursing approaches to substance use disorders, including those related to target populations. Prerequisite: basic course in biological sciences.

NURS 557 Health, Culture, and Community (3) A theory and skills class concerning development of personal and organizational cultural competence in community-based participatory research. Core concepts of cultural competence are considered as they are practiced in community settings. Fieldwork required. Offered: jointly with HSERV 576.

NURS 558 Infancy: The Context of Relationships (3) Overview of the parent-child relationship from an ecological framework. Topics include infant regulatory behaviors, parent-child interaction, attachment theory, and prevention in primary care.

NURS 559 Theories of Psychiatric Disabilities (3) Theories from psychosocial nursing, psychiatry, and behavioral sciences explanatory of psychiatric disabilities provide basis for identifying psychosocial problems. Structure and functions of mental health organizations and social networks analyzed. Prerequisite: NURS 547 or permission of instructor.

NURS 560 Dynamics of Community Health Practice (3/5) Examination of and experience with principles of clinical practice in community settings. Included are family as community constituent, populations at risk, community assessment, and community development. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission. Offered: jointly with HSERV 508.

NURS 561 Selected Topics in Comparative Nursing Care Systems (2-3, max. 10) In-depth examination of the literature pertinent to major theoretical issues in cross-cultural nursing and health-care systems. Seminar with analysis and discussion of selected topics and readings. Implications for research and health care stressed.

NURS 562 Clinically Applied Anthropology (3) Anthropology as it relates to interdisciplinary delivery of culturally relevant health care.

Cultural variation in illness beliefs and behavior, types of healing practices, illness prevention, social support networks. Prerequisite: graduate standing, permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with ANTH 562.

NURS 563 Advanced Community Health Nursing (3) Systematic inquiry into the nature and foundations of community health nursing. Analytic and theoretical perspectives on health risk assessment and nursing interventions in the community. Implications for community health nursing services. Prerequisite: permission of instructor and graduate standing.

NURS 564 Biopharmacological Management in Psychosocial Nursing (3) Biological and pharmacological interventions pertinent to practice of psychosocial nursing, including psychopharmacology, electroconvulsive therapy, and phototherapy. Emphasis on empirical neuroendocrine bases and then nursing management issues pertaining to these interventions. Legal and ethical issues pertaining to advanced practice and putative neurological mechanism are examined. Prerequisite: NURS 547 or permission of instructor.

NURS 565 Self-Management Strategies and Techniques in Patient Care (3) Theories underlying cognitive/behavioral self-management strategies and techniques in patient care. Evaluation of the clinical appropriateness and utility for nursing. Application to such clinical problems as abstinence in the recovering alcoholic, depression, and eating disorders. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of faculty.

NURS 566 Occupational Stress and Stress Management (3) Relationships between occupational stressors and worker's health, well-being, productivity. Analyzes models of occupational stress. Investigates similarities, differences between job-related stressors and stress responses in various occupations. Explores elements of worksite stress management programs. Prerequisite: graduate standing in nursing or allied health discipline; advanced undergraduates with permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with ENVH 565.

NURS 567 Theoretical Basis of Management of Stress Response (3) Theories of physiologic responses linked to theories of cognitive/affective and behavioral responses to stressors. Conceptual basis of self-management techniques. Research findings relevant to these theories and techniques examined and analyzed. Prerequisite: course in human physiology or physiologic psychology, permission of instructor.

NURS 568 Health Politics and Policy (3) Analyzes the formal and informal political context of health care delivery, professionals, and institutions in the United States. Addresses medical coverage and public persuasion, as well as policy analysis. Special attention is paid to women's political resources and participation. Credit/no credit only.

NURS 569 Observation and Assessment of Relationships (3) Spieker Recognizing patterns of behavior in interactions between young children and their caregivers. Assessment of relationships in the early years. Students learn to incorporate an attachment theory approach and observation tools from research into the work of their own discipline or field. Offered: Sp.

NURS 570 Family Concepts: Health and Illness (3) Emphasizes the family as unit of care across the life span. Predominant themes: factors influencing family health promotion, including resilience, vulnerability, risk reduction, and health policy; continuity, change and transition; and promotion of family health during acute and chronic illness episodes.

NURS 571 Advanced Interpersonal Therapeutics with Families (3) Models and research on therapeutic relationships and interpersonal processes evaluated and applied to group interactions among family members, among professionals, and between the family, professionals, and macrosystems. Partnership building emphasized. Individual and group characteristics examined across the life span in social, cultural, and health contexts. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

NURS 573 Professional Issues for Nurse Practitioners (2) Presentation and analysis of current health care trends and key professional issues influencing nurse practitioner practice. The NP's leadership role, role in influencing health policy, accountability to the profession/public, marketability, and legal dimensions of practice are stressed. Prerequisite: NP student nearing program completion or permission.

NURS 574 Family Interpretation and Management of Disordered Behavior across Cultures (3) Examines interpretation and management of disordered behavior from the perspective of families — intergenerational and across cultures. Critically reviews selected theoretical frameworks for understanding families. Emphasizes theory, cultural perspective, and family assessment skills to plan relevant family interventions to assist families in managing disordered behaviors of family members.

NURS 575 Grief and Loss in Clinical Practice (2-4, max. 4) Analysis and study of social, cultural, and psychological conditions that influence human loss, grief, and death in modern society. Research findings, selected readings, and direct experience provide direction for examination of philosophic, theoretical, and pragmatic issues underlying choices and decisions in clinical practice. Open to graduate students with permission of instructor. (Limit: sixteen students.)

NURS 576 Assessment and Collaboration with Communities and Systems (3) Examines, critiques, and applies theory in assessing communities, populations, and systems cross-culturally. Focuses on advanced practice, executive leadership/policy, and practice inquiry; broad definition of community includes organizations. Emphasizes team work in assessment implementation, i.e., survey, interview, focus groups, observation/participant observation to advance understanding of social determinants of health.

NURS 577 Seminar in Infant Mental Health Intervention Models, Consultation, and Leadership (1-, max. 3) Capstone course in Infant Mental Health Certificate Program. Explores intervention models, role of consultation and leadership in the field. Field work in Infant Mental Health Program serves as context for exploring consultation and leadership roles. Synthesis and reflection of personal preparation and role encouraged. Offered: AWS.

NURS 578 Social Determinants of Health (3) Analyze the distribution and causes of health disparities in populations and communities, including but not limited to social, psychological, biological and environmental factors, to assess social determinants of health problems and their remedies. BSN senior with permission of instructor.

NURS 579 Transcultural Nursing Practices (3) Seminars examine four decades of nursing practice literature and other disciplines related to appropriate and competent care of diverse and multicultural populations. Concepts and methods from anthropology and other behavior sciences are considered in relationship with current health practice guidelines. Graduate standing or instructor permission.

NURS 580 Current Issues in Occupational and Environmental Medicine (2, max. 12) Kaufman Interdisciplinary seminar on current and emerging topics in the practice of environmental and occupational health. Faculty- and student-led presentations with an interdisciplinary focus, including occupational hygiene, nursing, and medical issues. Prerequisite: environmental health graduate student, occupational health nursing student, or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with ENV H 596; AWSp.

NURS 581 Study of International Health (2-3) International health based on the concept of health ecology. Assigned readings, discussions, and analysis of different perspectives, strategies, systems, and the wide range of conditions and forces affecting global and local health and illness. Emphasizes roles of health care providers.

NURS 582 Culture, Society, and Genomics (3) Examines social and cultural issues of human genome sequencing and control of genetic expression. Attitudes and behaviors toward health, illness, and disability are studied using historical, contemporary, and cross-cultural case study material. Offered: jointly with ANTH 574/PHG 521.

NURS 583 Emotions and Mental Health: From Adversity to Adaptation (3) Betrus, Elmore Provides an understanding of nature and function of emotions as well as relationship of emotion to mental health/illness. Emphasizes adversity arising from individual and community sources and its impact on emotional health. Addresses implications for interpersonal and social policy interventions.

NURS 584 Critical and Interdisciplinary Approach to Health Policy (3) Advanced seminar to critically analyze various public health policies from a social justice framework.

NURS 585 Introduction to Forensic Nursing and Health Care (3) Baker Examination of the practice, roles, functions, and evolution of the forensic nurse specialty; its relationship to other disciplines and professions; its roles working with victims of crime, violence and abuse, along with offender populations. Introduction to ethical issues in forensic health services.

NURS 586 Forensic Nursing and Health Care for Vulnerable Populations (3) Baker Focuses on the roles of forensic nurses and other working with populations at risk for violence, assault, and abuse; emphasizing issues related to age, race/ethnicity and gender. Examines concepts of vulnerability, dependence, and victimization; interactions with criminal justice and health care systems.

NURS 587 Role Transition Seminar (2) Emphasis on transition to doctoral study and eventual post-graduate roles. Includes information to clarify expectations and skills to facilitate success: various forms of scholarly and interpersonal communication, principles of scholarly collaboration, giving and receiving critiques, and other topics developed by participants. Prerequisite: Enrolled in PhD program in Nursing Science. Credit/no credit only.

NURS 588 Philosophical Basis of Nursing Inquiry (3) Overview and critical analysis of historical and contemporary views of knowledge development and of science, with particular emphasis on the ways these views influence approaches to nursing inquiry. Emphasis on analyzing the underlying epistemological and ontological assumptions and implications of diverse approaches to knowledge generation in nursing.

NURS 589 Theoretical Perspectives in Nursing (3) Critical analysis of theory development, including evaluation of relationships among theories, evidence, and explanation. Diverse approaches used to appraise historical and contemporary milestones in the development and evaluation of nursing knowledge. Emphasis on process and implications of theory development for nursing research, practice, education, and systems. Prerequisite: NURS 588. Offered: W.

NURS 590 Ecology of Human Health (5) Focus on the pluralistic constructions of health as related to different environments. Personal and biological characteristics vary, interact with, and transform the person and the environment. Emphasis on nursing as a social construction which is interactive with the human's experience of health and healing.

NURS 591 Advanced Seminar in Nursing Science (3, max. 15) In-depth analysis and evaluation of literature in focused areas of research. Synthesis of literature related to selected fields of nursing science. Oral analysis of assigned papers and topics. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor.

NURS 592 The Science of Nursing Therapeutics (4) Addresses the state of the science of nursing therapeutics. Students examine the practices of nursing to promote, maintain, and restore human health from an ecological perspective. Therapeutics considered from the perspectives of the individual, family, and community systems.

NURS 593 Preventive Therapeutics (3) Examines literature in the field of health promotion and illness prevention with the purpose of students developing their individual model of health promotion and illness prevention in their own foci of interest considering the social and political forces prevailing.

NURS 594 Advanced Seminar on Healing (3) Advanced seminar to critically analyze current thinking and practice applications that fall under the heading of "healing."

NURS 595 Synthesis of Nursing Science (3) Provides a forum for critical analysis, integration, and synthesis of core content provided during the initial year of the Ph.D. in Nurse Scientist Program and further planning of program of study. Prerequisite: completion of first year required courses of doctoral program. Credit/no credit only.

NURS 596 Colloquium, Scientific Conduct, and Dissertation Seminar (2, max. 12)

Focuses on group discussion of issues pertinent to research conduct. Scientific conduct issues include guidelines relevant to designing, conducting, and disseminating research; risk management in reference to scientific misconduct and negligence; and collaborative and peer-review skills relevant to intra- and interdisciplinary research.

NURS 599 Selected Readings in Nursing Science (1-3, max. 18) Analysis of synthesis of selected readings with faculty mentor. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

Nursing

NSG 501 Teacher Practice Essentials-Models of Teaching & Learning (3) Integrative approach to understanding teaching learning that explores how various educational models and principles frame the processes of teaching and learning. Focus toward advanced practice nurses interested in teaching. Prerequisite: permission of instructor and graduate student status.

NSG 502 Advanced Teacher Practice Essentials-Expertise in Teaching (3) Critical analysis of how educational models and principles frame teaching to promote expertise in practice. Aimed toward advance practice nurses interested in teaching. Builds and expands content of NSG 501. Prerequisite: NSG 501 and graduate student status.

NSG 503 Advanced Teacher Practice Essentials-Diverse Learners (3) Focus on relevance and inclusiveness of addressing diversity of learners within teaching and learning activities. Aimed toward advance practice nurses interested in teaching. Further expands content of NSG 501 and NSG 502. Prerequisite: NURS 501 and graduate student status.

NSG 504 Advanced Teacher Practice-Challenges in Teaching (3) Focus on challenges facing educator during teaching encounters. Addresses influence of belief structures on learner's motivation for change. For advance practice nurses interested in teaching. Prerequisite: NSG 501 and graduate student status.

NSG 505 Applied Occupational Health and Safety (3) Camp, Johnson Application of occupational safety and health principles. Student teams perform evaluations, assess production methods/processes and exposures, health and safety procedures and programs, and develop engineering and administrative controls. Students perform on a consulting project with a local company including budgeting, project reporting, and presentation. Offered jointly with ENVH 559 and IND E 567. Offered: Sp.

NSG 506 Organizing and Administering Industrial Safety and Health Programs (4) Explores industrial organization and methods of integrating safety and industrial hygiene programs with industrial operations. Investigates philosophic issues related to industrial safety and health such as responsibility for safety, dependency on safe practice, and hierarchy of prevention. Contains numerous case problems and student involvement opportunities. Offered: jointly with ENV H 560; A.

NSG 507 Technical Aspects of Safety and Health (3) Explores specific hazards associated with major industries, as well as hazards common to all industries. Covers machine guarding, electrical safety, systems safety analysis, materials handling, and working at heights. Offered: jointly with ENV H 562; W.

NSG 508 Introduction to Ergonomics (3) Basic principles of ergonomics in work environment applied to problems of worker and management. Topics include measurement of physical work capacity, problems of fatigue and heat stress, applied biomechanics, worker-machine interactions and communication, design of displays and controls. Prerequisite: basic human physiology or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with ENV H 566/IND E 566; W.

NSG 509 Pathophysiology for Advanced Practice Nursing (1) Synchronous Web pathophysiology class addresses immune and inflammatory responses with related content on infections and atherosclerosis. Focus on understanding the physiologic/pathophysiologic basis for disease processes and the relationship of various treatment modalities to these concepts. Prerequisite: Recent (within 5 yrs.) upper division anatomy/physiology course or permission of instructor.

NSG 510 Assessment and Management of Neonatal Problems (5) Focus on pathophysiology of disease processes, assessment, diagnosis, and management of common health problems experienced by term and preterm neonates in neonatal intensive care settings. Includes foundations for clinical decision making for neonatal nurse practitioners and examination of interdisciplinary roles. Prerequisite: NURS 514.

NSG 511 Prevention Issues in Community Health (3) An interdisciplinary overview of community health prevention approaches focusing on the social determinants of health and health disparity reduction among vulnerable populations. Analysis of community and population preventive strategies across the life course. Roles of advanced community health nurses as prevention leaders and consumers of prevention information are emphasized. Offered: Sp.

NSG 512 Prevention Critique in Community Health (3) Critical examination of community health prevention programs that build community health capacity and show promise in facilitating long-term health equity among vulnerable populations. Focuses on the leading health disparities among USA racial and ethnic people of color, and how to be a critical program consumer, adopter and adapter. Offered: A.

NSG 513 Psychopharmacology for Children and Adolescents (1) Tyson, Walsh Reviews pertinent issues in prescribing psychoactive medications to children and adolescents. Emphasizes empirical neuroendocrine bases, and nursing management relevant to these interventions. Examines legal and ethical issues pertaining to prescribing for children and adolescents. Offered: S.

NSG 514 Integrating Health Care and Culture (2-3, max. 3) Lenart Prepares clinicians to integrate experience and knowledge with creative approaches and evidence-based strategies to improve cross-cultural health care, including complementary and alternative medicine/healthcare (CAM) practices. Focuses on relationships between clinicians, clients, and families emphasizing discovery of commonalities among cultures to enhance collaboration. Offered: Sp.

NSG 515 Issues in Men's Health (2) Berry Studies selected issues in men's health. Focuses on significant issues particular to men's health. Includes discussion of basic management of selected men's health issues. Credit/no credit only. Offered: S.

NSG 517 Integrating Assessment and Knowledge of CAM into Allopathic Care (3) Schwenka Explores strategies to assess and evaluate CAM use into conventional healthcare across the lifespan. Cultural, ethical, legal, and professional issues related to referral and collaboration within an integrative healthcare system. Challenges healthcare specialists to incorporate integrative principles into their practices. Offered: Sp.

NSG 518 Botanical Medicines and Dietary Supplements (2-3) Kiefer, De Pasquale Exploration of commonly used herbs and evaluation of their evidence base, treating frequently occurring acute and chronic health conditions. Optional laboratory experiences at Bastyr University herb garden and medicine-making laboratory. Field trip to identify Pacific Northwest botanicals.

NSG 519 Qi Gong and Reflexology (1) Maraziti Focuses on history, evidence, and self-practice of traditional Chinese medicine's Qi gong and reflexology. Examines how Qi gong combines movement, meditation, and breathing regulation to enhance qi energy flow. Explores how foot reflexology re-education, re-patterns, and re-conditions neurological reflexes in the soles of the feet to maximize health. Offered: S.

NSG 521 Infectious Disease and Infection Control (2) Critical analysis of factors that influence infectious disease control including delivery of therapeutics, and the role of nursing and other health disciplines in health care and public health system responses, with a population-based perspective of infectious disease prevention, control, and management.

NSG 522 Life Span Physiology and Pathophysiology for Advanced Practice (3) Analysis of normal and abnormal human responses in major organ systems in individuals across the life span. Examination of normal physiology, evidence based and selected disorders pertaining to each system.

NSG 525 Privilege, Oppression, and Social Justice in Health Care (3-4, max. 4) Allen, Schroeder, Ward Focuses on professional development skills that challenge white privilege, racism, and other oppressions in health care. Analysis of racism and privilege, application of that analysis to other oppressions such as gender, class, heterosexism, ableism, etc. Overall goal to enable health care professionals create more socially just health care system. Credit/no credit only.

NSG 530 Professional Identity and Leadership Processes in Nursing (2-4, max. 4) Analysis of professional identity and effective leadership processes. Clarification and advancement of professional identity; analysis of self as leader; critical examination of perspectives of leadership and change; development and application of skills in leadership, conflict management, and collaboration to advance the profession and improve health outcomes. Offered: AS.

NSG 597 Synthesis of Advanced Practice Nursing (3) Synthesize new or higher levels of knowledge and skills of advanced practice nursing specialty, practice inquiry, and leadership to demonstrate competency of doctoral essentials and program objectives. Recommend concurrent clinical practicum. Prerequisite: doctoral candidacy or supervisory committee permission.

Nursing Clinical

NCLIN 302 Practicum: Health Assessment (1-5, max. 5) Lecture and lab emphasize nursing skills in communication, interviewing, functional and physical health assessment. Includes: basic communication skills, beginning physical and psychosocial assessment of the individual across the lifespan, and family assessment. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AS.

NCLIN 306 Practicum: Basic Skills of Nursing Practice (4) Practicum in communication, interviewing, health assessment, identification of threats to health in clinical settings. Explores risk, vulnerability identification, communication, physical/psychosocial assessment of individuals across lifespan, nursing care planning, documentation, psychomotor skills development. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: NCLIN 302, which may be taken concurrently.

NCLIN 402 Practicum: Care in Illness I (4) Provides supervised nursing care to individuals/families with acute/ chronic illness across the lifespan. Emphasizes beginning skills in systematic assessment, including person/environment fit, developing competency in selected nursing therapies, and developing role as care agent for persons of all ages. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: NCLIN 401, which may be taken concurrently.

NCLIN 406 Practicum: Care in Illness II (1-10, max. 10) Provides supervised nursing care to individuals and families with acute and chronic illness. Emphasis on increasing skill in systematic assessment, developing competency in selected nursing therapies, and developing role as caring agent for persons of all ages. Credit/no credit only.

NCLIN 409 Partnerships in Community Health (6) Analysis, application, and evaluation of community partnership process for health. Analysis of nursing role in community/public health, including community building, collaboration, policy. Development and formulation of community interventions to maintain/promote biopsychosocial health/promotion of health/prevention of injury and disease.

NCLIN 411 Transition to Professional Practice (8-12) Emphasis on mastering theoretical concepts, applying theory and research findings, improving skill competency, and developing leadership capabilities. Recommended: completion of first five quarters in the BSN program.

NCLIN 416 Practicum: Nursing of Families: Childbearing and Childrearing (4) Provides the opportunity for supervised nursing of childbearing and childrearing families and individuals. Emphasizes expanding nursing process skills, especially health promotion, with individuals and families during childbearing and childrearing. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: NURS 415, which may be taken concurrently. Offered: AW.

NCLIN 418 Practicum: Psychosocial Nursing (4) Provides supervised psychosocial nursing care to individuals/families/groups/communities with threats to or alterations in psychosocial health. Emphasizes increasing skill in systematic assessment, developing competency in selected psychosocial nursing interventions, and evaluation of treatment outcomes. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: NURS 417, which may be taken concurrently. Offered: AW.

NCLIN 490 Special Laboratory Elective (1-4, max. 4) Altman Provides supervised laboratory experience to enhance and document clinical skills and decision making. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

NCLIN 500 Comprehensive Health Assessment (3) Provides framework for systematic collection, interpretation, and communication of data to determine health status of individuals. Develops beginning advanced practice competence in history-taking and screening physical examination of adolescents and adults. Analysis of multiple health indicators to determine health status. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

NCLIN 501 Diagnostic Health Assessment (1-5, max. 5) Provides framework for learning symptom analysis, selection/performance of examination techniques, and selection/interpretation of common diagnostic procedures. Develops beginning competence in focused history-taking and directed physical exam to evaluate common health problems in adolescents and adults. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: NCLIN 500, which may be taken concurrently.

NCLIN 502 Pediatric Health Assessment and Promotion (1-5, max. 5) Gives experience in obtaining a health history and performing a physical assessment of infants, children, and adolescents. Interviewing techniques, problem-oriented charting, and a systems approach to the physical examination. Emphasis on screening principles, health promotion, and wellness care for children/families. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

NCLIN 503 Advanced Fieldwork Community Health Nursing (2-6, max. 12) Guided experience in delineating nursing roles in community settings. Development of a philosophy of community health nursing. Application of core concepts pertaining to health, ethics, care, and community. A minimum of four hours of guided experience weekly. Prerequisite: graduate standing and permission of instructor.

NCLIN 505 Diagnostic Testing and Monitoring in Serious Illness (2) Lecture, discussion, and laboratory sessions to develop students' assessment, diagnostic, and monitoring expertise in the care of acutely ill individuals. Students refine clinical decision-making skills, apply specialized assessments, gain insight into clinical experts' critical thinking, and refine assessment knowledge for a specific patient population. Prerequisite: NCLIN 501 or equivalent.

NCLIN 508 Seminar in Group Treatment (1) Seminar on the theoretical basis for working with various treatment groups. Analysis of selected approaches to group treatment. Analysis of leader responsibilities and functions in the development of therapeutic group experiences.

NCLIN 509 Teaching Methods and Practicum in Nursing Education (2-10, max. 10) Guided experience in selected teaching-learning situations in nursing, in both classroom and clinical situations. Identification, analysis, and solution of teaching-learning problems in clinical nursing. Minimum of seven hours of guided experience weekly.

NCLIN 510 Group Work with High-Risk Youth (3-6, max. 6) Theory and application course in group counseling for high-risk youth. Central theme is group leader effectiveness in helping young people increase school performance, decrease drug involvement, and increase emotional well-being. Open to graduate students in nursing, education, and related human services professions.

NCLIN 512 Advanced Practicum in Parent and Child Nursing I (2-12, max. 25) Clinical seminar and practicum provide opportunities to develop advanced nursing practice competencies in the care of women, parents, children, and/or adolescents. Application of theory and principles to direct care, consultation, education and/or care coordinator roles with individuals and/or groups.

NCLIN 514 Seminar in Home Care for Chronic Illness (3) Home-care services as component of community health nursing. Understanding effects of direct nursing functions on care of chronically ill persons and their families. Selected field study experiences in community health settings. Prerequisite: NURS 563, graduate standing, and permission of instructor.

NCLIN 515 Health Assessment for Advanced Practice Neonatal Nursing (1 or 3) Develops knowledge and skills to obtain and evaluate health histories and perform systematic physical assessment on newborns and young infants using a diagnosis reasoning process and evidence-based approach. Analyses data to develop differential diagnoses and management plans. Prerequisites: Required for NNP, NCNS, NM students; others with permission of instructor. Credit/no credit only.

NCLIN 526 Managing Organizational Effectiveness Within Care Systems (1) Analysis of management strategies for attaining effective and efficient organizational structures and processes within health care systems. Prerequisite: NURS 524 or permission of instructor.

NCLIN 531 Nursing Process in Parent-Child Nursing (4) Includes lecture, seminar, and laboratory instruction designed to assist the student with knowledge and skill acquisition related to nursing care of individuals and families with regard to childbearing and childrearing. Prerequisite: NURS 530.

NCLIN 540 Infant Mental Health Practice: Parent Child Relationships and Intervention (3-6, max. 15) Through interaction with young children and their families in treatment settings, examines children's development in relationships with primary caregivers and relationship-based interventions for relationship problems in the early years. Includes written observations, seminar presentations, and an individual's professional development plan. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

NCLIN 541 Advanced Practice Specialist Clinical Practicum (1-10, max. 10) Apply, synthesize, evaluate, and communicate knowledge about a specific domain of advanced medical/surgical or forensics nursing practice. Emphasis is on specialization and role development. Prerequisite: Related sciences (CNS, NE, APGN, ID-CNS, IC-APN), or NURS 509 and NURS 585; or permission of instructor.

NCLIN 542 Advanced Practice Specialist Clinical Practicum II (1-10, max. 10) Apply, synthesize, evaluate, and communicate knowledge about a specific domain of advanced medical/surgical or forensics nursing practice. Fieldwork emphasizes greater depth/complexity/independence in specialization and role development. Seminars emphasize critical analysis of role-related issues. Capstone experience for clinical practicum. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: NCLIN 541.

NCLIN 543 Advanced Practice Specialist Clinical Practicum III (1-10, max. 10) Apply, synthesize, evaluate, and communicate knowledge about a specific domain of advanced medical/surgical or forensics nursing practice. Role development within specialty context. Emphasis is on critical analysis of leadership-related issues. For students in final clinical, serves as capstone. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: NCLIN 542.

NCLIN 544 Advanced Practice Specialist Clinical Practicum IV (1-10, max. 20) Apply, synthesize, evaluate, and communicate knowledge about a specific domain of advanced medical/surgical or forensics nursing practice. Fieldwork serves as capstone experience. Seminar emphasis is on consultation and collaboration. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: NCLIN 543.

NCLIN 546 Management of Acute and Chronic Wounds (2-3) Evaluation and treatment of acute and chronic wounds. Includes wound healing physiology, pathophysiology, patient evaluation, evaluation of environmental and systemic factors related to risk of impaired healing, methods for assessing wound progress, and evidenced based treatment options. Optional one credit clinical and lab experience. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor.

NCLIN 549 Nurse Practitioner Clinical Practicum I: Adults/Older Adults (1-10, max. 10) Clinical fieldwork and seminar in advanced nursing practice with individual/groups. Students practice under clinical preceptor supervision. Focuses on data collection/critical thinking related to health status and threats to health, incorporating knowledge from the biological, behavioral, and social sciences. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor, or NCLIN 501 or equivalent.

NCLIN 550 Nurse Practitioner Clinical Practicum II: Adults/Older Adults (1-10, max. 10) Clinical fieldwork and seminar in advanced practice nursing. Builds on NCLIN 549, emphasizing critical thinking related to the differential diagnosis/management of health problems and human responses. Students practice under clinical preceptor supervision. Addresses selected role issues in advanced practice nursing. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: NCLIN 549 or permission of instructor.

NCLIN 551 Advanced Practice Nursing Clinical Practicum III: Adults/Older Adults (1-10, max. 10) Clinical fieldwork and seminar in advanced practice nursing. Builds on NCLIN 550, emphasizing the integration and application of previous learning in the care of people with multiple health problems. Students practice under preceptor supervision. Addresses selected role issues in advanced practice nursing. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: NCLIN 550 or permission of instructor.

NCLIN 552 Nurse Practitioner Clinical Practicum IV: Adults/Older Adults (1-10, max. 10) Intensive clinical experience in which students integrate previous learning to assume responsibility for care of older adults and/or adults with multiple health problems. Students practice as an advanced practice nurse supervised by a preceptor, assuming increasing responsibility for planning/implementing therapies and for documenting/evaluating outcomes. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: NCLIN 551.

NCLIN 553 Seminar in Primary Care I: Health Promotion (2/3, max. 3) Clinical application of major theories of health promotion, risk assessment, health behavior change, and disease prevention across the age span. Emphasizes an evidence-based approach, with consideration of cultural, socio-economic, and diversity factors. Includes clinical practicum. Prerequisite: NURS 552, which may be taken concurrently; permission of instructor.

NCLIN 554 Occupational Health Nursing: Practice Issues (2-6, max. 6) In-depth overview of occupational health and safety. Includes discussion of American workforce, work environments, regulations, and political issues; identifies trends which affect practice; introduces prevalent health disorders which result from occupational exposure; examines and applies nursing theory to the prevention and control of occupational injuries and illnesses.

NCLIN 556 Seminar in Primary Care II: Evidence Based Management of Common Health Concerns (3) Examines clinical application of theories of illness management across the age span. Emphasizes an evidence-based approach to assessment, differential diagnosis, and management with consideration of cultural, socio-economic and diversity factors. Utilizes technology to support clinical decision-making. Includes clinical practicum. Taught in conjunction with NURS 510 and NURS 518. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing and permission of instructor.

NCLIN 557 Seminar in Primary Care III: Evidence Based Management of Common Health Concerns (3) Examines clinical application of theories of illness management across the age span. Emphasizes an evidence-based approach to assessment, differential diagnosis, and management with consideration of cultural, socio-economic and diversity factors. Utilizes technology to support clinical decision-making. Identifies opportunities for leadership and inquiry in clinical practice. Taught in conjunction with NURS 510. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing and permission of instructor.

NCLIN 558 Occupational Health Nursing: Program Development (2-6, max. 6) In-depth examination of occupational health and safety programs including organizational analyses, budgeting, marketing, case management, and workers' compensation; also political, economic, legal, and ethical issues. Focuses on development, implementation, and evaluation of programs including health promotion, EAP, and health surveillance. Applies public health and nursing sciences to selected work-related problems.

NCLIN 559 Seminar in Primary Care IV: Management of Common Health Concerns (3-5) Focus on research questions, patient presentations, and group discussions drawn from field study. Supervised clinical field study within selected primary care settings and weekly seminar discussions related to theory presented in NURS 510. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor; nurse practitioner students register for NURS 510 concurrently.

NCLIN 560 Seminar in Primary Care V: Complex Clinical Decision Making ([1-11]-, max. 11) Seminar with associated field study. Synthesis of advanced knowledge base and clinical family nurse practitioner skills with effective management of complex clinical problems. No grade given until 11 total credits completed. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing and permission of instructor.

NCLIN 566 Advanced Clinical Practicum in Psychosocial Nursing (1-9, max. 20) Seminar and practicum focus on development of advanced clinical and role-function skills. Practicum in settings with select populations under supervision of expert clinicians. Seminars use evidenced-based practice criteria to integrate cases into discussion. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: NURS 570, NURS 564, one theory course, or permission of instructor.

NCLIN 570 Practicum in Adult Psychosocial Assessment (2) Under supervision of faculty/preceptors from clinical agencies, students use evidence-based practice criteria to assess individuals, groups, and families. Students gain skills in psychosocial interviewing, mental status examinations, and assessing psychosocial variables by standardized instruments and clinical interview. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: NURS 549 or permission of instructor.

NCLIN 572 Practicum in Physical Assessment (2) Physical health assessment in practicum with the opportunity to refine skills in taking a complete health history and in performing physical examinations in a clinical setting. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: either NURS 510 modules ABC, or NURS 510 modules HI; NCLIN 500; 501, or permission of instructor.

NCLIN 573 Advanced Field Study in Family Nursing (2-9, max. 9) Advanced practice development in direct care, consultation, and/or care coordination with individual families or groups of families across the life span. Opportunities provided to strengthen interpersonal therapeutic process skills, family nursing approaches relevant to family health promotion, problematic family health patterns. Prerequisite: concurrent registration in NURS 572, NCLIN 574; recommended: NURS 571.

NCLIN 599 Independent Study Clinical Practicum (1-12, max. 25) Clinical practicum to develop advanced-practice nursing skills in care of individuals, groups, communities, or care systems. Individually arranged with faculty member for application of theory and principles to direct care, consultation, education or care coordinator roles. Prerequisite: matriculated MN student or post-masters student, and permission of academic adviser and instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

Nursing Methods

NMETH 403 Introduction to Research in Nursing (3) Organization of the structure of nursing knowledge through research. Concepts and processes of research utilized in the investigation of nursing science.

NMETH 499 Undergraduate Research (1-5, max. 12) Supervised individual scholarly inquiry on a specific nursing problem.

NMETH 515 Sociobehavioral and Prevention Research Methods for HIV and STI (3) Kurth Focuses on prevention methods for controlling HIV/STI epidemics, identifying a range of alternatives along the prevention continuum as most appropriate and feasible for settings and populations, and solutions to increase HIV/STI prevention agenda in public health and clinical policy and practice. Offered: jointly with EPI 549; Sp.

NMETH 520 Scholarly Inquiry for Nursing Practice (4) Killien, Schepp, Simpson Analyzes conceptual, theoretical, and empirical knowledge as a basis for evidence-based practice. Examines methodological approaches to scholarly inquiry and research applied to nursing practice. Evaluates role of advanced practice nurses in research. Offered: AWS.

NMETH 521 Methods of Research in Nursing (2) Continuation of 520, with emphasis on methods of research applied to the solution of problems in all fields of nursing.

NMETH 522 Data Management for Research Professionals (4) Surveys industrial strength data management, using techniques applicable to multi-center, longitudinal research trials with survey instruments. Involves challenges research professionals face as they graduate from a student project to a study with hundreds of cases, variables, multiple survey instruments and a staggered, repeated sampling protocol. Credit/no credit only.

NMETH 523 Project Management and System Analysis for Health Informatics (3) Masuda Overview of information technology project management principles as contained within the Project Management Body of Knowledge (PMBOK) and the Systems Development Life Cycle within formal Systems Analysis. Offered: A.

NMETH 524 Healthcare Information Systems and the Electronic Health Records (3) Masuda, Murphy Overview and analysis of healthcare informatics issues, including patient safety and Information Technology (IT), infrastructure, clinical systems, definitions and functions of Her systems, IT leadership in health care organizations, informatics change management, including key user roles evaluating Her and workflow changes. Offered: W.

NMETH 526 Patient-Centered Interactive Health Communication Technologies(3) Overview of current and emerging consumer-centric eHealth tools and technologies. Researchers and practitioners from multiple disciplines present theories, concepts, and principles from health, information, cognition, and human-factors sciences as they relate to eh development and use of these tools and technologies.

NMETH 527 Introduction to Health Informatics and Systems Thinking (3) Masuda, Oylar Examines how informatics aids in the transformation of healthcare delivery and how to most effectively use the theories and best practices in informatics toward building and deploying informatics solutions. Offered: A.

NMETH 528 Computing Concepts: From Theory to Application (3) Johnson Survey of conceptual and applied computing concepts. Conceptual topics include a global survey of hard/software, networking, information systems analysis/design, and programming. The applied component emphasizes desktop system management skills and the creative use of spreadsheets to enhance personal productivity. Offered: W.

NMETH 529 Database Concepts and Applications in Clinical Informatics (3) Oylar Introduction to relational database theory and technology from a health informatics perspective. Focuses on transactional database theory, architecture and implementation in a socio-technical context. Analyzes database applications used in clinical environments. Introduces knowledge bases and data warehouses. Prerequisite: NMETH 528. Offered: Sp.

NMETH 530 Scholarly Proposal Development (2) Jarret, Killien, Schepp, Simpson Focuses on the application of methods of inquiry to develop a scholarly proposal through faculty-guided small group discussion and individual composition. Prerequisite: NMETH 520. Offered: AWSpS.

NMETH 532 Developing an Evidence Base for Complementary and Alternative Medicine Practices (2/3) Berry, Booth-LaForce, Brandt, Magyary Focuses on skill enhancement for evaluation CAM-related evidence and the implications for translating evidence to practice. Examines the challenges of CAM studies and describes strategies for improvement. Examines factors such as environment, culture, provider-patient relationship, and personal characteristics influencing research. Prerequisite: NMETH 520 or equivalent. Offered: W.

NMETH 533 Appraising Evidence for Clinical Practice (4) Teaches skills for evaluating and appraising health related evidence for clinical practice. Develops advanced competency in searching and evaluating literature. Examines the merits of different types and levels of evidence; analyzing the generalizability and implications for clinical practice. Prerequisite: basic statistics course, NMETH 520, or equivalent. Offered: AWSpS.

NMETH 534 Translating Evidence to Clinical Practice: Conceptual, Methodological and Clinical Issues (4) Examines conceptual, methodological, clinical and policy issues associated with translating evidence to practice. Translation of best evidence, including clinical guidelines, evaluated for impact on quality improvement, safety, accessibility, cost effectiveness, health status and quality of life. Addresses contextual challenges. Prerequisite: permission of instructor; either basic statistics course, NMETH 520, or NMETH 533. Offered: AWSpS.

NMETH 570 Seminar in Clinical Research in Nursing (3) Philosophy, problems of design; use of criterion measures in terms of patient care.

NMETH 575 Methodological Issues in Family Research (3) Emphasizes research with the family as unit of analysis. Examines patterns of family functioning in relation to responses to heal situations. Reviews family units from generational and intergenerational perspectives. Critiques methods assessing dyadic and triadic relationships and therapeutic interventions on family outcomes. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

NMETH 580 Methodological Perspectives in Nursing Inquiry (5) Allows students to translate philosophical and theoretical perspectives into research methodologies. Foci will include: the relationship of theoretical perspectives to methodologies; the methodological issues among and between varying schools of thought (including contemporary empiricist, interpretive, and critical/postmodern); and how the methodologies influence choices of research design and methods.

NMETH 581 Observational Research Methods (2-6, max. 6) Examines observational methods for conducting verbal and nonverbal behavioral research. Emphasizes critical analysis and rigor in research question formulation, measurement decisions, coding scheme development, data collection, and analysis and interpretation of data. In-depth application of observational method optional. Prerequisite: graduate standing and basic research methods course or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

NMETH 582 Interpretative Methods in Nursing Research (4-) Seminar and field practicum for interpretative research methods. Study on health-related issues using a selected tradition in interpretative methods. Prerequisite: permission of Instructor.

NMETH 583 Interpretative Methods in Nursing Research (-4) Seminar and field practicum for interpretative research methods. Study on health-related issues using a selected tradition in interpretative methods. Prerequisite: permission of Instructor.

NMETH 584 Methods: Physiologic Measures (4) Exploration of the measurement of physiologic functioning in human and animal models. Examples include biochemical and biophysical measure. Students develop beginning skills with one physiologic measure. Prerequisite: physiology and chemistry and permission of instructor.

NMETH 585 Meta-Analysis (4) Meta-analysis examined as a method to synthesize research. Overview of meta-analytic methods; description of the collection, analysis, synthesis, and reporting of studies; explanation of statistical calculations; and discussion of reliability and validity measures incorporated into meta-analytic design. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

NMETH 586 Instrument Development and Testing (4) Includes measurement theory, reliability, validity, level of measurement, and the process of scale development, modification, or translation. Students learn to evaluate, develop, modify, translate, and test instruments for use in research. Prerequisite: student in health science discipline and permission of instructor.

NMETH 587 Methods of Theory Testing: Causal Modeling with Path Analysis and Structural Equation Modeling (4) Includes causal inferencing and theory testing through causal modeling with path analysis and structural equations modeling. Students learn to evaluate theory models and to apply the content by developing and testing models. Prerequisite: student in health science discipline and permission of instructor.

NMETH 590 Special Topics in Nursing Research (2-5, max. 9) Examination of a specific research method, with evaluation of appropriateness, efficiency, rigor of measurement, and potential for inference for nursing research. Prerequisite: minimum of 5 credits of basic nursing research methodology at graduate level and permission of instructor.

NMETH 591 Clinical Outcome Research I (4) Examination of philosophical, analytical, and methodological decisions and processes in evaluating the effectiveness of interventions and programs designed to enhance health outcomes. Alternative designs are addressed in consideration of underlying assumptions about prevention/causation research; clinical human phenomena; design sensitivity; and threats to validity. Theory development emphasized. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

NMETH 592 Clinical Outcome Research II (2-4, max. 4) Application and evaluation of philosophical, methodological, and analytical concepts and issues examined in 591. Two modules are offered: a) case study and small-n studies and b) large-n studies. Students demonstrate application of decision-making process involved in development of clinical outcome study. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

NMETH 593 Time Series and Sequential Analysis (4) Basic introduction to terminology and methods of time series and sequential analysis as applicable to nursing-relevant processes in the form of samples of interval and categorical data collected over time; autocorrelation, autoregression, spectrum, socinor, Markovian, lag sequential, and log-linear analyses. Development of practical analysis skills on real data sets. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Credit/no credit only.

NMETH 598 Special Projects ([1-12]-, max. 12) Fulfills the requirements of the non-thesis option for Master's students in nursing. Projects involve scholarly inquiry with in-depth focused analysis, culminating in a written product/report for dissemination. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: NMETH 520 or permission of instructor.

NMETH 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only.

NMETH 700 Master's Thesis (*) Credit/no credit only.

NMETH 799 Capstone Clinical Investigative Project ([1-12]-, max. 28) Capstone project reflects culmination practice inquiry knowledge and competencies. Students collaborate with clinicians, consumers, faculty or fellow students to examine clinical questions which involve translating evidence to practice, and ultimately informs and influences care and enhances health outcomes. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of supervisory committee. Offered: AWSpS.

NMETH 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of Supervisory Committee chairperson or graduate program adviser.

Fisheries

FISH 101 The Living Aquatic World (5) I&S/ NW Freshwater and marine biodiversity, population, biology, ecosystem structure and function, evolution, conservation genetics, physiology, aquaculture, environmental effects of human activities, role of law, government, and human communities in resource conflicts management. Three case studies. Suitable for non-majors.

FISH 210 Methods in Fisheries and Aquatic Sciences: Theory and Applications (5) NW Comprehensive survey of the theory and techniques of field research in aquatic sciences. Topics emphasize sampling design, data collection, and interpretation across a broad suite of topics and approaches. Field trips and laboratory sections are mandatory.

FISH 221 Ecology and Evolution of the Microbe (5) NW Explores microbial diversity, hands-on methods, microbes as agents of disease, where microbes fit in the ecosystem, extreme environments and microbes, and microbes as the start of life.

FISH 250 Marine Biology (3/5) I&S, NW Lecture-laboratory course in Marine Biology focusing on physical, biological, and social aspects of the marine environment. Topics include oceanography, ecology, physiology, behavior, conservation, fisheries, exploration, and activism. Weekend field trip. Honors section research project. Offered: jointly with BIOL/OCEAN 250.

FISH 296 Study Abroad: Aquatic and Fishery Sciences (0) NW For participants in UW study abroad program. Specific content varies and must be individually evaluated. Credit not does not apply to major requirements without approval.

FISH 297 Special Topics in Fisheries (1-5, max. 5) NW Selected topics in aquatic science and fisheries.

FISH 310 Biology of Shellfishes (5) NW Commercially important mollusks, crustaceans, and other harvested invertebrates highlighted with respect to systematics, anatomy, reproductive strategies, feeding, and growth. Examples of species that demonstrate variability in recruitment and complex life cycles. Laboratories, field trips. Recommended: 10 credits biological science.

FISH 311 Biology of Fishes (3/5) NW Lecture and laboratory, of the morphological, physiological, behavioral, and ecological diversity of fishes of the world; designed to provide a basic foundation for advanced courses in all areas of finfish fisheries. 3-credit option does not include laboratory. Recommended: 10 credits biological science. Offered: jointly with BIOL 311; W.

FISH 312 Fisheries Ecology (3/5) NW Ecological characteristics of fishes and shellfishes in the important freshwater and marine habitats of North America. Relationship between physical aspects of the habitats and community structure. Impacts of human activities on diversity and abundance. Prerequisite: either BIOL 162 or 220; recommended: FISH 210; FISH 311. Offered: Sp.

FISH 323 Conservation and Management of Aquatic Resources (5) NW Topics include population growth rates, extinction risk, dynamics of populations at low densities, meta-populations, marine reserves, endangered species classification, sustainable harvesting and management institutions. Examines case studies such as salmon, albatross and whales as representative of conservation issues in aquatic sciences. Sampling, experimental design, computer skills and research writing.

FISH 324 Aquatic Animal Physiology and Reproduction (3/5) NW Adaptations of aquatic animals to environmental challenges. Energy pathways from feeding and digestion through maintenance (metabolism, movement, repair), homeostasis (respiration, osmoregulation, thermoregulation), growth and reproduction (sex determination, manipulation, sex change). Roles of sensory, nervous, and endocrine systems in mediating environmental information. Hands-on laboratory. Prerequisite: either BIOL 161 or BIOL 220.

FISH 328 Forestry-Fisheries Interactions (4) NW Characteristics of forestry-fisheries interactions in terrestrial and aquatic landscapes. Effects of changes in landforms on forest and aquatic communities. River basin and watershed features. Forest stand dynamics, forest hydrology, fish and wildlife histories and behavior. Resource conflicts and resolution. Offered: jointly with ESRM 328; even years; Sp.

FISH 330 Climate Change Impacts on Marine Ecosystems (5) NW Links the physics of climate to marine ecosystem processes, exploring both observed climate impacts from the past and projected ecosystem changes due to human-caused climate change in the future. Case studies include polar, sub-arctic, temperate, tropical and upwelling ecosystems, and ocean-acidification and its projected impacts. Required: high school or college physics and algebra with a basic understanding of Newton's Laws and the ability to comprehend and construct vector diagrams. Offered: jointly with ENVIR 330.

FISH 340 Genetics and Molecular Ecology (5) NW Application of molecular markers to ecology, evolution, and the management of living resources. Emphasis on understanding the strengths and weaknesses of the approach based on case studies. Offered: jointly with BIOL 340. Prerequisite: either BIOL 102, BIOL 162, or BIOL 200.

FISH 350 Marine Ecology of Coastal Systems (3) Explores the ecological relationships of marine organisms in coastal systems, including kelp forests and coral reefs, the physical forces that shape these systems, and the impacts of environmental change. Recommended: BIOL 250/FISH 250/OCEAN 250. Offered: jointly with SMA 350.

FISH 351 Field Investigations in Marine Biology (5) Evaluates the relationships between man and marine systems in a field-oriented class. Case studies directly investigate marine biology. Studies include human activities and our effects on marine species and communities. Multiple field trips, lectures, and labs. Prerequisite: FISH 350/OCEAN 350. Offered: jointly with OCEAN 351; Sp.

FISH 404 Diseases of Aquatic Animals (5) NW Overview of communicable and noncommunicable diseases that affect fish and shellfish. Major pathogens of free-ranging as well as captive animals discussed. Students learn to recognize, prevent, and control economically and ecologically important disease syndromes. Recommended: 10 credits biological science.

FISH 420 Ecology of Marine Fishes (4) NW Focuses on the unique ecological challenges facing marine fishes, including individual, population, community, and ecosystem-scale processes. Prerequisite: either FISH 311 or FISH 312.

FISH 423 Aquatic Invasion Ecology (4) QSR Explores the patterns, drivers, and consequences of species invasions in freshwater, estuary, and marine ecosystems. Focuses on the science and management needs for preventing, controlling, and eradicating invasive species. Topics illustrated with cases from the Pacific Northwest and the world. Prerequisite: either BIOL 462 or BIOL 180.

FISH 424 Biology and Culture of Aquatic Organisms (5) Explores the concept of sustainability and the interrelationship between environment, aquatic species, and culture of aquatic animal and plant species globally. Current practices, animal biology and health, near-shore ecosystem conservation, water quality, and strategies to improve the sustainability of aquaculture for food production and species conservation. Lecture and lab.

FISH 428 Restoration of Fish Communities and Habitats in River Ecosystems (5) NW Examines opportunities to encourage recovery through natural developmental processes that enhance the complexity of habitats and connectivity between habitats in the river basin. Class discussion and participation on field trips focuses on current restoration concepts for ecosystems, designs of projects, and case studies. Recommended: fish ecology and hydrology courses. Offered: odd years; Sp.

FISH 437 Fisheries Oceanography (4) NW Investigates how the environment influences distributions and abundances of marine vertebrate and invertebrate species. Uses studies to understand fish and zooplankton life histories, predict trends in populations, reduce uncertainty in resource management, and to decouple anthropogenic from natural effects on aquatic populations.

FISH 439 Attaining a Sustainable Society (1/3, max. 3) I&S/NW Karr Discusses diverse environmental issues, the importance of all areas of scholarship to evaluating environmental challenges, and the connections between the past and the future, to reveal integrative approaches to protect the long-term interests of human society. Offered: jointly with ENVIR 439.

FISH 444 Conservation Genetics (5) NW Advanced genetic concepts and methods related to aquatic species' conservation and management. Includes genetic diversity, small populations and fragmentation, genetic viability, management of wild and captive populations (including aquaculture), reintroductions, hatchery-wild interactions and forensics. Labs include molecular techniques. Recommended: GENET 371.

FISH 447 Watershed Ecology and Management (3) NW Explores fundamental ecological processes at the watershed scale, identifies human-induced changes to ecological systems, and discusses approaches to improve watershed management. Includes lectures, field trips, and discussions with organizations and agencies about how they are addressing ways to improve watershed management. Offered: W.

FISH 450 Salmonid Behavior and Life History (3/5) NW Marine distribution, homing migration, and spawning behavior of adult salmon: incubation, emergence, migration, and residence of fry; fingerling distribution and residence with reference to species interaction and population evolution. Recommended: FISH 311. Offered: A.

FISH 453 Spatial Information Technologies in Ecosystem Sciences (3) NW Logsdon Introduction to the use of GPS, GIS, and Remote Sensing in the ecosystem sciences. Integrates these technologies in an applied research setting. Two overnight weekend field trips required. Offered: jointly with OCEAN 452.

FISH 454 Ecological Modeling (5) NW Examines concepts in ecological modeling focusing on the rational, interpretation, and motivation for modeling in ecological sciences. Explores individual, population, and ecosystem-based models. Excel-based computer exercises, model building and interpretation, readings. Recommended: prior coursework in ecology and statistics. Offered: jointly with Q SCI 454.

FISH 455 Fish and Wildlife Toxicology (3/5) NW Overview of fish/wildlife toxicology: history of the field; regulations; methods used to assess risks contaminants pose to fish/wildlife; classes of contaminants and their direct, sublethal and indirect effects; and contemporary threats of contaminants to fish/wildlife, their habitats and prey. Includes laboratory. Offered: jointly with ESRM 457; W.

FISH 458 Fisheries Stock Assessment (4) NW Francis Emphasizes quantitative analysis of fisheries data to determine how the fishery would respond to alternative management actions. Major topics include production models, stock and recruitment, catch at age analysis, and formulation of harvest strategies. Recommended: either Q SCI 456 or FISH 456. Offered: jointly with Q SCI 458; Sp.

FISH 473 Limnology (3) NW Ecology, conservation, and management of inland aquatic ecosystems. Explores interactions among biological, chemical, and physical features of lakes and other aquatic habitats. Prerequisite: either BIOL 102, BIOL 162, BIOL 18 0, or BIOL 203. Offered: jointly with BIOL 473.

FISH 474 Limnology Laboratory (2) NW Examination of biota of fresh waters, survey of limnological methods, analysis of data, and writing of scientific papers. Prerequisite: BIOL473/FISH 473/CEE 462, which may be taken concurrently. Offered: jointly with BIOL 474/CEE 463; A.

FISH 475 Marine Mammalogy (3/5) NW Evolution, taxonomy, physiology, life history, and behavior of marine mammals; the techniques of studying and the management and conservation of them. Recommended: 15 credits of biological science, vertebrate anatomy, and physiology, for laboratory sections.

FISH 478 Topics in Sustainable Fisheries (3, max. 9) Parrish Seminar series featuring local, national and internationally known speakers in fisheries management and conservation. Case studies. Conservation/restoration in practice. Pre-seminar discussion section focusing on select readings. Final paper. Topics may include harvest management, whaling, by-catch, salmon, marine protected areas, introduced species, citizen action, co-management, and marine ethics. Offered: jointly with BIOL/ENVIR 478.

FISH 480 Marine Resource Conservation and Management (3) I&S/NW Gallucci, Miller Techniques and philosophy for conservation, management and development of harvested marine populations. Emphasis on integration of ecological, sociological, and economic dimensions of institutional decision making for policy formation in uncertain environments. Offered: jointly with ENVIR 480/SMA 480.

FISH 490 Aquatic Microbiology (3/5) NW Basic principles of aquatic microbiology and aquatic microbial ecology: role and identity of aquatic microorganisms; introduction to modern methodologies for research. Laboratory work with local freshwater and marine samples for those enrolled in 5-credit section. Offered: jointly with MICROM 490; Sp, odd years. Recommended 15 credits of biological science, 10 credits of chemistry.

FISH 491 Aquatic Ecological Research in Alaska (12) NW Intensive, full-time research training experience where a team of students works on focused research problems guided by a group of faculty, postdoctoral, and graduate student mentors. Examines behavioral ecology, limnology, and population dynamics. Students also choose specific research questions for their own exploration. Course location: Alaska. Offered: S.

FISH 492 Friday Harbor Labs Apprenticeship (9/15) NW Intensive, full-time research training experience where teams of students work on focused research problems guided by a group of faculty, postdoctoral and graduate student mentors. Research questions vary. Course location: Friday Harbor Laboratories.

FISH 493 Capstone Preparation (1) Includes defining a capstone research question, choosing a faculty advisor, conducting a literature review, preparing a project proposal and budget, and attending/critiquing the quarterly capstone symposium.

FISH 494 Capstone Project I (1-9, max. 9) Self-directed research or project under direction of a faculty member. Includes defining research question, determining methodology, data collection and analysis, writing a paper, and presenting findings. Required for graduation for majors. May be taken concurrently with FISH 495. Prerequisite: FISH 210; FISH 493; Q SCI 381.

FISH 495 Capstone Project II (-3) Self-directed research project under direction of a faculty member. Typically includes defining a research question, determining methodology, data collection and analysis, writing a paper, and presenting findings. May be taken concurrently with FISH 494 with permission of instructor.

FISH 496 Study Abroad: Aquatic and Fishery Sciences (1-15, max. 30) NW For participants in UW study abroad program. Specific content varies and must be individually evaluated. Credit does not apply to major requirements without approval.

FISH 497 Special Topics in Aquatic and Fishery Sciences (1-15, max. 15) NW One-time offerings of topics in fisheries by resident or visiting faculty.

FISH 498 Internship/Experiential Learning (1-15, max. 15) Structured, practical training in the fishing industry, government agencies and other areas utilizing fisheries, food science, or quantitative science expertise. Experiences are supervised and evaluated. Written reports required. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

FISH 499 Undergraduate Research (1-15, max. 15) Individual research within the School of Aquatic and Fishery Sciences. Each project supervised by an individual faculty member. Written reports required.

FISH 507 Special Topics in Fisheries (1-15, max. 15) Recommended: permission of instructor.

FISH 510 Current Topics in Genetics and Physiology (1-5, max. 15) Contemporary problems and issues in genetics and physiology as they relate to fisheries and aquatic sciences.

FISH 511 Current Topics in Evolution, Ecology, and Behavior (1-5, max. 15) Contemporary problems and issues in evolution, ecology and behavior as they relate to fisheries and aquatic sciences.

FISH 512 Current Topics in Quantitative Science (1-5, max. 15) Contemporary problems and issues in quantitative science as they relate to fisheries and aquatic sciences.

FISH 513 Current Topics in Management, Conservation, and Restoration (1-5, max. 15) Contemporary problems and issues in management, conservation, and restoration as they relate to fisheries and aquatic sciences.

FISH 514 Current Topics Aquaculture, Utilization, and Pathology (1-5, max. 15) Contemporary problems and issues in aquaculture, utilization, and pathology as they relate to fisheries and aquatic sciences.

FISH 521 Research Proposal Writing for Graduate Students (4) Practice in reading, writing, critiquing, and evaluating research grant and contract proposals. Lecture and discussion of funding resources, structure of proposals, proposal review, evaluation criteria, and agency feedback. Examples of successful and unsuccessful grant applications. Preparing proposals and critiquing other's efforts.

FISH 522 Hot Topics in Aquatic and Fishery Sciences (2) Discussion of the primary literature of aquatic and fishery sciences. All readings are current, high profile papers which spark a new avenue of investigation, set out a new paradigm, define a central problem, etc. Credit/no credit only. Offered: A.

FISH 526 Ecology of Aquatic Ecosystems (3) Explores natural and human-driven processes regulating the structure and functioning of freshwater and marine ecosystems. Topics include biogeochemistry, energy, and material flows among habitats, evolution in ecological time, commonality of marine and freshwater habitats, and the issues of scale in understanding ecosystem dynamics. Recommended: upper division ecology, limnology, or oceanography.

FISH 529 Water Center Seminar (1) Steinmann Weekly seminars covering water resources and watershed topics with lectures from scientists on and off campus. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with CFR 529/PB AF 521; AWSp.

FISH 530 Application of Bioenergetics Models to Aquatic Food Webs (4) Modeling framework quantifying bioenergetics, including consumption, growth, nutrient recycling and contaminant bioaccumulation; links physiology and behavior of individual organisms to ecological processes within populations and aquatic food webs. Common applications include estimating predation, carrying capacity, or growth potential in different habitats. Recommended: regression course.

FISH 535 Aquatic Toxicology (3) Principles of toxicology applied to aquatic organisms. Recognition of physiological and biochemical responses of organisms to toxins and practical application of toxicity testing methods to identification of pollution and toxins in aquatic environment. Toxicity test design, interpretation, and data analysis. Recommended: organic or biochemistry and physiology or equivalent or permission of instructor.

FISH 537 Fisheries Oceanography (4) Investigates how the environment influences distributions and abundances of marine vertebrate and invertebrate species. Uses studies to understand fish and zooplankton life histories, predict trends in populations, reduce uncertainty in resource management, and to decouple anthropogenic from natural effects on aquatic populations.

FISH 542 Principles and Applications of Molecular Methods (3) Applications of molecular techniques to questions in ecology, evolution, and natural resource management, with emphasis on advanced genome-enabled technologies and the analysis and interpretation of genetic data. Includes weekly discussion of empirical papers, and preparation/peer-review of a proposal. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with OCEAN 574; A.

FISH 543 Molecular Techniques (4) Laboratory on DNA methods. Experiments analyzing genetic variation at the intra- and interspecific level, including one experiment of student's own design. Techniques include DNA extraction and quantitation, PCR, DNA sequencing, RFLP analysis and cloning. Prerequisite: FISH 542 or OCEAN 574 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with OCEAN 575.

FISH 547 Stream and River Ecology (5) Characterizations of stream and river ecosystems from a watershed perspective. Emphasis on fundamental processes affecting the structure and dynamics of aquatic communities and the riparian zone. Resource conflicts, new technologies, field trips, and class projects. Offered: jointly with CFR 547; Sp.

FISH 557 Estimation of Population Parameters (4) Statistical analysis of population data; design and analysis of mark-recapture experiments on natural populations; laboratory work on computers. Recommended: probability theory and Q SCI 292 and 483.

FISH 558 Advanced Analysis in Fisheries Stock Assessment (3) Deterministic and stochastic representations of age-dependent and size-dependent models for stock assessment; analysis of multi-species models; risk analysis and uncertainty in fisheries management strategies; analysis of population data on computers. Recommended: 456, 458, 557, or permission of instructor.

FISH 560 Applied Multivariate Statistics for Ecologists (4) GE Use and interpretation of multivariate analysis, including the majority of approaches in common use by ecologists. Emphasizes the conceptual understanding and practical use of the methods, illustrated with ecological case studies. Prerequisite: Q SCI 482 or equivalent.

FISH 565 Marine Fish Biology (9) Taxonomy, ecology, and life history of the fishes of the San Juan Islands and northeast Pacific Ocean. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: Friday Harbor Laboratories.

FISH 578 Graduate Topics in Sustainable Fisheries (2, max. 6) Parrish Seminar series featuring local, national and internationally known speakers in fisheries management and conservation. Case studies. Conservation/restoration in practice. Post-seminar discussion section led by speaker on topics covered in lecture. Topics may include harvest management, whaling, by-catch, salmon, marine protected areas, introduced species, citizen action, co-management, and marine ethics.

FISH 581 Fishery Management: Case Studies (3) Examination of historical case studies chosen to illustrate specific fishery management problem areas. Faculty presentations occupy first half of quarter, student presentations the second half. Prerequisite: FISH 580. Offered: jointly with SMA 581.

FISH 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only.

FISH 700 Master's Thesis (*) Credit/no credit only.

FISH 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Credit/no credit only.

School of Marine Affairs

SMA 103 Society and the Oceans (5) I&S/NW Explores the social and policy dimensions of the ocean environment and ocean management policy. Attention to how human values, institutions, culture, and history shape environmental issues and policy responses. Examines case studies and influential frameworks, such as the ocean as "tragedy of the commons". Offered: jointly with SIS 103

SMA 433 Environmental Degradation in the Tropics (5) I&S/NW Considers theories and controversies of environmental degradation in the tropics, ecological and social case studies of Central American rain forests and Southeast Asian coral reefs, and implications of environmental management techniques. Offered: jointly with SIS 433/SMA 433.

SMA 455 Marine Business Environment in Russia and Eastern Europe (3) I&S Kaczynski International marine business environment of Russia and the maritime nations of East Europe; their transition process from communist to free market economic systems. Covers aspects of doing business in marine-related fields such as shipping, fisheries, shipbuilding, ports, and land infrastructures, marine tourism, and water sports. Offered: jointly with SISRE 455.

SMA 476 Introduction to Environmental Law and Process (3) I&S Bryant, Hershman Use and application of key statutes in marine living resources management. Overview of administrative law and process. Basic legal research, reading, and briefing selected judicial opinions. Participatory case study component. Designed for non-law graduate and advanced undergraduate students. Offered: jointly with ENVIR 476; A.

SMA 480 Marine Resource Conservation and Management (3) I&S/NW Gallucci, Miller Techniques and philosophy for conservation, management and development of harvested marine populations. Emphasis on integration of ecological, sociological, and economic dimensions of institutional decision making for policy formation in uncertain environments. Offered: jointly with FISH 480/ENVIR 480.

SMA 485 Pacific Recreation and Tourism Issues (3) I&S/NW Miller Examines how marine tourism links people to one another and to the environment. Utilizes concepts from cultural anthropology, sociology, political science, geography, ecology, conservation biology, and planning. Topics include: ecotourism, ethnic tourism, marine parks and protected area, fisheries, sustainable development, tourism ethics, and marine environmental education.

SMA 499 Undergraduate Research (1-15, max. 15) Research on assigned topics under the supervision of faculty members. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

SMA 500 Introduction to the Human Dimensions of Global Change (3) Hershman Introduces students to human dimensions of global change in the marine environment. Examines how changes are physical, social and institutional; and how global climate change affects the ability of ecosystems to provide services that support humankind. Explores globalization and third world development, changes the use of coastal and ocean resources. Offered: A.

SMA 501 Integrated Marine Affairs Practice (3) Introduction to the practice of integrated assessment in marine affairs through the use of case studies and group analysis projects. Prerequisite: SMA 500 plus two of the following: SMA 519, SMA 536, SMA 591, or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

SMA 506 International Law of the Sea (3) Offered: jointly with LAW B 561.

SMA 507 International Organizations and Ocean Management (3) Miles Survey of the manner in which international regimes and organizations attempt to manage and regulate the uses of the ocean. Primary emphasis is on the analysis of the effectiveness of regimes and of processes that support or constrain these organizations. Prerequisite: SMA 500 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with PB AF 538.

SMA 508 National Marine Policy Processes (3) Miles Comparative institutional dimensions of marine policy processes. Marine policy context at the national level and the dynamics that drive policy formulation and policy implementation.

SMA 509 Integrated Coastal Management (3) Christie, Hershman Managing multiple uses of coastal waters and the adjacent land; conflicts arising from competition for space and resources; organization, scientific, and economic problems associated with coastal management; planning and management experience in the United States and Southeast Asia. Prerequisite: SMA 500 or permission of instructor.

SMA 510 Topics in Marine Ecology (3) Klinger Study of ecological principles as they apply to marine species, populations, and ecosystems, using current examples from the primary literature, including contemporary issues such as species declines, species additions, pollution, and global change. Offered: W.

SMA 512 Interviewing Methods and Environmental Topics (3) Miller Focuses on qualitative techniques employed by social scientists and other researchers (e.g., sociologists, cultural anthropologists, political scientists, journalists, reporters) in interview situations. Students conduct interviews and limited participant observation with people in public, private, and activist sectors. Relevant to students with interests in marine affairs, forestry, fisheries, and environmental studies.

SMA 514 Marine Pollution Management Issues (3) Leschine Management and policy aspects of marine environmental protection, emphasizing the two-way interaction between environmental managers and environmental and policy scientists which shapes policy.

SMA 515 U.S. Coastal and Ocean Law (4) Hershman Study of the legal framework in the United States controlling allocation and use of coastal and marine resources. Topics include coastal zone management, fisheries management, protection of marine mammals and endangered species, marine pollution, offshore oil and gas development, and marine transportation. Offered: jointly with LAW B 565.

SMA 516 Seaport Management (3) Role of port and harbor agencies in management of marine uses: cargo and trade, economic development, tourism and recreation, fisheries, environmental protection. Management functions of planning, marketing, finance, engineering, environmental assessment. Examples and guest speakers from Port of Seattle and other Puget Sound ports. Prerequisite: SMA 500 or permission of instructor.

SMA 517 Marine Uses: Transportation and Commerce (3) Hershman Role of the oceans in the transportation of people and materials, character and trends in vessel design and terminal facilities, pattern and nature of industry organization, regulations, economics of the shipping industry, management of fleets and vessels, individuals at sea and ashore, national policies affecting the merchant marine and port facilities. Prerequisite: SMA 500 or permission of instructor.

SMA 519 Marine Policy Analysis (3) Leschine Goal is appreciation for and basic working knowledge of techniques used in policy analysis. Techniques are explored in both quasi-realistic settings and in application to real world problems of marine policy.

SMA 521 Governmental Responses to Global Climate Change (3) Miles Exploration of major scientific, policy and legal issues pertaining to problems of global climate change including regime design, use of climate models, impact on hydrology water resources, and forests.

SMA 523 International Science and Technology Policy (3) Miles Analyzes the relationships between research and development policy, capabilities, and national technological strategies for advanced industrial and less-developed countries. Deals with international implications as countries make policies in regional and global organizations. Examples chosen from space telecommunication, weather and climate modification, airline transportation, nuclear energy, and seabed exploration.

SMA 525 Marine Protected Area Management and Science (3) Fluharty, Klinger Examines management and scientific issues involved with the design, establishment, operation, and maintenance of MPAs. Offered: Sp.

SMA 536 Applied Microeconomics for Marine Affairs (3) Huppert Acquaints students with microeconomic tools commonly employed in policy analysis. Emphasis is placed on mastery of basic concepts, definitions, and models useful to marine policy, including determinants of price and outputs in competitive markets, effects of other market structures, market failure, and applied welfare economics.

SMA 537 Economic Aspects of Marine Policy (3) Huppert Development of pertinent economic concepts and their application to selected topics in marine policy decision making, including maritime policy, OCS oil and gas development, and wetlands management. Prerequisite: SMA 500 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with ECON 537; W.

SMA 538 Economics of Living Marine Resources (3) Huppert Develops pertinent economic concepts and applications for conservation, regulation, and restoration of fisheries and other living resources. Gives special attention to fishery management, including harvest regulation and enforcement, recreational fisheries evaluation, property rights regimes, contemporary issues, and marine protected area management. Offered: jointly with ECON 538; Sp.

SMA 540 International Strategic Planning for Marine Resources (3) Kaczynski Marine economies are affected by shrinking resources, population pressure, expanding economic globalization. Case studies from the third world and economies in transition illustrate strategic economic planning. Students research selected topics. Prerequisite: SMA 500 or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

SMA 550 Special Topics in Marine Studies (1-3, max. 18) Examination of various aspects of marine studies. Content varies, depending upon the interests of the faculty and students.

Intended for the joint participation by the faculty and advanced students in the investigation of selected topics. One or more groups are organized each quarter.

SMA 555 Comparative Marine Business in the North Pacific (3) Strategies of Russian, Canadian, Japanese, and American enterprises and governments in promotion of marine business in the North Pacific. Socio-economic characteristics of the four powers; role of public and private sectors in foreign trade and investment; Russia's transition to free-market economic system; and business practices in the region. Offered: jointly with SISRE 555.

SMA 570 Thesis Presentation (1) Fluharty Completion of the thesis requirement for SMA. Prepare a professional presentation to a peer audience. Offered: AWSpS.

SMA 581 Fishery Management: Case Studies (3) Huppert Examination of historical case studies chosen to illustrate specific fishery management problem areas. Faculty presentations occupy first half of quarter, student presentations the second half. Prerequisite: SMA 580 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with FISH 581.

SMA 585 Climate Impacts on the Pacific Northwest (4) Mantua, Snover Knowledge of past/future patterns of climate to improve Pacific Northwest resource management. Topics include the predictability of natural/human-caused climate changes; past societal reactions to climate impacts on water, fish, forest, and coastal resources; how climate and public policies interact to affect ecosystems and society. Offered: jointly with ATM S/ESS/ENVIR 585; Sp.

SMA 591 Marine Science in the Coastal Zone (3) Klinger Presentation and analysis of the marine science of estuarine, coastal, and open ocean systems, including evaluation and interpretation of scientific information necessary for management. Lectures, discussions, and readings emphasize the relevance of natural processes to marine environmental management and decision-making. Offered: jointly with OCEAN 591; A.

SMA 600 Independent Study or Research (*)

SMA 700 Master's Thesis (*)

Oceanography

OCEAN 100 Explore Oceanography at UW (1) Explores the research and experiences of the Oceanography department's faculty, graduate students, and undergraduate students. Credit/no credit only. Offered: A.

OCEAN 101 Survey of Oceanography (5) NW Holistic view of fundamental principles of ocean science; the geography and geology of ocean basins; chemistry of sea water; physical dynamics of currents, waves, and tides; coastal processes; and the biology of diverse ecosystems such as deep sea vents, coral reefs, and estuaries. Intended for nonmajors.

OCEAN 102 The Changing Oceans (5) I&S/NW Historical case studies of research on the ancient oceans, deep-sea exploration, climate change and the oceans, and human impacts on marine life. Students consider societal factors affecting progress in marine science, changing popular attitudes toward the oceans, and key current policy implications of marine science. Intended for nonmajors. Offered: W.

OCEAN 115 Astrobiology: Life in the Universe (5) NW Introduction to the new science of astrobiology, study of the origin and evolution of life on Earth, and the search for microbial and intelligent life elsewhere in the Universe. Designed for non-science, liberal arts majors. Offered: jointly with ASTBIO/ASTR/ESS 115/BIOL 114.

OCEAN 200 Introduction to Oceanography (3) NW Armbrust Description of the oceans. Emphasis on relations of biology, chemistry, geology, and physics in marine environments. Examination of relationships and interactions at macro-, meso-, and microscales in the ocean. Intended for science majors. Offered: Sp.

OCEAN 210 Ocean Circulation (3) NW The large-scale circulation of the ocean. Topics include temperature-salinity analysis; water mass identification; water, salt, and heat budgets; chemical tracer distributions; advection and diffusion. Prerequisite: either Ocean 101 or Ocean 200; recommended: either PHYS 114 or PHYS 121. Offered: A.

OCEAN 220 Introduction to Field Oceanography (3/5) NW Design and conduct a field study in oceanography. Field trip required (usually during Spring break). Focus on active learning, deployment of instruments, data collection, interpretation, and presentation. Honors section incorporates additional field experimentation and study in marine biology. Writing class. Prerequisite: either OCEAN 210 or OCEAN/FISH/BIOL 250. Offered: Sp.

OCEAN 230 Rivers and Beaches (3/5) NW Montgomery, Nittrouer Introduction to Earth surface environments, the processes that shape them, how humans affect them and are affected by them. Weekend field trips examine mountains, rivers, deltas/estuaries, beaches, and environments beyond. Focus on linkages between these environments to illustrate coupling between landscapes and seascapes. Offered: jointly with ESS 230.

OCEAN 240 Contemporary Issues in Oceanography (1-5, max. 9) NW Selected topics of contemporary interest in oceanography such as hydrothermal vents, planetary volcanism, biogeochemical cycling, the ecology of Puget Sound, and the ocean's role in climate.

OCEAN 250 Marine Biology (3/5) I&S, NW Lecture-laboratory course in Marine Biology focusing on physical, biological, and social aspects of the marine environment. Topics include oceanography, ecology, physiology, behavior, conservation, fisheries, exploration, and activism. Evening marine biology movies and weekend field trip. Honors section research project. Offered: jointly with BIOL/FISH 250.

OCEAN 260 The Puget Sound Ecosystem (3/5) I&S/NW Examines historical human impacts on the land/water ecosystem of the Puget Sound, roles of regional governance and citizen action, and prospects for ecological restoration. Computer labs and field trips for additional credit. Offered: jointly with ENVIR 260.

OCEAN 300 Study Abroad Marine Sciences (1-12, max. 12) Robigou For participants of Marine Language Exchange Scholarship Program. Specific content varies and must be individually evaluated. Credit does not apply to major requirements without approval. Offered: AWSpS.

OCEAN 310 The Puget Sound Nearshore: Processes and Problems (3) I&S/NW An introduction to the geology, ecology, and politics of Puget Sound beaches. Content focuses on beach formation and sediment dynamics, with application to nearshore ecology and shoreline management. Three field trips to local beaches complement topics discussed in class.

OCEAN 351 Field Investigations in Marine Biology (5) Evaluates the relationships between man and marine systems in a field-oriented class. Case studies directly investigate marine biology. Studies include human activities and our effects on marine species and communities. Multiple field trips, lectures, and labs. Prerequisite: FISH 350/OCEAN 350. Offered: jointly with FISH 351; Sp.

OCEAN 360 Marine Field Research (10) NW,QSR Scott Veirs, Val Veirs Intensive off-campus marine research experience. Includes 5 weeks designing a field experiment and a 5-week cruise aboard a sailing research vessel to implement it. Offered: jointly with OCEAN 365; ASp.

OCEAN 365 Practicing Sustainability Science (8) I&S/NW Scott Veirs, Val Veirs Intensive off-campus experience. Studies sustainability science, marine policy, and "clean" technologies. Includes interaction with community stakeholders for 5 weeks and experimentation with sustainable technologies and practices in the marine environment during a 5-week cruise aboard an energy-efficient sailing catamaran. Offered: jointly with OCEAN 360; ASp.

OCEAN 400 Chemical Oceanography (4) NW Physical and chemical properties of seawater and marine products; processes determining the chemical makeup of the oceans. Prerequisite: either CHEM 152 or CHEM 155; OCEAN 210. Offered: W.

OCEAN 401 Special Topics in Chemical Oceanography (3) NW.

OCEAN 410 Marine Geology and Geophysics (4) NW Sedimentological and petrologic processes that determine the geologic record. Prerequisite: either ESS 101 or ESS 210. Offered: jointly with ESS 410; A.

OCEAN 411 Special Topics in Marine Geology and Geophysics (3) NW .

OCEAN 420 Physical Processes in the Ocean (4) NW Physical properties and processes of the ocean: methods of describing ocean currents, waves, tides and mixing and their effect on movement of water parcels. Prerequisite: either PHYS 116 or PHYS 123; either MATH 126, MATH 129, MATH 146, or Q SCI 381; OCEAN 210. Offered: W.

OCEAN 421 Special Topics in Physical Oceanography (3) NW .

OCEAN 422 Ocean Dynamics (3) NW Equations of motion governing flow of sea water. Conservation of mass, tracers, heat and momentum. Energy and vorticity balance. Buoyancy and rotational effects. Scale analysis. Applications to upper ocean dynamics, surface and internal waves, and wind-driven currents in the ocean. Prerequisite: MATH 126; PHYS 123; OCEAN 420.

OCEAN 423 Ocean Circulation and Climate (3) NW Quantitative treatment of ocean basin to global scale ocean circulation systems and their interaction with climate variability. Prerequisite: PHYS 123; either MATH 126 or MATH 129; OCEAN 410.

OCEAN 430 Biological Oceanography (4) NW Marine organisms, their quantitative distribution in time and space and their interactions with the ocean. Prerequisite: either BIOL 162, or BIOL 220; OCEAN 210. Offered: A.

OCEAN 431 Special Topics in Biological Oceanography (3) NW

OCEAN 442 Oceanography of the Puget Sound (3) NW Explores the role of oceanography in regional issues. Field opportunities and active investigation of applied oceanographic problems. Lectures, research trip, student co-teaching, discussion. Prerequisite: either CHEM 152, CHEM 221, BIOL 162, BIOL 220, ESS 101, or ESS 210.. Offered: A.

OCEAN 443 Design of Oceanographic Field Experiments (3) NW Case histories, presentations, and class exercises used to teach methods of formulating a research problem and proposal writing. Methods of data analysis, presentation, error estimation, library resource and data base use; web page implementation and design. Principles of cruise planning. Prerequisite: OCEAN 400; OCEAN 410; OCEAN 420; OCEAN 430. Offered: W.

OCEAN 444 Advanced Field Oceanography (5) NW Conduct field experiment (designed in OCEAN 443) during a week-long cruise aboard a research vessel. Analyze samples data and present results in a series of drafts and a final term paper. Results are presented at a two-day-long public research symposium and on the students' individual Web sites. Prerequisite: OCEAN 443. Offered: Sp.

OCEAN 450 Climatic Extremes (4) NW Course examines earth history for extreme climatic conditions to predict future climate changes. Numerical climate models use PC-based computer programs to identify processes and feedbacks that control climate.

OCEAN 451 Fluid Dynamics Laboratory (4) NW Individual projects in experimental fluid dynamics with applications to practical problems. Experimental design, visualization, and measurement techniques applied to a problem selected by each student. Prerequisite: PHYS 123.

OCEAN 452 Spatial Information Technologies in Ecosystem Sciences (3) NW Logsdon Introduction to the use of GPS, GIS, and Remote Sensing in the ecosystem sciences. Integrates these technologies in an applied research setting. Two overnight weekend field trips required. Offered: jointly with FISH 453; A.

OCEAN 454 Hydrothermal Systems: An Interdisciplinary View (3) NW Lilley Provides a general, interdisciplinary overview of seafloor hydrothermal systems including important geological, chemical and biological processes. Topics include tectonic and volcanic controls on hydrothermal systems, water/rock reactions, phase separation, temporal variability, fluxes to the deep sea, micro- and macro biology. Offered: Sp.

OCEAN 492 Friday Harbor Apprenticeship (9/15) NW Intensive, full-time research training experience where teams of students work on focused research problems guided by a group of faculty, postdoctoral, and graduate student mentors. Research questions vary.

OCEAN 494 Field Experiences in Marine Science (1-15, max. 30) NW faculty participants in oceanography field work. Specific content varies and is individually evaluated. Credit does not apply to major requirements without approval.

OCEAN 496 Study Abroad: Oceanography (1-15, max. 30) NW For participants in UW study abroad program. Specific content varies and is individually evaluated. Credit does not apply to major requirements without approval.

OCEAN 497 Advanced Special Topics in Oceanography (1-15, max. 15)

OCEAN 499 Undergraduate Research (1-15, max. 24) Research on assigned topics that may involve laboratory work, fieldwork, or literature surveys. Offered: AWSpS.

OCEAN 500 Current Problems in Oceanography (1) Discussion of research topics that are currently being investigated within the school. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AW.

OCEAN 501 Estuarine Circulation and Mixing (3) Observed patterns of currents, mixing, and stratification from deep fjords to shallow coastal plain estuaries. Physical understanding of basic processes, such as tides, wind stress, topographic effects on turbulence, sill hydraulics, and exchange flow. Vertical mixing and residence times important to biological and pollution studies. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

OCEAN 506 Interdisciplinary Seminar in Oceanography (1-3, max. 12) Lectures, discussions, and work on selected problems of an interdisciplinary nature. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

OCEAN 509 Seminar (1) Introduction to current research topics for beginning graduate students. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

OCEAN 510 Physics of Ocean Circulation (3) Structure of ocean basins; physical properties of seawater and the equation of state; heat, salt, fresh water budgets; tidal potential; Coriolis effect and geostrophic balance; major current systems and water masses; mixing, stirring in the ocean; simple waves; modern experimental methods in physical oceanography. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: A.

OCEAN 511 Introduction to Fluid Dynamics (4) Eulerian equations for mass-motion; Navier-Stokes equation for viscous fluids, Cartesian tensors, stress-strain relations; Kelvin's theorem, vortex dynamics; potential flows, flows with high-low Reynolds numbers; boundary layers, introduction to singular perturbation techniques; water waves; linear instability theory. Prerequisite: AMATH 403 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with AMATH/ATM S 505; A.

OCEAN 512 Geophysical Fluid Dynamics I (4) Dynamics of rotating stratified fluid flow in the atmosphere/ocean and laboratory analogues. Equations of state, compressibility, Boussinesq approximation. Geostrophic balance, Rossby number. Poincare, Kelvin, Rossby waves, geostrophic adjustment. Ekman layers. Continuously stratified dynamics: Inertia-gravity waves, potential vorticity, quasigeostrophy. Prerequisite: OCEAN 511 or ATM S/AMATH 505. Offered: jointly with ATM S 509; W.

OCEAN 513 Geophysical Fluid Dynamics II (3) Theories, models of large-scale dynamics of oceans, atmospheres. Potential vorticity, Q principles; Rossby waves, ray tracing, Green's function, setup of general circulation; atmospheric "channels" versus ocean "basins"; wave-mean flow interaction, mountain drag, internal momentum flux; "Lagrangian" motion of particles, tracers; cascades, eddy flux of heat, moisture, Q. Prerequisite: OCEAN 512. Offered: Sp.

OCEAN 514 Waves (3) Application of marine hydrodynamics principles to wave motion in oceans. Offered: W.

OCEAN 515 Ocean Circulation: Observations (3) Modern large- and mesoscale ocean observations, interpreted in terms of contemporary circulation theories. Spectrum of temporal variability; eddies and eddy fluxes; ventilation; advection and diffusion in the abyss; transports of heat and salt; climatic scale of variability; modern methods for determining circulation. Prerequisite: OCEAN 510 or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

OCEAN 516 Ocean Circulation: Theories (3) Hydrodynamic theories concerning origin and characteristics of major ocean currents. Prerequisite: OCEAN 512 or permission of instructor.

OCEAN 517 Methods and Measurements in Physical Oceanography (2) Principal instruments and experimental methods of physical oceanography. Devices and systems that measure pressure, temperature, electrical conductivity, sea state, and velocity. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: alternate years.

OCEAN 519 Seminar in Physical Oceanography (1, max. 9) Discussion of selected problems of current interest in physical oceanography. Prerequisite: OCEAN 510 or permission of instructor.

OCEAN 520 Marine Chemistry (3) Processes controlling the chemical composition of seawater. Chemical distributions in the ocean, marine physical chemistry, chemical equilibrium, and concepts of mass balance. Mechanisms and models used to explain distributions of stable and radioactive isotopes, gases, trace metals, and biochemicals in the world's oceans. Offered: A.

OCEAN 521 Aquatic Chemistry (3) Application of physical chemistry and thermodynamics to processes that control chemical composition of natural waters. Equilibrium approach. Acid/base chemistry, the carbonate system, dissolution and precipitation, metal ions in solution, oxidation-reduction chemistry, silicate mineral reactions. Prerequisite: OCEAN 520 or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

OCEAN 522 Marine Organic Geochemistry (3) Sources, reactions, and fates of organic molecules in the marine environment along with the stable isotope geochemistry of marine organic substances. Prerequisite: CHEM 237 and CHEM 239 or permission of instructor.

OCEAN 523 Geochemical Cycles (4) Descriptive, quantitative aspects of earth as biogeochemical system. Study of equilibria, transport processes, chemical kinetics, biological processes; their application to carbon, sulfur, nitrogen, phosphorus, other elemental cycles. Stability of biogeochemical systems; nature of human perturbations of their dynamics. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with CHEM 523 and ATM S 508.

OCEAN 524 Environmental Chemical Modeling (3) Benjamin, Murray Physical/chemical principles controlling the fate and distribution of environmental pollutants, and use of models to apply those principles. Includes modeling of physical transport in conjunction with chemical equilibrium and reaction kinetics. Applications include acid mine drainage, acid deposition, and groundwater and lake water contamination. Offered: jointly with CEE 550.

OCEAN 529 Seminar on Chemical Oceanography (*, max. 9) Lectures, discussions, and readings on selected problems of current interest. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

OCEAN 530 Biological Oceanography: Bacteria and Protozoa (3) Bacteria in the marine environment; fate of organic carbon in the ocean and the interrelationship of the carbon cycle with other biogeochemical cycles. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: W.

OCEAN 531 Biological Oceanography: Phytoplankton (3) Phytoplankton in the marine environment: ecology, primary productivity, and physiology. Phytoplankton growth and photosynthetic patterns; spatial and temporal distributions of phytoplankton; methods for determining distributions and rates of production and growth. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: W.

OCEAN 532 Biological Oceanography: Zooplankton (3) Distribution and abundance of pelagic animals in space and time; analysis of their interactions. Small-scale distributions and behavior, population dynamics and energetics, trophic structure and dynamics, pelagic community structure, models of populations and food chains, secondary production and biogeography. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

OCEAN 533 Biological Oceanography: Benthos (3) Analysis of marine benthic communities; new research questions and method; ecologically important physics of benthic boundary layer; theories, mechanics, and observations of deposit feeding; succession as consequence of physical processes and biological interactions. Environments include deep-sea, continental shelves, estuaries, and intertidal, focusing on soft substrata. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

OCEAN 534 Methods and Measurements in Biological Oceanography (2) Methods for bacteria, phytoplankton, and zooplankton population assessment. Rate measurements of phytoplankton, zooplankton, and bacterial production. Benthos measurements, including deep-sea environments. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

OCEAN 535 Biological Oceanography: An Overview (3) Principles and practice of biological oceanography for students with strong background in physical sciences but little recent exposure to biology. Ecological principles at individual, population, and community levels; overview of discipline of biological oceanography; case studies of interdisciplinary problems shared with the physical sciences. Offered: W.

OCEAN 536 Seminar in Geostatistics (1-3, max. 3) Lectures and discussions on selected problems in the applications of statistics in earth science.

OCEAN 539 Seminar in Biological Oceanography (*, max. 9) Lectures, discussions, and work on selected problems of current interest. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

OCEAN 540 Marine Geological Processes (3) McDuff Principles of thermodynamics, heat and mass transfer, fluid mechanics, continuum mechanics, and time-series analysis applied to marine geological and geophysical data with special applications to thermal balance of the oceanic lithosphere. Offered: W.

OCEAN 541 Marine Sedimentary Processes (3) Investigates fundamental process of marine sedimentation, including equations characterizing boundary-shear flows, initiation of grain motion, bedload and suspended-load transport, and sediment accumulation. Applies concepts to sediment dispersal in rivers, deltas, estuaries, beaches, continental shelves, slopes, and rises, with emphasis on the relationships between active processes and resulting deposits.

OCEAN 542 Sediment Dynamics and Boundary-Layer Physics (4) Theoretical descriptions of sediment transport processes constrained by laboratory demonstrations. The physics of boundary layers, initiation of motion, suspended load, bedload, bedforms, and continua transport (turbidity currents, debris flows, and suspensions) and its application to the geological record. Offered: jointly with ESS 526; W.

OCEAN 545 Physics of the Oceanic Lithosphere (3) Basic principles of elasticity, fluid flow, and heat transport with specific applications to the formation and evolution of the oceanic lithosphere. Includes deformation of the earth, flow in porous media, heat transport, and marine seismological and potential field techniques. Prerequisite: OCEAN 540. Offered: jointly with ESS 568.

OCEAN 546 Continental-Margin Sedimentation (3) Detailed evaluation of recent studies into processes forming strata on continental margins, including the diverse time scales ranging from sediment transport to sequence stratigraphy. Highlights the linkages with physical oceanographic processes, the fates of geochemical components, and the relationship to biological communities. Offered: jointly with ESS 527.

OCEAN 549 Seminar in Geological and Geophysical Oceanography (*, max. 9) Lectures, discussions, and field and laboratory work on selected problems of current interest. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

OCEAN 550 Geochemistry and Geophysics of Melt Generation (3) Mantle flow beneath mid-ocean ridges and hotspots, major element systematics, constraints from trace elements and isotopes on melting and mantle reservoirs, melt extraction, and crustal thickness and axial topography. Prerequisite: OCEAN 544 or permission of instructor. Offered: alternate years.

OCEAN 551 Marine Seismology (3) Practical application of seismic techniques to the study of the ocean basins. Analysis of refraction data, multichannel reflection profiling, surface wave studies, and earthquake analysis. Prerequisite: GPHYS 502 or permission of instructor.

OCEAN 552 Seminar in Geophysics and Geological Data Analysis (1) Practical geophysical data analysis, map projections, gridding multibeam bathymetry processing, gravity and magnetic anomalies, downward continuation, magnetic inversion, seismic refraction and reflection, and microearthquake locations. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

OCEAN 558 Climate Modeling (3) Bitz, Thompson Principles of Earth system modeling. Emphasis on atmosphere, ocean sea ice, and land-surface components. Climate forcing. Appropriate use of models. Topics of current interest including carbon cycle, atmosphere chemistry, and biogeochemistry. Prerequisite: either ATM S/OCEAN/ESS 587, ATM S 504 or ATM S 505. Offered: jointly with ATM S 559/ESS 559; Sp; alternate years.

OCEAN 559 Advanced Seminar on Mid-Ocean Ridge Processes (*, max. 9) Lectures, discussions, and practical work on selected topics of current interest in mid-ocean ridge research. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

OCEAN 560 Atmosphere/Ocean Interactions (3) Observations and theory of phenomena of the coupled atmosphere-ocean system. El Nino/Southern Oscillation; decadal tropical variability; atmospheric teleconnections; midlatitude atmosphere-ocean variability. Overview of essential ocean and atmospheric dynamics, where appropriate. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: ATM S 509 or OCEAN 512. Offered: jointly with ATM S 560; alternate years; Sp.

OCEAN 569 Topics in Physical Oceanography (1-4, max. 9) Lecture series on topics of major importance in physical oceanography. Offered: AWSp.

OCEAN 570 Marine Microbial Interactions (1-3, max. 9) Structure, function, and dynamics of natural mixed-species populations of marine bacteria and their interactions with higher organisms; mixed-species culture methods; synecological field methods; species assemblages in specialized environments; mutualisms; sites and patterns of genetic exchange. Prerequisite: OCEAN 530 or permission of instructor. Offered: alternate years.

OCEAN 571 Marine Primary Productivity (1-3, max. 9) Patterns and mechanisms of marine phytoplankton primary production. Small-to-global-scale patterns of production; environmental regulation of production; absorption of electromagnetic radiation; fluorescence; carbon fixation; trophic interactions; remote sensing and other optical methods. Prerequisite: OCEAN 531 or permission of instructor. Offered: alternate years.

OCEAN 572 Zooplankton Ecology (1-3, max. 9) Life history strategies, dynamics and production of populations, vertical migration, interspecific interactions and community structure, models of complex assemblages of zooplankton, sampling methods and analysis, spatial heterogeneity. Prerequisite: OCEAN 532 or permission of instructor. Offered: alternate years.

OCEAN 573 Benthic Biological Processes (1-3, max. 9) Processes characteristic of soft-bottom benthic environments; areas and methods of rapid current progress; open research questions; deposit feeding; passive larval recruitment; physical, chemical, geological, and biological feedbacks in ecological succession; scaling of laboratory systems. Prerequisite: OCEAN 533 or permission of instructor. Offered: alternate years.

OCEAN 574 Principles and Applications of Molecular Methods (3) Applications of molecular techniques to questions in ecology, evolution, and natural resource management, with emphasis on advanced genome-enabled technologies and the analysis and interpretation of genetic data. Includes weekly discussion of empirical papers, and preparation/peer-review of a proposal. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with FISH 542; A.

OCEAN 575 Molecular Techniques (4) Laboratory on DNA methods. Experiments analyzing genetic variation at the intra- and interspecific level, including one experiment of student's own design. Techniques include DNA extraction and quantitation, PCR, DNA sequencing, RFLP analysis and cloning. Prerequisite: FISH 542 or OCEAN 574 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with FISH 543; W.

OCEAN 578 Advanced Topics in Biological Oceanography (*, max. 18) Specialized research areas. Topic varies each year. Offered at Friday Harbor Laboratories. Prerequisite: permission of director of Friday Harbor Laboratories. Offered: S.

OCEAN 580 Aquatic Kinetics (3) Reaction rates and mass transport in water. Theories of chemical kinetics; experimental results from: CO<sub>2</sub> hydrolysis, Fe, Mn, and H<sub>2</sub>S oxidation, stable isotope fractionation, mineral dissolution; homogeneous, heterogeneous, microbial catalysis; reaction and transport at air-water, sediment-water, and O<sub>2</sub>/H<sub>2</sub>S interfaces. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

OCEAN 581 Geochemical Modeling (3) Background to modeling concepts frequently encountered in chemical oceanography: box models, advection-diffusion problems, sediment diagenesis equations, and boundary layer (air-water and sediment-water interface) models. Problems requiring application of the models to chemical distributions in the ocean. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

OCEAN 582 River Basin Biogeochemistry (3) The function of rivers and river basins in transporting materials to the oceans and their importance in biogeochemical cycles. Origin of water and water routing within drainage basins, sources and modification of dissolved and particulate materials in transport, ecological theory, and estuarine mixing zone transformations. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

OCEAN 583 Isotope Biogeochemistry (3) The use of stable isotopes to study biogeochemical cycles in the oceans and atmosphere; specifically carbon, nitrogen, and sulfur cycles. Isotopic effects during photosynthesis, respiration, organic matter degradation. CaCO<sub>3</sub> dissolution, methanogenesis, nitrification/denitrification, and sulfate reduction. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

OCEAN 584 Ocean Tracers and Mixing (3) The applications of tracers to studies of ocean circulation and ventilation. Processes within the ocean for which tracers have provided important information include gas exchange, mixed layer dynamics, thermocline ventilation, deep water formation and spreading, and mixing. Knowledge of partial differential equations suggested.

OCEAN 585 Paleooceanography (3) History of environmental changes on earth over the past 100 million years as reconstructed from records in deep-sea sediments, ice sheets, and other ocean/terrestrial substrates. Examination of isotopic, geochemical, micropaleontological, and dating techniques. Role of the ocean in climate change. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

OCEAN 586 Current Research in Climate Change (2, max. 20) Weekly lectures focusing on a particular aspect of climate (topic to change each year) from invited speakers (both UW and outside), plus one or two keynote speakers, followed by class discussion. Offered: jointly with ATM S 586/ESS 586.

OCEAN 587 Climate Dynamics (3) Hartman, Thompson Examines Earth's climate system; distribution of temperature, precipitation, wind ice, salinity, and ocean currents; fundamental processes determining Earth's climate; energy and constituent transport mechanisms; climate sensitivity; natural climate variability on interannual to decadal time scales; global climate models; predicting future climate. Offered:

jointly with ATM S 587/ESS 587. Offered: A

OCEAN 588 The Global Carbon Cycle and Climate (3) Emerson Oceanic and terrestrial biogeochemical processes controlling atmospheric CO<sub>2</sub> and other greenhouse gases. Records of past changes in the earth's carbon cycle from geological, oceanographic and terrestrial archives. Anthropogenic perturbations to cycles. Develop simple box models, discuss results of complex models. Offered: jointly with ATM S 588/ESS 588. Offered: W.

OCEAN 589 Paleoclimatology: Data, Modeling and Theory (3) Battisti, Emerson, Steig Evidence for past changes in land and sea surface temperature, in precipitation and atmospheric dynamics, and in ocean circulation: both long and interannual timescales. Paleoclimate modeling and theory. Time series analysis and climate noise. Rapid climate change. Statistical reconstruction of interannual variability. Offered: jointly with ATM S 589/ESS 589. Offered: Sp.

OCEAN 590 Advanced Topics in Oceanography (9-18, max. 18) Advanced topics examining specialized and interdisciplinary areas of oceanographic research. Offered at Friday Harbor Laboratories. Prerequisite: permission of Director of Friday Harbor Laboratories. Offered: S.

OCEAN 591 Marine Science in the Coastal Zone (3) Klinger Presentation and analysis of the marine science of estuarine, coastal, and open ocean systems, including evaluation and interpretation of scientific information necessary for management. Lectures, discussions, and readings emphasize the relevance of natural processes to marine environmental management and decision-making. Offered: jointly with SMA 591; A.

OCEAN 592 Communicating Ocean Sciences (4) Robigou Explores improving communicating scientific knowledge through instruction of inquiry-based science in school classrooms. Students practice communicating science, and receive mentoring on how to improve their presentations. Prerequisite: Marine sciences studies background. Offered: Sp.

OCEAN 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Offered: AWSpS.

OCEAN 700 Master's Thesis (*) Offered: AWSpS.

OCEAN 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Offered: AWSpS.

Medicinal Chemistry

MEDCH 400 Fundamental Concepts in Medicinal Chemistry (3) W. Nelson Principles of physical organic chemistry; chemical bonding, stereochemistry, acids/bases, and reaction mechanisms relevant to processes such as drug distribution, specificity, and metabolism. Prerequisite: either CHEM 239 or CHEM 337. Offered: A.

MEDCH 495 Special Studies in Medicinal Chemistry (*, max. 6) Opportunity to expand the breadth and depth of understanding in specific areas. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

MEDCH 499 Independent Study/Research (*, max. 24) Research problems in medicinal chemistry. Prerequisite: cumulative GPA of 2.50 and permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

MEDCH 501 Advanced Medicinal Chemistry (4) S. Nelson Advanced study of the various classes of medicinal compounds, with particular emphasis on biological activity, mechanism of action, biotransformation, and the structural and physical properties governing absorption, distribution, and excretion. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

MEDCH 502 Advanced Medicinal Chemistry (4) W. Nelson, Rettie Advanced study of the various classes of medicinal compounds, with particular emphasis on biological activity, mechanism of action, biotransformation, and the structural and physical properties governing absorption, distribution, and excretion. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

MEDCH 503 Advanced Medicinal Chemistry (4) Atkins, W. Nelson Advanced study of the various classes of medicinal compounds, with particular emphasis on biological activity, mechanism of action, biotransformation, and the structural and physical properties governing absorption, distribution, and excretion. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

MEDCH 520 Seminar (1, max. 15) Graduate students attend seminars and make one formal presentation per year while in residence; maximum of three presentations. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with PCEUT 520; AWPpS.

MEDCH 521 Advanced Medicinal Chemistry (3) Atkins, W. Nelson Application of integrated data from the physical and biological sciences to problems of chemotherapy, including transport of drugs to site of action, biotransformation of drugs, interaction of drugs with enzyme systems, and recent advances in drug design. Prerequisite: CHEM 457, CHEM 531, and BIOC 442, or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

MEDCH 525 Alternative and Complementary Medicines (2) Elmer Study of popular alternative and complementary medicines used in the United States. Focus on herbal products with some coverage of homeopathic and other non-nutritional dietary supplements. Demonstration of resources for current objective information on these controversial medicines. Credit/no credit only. Offered: A.

MEDCH 527 Drug Metabolism (4) Rettie, Thummel Considerations of the biochemical mechanisms for the biotransformation of drugs and foreign compounds. Includes reaction mechanisms, ultrastructural considerations, induction mechanisms, methodology, kinetics of inhibition and activation, steroid and amine metabolism. Offered: jointly with PHCOL 527; odd years; W.

MEDCH 530 Mass Spectrometry of Drugs, Toxicants, and Metabolites (3) Howald Current approaches to the combination of liquid chromatography with mass spectrometry for small molecules. Mass spectrometry of drugs, toxicants, metabolites. Emphasis on interpretation skills, with problem sets each week. Introduction to LC/MS instrumentation. Ionization methods appropriate for small molecules. Capillary LC/MS and capillary electrophoresis. Offered: even years; Sp.

MEDCH 541 Mass Spectrometry Based Proteomics (3) Goodlett Covers basics of sample preparation, data generation, instrumentation, ionization, and data interpretation of peptide tandem mass spectra manually. Uses database search engines and bioinformatics in systems biology related proteomics. Prerequisite: MEDCH 530 or permission of instructor. Offered: odd years; Sp.

MEDCH 550 Mechanistic Studies in Medicinal Chemistry (1) S. Nelson Discussion of research strategies and methods used to carry out studies of mechanisms of drug action, metabolism, and toxicities. Emphasis is on problem solving through theoretical and experimental approaches and on data analysis and interpretation. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

MEDCH 551 Flavin and Heme-Containing Monooxygenases (1) Rettie Discussion of research strategies and methodologies concerning the structure, function, and polymorphic expression of human monooxygenases, especially the cytochrome P450s and flavin-containing monooxygenases. Emphasis placed on experimental problem solving, data analysis, and presentation. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

MEDCH 552 Medicinal Chemistry Aspects of Drug Action and Drug Metabolism (1) W. Nelson Discussion of research strategies, methodologies, and literature concerning the mechanisms of drug action and drug metabolism, particularly as these apply to opiate drugs and beta blockers. Emphases placed on problem solving, data analysis, and presentation. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

MEDCH 553 Structure and Function of Macromolecular Protein Assemblies (1) Atkins Discussion of research strategies, methods, and current literature concerning macromolecular self-assembly processes and protein-protein interactions as they relate to biological specificity. Emphasis on experimental approaches used in current literature. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

MEDCH 554 The Mechanism of Action and Pharmacokinetics of Biotherapeutic Agents and Other Natural Products (1) Elmer Discussion of the literature, research possibilities, and questions that need to be addressed in the area of the application of microorganisms and other natural products for therapeutic purposes. Emphases on problem solving, research strategies, literature evaluation, and data analysis. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

MEDCH 555 Current Topics in Biological Mass Spectrometry (1) Goodlett Emphasis on applications in the area of protein toxins, bioactive peptides, and microbial diseases and on current developments in the use of small scale separations with mass spectrometry. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

MEDCH 556 Clinical and Mechanistic Aspects of Drug Metabolism (1) Totah Discussion of research methodologies and new approaches to elucidate chemical mechanisms and enzymology of reactions catalyzed by cytochrome P-450. Emphasis on clinical applications and predicting in vivo drug behavior and toxicity. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWPpS.

MEDCH 558 Human Cytochrome P-450 Biochemistry (1) Kunze Presentation and discussion of research strategies and methodologies related to current problems in human drug metabolism by cytochrome P-450 enzymes. Emphasis on hypothesis testing and experimental problem solving in the areas of enzyme kinetics and mechanism. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: even years; AWPpS.

MEDCH 559 Molecular Motors (1) Catalano Discussion of molecular motors, particularly those associated with virus assembly pathways. Emphasizes kinetic, biochemical, and biophysical approaches to dissect the molecular mechanisms of motor function. Offered: AWPpS.

MEDCH 561 P-Immunizing and Antimicrobial Agents (4) Elmer, Totah Chemical and biologic properties of agents used to prevent or treat infectious diseases, including diagnostic, prophylactic, and therapeutic uses of immunizing biologicals and spectrum, action mechanisms, resistance patterns, toxicity, and therapeutic applications of antibiotics, antifungals, and antivirals. Prerequisite: MICROM 301, MICROM 302, MEDCH 570, or equivalent, PharmD major, or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

MEDCH 562 P-Medicinal Chemistry (3) S. Nelson Study of the various classes of medicinal compounds with particular emphasis on biological activity, mechanism of action, biotransformation, and the structural and physical properties governing absorption, distribution, and excretion. Prerequisite: MEDCH 400 or satisfactory completion of qualifying exam. Offered: A.

MEDCH 563 P-Medicinal Chemistry (3) W. Nelson, Rettie Study of the various classes of medicinal compounds with particular emphasis on biological activity, mechanism of action, biotransformation, and the structural and physical properties governing absorption, distribution, and excretion. Prerequisite: MEDCH 400 or satisfactory completion of qualifying exam. Offered: W.

MEDCH 564 P-Medicinal Chemistry (3) Atkins, W. Nelson Study of the various classes of medicinal compounds with particular emphasis on biological activity, mechanism of action, biotransformation, and the structural and physical properties governing absorption, distribution, and excretion. Prerequisite: MEDCH 400 or satisfactory completion of qualifying exam. Offered: Sp.

MEDCH 570 P-Medicinal Biochemistry I (3) Catalano Introduction to biochemistry for Pharm.D. students with an emphasis on those aspects of biochemistry which are particularly relevant to understanding human disease and therapeutic intervention strategies. Offered: W.

MEDCH 571 P-Medicinal Biochemistry II (3) Kunze Continuation of discussions of those aspects of biochemistry which are particularly relevant to understanding human disease and therapeutic intervention strategies. Offered: Sp.

MEDCH 582 Topics in Medicinal Chemistry (1, max. 10) Discussion of pertinent articles from current literature. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

MEDCH 599 Cumulative Exams for Medicinal Chemistry (1) Quarterly cumulative examinations for graduate students. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

MEDCH 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

MEDCH 700 Master's Thesis (*) Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

MEDCH 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

Pharmaceutics

PCEUT 499 Undergraduate Research (1-6, max. 12) Research problems in drug disposition, drug targeting, and drug development. Prerequisite: Cumulative GPA of 2.5 and permission of the instructor.

PCEUT 501 Advanced Pharmacokinetics I (5) Ho, Shen, Unadkat Drug absorption, distribution, excretion, metabolism, and effects in mammalian systems. Compartmental model and model-independent approaches examined. Drug disposition studied in a physiologically realistic context taking nonlinear events into account. Aimed at development of innovative methods for data analysis and evaluation in biological systems. Prerequisite: PCEUT 506 or PCEUT 532, or permission of instructor.

PCEUT 502 Pharmacokinetics of Drug Metabolism (4) Kunze, Levy, Thummel Advanced study of drug metabolism pharmacokinetics. Topics emphasize linear and nonlinear metabolic clearance kinetics, metabolite kinetics, in vitro-in vivo predictions, and drug-drug interaction kinetics. Prerequisite: PCEUT 506 or permission of instructor.

PCEUT 503 Drug Transport and Delivery (5) Ho, Hu, Mao, Shen, Unadkat, Wang Provides advance knowledge of the physico-chemical and biological concepts underlying in vivo transport and delivery of drugs. Prerequisite: PCEUT 506.

PCEUT 506 Pharmacokinetic Principles (6) Isoherranen Covers the fundamentals of pharmacokinetics. Includes lectures and laboratory exercises on the key concepts in pharmacokinetics, including compartmental kinetics, clearance, protein binding, bioavailability, pharmacodynamics, clinical pharmacokinetics, and Michaelis-Menten kinetics.

PCEUT 510 Pharmacokinetics of Drug Interactions (3) Levy, Shen, Thummel, Unadkat Common pharmacokinetic mechanisms underlying the clinically important interactions between drugs. Interactions involving gastrointestinal absorption, serum drug protein binding, excretory and metabolic clearance processes are discussed. Prerequisite: PCEUT 532 or equivalent.

PCEUT 513 Basic Concepts in Pharmacogenetics and Toxicogenomics (3) Eaton, Thummel Addresses current DNA sequencing and genotyping approaches, and basic concepts of pharmacogenetics and toxicogenomics. Emphasis placed on applications of genomic technologies to the understanding of "gene-environment interactions" that cause diseases of public health importance, including cancer, chronic neurological diseases, and adverse drug reactions. Prerequisite: GENET 372 or equivalent. Offered: jointly with ENV H 513/PHG 513.

PCEUT 520 Seminar (1, max. 15) Kelly Graduate students attend seminars and make one formal presentation per year while in residence; maximum of three presentations. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with MEDCH 520.

PCEUT 531 P-Pharmaceutical Formulation: Principles and Dosage Forms (4) Bloedow, Lee, Link, Mao Physicochemical principles involved in formulating stable dosage forms suitable for human administration. Hands-on laboratory experience with formulating extemporaneous preparations routinely encountered in community and hospital pharmacies.

PCEUT 532 P-Clinical Pharmacokinetics (5) Anderson, Levy, Isoherranen Basic principles of pharmacokinetics and their application to the clinical setting, including: single-dose intravenous and oral kinetics, multiple dosing, nonlinear pharmacokinetics, metabolite kinetics, pharmacogenetics, and the role of disease in drug clearance and dose requirements, and kinetics of drug-drug interactions. Prerequisite: PCEUT 531.

PCEUT 533 P-Biopharmaceutics and Drug Delivery (3) Ho, Levy, Shen, Thummel Basic principles of biopharmaceutics and drug delivery, and their application to therapeutics including oral and non-oral route of drug administration for traditional and biotechnology drugs. Fundamental principles related to assessment of bioavailability and bioequivalence, drug-drug and food-drug interactions for orally administered drugs. Prerequisite: PCEUT 532.

PCEUT 570 Advanced Research Topics (1, max. 15) Combines a discussion of the practical aspects and experimental techniques used to address the questions relating to drug disposition with comprehensive theoretical treatment of pharmacokinetic principles. Prerequisite: permission of the instructor.

PCEUT 583 Topics in Pharmaceutics (1, max. 15) Isoherranen Discussion of pertinent articles from current literature and recent laboratory results. Credit/no credit only.

PCEUT 584 Pharmacokinetic Discussion Group (2) Lin Student initiated discussions of pharmaceutics concepts in relation to current literature. Preparatory to departmental cumulative examinations. Credit/no credit only.

PCEUT 586 Pharmaceutical Biotechnology (2/3, max. 3) Ho, Hu, Thummel Current topics in pharmaceuticals and biotechnology focusing on transforming small molecules, proteins, and genes into therapeutic products. Includes new drug therapies, drug design, pharmacogenomics, molecular modeling, high throughput screen, production and stability considerations, and delivery systems of protein and gene therapeutics in relation to pharmacokinetic and therapeutic responses.

PCEUT 598 Independent Research (*, max. 24) Basic and clinical research problems in drug disposition and effect. Prerequisite: 2.5 GPA and permission of instructor.

PCEUT 599 Cumulative Exams for Pharmaceutics (1) Isoherranen Quarterly cumulative examinations for graduate students. Credit/no credit only.

PCEUT 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only.

PCEUT 700 Master's Thesis (*) Credit/no credit only.

PCEUT 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Credit/no credit only.

Pharmacy

Pharmacy

PHARM 301 Self-Care Products and Practices (2) Dawson, Murphy Addresses a broad range of health concerns including how to identify common conditions amenable to self-care, select appropriate treatment options ranging from non-prescription to non-drug therapies, prevent adverse effects from the use of medications, adopt strategies encouraging healthier lifestyle habits, and learn the rationale behind conventional and alternative/complementary therapies.

PHARM 494 Principles of Pharmacokinetics (2) Bauer basic pharmacokinetic concepts to the clinical application of drug dosing in patients and master the therapeutic drug monitoring techniques used to determine doses of drugs with narrow therapeutic indices.

PHARM 497 Drug Therapy for the Elderly (3) Christiansen, Gray, Odegard Clinical application of drug knowledge in the treatment of disease in older adults with multiple comorbidities. Application of age-related changes in pharmacokinetics and pharmacodynamics in the selection and monitoring of drug regimens of older adults. Emphasis on problem solving, using case examples. Prerequisite: nurse practitioner students or permission of instructor.

PHARM 500P-Principles of Evidence Based Medicine I: Design and Conduct of Clinical Research (3) O'Sullivan Provides instruction in approaches to and sources for identifying information on the benefits and risks of pharmaceuticals in humans. Additionally, discusses the science of conducting clinical research, including methods, study design, and interpreting study findings for clinical practices. Offered: A.

PHARM 501 P-Profession of Pharmacy (3) Somani Overview of the profession of pharmacy emphasizing practice opportunities and specialization. Introduction to clinical and ethics case evaluation techniques using the Pharmacist's Workup of Drug Therapy format. Off-site pharmacy visitation required. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 502 Neonatal Drug Therapy (3) Blackburn Clinical applications of drugs used with acute and chronically ill preterm and term neonates. Review of neonatal pharmacotherapeutics. Examination of selected therapeutic agents in relation to indications, efficacy, therapeutic and adverse effects, monitoring parameters, and dosing principles in the neonate.

PHARM 503 Senior Care Introductory Pharmacy Practice Experience (2) Dawson, Gray, Lakey, Lam, Morrissey, Murphy, Odegard, Plein Under faculty supervision, provides clinical services for senior patients in various settings. Includes reviewing charts, interviewing patients, conferring with other health care providers, and making recommendations on medication therapies to providers and patients. Prerequisite: Successful completion of the first five quarters of Pharm. D. curriculum; permission. Credit/no credit only. Offered: Sp.

PHARM 504 P-Pharmacy Practice (3) Hammer Introduces students to principles of contemporary pharmacy practice and pharmaceutical care. Lecture topics include pharmacy practice issues and general knowledge of common medications. Laboratory activities include prescription processing and problem solving, patient education, sterile products preparation, physical assessment, and other patient care activities. Prerequisite: PHARM 500, PCEUT 531.

PHARM 505 P-Foundations and Principles of Pharmacy Education (2) Dawson, Hammer Teaches principles of education that student educators and pharmacists can use in a multitude of educational environments. Focuses on pharmacy education in general as well as instructional methods and teaching principles. Open to 2nd-4th-year Pharm.D. students.

PHARM 506 Seminar in Pharmacy Education I (1) Murphy, Odegard Discussion of scholarship and teaching in pharmacy education, focusing on the critical evaluation of educational research. Designed in a journal-club format, students participate in small group discussions and write an analysis paper. Prerequisite: PHARM 505 or permission of instructor. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 507 Seminar in Pharmacy Education II (2) Hammer, O'Sullivan Students engage in weekly discussions and activities to prepare pharmacy-related presentations or faculty development workshops. Includes journal club sessions to discuss current topics in pharmacy education. Prerequisite: PHARM 505 or permission of instructor. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 508 P-Principles of Evidence Based Medicine II: Applying and Interpreting Biostatistics in Clinical Research (4) Blough Introduction to basic biostatistical concepts in the field of pharmacy. Prerequisite: PHARM 500.

PHARM 509 Medical Literature Evaluation (2) O'Sullivan Provides an introduction to the processes of critically evaluation medical literature. Offered: A

PHARM 510 Contemporary Concepts in Clinical Nutrition Support (1) Chan Addresses current topics and concepts in clinical nutrition support. Topics include assessment and management of patients requiring specialized nutrition support, enteral nutrition, and parental nutrition. Prerequisite: biochemistry, anatomy and physiology, or permission of instructor; taken concurrently with NUTR 511. Offered: A.

PHARM 511 P-Community Outreach Service (2) Dawson Work in assigned community services setting for a minimum of two hours per week to explore root causes of disability, cultural differences, professional values, community resources, and quality of life issues. Weekly seminars assist students in applying observations and experiences to pharmaceutical care. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 512 P-Human Behavior and Communication in Pharmacy (3) Dawson Focuses on how human behavior and communication influence the pharmacist's activities in designing, delivering, and managing patient-focused care in pharmacy. Emphasizes listening, interviewing, writing, teaching, and critical thinking as applied to pharmacy practice. Prerequisite: PHARM 511.

PHARM 513 P-Medical Devices for Home Health Care (3) Downing, Study of medical devices commonly provided by pharmacists to their patients, including their selection and adaptation for specific patient needs. Lectures include display and demonstration of actual devices.

PHARM 514 Pharmacotherapeutics for Advanced Nursing Practice (1-6, max. 6) Acker, Landis Explores pharmacogenetics, pharmacokinetics, pharmacodynamics, pharmacotherapeutic issues, evidence-based efficacy studies, clinical case applications, and patient related factors such as age, socioeconomic status, and behavioral aspects that support the selection of commonly used drugs for patients of all ages across settings. Includes web-based pediatric component and specialty components.

PHARM 515 Pharmacotherapeutics for Acute/Critical Illness (3) Coyne Analysis of issues that impact the assessment, prescription, and evaluation of pharmacotherapeutic regimens for patients who are acutely or critically ill. Current research, clinical contextual considerations, and pharmacotherapeutic principles are emphasized as the basis for decisions relevant to the management of pharmacotherapy in acute care clinical practice.

PHARM 516 Introduction to Biomedical Regulatory Affairs (3) Hazlet Surveys government oversight of drugs, devices, and biotechnology derived products; laws and regulations that apply to development, testing, and production; and responsibilities of a regulatory affairs specialist in the regulatory setting.

PHARM 517 Product Development and Manufacturing Systems (3) Hazlet Surveys government oversight of drugs, devices, and biotechnology derived products; laws and regulations that apply to development, testing, and production.

PHARM 518 Product Testing, Evaluation, and Post-Market Issues (3) Hazlet Medical product post-marketing requirements; reporting and enforcement actions; inspections (internal and by regulators) preparation, conduct and follow-up actions; surveillance and studies, reimbursement, and economics.

PHARM 519 Pharmacotherapeutics for Infectious Disease and Infection (2) Black Analysis of pharmacotherapeutics to control infection and manage infectious disease through seminar discussion of cases, critical analysis of a pharmacotherapeutic regimen, and development of references to enhance students' clinical expertise. Emphasis on principles of anti-infective therapy, problem solving clinical cases with complex medication regimens, and identifying judicious pharmacotherapeutic plans.

PHARM 520 P-Introduction to Pharmacoeconomics and Outcomes Research (2) Ramsey, Veenstra Provides an introduction to economic evaluation and outcomes research related to pharmaceuticals and other healthcare technologies. Covers the methods of cost-effectiveness analysis and quality of life evaluation, and their use in real-world decision-making.

PHARM 521 P-Pharmacy Teaching Practicum (1-3, max. 6) Dawson, Hammer Allows students the opportunity to apply learning about education in a mentored experiences. Students serve as assistant instructors in existing pharmacy courses or engage in other approved educational experiences. Prerequisite: PHARM 505. Offered: AWSpS.

PHARM 522 P-The Nature of Scientific Truth (2) Hansten Drawing on the wisdom of scientists and philosophers, discussion of the nature and limitations of scientific truth, using examples from the practice of pharmacy whenever possible. Emphasizes reasoning errors that are common in science, particularly those that involve the application of scientific information to clinical practice. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 523 Survey of Biomedical Regulatory Affairs (3) Hazlet Overview of the knowledge, terminology, and skills necessary to be an effective regulatory affairs or compliance specialist in the design, development, testing and production of drugs, biotechnology-derived therapeutics, and medical devices.

PHARM 524 P-Institutional and Healthcare Systems Pharmacy Practice (2) Somani Presentation of topics regarding current contemporary institutions pharmacy practice. Discussion of new systems technology, home care programs, managed care, computer applications, budgeting, formulary systems, drug information services, intravenous admixture programs, quality assurance process, and patient oriented services.

PHARM 525 P-Advanced Compounding Skills (1) Hammer, Needham Prepares the student to create unique, patient-specific pharmaceutical dosage forms used in contemporary pharmacy practice. Includes pre-readings and assignments, a didactic session and a laboratory session, and is offered over a weekend. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: PCEUT 531.

PHARM 526 P-Introductory Pharmacy Practicum (3) O'Sullivan Preparation and dispensing of prescriptions at Rubenstein Memorial Pharmacy in Hall Health Center or other selected community pharmacies. Designed for Pharm.D. students with little or no experience in pharmacy. Under direct supervision of clinical faculty and other licensed pharmacy preceptors. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 527 P-Introductory Community Pharmacy Experience (4) O'Sullivan Under faculty supervision, students gain experience working in the community pharmacy setting. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: PHARM 504.

PHARM 528 P-Introductory Institutional Pharmacy Experience (3) O'Sullivan Under faculty supervision students gain experience working in the institutional setting. Prerequisite: PHARM 504.

PHARM 529 P-Experiential Learning (1-6, max. 12) O'Sullivan Under faculty supervision, pharmacy students gain experience working on advanced practice projects, in a pharmacy practice setting, prior to the final year of the pharmacy program. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: satisfactory completion of the first quarter of pharmacy school.

PHARM 530 P-Pharmacy and Women's Health (2) Anderson, Gardner Participants gain an overview of the specific up-to-date knowledge of gender-based medicine; an understanding of the implications of gender-based biology and the opportunity to evaluate new research that has implications for the prevention and management of diseases and conditions in women. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 531 P-Pharmacy-Based Screening and Immunization Programs (1) Carpinito, Downing Practical training in cholesterol, hypertension, bone density, and wellness assessment techniques, vaccine administration and management, and implementation of community-based public health programs. Following didactic and laboratory sessions students conduct screening and administer vaccines at community locations. Offered following the first professional year. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: MEDCH 401.

PHARM 532 Methods in Pharmaceutical Policy Analysis (4) Hazlet Introduction to the tools used in and the framework and dominant contexts for pharmaceuticals policy development and analysis. Methods reviewed in a series of sessions presenting a specific method and case analyses involving pharmaceuticals development. Project and in-class presentation required.

PHARM 533 Pharmacoeconomics (3) Boudreau, Heckbert Overview of pharmacoepidemiology including drug development and approval; application of epidemiologic methods to study drug safety and effectiveness; exploration of the interplay between research and public policy; introduction to resources for information about drugs; introduction to pharmacology principles pertinent to pharmacoepidemiology. Prerequisite: Graduate student or with permission. Offered: jointly with EPI 533; even years.

PHARM 534 Economic Evaluation in Health and Medicine (3) Garrison, Veenstra Methods and techniques for evaluating costs and cost-effectiveness of health, medical, and pharmaceutical interventions. Emphasis on economic evaluation, decision analysis, and modeling techniques for resource allocation and decision making. Applications to technology assessment, health policy, clinical practice, and resource allocation. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with HSERV 583.

PHARM 535 Assessing Outcomes in Health and Medicine (3) Patrick Concepts and methods for evaluating cost and outcomes of health and medical interventions with a focus on cost-effectiveness analysis, pharmacoconomics, health and quality of life assessment, resource allocation, and medical decision-making. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with HSERV 584.

PHARM 536 Principles of Publishing Clinical Evidence (2) Johnson, Olson Explains advanced methodologic principles for improving the clarity of published clinical evidence. Students prepare and revise a 1000-word research letter for The Lancet using their own clinical evidence. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with EPI 534.

PHARM 537 P-Chemical Dependency Concepts (2) Kedziarski Examines the development of therapeutic frame. Includes the genesis of addiction harm reduction strategies, legal and ethical considerations, medication management in the substance-abusing population, impaired pharmacist rehabilitation, detection and dealing with substance abuse issues in pharmacy practice, community resources. Course offered to Pharm.D. professional students. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 538 P-Chemical Dependency Issues in Practice (3) Kedziarski Emphasis on drug classes, pharmacologic management of abstinence and withdrawal, drug testing, drug use in pregnancy, treatment options and recovery, codependency and legal and ethical considerations. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: PHARM 537.

PHARM 539 P-Principles of Professional Practice Management (2) Downing Emphasizes the major issues and barriers of providing pharmaceutical care in institutional and community pharmacies. Topics include evaluating workflow and facility design, complying with legal and safety standards, managing drug distribution services, payment for pharmacist services, human resource management and marketing pharmaceutical care services.

PHARM 540 P-Pharmacy Ownership and Entrepreneurship (2) Gardner, Odegaard Discusses barriers to and benefits of independent pharmacy ownership. Describes the role, responsibilities and different management styles of the pharmacy owner. Evaluates differences with regard to purchasing an existing practice vs. starting a new practice. Explains legal considerations of ownership. Discusses how to create and the importance of a business plan.

PHARM 541 Pharmacy, Health Care and Society (3) Sullivan Introduction to health services and pharmacy practice designed for future health-care practitioners. Examines the history, organization, and effectiveness of the U.S. health-care system. Stresses the student's ability to adopt a broad perspective across health-care disciplines and traditional boundaries.

PHARM 542 P-Managed Care Pharmacy: Principles and Practice (3) Fullerton, Penna Surveys the activities, tactics, and strategies used by managed care to deliver pharmacy services to their members. Includes: formulary development, clinical improvement programs, quality improvement measures, regulatory activities, contracting with pharmaceutical manufacturers, network management, financial issues, sales and market, and provider relations. Class 2, 3, and 4.

PHARM 543 Pharmacy Laws and Ethics (4) Hazlet Studies the laws and regulations governing the practice of pharmacy, approaches to ethical dilemmas in the delivery of pharmaceutical care, and methods of regulatory and statutory reform.

PHARM 544 Survey of Pharmacy Laws (1) Hazlet Prepare, discuss, and present responses to assigned questions developed by faculty regarding laws governing pharmacy practice in the course of reviewing for the Multistate Pharmacy Jurisprudence Examination. Class meets for two consecutive Saturdays in February and March. E-mail and web-access required. Open to 4th-year Pharm.D. students; non-matriculated students by permission only. Credit /no credit only.

PHARM 545 P-Pharmacy Business Plan Development (1) Downing, Gardner Develops a business plan for purchasing an independent pharmacy. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: PHARM 540.

PHARM 546 P-Nonprescription Drug Therapeutics (3) Capoccia, Ellsworth Overview of common classes of nonprescription drug therapeutics with an emphasis on case examples, patient assessment, non-drug adjunct therapy, product selection, and patient advice. Oral presentation required. Computer (internet) case discussion mandatory. Enrollment restricted to 2nd Pharm.D. students.

PHARM 547 P-Gerontological Communication Skills Seminar (2) Dawson Addresses special communication needs of the elderly, ranging from individualized patient counseling to patient advocacy through development and provision of pharmacy services. Communication techniques applicable to teaching, developing innovative services, supervising, motivating, conflict resolution, and interdisciplinary interactions are explored in lecture and laboratory. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 548 P-Pharmaceutical Services for Long-Term Care (2) Lam Scope of pharmaceutical services for long-term care (LTC) and systems for services. Responsibilities of the pharmacist for distributive, administrative, and clinical pharmacy services for nursing homes and other long-term-care facilities. Economic considerations in provision of LTC pharmaceutical services, role of the consultant pharmacist for home-health-care organizations. Pharmaceutical services for independently living elderly.

PHARM 549 Pharmacotherapeutics for Older Adults (3) Gray, Odegaard Clinical application of drug knowledge in the treatment of disease in older adults with multiple comorbidities. Application of age-related changes in pharmacokinetics and pharmacodynamics in the selection and monitoring of drug regimens of older adults.

Emphasis on problem solving, using case examples. Prerequisite: PHARM 560; PHARM 561 or permission of instructor.

PHARM 550 Current Topics in Geriatric Pharmacotherapy (1) Gray Review primary medical literature to discuss contemporary issues related to geriatric pharmacotherapy. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: PHARM 509 or permission of instructor.

PHARM 551 Infectious Disease Pharmacotherapy Module (1-2, max. 2) Black Advanced concepts in infectious disease pharmacotherapy in a self-study and workshop format. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 552 Cardiovascular Disease Pharmacotherapy Module (1-2, max. 2) James Advanced concepts in cardiovascular disease pharmacotherapy in a self-study and workshop format. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 553 Pulmonary Disease Pharmacotherapy Module (1-2, max. 2) Blanchard Advanced concepts in pulmonary disease pharmacotherapy in a self-study and workshop format. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 554 Gastrointestinal Disease Pharmacotherapy Module (1-2, max. 2) Albertson Advanced concepts in gastrointestinal disease pharmacotherapy in a self-study and workshop format. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 555 Neurological and Psychiatric Disease Pharmacotherapy Module (1-2, max. 2) Weber Advanced concepts in neurological and psychiatric disease pharmacotherapy in a self-study and workshop format. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 556 Renal Disease Pharmacotherapy Module (1-2, max. 2) O'Sullivan Advanced concepts in renal disease pharmacotherapy in a self-study and workshop format. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 557 Endocrine Disease Pharmacotherapy Module (1-2, max. 2) Wong Advanced concepts in endocrine disease pharmacotherapy in a self-study and workshop format. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 558 Hematologic and Oncologic Disease Pharmacotherapy Module (1-2, max. 2) Kwok Advanced concepts in hematologic and oncologic disease pharmacotherapy in a self-study and workshop format. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 559 Arthritic Disease Pharmacotherapy Module (1-2, max. 2) Setter Advanced concepts in arthritic disease pharmacotherapy in a self-study and workshop format. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 560 Pharmacotherapeutics I (9) Black, McCune Clinical application of drug knowledge in the treatment of disease. Emphasis on problem-solving, using case examples. Prerequisite: a minimum grade of .7 in all 1st and 2nd year core Pharm. D courses, a minimum grade of 2.0 in both PHARM 500 and 504, a minimum grade of 1.7 in PHARM 543; corequisite: PHARM 563.

PHARM 561 Pharmacotherapeutics II (9) Bauer, Horn Clinical application of drug knowledge in the treatment of disease. Emphasis on problem-solving, using case examples. Prerequisite: a minimum grade of 1.7 in PHARM 560; corequisite: PHARM 564.

PHARM 562 Pharmacotherapeutics III (7) Gray, Wittkowsky Clinical application of drug knowledge in the treatment of disease. Emphasis on problem-solving, using case examples. Prerequisite: a minimum grade of 1.7 in PHARM 561; corequisite: PHARM 565.

PHARM 563 Applied Pharmacotherapeutics I (2) Capoccia Develops a foundation of skills that enables a pharmacist to practice collaborative patient-specific care. Corequisite: PHARM 560.

PHARM 564 Applied Pharmacotherapeutics II (2) Capoccia Develops a foundation of skills that enables a pharmacist to practice collaborative patient-specific care. Prerequisite: PHARM 563; corequisite: PHARM 561.

PHARM 565 Applied Pharmacotherapeutics III (2) Capoccia Develops a foundation of skills that enables a pharmacist to practice collaborative patient-specific care. Prerequisite: PHARM 564; corequisite: PHARM 562.

PHARM 566 P-Applied Pharmacokinetics (2) Bauer Pharmacokinetics of specific drugs. Influence of age, weight, sex, and disease states on patient-specific dosage regimens emphasized. Advanced kinetic concepts are discussed and put into applied context. Prerequisite: PCEUT 532.

PHARM 567 P-Cancer Pharmacotherapeutics (2) Kwok Pharmacotherapy of cancer, covering supportive care (antibiotics, antiemetics, analgesics, nutrition) to the antineoplastic agents themselves. Specialists in each area serve as guest lecturers.

PHARM 568 Healthcare of Cancer Survivors (2) McCune Focuses on teaching the health science students about cancer survivorship issues. Discusses the health concerns of those who have been cured of their initial malignancy but are still at risk of long-term effects of chemotherapy, radiation, and surgery. Prerequisite: PHARM 561.

PHARM 569 P-Fluid and Electrolytes and Parenteral Nutrition (2) Chan Focuses on the principles of fluid electrolyte and nutritional management in patients requiring parenteral nutrition (PN) and infusion therapy. Topics include acid-base balance, macro and micronutrient requirements, nutritional assessment, complications of PN and compounding and compatibility of PN solutions. Discusses consideration in special population (e.g., ICU).

PHARM 570 P-Critical Care Pharmacotherapeutics (2) Mike Overviews pharmacotherapeutic topics for patients in the critical care setting. Discusses principles in hemodynamic monitoring, respiratory management, concepts in pathophysiology related to critical illnesses, and other timely topics reflecting current clinical practice. Prerequisite: 3rd-year PharmD student, or approval by instructor.

PHARM 571 P-Current Topics in Acute Care Pharmacotherapy (1) Chan Increases understanding and stimulates discussion in the current topics related to acute care pharmacotherapy. Reviews the management of patients in the acute care setting through current cases presented by the instructors. May be taken alone or concurrently with PHARM 570.

PHARM 572 P-Clinical Applications of Drug Interactions (2) Horn Discussion of the clinical evaluation and management of drug-drug interactions using patient situations. Focus on patient- and drug-related factors that predispose patients to adverse drug interactions, as well as clinical management of patients found to be at risk. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: 3rd- or 4th-year Pharm.D. student.

PHARM 573 Laboratory and Functional Assessment: Geriatrics (1) Lam Application of laboratory data and functional assessment in planning care for older adults. Case study/ seminar format in which students recommend appropriate tests, interpret test results, and gain experience in performing tests of function. Recommended: MEDCH 535 or permission of instructor.

PHARM 574 Clinical Introductory Practicum (1) O'Sullivan Students spend three days in a patient care setting, under the guidance of preceptors or advanced students, as an introduction to the practicum experience. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 575 Institutional Clinical Practicum (5, max. 15) O'Sullivan Under faculty supervision, fourth-year students provide pharmaceutical care in an inpatient environment. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 576 Ambulatory Care Clinical Practicum (5, max. 15) O'Sullivan Under faculty supervision, fourth-year students provide pharmaceutical care in an outpatient environment. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 577 Advanced Practicum (5, max. 40) O'Sullivan Under faculty supervision, fourth-year students gain experience in practice settings of their choice. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 578 Advanced Elective Practicum (1-10, max. 20) O'Sullivan Faculty-supervised practicums either in areas of traditional practice or in innovative practice plans designed by faculty and student. Objectives, activities, schedules, and lengths are site- and preceptor-specific. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 579 Senior Care Practicum (1-6, max. 12) Under faculty supervision, fourth-year pharmacy students gain experience working with drug therapy regimens in the elderly. Prerequisite: acceptance to the pharmacy school's Geriatric Certificate program.

PHARM 580 P-Cases in Pharmaceutical Care (3, max. 9) Dawson Small groups of students work with an instructor to review cases illustrating various aspects of specific diseases: pathophysiology, clinical features, psychosocial factors, therapeutic interventions with emphasis on drug therapies, and community resources. Analytic reasoning, self-study skills, and knowledge are emphasized.

PHARM 581 P-Global Health Pharmacy: Medicines, Practice, and Policy (2) Garrison, Stergachis Introduces the critical role of pharmaceutical in addressing the major diseases, such as HIV/AIDS, malaria, tuberculosis, affecting persons in resource-limited settings. Addresses the wide range of relevant issues, including burden of disease, human resource capacity, regulation, drug safety/pharmacovigilance, drug distribution, pharmoeconomics, financing, intellectual property, and drug trade policies. Prerequisite: two credit enrollment requires satisfactory completion of the 1 credit lecture/discussion component.

PHARM 582 P-Special Topics in Global Health Pharmacy and Medical Products (1-3, max. 6) Garrison, Hazlet, Stergachis Provides in-depth instruction on selected special topics relating to the use, access to, and impact of pharmaceuticals, vaccines, and diagnostics/medical devices in global health. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 583 P-Overview of Contraceptive Management (2) Gardner Didactic overview of contraceptive methods, fertility interventions, and medical abortions. Establishes forum for interactive discussion. Includes patient screening criteria and selection and monitoring outcomes of currently available barrier and hormonal methods of contraception and medical abortions. Open to all Pharm.D. students, as well as other health science professional students.

PHARM 584 P-Pharmacy and Patient Advocacy (1/2, max. 3) Capoccia, Dawson, Downing, Gardner, Hazlet, Murphy, Odegard Prepares Pharm D. students to become aware of and put into action their role as change agents in the advocacy of patients and the pharmacy profession. Prerequisite: two credit option requires satisfactory completion of the 1 credit lecture/discussion component.

PHARM 587 P-Pharmacy Calculations (1) O'Sullivan Covers basic calculations used in pharmacy practice. Offered: A.

PHARM 588 Diabetes Care (2) Capoccia, Odegard Further develops foundations in the principles of diabetes management and provides practice in application of diabetes care principles. Develops knowledge and ability to assess, manage, educate, and monitor patients with diabetes. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 591 Community Collaborations in Healthcare Practicum (2, max. 8) Downing, Kedzierski Faculty and students collaborate with representatives from the Salvation Army ARC and other community sites to improve health literacy and health outcomes of men and women residents/patients in addiction recovery. Credit/no credit only. Offered: ASp.

PHARM 595 Special Studies in Pharmacy (1-6, max. 24) Special studies of professional topics in pharmacy. An opportunity to expand the breadth and depth of understanding in specific pharmaceutical areas. Students may undertake independent study under the individual direction of a faculty member.

PHARM 596 Seminars in Pediatric Pharmacotherapy (2) Harvey, Weber Explores therapeutic topics pertinent in the pediatric population.

Emphasized ambulatory pediatrics. Prerequisite: third-year Pharm.D. student or permission of instructor.

PHARM 597 Graduate Seminar (1) Blough, Gardner, Garrison, Hazlet, Sullivan, Veenstra Interactive discussion of topical issues, methods, or analytic techniques. Topics vary. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate program student.

PHARM 598 Case Conference: Geriatrics (1) Plein Students taking geriatric pharmacy clerkships in various clinical settings meet with faculty to present case studies of elderly patients requiring complex drug therapies. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: Pharm.D. fourth-year practicum in geriatrics or general medicine.

PHARM 599 Independent Study/Research (1-6, max. 24) Applied pharmaceutical research problems. Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 700 Master's Thesis (*) Credit/no credit only.

PHARM 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Credit/no credit only.

Regulatory Affairs

PHRMRA 524 Introduction to Clinical Trials (3) Jonlin, Hazlet, Hoffman Introduces the major concepts under which clinical trials are designed to run. Focuses on the phases of clinical trials, the role of the Food and Drug Administration, Institutional Review Boards, the Code of Federal Regulations and ethical principles. Addresses study design and statistical concepts. Offered: A.

PHRMRA 525 Implementation and Conduct of Clinical Trials (3) Jonlin, Hazlet, Hoffman Outlines the work of carrying out a clinical trial including, the complex work of study initiation, the issues of site and data managements, the preparation of the final report and study close out, as well as the details that control the study conduct. Offered: W.

PHRMRA 526 Project Management and the Business of Clinical Trials (3) Jonlin, Hazlet, Hoffman Address the business dimension of clinical trials. Addressed the principles of project management, planning, analysis, contingency and follow-up within the context of clinical trials that involve a large number of tasks and people responsible for parts of the overall study. Offered: Sp.

PHRMRA 527 International Regulatory Affairs (3) Hazlet Develops an understanding of international differences in the regulation of design, manufacture and post-marketing surveillance of medical products relative to US Food and Drug Administration Requirements. Prerequisite: PHARM 504. Offered: W.

PHRMRA 528 Medical Risk Analysis and Management (3) Hazlet Examines the principles and application of risk management methods in the design, manufacturing and marketing of medical products. Offered: Sp.

PHRMRA 545 Statistical Basis of Quality Assurance (3) Hazlet Applies statistical methods to medical products design, clinical evaluation, manufacturing and post-marketing surveillance. Prerequisite: introductory statistics. Offered: A.

PHRMRA 546 Technical Writing for the Medical Products Industries (3) Hazlet Presents up-to-date information and strategies for effective technical communication within the medical product industries. Addressed the appropriate and correct use of the English language, information design, and the use of computer technology in producing professional documents. Emphasizes communicating technical information to a variety of stakeholders. Offered: A.

PHRMRA 547 Advanced Topics in Medical Products Regulation (2, max. 6) Hazlet Addresses essential topics in medical products regulation. Employs a combination of lecture presentations, case studies, and participants' small group discussion to achieve practical outcomes for regulatory professionals. Offered: AWSp.

PHRMRA 548 Biomedical Regulatory Affairs Practicum (1-9, max. 9) Hazlet Provides a practical experience to ensure that participants are able to shepherd new medical products (drug, device, biologic) through regulator, clinical and quality assurance aspects. Includes a project and final report. Offered: AWSp.

PHRMRA 560 Short Course in Multinational Biomedical Regulatory Affairs (2, max. 30) Hazlet Presents three medical products registration countries or groupings (for instance, European Union, World Health Organization). Locale based on program impact, unique features, or recent or controversial regulatory issues.

Public Affairs

PB AF 499 Topics in Public Policy (3-5, max. 6) I&S Examines selected issues of importance in all areas of public policy. Focus on in-depth analysis of vital public policy issues and the integration of economic, political, and administrative perspectives on them. Offered: jointly with POL S 404.

PB AF 500 General Seminar (1, max. 9)

PB AF 501 Legislative Relations (3) Studies role of legislative bodies in American public policy making. Builds on case studies and focuses on tactics, constraints, and options involved in working within a legislative process to achieve public policy goals.

PB AF 502 Political Management of Policy Process (3) Analyzes the issues which public managers address when they seek to make and implement public policy and programs. Pays particular attention to the institutional and political constraints on policy making and the skills needed to address them.

PB AF 503 Administrative and Executive Leadership (3) Nature of executive life in the public sector, the function of leadership in implementing, making, and changing policy. Leadership styles, the relation of leadership to its constituencies and communities.

PB AF 504 Leadership Ethics (3) Addresses the moral challenges facing leaders in the public and nonprofit sectors. Examines the values and virtues important to sustained ethical leadership as well as strategies to build strong institutional cultures and support ethical practices in institutions.

PB AF 505 The Law of Public Administration (3) Legal framework of public administrative action in the United States, emphasizing constitutional requirements; operation of the administrative process; management of personnel, funds, and contracts; and judicial review of administrative activity.

PB AF 506 Ethics and Public Policy (3) Teaches students to identify moral issues in public life. Special focus on the integration of moral concerns into public discussion in a manner which contributes to good policy and does not polarize issues. Discusses moral and political theory by focusing on contemporary cases and issues.

PB AF 507 Mediation and Negotiation as Instruments of Public Management and Policy-Making (3) Possibilities offered by mediation and negotiation methods using a mixture of cases, readings, discussions, lectures, and guest speakers. Use of negotiation and mediation techniques to resolve disputes and disagreements over public-policy issues.

PB AF 508 Management Approaches to Service Delivery (3) Examines how services can be delivered in a way that is responsive to the needs of those being served and maximizes the effective utilization of resources. Topics addressed include: needs assessment, process analysis, service strategy, sustaining the service organization, case management, and services integration.

PB AF 509 Managing People in Public and Nonprofit Agencies (3) Emphasizes the role of the program manager rather than that of the personnel officer. Managing people within a variety of programmatic, bureaucratic, and political settings. Case studies form basis of class discussion, assignments.

PB AF 510 Foundations of Public Service in American Democracy (1) Discusses the role of public service in the United States through examination of historical and institutional foundations of the U.S. political regime. Pays special attention to the structures of government and constitutional values and conflicts at the heart of the political system. Offered: A.

PB AF 511 Managing Politics and the Policy Process (4) Examines broad aspects of organizational life and orients students to key internal and external challenges and opportunities of managing public and nonprofit organizations. Main topics include organizational mission, values, communication, culture, organizational environment and the policy process, legislative-executive relations, interest group advocacy, and media relations. Offered: A.

PB AF 512 Managing Organizational Performance (4) Addresses questions of organizational design, personnel, and operations management to equip students with skills to perform effectively in mission-driven organizations. Core topics include organizational design, inter-organizational networks, human resources and staff management, improving service delivery and production flows, measuring and managing for performance, and ethical leadership. Offered: Sp.

PB AF 513 Public Policy Analysis (4) Production and use of analysis to support public policy decisions. Defining problems, devising alternative solutions, clarifying stakes in choices, predicting impacts of choices. Skills developed by working on specific policy problems. Assumes familiarity with statistics, microeconomic theory, and institutions and processes of American government. Prerequisite: PB AF 516 or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

PB AF 515 Decision Making for Public Managers (3) Considers decision making from normative, prescriptive, and descriptive perspectives. Emphasizes individual decision making, with some discussion of organizational decision practice. Focuses on decision analysis; presents tools for structuring decisions; and considers the role of analysis as a basis for negotiation.

PB AF 516 Microeconomic Policy Analysis (4) Ways in which microeconomic analysis can contribute to the analysis of public sector issues. Supply and demand, consumer and firm behavior, competitive and monopoly markets, income distribution, market failure, government intervention. Policy applications of theory. Prerequisite: elementary economics. Offered: A.

PB AF 517 Economics of the Public Sector (3) Methods of analyzing effects of public expenditures and taxes on behavior of individuals and firms, on economic efficiency, and on equity and distribution of income. Theory and practice of intergovernmental fiscal relations. Application of theory to formulation of public policy. Prerequisite: PB AF 516.

PB AF 519 Law and Economics (4) Offered: jointly with LAW A 561.

PB AF 520 Intergovernmental Relations (3) Comparative study of the issues involved in implementing government programs across multiple jurisdictions. Issues of accountability, feasibility, politics, and constitutional limits are examined by focusing upon various methods used to implement programs across federal, state, regional, and international jurisdictions.

PB AF 521 Water Center Seminar (1) Steinmann Weekly seminars covering water resources and watershed topics with lectures from scientists on and off campus. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with CFR 529/FISH 529; AWSp.

PB AF 522 Public Budgeting and Financial Management (4) Budgeting as a management process. Study of formulation and administration of government budgets, including role of budgeting in policy processes, approaches to budget formulation and analysis, development of the PPB approach, and aspects of budget administration, such as revenue estimating, allotment control, cost accounting. Prerequisite: PB AF 516 or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

PB AF 523 Financial Management in the Public Sector (3) Exploration of the managerial uses of accounting and other processes of financial management in the public sector. Topics covered include: financial planning and control, fund accounting, cost accounting, asset accounting, internal controls, auditing, financial analysis, and financial reporting. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

PB AF 526 Program Evaluation (3) Theory, practice, and politics of evaluation, from simple feedback mechanisms to evaluation of large-scale ongoing programs and social experiments. Emphasis on applications of experimental and quasi-experimental evaluation. Case studies illustrate various types of evaluation. Prerequisite: background in quantitative methods.

PB AF 527 Quantitative Analysis I (4) Two-quarter sequence explores how to formulate research questions, gain experience with conducting research, and learn how to assess which statistical tools or research methods are appropriate to answer different types of policy or management questions. Covers probability, descriptive statistics, hypothesis testing, and confidence intervals. Prerequisite: graduate status in School of Public Affairs or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

PB AF 528 Quantitative Analysis II (4) Second quarter of a two-quarter sequence aimed at helping students become informed users and critical consumers of research and statistical analysis. Combines material on research design and data collection methods with tools for multivariate analysis. The multivariate analysis methods include correlation and an introduction to multivariate regression. Prerequisite: PB AF 527. Offered: Sp.

PB AF 529 Advanced Multivariate Analysis (3) Klawitter Prepares students for advanced work with multivariate methods in program evaluation and policy analysis. Includes a data project what results in a professional quality product; reading examples of professional work and presentations of methods and results Offered: A.

PB AF 530 International Affairs (3) Provides a broad understanding of international issues and United States policy. Students explore U.S. foreign policy and theories of major international actors in international trade, security, and strategic concerns, refugee policy, conflict resolution, development assistance, and the environment. Offered: jointly with POL S/SIS 534.

PB AF 531 Development Management in the 21st Century (3) Addresses organization, administration and evaluation in governmental and non-governmental agencies involved in development efforts. Students examine development strategies, alternative management approaches, and management skills such as budgeting, finance, human resource development and program evaluation. Other topics include communication, expatriate/local power imbalances, decentralization, community involvement, culture, and personnel issues.

PB AF 532 Managing Policy in a Global Context (3) Examines different policy environments leaders must address to achieve policy in comparative and international settings. Includes strategies, tactics, and frameworks needed to initiate and sustain policy dealing with authoritarian, democratic, liberal, and one-party states. Focuses on pressures from the international system and issues such as globalization.

PB AF 533 Economics of International Development (3) Introduction to sustainable international development and its physical, human, social, and natural capital components. Students examine the new growth theories and evidence, and their relationship to democracy, trade, and other policies and institutions. Topics include income distribution, poverty, and the environment.

PB AF 534 Rural Development: Economics and Policy (3) Fletschner Survey of current microeconomic questions related to well-being of rural people in developing countries. Strengthens the ability to design appropriate policy tools for rural development by enhancing understanding of economic theory and its applications to rural households and by reviewing findings. Offered: W.

PB AF 535 Seminar in American Foreign Policy (3) Examines how the U.S. foreign policy process works, emphasizing formation, content and implementation of post-Cold War U.S. foreign and national security policy, with emphasis on current foreign and national security policy.

PB AF 536 Program Evaluation in the Developing World (3) Gugerty Provides an overview of issues in the analysis and evaluation of development projects focusing on the developing world with three themes: understanding and analyzing development programs, understanding and using the logic of impact assessment; identifying practical, field-based tools for monitoring and evaluation in low resource environments. Offered: Sp.

PB AF 537 Topics in International Affairs (3, max. 12) Examines topics of interest and import in foreign policy and international affairs. Focuses on the in-depth analysis of issues and the integration of economic, institutional, and political dimensions.

PB AF 538 International Organizations and Ocean Management (3) Survey of the manner in which international regimes and organizations attempt to manage and regulate the uses of the ocean. Primary emphasis is on the analysis of the effectiveness of regimes and of processes that support or constrain these organizations. Prerequisite: SMA 500 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with SMA 507.

PB AF 539 Values in International Development (3) Fletschner Examines and clarifies international development values, including underlying theories of justice on which they seem to be built, the ways in which they are justified to stakeholders, the general public, and impacts they have upon people, especially the poorest and most vulnerable. Offered: W.

PB AF 540 Integrated Public Management Sequence (3) Analyzes the institutional and political context of modern public management. Cases, readings, and discussion provide an integrated introduction to the major skills needed to successfully lead and manage government and nonprofit organizations. Offered: A.

PB AF 541 Integrated Public Management Sequence (3) Analyzes the institutional and political context of modern public management. Cases, readings, and discussion provide an integrated introduction to the major skills needed to successfully lead and manage government and nonprofit organizations. Prerequisite: PB AF 540. Offered: W.

PB AF 542 Integrated Public Management Sequence (3) Analyzes the institutional and political context of modern public management. Cases, readings, and discussion provide an integrated introduction to the major skills needed to successfully lead and manage government and nonprofit organizations. Prerequisite: 541. Offered: Sp.

PB AF 543 Public Leadership Seminar (3) Focus on the societal context of managerial life. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Public Affairs Evening Degree Program. Offered: A.

PB AF 544 Public Leadership Seminar (1-3, max. 3) Integrated use of analytic and management concepts in the making of policy. Prerequisite: PB AF 543. Offered: W.

PB AF 545 Public Leadership Seminars (3) Provides a forum to reflect on the major dimensions of modern managerial leadership at the end of the program. Includes a team project working with outside clients or organizations. Prerequisite: PB AF 544.

PB AF 550 Management of Not-for-Profit Organizations (3) Focuses upon the roles played by not-for-profit organizations in meeting the public good. Examines internal management issues such as structure, budget, and operations; and external issues such as board functions, legal status, marketing, media relations, and fund-raising.

PB AF 551 Public Management: Program Planning and Design (3) Policy context of planning and programming, the institutionalization of purpose, the planning process, activity design, work scheduling and measurement, and program evaluation.

PB AF 552 Public Arts Policy and Management (3) Role of government in arts. Range of public support at federal, state, and local levels; reasons for its development and viability. Nature, evolution, functions of public arts agencies in implementing arts policy; relation of such agencies to their constituencies. Seattle, King County, and Washington State serve as case studies.

PB AF 553 Financial Management in the Non-profit Sector (3) Breitner Provides an understanding of the financial framework on nonprofit organizations. Focuses on the financial principles of management of nonprofits, with an emphasis on financial reporting, strategic financial planning, managerial decision-making and budgeting. Offered: A.

PB AF 554 Nonprofit Organizations and Public Policy (3) Examines the changing role of nonprofit organizations in American society. Selected policy topics include privatization, for-profit/nonprofit competition, public-private partnerships, tax policy, and new sources of revenues.

PB AF 555 Topics in Nonprofit Management (3, max. 12) Examines various topics of public importance in nonprofit management. Integrates the political, managerial, and economic dimensions of these issues.

PB AF 560 Urban Affairs (3) Explores national/local urban policy concerning the major problems confronting cities and metropolitan regions today. Economic globalization, income inequality, and metropolitan decentralization shape the urban agenda, the context for urban policy, and the analytic focus of the course. A project allows the exploration of strategies for intervention. Offered: jointly with URBDP 560.

PB AF 561 Urban Economics and Public Policy (3) Examines the rationale for and consequences of public intervention in urban land, housing, and transportation markets through land use regulations such as zoning and urban growth boundaries, infrastructure investments, and fiscal policies to manage urban development and traffic. Prerequisite: PB AF 516 or equivalent. Offered: jointly with URBDP 561.

PB AF 562 Introduction to Neighborhood Planning and Community Development (3) Provides introduction to basic practices in neighborhood planning and community development, including theoretical/historical bases; developing neighborhood plans/projects; indicators and evaluation of neighborhood quality; community participation; institutional framework, ethical dilemmas, and professional roles. Addresses current issues, including Seattle's experience, NIMBYism, security, neighborhood character, housing segregation, environmental racism. Offered: jointly with URBDP 562.

PB AF 563 Seminar in Urban Planning and Policy (1) Seminar for students in the MPA/MUP concurrent degree program. Explores topics that intersect urban planning and policy, through exchange with faculty and professionals working in this arena. Focuses on developing thesis topics that explore this intersection. Offered: jointly with URBDP 563.

PB AF 565 Topics in Urban Affairs (3, max. 12) Examines various topics of public importance in urban policy. Integrates the political, managerial, and economic dimensions of these issues.

PB AF 569 Race and Public Policy (3) Analyzes the way in which the persistent problem of race is expressed in the formation and implementation of social and public policy.

PB AF 570 Social Policy Analysis and Management (3) Examines major institutions and programs in the human resources policy area: education, regulation of labor market, health care, income maintenance, social services. Discusses alternative policy instruments, analytic perspectives, intergovernmental issues, and management issues arising across policy areas. Explores challenges of linking services and clients across separate agencies.

PB AF 571 Education, The Workforce, and Public Policy (3, max. 6) Examination of policy issues involving education, training, the economy, and the development of the nation's human resources. Relationship between education, training, and work, underutilized workers, race and gender discrimination issues, and the role of education and training in economic development. Offered: jointly with EDLPS 563.

PB AF 573 Topics in Education and Social Policy (3, max. 12) Examines various issues of public importance in the areas of education and social policy. Focuses on in-depth analysis of relevant issues and the integration of the economic, administrative, and political dimensions of these issues.

PB AF 575 Public Policy Processes (5) Political science frameworks, approaches, and theories concerning development and implementation of public policies within American political systems. Governmental behaviors and processes, including rational, political, and bureaucratic models of governmental decision making; agenda-building processes; and normative perspectives concerning role of governmental entities.

PB AF 581 Information Technology and the Policy-Making Process (3) Demystifies information base for policy making in democracies. Examines theoretical and practical issues associated with information processing in the public sector. Considers role of new technologies in collecting, analyzing, and disseminating information with special attention to the relationship between these technologies and effective government service, public participation, and organizational accountability.

PB AF 582 News Media and Public Policy (3) Explores impacts of news coverage on public policy. Exposure to journalists' approaches to coverage of public affairs, as well as to strategies used by leaders of public/non-profit agencies to attract favorable coverage and minimize damaging coverage. Students learn techniques for assessing impacts of news coverage.

PB AF 585 Topics in Science, Technology, and Public Policy (3) Examines relationship between advancement of technical knowledge and pace of technological change, and public policies to induce or respond to these trends. Generic issues of government research, development, and personnel training programs are addressed. Applications of policy issues involving biomedical, communications, energy, environmental, transportation, and weapons technologies.

PB AF 586 International Science and Technology Policy (3) Seminar is designed: first, to analyze the relationships between research and development policy, capabilities, and national technological strategies for advanced industrial and less-developed countries; second, to deal with the international implications of particular technologies as countries try to make policy for them in regional and global organizations. Examples of specific technologies are chosen from such fields as space telecommunication, weather and climate modification, airline transportation, nuclear energy, and seabed exploitation.

PB AF 589 Risk Assessment for Environmental Health Hazards (3/4) Context, methodologies, types of data, uncertainties and institutional arrangements for risk assessment. Both qualitative and quantitative approaches to the identification, characterization, and control of environmental hazards to health emphasized through didactic and case studies. Offered: jointly with CEE 560/ENV H 577.

PB AF 590 Environmental Policy Processes (3) Presents background to establish the need for environmental policy. Explores in a comparative manner, examining both successes and failures, various strategies that have been used or proposed to protect the environment. Offered: jointly with CFR 592.

PB AF 591 Seminar in Resource Policy and Management (1) Introduction and orientation for concurrent degree program between the Evans School of Public Affairs and the College of Forest Resources. Examines research and literature on contemporary issues related to the integration of natural resource science, policy, and management, through discussion among faculty, students, and invited speakers. Offered: jointly with CFR 591.

PB AF 592 Resource Policy and Administration (5) Study based on understanding of the actors, arenas, issues, and policy communities that form the context for policy development and implementation. Exploration of approaches to policy inquiry. Consideration of implications for both policy and management. Students develop a study design for course project. Offered: jointly with CFR 571.

PB AF 593 United States Energy Policy (3) Energy policy formulation and implementation with emphasis on post-1973 developments. Energy conservation programs; changing roles of oil, coal, gas, nuclear, and solar energy; institutional, environmental and equity considerations; government research and development programs.

PB AF 594 Economic Approaches to Environmental Management (3) Layton Examines the economic tools relevant to natural resource and environmental management. Tools are developed in the context of a series of resource problems, with an eye towards building intuition useful for addressing complex policy problems that do not fit neatly into textbook examples. Offered: W.

PB AF 595 Topics in Environmental Policy and Management (1-3, max. 12) Examines various topics of public importance in environmental policy and management. Integrates the political, managerial, and economic dimensions of these issues.

PB AF 596 Ethics and Values in Environmental and Natural Resource Policy (3) Zerbe Explores environmental values and ethics and their relationship to the policy process. Includes content on value foundation of economic efficiency and its relationship to fairness, legal entitlements, duty to other creatures, and incommensurabilities in valuing goods. Current policy controversies are addressed.

PB AF 597 Role of Scientific Information in Environmental Decisions (3) Cullen, Snover Examines how science contributes to decisions that involve the natural environment; how science and scientists help frame debates and decisions; how scientific findings are incorporated into decision-making processes; how scientists and non-scientists deal with uncertainty about scientific questions. Offered: Sp.

PB AF 598 Administrative and Policy Skills Workshop (1-3, max. 3) Teaches practical administrative, leadership, and analytic skills commonly required of managers and analysts in the public and non-profit sectors. The workshops emphasize hands-on problem resolution, simulations, and actual practice.

PB AF 599 Special Topics (1-6, max. 6) Study and analysis of special topics in public affairs. Topics vary each quarter depending on curricular needs and interests of students and faculty. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

PB AF 600 Independent Study or Research (*)

PB AF 605 Degree Project ([1-6]-, max. 6)

PB AF 606 Public Service Clinic (3-) Carlson, Madison, Page Serves to meet the degree project requirement as part of the Evans School curriculum. Students work in a supportive environment facilitated by peer and faculty to connect the research, organizational change, and capacity-building needs of community organizations and public agencies.

PB AF 607 Public Service Clinic (-3) Carlson, Madison, Page Serves to meet the degree project requirement as part of the Evans School curriculum. Students work in a supportive environment facilitated by peer and faculty to connect the research, organizational change, and capacity-building needs of community organizations and public agencies.

Public Policy Management

PPM 500 Proseminar in Public Policy and Management (1) Waddell Engages students with faculty to discuss research in public policy and management. Provides an effective means to become familiar with research agendas and opportunities in this field, and other aspects of socialization into the academic process, including teaching, grant writing, and publishing. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

PPM 502 Research Design (3) Khagram, Thomas Provides a rigorous foundation for interdisciplinary research design. Introduces iconic types of theory (predictive, interpretive, and explanatory) and the philosophical foundations underlying these. Reviews a range of methodological approaches to research: experimental and quasi-experimental, statistical and quasi-statistical, comparative case-study, ethnographic, and triangulation. Offered: A.

PPM 504 Institutional Perspectives on Management (3) Page Prepares doctoral students for careers in research and teaching public policy, management, and leadership. Examines essential responsibilities that policy makers, managers, and other kinds of leaders must address to succeed in public service through competing theories of institutional design and action. Offered: A.

PPM 506 Advanced Microeconomics for Policy Analysis (3) Anderson Reviews standard individual choice models and newer perspectives from behavioral and institutional economics that inform public policy analysis. Topics include: models of individual choice, constrained and unconstrained optimization, information and uncertainty, intertemporal decision making, transaction costs and property rights, externalities, and public goods. Prerequisite: multivariate calculus; intermediate microeconomic theory. Offered: A.

PPM 510 Public Policy Analysis (3) Zumeta Reviews public policy analysis and evaluation building on prior study of microeconomics, policy processes, research design, and statistics. Covers theoretical and interdisciplinary frameworks and applications of empirical methods to policy problems and solutions, and considers regularities in incidence, and effects of the use of alternative policy tools. Offered: S.

PPM 512 Data Analysis Practicum (3) Long Develops the methodological capacity to undertake independent research. Includes reading, critiquing, and replicating portions of selected empirical papers from a range of scholarly areas. Provides opportunities to deal with issues of research design, data limitations, measurement, model specification, and interpretation. Offered: A.

PPM 599 Topics in Public Policy and Management (1-3, max. 12) Examines various research topics of importance in public policy and management.

School of Public Health and Community Medicine

Biostatistics

BIOST 111 Lectures in Applied Statistics (1) NW Weekly lectures illustrating the importance of statisticians in a variety of fields, including medicine and the biological, physical, and social sciences. Contact instructor for information on which fields of applications emphasized. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with STAT 111; Sp.

BIOST 290 Introduction to Biomedical Research: Study Design and Interpretation (3) NW Biostatistical concepts necessary for the interpretation, evaluation, and communication of biomedical research are introduced. Course topics include biomedical study design, randomization, graphical data displays, control of bias, variability, confounding, interaction, and ethics of human experimentation. Students participate in group and individual projects, group discussions, and oral presentations.

BIOST 499 Undergraduate Research (*) Supervised reading programs; library and field research; special projects. Credit/no credit only.

BIOST 502 Introduction to Statistics in Health Sciences (4) Description and examples of common concepts in biostatistics. Probability, point and confidence interval estimation, hypothesis testing including two-sample and paired t and chi-square tests, introduction to simple linear regression. Examples in health sciences stressed. Offered: S.

BIOST 503 Application of Statistics to Health Sciences (4) Standard statistical techniques presented with examples drawn from the health sciences literature. Critical interpretation of research results, and introduction to the computer for data processing and statistical analysis. Prerequisite: BIOST 502 or equivalent. Offered: S.

BIOST 509 Special Emphases in Biostatistics (3-5, max. 5) Introduction to concepts and methods of descriptive and inferential statistics, with applications in specific disciplines emphasized. Topics include comparison of means and proportions, hypothesis testing, confidence intervals, nonparametric methods, linear regression and correlation. Different sections target specific student populations.

BIOST 510 Biostatistics in Dentistry (3) Introduction to concepts and methods of descriptive and inferential statistics with applications in dentistry emphasized. Topics include comparison of means and proportions, hypothesis testing, confidence intervals, non-parametric methods, linear regression, and correlation. Prerequisite: enrollment in School of Dentistry or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with DPHS 568.

BIOST 511 Medical Biometry I (4) Presentation of the principles and methods of data description and elementary parametric and nonparametric statistical analysis. Examples are drawn from the biomedical literature, and real data sets are analyzed by the students after a brief introduction to the use of standard statistical computer packages. Statistical techniques covered include description of samples, comparison of two sample means and proportions, simple linear regression and correlation. Offered: AS.

BIOST 512 Medical Biometry II (4) Multiple regression, analysis of covariance, and an introduction to one-way and two-way analyses of variance: including assumptions, transformations, outlier detection, dummy variables, and variable selection procedures. Examples drawn from the biomedical literature with computer assignments using standard statistical computer packages. Prerequisite: either BIOST 511 or BIOST 517, or equivalent. Offered: W.

BIOST 513 Medical Biometry III (4) Analysis of categorical data including two sample methods, sets of 2 x 2 tables, R x C tables, and logistic regression. Classification and discrimination techniques. Survival analysis including product limit estimates and the Cox proportional hazards model. Prerequisite: BIOST 512 or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

BIOST 514 Biostatistics I (4) Mathematically sophisticated presentation of principles and methods of data description; graphics; point, confidence interval estimation; hypothesis testing; relative risk; odds ratio; Mantel-Haenszel; chi-square test (matrix algebra required). Examples drawn from biomedical literature; real-data sets analyzed using statistical computer packages. Prerequisite: biostatistics majors or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

BIOST 515 Biostatistics II (4) Mathematically sophisticated introduction to linear models; multiple regression, correlation; residual analysis; dummy variables; analysis of covariance; one-, two-way analysis of variance; randomized blocks; fixed, random effects (repeated measure, factorial designs); multiple comparisons (matrix algebra required). Real biomedical data sets analyzed. Prerequisite: BIOST 514, biostatistics major, or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

BIOST 516 Statistical Methods in Genetic Epidemiology (3) Theory and application of statistical techniques used in genetic epidemiology. Includes discussion of association studies, linkages and segregation analyses. Examples stressed with reference to assumptions and limitations. Prerequisite: either BIOST 513 or BIOST 518; PHG 511/EPI 517, or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with EPI 516/PHG 519.

BIOST 517 Applied Biostatistics I (4) Introduction to the analysis of biomedical data. Descriptive and inferential statistical analysis for discrete, continuous, and right censored random variables. Analytic methods based on elementary parametric and non-parametric models for one sample; two sample (independent and paired), stratified sample, and simple regression problems. Offered: A.

BIOST 518 Applied Biostatistics II (4) Multiple regression for continuous, discrete, and right censored response variables, including dummy variables, transformations, and interactions. Introduction to regression with correlated outcome data. Model and case diagnostics. Computer assignments using real data and standard statistical computer packages. Prerequisite: BIOST 517 or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

BIOST 519 Topics in Epidemiologic Methods (3) Davis Introduces advanced methodologic methods, including recursive partitioning, developing clinical prediction rules, analyses of community-level associations or interventions, case-crossover and case-only designs, propensity scores, two-stage sampling, and missing data imputation. Prerequisite: EPI 512; EPI 513. Offered: jointly with EPI 515. A.

BIOST 521 Biostatistics for Experimentalists (4) Statistical aspects of design, data analytic models appropriate to classes of experiments most commonly employed in biomedical sciences. One-, two-way analyses of variance; factorial, crossed, nested, repeated measures designs. Clean, messy real-data sets analyzed using standard statistical computer packages. Prerequisite: either BIOST 511 and BIOST 512, or BIOST 517 and BIOST 518, or equivalent. Offered: alternate years; Sp.

BIOST 524 Design of Medical Studies (3)

Design of medical studies, with emphasis on randomized controlled clinical trials. Bias elimination, controls, treatment assignment and randomization, precision, replication, power and sample size calculations, stratification, and ethics. Suitable for graduate students in biostatistics and for research-oriented graduate students in other scientific fields. Prerequisite: BIOST 511 or equivalent, and one of BIOST 513, BIOST 518, STAT 421, STAT 423, STAT 512, or EPI 512; or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with STAT 524; Sp.

BIOST 529 Sample Survey Techniques (3)

Design and implementation of selection and estimation procedures. Emphasis on human populations. Simple, stratified, and cluster sampling; multistage and two-phase procedures; optimal allocation of resources; estimation theory; replicated designs; variance estimation; national samples and census materials. Prerequisite: either STAT 421, STAT 423, STAT 504, QMETH 500, BIOST 511, or BIOST 517, or equivalent or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with CS&SS 529/STAT 529.

BIOST 533 Classical Theory of Linear Models (3)

Introduction to one-, two-way analysis of variance; randomized blocks; fixed, random effects, multiple comparisons. Statistical distribution theory for quadratic forms of normal variables. Fitting of the general linear model by least squares. Prerequisite: BIOST 515, STAT 421 or STAT 423; and STAT 513; and a course in matrix algebra. Offered: jointly with STAT 533; Sp.

BIOST 534 Statistical Computing (3)

Introduction to scientific computing. Includes programming tools, modern programming methodologies, (modularization, object oriented design), design of data structures and algorithms, numerical computing and graphics. Uses C++ for several substantial scientific programming projects. Prerequisite: experience with programming in a high level language. Offered: jointly with STAT 534; Sp.

BIOST 535 Statistical Computing (3)

Introduction to scientific computing. Includes programming tools, modern programming methodologies, (modularization, object oriented design), design of data structures and algorithms, numerical computing and graphics. Uses C++ for several substantial scientific programming projects. Prerequisite: experience with programming in a high level language. Offered: jointly with STAT 535; A.

BIOST 536 Categorical Data Analysis in Epidemiology (4)

Summary of univariate categorical data analysis; introduction to multivariate analysis of categorical epidemiologic data using multiplicative models. Experience at interpretation; familiarity with available programs gained by analysis of bona fide data, critiques of analyses appearing in literature. Prerequisite: BIOST 515; EPI 513 and either BIOST 513 or BIOST 518; or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with EPI 536; A.

BIOST 537 Survival Data Analysis in Epidemiology (4)

Introduction to multivariate analysis of survival data using multiplicative models. Application to epidemiologic studies. Familiarity with interpretation and available computer programs gained by analysis of bona fide sets of data and critiques of analyses appearing in the literature. Prerequisite: BIOST 536 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with EPI 537; W.

BIOST 538 Statistical Computing (3)

Introduction to scientific computing. Includes programming tools, modern programming methodologies, (modularization, object oriented design), design of data structures and algorithms, numerical computing and graphics. Uses C++ for several substantial scientific programming projects. Prerequisite: experience with programming in a high level language. Offered: jointly with STAT 538; W.

BIOST 540 Correlated Data Regression (3)

Introduction to regression modeling of longitudinal and clustered data from epidemiology and health sciences. Interpretation and familiarity with available programs gained by analysis of bona fide data; critiques of analyses appearing in literature. Prerequisite: Either BIOST 513, BIOST 515, BIOST 518, BIOST 536, or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

BIOST 550 Statistical Genetics I: Mendelian Traits (3)

Thompson Mendelian genetic traits. Population genetics; Hardy-Weinberg, allelic variation, subdivision. Likelihood inference, information and power; latent variables and EM algorithm. Pedigree relationships and gene identity. Meiosis and recombination. Linkage detection. Multipoint linkage analysis. Prerequisite: STAT 390 and STAT 394, or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with STAT 550; A.

BIOST 551 Statistical Genetics II: Quantitative Traits (3)

Monks Statistical basis for describing variation in quantitative traits. Decomposition of trait variation into components representing genes, environment and gene-environment interaction. Methods of mapping and characterizing quantitative trait loci. Prerequisite: STAT/BIOST 550; STAT 423 or BIOST 515; or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with STAT 551; W.

BIOST 552 Statistical Genetics III: Design and Analysis (3)

Wijisman Overview of probability models, inheritance models, penetrance. Association and linkage. The lod score method. Affected sib method. Fitting complex inheritance models. Design mapping studies; multipoint, disequilibrium, and fine-scale mapping. Ascertainment. Prerequisite: STAT/BIOST 551; GENET 371; or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with STAT 552; Sp.

BIOST 555 Statistical Methods for Spatial Epidemiology (3)

Wakefield Motivates the need for, and describes methods for the analysis of spatially indexed epidemiological data. Covers four major topics: clustering and cluster detection, disease mapping, spatial regression, and an introduction to geographical information systems. Considers both point-references and spatially aggregated data. Offered: jointly with EPI 555.

BIOST 570 Advanced Applied Statistics and Linear Models (3)

Generalized linear models, REML in mixed models for randomized blocks, split plots, longitudinal data. Generalized estimating equations, empirical model building, cross validation, recursive partitioning, generalized additive models, projection pursuit. Prerequisite: STAT 512, 513; BIOST/STAT 533 or

STAT 421 and STAT 423, and a course in matrix algebra. Offered: jointly with STAT 570.

BIOST 571 Advanced Applied Statistics and Linear Models (3)

Generalized linear models, REML in mixed models for randomized blocks, split plots, longitudinal data. Generalized estimating equations, empirical model building, cross validation, recursive partitioning, generalized additive models, projection pursuit. Prerequisite: BIOST 570. Offered: jointly with STAT 571.

BIOST 572 Advanced Applied Statistics and Linear Models (3)

Generalized linear models, REML in mixed models for randomized blocks, split plots, longitudinal data. Generalized estimating equations, empirical model building, cross validation, recursive partitioning, generalized additive models, projection pursuit. Prerequisite: BIOST 571. Offered: jointly with STAT 572.

BIOST 573 Statistical Methods for Categorical Data (3)

Advanced topics in generalized linear models and the analysis of categorical data: overdispersion, quasilielihood, parameters in link and variance functions, exact conditional inference, random effects, saddlepoint approximations. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: BIOST 571 and STAT 582. Offered: jointly with STAT 573; alternate years; Sp.

BIOST 574 Multivariate Statistical Methods (3)

Use of multivariate normal sampling theory, linear transformations of random variables, one- and two-sample tests, profile analysis, partial and multiple correlation, multivariate ANOVA and least squares, discriminant analysis, principal components, factor analysis, robustness, and some special topics. Some computer use included. Prerequisite: BIOST 570 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with STAT 574; alternate years.

BIOST 576 Statistical Methods for Survival Data (3)

Statistical methods for censored survival data arising from follow-up studies on human or animal populations. Parametric and nonparametric methods, Kaplan-Meier survival curve estimator, comparison of survival curves, log-rank test, regression models including the Cox proportional hazards model, competing risks. Prerequisite: STAT 581 and either BIOST 515, STAT 473, or equivalent. Offered: jointly with STAT 576.

BIOST 577 Advanced Design and Analysis of Experiments (3)

Concepts important in experimental design and analyzing data from planned experiments. Multi-way layouts, randomized block designs, incomplete block designs, Lating and Graeco-Latin squares, factorial and fractional designs, split-plot designs, optimal design theory, response surface experiments. Prerequisite: either BIOST 515, BIOSTAT 533, STAT 502, STAT 504, STAT 533, or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with STAT 577.

BIOST 578 Special Topics in Advanced Biostatistics (*, max. 30)

Advanced-level topics in biostatistics offered by regular and visiting faculty. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with STAT 578; A/W/Sp.

BIOST 579 Data Analysis and Reporting (2)

Analysis of real data to answer scientific questions. Common data-analytic problems. Sensible approaches to complex data. Graphical and tabular presentation of results. Writing reports for scientific journals, research collaborators, consulting clients. Graduate standing in statistics or biostatistics or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with STAT 579; AWSp.

BIOST 580 Seminar in Biostatistics (*, max. 30) Presentation and discussion of special topics and research results in biostatistics. Speakers include resident faculty, visiting scientists, and advanced graduate students. Offered: AWSp.

BIOST 581 Statistical Genetics Seminar (1, max. 30) Thompson, Weir, Wijisman Presentations and discussion of special topics and research results in statistical genetics. Students, postdocs, and faculty present their work and papers from the literature. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

BIOST 582 Student Seminar (1, max. 30) Student seminar series for collaboration, exchange of ideas, and exposure to different stages of performing independent research. Encourages both students and faculty to give presentations including RA work, extended class projects, Master's theses, dissertation progress, data analysis, practice talks, and journal articles. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

BIOST 586 Martingales: Survival Analysis (3) Theory of counting processes and martingales to provide unified study of survival analysis methods. Focus on survival distribution estimators, censored data rank statistics, regression methods with censored survival data. Development of small samples moments, asymptotic distributions, and efficiencies. Prerequisite: STAT 521 or STAT 583 or permission of instructor; recommended: STAT 576. Offered: jointly with STAT 586; alternate years; W.

BIOST 590 Biostatistical Consulting (*) Training in consulting on the biostatistical aspect of research problems arising in the biomedical field. Students, initially under the close supervision of a faculty member, participate in discussions with investigators leading to the design and/or the analysis of a quantitative investigation of a problem. With experience, independent associations of student and research worker are encouraged, with subsequent review by faculty of resulting design and analysis. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSpS.

BIOST 595 Biostatistics Master's Practicum (1-12, max. 12) Supervised practice experience providing students an opportunity to learn how biostatistics is applied in a public health setting and in the formation of public health policy. Prerequisite: 514; 515; 536; 537.

BIOST 598 Techniques of Statistical Consulting (1) Seminar series covering technical and non-technical aspects of statistical consulting, including skills for effective communication with clients, report writing, statistical tips and rules of thumb, issues in survey sampling, and issues in working as a statistical consultant in academic, industrial, and private-practice settings. Prerequisite: entry code. Offered: jointly with STAT 598; Asp.

BIOST 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Offered: AWSpS.

BIOST 700 Master's Thesis (*) Offered: AWSpS.

BIOST 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Offered: AWSpS.

Environmental Health

ENV H 111 Exploring Environment and Health Connections (3) I&S Camp, Keifer Introduction to environmental health concepts. Examines current events to illustrate and better appreciate the relationship between environment and health and to explore whether an environmental condition is or is not an important threat to health. Emphasizes the roles of environmental scientists and related professionals. Offered: A.

ENV H 205 Environmental Health in Film (2) I&S Fenske, Luchtel Viewing and discussion of popular films that explore issues in environmental health. After viewing films, a discussion follows focusing on the ethical, legal, social, and scientific issues raised by the films. Intended for UW freshmen and sophomores from all backgrounds who may have an interest in majoring in Environmental Health. Offered: W.

ENV H 311 Introduction to Environmental Health (3) NW Treser Relationship of people to their environment, how it affects their physical well-being and what they can do to influence the quality of the environment and to enhance the protection of their health. Emphasis on environmental factors involved in transmission of communicable diseases and hazards due to exposure to chemical and physical materials in our environment. Offered: Asp.

ENV H 405 Toxic Chemicals and Human Health (3) Gallagher, Kavanagh Basic principles governing the behavior and effects of toxic chemicals released into the environment; sources, distribution, and fate of toxic chemicals in the environment; chemicals and cancer; chemicals and birth defects; government regulation of chemical hazards. Focus on human health impacts of chemicals found in the workplace and general environment. Prerequisite: 2.0 in BIOL 220; either 2.0 in CHEM 224, 2.0 in CHEM 239, or 2.0 in CHEM 337. Offered: Sp.

ENV H 417 Non-ionizing Radiation and Electrical Safety (2) Yost Introduction to health hazards from UV, optical laser hazards, infrared radiation, radio-frequency radiation, heat stress, electrical shock, electric and magnetic fields. Application of current standards for these physical agents. Emphasis on occupational hazards with additional discussion of environmental exposures where appropriate. Offered: odd years; W.

ENV H 431 Environmental and Occupational Sampling and Analysis I (3) NW Fenske, Yost Laboratory and lecture on sampling. Field and laboratory analysis of chemical and physical agents found in the occupational and ambient environments. Prerequisite: CHEM 162; PHYS 116/119; ENV H 311. Offered: A.

ENV H 432 Environmental and Occupational Sampling and Analysis II (4) NW Simpson Laboratory and lecture on sampling. Field and laboratory analysis of chemical and physical agents found in the occupational and ambient environments. Prerequisite: ENV H 431. Offered: W.

ENV H 433 Environmental and Occupational Sampling and Analysis III (4) NW Geogh,

Meschke, Shin Laboratory and lecture related to the evaluation of water quality. The identification and analysis of microorganisms in water, food, and air. Prerequisite: ENV H 431; MICROM 301. Offered: Sp.

ENV H 440 Water, Wastewater and Health (3) Meschke, Shin Review of water supply, water quality, and water/wastewater treatment as they relate to human health. Includes water law and regulations, source water protection, basic treatment technologies for water and waste, chemical and microbial contaminants, and recreational water. Prerequisite: ENV H 311. Offered: A.

ENV H 441 Food Protection (3) Easterberg Study of identification and characteristics of chemicals and biological agents implicated in foodborne disease outbreaks and conditions or circumstances by which food contamination occurs. Examination of food protection activities conducted by local and state government at the retail level. Prerequisite: either 2.0 in CHEM 155, or 2.0 in both CHEM 160 and CHEM 161, or 2.0 in CHEM 162; 2.0 in MICROM 302. Offered: W.

ENV H 442 Vector Control (3) Treser Study of the impact and control of rodents and arthropod vectors of disease, including consideration of economic poisons used, their regulation, and safety measures. Prerequisite: 2.0 in BIOL 203. Offered: Sp.

ENV H 445 Solid Waste Management (3) Busch Examination of the public health, environmental, economic, and materials conservation aspects of solid wastes management; amounts and sources of solid wastes, waste reduction and recycling, methods of storage, transportation and disposal, integrated waste management, identification of present problems and future needs. Prerequisite: 2.0 in CHEM 155, 2.0 in CHEM 160, or 2.0 in CHEM 162; either 2.0 in MATH 124, 2.0 in MATH 127, 2.0 in MATH 134, or 2.0 in MATH 144; recommended: PHYS 115. Offered: Sp.

ENV H 446 Hazardous Waste Management (3) Kissel Characterization of hazardous wastes and introduction to pertinent federal and state regulations. Discussion of exposure pathways and description of management options at pre-generation, pre-release, and post-release stages. Emphasis on public health significance. Supplemented with case studies. Prerequisite: either 2.0 in CHEM 155, 2.0 in CHEM 160, 2.0 in CHEM 162; either 2.0 in MATH 112, 2.0 in MATH 124, 2.0 in MATH 127, 2.0 in MATH 234, or 2.0 in MATH 144; recommended: MATH 125, CHEM 224, PHYS 115. Offered: W.

ENV H 449 Health Effects of Air Pollution (2) Koenig Structure and function of the respiratory system and the changes that may be produced by specific air pollutants, such as ozone, SO<sub>2</sub> and fine particles. Air quality criteria and the economic costs of disease are discussed. Several classroom demonstrations. Offered: even years; W.

ENV H 451 Ecology of Environmentally Transmitted Microbiological Hazards (3) Butterfield, Meschke, Shin Focuses on the transmission of infectious microorganisms by air, food, water, and other environmental media. Provides an introduction to environmentally transmitted pathogens, and discusses factors affecting their environmental fate, transport, and persistence. Offered: A.

ENV H 452 Detection and Control of Environmentally Transmitted Microbiological Hazards (3) Meschke, Shin Focuses on the detection and control of infectious microorganisms in air, food, water, and other environmental media. Provides a discussion on sample collection, processing and detection for infectious microorganisms. Provide coverage of engineered controls and disinfection/decontamination processes for infectious microorganisms. Recommended: ENV H 451. Offered: W.

ENV H 453 Industrial Hygiene (3) Morgan Introduction to the principles and scientific foundation of industrial hygiene. Examines the anticipation, recognition, evaluation, and control of work place hazards to health and safety. Focuses on the first three functions, but includes some consideration of control methods. Prerequisite: either BIOL 200 or BIOL 202; CHEM 224; either PHYS 116 or PHYS 123. Offered: A.

ENV H 457 Industrial and Environmental Noise (3) Neitzel, Seixas Survey of industrial and community noise problems, including sources, effects, measurement, control, and legislation. Prerequisite: 2.0 in PHYS 115. Offered: even years: Sp.

ENV H 460 Organization and Administering Industrial Safety and Health Programs (3) Gleason Explores industrial organization and methods of integrating safety and industrial hygiene programs with industrial operations. Investigates issues related to industrial safety and health such as responsibility for safety, dependency on safe practice, and hierarchy of prevention. Offered: A.

ENV H 461 Air Pollution Control (4) Pilat Fundamental concepts of air pollution. Emission sources, atmospheric dispersion, ambient concentrations, adverse effects, governmental regulations, emission standards, air-quality standards, processes and equipment for controlling emissions. Offered: jointly with CEE 490; A.Sp

ENV H 471 Environmental Health Regulation (3) Treser Introduction to administrative regulation and process. Authority, jurisdiction, and structure of environmental control programs and agencies; the regulatory process; agency acquisition and retention of information; administrative actions; enforcement of environmental health laws; major statutes and cases affecting programs. Prerequisite: ENV H 482. Offered: W.

ENV H 472 Environmental Risk and Society (3) Fenske Examines scientific determinations of environmental risks and explores how such determinations are evaluated by affected communities and society. Employs risk analysis to integrate technical knowledge in hazard identification and exposure assessment to provide a more rational basis for environmental policies. Role of public participation in risk-based decision making discussed. Offered: A.

ENV H 473 Community Responses to Environmental Health Hazards (5) I&S/NW Osaki, Trsser Explores the way various government programs are established, organized and operated to control environmental health risks in the United States. Discusses aspects of the law that impact regulation of environmental health hazards. Offered: W.

ENV H 480 Environmental Health Problems (*, max. 6) Treser Individual projects involving library, laboratory, or field study of a specific environmental health problem. Offered: AWSpS.

ENV H 482 Environmental Health Internship (2-15, max. 15) Treser Assignment to an environmental health or environmental protection agency for supervised observation and experience in environmental health technology, program planning and utilization of community resources. Prerequisite: 2.5 in ENV H 311. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

ENV H 490 Community Air Pollution (3) NW Kalman, Vedal Fundamental concepts of ambient and indoor air pollution, focusing on air quality issues affecting public health. Discusses sources of air pollution, building dynamics, microenvironments and activity patterns, biological air contaminants, community air pollution issues, management strategies, and monitoring and modeling skills. Offered: Sp.

ENV H 497 Environmental Health Special Electives (*) Offered: AWSpS.

ENV H 499 Undergraduate Research (*) Individual research on a specific topic in environmental health upon which specific conclusions, judgments, or evaluation can be made or upon which facts can be presented. Offered: AWSpS.

ENV H 511 Environmental and Occupational Health (1-3, max. 3) Daniell Effects of exposure to chemical, physical, and biological agents, embracing the community and workplace environments. Current issues, using specific cases from recent literature as basis for classroom discussion and written assignments. Offered: W.

ENV H 512 Waste Management, Recycling, and Pollution Control (3) De Walle Survey of selected technological components of environmental health infrastructure via lecture and weekly field trips to full facilities. Sites visited vary year to year, but may include paper and steel plants using reclaimed feedstock, cement kiln using waste as supplemental fuel, municipal wastewater treatment facility, and steam generation plant.

ENV H 513 Basic Concepts in Pharmacogenetics and Toxicogenomics (3) Eaton, Thummel Addresses current DNA sequencing and genotyping approaches, and basic concepts of pharmacogenetics and toxicogenomics. Emphasis placed on applications of genomic technologies to the understanding of "gene-environment interactions" that cause diseases of public health importance, including cancer, chronic neurological diseases, and adverse drug reactions. Prerequisite: GENET 372 or equivalent. Offered: jointly with PGH/PCEUT 513.

ENV H 514 Environmental and Occupational Toxicology I (3) Xia Major topical areas in human and environmental toxicology, including the biochemical, cellular, and physiological mechanisms by which chemicals produce toxic responses; the toxicology of the major classes of chemicals; principles of toxicity testing; interpretation of toxicological data. Prerequisite: BIOL 212, BIOC 440, or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

ENV H 515 Environmental and Occupational Toxicology II (3) Kavanagh Major topical areas in human and environmental toxicology, including the biochemical, cellular, and physiological mechanisms by which chemicals produce toxic responses; the toxicology of the major classes of chemicals; principles of toxicity testing; interpretation of toxicological data. Prerequisite: BIOL 212, BIOC 440, or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

ENV H 516 Environmental and Occupational Toxicology III (3) Costa Major topical areas in human and environmental toxicology, including the biochemical, cellular, and physiological mechanisms by which chemicals produce toxic responses; the toxicology of the major classes of chemicals; principles of toxicity testing; interpretation of toxicological data. Prerequisite: BIOL 212, BIOC 440, or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

ENV H 517 Children's Environmental Health (3) Burbacher Discussion of environmental health issues as they pertain to children's health. Includes historical perspective of public health research and policies directed at protecting children's health and emerging scientific and public health issues such as childhood exposure to mercury and pesticides, childhood asthma, cancer, and environmental justice. Offered: Sp.

ENV H 531 Neurotoxicology (3) Costa Advanced discussions of the principles and methodological approaches to neurotoxicology (including behavioral toxicology), classes of neurotoxic agents, types and mechanisms of neurotoxic effects, as well as the role of neurotoxicology in toxicology and public health. Prerequisite: ENV H 514, ENV H 515, ENV H 516 or ENV H 405 or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; W.

ENV H 532 Reproductive and Developmental Toxicology (2) Faustman Investigates chemicals that can induce adverse reproductive and developmental outcomes. Discussion topics include identification and characterization of specific classes of toxic agents, mechanisms of action of these agents at the molecular and cellular level, and risk assessment and regulatory issues. Prerequisite: ENV H 514 and ENV H 515 or ENV H 405 or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; S.

ENV H 533 Molecular Toxicology (2) Gallagher Advanced discussion of molecular mechanisms whereby chemical, physical, and biological agents produce their harmful effects on biological tissues. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with PHCOL 533; odd years; W.

ENV H 535 Inhalation Toxicology (3) Koenig, Luchte Advanced course on the toxicology of air pollutants and the response of the respiratory system to inhaled gaseous and particulate toxicants. Issues and concepts covered include biology of the respiratory system, exposure technology, experimental design and methodological issues, health effects of air pollutants, and regulatory aspects. Prerequisite: ENV H 514-516, or ENV H 405 or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; A.

ENV H 537 Introduction to Manufacturing Systems (3) Storch Description of manufacturing systems. Includes discussion of current trends in manufacturing, especially lean principles. Introduces process flow analysis, manufacturing organizations including job-shop, assembly lines, and group technology, manufacturing inventory philosophies (just-in-time, MRP, OPT), work environment, and work simplification. Offered: jointly with IND E 537; A.

ENV H 541 Ecology of Environmentally Transmitted Microbial Hazards (3) Meschke, Shin Focuses on the transmission of infectious microorganisms by air, food, water, and other environmental media. Provides an introduction to environmentally transmitted pathogens, and discusses factors affecting their environmental fate, transport, and persistence. Offered: A.

ENV H 542 Detection and Control of Environmentally Transmitted Microbial Hazards (3) Meschke, Shin Focuses on the detection and control of infectious microorganisms in air, food, water, and other environmental media. Provides a discussion on sample collection, processing, and detection for infectious microorganisms. Provides coverage of engineered controls and disinfection/decontamination processes for infectious organisms. Offered: W.

ENV H 543 Quantitative Microbial Risk Assessment (3) Kissel, Meschke, Shin Focuses on the principles of quantitative risk assessment as applied to infectious microorganisms. Covers hazard identification, exposure assessment, health effects assessment, risk characterization, and risk communication. Offered: Sp.

ENV H 545 Water, Wastewater and Health (4) Meschke, Shin Review of water supply water quality, and water/wastewater treatment as they related to human health. Includes water law and regulations, source water protection, basic treatment technologies for water and waste, chemical and microbial contaminants, and recreational water. Offered: A.

ENV H 546 Pesticides and Public Health (3) Fenske, Keifer Examines health risks and benefits associated with pesticide use in the United States and internationally; reviews exposure, toxicity, epidemiology, and regulation of pesticides, focusing on populations such as workers and children; discusses benefits derived from vector control, food production, and food preservation. Offered: odd years; W.

ENV H 550 Microscopy: Image Acquisition and Analysis (2) Luchtel Sample preparation methods, principles and practical aspects of light microscopy (bright-field, phase, differential interference, polarizing, and confocal), electron microscopy (transmission, scanning, electron diffraction, and energy dispersive x-ray analysis), photographic and digital imaging, computerized image analysis techniques. Student research project required. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

ENV H 551 Principles of Human Exposure Science (3) Examination of the scientific principles and methods used to characterize human exposures to environmental disease agents, discuss sources and pathways of exposure, use of standard factors, analytical approaches for exposure data, exposure biomarkers, and the energetics of physical agents and injuries. Prerequisite: CHEM 162; MATH 124. Offered: A.

ENV H 552 Environmental Chemistry of Pollution (4) Kalman, Liu Chemical and physical processes determining distribution and fate of chemical hazards, detection of low levels of hazardous compounds, and environmental evaluation and prediction. Fundamental chemical concepts and measurable properties of individual compounds to interpret and relate measurements. Prerequisite: admission to graduate program or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

ENV H 553 Environmental Exposure Monitoring Methods (4) Fenske, Morgan, Simpson Provides an in-depth understanding of current monitoring methods for occupational, residential, and community exposures to hazardous chemical agents. Examines the technical basis for sampling strategies and sampling and analytical methods for chemicals in air, water, food, soil and food, and for biological markers of exposure and effect in humans and other biota. Prerequisite: ENV H 453 or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

ENV H 555 Instrumental Methods for Industrial Hygiene Measurement: Laboratory (3) Morgan, Simpson, Yost Utilizes typical instrumental techniques and analytical methods for the evaluation of potential occupational exposures. Prerequisite: ENV H 453 and ENV H 553 or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

ENV H 556 Quantitative Occupational Exposure Analysis (3) Seixas Exploration of industrial hygiene data to understand nature of airborne exposures in the occupational environment, and their interpretation for human health. Focus on reading and discussion of primary exposure assessment literature and statistical analysis of real dataset. Prerequisite: one quarter of statistics or biostatistics and basic industrial hygiene. Offered: odd years; W.

ENV H 557 Exposure Controls (3/4) Yost Presents engineering concepts for selecting exposure controls for chemical, physical, and biological agents. Topics include regulatory mandates, hazard rating strategies, protective clothing, respiratory protection, chemical safety management, building ventilation, local exhaust ventilation, chemical and biohazards controls, airflow measurements, and ventilation troubleshooting. Offered: even years, W.

ENV H 559 Applied Occupational Health and Safety (3) Camp, Johnson Application of occupational safety and health principles. Student teams perform evaluations, assess production methods/processes and exposures, health and safety procedures and programs, and develop engineering and administrative controls. Students perform on a consulting project with a local company including budgeting, project reporting, and presentation. Offered jointly with IND E 567 and NSG 505. Offered: Sp.

ENV H 560 Organizing and Administering Industrial Safety and Health Programs (4) Gleason Explores industrial organization and methods of integrating safety and industrial hygiene programs with industrial operations. Investigates philosophic issues related to industrial safety and health such as responsibility for safety, dependency on safe practice, and hierarchy of prevention. Contains numerous case problems and student involvement opportunities. Offered: jointly with NSG 506; A.

ENV H 562 Technical Aspects of Safety and Health (3) Gleason Explores specific hazards associated with major industries, as well as hazards common to all industries. Covers machine guarding, electrical safety, systems safety analysis, materials handling, and working at heights. Offered: jointly with NSG 507; W.

ENV H 564 Recognition of Health and Safety Problems in Industry (4) Camp, Seixas

Develops skills in occupational health and safety hazard recognition in a variety of important northwest industries. Focuses on process understanding and hazard recognition skills during walk-through inspections of several local facilities, stressing a multidisciplinary approach. Offered: jointly with IND E 564.

ENV H 565 Occupational Stress and Management (3) Beaton Relationships between occupational stressors and worker's health, well-being, productivity. Analyzes models of occupational stress. Investigates similarities, differences between job-related stressors and stress responses in various occupations. Explores elements of worksite stress management programs. Prerequisite: graduate standing in nursing or allied health discipline. Offered: jointly with NURS 566; even years; A.

ENV H 566 Introduction to Ergonomics (3) Johnson, Stewart Basic principles of ergonomics in work environment applied to problems of worker and management. Topics include measurement of physical work capacity, problems of fatigue and heat stress, applied biomechanics, worker-machine interactions and communication, design of displays and controls. Prerequisite: basic human physiology or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with IND E 566/NSG 508; W.

ENV H 567 Mechanisms of Carcinogenesis (2) Xia Lectures/presentations of biochemical and molecular basis of carcinogenesis induced by environmental agents, including approaches to identification of carcinogens. Role of cell proliferation and cell death (apoptosis) in cancer formation and cancer treatment. Molecular mechanisms that regulate proliferation and apoptosis. Prerequisite: ENV H 516, ENV H 405, or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with PHCOL 567; even years, A.

ENV H 568 Molecular Epidemiology of Infectious Diseases (2) r Application of molecular typing techniques to study of microbial pathogens to increase understanding of epidemiology of infectious diseases. Brief review of molecular biology. Evaluation of methods used in outbreaks and epidemics reported in literature. Prerequisite: ENV H 511 or ENV H 512 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with EPI 568/PABIO 568; W.

ENV H 569 Occupational Biomechanics (4) Johnson Lectures and laboratories address human occupational biomechanical and physiological limits and measurement, analysis, and modeling techniques that are used by ergonomists for design of safe, healthful, and productive physical work. Prerequisite: ENV H 566 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with IND E 569; even years, Sp.

ENV H 570 Occupational and Environmental Epidemiology (3) Checkoway, Daniell Research in occupational and environmental determinants of disease. Defining exposed populations, characterizing exposure levels, estimating disease risks relative to exposure. Cohort, case-control, cross-sectional designs for various health outcomes. Applications to exposure standard setting and risk assessment. Prerequisite: EPI 511 or EPI 512, EPI 513 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with EPI 570; Sp.

ENV H 571 Neuroepidemiology and Environmental Risk Factors (3) Kukull Focus on neurologic diseases and etiology. Presentation of descriptive epidemiology, clinical features, and risk factors, including stroke, Parkinson's disease, Alzheimer's disease, multiple sclerosis, and other disorders. Discussion of NIH grantsmanship. Guest experts present some topics. Recommended: EPI 511 or equivalent. Offered: jointly with EPI 571; odd years; W.

ENV H 572 Clinical Occupational Medicine (2) Keifer For clinicians in training, comprehensive overview of occupational disease principles, occupational history-taking, and the provider's role in workers' compensation. Epidemiologic evidence and pathophysiologic basis for occupational diseases reviewed, emphasizing organ system approach to diagnosis and management. Prerequisite: occupational medicine or preventive medicine residents/fellows, nursing students, or permission of instructor. Offered: S.

ENV H 573 Methods and Issues in Using Biological Measurements in Epidemiologic Research (3) Stewart Introduction to use of measurements from biological specimens in epidemiologic studies. Prepares epidemiology and laboratory science students for conduct of interdisciplinary human studies. Evaluation of biomarkers, preliminary studies, methodologic issues, quality control. Brief review of molecular biology. Applications and current literature discussed. Prerequisite: EPI 511 or EPI 512. Offered: jointly with EPI 573; W.

ENV H 574 Probabilistic Exposure Analysis (3) Kissel Examination of probabilistic (in contrast to deterministic) approaches to prediction of human exposure to environmental contaminants including explicit separation of population variability from uncertainty due to ignorance. Discusses current methods in laboratory research, and familiarizes the student with specific faculty research interests. Prerequisite: graduate standing and permission of program director. Offered: AWSpS.

ENV H 577 Risk Assessment for Environmental Health Hazards (3/4) Faustman Examines context, methodologies, data, uncertainties, and institutional arrangements for risk assessment. Qualitative and quantitative approaches to identification, characterization, and control of environmental hazards to health emphasized through didactic and case studies. Offered: jointly with CEE 560/PB AF 589; A.

ENV H 594 Current Topics in Environmental Health (1, max. 2)

ENV H 596 Current Issues in Occupational and Environmental Medicine (2, max. 12) Kaufman Interdisciplinary seminar on current and emerging topics in the practice of environmental and occupational health. Faculty- and student-led presentations with an interdisciplinary focus, including occupational hygiene, nursing, and medical issues. Prerequisite: environmental health graduate student, occupational health nursing student, or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with NURS 580; AWSpS.

ENV H 598 Degree Program Project/Portfolio (1-9-, max. 18) Supervised project work on a topic related to student's concentration in graduate study that results in a paper. Offered: AWSpS.

ENV H 599 Field Studies (2-6, max. 6) Assignment to an environmental research or service program to develop field research and evaluation skills. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSpS.

ENV H 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Prerequisite: permission of departmental adviser. Offered: AWSpS.

ENV H 700 Master's Thesis (*) Prerequisite: permission of departmental adviser. Offered: AWSpS.

ENV H 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of departmental adviser. Offered: AWSpS.

Epidemiology

EPI 405 Phys Activity in Health and Disease (3) Duncan Impact of physical activity on individual and public health. Overview of physiological adaptations to activity, exercise prescription, exercise epidemiology, and prevention of chronic diseases. Public health recommendations for activity in the U.S. population, and the effects of the built environment on activity. Prerequisite: BIOL 118. Offered: jointly with NUTR 405; Sp.

EPI 420 Introduction to Epidemiology (3) NW Goldberg For the undergraduate student wishing to devote only one quarter to a course in epidemiologic methods. Description of ways in which variation in disease occurrence is documented and how that variation is studied to understand causes of disease. Offered: Sp.

EPI 497 Epidemiology Special Electives (*) Off-campus course for medical students. Offered: AWSpS.

EPI 499 Undergraduate Research (*) Offered: AWSpS.

EPI 502 Phys Activity in Health and Disease (3) Duncan Impact of physical activity on individual and public health. Overview of physiological adaptations to activity, exercise prescription, exercise epidemiology, and prevention of chronic diseases. Public health recommendations for activity in the U.S. population, and the effects of the built environment on activity. Prerequisite: BIOL 118. Offered: jointly with NUTR 505; Sp.

EPI 503 Public Health Informatics and Surveillance (3) Covers collection and use of public health surveillance data in formulating policy and managing programs through lectures and real-world interactive exercises. Discusses surveillance for birth defects, environmental exposures, and hospital-acquired infections, and use of tools such as small area analysis and geographic information systems. Offered: jointly with HSERV 503.

EPI 507 HIV and STIs in Women and Children (3) Stewart Examines the emerging global public health crisis and the plight of women and children with HIV/STIs. Reviews targeted approaches pertaining to women and children and their vulnerability to HIV/STIs. Prerequisite: EPI 511 or EPI 512-513. Offered: jointly with OB GYN 590; Sp.

EPI 510 Epidemiologic Data Analysis (2) Hawes, Winer Intended for students planning to take 514. Introduces concepts and programming skills necessary to analyze data sets for case-control and cohort studies. Provides students hands-on experience in using epidemiologic data sets for stratified analyses with SAS and Stata. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: EPI 511 or EPI 512. Offered: W.

EPI 511 Introduction to Epidemiology (4) Kukull Epidemiologic methods for non-epidemiology majors. Focuses on research designs and methods to describe disease occurrence and risk factor associations; uses quantitative and biomedical information to infer whether causal relationships exist between potential causes and disease in populations. Offered: A.

EPI 512 Epidemiologic Methods I (4) Holt, Koeppell, Weiss Principles and methods of epidemiology. Covers measures of disease frequency, measures of effect, causal inferences, descriptive epidemiology, study types, misclassification, and effect modification. Designed for students who want to take 513. Prerequisite: prior or concurrent enrollment in BIOST 511 or equivalent. Offered: A.

EPI 513 Epidemiologic Methods II (4) Holt, Koeppell, Weiss Continuation of 512. Considers how designs of epidemiologic studies may be constructed to maximize etiologic inferences. Covers confounding, randomized trials, cohort studies, case-control studies, and selected topics. Prerequisite: EPI 512. Offered: W.

EPI 514 Application of Epidemiologic Methods (4) Hawes, Mueller, Schiff Practical experience in analysis of data. Students analyze data sets currently on file using contemporary epidemiologic methods as taught in 512 and 513. Prerequisite: EPI 510 or experience in statistical programming; EPI 512, EPI 513 and epidemiology major. Offered: Sp.

EPI 515 Topics in Epidemiologic Methods (3) Introduces advanced methodologic methods, including recursive partitioning, developing clinical prediction rules, analyses of community-level associations or interventions, case-crossover and case-only designs, propensity scores, two-stage sampling, and missing data imputation. Prerequisite: EPI 512; EPI 513. Offered: jointly with BIOST 519; A.

EPI 516 Statistical Methods in Genetic Epidemiology (3) Theory and application of statistical techniques used in genetic epidemiology. Includes discussion of association studies, linkages and segregation analyses. Examples stressed with reference to assumptions and limitations. Prerequisite: either BIOST 513 or BIOST 518; PHG 511/EPI 517; or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with BIOST 516/PHG 519.

EPI 517 Genetic Epidemiology (3) Austin Research methods for evaluating genetic influences on disease and risk factors and genetic-environmental interactions. Study designs and statistical methods include twin studies, family studies, population-based association studies, segregation analysis, and linkage analysis. Prerequisite: EPI 511, BIOST 511, and GENET 371, or equivalent. Offered: jointly with PHG 511.

EPI 518 Computer Demonstrations in Genetic Epidemiology (2-4, max. 4) Edwards Demonstrations and use of computer programs designed specifically for analysis of genetic epidemiologic data, including heritability, segregation, and sib-pair linkage analysis.

Discussions focus on interpretation of results. Laboratory sections apply methods to data provided by instructor. Corequisite: EPI 517/PHG 511 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with PHG 518.

EPI 519 Epidemiology of Cardiovascular Disease (3) Psaty, Siscovick Principles, methods, and issues in the epidemiology of cardiovascular disease. Focuses on coronary heart disease and its major risk factors; also covers other topics such as stroke and sudden death. The format includes informal lectures and discussions of the current literature. Prerequisite: EPI 511 or EPI 512, EPI 513. Offered: A.

EPI 520 Epidemiology of Infectious Diseases (3) Manhart Infectious diseases from a public health perspective. Topics include analytic methods, study design, outbreak investigations, surveillance, vaccine evaluations, global eradication, screening, modeling, and infectious causes of chronic diseases. Homework and discussion based on current examples from the published literature. Prerequisite: EPI 511, EPI 512, or permission of instructor. Offered: W.

EPI 521 Epidemiology of Maternal and Child Health Problems ([3-4], max. 4) Williams Contributions to understanding and prevention of major maternal and child health problems, including pregnancy outcome, infant and child morbidity and mortality, maternal morbidity and mortality, abnormal child growth and development, and early-life factors in adult health problems. Prerequisite: graduate, medical, or dental school standing and EPI 511 or EPI 512 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with HSERV 542; W.

EPI 522 Reproductive Epidemiology (3) Holt Focuses on female reproductive system conditions and diseases, non-birth pregnancy outcomes, and impact of pregnancy on later health. Presentation of current epidemiologic knowledge and discussion of methodologic issues on topics including the menstrual cycle; contraception; infertility; spontaneous and induced abortion; and uterine and ovarian disease. Prerequisite: either EPI 511, both EPI 512 and EPI 513, or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; Sp.

EPI 524 Epidemiologic Studies of Cancer Etiology and Prevention (3/4) Li, Rossing Current knowledge of the role of environmental/lifestyle factors and genetic susceptibility in the etiology of several cancers with an emphasis on study design. Prerequisite: either EPI 511 or EPI 512; concurrent enrollment in EPI 513. Offered: W.

EPI 526 Epidemiology of Diseases Communicable from Nature (3) DiGiacomo, Rausch, Weigler Explores the public health aspects of zoonotic diseases, their epidemiology and approaches to control. Focuses on the major viral, rickettsial, bacterial, protozoal, helminthic, and fungal diseases transmitted from wild and domesticated animals to humans. Prerequisite: EPI 511, EPI 512, or EPI 520 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with C MED 526; Sp.

EPI 527 Vaccines (3) Wald Overview of issues in vaccine development, clinical trials, implementation of vaccination programs, and the role of vaccines in the control of infectious diseases. Emphasizes current issues and real-world challenges in the vaccine field and features critical reading of the literature. Prerequisite: either EPI 511, EPI 512, or EPI 513. Offered: A.

EPI 528 Exposure Measurement in Epidemiology (3) White Principles and methods of measuring exposures (risk factors) in epidemiological studies. Questionnaire design; quality-control procedures for interviews, record abstraction, and lab methods; validity and reliability of measures; effects of measurement error; maximizing response rates; measurement of specific exposures. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: EPI 513. Offered: Sp.

EPI 529 Emerging Infections of International Public Health Importance (3-, max. 3) Kimball Focuses on the nexus between emerging infections and increasing globalization of the world due to the mobility of people and goods. Examines emergent events through risk factors and associated macro changes implicated in their genesis. Reviews microbial evolutionary strategies and factors of emergence. Offered: jointly with HSERV 536; in residence, odd years; online, even years; W.

EPI 530 AIDS: A Multidisciplinary Approach (2) Farquhar Comprehensive overview of the public health, clinical, and laboratory aspects of human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) infection and disease. Topics include the pathogenesis, natural history, and management of HIV infections. The impact of HIV/AIDS on community and global health care and prospects for prevention and control. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with MED 530/GLOBLH 570; A.

EPI 532 Epidemiology of Infectious Diseases in Resource-Limited Countries (3) McClelland A review of major infectious disease problems of the developing world, including AIDS, malaria, tuberculosis, measles, and diarrhea, with an emphasis on public health control strategies. Offered: odd years.

EPI 533 Pharmacoepidemiology (3) Heckbert, Johnson Overview of pharmacoepidemiology including drug development and approval; application of epidemiologic methods to study drug safety and effectiveness; exploration of the interplay between research and public policy; introduction to resources for information about drugs; introduction to pharmacology principles pertinent to pharmacoepidemiology. Prerequisite: health sciences graduate student or with permission. Offered: jointly with PHARM 533; even years; Sp.

EPI 534 Principles of Publishing Clinical Evidence (2) Johnson, Olson Explains advanced methodologic principles for improving the clarity of published clinical evidence. Students prepare and revise a 1000-word research letter for The Lancet using their own clinical evidence. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with PHARM 536; Sp.

EPI 536 Categorical Data Analysis in Epidemiology (4) Summary of univariate categorical data analysis; introduction to multivariate analysis of categorical epidemiologic data using multiplicative models. Experience at interpretation; familiarity with available programs gained by analysis of bona fide data, critiques of analyses appearing in literature. Prerequisite: BIOST 515; EPI 513 and either BIOST 513 or BIOST 518; or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with BIOST 536; A.

EPI 537 Survival Data Analysis in Epidemiology (4) Introduction to the multivariate analysis of survival data using multiplicative models. Application to epidemiologic studies. Familiarity with interpretation and available computer programs gained by analysis of bona fide sets of data and critiques of analyses appearing in the literature. Prerequisite: EPI 536 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with BIOST 537; W.

EPI 538 Nutritional Epidemiology (3) Beresford Application of epidemiological methods to current studies of diet, nutrition, and chronic disease. A discussion of current issues and controversies enable students to plan studies in nutritional epidemiology and disease prevention. Prerequisite: EPI 511 or EPI 512 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with NUTR 538; A.

EPI 539 Research Methods in Developing Countries (3/4) Gloyd, Mock Simple, practical methodologies to obtain and validate information regarding health status and health services in developing countries. Usefulness, validity, limitation of vital records, health reports, household (and cluster) surveys, nutritional anthropometry, and qualitative methods discussed. Lectures, computer lab, and student participation in community-based survey. Offered: jointly with G H 531; W.

EPI 540 Introduction to Cancer Biology (3) Ulrich Provides a general understanding of cancer biology, covering the carcinogenic process and various biological causes of cancer. Integrates knowledge from different fields of cancer research, guiding students through diverse literature on cancer and carcinogenesis. Prerequisite: GENOME 371, BIOL 355, or permission of instructor. Offered: even years; Sp.

EPI 541 Introduction to Systematic Reviews and Meta-analysis of Evidence (2) Wolf Conceptual understanding of the quantitative methods used to synthesize evidence. Methods for pooling evidence across independent studies, pooling binary/continuous outcomes, differences between fixed and random effects models, and guidelines for appraising published systematic reviews/meta-analyses. Prerequisite: introductory-level courses in statistics, epidemiology, or biostatistics. Offered: jointly with MEBI 541/HSERV 529; Sp.

EPI 542 Clinical Epidemiology (2) Weiss Principles and methods involved in studying the outcome of illness. Prerequisite: EPI 511, or EPI 512 and EPI 513. Offered: S.

EPI 546 Psychiatric Epidemiology (3) Vander Stoep Applies epidemiological methods to the study of mental illnesses. Topics include occurrence and distribution of mental illness, classification of psychiatric disorders; treatment-based vs. community-based studies; epidemiology of depression and schizophrenia; familial transmission; developmental epidemiology; mental illness and violence. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: either EPI 511, EPI 512, HSERV 591, or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with PBSCI 546; Sp.

EPI 548 Social Determinants of Health Research Methods (3) Beresford, Smith Explores study design, measurement and analytic issues applicable to research into the social determinants of health. Semi-weekly graduate-level seminar offered to students with a basic knowledge of epidemiological and biostatistical principles. Prerequisite: either EPI 511 or EPI 512/EPI 513; BIOST 511/BIOST 512 or BIOST 517/BIOST 518. Offered: jointly with HSERV 548; W.

EPI 549 Sociobehavioral and Prevention Research Methods for HIV and STI (3) Kurth Focuses on prevention methods for controlling HIV/STI epidemics, identifying a range of alternatives along the prevention continuum as most appropriate and feasible for settings and populations, and solutions to increase HIV/STI prevention agenda in public health and clinical policy and practice. Offered: jointly with NMETH 515; Sp.

EPI 555 Statistical Methods for Spatial Epidemiology (3) Wakefield Motivates the need for, and describes methods for the analysis of spatially indexed epidemiological data. Covers four major topics: clustering and cluster detection, disease mapping, spatial regression, and an introduction to geographical information systems. Considers both point-references and spatially aggregated data. Offered: jointly with BOST 555.

EPI 568 Molecular Epidemiology of Infectious Diseases (2) DiGiacomo, Roberts Application of molecular typing techniques to study of microbial pathogens to increase understanding of epidemiology of infectious diseases. Brief review of molecular biology. Evaluation of methods used in outbreaks and epidemics reported in literature. Prerequisite: EPI 511 or EPI 512 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with ENV H 568/PABIO 568. Offered: W.

EPI 570 Occupational and Environmental Epidemiology (3) Checkoway Research methods for studying occupational and environmental determinants of disease. Defining exposed populations, characterizing exposure levels, estimating disease risks relative to exposure. Cohort, case-control, cross-sectional designs for various health outcomes. Applications to exposure standard setting and risk assessment. Prerequisite: EPI 511 or EPI 512, EPI 513 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with ENV H 570; Sp.

EPI 571 Neuroepidemiology and Environmental Risk Factors (3) Kukull Focus on neurologic diseases and etiology. Presentation of descriptive epidemiology, clinical features, and risk factors, including stroke, Parkinson's disease, Alzheimer's disease, multiple sclerosis, and other disorders. Discussion of NIH grantsmanship. Guest experts present some topics. Recommended: EPI 511 or equivalent. Offered: jointly with ENV H 571; odd years; W.

EPI 573 Methods and Issues in Using Biological Measurements in Epidemiologic Research (3) Schwartz Introduction to use of measurements from biological specimens in epidemiologic studies. Prepares epidemiology and laboratory science students for conduct of interdisciplinary human studies. Evaluation of biomarkers, preliminary studies, methodologic issues, quality control. Brief review of molecular biology. Applications and current literature discussed. Prerequisite: EPI 511 or EPI 512. Offered: jointly with ENV H 573.

EPI 583 Epidemiology Seminar (1, max. 3) Presentation of current epidemiologic research and application of epidemiologic research in the practice of public health. Offered: AWSp.

EPI 584 Doctoral Dissertation Seminar (1) Davis, Holt Forum for Epidemiology doctoral students to obtain information for doctoral research, including: project ideas; forming a committee; developing a proposal; conducting the project; and presenting results. Prerequisite: Epidemiology 512 and 513, admitted to the PhD program, passed the Preliminary Examination or 2nd year status.

EPI 585 Principles of Injury Research and Prevention (3) Schiff Focuses on broad concepts including a conceptual model, surveillance, research methods, control and prevention of injuries. Topics include unintentional injuries from motor vehicle crashes, falls, drowning, sports injuries and intentional injuries from youth violence, intimate partner violence, homicide and suicide. Recommended: EPI 511. Offered: A.

EPI 586 Responsible Conduct of International Research (3) Farquhar Prepares international and U.S. students to develop research proposals, conduct international field research, and present scholarly work. Topics include proposal writing, human subjects protection, data management, peer review, scholarly integrity, responsible authorship, and grants and budget management. Open to graduate and non-matriculated students. Credit/no credit only. Offered: jointly with GLOBLH 532; A.

EPI 587 Practical Aspects of Research Operations (2) Fitzpatrick Provides the basics necessary to plan, implement, and manage a research study. Topics include human subjects applications, data collection, hiring and training of staff, participant recruitment and retention, data management, quality assurance and control, results reporting, communications, and budgeting. Prerequisite: K12 Clinical Scholar or one course in EPI/BIOST. Credit/no credit only. Offered: A.

EPI 588 Preparing and Writing Research Proposals (2) Kristal, Reiber Experience in preparing, organizing, and writing research proposals, following NIH and AHRQ guidelines. Includes weekly assignments and didactic exercises, leading to final research proposal. All students participate in mock study section to review and critique proposals. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: second-year graduate student (PhD recommended), or PhD or MD in health-related field. Offered: odd years; A.

EPI 590 Selected Topics in Epidemiology or International Health (1-6, max. 6) Tutorials are arranged for a small number of students for in-depth examination of an area of epidemiology or international health, usually of current nature. Seminar format. Prerequisite: EPI 511. Also a special summer format presenting introductory material. May be offered with ENV H 590 and/or HSERV 590. For more information and permission, consult the department program adviser. Offered: AWSp.

EPI 591 Current Literature in Epidemiology (1) Articles pertaining to epidemiology and related subjects selected from the current literature to be distributed and read by all participants. Faculty members and enrolled students alternate being responsible for conducting sessions and choosing articles to read. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: EPI 513. Offered: AWSp.

EPI 592 Program Seminars (1-6, max. 6) Graduate seminars organized to address specific educational needs of students in various specialized programs within the Department of Epidemiology (i.e., Maternal and Child Health).

Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

EPI 593 Cancer Prevention Research Laboratory (3) White Research experience for pre- and postdoctoral students working on cancer prevention projects at the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center. Credit/no credit only. AWSp.

EPI 595 Epidemiology Master's Practicum (1-6, max. 6) Supervised practice experience providing students an opportunity to learn how epidemiology is applied in a public health setting and in the formulation and application of public health policy. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: EPI 512 and BOST 511 or equivalent and permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

EPI 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of departmental adviser and independent study supervisor. Offered: AWSp.

EPI 700 Master's Thesis (*) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of thesis chair. Offered: AWSp.

EPI 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of dissertation chair. Offered: AWSp.

Public Health Genetics

PHG 511 Genetic Epidemiology (3) Austin, Edwards Research methods for evaluating genetic influences on disease and risk factors and genetic-environmental interactions. Study designs and statistical methods include twin studies, family studies, population-based association studies, segregation analysis, and linkage analysis. Prerequisite: EPI 511, BOST 511, and GENET 371, or equivalent. Offered: jointly with EPI 517.

PHG 512 Legal, Ethical, and Social Issues in Public Health Genetics (3) Kuszler, Mastroianni Equips the student to anticipate and assess potential legal, ethical, and social barriers complicating the incursion of new genetic advances, information, and technologies into public and private health care delivery efforts. Prerequisite: GENET 371 or equivalent. Offered: jointly with LAW H 504/MHE 514; A.

PHG 513 Basic Concepts in Pharmacogenetics and Toxicogenomics (3) Eaton, Thummel Addresses current DNA sequencing and genotyping approaches, and basic concepts of pharmacogenetics and toxicogenomics. Emphasis placed on applications of genomic technologies to the understanding of "gene-environment interactions" that cause diseases of public health importance, including cancer, chronic neurological diseases, and adverse drug reactions. Prerequisite: GENET 372 or equivalent. Offered: jointly with ENV H 513/PCEUT 513; W.

PHG 518 Computer Demonstrations in Genetic Epidemiology (2-4, max. 4) Edwards Demonstrations and use of computer programs designed specifically for analysis of genetic epidemiologic data, including heritability, segregation, and sib-pair linkage analysis. Discussions focus on interpretation of results. Laboratory sections apply methods to data provided by instructor. Corequisite: EPI 517/

PHG 511 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with EPI 518; Sp.

PHG 519 Statistical Methods in Genetic Epidemiology (3) Theory and application of statistical techniques used in genetic epidemiology. Includes discussion of association studies, linkages and segregation analyses. Examples stressed with reference to assumptions and limitations. Prerequisite: either BIOST 513 or BIOST 518; PHG 511/EPI 517; or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with BIOST/EPI 516.

PHG 521 Culture, Society, and Genomics (3) McGrath Examines social and cultural issues of human genome sequencing and control of genetic expression. Attitudes and behaviors toward health, illness, and disability are studied using historical, contemporary, and cross-cultural case study material. Offered: jointly with NURS 582/ANTH 574; Sp.

PHG 522 Ethical Frameworks for Public Health Genetics (2) Mastroianni Case-based application of ethical principles in genetic medicine to range of problems arising in genetics practice, policy, research. Examination of traditional problems including eugenics and testing/screening for genetic disease, as well as emerging problems in population and environmental genetics. Prerequisite: LAW H 504/MHE 514/PHG 512 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with MHE 516; Sp.

PHG 523 Genetics and the Law (2) Kuszler Considers the legal issues arising from new genetic technologies and information. Statutes, regulations, and cases used to demonstrate the constitutional, contract, and tort law complications resulting from dissemination of these technological advances. Prerequisite: LAW H 504/MHE 514/PHG 512 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with LAW H 520.

PHG 525 Public Commentary on Ethical Issues in Health Genetics (3) Fryer-Edwards Explores issues in public health genetics through academic commentary, personal narratives, science fiction, and film using ethical frameworks from narrative ethics, feminist ethics, and principlism. Includes cloning, assisted reproduction, prenatal genetic testing presymptomatic genetic testing, gene therapies, scientific responsibility, and GMOs. Graduate students only. Offered: jointly with MHE 515; Sp.

PHG 536 Bioinformatics and Gene Sequence Analysis (3) Rose Nature and relevance of molecular sequence information, computer-based protein, and DNA sequence analysis, molecular sequence and genomic databases, and methods for database accession and interrogation. Prerequisite: background in molecular biology and permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with PABIO 536/MEBI 536; Sp.

PHG 537 Pharmacoeconomics, Genetics, and Health Care (2) Ramsey, Veenstra Introduction to outcomes research and economic evaluation related to medical technologies, with a focus on methodologies and the use of economic evaluation in healthcare to affect policy decisions. Offered: A.

PHG 541 Economic and Policy Issues for Genetic Technologies and Services (3) Introduction to economic evaluation in healthcare. Students learn and apply economic principles to the political and policy issues surrounding genetic technologies and services.

Focus on formulation of facts and policy alternatives in several areas of public controversy with regard to genetic testing and treatment. Offered: A.

PHG 542 Genetic Discovery in Medicine and Public Health (3) Burke Addresses the clinical and societal implications of genetic knowledge, with an emphasis on the ethical and policy issues surrounding the use of genetic technology in medicine and public health from 1900 to the present. Offered: jointly with MHE 530; W.

PHG 543 Social and Behavioral Methods in Public Health Research (3) Bowen, McGrath Provides an overview of social and behavioral research design and methods. Reviews methods and findings in the social sciences relevant to public health applications, and using a problem-oriented approach, develops a research plan. Prerequisite: graduate standing in Public Health Genetics, or permission of instructor. Offered: Sp.

PHG 551 Human Genomics: Science, Ethics, and Society (4) Fullerton Places recent advances in human molecular genetics and genomics in ethical and social context. Focuses on the rise of population-based approaches to complex trait mapping and their impact on societal understandings of community, ancestry, and public health. Prerequisite: GENOME 371; GENOME 372; PHG 512; or instructor permission. Offered: jointly with MHE 551; A.

PHG 580 Interactive Seminar (1, max. 6) Austin, Fullerton Seminar series on topics related to public health genetics, including current bioethical, legal, medical, biotechnology, and public policy issues.

PHG 581 Introduction to Bioinformatics and Genetics Services in Public Health Genetics (1) Austin, Doyle, Rose Introduction to bioinformatics computer skills and genetic services related to public health genetics. Credit/no credit only. Offered: W.

PHG 590 Selected Topics in Public Health Genetics (1-6, max. 6) Tutorials are arranged for a small number of students for in-depth examination of an area of public health genetics, usually of a current nature.

PHG 591 Public Health Genetics Journal Club (1) Provides an interdisciplinary forum for the critique of current literature public health genetics and related disciplines. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

PHG 595 Master's Practicum (1-12, max. 12) Supervised practice experience providing students an opportunity to learn how genetics is applied in a public health setting and in the formulation and application of public health policy. Prerequisite: EPI 517/PHG 511, LAW H 504/MHE 514/PHG 512, ENV H/PABIO/PCEUT/PHG 513, or permission of instructor.

PHG 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only. .

PHG 700 Master's Thesis (*) Credit/no credit only.

PHG 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Credit/no credit only.

Health Services

Health Informatics and Information Management

HIHIM 409 Disease Concepts for Managers (4) Develops a methodology for understanding and communicating dimensions of disease states as all health state that a person might experience. Presents clear, effective ways to describe the diversity of health conditions and focuses on disease from a health information systems perspective.

HIHIM 410 Introduction to Health Care Systems and Health Data Systems (6) Covers current issues in health care; relationship of the health care system to health data systems: accreditation, licensure and professional standards; health records analysis, statistics, data linkage, application of professional standards to health records and record management systems; retrieval, tracking and retention systems.

HIHIM 412 Healthcare Coding, Vocabulary and Revenue Cycle Management (5) Overview of clinical vocabularies and classifications, detailed instruction on International Classification of Diseases, ninth revision, clinical modification (ICD-9-CM) and Current Procedural Terminology (CPT) coding principles, and revenue cycle management. Prerequisite: HIHIM 409.

HIHIM 420 Health Care Computer Systems and Electronic Health Records (5) Current health information systems and the role of health informatics; technology infrastructure and health informatics standards, electronic health records, definitions, functions, issues, and barriers; hospitals, ambulatory care, home health and long-term care and computer applications. Prerequisite: HIHIM 410; HIHIM 411.

HIHIM 421 Health Information Systems Analysis (5) Examines lifestyle systems development process and tools, project management and team coordination, analysis of health information systems, and user requirements. Prerequisite: HIHIM 420.

HIHIM 450 Organizational Theory in Health Facilities and Healthcare Delivery (3) Addresses the organization of healthcare services across the spectrum of healthcare delivery systems ? both governmental (federal, state, local) and private. Financing of healthcare services and related policy issues are explored.

HIHIM 454 Finance Concepts for Health Care Managers (4) Covers finance concepts applied to today's healthcare environment, financial management tools and budgeting.

HIHIM 455 Professionalism and Leadership (5) Professional development, leadership assessment and ethics, interpersonal skills and effective communication and human resource management requirements.

HIHIM 456 Quality Assurance and Research in Healthcare (5) Quality improvement, risk management and utilization management in health care, design and analysis of quality improvement systems, including use of data systems in quality assurance and research; health data retrieval, analysis and presentation, and review of relevant healthcare informatics research. Prerequisite: Statistics; Medical Terminology.

HIHIM 460 Management Project I (3) Explores the development of management skills and competencies, and a seminar through site experience in health care facilities with campus and clinical faculty. Prerequisite: HIHIM 410

HIHIM 462 Management Project II (3) Explores applied management using a formal capstone project in a healthcare setting. Prerequisite: HIHIM 460.

HIHIM 470 Legal Concepts for Health Fields (3) Examines principles of law as applied to the health field, with reference to health information management.

HIHIM 480 Management, Problem-Solving and Decision-Making (4) Provides the tools and experiences useful at a management level for problem-solving and decision-making in health information administration.

HIHIM 499 Independent Study (2-5)

Health Services

HSERV 475 Perspectives in Medical Anthropology (5) Introduction to medical anthropology. Explores the relationship among culture, society, and medicine. Examples from Western medicine as well as from other medical systems, incorporating both interpretive and critical approaches. Offered: jointly with ANTH 475.

HSERV 480 Issues in Public Health (1-3, max. 6) Problems and issues in epidemiology, health services delivery and administration, environmental health, pathobiology, biostatistics, and related fields.

HSERV 481 Issues in Public Health (2) Introduction to public health taking an in depth look at local public health practice. Focuses on practical solutions for real life problems in local public health settings. Uses modified problem-based learning (PBL) format. Framework is 10 Essential Public Health Services. Student groups prepare for and explore new issues.

HSERV 482 The Health of Populations (2) Explores what makes a population health or unhealthy. Examines why the USA is less healthy than all the other rich countries, despite being one of the healthiest fifty years ago.

HSERV 490 Undergraduate Special Topics (1-6, max. 12) Collect and analyze literature related to historical and current public health issues, problems and programs; analyze information and develop written summaries to demonstrate increased knowledge and competencies as applied to public health. Prerequisite: HSERV 480.

HSERV 499 Independent Study in Health Services (1-12, max. 12) Individual library or field study project selected in consultation with a faculty adviser.

HSERV 501 Public Health Practice at the Local Level (3) Basic overview of state and local public health practice with leaders in the field and case studies focusing on rural and urban public health challenges. Offers preparation for practice in public health agencies. Prerequisite: HSERV 511 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with EPI 501.

HSERV 503 Public Health Informatics and Surveillance (3) Covers collection and use of public health surveillance data in formulating policy and managing programs through lectures and real-world interactive exercises. Discusses surveillance for birth defects, environmental exposures, and hospital-acquired infections, and use of tools such as small area analysis and geographic information systems. Offered: jointly with EPI 503.

HSERV 504 Health Communication ([1-3]-, max. 3) Overview of the theory and practice of designing, producing, and evaluating public health communication campaigns, including the use of mass media. Develops greater capacity for critical judgment about the use of communication strategies for achieving public health goals.

HSERV 507 Communication for Health Promotion: Theory and Application (3) Discuss and evaluate health communications theories and applications at the individual level (i.e., persuasion), interpersonal level (i.e. doctor/patient communication), and societal level (i.e., mass media). Investigate intercultural communication cutting across all levels of health communication. Examines the steps involved in the design of a health communication intervention.

HSERV 508 Dynamics of Community Health Practice (3-5, max. 5) Examination of and experience with basic principles of clinical practice in community settings. Includes family as community constituent, populations at risk, community assessment, and community development. Prerequisite: Graduate standing or permission of course faculty. Offered: jointly with NURS 560.

HSERV 509 Public Health and Informatics (3) Introduction to the emerging field of public health informatics. Covers general public health topics as well as key public health informatics issues and applications. Evaluates a public health information system. Prerequisite: either MEBI 530 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with MEBI 533; Sp.

HSERV 510 Society and Health (3) Provides an overview of three core areas in the social and behavioral sciences of public health practice and research: social determinants of individual and population health, health promotion and disease prevention, and cultural competency and community collaboration.. Prerequisite: HSERV 511 or equivalent or permission of instructor.

HSERV 511 Introduction to Health Services and Public Health (3-4) History, organization, and effectiveness of United States health care and public health systems. Determinants of health, need, and utilization. Public and private financing. Supply and provision of personal and public health services. Managed care. Government and private sector roles. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor.

HSERV 512 U.S. Health and Health Care: Organization, Financing, and Delivery (3) Students review and examine selected topics from literature. Includes: need and access to care; theory and effects of health insurance; private and public insurance programs; managed care; costs/expenditures; availability and organization of health resources; and quality assessment and improvement. Enrollment priority for Health Services PhD students. Prerequisite: HSERV 511.

HSERV 513 U.S. Health and Health Care: Population Health, Social Determinants, and Health Disparities (3) Explores the elements and actions of a population health approach, including conceptualizing the determinants of health, synthesizing knowledge about major social determinants, and applying knowledge to improve population health and reduce health disparities. Enrollment priority for Health Services PhD students. Prerequisite: HSERV 511, and permission of instructor; recommended: HSERV 512.

HSERV 514 U.S. Health and Health Care: Health Policy Research (3) Extends students' understanding of the nature of health policy and health policy development in the context of a market-based economy. Enrollment priority for Health Services PhD students. Prerequisite: HSERV 511, and permission of instructor; recommended: HSERV 512/513.

HSERV 516 Introduction to Health Services — Extended Degree(4) Provides overview of health care system, exposes students to current issues and developments affecting organization and delivery of health services, helps students develop ability to frame and analyze questions and issues related to health services. Prerequisite: registration in Extended M.P.H. Degree program.

HSERV 517 Provision of Health Services — Extended Degree (2) Builds on material covered in 516 and provides students with tools used to evaluate alternative health delivery systems; exposes students to various international health delivery systems; encourages students to decide how to organize such a system. Prerequisite: HSERV 516, registration in Extended M.P.H. Degree program.

HSERV 518 Social and Ethical Issues (2-4, max. 4) Presents introduction to ethical issues in public health policy and practice. Additional one credit option focuses on health administration/managed care. Coursework designed to train students in basic skills of ethical analysis and increase competency in recognizing, researching, and analyzing issues arising in public health and health services delivery.

HSERV 520 Methods in Applied Community Research ([1-3]-, max 3) Skills/knowledge necessary to conduct orderly investigation of specific problems in preparation for M.P.H. thesis or project. Includes problem identification, posing research questions, literature review, consideration of theoretical/practical context, choosing study design, data collection, protection of human subjects, and recognizing potential errors. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: registration in Extended M.P.H. Degree program.

HSERV 521 Qualitative Methods in Health Services Research (3) Provides theoretical training in qualitative research and in depth training in qualitative data management, analysis, interpretation, and presentation. Focuses on how to frame qualitative research questions, design appropriate research strategies, and integrate qualitative and quantitative methods in research designs in public health.

HSERV 522 Health Program Evaluation (3-5) Politics, theory, methods of evaluation, from simple health programs to evaluation of large-scale interventions. Emphasizes experimental and quasi-experimental designs to estimate program impacts, as well as evaluation of program implementation. Case studies drawn from health field illustrate various types of evaluations. Prerequisite: background in introductory statistics.

HSERV 523 Advanced Health Services Research Methods I (4) Examines how to apply research methods and addresses recurring issues in health services research. Covers statistical theory that motivates the methods and empirical work that demonstrates a method's use. Enrollment priority for Health Services PhD students. Prerequisite: either HSERV 511, BIOST 511/512/513, BIOST 517/518, or EPI 511/512, and permission of instructor.

HSERV 524 Advanced Health Services Research Methods II (4) Emphasizes the application of advanced biostatistical/econometric techniques in applied research. Examines a wide variety of posed research questions and demonstrates how to best obtain answers. Enrollment priority for Health Services PhD students. Prerequisite: either HSERV 511, BIOST 511/512/513, BIOST 517/518, or EPI 511/512, and permission of instructor.

HSERV 525 Advanced Health Services Research Methods III (4) Introduction to methods of handling data and conducting basic analyses in the broad and heterogeneous field of health services research. Examine concepts and conduct hands-on research using using data sets selected by students. Enrollment priority for Health Services PhD students. Prerequisite: either HSERV 511, BIOST 511/512/513, BIOST 517/518, or EPI 511/512, and permission of instructor.

HSERV 526 Qualitative Research Methods for Public Health (4) Covers a range of qualitative, ethnographic tools for practical applications in public health. Methods covered include direct observation, informant interviews, focus groups, and formal methods. Covers Rapid Assessment Procedures and Participatory Action Research. Student teams investigate research questions using these techniques.

HSERV 527 Survey Research Methods (4) Provides students with skills in questionnaire development and survey methods. Develop a questionnaire and design a survey research proposal on a health-related or social topic. Prerequisite: either HSERV 511-513; BIOST 517/518; or EPI 512-513, which may be taken concurrently or permission of instructor is required, and students should have a survey project in mind. Offered: jointly with CS&SS 527.

HSERV 528 Critically Appraising and Applying Evidence in Health Care (3) Literature appraisal skills for various articles (therapy effectiveness, diagnostic tests, literature reviews, clinical measurement, prognosis, quality of care, decision analysis, causation/etiology, guidelines, and economic evaluation). Appraisal of clinical information from literature, strengths/weaknesses of data, analyses, study design/applicability to a current patient's problem. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with MEBI 540.

HSERV 529 Introduction to Systematic Reviews and Meta-analysis of Evidence (2) Conceptual understanding of the quantitative methods used to synthesize evidence. Methods for pooling evidence across independent studies, pooling binary/continuous outcomes, differences between fixed and random effects models, and guidelines for appraising published systematic reviews/meta-analyses. Prerequisite: introductory-level courses in statistics, epidemiology, or biostatistics. Offered: jointly with MEBI 541/EPI 541.

HSERV 532 International Health-Introduction and Topics (4-, max. 8) Encourages students to demonstrate their facility with concepts and readings by creating short essays on selected topics. Overview emphasizing assessment, assurance, policy development, and the future of global health.

HSERV 536 Emerging Infections of International Public Health Importance (3-, max. 3) Focuses on the nexus between emerging infections and increasing globalization of the world due to the mobility of people and goods. Examines emergent events through risk factors and associated macro changes implicated in their genesis. Reviews microbial evolutionary strategies and factors of emergence. Offered: jointly with EPI 529; in residence, odd years; online, even years.

HSERV 537 Economic Development and Health (1, max. 3) Discusses issues of broad interest in the areas of economics, development, and health. Credit/no credit only.

HSERV 540 Nutrition in Developing Countries (3) Introduces issues of nutrition in developing countries, with an emphasis on the control and prevention of under nutrition and micronutrient deficiencies. Offered: jointly with NUTR 555.

HSERV 541 Topics in Maternal and Child Health I (3-, max. 3) Historic, legislative, organizational, and financial basis of health and social services for families and children in United States. Effects of changing family structure and norms; factors affecting health care needs of specific populations, including racially and ethnically diverse groups; impact of policies/programs on health and well-being of families and children.

HSERV 542 Epidemiology of Maternal and Child Health Problems ([3-4]-, max. 4) Contributions to understanding and prevention of major maternal and child health problems, including pregnancy outcome, infant and child morbidity and mortality, maternal morbidity and mortality, abnormal child growth and development, and early-life factors in adult health problems. Prerequisite: graduate, medical, or dental school standing and 511 or 512 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with EPI 521.

HSERV 543 Topics in Maternal and Child Health III (3) Provides an overview of contextually based frameworks for understanding growth and development. Identifies and describes the conceptual basis and theory of change that underlie successful preventive intervention efforts to promote the well being of children and reduce common MCH problems.

HSERV 544 Maternal and Child Health in Developing Countries (3) Mercer Emphasizes critical health problems of women and children in developing countries in social, economic, and cultural contexts. Practical approaches to developing MCH programs shared via lecture/discussions, exercises, and small group work. Students acquire skills in baseline assessment, setting objectives, planning and evaluating interventions, and involving communities.

HSERV 548 Social Determinants of Health Research Methods (3) Explores study design, measurement and analytic issues applicable to research into the social determinants of health. Semi-weekly graduate-level seminar offered to students with a basic knowledge of epidemiological and biostatistical principles. Prerequisite: either EPI 511 or EPI 512/EPI 513; BIOST 511/BIOST 512 or BIOST 517/BIOST 518. Offered: jointly with EPI 548.

HSERV 550 Policy and Economics: Fundamentals and Applications (3) Explores how values drive the structure of societies, economic systems, public policies, and ultimately, allocation and distribution of resources. Explores how science and community values intertwine in the development of health policy, and how ideology, culture, and history influence structure and change a nation's health system.

HSERV 551 Health Law (2) Analysis of law, the legal system and current legal problems as they relate to the financing and delivery of health care services. Offered: jointly with LAW H 512.

HSERV 552 Health Policy Development (3-, max. 3) Focuses on development of public policy concerning medical care and public health and the relationship between public decisions and the market place. Using contemporary policy issues as case studies, examines the role science, ideology, culture, and history play in influencing the structure of and changes to a nation's health system.

HSERV 553 Politics of Health Care (3) Understanding of health policy making within the context of American politics. Health policy making is examined in light of political leadership, the legislature, the initiative process, rule making, interest groups, and lobbying. Prerequisite: HSERV 551, a basic understanding of the American health care system, or permission of instructor.

HSERV 554 Health Legislation Seminar (1) Discussion of current state of health policy, topics with legislative staff and others involved with state health policy. In addition to four sessions on campus, course meets once in Olympia during legislative session. Credit/no credit only.

HSERV 558 Tobacco and Public Health: Impact, Prevention, Treatment, and Policy (2-3) Halperin Integrates multiple disciplinary perspectives to provide a comprehensive overview of the history, health effects, policy, prevention, and treatment of tobacco use. Utilized readings, stimulates discussions, and hosts renowned experts to provide students with the foundation to understand and address the local, national, and global epidemic of tobacco use. Offered: Sp.

HSERV 560 Adult Learning: Theory and Practice (3) Designed to help students apply Popular Education theory and practice to preparation, presentation, and evaluation of health education. Students design, teach, and evaluate four separate teaching sessions (one between each seminar) using theory and principles of Popular Education learned to date. Prerequisite: graduate standing or permission of instructor.

HSERV 561 Introduction to Health Promotion and Planning (3) Overview of behavior change theory and comprehensive approach to planning, implementing, and evaluating health promotion interventions. Links theory to practice. Uses PRECEDE/PROCEED planning model by Green and Kreuter as framework. .

HSERV 571 Cultural Competency for Public Health Practice (1-4, max. 4) Application of cultural competency to clinical practice, health care management, and health services research when working with culturally diverse populations. Methodological orientation is qualitative, historical, and ethnographic. Lecture, narratives, discussions, guest presentations, film, video. Interdisciplinary perspective appropriate for graduate students in public health, health administration, nursing, social work, and anthropology. Offered: Sp.

HSERV 572 Community Development for Health (4) Learn the literature, theory, history, and accepted knowledge in the fields of community development, activism, and community organizing within a health systems context. Provides a forum for exploring approaches to community development and organizing. Gain specific skills and master techniques. Offered: W.

HSERV 573 Community Development for Health Seminar (1) Explores the importance of community as a determinant of health, and how public health workers can help strengthen communities. Companion course to HSERV 572. Meets Friday afternoons to hear community organizers and leaders in community development.

HSERV 575 Cancer Prevention and Control (3) Provides an overview of research in cancer prevention and control for students training for a career in this field. Students identify major areas of prevention and control research, conduct an analysis of data in cancer prevention and control, and learn to prepare a research project grant. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

HSERV 576 Health, Culture, and Community (3) A theory and skills class concerning development of personal and organizational cultural competence in community-based participatory research. Core concepts of cultural competence are considered as they are practiced in community settings. Fieldwork required. Offered: jointly with NURS 557.

HSERV 577 Health Behavior and Preventative Medicine ([2/4]-, max. 4) Focuses on psychosocial and cultural factors related to health, preventive health behavior, illness perception, and behavior; theoretical basis for prevention; the interaction of consumers and providers in the delivery of health care services; and clinic and community based applications.

HSERV 580 Society, Chronic Illness, and Disability (3) Definition and assessment of chronic illness, disability, and health status. Analysis of chronic illness and disability using frameworks from social sciences and public health. Dimensions of disablement as they affect provision of health services. Research on effectiveness of services and approaches to improvement. Prerequisite: HSERV 511 or permission of instructor.

HSERV 581 Strategies of Health Promotion (4) Assessment of health promotion planning, implementation, and evaluation strategies for their strengths, weaknesses, and effectiveness. Students critique strategies to modify behavioral factors that influence lifestyles of individuals, including decisions influencing their reciprocal relationship with environmental factors affecting the health of individuals, organizations, and communities. Prerequisite: HSERV 511.

HSERV 582 Theoretical Perspectives on Health Behavior Change ([3-4, max. 4]-) Meischke Overview of theoretical perspectives in health behavior at the individual, interpersonal, and community level. Focuses on increasing skills in describing, applying, and integrating these frameworks in the design and evaluation of health promotion interventions. Prerequisite: HSERV 511 or permission of instructor.

HSERV 583 Economic Evaluation in Health and Medicine (3) Methods and techniques for evaluating costs and cost-effectiveness of health, medical, and pharmaceutical interventions. Emphasis on economic evaluation, decision analysis, and modeling techniques for resource allocation and decision making. Applications to technology assessment, health policy, clinical practice, and resource allocation. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with PHARM 534.

HSERV 584 Evaluating Cost and Outcomes in Health and Medicine 2 (3) Concepts and methods for evaluating cost and outcomes of health and medical interventions with a focus on cost-effectiveness analysis., pharmacoconomics, health and quality of life assessment, resource allocation, and medical decision-making. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with PHARM 535.

HSERV 585 Seminar in Medical Geography (5, max. 10) Intensive research seminar dealing with new and promising research themes in medical geography and public health. Offered: jointly with GEOG 581.

HSERV 586 Medical Geography (3) Geography of disease, consideration to health systems planning. Distributions, diffusion models, migration studies. Application of distance, optimal location models to health systems planning; emergency medical services, distribution of health professionals; cultural variations in health behavior. Prerequisite: familiarity with social science research, health-related issues. Offered: jointly with GEOG 580.

HSERV 587 Health Policy Economics (3) Applies economic theory to selected topics in health care, including information, risk and insurance, industry organization, government regulation, and public health issues. Emphasizes policy implications of these applications.

HSERV 588 Community Approaches to Health Promotion (3) Provides opportunities to critically examine community-based health promotion interventions and the design, evaluation, and implementation issues they raise. A wide range of disciplinary perspectives is presented. Case studies and class projects are designed to give students the skills needed to critically assess community projects around health promotion.

HSERV 590 Selected Topics in Health Services (*-) By individual arrangement, the student and faculty member(s) develop a program of reading and conference appropriate to the topic selected by the student. The topic chosen will be within the special competence of the faculty participating in the course, in the areas of health-care delivery and health-care administration. Also special summer format presenting introductory material may be taken with ENV H 590 and/or EPI 590. For more information and permission, consult department program adviser.

HSERV 591 Community Oriented Public Health Practice (1-6, max. 42) Seven-quarter integrated sequence covers public health aspects of community assessment, biostatistics, epidemiology, health promotion/disease prevention, behavior change, environmental health, community development, policy development and analysis, and program planning and management. It is taught in a problem-based format. Prerequisite: enrollment in the COPHP program.

HSERV 592 Program Seminars (1-6, max. 20) Graduate seminars organized to address specific educational needs of students in various fellowships, residencies, and other specialized programs within the Department of Health Sciences (i.e., maternal and child health, international health, preventive medicine, social and behavioral sciences). Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

HSERV 595 Practicum/Field Work in Community Medicine (1-12-, max. 12) Experience in variable time blocks in community health activities in agencies delivering and planning health services. Sites include neighborhood clinics, health planning bodies, medical practice settings, public health agencies, special problem clinics and facilities, environmental programs and services. Prerequisite: master's student in health services and permission of instructor.

HSERV 598 Extended Degree Program Project Option (*, max. 9) Supervised project work on a selected topic related to student's concentration in graduate study. Includes survey of literature, development of approach, and written paper on conclusions. Prerequisite: registration in extended MPH degree program and satisfactory completion of the first summer's course work.

HSERV 599 Community Oriented Public Health Practice Capstone Masters Project ([1-9]-, max. 9) Applies and extends the public health skills learned to other settings, develops new skills, expands a professional network, and provides specialized knowledge that can be used to advance the student's future career and effectiveness in public health.

HSERV 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

HSERV 700 Master's Thesis (*) Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

HSERV 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*)

Health Services Management

HSMGMT 500 Risk and Insurance Seminar (3) Presents the principles and practices of health insurance and risk. Emphasizes health care financing arrangements in the United States, including both private and government-sponsored (public) programs. Discusses comparisons with other developed countries. HSERV 511 is strongly recommended, but not required as a prerequisite.

HSMGMT 501 Epidemiology/Critical Evidence Appraisal (3-4) Basic knowledge about methods used in epidemiology and their application to critical appraisal of clinical, epidemiological, and health administration literature for evidence-based management of healthcare organizations, improvement of delivery of health services, and for creating health policies.

HSMGMT 502 Evidence-Based Health Care Planning (3-4) Applies the techniques of statistics, epidemiology, and critical evidence appraisal to the design and evaluation of population-based health care programs. It is the third course in a three-course sequence.

HSMGMT 512 Introduction to Management in Health Services (3) Overview of managerial roles, such as supervising and motivating, approaches to organizational and environmental assessment and change, and development of systems analysis skills. For students pursuing careers in research and teaching who are likely to have management responsibilities.

HSMGMT 513 Seminar in Healthcare Finance(4) Focuses on case studies and modern theory in managerial finance relevant to health services. Students prepare group presentations and individual case study analyses of health services finance problems. Builds on accounting and finance principles ACCTG 503 and HSMGMT 571, or the equivalent, are recommended prerequisites, but not required.

HSMGMT 514 Health Economics (3/4) Uses economic concepts and tools to examine range of issues pertaining to health care, delivery of health care services. Includes demand analysis, production of health services, expenditure growth, markets for hospital and physician services, externalities. Emphasis on using economics to examine issues and solve problems. Prior economics courses not required.

HSMGMT 515 Advanced Economics ? Decision Analysis (1-3, max. 3) Develops skills to become informed consumers of economic evaluations of health programs. Develops skills necessary to conduct economic analyses of public health and health service programs.

HSMGMT 523 Informatics in Health Care Management (3) Medical informatics concerns the representation, organization, and manipulation of biomedical information and knowledge. Exposes students to a high-level understanding of informatics and its health care applications. Discussion of successes and failures in implementing information technology focuses on gaining leadership and management knowledge that embraces informatics.

HSMGMT 543 Social and Behavioral Strategies for Improving Health (3) Explores social dimensions of health and medical care. Learn to identify key social and cultural principles that guide appropriateness in health care. Introduced to tools used to influence social expectations and personal behavior in relation to illness, health, and demand for medical treatments.

HSMGMT 545 Capstone Integrative Seminar (4) Designed to assist students in the transition from theory to practice. Emphasis on sharpening analytical and intuitive leadership practices through the use of interactive case studies and team building exercises and field projects. Prerequisite: second-year MHA students.

HSMGMT 546 Long-Term Care (3) Learning experience for graduate students in health services administration, planning, other graduate students to increase their ability to identify and solve problems related to long-term care they confront in their employment. Students are exposed to available knowledge in the field; effective problem-solving attitudes and techniques for organizing information and/or developing strategies, and agencies in the field. Prerequisite: HSERV 511 or permission of instructor.

HSMGMT 560 Management Practice in Health Care and Public Health Organizations (1-4, max. 4) Introduction to leadership and management, focusing on effective strategies for creating a productive work environment. Organizational structure and strategy introduced. Case studies and other problem-solving methods, using health services applications are utilized in order to apply theoretical material. Prerequisite: graduate student.

HSMGMT 562 Strategic Management of Health Care Organizations (3-4, max. 4) Management of goals, strategy, and structure in health care organizations. Design of external relationships and internal structures., strategy-formulation, decision-making, and change. Integration of professional, social, and organizational values. Theory, student and practitioner experience, and case studies used to enhance repertoire of management approaches and skills. Prerequisite: HSERV 511 and HSMGMT 560 or equivalent.

HSMGMT 563 Personnel Management for Health Professionals (3) Designed for midcareer health services professionals developing strategies and skills in human resource management. Focuses on policy and practice issues important to handling day-to-day personnel problems-selection, promotion, performance appraisal, discipline, grievances. Prerequisite: registration in Extended M.P.H. Degree program or permission of instructor; non-business majors.

HSMGMT 565 Quantitative Decision Making for Health Services Management (3) Applications of various quantitative techniques for problem solving, monitoring, controlling, decision making in health services. Identifying problem area, communications with consultant, evaluation to the quality and applicability of analyst's work. Statistical, mathematical, operations research, industrial engineering techniques. Prerequisite: QMETH 500 or BOST 509 or permission of instructor.

HSMGMT 566 Decision Support Models for Health Services (3) Management science and approaches developed as applied to problems in public health. Emphasizes conceptual understanding of processes/application of systematic, and rational approach to managerial problem solving, including cost-benefit, cost effectiveness analysis. Prerequisite: BOST 502 and 503, or BOST 511; registration in Extended M.P.H. Degree program; non-business majors.

HSMGMT 571 Health Care Financial Management (4) Third course in a three-course sequence dealing with the management of health services institutions and programs. Topics covered are: health services law, hospital and program policy decisions, financial planning, and hospital design and architecture; and the presentation of hospital survey and health services research project reports. Prerequisite: HSERV 511 and ACCTG 500 or ACCTG 501 or permission of instructor.

HSMGMT 572 Financial Management for Health Professionals (3) Intensive review of basic accounting principles/terminology and an introduction to financial management/managerial accounting, including budgeting for managerial control, planning, cost accounting, financing health programs. Managerial accounting, program costing, rate setting, budget preparation. Prerequisite: BOST 502 and BOST 503, or BOST 511; registration in Extended M.P.H. Degree program or permission of instructor; non-business majors.

HSMGMT 573 Seminar in Health-Care Finance (3) Practical applications of corporate finance principles. Applies theoretical framework to health-care financial problems, including capital investment analysis, leasing vs. borrow-to-buy, debt capacity analysis, bond refunding, control of capital, joint venture. Prerequisite: either HSMGMT 514, HSMGMT 587; ECON 400, or ECON 500; ACCTG 503 (or equivalent); HSMGMT 571; or permission of instructor.

HSMGMT 574 Financial Management I (3-4) Prepares clinical professionals for participating intelligently in, and contributing to, financial decisions of health care organizations. Learn the language and fundamental concepts of accounting and finance, and become comfortable with what is required in formal financial analysis.

HSMGMT 575 Financial Management II (4) Second in a two part series, the emphasis of this financial management course is on preparing medical executives for managerial and leadership roles in health care organizations. Focus is on tools and analytic frameworks that health care managers use to make forward-looking decisions, including capital budgeting and risk analysis.

HSMGMT 590 Select Topics (1-6, max. 12) By arrangement, students and faculty members develop a program of reading and conference appropriate to the selected topic. The topic chosen is within the special competence of the faculty member participating in the course in the area of health services management.

HSMGMT 592 Health Management Program Seminar (1-6, max. 6)

Pathobiology

PABIO 301 Prevention of Infectious Diseases (3) NW Kenny Consideration of means of prevention of major classes of infectious diseases from the public-health view point. Classes of diseases are defined by site of infection (e.g. respiratory) or common mechanisms of spreading. Respiratory, sexually transmitted, water-borne, and tropical diseases. Prerequisite: either MICROM 301 or BIOL 201. Offered: Sp.

UCONJ 420 Biological Safety Practices (1) Kenny See University Conjoint courses.

PABIO 498 Undergraduate Thesis (*)

PABIO 499 Undergraduate Research (*)

PABIO 500 Introduction to Pathobiology Research (3-9, max. 9) Rotation through research laboratory. Credit/no credit only.

PABIO 511 Pathobiological Frontiers (2) Kenny Molecular and immunological concepts of infectious and noninfectious diseases presented in format suitable for graduate students knowledgeable in health-related areas who are not in biology-oriented programs. Allergy, immune responses, nature of infectious agents, prevention of disease with emphasis on newly defined diseases and disease agents. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

PABIO 536 Bioinformatics and Gene Sequence Analysis (3) Rose Nature and relevance of molecular sequence information, computer-based protein, and DNA sequence analysis, molecular sequence and genomic databases, and methods for database accession and interrogation. Prerequisite: background in molecular biology and permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with MEBI 536/PHG 536; ASp.

PABIO 540 Antibiotic Resistance Mechanisms and Their Impact on Public Health (3) Roberts Lectures covering resistance mechanisms against bacterial antibiotics, antiviral, antiparasitic, and cancer drugs. Topics also include the effects that resistant microorganisms have on therapy and cancer treatment and their impact on public health. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

PABIO 548 Molecular and Cellular Parasitology (3) Feagin Molecular and cellular biology of parasites of health-related significance, emphasizing current research topics unique to parasites, particularly well-suited for study in parasites, and especially important to study in host-parasite systems. Prerequisite: familiarity with molecular and cellular biology and permission of instructor. Offered: even years; Sp.

PABIO 550 Diseases of Public Health Importance and Strategies for their Control (3) Public Health perspective of major disease of national and global importance. Discussion of origins, establishment, progression, and pathogenesis of diseases. Importance of immunological, intercellular and external factors, and strategies of disease prevention. Requires a grounding in cellular and molecular biology, microbiology, and immunology. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

PABIO 551 Biochemistry and Genetics of Pathogens and Their Hosts (4) . Provides a strong foundation in biochemistry, molecular biology, and genetics for students interested in disease. Principles will be illustrated through examples focusing on pathogens, and infectious and non-infectious disease. Prerequisite: undergraduate level course work in molecular biology or biochemistry or permission of instructor.

PABIO 552 Cell Biology of Human Pathogens and Disease (4) Cell biology and immunology explored through diseases of public health importance with examples of pathogen interaction with host cell biology and immune systems, unique aspects of the cell biology of pathogens, perturbations of these systems in non-infectious diseases and design of therapeutics and vaccines to combat diseases of public health importance. Prerequisite: undergraduate level coursework in biology or molecular biology or permission of instructor.

PABIO 553 Survival Skills for Scientific Research (2) Lukehart, Parsons Focuses on skills needed for scientific career: writing abstracts, curriculum vitae, research proposals; preparing for oral presentations; lab management skills; discussion of mentorship/trainee relationships; case-based discussions of various topics in ethics and scientific misconduct. Credit/no credit only. Offered: Sp.

PABIO 568 Molecular Epidemiology of Infectious Diseases (2) Application of molecular typing techniques to study of microbial pathogens to increase understanding of epidemiology of infectious diseases. Brief review of molecular biology. Evaluation of methods used in outbreaks and epidemics reported in literature. Prerequisite: PABIO 511 or PABIO 512 or permission of instructor. Offered: jointly with ENV H 568/EPI 568; W.

PABIO 580 Pathobiology Seminar (1, max. 15) Research from students, faculty members, and invited speakers is presented and discussed. Topics include immunochemistry, viruses, membranes, infectious diseases, immune response and other related topics.

PABIO 581 Current Literature in Pathobiology (1, max. 15) Develops skills in analyzing data and assessing conclusions through an analysis of current literature in Pathobiology. Focuses on breadth and analytical skills. Prerequisite: enrollment in the pathobiology graduate program.

PABIO 582 Critical Thinking and Research Design in Pathobiology (1.5) Lingappa Analysis of issues, hypothesis and experimental design and testing. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: graduate standing in pathobiology. Offered: W.

PABIO 590 Selected Topics (1-20, max. 20) Individual offerings focusing on topics such as pathogenesis, immunology, virology, disease agents, bioinformatics and grant writing. Small lecture format. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

PABIO 598 Didactic Pathobiology (*, max. 12) Supervised teaching experience in pathobiology courses for Ph.D. candidates. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

PABIO 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of graduate program adviser.

PABIO 700 Master's Thesis (*) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of graduate program adviser.

PABIO 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of graduate program adviser.

Aerospace Studies

A S 101 Foundations of the United States Air Force I (1) Focuses on the basic characteristics of air doctrine; US Air Force mission and organization; functions of United States strategic offensive and defensive, general-purpose, and aerospace support forces; officership/professionalism and an introduction to communicative skills. Additional one-hour leadership laboratory is mandatory for cadets, but not special students. Offered: A.

A S 102 Foundations in the United States Air Force II (1) Focuses on the basic characteristics of air doctrine; US Air Force mission and organization; functions of United States strategic offensive and defensive, general-purpose, and aerospace support forces; officership/professionalism and an introduction to communicative skills. Additional one-hour leadership laboratory is mandatory for cadets, but not special students. Offered: W.

A S 103 Foundations in the United States Air Force III (1) Focuses on the basic characteristics of air doctrine; US Air Force mission and organization; functions of United States strategic offensive and defensive, general-purpose, and aerospace support forces; officership/professionalism and an introduction to communicative skills. Additional one-hour leadership laboratory is mandatory for cadets, but not special students. Offered: Sp.

A S 211 The Evolution of Air and Space Power I (1) Factors contributing to the development of air power from its beginnings to the present, and the evolution of air power concepts and doctrine. History of air power employment in military and nonmilitary operations in support of national objectives. Assessment of communicative skills. Additional one-hour leadership laboratory is mandatory for cadets, but not special students. Offered: A.

A S 212 The Evolution of Air and Space Power II (1) Factors contributing to the development of air power from its beginnings to the present, and the evolution of air power concepts and doctrine. History of air power employment in military and nonmilitary operations in support of national objectives. Assessment of communicative skills. Additional one-hour leadership laboratory is mandatory for cadets, but not special students. Offered: W.

A S 213 The Evolution of Air and Space Power III (1) Factors contributing to the development of air power from its beginnings to the present, and the evolution of air power concepts and doctrine. History of air power employment in military and nonmilitary operations in support of national objectives. Assessment of communicative skills. Additional one-hour leadership laboratory is mandatory for cadets, but not special students. Offered: Sp.

A S 331 Aerospace Studies 300 (3) Emphasis on basic leadership and management fundamentals, professional knowledge, and communicative skills required of an Air Force officer. Case studies used to examine leadership and management situations. An additional leadership laboratory (mandatory for cadets but not special students) provides leadership experiences, giving students the opportunity to apply learned principles. Offered: A.

A S 332 Aerospace Studies 300 (3) Emphasis on basic leadership and management fundamentals, professional knowledge, and communicative skills required of an Air Force officer. Case studies used to examine leadership and management situations. An additional leadership laboratory (mandatory for cadets but not special students) provides leadership experiences, giving students the opportunity to apply learned principles. Offered: W.

Military Science

M SCI 101 Military Science and Leadership Development (3) Introduction to challenges and competences critical for effective leadership. Examines how critical thinking, goal setting, time management, and stress relate to leadership. Develops knowledge and comprehension of leadership dimensions. Lessons include history and mission of the Army and leadership, personal development, values and ethics, and tactics and techniques discussions. Offered: A.

M SCI 102 Military Science and Introduction to Tactical Leadership (3) Overviews leadership fundamentals of problem solving, listening skills, briefings, providing feedback, and effective writing. Explores dimensions of leadership values, attributes, skills, and actions in the context of practical, hands-on, and interactive exercises. Introduction of effective oral communication. Develops skills in map reading, land navigation, and tactical maneuvering at team levels. Offered: W.

M SCI 103 Military Science and Introduction to Applied Basic Leadership (3) Final introductory series on leadership. Applies leadership fundamentals emphasizing attributes, skills, and actions. Students assess capabilities simultaneously considering their personal leadership. Lessons apply leadership to military tasks of map reading, navigation, and tactics. Offered: Sp.

M SCI 201 Military Science and Innovative Team Leadership (3) Explores dimensions of innovative tactical leadership strategies and styles. Practices personal motivation and team building through planning, preparing, and executing group exercises. Develops knowledge of leadership values and attributes through an understanding of Army leadership examples. Lessons include leadership, personal development, values and ethics, officership, and tactics and techniques. Offered: A.

M SCI 202 Military Science and Foundations of Tactical Leadership (3) Explores creative and innovative tactical leadership strategies and styles by examining team dynamics and leadership theories. Examines challenges of leading teams in complex contemporary environments. Practical exercises focus on dimensions of terrain analysis, patrolling, operation orders and cultural awareness. Lessons include fundamental of leadership, personal development, and tactics and techniques. Offered: W.

M SCI 203 Military Science and Transformational Leadership (3) Continues study of the theoretical basis of Army leadership and framework and dynamics of transformational leadership in the context of military operations. Develops greater self-awareness by assessing leadership styles and practices oral and written communication skills. Enables progress to applied and advanced tactical leadership study. Offered: Sp.

M SCI 301 Military Science and Tactical Leadership (3) Studies, practices, and evaluates adaptive leadership skills. Develops self-awareness and critical thinking skills using challenging scenarios related to small unit operations. Analyzes and evaluates leadership values, attributes, skills, and actions. Lessons focuses on leadership, land navigation, oral and written presentations, tactics, and physical fitness. Offered: A.

M SCI 302 Military Science and Applied Leadership (3) Continues adaptive approach to leadership applying situations necessary to build skills required in complex scenarios. Develops proficiency in evaluating, decision-making, persuading, and motivating peers through practical exercises. Students evaluate individual leadership values, attributes, skills, and actions, and receive specific feedback on their leadership abilities based on written and oral presentations. Offered: W.

M SCI 303 Military Science and Advanced Tactical Leadership (3) Finalizes M SCI 301 and M SCI 302 leadership skills that are necessary to successfully lead others while solving complex problems. Explores, evaluates, and develops decision-making skills required in contemporary environments. Reviews critical aspects of combat, specifically stability and support operations. Provides specific leadership feedback and prepares for advanced leadership and management. Offered: A/WSp.

M SCI 305 Practicum-Techniques of Military Instructions (1-3, max. 3) Analysis, review of techniques used in military training and instructions. Students plan, rehearse, deliver, provide written critique on block of military instruction from the Military Qualification Skills Manual.

M SCI 401 Military Science and Developmental Leadership(3) I&S Develops proficiency in planning, executing, and assessing complex problems, functioning as a staff member, and providing leadership-performance feedback. Explores situational opportunities assessing values, risk, and ethical decisions. Performance measured by abilities to give and receive systematic, specified feedback on 16 leadership attributes, skills, and actions focusing advanced leadership development. Offered: A.

M SCI 402 Military Science IV: Advanced (3) I&S Explores dynamics of leading in complex situations of contemporary environments. Examines differences in customs and courtesies, military law, principles of war, and rules of engagement. Lessons review aspects of interacting with nongovernmental organizations, civilians, and host nation support with case studies examining complex ethical and practical demands of leadership. Offered: W.

M SCI 403 Military Science and Advanced Leadership (3) I&S Completes fundamental learning of advanced leadership attributes, skills, and actions that effectively prepare students for careers in military or civilian leadership. Examines Army modularity, unit organization, joint operations, and the role of junior leaders. Focuses on case studies, situational exercises, student presentations, and battlefield analysis to develop insights on leadership. Offered: Sp.

Naval Science

N SCI 101 The Naval Service (3) Henderson General introduction to the Navy, its organization, missions, roles, tasks, and operating methods. The relationship to the other services within the Department of Defense is emphasized. Offered: A.

N SCI 102 History of U.S. Sea Power I (3) I&S Pochop A comprehensive study of the role of sea power in the history of the United States, the current status of the various elements of the nation's sea power as they influence the development and implementation of national security policy. Offered: W.

N SCI 103 History of U.S. Sea Power II (3) I&S Pochop A comprehensive study of the role of sea power in the history of the United States, the current status of the various elements of the nation's sea power as they influence the development and implementation of national security policy. Offered: Sp.

N SCI 201 Naval Leadership and Management (3) I&S Fitzpatrick Introduction of the theory and techniques of naval leadership based on those principles of behavioral science that are pertinent to understanding individual and group behavior of adults. Introduces the management process and the relationship of management functions to leadership. Stresses acceptance of a traditional deep sense of moral responsibility on the part of the aspiring leader. Offered: A.

N SCI 202 Navigation I (3) NW Allen The science and practice of maritime coastal navigation, including visual fixing, dead reckoning, and piloting methods. Computation of tides and currents and nautical rules of the road. Offered: A.

N SCI 203 Navigation II (3) NW Allen Basic theory and practice of celestial and electronic navigation. Relative motion theory and contact coordination practice in a multiple ship environment. Prerequisite: N SCI 202. Offered: W.

N SCI 301 Naval Ship Systems I (3) Webster Study of fundamental principles of energy transfer and thermodynamics. An introduction to nuclear propulsion, gas turbines, and auxiliary power systems. Offered: Sp.

N SCI 302 Naval Ship Systems II (3) Webster Study of ship characteristics, ship design, hydrodynamic forces, stability, damage control, and shipboard electrical systems. Includes introduction to engineering documentation, electrical safety, preventative maintenance, and personnel qualifications. Offered: Sp.

N SCI 303 Naval Weapon Systems (3) Webster Study of fundamental principles of sensor, tracking, weapon delivery subsystems, and current naval weapons. Includes techniques of linear analysis of ballistics and weapons, and dynamics of basic components of weapon-control systems. Offered: A.

N SCI 321 Evolution of Warfare I (3) I&S Crowe Introduction to the art of war, the evolution of warfare from the earliest recorded battles to the present day. Offered: A.

N SCI 322 Evolution of Warfare II (3) I&S Crowe Introduction to the art of war, the evolution of warfare from the earliest recorded battles to the present day. Prerequisite: N SCI 321. Offered: W.

N SCI 323 USMC Leadership and Administration of Justice I (3) Crowe Concepts, objectives, characteristic qualities, and practical techniques of leadership as exercised by the Marine Corps officer. Emphasizes leadership and management role of the junior officer in the Fleet Marine Forces. Intensive physical activities and outdoor projects to test an individual's physical and mental endurance. Offered: Sp.

N SCI 401 Naval Operations (3) Allen Introduction to naval operations, the employment of naval forces, naval tactics, formulation of operations plans and orders, employment of detection equipment, and meteorology. Offered: Sp.

N SCI 402 Naval Leadership and Ethics (3) I&S Fitzpatrick Study of leadership and ethics within a military context using applicable case studies. Examines the Law of Armed Conflict and Code of Conduct; the importance of integrity, moral courage, and ethical behavior to effective leadership; and the interrelationship between authority, responsibility, and accountability. Offered: W.

N SCI 403 Naval Organization and Management (3) Henderson Study of organization, systems, and techniques employed in the Navy for management of its human, material, and financial resources. Some of the work relates to the administration of discipline in the Navy under the Uniform Code of Military Justice. Emphasis is placed on the leadership and management role of the junior officer in the fleet. Offered: Sp.

N SCI 421 Amphibious Warfare (3) I&S Crowe Provide basic knowledge of evolution of amphibious warfare from premodern era to present. Strategic and tactical considerations in planning specific operations and amphibious landings. Offered: A.

N SCI 423 USMC Leadership and Administration of Justice II (3) Crowe Concepts, objectives, characteristic qualities, and practical techniques of leadership as exercised by the Marine Corps officer. Emphasizes the leadership and management role of the junior officer in the Fleet Marine Forces. ### Social Welfare (BASW)

SOC WF 101 Social Work in Action: Bridging the Gap From Science to Service (5) I&S Explores current social work practice and research applied to major societal problems. Lectures and discussions by leading faculty introduce students to the evidence-based perspective underlying program planning and practice innovation. Topics include: juvenile delinquency, child maltreatment, domestic violence, foster care reform, mental health, school violence, substance abuse, and poverty. Offered: A.

SOC WF 120 International Responses to Human Needs: Social Welfare Policies and Services (5) Focuses on major global social services such as poverty, immigration, and health that are reshaping social welfare policies and services throughout the world. Provides a comparative overview of social welfare policies and programs in the United States and selected other countries.

SOC WF 200 Introduction to Social Welfare Practice (5) I&S Introduction to the field of social work, including the theoretical concepts and institutional framework that guide practice. Overview of social work profession and social welfare system within which it operates. Lectures supplemented by exercises, films, guest lectures, and class discussions. Offered: A.

SOC WF 201 Advances in Prevention Science: Bridging the Gap from Science to Service (5) I&S Investigates the potential for preventing major social problems (child abuse and neglect, alcohol misuse, and interpersonal violence). Critically examines the state of prevention science, dialogue about ways to enhance the exchange of ideas between research and practice communities, and explore implications for social policy.

SOC WF 215 Intergroup Dialogues (3) Explores issues of social identities, differences, and inequalities to build understanding, skills, and values for bringing about greater social justice using dialogic communication.

SOC WF 310 Social Welfare Practice I (3) Provides an introduction to the roles, tasks, and functions of the social welfare practitioner and to theories and methods of intervention; a conceptual framework for social work practice with individuals, families, and small groups; and an opportunity to develop skills in problem assessment, intervention, termination, and evaluation. Offered: A.

SOC WF 311 Social Welfare Practice II (3) Provides an introduction to the roles, tasks, and functions of the social welfare practitioner and to theories and methods of intervention; a conceptual framework for social work practice with individuals, families, and small groups; and an opportunity to develop skills in problem assessment, intervention, termination, and evaluation. Prerequisite: SOC WF 310. Offered: W.

SOC WF 312 Social Welfare Practice III (3) Focus on macro systems in a diverse society using the generalist perspective. The implications of system resources and configurations for meeting human needs are considered. The role and function of generalist social workers to understand and advocate for system development and change is emphasized. Prerequisite: SOC WF 311. Offered: Sp.

SOC WF 315 Community Service Learning (1-5, max. 6) Opportunity for students to apply social work theory to practice, to advocate for social justice, and to be involved in community service. Students learn by connecting classroom theory and community-based experience through the completion of community-based projects in social work-type agencies Majors only.

SOC WF 320 Social Welfare Policy (5) I&S Emphasizes policy and program development in social welfare with emphasis on the context, making, and unmaking of social policy. Covers policy formulation as well as current and emerging policies in social welfare. Prerequisite: SOC WF 200. Offered: WSp.

SOC WF 390 Introduction to Social Welfare Research (5) Introduction to the logic of the scientific method as applied to social work and social welfare practice, to the design and conduct of a research study, and to data collection and summarization. Skill development in critical consumption of social welfare research. Prerequisite: either STAT 220 or QMETH 201. Offered: A.

SOC WF 402 Human Behavior and Social Environment I (5) I&S First of two-quarter sequence focusing on understanding human development across the lifespan. Integrates biological, psychological, structural, environmental, political, global, and socio-cultural perspectives. Explores relationship between the person and the environment including families, groups, organizations, communities, and institutions.

SOC WF 403 Human Behavior and Social Environment II (5) I&S Continuation of SOC WF 402. Prerequisite: SOC WF 402.

SOC WF 404 Cultural Diversity and Justice (5) I&S History and culture of disadvantaged and oppressed groups served by Social Welfare generalist practitioners. Offered: Sp knowledge and skill utilization. Student logs provide a basis for individual goal identification and achievement. Required of social welfare seniors. Offered: AWSp.

SOC WF 409 Readings in Social Welfare (1-5, max. 15) .

SOC WF 415 Beginning Field Instruction (4-6, max. 12) Students are placed in selected social service agencies and accept beginning social service assignments under the supervision of competent agency personnel. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

SOC WF 419 Adult Development and Aging (3) I&S Introduces the field of adult development. Interdisciplinary perspective stressing the interaction of psychological, social, and physiological factors affecting the aging process. Goals are to help the student understand the processes and diversity in the aging process that can assist one's own aging and help the learner work with older adults. Offered: Sp.

SOC WF 421 Methods of Child Care and Treatment (3) Focuses on an introduction to the continuum of child welfare services and presents practical approaches to working with children and adolescents in a wide variety of practice settings. Offered: alternate years; A.

SOC WF 430 Child Care Work Practice (3) Specialized practice with emotionally disturbed and delinquent children in group-care settings with focus on providing child-care staff with specific tools for teaching alternative behavior. Major topics include: etiology and diagnosis, observing and recording children's behavior, special problems of group living, life-space interviewing, token economies, activity programming, group interventions, parental involvement, organizational requisites and community linkages. Offered: alternate years; A.

SOC WF 442 Building Competencies for Intergroup Dialogue Facilitation (5) VLPA/I&S Focuses on both knowledge and skills development for peer facilitators. Topics include philosophy and principles of dialogic education and dialogic communication; intergroup communication; social identity development; principles of working with conflict; group dynamics, observation, and facilitation; team building among co-facilitators; and creating a support system among instructors and facilitators.

SOC WF 443 Facilitating Intergroup Dialogue (5) VLPA/I&S Practicum seminar providing instruction, consultation, and supervision of peer group facilitators. Focuses on comparison of facilitation experiences and consultations, trouble-shooting with other facilitators, co-facilitator team building, and planning for dialogues. Exploration of specific, current intergroup issues, such as affirmative action and immigration. Continuation of team-building work begun in 442.

SOC WF 445 Special Topics in Social Work Practice Methods (3, max. 6) Examines roles, skills, and methods in designated areas of social work practice. Content builds on foundation practice methods.

SOC WF 450 Integrative Seminar: Poverty Analysis (5) Critical analysis of poverty in both the United States and from a global perspective.

Analytical and descriptive focus on measurement, processes of production and perpetuation, and theoretical perspectives that lead to different social and economic policy responses.

SOC WF 490 Research in Social Welfare (1-3, max. 10) Individual work with faculty member to assist with current research project (s). Students trained and supervised in some or all of the following research tasks: literature review, data analysis, record-keeping, interviewing, report writing, data entry and coding, data collection, and other tasks commonly found in research problems in social welfare. Credit/no credit only.

SOC WF 495 Special Topics in Generalist Social Welfare (1-5, max. 15) Readings, lectures, and discussions pertaining to significant topics of special and current interest to social workers.

Social Welfare

SOC WL 552 Seminar in Contemporary Social Welfare Policy (3) Critical review of contemporary American income maintenance and related social welfare policies, and the economic, political, and social factors that affect their development, implementation, and effectiveness. Evaluation of their effects on poverty, income inequality, and related social outcomes, including international comparisons. Assessment of proposals for reform. Closely linked to 552. Offered: A.

SOC WL 553 Globalization and International and National Social Welfare Issues and Politics (3) Critical examination of globalization and its implications for the historic and contemporary development, formulation, and adoption of policies related to international and national social welfare. Emphasizes the development of conceptual frameworks that further understanding of the complex interplay of international and national issues and social welfare policies. Offered: A.

SOC WL 554 Analytical Perspectives on Social Welfare Policy (3) Broad overview of the social welfare policy process, including epistemological issues, content on social problem construction and definition, policy agendas and case study methodology. Introduction to analytical tools and concepts needed to take a proactive role in policy development, advocacy, implementation, and policy research. Offered: Sp.

SOC WL 558 Integrative Seminar (1-2, max. 2) Topic-driven seminar that targets professional development of the first and second years (scholarship, research, teaching). Active participation expected in discussions and reflective papers. May require preparation for presentation or demonstration. Offered: A.

SOC WL 559 Preparing to Teach: Instructional Theory and Practice (3) Teaching conceptualized as professional practice. Focuses on the integration of theory, research and educational strategies, techniques, and skills into students' practice as educators. Classroom discussions and activities promote reflection, exploration, critical analysis and experimentation. Offered: W.

SOC WL 577 Multidisciplinary Research Strategies for Prevention/Health Promotion (3) Nurius Interdisciplinary overview of major concepts and methods in health promotion and prevention research, with emphasis on at-risk populations. Attentive to health disparities, collaboration with diverse communities and biobehavioral advances in addition to application of theory and prevention-science framework. Encourages interdisciplinary participation and supporting students in articulating their research perspectives. Offered: Sp.

SOC WL 578 Seminar in Special Topics for NIMH Prevention Research Trainees (1, max. 9) Interdisciplinary overview of major concepts in promotion of mental health and prevention of mental distress with prevention science as framework. Provides conceptual foundations for advanced study in specialized aspects of mental health prevention research. Prerequisite: enrollment in Social Welfare Predoctoral Training Program in Prevention of Mental Health Problems and Disorders. Credit/no credit only. Offered: AWSp.

SOC WL 579 Interdisciplinary Approaches to Prevention Science: Children and Adolescents (3) Overview of theory, research, and practice in prevention science. Developmental perspective examining factors that promote or inhibit health development at different stages and during transitions (focus on birth through age 21). Designed for interdisciplinary dialogue, and includes guest faculty from around the University who are specialists in course topics. Credit/no credit only. Offered: A.

SOC WL 580 Quantitative research methods and design (3) Logic, terminology, and methods of quantitative social science approaches to correlational, experimental, quasi-experimental, survey, and program evaluation research. Components of the research process (problem definition, concept explication, ethical evaluating and designing defensible quantitative research studies. Offered: W.

SOC WL 581 Qualitative research methods and design (3) Theoretical and methodological foundations of a range of qualitative methods relevant to social welfare and social science research. Fundamentals of qualitative research design and implementation, including framing research questions, sampling, data collection, analytical methods, and quality criteria. Focus on ethics, cultural sensitivity, and community-based research with vulnerable populations. Offered: Sp.

SOC WL 582 Research Practicum (3-) Development of specific methodological skills in social welfare research through participation in an ongoing research project. Learning contract used to target specific research competencies. Credit/no credit only. Offered: ASpS.

SOC WL 583 Research Practicum (-3) Development of specific methodological skills in social welfare research through participation in an ongoing research project. Learning contract used to target specific research competencies. Credit/no credit only. Offered: ASpS.

SOC WL 584 Teaching Practicum (3) Supervised teaching of a required course or teaching as a co-instructor with a faculty member. Learning contract used to target specific teaching competencies, e.g., assessing and evaluating student outcomes, identifying class session goals and objectives, tailoring instruction methods to diverse learning styles. Offered: AWSpS.

SOC WL 585 Qualitative Methods in Social Work Research I (3) The first in a two-quarter sequence offering intensive experience in the theory and application of qualitative and ethnographic research methods. Prepares students for conducting qualitative studies and for combining qualitative and quantitative research methods. Focuses on applications especially relevant to social welfare.

SOC WL 586 Qualitative Methods in Social Work Research II (3) The second in a two-quarter sequence offering intensive experience in the theory and application of qualitative and ethnographic research methods. Prepares students for conducting qualitative studies and for combining qualitative and quantitative research methods. Focuses on applications especially relevant to social welfare.

SOC WL 587 Fundamentals of Social Work Statistics I (4) Descriptive and inferential statistics. Underlying logic of statistical inference. Statistical issues of special relevance in social work, including measurement, research design, and ethics in research. Prerequisite: concurrent registration in SOC WL 580. Offered: A.

SOC WL 588 Fundamentals of Social Work Statistics II (4) Issues in the use of descriptive and inferential statistics, especially the statistical control of extraneous variables. Applications of statistical inference in factorial design, and correlation and regression. Statistical issues of special relevance in social work. Ethics in the use of statistics. Prerequisite: concurrent registration in SOC WL 581. Offered: W.

SOC WL 589 Multivariate Data Analysis for the Social Sciences (3, max. 6) Erosheva Provides social scientists with an introduction to multivariate analysis techniques and the knowledge to carry them out. Focuses on statistical methods that explore relationships between observed variables. Topics include principal components, cluster, factor, latent class analysis. Prerequisite: SOC WL 587, 588, or equivalent. Offered: jointly with CS&SS 589; A.

SOC WL 590 Topics in Advanced Research Methods (3) Special topics in social and behavioral research design for advanced graduate students. Topics vary and focus on community-based research methods and measurement construction for culturally diverse populations. Prerequisite: doctoral student in social welfare or related discipline; advanced master's level students by permission of instructor.

WL 591 Seminar on Topics in Social Welfare (1-3) Focuses on special topics in social welfare and social welfare research relevant to students across a range of research and disciplines. Prerequisites: Doctoral student in social welfare or allied discipline; master's student by permission of instructor. Offered: AWPp.

SOC WL 598 Issues and Priorities in Social Welfare Research (3) Foundations in the definitions of theory; the socially constructed nature of theory and definitions of social "problems"; conceptual and theoretical perspectives on human society, interaction, and change; and analysis of the theoretical foundations of social science research paradigms. Offered: A.

SOC WL 599 Research Problems and Priorities in Social Work and Social Welfare

(3) Assists students in applying theory in building an original conceptual model. Emphasizes critical thinking, including ideological, political, methodological, and ethical contexts/ implications of ideas, theories, and models that shape social welfare scholarship and its application to social practice. Prerequisite: admission to social welfare Ph.D. program or permission of instructor. Offered: A.

SOC WL 600 Independent Study or Research (*) Prerequisite: approval of a well-specified plan by the instructor and program director. Includes a written product. Offered: AWPpS.

SOC WL 800 Doctoral Dissertation (*) Offered: AWPpS.

Social Work (MSW)

SOC W 500 Intellectual and Historical Foundations of Professional Social Work Practice (3) Intellectual, historical, and ethical foundations of the social work profession. Engagement with crucial aspects of the profession's history; contemporary issues, problematics, and directions; and key concepts and theoretical frameworks. Students develop personal, professional, and intellectual foundations for practicing social work built on the central values of plurality and social justice.

SOC W 501 Poverty and Inequality (3) Analysis of poverty and inequality in United States. Analytic and descriptive focus on measurement, processes of production and perpetuation, and public policy responses. Examines causes of poverty, the role of policy, and socioeconomic dimensions of stratification, including race, ethnicity, class, gender, immigration status, disability, age, sexual orientation, and family structure.

SOC W 503 Social Work for Social Justice: Developing a Personal-Professional Stance I (1-3-, max. 3) Focuses on personal and professional development toward social work practice for social justice. Employs critically self-reflective, experiential, and dialogic learning processes to engage students to explore personal meaning systems and narratives in the context of professional values of social justice, multiculturalism, empowerment, and globalization.

SOC W 504 Social Work for Social Justice: Developing a Personal-Professional Stance II (-1-3, max. 3) Focuses on personal and professional development toward social work practice for social justice. Employs critically self-reflective, experiential, and dialogic learning processes to engage students to explore personal meaning systems and narratives in the context of professional values of social justice, multiculturalism, empowerment, and globalization.

SOC W 505 Foundations of Social Welfare Research (3) Almgren, Balassone, Erera, Roffman Overview of research process/methods in social work, with focus on consuming and performing practice-related research and evaluating one's own practice. Emphasis on critical understanding of empirical literature, development of useful and appropriate questions about social work practice, and strategies and techniques for doing research and applying findings to practice. Offered: Sp.

SOC W 506 Social Welfare Research and Evaluation (3) Second of a two-quarter research sequence. Introduces a range of methods for informing evidenced-based social work practice. Emphasizes critical appraisal of the literature, development of research questions, and strategies and techniques for conducting practice-relevant research, including data collection and analysis.

SOC W 510 Practice I: Introduction to Social Work Practice (3) Foundation knowledge and skills for direct practice with individuals, families, and groups. Assists students toward mastery of interviewing and relationship building skills and knowledge of cross-cultural communication and practice issues and of social work values and ethics. Provides opportunity to develop beginning level skills in assessment. Offered: ASP.

SOC W 511 Practice II: Intermediate Direct Service Practice (3) Foundation knowledge and skills for direct practice with individuals, families, and groups. Course assists students toward mastery in assessment, development of treatment plans based on theory and assessment information, goalsetting skills, and selection of appropriate interventions. Offered: AW.

SOC W 512 Practice III: Organizational Practice (3) Focuses on ways in which management activities contribute to service effectiveness for clients and quality of conditions for staff. Various managerial roles, functions, and skills examined. Impact of agency structure, culture, and mission on staff, clients, and organizational outcomes discussed with emphasis on ways social work managers influence change. Offered: W.

SOC W 513 Practice IV: Community Change Practice (3) Provides frame of reference and skills for community-based social work practice. Theories of social change are examined with examples drawn from community organizing and policy advocacy. Offered: Sp.

SOC W 514 Foundation Practice Skills (3) Focus on the teaching of practice skills (micro, mezzo, and/or macro) associated with key contemporary themes in social work. Possible topics include social work with American Indian communities, adult interpersonal violence, and assessment and brief intervention in substance abuse and dependence. Offered: SpS.

SOC W 520 Social and Economic Inequality (3) Investigates how social and economic inequality in America is established, manifested, and maintained. Also examines interventions that purportedly address inequality. Provides analytic tools to help with critical thinking about competing views of inequality and the interventions that address it.

SOC W 521 Child and Family Inequalities: Policy/Services Platform (3) Advanced study of policy and services relevant to practice with children, adolescents, and families. Applies social justice framework to understanding policy context and organization of services responses to child and family inequalities, especially for historically oppressed and marginalized populations. Examines social construction of policies in historical, political, and comparative context.

SOC W 522 Introduction to Practicum: Advanced Standing (2) Orients advanced standing students towards their practicum. Covers critical issues related to the advanced standing practicum and prepares students for successful practice in their chosen agencies. Incorporates and builds upon content and skills acquired through a generalist (micro, mezzo, and macro levels of practice) undergraduate social work education.

SOC W 523 Introduction to Practicum (0-1) Workshops for preparation for agency-based placement. Interviewing and orientations occur at agencies. Credit/no credit only.

SOC W 524 Foundation Practicum (1-8, max. 12) Agency-based practicum with emphasis on development of knowledge, perspectives, and skills needed for practice with individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: social work major. Offered: AWSpS.

SOC W 525 Advanced Practicum (1-10, max. 24) Agency-based advanced practicum. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: SOC W 515 and foundation courses. Offered: AWSpS.

SOC W 526 Multigenerational Policy-Services Platform: A Feminist, Multicultural Lens (3) Builds social workers' competencies to analyze, critique, and advocate for policies and processes that will support growing numbers of multigenerational families. Presents a feminist, multicultural and multigenerational perspective to analyze how historical and current service structures, policies, and regulations support or undermine families across the lifespan.

SOC W 527 Global and Local Inequalities: Critical Analyses of the Processes and Policies of Globalization (3) Discussion of the health of the planet, economic and cultural globalization, the enduring legacies of imperialism and colonialism in this global era and their local impacts. Foci include international agreements, UN conventions, immigration and refugee policies.

SOC W 528 Health Care Inequalities: Policy/Services Platform (3) Examines the organization, policies, and services of U.S. health care system from a social justice framework. Topics include the U.S. health care system's historical development, differential access to health and health care, health care system reform, and the analysis of health care policy from contrasting ideological perspectives.

SOC W 529 Mental Health Inequalities: Policy/Services Platform (3) Mental health policy trends and organization of services at national, state, and local levels reflected in legislative, regulatory, and institutional policies. Provides historical perspective on the development of U.S. mental health policies and services. Discusses specific areas of intersystem linkages in terms of equitable access and empowerment.

SOC W 530 Advanced Practice with Diverse Children and Families (3) Builds on foundation frameworks and competencies to develop specialized knowledge and skills for working with vulnerable children and families. An ecological framework informs family- and community-centered assessment and intervention that is empowering, culturally responsive, and clinically relevant. Foci include resilience, violence, attachment, loss, substance abuse, and disability.

SOC W 531 Advanced Practice with Diverse Children and Families: Focus on Child

Mental Health (3) Develops specialized knowledge and skills for practice with children with mental health concerns and their families. Emphasis on child and family mental health assessment and interventions that are culturally relevant, collaborative, and strength-promoting. Topics include culture and mental health, system of care, psychotropic medication, ADHD, and depression.

SOC W 532 Advanced Practice with Diverse Children and Families: Focus on Child Welfare (3) Develops advanced knowledge and skills for culturally relevant child welfare practice across a range of settings including child protection, foster care, and adoption. Topics include family dynamics around child maltreatment; trauma and its impact on children; separation, loss, and identity development; and self-care in child welfare practice.

SOC W 533 Multigenerational Advanced Practice with Older Adults (3) Emphasizes a multigenerational, culturally competent empowerment approach and in-depth knowledge on "best practices" related to assessment, diagnosis, and clinical interventions with older adults and their families. Builds on other multigenerational classes.

SOC W 534 Praxis of Intergroup Dialogue (3) Students design, plan, implement, and evaluate intergroup dialogue sessions as peer facilitators. Students facilitate intergroup dialogue in conjunction with SOC W 504. Focuses on intensive in-vivo instruction, consultation, and supervision of facilitators.

SOC W 535 Special Topics in Clinical and Contextual Practice (2/3) Examination of current substantive topics in clinical and contextual practice. Content varies according to recent developments in the field and the interests of the instructor.

SOC W 536 Social Movements and Organizing: People, Power, and Praxis (3) Focuses on social, economic, and political problems from an organizer's perspective, and strategies, tactics, and skills necessary to engage in organizing activities. Emphasizes principles common to community, electoral, union, and issue organizing. Addresses why people organize, how organizing works, and what it takes to be a good organizer.

SOC W 537 Empowerment Practice with Refugees (3) Empowerment practice with refugees and immigrants across a transnational continuum of forced migration, including flight, internal displacement, asylum seeking, repatriation, and resettlement. Instruction includes classroom activities, workshops with local service providers, and agency-based projects. Addresses implications for strengths-based social services, policy, and practice skills.

SOC W 538 Critical Empowerment Practice with Multi-ethnic Communities (3) Principles of Empowering practice, critical analyses of models of multiculturalism and paradigms of knowledge and practice proven problematic in our increasingly diverse society. Assists students in developing empowering practice values, knowledge, and skills for work in multi-ethnic communities.

SOC W 539 Ethnographic Interviewing (3) Facilitates empowering and culturally sensitive practice, while providing an understanding of the other from his/her own perspective. Addresses power in worker-client relationships, clients as experts, communication across cultures, the uses and presentation of data to effect social change, ethical issues, and specific ethnographic interviewing techniques.

SOC W 540 Social Work Practice in Prevention, Primary Care, and Emergency Department Settings (3) Teaches theory and strengths-based practice within multi-disciplinary medical clinics and emergency settings from bio-psychosocial, family systems, multi-cultural, contextual, and lifespan perspectives. Advances skills in conducting assessments and cognitive-behavioral, solution-focused, motivational and crisis interventions to support individuals and families experiencing pain and loss associated with trauma and acute or chronic illness.

SOC W 541 Social Work Practice: Inpatient, Hospice, and Long-Term Care (3) Health care theory and practice skills relevant to adults and children in secondary and tertiary care settings, using multicultural, family systems, contextual, and lifespan perspectives. Skills include biopsychosocial and mental status assessments, ethical decision making, discharge planning, crisis intervention, cross-cultural practice, and counseling regarding life-threatening illness.

SOC W 542 Social Work Practice in Community Mental Health I (3) Emphasizes recovery-oriented practice with adults with severe and persistent mental illness and persons with co-occurring mental illness and substance disorders. Trains for generalist social work practice in most community mental health settings: community mental health centers, psychiatric hospitals, residential programs, jails, homeless shelters, on-the-streets, client's homes, etc.

SOC W 543 Social Work Practice in Community Mental Health II (3) Focuses on social work practice with persons with severe mental illness. Emphasizes recovery, supported housing, supported employment, integrated treatment of co-occurring disorders. Covers practice with diverse populations: multicultural, developmentally disabled, geriatric, and gay/lesbian. Examines partnering with family members and working with Social Security. Complements SOC W 542, but may be taken free-standing.

SOC W 544 Clinical Social Work with Individuals I: Theory and Practice (3) First quarter of a two-quarter sequence on the theory and practice of clinical social work. Focuses on key concepts underlying direct practice. Topics include the therapeutic relationship, therapeutic listening, the ground rules, transference, countertransference, psychological defenses, resistance, phases of treatment, transference, countertransference, and vicarious trauma.

SOC W 545 Clinical Social Work With Individuals II: Theory and Practice (3) Second of a two-quarter sequence on the theory and practice of clinical social work. Focuses on the use of interpretation, obstacles to treatment, intervention techniques, case formulations that link assessment and intervention, monitoring client progress, and on selected theories of therapy.

SOC W 548 Advanced Generalist Practice I (3) First quarter of a two-quarter sequence. Emphasizes preparation of practitioners with capacity to move flexibly among a variety of professional roles, including the provision of direct services, program planning, supervision, and community practice. Emphasizes contextual assessment from micro to macro levels.

SOC W 549 Advanced Generalist Practice II (3) Second quarter of a two-quarter sequence. Highlights program planning, supervision, and intervention across all levels of practice.

SOC W 550 Leadership and Program Development in Human Services (3) Focuses on tools and techniques for fulfilling functions of leadership, program planning, implementation, and change. Topics include strategic planning, gap and SWOT analyses, environmental scanning, logic modeling, workplace and job design, and diversity-promoting management. Lecture, discussion, and exercises. Required for SSW administration concentrators; open to others with permission of instructor.

SOC W 551 Financial Management of Human Services Programs (3) Covers key financial management components of human service programs, including development and use of business plans, budgets, and financial statements. Students demonstrate understanding of financial management through budget preparation, financial statement analysis, new project cost projections, audits, and presentations using computer-based spreadsheets and presentation software.

SOC W 555 Special Topics in Administration (2/3) Examination of current substantive topics in administration and management. Content varies according to recent developments in the field and the interests of the instructor.

SOC W 560 Policy Processes, Institutions, and Influences (3) Focuses on the process and institutions through which social policies are developed, adopted, and implemented, with special attention to the implications of these processes for social justice. Develops practice skills in analyzing and influencing the policy process, including social problem definition, policy design, policy adaptation, and policy implementation.

SOC W 561 Concepts and Methods of Policy Analysis (3) Engages students in the concepts and applied practice of policy analysis and evaluation. Prepares students to address two generic policy questions: Given an identified problem, what policy or program should be selected? Given a particular policy or program, how do we evaluate effectiveness? Particular attention paid to social justice implications.

SOC W 565 Special Topics in Policy Practice (2/3) Examination of current substantive topics in policy practice. Content varies according to recent developments in the field and the interests of the instructor.

SOC W 570 Anti-racist Organizing for Social and Economic Change (3) Applies an institutional analysis of racism and white privilege to the strategies of community organizing by communities of color and indigenous peoples. Examines anti-racist organizational transformation, intersectionality of oppressions and privileges, white allies in anti-racist struggles, and the role of social workers in maintaining and combating institutional racism.

SOC W 571 Assessment of Mental Disorders (3) Provides basic knowledge and skills to assess mental disorders and improve critical thinking concerning assessment and diagnosis. Emphasizes the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders (DSM-IV) for its system of symptom description and classification. Examines challenges of methodological implications of mental health assessment across race, gender, and ethnicity.

SOC W 572 Chemical Dependency — Drug Effects, Assessment, and Treatment Referral Issues (3) Provides students with the knowledge and basic skills to recognize and understand the dynamics of chemical dependency in the lives of individuals, how to assess the presence of this disorder, and what the issues are in referring individuals to treatment for this disorder.

SOC W 573 Child Welfare and Permanency Planning (3) Focuses on social work interventions within the public child welfare system for children who have been abused and neglected. Includes practice models to ensure safety and permanency for children, federal and state mandates for permanency, cultural determinants, juvenile court dependency system, and research findings pertaining to permanency planning outcomes.

SOC W 574 Collaborative Community-Based Program Evaluation (3) Focuses on carrying out a formative and process evaluation of a community program in conjunction with program staff and clients. In addition to learning about program theory, measurement construction, study design, and data analysis, students develop consultative and presentation skills needed in utilization-focused evaluation.

SOC W 575 Domestic Violence Policy and Intervention (3) Examines policy, theory, research, and intervention in field of intimate partner violence with emphasis on historical, cultural, and political contexts. Advanced study of structural contributors, policy parameters, and service delivery and cross-systems necessary to effective practice and leadership in the field locally, nationally, and globally.

SOC W 576 Empowerment Practice with Persons with Disabilities (3) Provides background in theories and models of disability that contribute to empowerment-oriented intervention techniques. Emphasizes direct practice skills for working with people with disabilities and their families. Emphasizes understanding how disability studies and the disability movement influence social work practice.

SOC W 577 Maintaining Quality Social Work Practice: Ethics, Self-care, and Risk Management (2/3) Develops models for managing ethical and legal obligations to clients and others; managing risk; and maintaining ethical, responsible, and self-sustaining practice over a professional career. Examines competing ethical frameworks and material on essential values underlying ethical principles and the basis for ethical and legal regulation of practice.

SOC W 578 Evidence-Based Practice in Child Mental Health (3) Critically examines the program components and empirical research base of selected child mental health treatment program models designed to serve children and youth who present with severe emotional or behavioral disorders. Focuses on treatment models that reflect a "systems care philosophy" and which offer alternatives to traditional services.

SOC W 579 Faith Matters and Mental Health Practice: Conflict vs Integration (3) Examines the complex interrelation between faith matters and the practice of mental health professions, including approaches to definitions and assessments.

SOC W 580 Grant Writing and Fund Development (3) Prepares students to participate and provide leadership in grant writing and fundraising for community-based human services. Opportunity to practice skills required for developing a successful grant proposal and planning a successful fundraising program. Identify, cultivate, and develop sources of funding. Students assist in writing a complete grant proposal as final project.

SOC W 581 Historical Trauma and Healing (3) Provides specialized knowledge and skills for practice with communities experiencing historical trauma. Covers emerging theories of historical trauma, impact of historical trauma on families and communities, and culturally relevant interventions to promote healing. Builds upon the concepts of empowerment practice and indigenous models of social work.

SOC W 582 Interpersonal Violence and Trauma (3) Examines trauma theory, nature of interpersonal violence, psychodynamic concepts, cognitive behavioral theory, treatment of victims and offenders. Topics include psychological trauma, abuse-specific psychotherapy, multidisciplinary and cognitive behavioral interventions with victims and offenders, effects of interpersonal violence, and counter-transference reactions. Format includes lecture, discussion, case presentations, and presentations by community experts.

SOC W 583 Multicultural and Multigenerational Approaches to Healing Grief and Loss (3) Uses critical analysis to expand Western symptom-oriented grief and loss theory to include multicultural approaches, exploring new constructionist models of meaning-making, narrative biography, and cultural tradition through case studies. Assessment and intervention exercises include journaling, art, and ritual, allowing students to explore how their own grief affects practice.

SOC W 584 Multicultural Mental Health Practice (3) Advanced-practice course that builds upon foundation content in HUB, micro- and macro-practice/HBSE sequences, policy, diversity, and research. Grapples with complex mental health service design and delivery issues often informed by ethnocentric paradigms of knowledge and practice that have proven problematic in their general application in our increasingly diverse society.

SOC W 585 Advanced Group Work (3) Overview of group work and major theorist in the field. Examines differential applicability of methods across diverse populations. Emphasis on developing powers of observation of group process (as opposed to content) and on ability to intervene at the group level (as opposed to individual level). Prerequisite: Group work experience.

SOC W 586 Policy Advocacy (1, max. 3) Focuses on involvement in the policy-making process. Students design projects to influence public policy: local level in the fall, state level in the winter, and federal level in the spring. Readings based on policy materials (proposed and final laws, regulations, budgets, advocacy documents). Credit/no credit only.

SOC W 587 Spirituality in Health Care (2)
Carrigan, McCormick Examination of the beliefs, values, meanings, and spirituality of health professionals for the well-being of their patients as well as for themselves. Offered: jointly with FAMED 547/MHE 518; Sp.

SOC W 588 School Social Work (3) Required for School Social Worker certification. Explores theoretical frameworks, current issues in education, individual, group and family practice; organizational context; and systems change. Also covers legal issues, racism and educational outcomes, special education, culturally sensitive practice, advocacy, family involvement, child abuse mandated reporting, collaboration, and ethics.

SOC W 589 Social Work Practice with Families (3) Philosophical, theoretical, and practice issues relevant to family-centered social work. Presents family systems theory and a generalized model of engagement, assessment, and treatment. Clinical applications with particular client populations and their presenting problems, such as couples, family crisis, child behavioral problems, and affective disorders.

SOC W 590 Social Work Supervision and Consultation (3) Provides knowledge and skills involved in the role of social worker as supervisor and team leader; supervision as a leadership function, power and authority, professional boundaries, staff recruitment, selection, performance evaluation, and addressing staff-related performance problems.

SOC W 591 Social Work Practice in Long-Term Care Across the Lifespan (3) Applies a multigenerational framework to introduce values, skills, and knowledge necessary for social work practice in long-term care settings across all age groups. Meets at a nearby continuing care community and provides regular opportunities to interact with persons requiring long-term care, their families, and formal caregivers.

SOC W 592 Social Work Practice with African-American Families (3) Introduces the study of African-American families from a historical, socio-cultural, and political perspective. Presents various theories for understanding African-American families and addresses an Afrocentric framework for intervention.

SOC W 593 Social Work Practice with Chemically Dependent Adults: Cognitive Behavioral Approaches (3) Teaches skills in four contexts: (1) incorporating questions concerning alcohol/drug use in an assessment of new clients, (2) conducting a comprehensive alcohol/drug assessment when a problem has been identified, (3) offering a brief motivational enhancement intervention to ambivalent clients, and (4) delivering cognitive-behavioral counseling focusing on overcoming dependence.

SOC W 594 Women and Poverty(3) Views women's poverty, domestically and internationally, through a gender lens. Topics include measuring women's economic contribution, the feminization of poverty, demographic issues (marriage, single, and teen parenting), employment inequality (occupational segregation, discrimination, harassment), and "charity." Neighborhoods, social security, welfare reforms as causes/cures of women's poverty. Seminar/lecture, student-led discussions, presentations.

SOC W 596 Statistics in Social Work (1-3max. 3) Introductory foundation in descriptive statistics, probability theory, statistical inference, and bivariate statistics commonly used in evaluations of social program and clinical practice. Conceptual emphasis on understanding the logic of measurement and statistical inference. Understanding reinforced by hand calculations involving high school algebra. Fulfills SOC W 505 prerequisite.

SOC W 598 Integrative Seminar (1-5, max. 12) Integrates specialized knowledge in social work settings. Offered: AWSp.

SOC W 599 Readings in Social Work (*) Independent Studies. Credit/no credit only. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Offered: AWSp.

SOC W 600 Independent Study or Research (*)

SOC W 700 Master's Thesis (*)

Applied Mathematics

ADAMS, LOYCE M. * Professor, 1985; MS, 1978, University of Virginia, PhD, 1983, University of Virginia; numerical algorithms for parallel computers

BRETHERTON, CHRISTOPHER S. * Professor, 1984; PhD, 1984, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; convective cloud systems, mesoscale meteorology, climate theory

BUBE, KENNETH P. * Adjunct Professor, 1986; MS, 1976, Stanford University, PhD, 1978, Stanford University; numerical analysis, partial differential equations

BURKE, JAMES V. * Adjunct Professor, 1985; PhD, 1983, University of Illinois; optimization, nonsmooth analysis

CRIMINALE, WILLIAM O * Professor Emeritus, 1968; PhD, 1960, Johns Hopkins University; fluid dynamics, mathematical physics, nonlinear mechanics, stability theory

DE BOOR, CARL R., Affiliate Professor, 2004; Diploma, 1959, University of Hamburg (Germany), PhD, 1966, University of Michigan

DECONINCK, BERNARD * Associate Professor, 1999; MSC, 1995, University of Colorado (Boulder), PhD, 1998, University of Colorado (Boulder); Nonlinear Waves and integrable systems. Applications in water waves and Bose-Einstein condensates

DURRAN, DALE R * Adjunct Professor, 1987; MS, 1975, University of California (Berkeley), PhD, 1981, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; atmospheric dynamics, mesoscale meteorology, numerical modeling

FORD, E DAVID * Adjunct Professor, 1985; PhD, 1968, University College, London (UK); forest ecology and ecophysiology, modeling, spatial statistics, philosophy of science, plant structure and function, analysis of ecological systems

GREENBAUM, ANNE * Adjunct Professor, 1997; MA, 1978, University of California (Berkeley), PhD, 1981, University of California (Berkeley); numerical analysis

GUPTA, MAYA R * Adjunct Assistant Professor, 2003; MSEE, 1999, Stanford University, PhD, 2003, Stanford University; Statistical signal and image processing including color engineering

KEVORKIAN, JIRAIR, Professor Emeritus, 1964; MS, 1956, Georgia Institute of Technology, PhD, 1961, California Institute of Technology

KOT, MARK * Associate Professor, 1989; MS, 1979, Cornell University, MS, 1984, University of Arizona, PhD, 1987, University of Arizona, MS, 1987, University of Arizona; mathematical ecology, nonlinear dynamics, and population biology

KUTZ, JOSE NATHAN * Professor, 1997; PhD, 1994, Northwestern University; Nonlinear waves, dynamical systems, asymptotic and perturbation methods, scientific computing

LEVEQUE, RANDALL J. * Professor, 1985; PhD, 1982, Stanford University; Numerical analysis, hyperbolic conservation laws, computational fluid dynamics, partial differential equations, wave propagation

LEWIS, MARK A, Affiliate Professor, 1988; PhD, 1990, Oxford University (UK)

MIURA, ROBERT M., Affiliate Professor, 1985; MS, 1962, University of California (Berkeley), MA, 1964, Princeton University, PhD, 1966, Princeton University

MOOLGAVKAR, SURESH H. * Adjunct Professor, 1982; MBBS, 1966, University of Bombay, PhD, 1973, Johns Hopkins University; cancer epidemiology, development of quantitative methodology

MURRAY, JAMES D., Professor Emeritus, 1988; PhD, 1956, University of St. Andrews (UK), MA, 1961, Oxford University (UK), DSc, 1968, Oxford University (UK)

NAZARETH, JOHN L., Affiliate Professor, 1991; PhD, 1973, University of California (campus unspecified), MA, 1973, University of California (campus unspecified)

O'MALLEY, ROBERT E. * Professor, 1990; MS, 1961, University of New Hampshire, PhD, 1966, Stanford University; singular perturbations and asymptotic methods

PEARSON, CARL E, Professor Emeritus, 1965; PhD, 1949, Brown University

PEARSON, ERIK W., Affiliate Assistant Professor, 1986; MA, 1978, Harvard University, PhD, 1983, Harvard University

QIAN, HONG * Professor, 1999; PhD, 1989, Washington University; Mathematical, physical chemistry and biology, statistical physics, stochastic mathematics and modeling

RILEY, JAMES J * Adjunct Professor, 1983; PhD, 1971, Johns Hopkins University; fluid mechanics, especially turbulent flows

SHEA-BROWN, ERIC T. * Assistant Professor, 2007; MS, 2001, Princeton University, PhD, 2004, Princeton University; Mathematical Biology Computational Neuroscience

STORTI, DUANE W * Adjunct Associate Professor, 1983; MS, 1981, Cornell University, PhD, 1983, Cornell University; nonlinear dynamics and vibrations, dynamical systems, perturbations and bifurcations

SWANSON, KRISTIN R. * Adjunct Research Asst Professor, 1999; MD, 1998, University of Washington, PhD, 1999, University of Washington; Modeling growth and invasion of gliomas in living patients, particularly brain tumors

SYLVESTER, JOHN * Adjunct Professor, 1987; MS, 1977, New York University, PhD, 1980, New York University; partial differential equations

TUNG, KAKIT * Professor, 1988; MS, 1972, California Institute of Technology, PhD, 1977, Harvard University; atmospheric and geophysical fluid dynamics

WAN, FREDERIC Y, Affiliate Professor, 1983; ScB, 1959, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, MS, 1963, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, PhD, 1965, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

WATKINS, DAVID S, Affiliate Professor, 1993; MS, 1971, University of Toronto (Canada), PhD, 1974, University of Calgary (Canada)

ANDERSON, SCOTT * Professor, 1988; MA, 1980, University of California (Los Angeles), PhD, 1985, University of Washington; quasars and active galaxies, x-ray astronomy

BALICK, BRUCE * Professor, 1975; PhD, 1971, Cornell University; radio astronomy, ionized nebulae, peculiar galaxies

BOHM, KARL-HEINZ, Professor Emeritus, 1967; PhD, 1954, University of Kiel (Germany)

BOHM-VITENSE, ERIKA H, Professor Emeritus, 1967; PhD, 1951, University of Kiel (Germany)

BROWNLEE, DONALD E * Professor, 1971; PhD, 1971, University of Washington; origin of the solar system, comets, interplanetary dust

CONNOLLY, ANDREW J. * Associate Professor, 2006; PhD, 1993, University of London, UK; Formation and evolution of galaxies; astronomical survey

DALCANTON, JULIANNE * Associate Professor, 1998; PhD, 1995, Princeton University; The evolution and formation of galaxies

GOVERNATO, FABIO * Research Assistant Professor, 1996; PhD, 1996, University of Rome (Italy); Cosmic structure formation using N-Body simulations

HAWLEY, SUZANNE * Professor, 1999; MA, 1984, University of Texas (Austin), PhD, 1989, University of Texas (Austin); Variable stars, magnetic activity, flares, galactic structure, dwarf galaxies

HAXTON, WICK C. * Adjunct Professor, 1984; MS, 1973, Stanford University, PhD, 1976, Stanford University; theoretical physics, nuclear physics

HODGE, PAUL W. * Professor Emeritus, 1965; PhD, 1960, Harvard University; M31

HOGAN, CRAIG J. * Professor, 1990; PhD, 1980, Cambridge University (UK); astrophysical cosmology, especially the origin of astronomical structures in the expanding universe

IVEZIC, ZELJKO * Associate Professor, 2004; PhD, 1995, University of Kentucky; Detection, analysis, and interpretation of electromagnetic radiation from extraterrestrial sources

LINNELL, ALBERT P., Affiliate Professor, 2002; PhD, 1950, Harvard University

MEADOWS, VICTORIA S * Associate Professor, 2007; PhD, 1994, University of Sydney (Australia); Astrobiology; Remote-sensing observations of planetary atmospheres and surfaces

QUINN, THOMAS R. * Professor, 1993; PhD, 1986, Princeton University; Solar System dynamics and galaxy formation

ROSENBERG, LESLIE * Adjunct Professor, 2006; MS, 1980, San Francisco State, PhD, 1985, Stanford University; Searches for rare and exotic particles in electron-positron annihilation, studies of very energetic cosmic rays, and searches for particle dark matter

STUBBS, CHRISTOPHER, Affiliate Professor, 1987; MS, 1983, University of Washington, PhD, 1988, University of Washington

SULLIVAN, WOODRUFF T * Professor, 1973; PhD, 1971, University of Maryland; radio astronomy, galactic and extragalactic structure, history of astronomy

SZKODY, PAULA * Professor, 1975; MS, 1972, University of Washington, PhD,

1975, University of Washington; cataclysmic variables, photometry, spectroscopy

WALLERSTEIN, GEORGE, Professor Emeritus, 1965; PhD, 1958, California Institute of Technology

WARD, PETER D. * Adjunct Professor, 1985; MS, 1973, University of Washington, PhD, 1976, McMaster University (Canada); invertebrate paleontology, paleobiology

Atmospheric Sciences

ACKERMAN, THOMAS P. * Professor, 2002; MS, 1971, University of Washington, PhD, 1976, University of Washington; Clouds; radiation; remote sensing; aerosols; global climate change

ALEXANDER, M. JOAN * Affiliate Associate Professor, 1992; MS, 1989, University of Colorado (campus unspecified), PhD, 1992, University of Colorado (campus unspecified); Earth middle atmosphere dynamics, gravity waves, atmospheres of Venus and Mars

ANDERSON, THEODORE L. * Research Associate Professor, 1993; PhD, 1992, University of Washington; Atmospheric aerosols and climate change

BADGLEY, FRANKLIN, Professor Emeritus, 1950; MS, 1948, New York University, PhD, 1951, New York University

BAKER, MARCIA * Professor Emeritus, 1971; MS, 1960, Stanford University, PhD, 1971, University of Washington; cloud physics, atmospheric geophysics

BATES, TIMOTHY S, Affiliate Associate Professor, 1990; MS, 1978, University of Washington, PhD, 1988, University of Washington

BATTISTI, DAVID S * Professor, 1988; MS, 1981, University of Washington, PhD, 1988, University of Washington; large-scale atmosphere-ocean dynamics, climate dynamics, tropical circulation, polar climates, paleoclimate

BITZ, CECILIA * Assistant Professor, 2002; MS, 1990, University of Washington, PhD, 1997, University of Washington; Polar climate, climate change, and sea ice and climate modeling

BOND, NICHOLAS A, Affiliate Associate Professor, 1997; PhD, 1986, University of Washington

BREIDENTHAL, ROBERT E * Adjunct Professor, 1980; MS, 1974, California Institute of Technology, PhD, 1978, California Institute of Technology; turbulence, entrainment, mixing, vorticity

BREHERTON, CHRISTOPHER S. * Professor, 1984; PhD, 1984, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; convective cloud systems, mesoscale meteorology, climate theory

BUSINGER, JOOST A, Professor Emeritus, 1958; PhD, 1954, University of Utrecht (Netherlands)

CATLING, DAVID C. * Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2001; DPhil, 1994, Oxford University (UK); Research in planetary atmospheres, atmospheric evolution, climate, and biogeochemistry

CHARLSON, ROBERT J, Professor Emeritus, 1962; MS, 1959, Stanford University, PhD, 1964, University of Washington

CHEN, SHUYI S * Affiliate Associate Professor, 1991; MS, 1985, University of Oklahoma, PhD, 1990, Pennsylvania State University; Atmospheric dynamics and numerical modeling; atmospheric deep convection; tropical meteorology

COLMAN, BRADLEY R., Affiliate Associate Professor, 1999; DSc, 1984, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

COVERT, DAVID S * Research Professor, 1974; MS, 1971, University of Washington, PhD, 1974, University of Washington; atmospheric chemistry, aerosol physics and instrumentation

CZICZO, DANIEL J. * Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2008; MS, 1997, University of Chicago, PhD, 1999, University of Chicago; Chemical composition of atmospheric aerosols, cloud formation mechanisms and Earth's radiative budget, meteoritic debris in the atmosphere, launch vehicle particulate emissions

DURRAN, DALE R * Professor, 1987; MS, 1975, University of California (Berkeley), PhD, 1981, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; atmospheric dynamics, mesoscale meteorology, numerical modeling

FLEAGLE, ROBERT G, Professor Emeritus, 1948; MS, 1944, New York University, PhD, 1949, New York University

FRIERSON, DARGAN M * Assistant Professor, 2007; PhD, 2005, Princeton University, MS, 2005, Princeton University; Atmospheric general circulation; water vapor; climate change

FU, QIANG * Professor, 2000; MS, 1985, Peking University (China), PhD, 1991, University of Utah; Atmospheric radiation; cloud/aerosol/radiation/climate interactions; remote sensing

GAMMON, RICHARD H * Adjunct Professor, 1977; MA, 1966, Harvard University, PhD, 1970, Harvard University; atmospheric chemistry, chemical oceanography, environmental chemistry; biogeochemical cycles, global climate change, astrobiology

GRENFELL, THOMAS C * Research Professor, 1972; ScB, 1965, Brown University, MS, 1968, University of Chicago, PhD, 1972, University of Washington; radiative transfer, remote sensing, sea-ice optics, microwave theory

HAKIM, GREGORY J * Associate Professor, 1999; MS, 1993, University of Albany, PhD, 1997, University of Albany; Synoptic and mesoscale meteorology; atmospheric dynamics; rotating, stratified turbulence

HARRISON, DON EDMUNDS * Affiliate Professor, 1985; MS, 1973, Harvard University, PhD, 1977, Harvard University; ocean circulation modeling, air-sea interaction, ocean and climate dynamics

HARRISON, HALSTEAD, Associate Professor Emeritus, 1971; PhD, 1960, Stanford University

HARTMANN, DENNIS L * Professor, 1977; MA, 1973, Princeton University, PhD, 1975, Princeton University; climate theory, dynamic meteorology, radiation and remote sensing

HEGG, DEAN A * Research Professor, 1979; MS, 1976, University of Washington, PhD, 1979, University of Washington; atmospheric chemistry, cloud physics

HOUZE, ROBERT A. * Professor, 1972; MS, 1969, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, PhD, 1972, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; mesoscale meteorology

JAEGLE, LYATT * Associate Professor, 2000; MS, 1992, California Institute of Technology, PhD, 1996, California Institute of Technology; Atmospheric chemistry; chemical modeling of atmospheric observations

JAFFE, DANIEL A * Adjunct Professor, 1997; MS, 1983, University of Washington, PhD, 1987, University of Washington; atmospheric chemistry, urban and global air pollution, environmental education

LEOVY, CONWAY B, Professor Emeritus, 1967; PhD, 1963, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

MANTUA, NATHAN * Adjunct Associate Professor, 1995; PhD, 1994, University of Washington; large-scale climate variability/predictability, climate impacts on human activities and ecosystems

MASS, CLIFFORD F * Professor, 1981; PhD, 1978, University of Washington; synoptic and mesoscale meteorology

MC MURDIE, LYNN A * Senior Lecturer, 1997; MS, 1983, University of Washington, PhD, 1989, University of Washington; Synoptic Meteorology and Predictability

MOTE, PHILIP W, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2002; PhD, 1994, University of Washington

OVERLAND, JAMES E * Affiliate Professor, 1983; MS, 1971, University of Washington, PhD, 1973, New York University; arctic, coastal and marine meteorology, sea ice

PATOUX, JEROME * Research Assistant Professor, 2003; MS, 1994, University of Texas (Austin), PhD, 2003, University of Washington; Planetary boundary layer modeling; air-sea interaction; satellite remote sensing; synoptic meteorology

RADKE, LAWRENCE F., Affiliate Professor, 1968; MS, 1967, University of Washington

RHINES, PETER B. * Professor, 1984; MS, 1964, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, ScB, 1964, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, PhD, 1967, Cambridge University (UK); the circulation of the oceans and evolution of climate

ROE, GERARD H * Adjunct Associate Professor, 1999; PhD, 1999, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Climate physics and dynamics, interaction with Earth's surface, Glaciology, Geomorphology

SALATHE, ERIC P. * Affiliate Associate Professor, 2005; PhD, 1994, Yale University; Climate change, regional climate modeling, climate impacts

SARACHIK, EDWARD * Professor Emeritus, 1984; MS, 1963, Brandeis University, PhD, 1966, Brandeis University; large scale ocean/atmosphere interaction, equatorial dynamics, climate change

STOELINGA, MARK T * Research Assistant Professor, 2002; PhD, 1993, University of Washington; Synoptic and mesoscale meteorology

SUESS, BECKY ALEXANDER * Assistant Professor, 2005; PhD, 2002, University of California (San Diego); Paleoclimate; atmospheric chemistry; aerosols; stable isotope geochemistry

THOMPSON, LUANNE * Adjunct Associate Professor, 1990; MA, 1986, Harvard University, PhD, 1990, Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution; numerical modeling of mesoscale and general circulation of the oceans

THORNTON, JOEL A. * Assistant Professor, 2004; PhD, 2002, University of California (Berkeley); Atmospheric Chemistry and Composition, Air Pollution, Atmosphere-Biosphere Interactions

TUNG, KA KIT * Adjunct Professor, 1988; MS, 1972, California Institute of Technology, PhD, 1977, Harvard University; atmospheric and geophysical fluid dynamics

UNTERSTEINER, NORBERT, Professor Emeritus, 1962; PhD, 1950, University of Innsbruck (Austria)

WALDEN, VON P, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 1995; MS, 1990, University of Washington, PhD, 1995, University of Washington

WALLACE, JOHN M * Professor, 1966; PhD, 1966, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; large-scale atmospheric motions; climate; global warming

WARREN, STEPHEN G * Professor, 1981; MA, 1969, Harvard University, PhD, 1973, Harvard University; atmospheric radiation, climatology, glaciology

WOOD, ROBERT * Assistant Professor, 2001; PhD, 1997, University of Manchester (UK); cloud physical processes, microphysics, and structural properties

YUTER, SANDRA ELLYN * Affiliate Associate Professor, 1997; PhD, 1996, University of Washington; Physical meteorology, mesoscale meteorology, radar and remote sensing

BEDALOV, ANTONIO * Adjunct Assistant Professor, 1996; MD, 1989, University of Zagreb (Yugoslavia), DSc, 1998, University of Zagreb (Yugoslavia); Hematology Oncology

BIGGINS, SUSAN * Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2000; PhD, 1995, Princeton University

BORNSTEIN, PAUL, Professor Emeritus, 1966; MD, 1958, New York University

BRADLEY, PHILIP H., Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2001; PhD, 2001, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Neurobiology

FROEHNER, STANLEY C * Professor, 2000; PhD, 1973, California Institute of Technology; Molecular mechanisms of synapse formation and muscle disease

GORDON, SHARONA E. * Associate Professor, 1993; PhD, 1993, Brown University; Molecular Mechanisms of Ion Channel Gating in Visual and Olfactory Transduction

KIM, JEANSOK J * Associate Professor, 2003; MA, 1989, University of California (Los Angeles), PhD, 1991, University of California (Los Angeles); Neurobiology of learning & memory, emotion, and stress

MOODY, WILLIAM J * Professor, 1982; PhD, 1977, Stanford University; single cell electrophysiology, development of electrical properties in embryos

PERKEL, DAVID J * Professor, 2000; PhD, 1992, University of California (San Francisco); Neural mechanisms of learning; focus on vocal learning in songbirds

ROBINSON, FARREL R. * Associate Professor, 1986; PhD, 1982, Brown University; Study of the cerebellum via monkey eye movements

Philosophy

BLAKE, MICHAEL I. * Associate Professor, 2005; PhD, 1998, Stanford University; International ethics, multiculturalism, and immigration

BOLER, JOHN F, Professor Emeritus, 1960; MA, 1952, St. Louis University, PhD, 1960, Harvard University

BONJOUR, LAURENCE A * Professor, 1977; PhD, 1969, Princeton University; epistemology, contemporary philosophy

CLATTERBAUGH, KENNETH C. * Professor, 1966; PhD, 1966, Indiana University; philosophy of science, ancient philosophy, continental rationalism

COBURN, ROBERT, Professor Emeritus, 1970; PhD, 1958, Harvard University, MA, 1958, Harvard University

COHEN, S MARC * Professor, 1973; PhD, 1967, Cornell University; ancient philosophy, metaphysics, philosophy of language, philosophy of mind

DIETRICHSON, PAUL, Professor, 1955; PhD, 1955, Yale University, PhD, 1955, Yale University

FINE, ARTHUR I * Professor, 2001; MS, 1960, Illinois Institute of Technology, PhD, 1963, University of Chicago; philosophy of science and mathematics, Einstein, philosophy of quantum theory

GARDINER, STEPHEN M. * Associate Professor, 2004; MA, 1993, University of Colorado (Boulder), PhD, 1999, Cornell University; Ethics, Political Philosophy, Environmental Ethics and Ancient Philosophy

GOERING, SARA L. * Assistant Professor, 2003; MA, 1994, University of Colorado (Denver), PhD, 1998, University of Colorado (Denver); Bioethics, primarily issues in genetics and disability theory; feminist philosophy

HANKINSON NELSON, LYNN * Professor, 2002; PhD, 1987, Temple University; Philosophy of Science, Feminist Philosophy of Science, History and Philosophy of Biology, Quine

JECKER, NANCY A.S. * Adjunct Professor, 1986; MA, 1982, Stanford University, MA, 1984, University of Washington, PhD, 1986, University of Washington; philosophical and ethical aspects of health care delivery and policy

KELLEY, MAUREEN C, Adjunct Assistant Professor, 2007; MA, 1993, Bowling Green State University, PhD, 2001, Rice University

KEYT, CHRISTINE M, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 1977; MA, 1970, University of Wisconsin, MA, 1978, University of Washington, PhD, 1980, University of Washington

KEYT, DAVID * Professor, 1957; MA, 1953, Cornell University, PhD, 1955, Cornell University; ancient and contemporary philosophy

LANGE, MARC B. * Affiliate Professor, 1997; PhD, 1990, University of Pittsburgh; history of science, philosophy of the history of science, science, and ethics

LIGHT, ANDREW * Associate Professor, 2004; MA, 1992, University of California (Riverside), PhD, 1996, University of California (Riverside); Environmental Ethics & Policy, relating to restoration ecology and urban ecology; Philosophy of Technology, relating to ethical issues in emerging technologies; Philosophical issues in Architecture and Urban Planning

LONE, JANA MOHR, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 1996; JD, 1985, George Washington University, MA, 1990, University of Washington, PhD, 1996, University of Washington

LUCIAN, MIRIAM L, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 1972; PhD, 1970, Harvard University, MS, 1970, Harvard University

MARKS, CHARLES * Professor Emeritus, 1966; PhD, 1972, Cornell University; contemporary philosophy, British empiricism and continental rationalism

MISHALANI, JAMES K, Associate Professor Emeritus, 1963; MA, 1958, Brown University, PhD, 1961, Brown University

MOORE, ADAM DANIEL * Assistant

Professor, 2003; MA, 1993, Ohio State University, PhD, 1997, Ohio State University; Philosophy of Law, Applied Ethics, Information Policy, Political Theory, Privacy

MOORE, RONALD M * Professor, 1977; PhD, 1971, Columbia University; philosophy of law, aesthetics

POTTER, KARL H, Professor Emeritus, 1970; MA, 1952, Harvard University, PhD, 1955, Harvard University

RICHMAN, ROBERT J, Professor Emeritus, 1961; MA, 1950, Harvard University, PhD, 1953, Harvard University

Aeronautics and Astronautics

BOLLARD, R JOHN, Professor Emeritus, 1961; ME, 1949, Canterbury College, PhD, 1954, Purdue University

BREIDENTHAL, ROBERT E * Professor, 1980; MS, 1974, California Institute of Technology, PhD, 1978, California Institute of Technology; turbulence, entrainment, mixing, vorticity

BRUCKNER, ADAM * Professor, 1972; MA, 1968, Princeton University, PhD, 1972, Princeton University; space systems, space propulsion and power, planetary exploration, gas dynamics, heat transfer, energy conversion, astrobiology

CAMPBELL, MARK E., Affiliate Associate Professor, 1995; MS, 1993, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, PhD, 1996, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

CHAPPELLE, DOUGLAS E., Affiliate Associate Professor, 2001; MS, 1993, University of Washington

CHRISTIANSEN, WALTER H, Professor Emeritus, 1967; PhD, 1961, California Institute of Technology

DABIRI, DANA * Assistant Professor, 2002; MS, 1987, University of California (Berkeley), PhD, 1992, University of California (San Diego); The study of fundamental fluid flows through new and advanced quantitative flow imaging techniques

DECHER, REINER, Professor Emeritus, 1967; SM, 1962, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, PhD, 1968, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

DEN HARTOG, DANIEL J., Affiliate Professor, 2005; MS, 1985, University of Wisconsin, PhD, 1989, University of Wisconsin

DEVASIA, SANTOSH * Adjunct Professor, 2000; MS, 1990, University of California (Santa Barbara), PhD, 1993, University of California (Santa Barbara); Control theory and applications: nanotechnology, distributed systems, and biomedical systems

FERABOLI, PAOLO * Assistant Professor, 2005; MS, 2002, University of Bologna (Italy), PhD, 2005, University of California (Santa Barbara); Materials structures

FURNESS, THOMAS A. * Adjunct Professor, 1989; PhD, 1981, University of Southampton (UK); display systems engineering, human factors, computer graphics, virtual reality, human computer interface design

FYFE, IAN M, Professor Emeritus, 1959; MME, 1954, University of Delaware, PhD, 1957, Stanford University

HERMANSON, JAMES C. * Associate Professor, 1986; MS, 1980, California Institute of Technology, PhD, 1985, California Institute of Technology; Combustion, gas dynamics, fluid mechanics, microgravity science, and heat transfer

HERTZBERG, ABRAHAM, Professor Emeritus, 1993; MAeE, 1949, Cornell University

HOFFMAN, ALAN LOWELL * Professor, 1989; PhD, 1967, California Institute of Technology; plasma physics and magnetic confinement fusion

HOLSAPPLE, KEITH A * Professor, 1965; MS, 1964, University of Washington, PhD, 1965, University of Washington; solid mechanics, continuum mechanics, structure waves, finite element methods

HOUSEN, KEVIN R., Affiliate Professor, 2003; MS, 1979, University of Arizona, PhD, 1981, University of Arizona

JARBOE, THOMAS R. * Professor, 1989; PhD, 1974, University of California (Berkeley); plasma physics and controlled fusion, magnetic reconnection and relaxation

KUROSAKA, MITSURU * Professor, 1987; MS, 1961, University of Tokyo (Japan), PhD, 1968, California Institute of Technology; propulsion, turbo machinery, thermo-fluid mechanics, heat transfer and acoustics

LIN, KUEN-YUAN * Professor, 1984; MSC, 1963, National Taiwan University, MA, 1967, Princeton University, PhD, 1970, Princeton University; composite materials, structural mechanics, finite element methods

LIVNE, ELI * Professor, 1990; MSC, 1982, Israel Institute of Technology, PhD, 1990, University of California (Los Angeles); aeroelasticity, aeroservoelasticity, optimization, structural dynamics

LY, UY-LOI * Associate Professor, 1988; MS, 1976, California Institute of Technology, PhD, 1983, Stanford University; robust controls, parameter optimization, model reduction, digital control, design integration

MATTICK, ARTHUR T. * Associate Professor, 1975; MS, 1971, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, PhD, 1975, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; gas physics, gas lasers, energy conversion

MC MASTERS, JOHN H, Affiliate Professor, 1989; MS, 1962, University of Colorado (campus unspecified), PhD, 1975, Purdue University

MCGEER, BRIAN T., Affiliate Assistant Professor, 1997; MS, 1980, Stanford University, PhD, 1984, Stanford University

ALLAN, G GRAHAM * Professor, 1966; PhD, 1956, University of Glasgow (UK), DSc, 1971, University of Strathclyde (UK); creativity and innovation

BABB, ALBERT L, Professor Emeritus, 1952; MS, 1949, University of Illinois, PhD, 1951, University of Illinois

BANEYX, FRANCOIS * Professor, 1992; PhD, 1991, University of Texas (Austin); biotechnology, protein technology, biochemical engineering

BERG, JOHN C. * Professor, 1964; PhD, 1964, University of California (Berkeley); interfacial phenomena, surface and colloid science

BOWEN, J RAY, Professor Emeritus, 1981; MS, 1957, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, PhD, 1963, University of California (Berkeley)

BRYERS, JAMES D * Adjunct Professor, 2004; MSC, 1976, University of Idaho, PhD, 1980, Rice University; Quantifying

the Processes Governing Bacterial Adhesion and Biofilm Formation

CAMPBELL, CHARLES T. * Adjunct Professor, 1992; PhD, 1979, University of Texas (Austin); physical chemistry of solid surfaces, chemisorption, catalysis, and surface analysis

CAO, GUOZHONG * Adjunct Associate Professor, 1996; MS, 1985, Shanghai Institute of Ceramics, China, MS, 1985, Shanghai Institute of Ceramics, China, PhD, 1991, Eindhoven University of Technology(Neth); Processing, characterization, and applications of ferroelectrics, piezoelectrics, organic/inorganic hybrids, and nanostructured materials

CASTNER, DAVID G. * Professor, 1990; PhD, 1979, University of California (Berkeley); surface analysis characterization of biomedical and catalytic materials

DAVID, MORTON, Professor Emeritus, 1953; DEng, 1950, Yale University

DAVIS, E JAMES * Professor Emeritus, 1983; PhD, 1960, University of Washington; transport in porous media, microparticle physics and chemistry, surface and colloid science

FINLAYSON, BRUCE A, Professor Emeritus, 1967; MS, 1963, Rice University, PhD, 1965, University of Minnesota

GAO, YE, Acting Instructor, 2007; MS, 1995, Dalian University of Technology (China), PhD, 2000, Dalian University of Technology (China)

GARLID, KERMIT L, Professor Emeritus, 1960; PhD, 1961, University of Minnesota

GUSTAFSON, RICHARD ROY * Adjunct Professor, 1986; PhD, 1982, University of Washington; process modeling and optimization, fiber composites

HAYES, BRIAN * Affiliate Assistant Professor, 1997; PhD, 1997, University of Washington; Research focuses on polymers and fiber-reinforced composites in aerospace and sporting goods industries

HEIDEGER, WILLIAM J, Professor Emeritus, 1957; MSE, 1955, Princeton University, PhD, 1959, Princeton University

HODGSON, KEVIN T * Professor, 1991; MS, 1980, Carnegie Mellon University, PhD, 1986, University of Washington; surface and colloid science, papermaking chemistry, secondary fiber recycling

HOLT, BRADLEY R * Associate Professor, 1984; PhD, 1984, University of Wisconsin; process control, process design

HOMOLA, JIRI * Affiliate Associate Professor, 1997; MS, 1988, Technical University of Prague (Czech), PhD, 1993, Academy of Science (Ussr); Guided-wave optics, photonic devices, optical chemical sensors and biosensors

HORBETT, THOMAS A * Professor, 1970; PhD, 1970, University of Washington; interfacial proteins, cell interactions, foreign body reaction, nonfouling surfaces

JARVI, THOMAS D., Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2001; PhD, 1998, University of Washington

JENEKHE, SAMSON A. * Professor, 2000; MS, 1980, University of Minnesota, MA, 1981, University of Minnesota, PhD, 1985, University of Minnesota; Polymer science; electronic and optoelectronic polymers; block copolymers; macromolecular self-assembly

JIANG, SHAOYI * Professor, 1999; MS, 1988, Nanjing University of Technology (China), PhD, 1993, Cornell University; Interfacial phenomena, surface science, molecular simulation, and scanning probe microscopy

JOHANSON, LENNART N, Professor Emeritus, 1951; MS, 1943, University of Wisconsin, PhD, 1948, University of Wisconsin

KOCH, MELVIN V., Affiliate Professor, 1997; MS, 1964, University of Iowa, PhD, 1967, University of Iowa

KRIEGER-BROCKETT, BARBARA * Associate Professor Emeritus, 1975; MS, 1972, Wayne State University, PhD, 1975, Wayne State University; reaction engineering, chemical kinetics and catalysis simulation

ARABSHAHI, PAYMAN * Affiliate Associate Professor, 1996; MS, 1990, University of Washington, PhD, 1994, University of Washington; His specialization is in wireless communications and networking, sensor networks, signal processing, data mining and search, and biologically inspired systems

ATAL, BISHNU, Affiliate Professor, 2002; PhD, 1968, Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn

ATLAS, LES EUGENE * Professor, 1983; MS, 1978, Stanford University, PhD, 1984, Stanford University; time-frequency representations, digital signal processing applied to speech, audio, manufacturing

- BASKARAN, RAJASHREE * Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2006; MS, 2000, Cornell University, PhD, 2003, University of California (Santa Barbara); She does template based massively parallel assembly of microelectronic chips. She works in the area of advanced interconnects and novel packaging technologies for microprocessors
- BERG, MARTIN C. * Adjunct Associate Professor, 1986; MSME, 1978, University of Washington, PhD, 1986, Stanford University; digital control system design, control of structurally flexible electromechanical systems
- BERNARD, GARY D * Affiliate Professor, 1960; MSEE, 1960, University of Washington, PhD, 1965, University of Washington; advanced sensors for manufacturing, time-frequency classification, visual information processing
- BILMES, JEFFREY A. * Associate Professor, 1999; MS, 1993, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, PhD, 1999, University of California (Berkeley); Speech & pattern recognition, learning, audio processing, high-performance computing, human-computer interfaces
- BJORKSTAM, JOHN L, Professor Emeritus, 1955; MS, 1952, University of Washington, PhD, 1958, University of Washington
- BOHRINGER, KARL F. * Professor, 1998; MS, 1992, Cornell University, PhD, 1997, Cornell University; microelectromechanical systems (MEMS), applied microtechnology, micro spacecraft, distributed/ubiquitous microsystems
- BOLOTSKI, JOSEPHINE AMMER * Assistant Professor, 2006; MEng, 1999, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, PhD, 2004, University of California (Berkeley)
- BORRIELLO, GAETANO * Adjunct Professor, 1987; MS, 1980, Stanford University, PhD, 1988, Stanford University; Ubiquitous computing: devices, middleware, user interfaces
- BUSHNELL, LINDA * Research Assistant Professor, 2000; MSEE, 1987, University of Connecticut, MA, 1989, University of California (Berkeley), PhD, 1994, University of California (Berkeley); Networked control systems, nonlinear control theory
- CHAKRABORTY, SWAGATO * Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2006; PhD, 2005, University of Washington, MS, 2005, University of Washington; he advises group members on computational electromagnetic techniques. He has worked closely with both and interacts directly with them on quadrature schemes, integral equation formulations, and variability modeling
- CHEN, ANTAO * Affiliate Associate Professor, 2004; MS, 1989, Beijing Institute of Tech (China), MS, 1994, University of Southern California; Dr. Chen's expertise is in photonics-the science and technology of the application of light, which incorporates optics, laser technology, electrical engineering, materials science, and information storage and processing
- CHEN, ANTAO * Affiliate Associate Professor, 2004; PhD, 1998, University of Southern California; Dr. Chen's expertise is in photonics-the science and technology of the application of light, which incorporates optics, laser technology, electrical engineering, materials science, and information storage and processing
- CHEN, QINGLUN, Affiliate Associate Professor, 1999; MS, 1981, Chongqing University, China, PhD, 1990, University of Houston
- CHIZECK, HOWARD JAY * Professor, 1998; MS, 1976, Case Western Reserve University, DSc, 1982, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Biologically inspired control systems for autonomous robotics, prosthetics, and rehabilitation
- CHOU, PHILIP A., Affiliate Associate Professor, 1998; MS, 1983, University of California (Berkeley), PhD, 1998, Stanford University
- CHRISTIE, RICHARD DUNSTAN * Associate Professor, 1989; MSEE, 1974, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, PhD, 1989, Carnegie Mellon University; power systems analysis, expert systems applications, user interfaces
- CRUM, LAWRENCE A. * Research Professor, 1992; MS, 1965, Ohio University, PhD, 1967, Ohio University; physical acoustics, underwater acoustics, medical ultrasound, acoustic cavitation, sonoluminescence, lithotripsy
- CWIK, THOMAS A., Affiliate Associate Professor, 1997; MSEE, 1981, University of Illinois, PhD, 1986, University of Illinois
- DAILEY, DANIEL J * Research Professor, 1988; MS, 1982, University of Washington, PhD, 1988, University of Washington; time series modeling of physical phenomena, optimization, distributed computing, networking
- DALTON, LARRY R. * Adjunct Professor, 1998; MS, 1966, Michigan State University, MA, 1971, Harvard University, PhD, 1971, Harvard University; Materials chemistry focused on producing next generation opto-electronic materials
- DANIELS, PATRICIA D., Affiliate Professor, 1973; PhD, 1973, University of California (Berkeley)
- DARLING, ROBERT B * Professor, 1985; MS, 1982, Georgia Institute of Technology, PhD, 1985, Georgia Institute of Technology; semiconductor devices, solid state, optoelectronics, microelectronics
- DENG, LI, Affiliate Professor, 2000; MSC, 1984, University of Wisconsin, PhD, 1986, University of Wisconsin
- DESOUZA, KEVIN C * Adjunct Assistant Professor, 2005; MBA, 2001, Illinois Institute of Technology, PhD, 2006, University of Illinois; Research interests are in the areas of knowledge management, government intelligence programs, national security issues, and crisis management
- DING, KUNG-HAU, Affiliate Professor, 2006; MS, 1983, University of Washington, MS, 1985, University of Washington, PhD, 1989, University of Washington
- DIORIO, CHRISTOPHER J * Adjunct Associate Professor, 1997; MSEE, 1984, California Institute of Technology, PhD, 1997, California Institute of Technology; designing silicon learning circuits modeled after neurobiology
- DOW, DANIEL G, Professor Emeritus, 1968; MS, 1953, University of Michigan, PhD, 1958, Stanford University
- DUNHAM, SCOTT T. * Professor, 1999; MSEE, 1980, Stanford University, PhD, 1985, Stanford University; Modeling and simulation of microfabrication processes and device behavior
- EBELING, WILLIAM H.C. * Adjunct Professor, 1986; MS, 1976, Southern Illinois University, PhD, 1986, Carnegie Mellon University; computer-aided design, VLSI architectures
- EHRENBERG, JOHN E * Affiliate Professor, 1972; MSEE, 1968, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, PhD, 1973, University of Washington; his primary areas of expertise are communication systems, signal process and underwater acoustics
- EL-SHARKAWI, MOHAMED A. * Professor, 1980; MS, 1977, University of British Columbia (Canada), PhD, 1980, University of British Columbia (Canada); analysis and control of power electronics, systems, and electric drives; artificial neural networks
- FALK, ROBERT AARON, Affiliate Associate Professor, 1995; MS, 1974, University of Washington, PhD, 1979, University of Washington
- FAZEL SARJOU, MARYAM * Assistant Professor, 2007; MS, 1997, Stanford

University, PhD, 2002, Stanford University; The general area of my research is optimization, systems and control; in particular convex optimization and relaxation methods with a focus on applications in parsimonious modeling, engineering design, and systems biology

FOX, DIETER * Adjunct Associate Professor, 2000; MSC, 1993, University of Bonn (Germany), PhD, 1998, University of Bonn (Germany); Main research: Artificial intelligence and mobile robotics More specifically: uncertainty, probabilistic state estimation

FURNESS, THOMAS A. * Adjunct Professor, 1989; PhD, 1981, University of Southampton (UK); display systems engineering, human factors, computer graphics, virtual reality, human computer interface design

GIRI, JAY * Affiliate Associate Professor, 1990; MS, 1971, State University of New York (Stony Brook), PhD, 1977, Clark University; power system analysis, software development and user interfaces for real-time power system control

GOLDSCHNEIDER, JILL, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 1998; MSC, 1991, University of Washington, PhD, 1997, University of Washington

GRAY, ANDREW A., Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2001; MS, 1997, Johns Hopkins University, PhD, 2000, University of Southern California

GUILFORD, EDWARD C, Professor Emeritus, 1959; MA, 1950, University of Utah, PhD, 1959, University of California (Berkeley)

GUPTA, MAYA R * Assistant Professor, 2003; MSEE, 1999, Stanford University, PhD, 2003, Stanford University; Statistical signal and image processing including color engineering

HANNAFORD, BLAKE * Professor, 1989; MS, 1982, University of California (Berkeley), PhD, 1985, University of California (Berkeley); haptic interfaces, robotics, biomechanics, bioengineering, controls, human-machine interaction

HARALICK, ROBERT M, Professor Emeritus, 1986; MSEE, 1967, University of Kansas, PhD, 1969, University of Kansas

HASSAN, AMER * Affiliate Professor, 2001; MSEE, 1984, University of Kansas, PhD, 1988, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor

HAUCK, SCOTT * Associate Professor, 1999; MS, 1992, University of Washington, PhD, 1995, University of Washington;

FPGAs, Reconfigurable Computing, VLSI/ CAD, Digital Logic, Adaptive Computing

HELMS, WARD J * Associate Professor Emeritus, 1968; MS, 1963, University of Washington, PhD, 1968, University of Washington; VLSI analog and digital circuit design, integrated circuits, acoustics and audio, silicon compilers

HENDERSON, THOMAS R, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2003; PhD, 1999, University of California (Berkeley)

HOWE, BRUCE M. * Adjunct Research Assoc Professor, 1988; MS, 1978, Stanford University, PhD, 1986, University of California (San Diego); Ocean acoustic tomography, climate, and observatories

HUANG, XUECONG D. * Affiliate Professor, 1997; MS, 1984, Tsinghua University (China), PhD, 1989, University of Edinburgh (UK); Speech recognition and synthesis, user interfaces, artificial intelligence, computational linguistics

HWANG, JENQ-NENG * Professor, 1989; MSEE, 1983, National Taiwan University, PhD, 1988, University of Southern California; parallel architectures, signal and image processing, neural networks

ISHIMARU, AKIRA, Professor Emeritus, 1954; PhD, 1958, University of Washington

JANDHYALA, VIKRAM * Associate Professor, 2000; MSEE, 1995, University of Illinois (Urbana), PhD, 1998, University of Illinois (Urbana); Computational and Applied Electromagnetics, High-Speed Circuit Applications of Field Solvers

JARUWATANADILOK, SERMSAK * Research Assistant Professor, 2003; MSEE, 1997, Texas A&M University, PhD, 2003, University of Washington; electromagnetic remote sensing, wave propagation and imaging in random media, and communication in cluttered or unknown environments

JOHNSON, DAVID L, Professor Emeritus, 1955; PhD, 1955, Purdue University

KIM, JAE H. * Affiliate Associate Professor, 2000; MSC, 1978, Seoul National University (Korea), PhD, 1987, University of Florida; tactical mobile networking and wireless communications, specifically communications on-the-move (COTM), mobile routing, network mobility management, TCP enhancement over satellite, recently more on cross-layer protocol design for MANET and sensor networks

KIM, YONGMIN * Professor, 1982; MS, 1979, University of Wisconsin (Madison), PhD, 1982, University of Wisconsin (Madison); computer architecture, imaging systems, medical imaging, computer graphics, multimedia, home healthcare, modeling and medical instrumentation

KINAHAN, PAUL E. * Adjunct Professor, 2001; MS, 1988, University of British Columbia (Canada), PhD, 1994, University of Pennsylvania; Medical imaging

KIRCHHOFF, KATRIN * Research Associate Professor, 1999; MA, 1996, Universität Bielefeld (Germany), PhD, 1999, Universität Bielefeld (Germany); Research area: automatic speech and language processing, human-computer interfaces, machine learning

KLAVINS, ERIC * Assistant Professor, 2003; PhD, 1998, University of Michigan, MS, 1998, University of Michigan; Robotics, control theory, reactive systems and distributed algorithms

KLUTE, GLENN K. * Affiliate Associate Professor, 1999; MS, 1990, Pennsylvania State University, PhD, 1999, University of Washington; Biomechanics, artificial limbs, and biomimetic control systems

KOHN, WOLF * Affiliate Professor, 2002; MSEE, 1976, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, PhD, 1978, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Enterprise Control and Operations Research

KUGA, YASUO * Professor, 1983; MS, 1979, University of Washington, PhD, 1983, University of Washington; microwave and millimeter-wave remote sensing, optics, and electromagnetics

LADNER, RICHARD E * Adjunct Professor, 1971; PhD, 1971, University of California (Berkeley); Theory of computation, design and analysis of algorithms, data compression, computer networks, computational complexity

LAURITZEN, PETER O, Professor Emeritus, 1965; MS, 1958, Stanford University, PhD, 1961, Stanford University

LEWELLEN, THOMAS * Adjunct Professor, 1972; PhD, 1972, University of Washington; My areas of specialization are centered on technologies for imaging of gamma rays for medical applications. The work includes: 1) investigation of basic gamma ray interactions in scintillators and solid state detectors; 2) design and fabrication of el

LI, MINGYAN, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2006; MD, 1999, University of Adelaide (Australia), PhD, 2006, University of Washington

LI, XINGDE * Adjunct Associate Professor, 2001; PhD, 1998, University of Pennsylvania

- nia; Biomedical optical imaging, spectroscopy and biophotonics
- LIN, CHING-YUNG * Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2004; MS, 1993, National Taiwan University, MS, 1993, National Taiwan University, PhD, 2000, Columbia University; focused on multimodality signal analysis and complex network analysis, with applications on machine learning, distributed computing, embedded vision system, social computing and security

Forest Resources

- ACKER, STEVEN, Affiliate Associate Professor, 2004; PhD, 1988, University of Wisconsin
- AGEE, JAMES K * Professor Emeritus, 1978; MS, 1968, University of California (Berkeley), PhD, 1973, University of California (Berkeley); management of natural systems, forest ecology, fire ecology
- ALLAN, G GRAHAM * Professor, 1966; PhD, 1956, University of Glasgow (UK), DSc, 1971, University of Strathclyde (UK); creativity and innovation
- AMMIRATI, JOSEPH F * Adjunct Professor, 1979; MA, 1967, San Francisco State, PhD, 1972, University of Michigan; mycology, taxonomy and ecology of fungi
- ANTONELLI, ARTHUR LOUIS, Affiliate Professor, 1998; MS, 1969, Central Washington University, PhD, 1974, University of Idaho
- ANTOS, JOSEPH * Affiliate Associate Professor, 1992; MA, 1977, University of Montana, PhD, 1984, Oregon State University; Terrestrial plant ecology, especially of forest understory plants
- AUBRY, KEITH B * Affiliate Professor, 1983; MF, 1977, Yale University, PhD, 1983, University of Washington; Ecology, management, and conservation of terrestrial vertebrates
- BAKKER, JONATHAN * Assistant Professor, 2006; MSC, 1996, University of Regina (Saskatchewan), PhD, 2005, Northern Arizona University; Ecological restoration; Sustainable ecosystem management
- BARBOUR, JAMIE, Affiliate Associate Professor, 1996; MS, 1983, University of Washington, PhD, 1990, University of Washington
- BARE, B BRUCE * Professor, 1969; MS, 1965, University of Minnesota, PhD, 1969, Purdue University; harvest scheduling, biometry, forest land management, taxation, finance, management science, forest valuation, forest policy
- BIGLEY, RICHARD E., Affiliate Assistant Professor, 1994; MSC, 1981, University of British Columbia (Canada), PhD, 1988, University of British Columbia (Canada)
- BILBY, ROBERT E * Affiliate Professor, 1994; PhD, 1979, Cornell University; The ecology of stream ecosystems and their response to land use impacts
- BISSON, PETER A, Affiliate Professor, 1988; MS, 1969, Oregon State University, PhD, 1975, Oregon State University
- BOLTON, SUSAN M * Professor, 1992; MS, 1979, University of North Dakota, MS, 1985, New Mexico State University, PhD, 1991, New Mexico State University; hydrology, watershed management, stream restoration, ecological engineering
- BRADLEY, GORDON A * Professor, 1972; MLA, 1972, University of California (Berkeley), PhD, 1986, University of Michigan; Forest land use planning, Conservation area planning and design
- BRIGGS, DAVID G * Professor, 1980; MF, 1968, Yale University, PhD, 1980, University of Washington; operations research in forest products industries
- BROWN, SALLY L. * Research Associate Professor, 1998; MS, 1993, University of Maryland, PhD, 1996, University of Maryland; Soils scientist working on restoration of metal contaminated sites, land application of residuals and bioavailability of contaminants in soils
- BRUBAKER, LINDA B * Professor Emeritus, 1973; MS, 1967, University of Michigan, PhD, 1973, University of Michigan; dendrochronology, forest ecology, quaternary paleocology
- BRYANT, BENJAMIN S, Professor Emeritus, 1949; DF, 1951, Yale University
- BURA, RENATA * Assistant Professor, 2006; MSC, 2000, University of Toronto (Canada), PhD, 2004, University of British Columbia (Canada); Bioconversion of lignocellulosic biomass; Biomaterials from lignin and plant components
- CAMPBELL, ROGER, Affiliate Professor, 1996; PhD, 1973, University of Hawaii
- CAREY, ANDREW, Affiliate Professor, 1984; MS, 1974, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, PhD, 1978, Colorado State University
- CHALKER-SCOTT, LINDA * Affiliate Associate Professor, 1997; MS, 1981, Oregon State University, PhD, 1988, Oregon State University; Environmental stress physiology of woody plants
- CHRISMAN, RAY WALDO, Affiliate Professor, 2007; PhD, 1976, Purdue University
- COHEN, MICHAEL F., Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2004; PhD, 1996, University of California (Davis)
- COLE, DALE W, Professor Emeritus, 1960; MS, 1957, University of Wisconsin (Madison), PhD, 1963, University of Washington

- EASTIN, IVAN * Professor, 1992; MSC, 1985, Michigan Technological University, MSC, 1989, University of Washington, PhD, 1992, University of Washington; marketing strategies and international trade of forest products
- EDMONDS, ROBERT L * Professor, 1973; MSF, 1968, University of Washington, PhD, 1971, University of Washington; forest soil microbiology, biology of forest diseases, aerobiology
- ETTL, GREGORY J * Associate Professor, 2006; MAT, 1989, University of Washington, PhD, 1995, University of Washington; Sustainable forestry; Forest ecology; Silviculture
- EWING, KERN * Professor, 1990; MA, 1970, Texas Technological University, MS, 1978, University of Washington, PhD, 1982, University of Washington; wetland plant ecology, restoration ecology, ecosystem management
- FARNUM, PETER, Affiliate Professor, 2003; PhD, 1977, University of Washington
- FIMBEL, ROBERT ALAN, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2005; MSC, 1981, Colorado

State University, PhD, 1992, Rutgers University

FORD, E DAVID * Professor, 1985; PhD, 1968, University College, London (UK); forest ecology and ecophysiology, modeling, spatial statistics, philosophy of science, plant structure and function, analysis of ecological systems

FRANKLIN, JERRY F. * Professor, 1986; MS, 1961, Oregon State University, PhD, 1966, Washington State University; forest ecosystem analysis, vegetation patterns, tree mortality in natural landscapes

FRIDLEY, JAMES * Professor, 1988; MS, 1980, Michigan State University, PhD, 1984, University of Washington; forest engineering systems design, interactive computer simulation

FRITSCHEN, LEO J, Professor Emeritus, 1966; MS, 1958, Kansas State University, PhD, 1960, Iowa State University

FULLER, WILLIAM S, Affiliate Associate Professor, 1982; MS, 1967, University of Washington

GALLUCCI, VINCENT * Adjunct Professor, 1972; MS, 1966, State University of New York (Buffalo), PhD, 1971, North Carolina State University; biomathematics and population dynamics

GAOLACH, BRADLEY W., Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2003; MS, 1995, North Carolina State University, PhD, 2001, University of Washington

GARA, ROBERT I * Professor Emeritus, 1968; MS, 1962, Oregon State University, PhD, 1964, Oregon State University; bark beetle, forest insect ecology, forest insect behavior, international forestry

GAYALDO, PERRY R, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2002; MS, 1996, University of Washington, PhD, 2002, University of Washington

GLAWE, DEAN * Affiliate Professor, 2003; MS, 1978, Washington State University, PhD, 1982, Washington State University; Forest pathology; Plant Pathology; Mycology; biology and taxonomy of Erysiphales, Pyrenomyces, and Deuteromycetes; and taxonomic databases

GOLD, WARREN G. * Adjunct Associate Professor, 1991; MS, 1983, Utah State University, PhD, 1988, Utah State University; Ecology, restoration, and recreational impacts in arctic and alpine ecosystems

GREULICH, FRANCIS E * Professor, 1977; MS, 1967, University of California (Berkeley), PhD, 1976, University of California (Berkeley); forest engineering, statistics, operations research

GRUE, CHRISTIAN E * Adjunct Associate Professor, 1989; PhD, 1977, Texas A&M University, MS, 1977, Northern Arizona University; wildlife toxicology, wildlife and fisheries science

GUSTAFSON, RICHARD ROY * Professor, 1986; PhD, 1982, University of Washington; process modeling and optimization, fiber composites

HALPERN, CHARLES * Research Professor, 1991; PhD, 1987, Oregon State University; plant community ecology, plant succession, effects of forest management on understory composition/structure, montane/subalpine meadow ecology

HANLEY, DONALD P * Professor, 1983; MSF, 1973, University of Montana, PhD, 1981, University of Idaho; extension forestry, small-forest management, forestry continuing education

HARRINGTON, CONSTANCE A., Affiliate Associate Professor, 2000; MS, 1975, State University of New York (Syracuse), PhD, 1985, University of Washington

HARRISON, ROBERT B. * Professor, 1987; MS, 1981, University of New Hampshire, PhD, 1985, Auburn University; forest soil chemistry and fertility, mineral cycling, carbon sequestration, long-term forest productivity, organic waste utilization, tropical soils

HATHEWAY, WILLIAM H, Professor Emeritus, 1969; ScB, 1948, University of Chicago, MS, 1952, University of Chicago, MF, 1954, Harvard University, PhD, 1956, Harvard University

HAYNES, RICHARD W, Affiliate Professor, 1986; MS, 1969, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, PhD, 1975, North Carolina State University

HESSBURG, PAUL, Affiliate Professor, 2003; PhD, 1984, Oregon State University

HINCKLEY, THOMAS M * Professor, 1980; PhD, 1971, University of Washington; forest tree physiology and autecology, subalpine ecosystems, water stress problems

HODGSON, KEVIN T * Professor, 1991; MS, 1980, Carnegie Mellon University, PhD, 1986, University of Washington; surface and colloid science, papermaking chemistry, secondary fiber recycling

ENDICOTT, BARBARA E., Senior Lecturer, 2004; MS, 1987, Seattle Pacific University, PhD, 2005, University of Idaho

FIDEL, RAYA * Professor, 1982; MLS, 1976, Hebrew University (Israel), PhD, 1982, University of Maryland; information systems, systems analysis, user interaction, classification research

FISHER, KAREN E * Associate Professor, 1999; MLIS, 1991, University of Western Ontario (Canada), PhD, 1997, University of Western Ontario (Canada); Information behavior: how people need, seek, give and use information in different contexts

FOOT, KIRSTENA * Adjunct Associate Professor, 2001; MA, 1990, Wheaton College, PhD, 1999, University of California (San Diego); technology and society, political communication, Web studies, NGO networks

FRIEDMAN, BATYA * Professor, 1999; PhD, 1988, University of California (Berkeley); Value-sensitive design, social-cognitive and cultural aspects of information systems, HCI. Japan, agriculture, internal migration, regional geography

FULLER, SHERRILYNNE * Professor, 1988; MLS, 1968, Indiana University, PhD, 1984, University of Southern California; Analysis, representation and mapping of research findings (data mining.)

FUSCO, LISA M., Lecturer, 2001; MLS, 1997, Kent State University

GRUDIN, JONATHAN T., Affiliate Professor, 1999; MS, 1973, Purdue University, MA, 1979, University of California (San Diego), PhD, 1981, University of California (San Diego)

HARRISON, BEVERLY L, Affiliate Associate Professor, 2008; MAS, 1991, University of Toronto (Canada), PhD, 1997, University of Toronto (Canada)

HAZELTON, PENELOPE A * Adjunct Professor, 1985; JD, 1975, Lewis And Clark College, MLL, 1976, University of Washington; law librarianship, legal bibliography, computer-assisted legal research, law, Indian law

HENDRY, DAVID * Assistant Professor, 2002; MSC, 1989, University of Guelph (Canada), PhD, 1996, The Robert Gordon University (Scotland); Design and evaluation of information systems; human-computer interaction. vitreoretinal diseases

HIATT, PETER, Professor Emeritus, 1974; MLS, 1957, Rutgers University, PhD, 1963, Rutgers University

HILL, TRENT G., Senior Lecturer, 2002; MA, 1988, Duke University, PhD, 1994, Duke University, MLIS, 2002, University of Washington

HOTCHKISS, MARY A * Adjunct Senior Lecturer, 1989; MLS, 1978, Catholic University of America, JD, 1983, Washington University, LLM, 1985, George Washington University; Federal legislative process and public policy; federal information policy; and access to justice issues. social studies

JANES, JOSEPH W. * Associate Professor, 1998; MLS, 1983, Syracuse University, PhD, 1989, Syracuse University; Evolution of models of practice of digital reference

JOHNSON, RONALD A., Associate Professor, 1992; MA, 1972, University of Chicago, MS, 1975, University of Southern California

KAHN, PETER H. * Adjunct Associate Professor, 2000; MA, 1984, University of California (Berkeley), PhD, 1988, University of California (Berkeley); Moral development; developmental psychology and the human relationship with nature

KIM, JEFFREY Y. * Senior Lecturer, 2000; MS, 1986, University of California (Riverside), PhD, 2000, University of California (Irvine); Computer-Supported Cooperative Work, Ubiquitous Computing, Biomedical Informatics

LEVY, DAVID M * Professor, 2000; MS, 1974, Stanford University, PhD, 1979, Stanford University; Digital documents and libraries; information and the quality of life

MASON, ROBERT M * Professor, 2005; MS, 1965, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, PhD, 1973, Georgia Institute of Technology

MCDONALD, DAVID W * Assistant Professor, 2002; MS, 1992, California State University, Hayward, MS, 1995, University of California (Irvine), PhD, 2000, University of California (Irvine); Computer-Supported Cooperative Work, Human-Computer Interaction, Technology and Society Medical Physics, X-rays, Mammography, Radiation Dosimetry and Radiation Safety

METOYER, CHERYL * Associate Professor, 2003; MA, 1969, Immaculate Heart College, Ca, PhD, 1976, Indiana University; Medical Physics, X-rays, Mammography, Radiation Dosimetry and Radiation Safety

MIGNON, EDMOND, Associate Professor Emeritus, 1964; MA, 1952, Syracuse University, MLS, 1959, University of Washington, PhD, 1976, University of California (Berkeley)

MOORE, ADAM DANIEL * Assistant Professor, 2003; MA, 1993, Ohio State University, PhD, 1997, Ohio State University; Philosophy of Law, Applied Ethics, Information Policy, Political Theory, Privacy

NELSON, BRYCE E., Affiliate Professor, 1983; MAT, 1969, Northwestern University, PhD, 1981, University of Washington

NELSON, JEROLD A, Assistant Professor Emeritus, 1971; MA, 1964, University of Minnesota, PhD, 1971, University of California (Berkeley)

OH, SAM GYUN, Affiliate Professor, 2005; MLS, 1983, Villanova University, PhD, 1995, Syracuse University

PEJTERSEN, ANNEISE MARK, Affiliate Professor, 2002; PhD, 1971, University of Copenhagen (Denmark)

PRATT, WANDA * Associate Professor, 2002; MS, 1991, University of Texas (Austin), PhD, 1999, Stanford University; Medical informatics, information retrieval, user interfaces, and natural language processing

RAMEY, JUDITH A * Adjunct Professor, 1983; MA, 1971, University of Texas (unspecified), PhD, 1983, University of Texas (unspecified); computer documentation, online documentation, user interface design and usability testing

SAXTON, MATTHEW * Senior Lecturer, 2000; MLS, 1994, University of California (Los Angeles), PhD, 2000, University of California (Los Angeles); Evaluation of Information Services, Intermediation Theory, Collection Management, Information Competency. Japanese language

SCHOLL, HANS JOCHEN * Assistant Professor, 2003; MBA, 1997, Grad Sch of Business Admin Zurich Switze, PhD, 2002, State University of New York (Albany); Information Dynamics; Complex Systems; Information Management; Electronic Government; Firm Performance

SKELLEY, GRANT T, Associate Professor Emeritus, 1969; MA, 1952, University of Washington, MLibr, 1952, University of Washington, PhD, 1968, University of California (Berkeley)

SOPER, MARY E, Assistant Professor Emeritus, 1972; MS, 1963, University of Illinois, PhD, 1972, University of Illinois

Astrobiology

AGOL, ERIC * Assistant Professor, 2003; PhD, 1997, University of California (Santa Barbara); Black holes, gravitational lensing, extrasolar planets, and accretion

BROWNEE, DONALD E * Professor, 1971; PhD, 1971, University of Washington; origin of the solar system, comets, interplanetary dust

BRUCKNER, ADAM * Professor, 1972; MA, 1968, Princeton University, PhD, 1972, Princeton University; space systems, space propulsion and power, planetary exploration, gas dynamics, heat transfer, energy conversion, astrobiology

BUICK, ROGER * Professor, 2001; PhD, 1986, University of West Australia; Astrobiology, paleontology, stratigraphy, early earth evolution

DEMING, JODY W * Professor, 1988; PhD, 1981, University of Maryland; evolution and ecology of marine bacteria in the pressurized ocean

KELLEY, DEBORAH S. * Professor, 1992; MSC, 1987, University of Washington, PhD, 1990, Dalhousie University (Canada); Marine geology, volcanic-hosted submarine hydrothermal systems, sulfide-microbial habitats

LEIGH, JOHNA. * Professor, 1985; MS, 1979, University of Illinois, PhD, 1983, University of Illinois; bacterial physiology, biochemistry, genetics

MORGANSEN, KRISTIA. * Assistant Professor, 2002; MS, 1996, Harvard University, PhD, 1999, Harvard University; Nonlinear control, underactuated mechanical systems and limited communication coordinated control

STAHL, DAVID A * Adjunct Professor, 2000; MS, 1975, University of Illinois (Urbana), PhD, 1978, University of Illinois (Urbana); Microbial Ecology and Biogeochemistry, Microbial Evolution and Systematics, Comparative Sequence Analysis

STALEY, JAMES T * Professor Emeritus, 1971; MS, 1963, Ohio State University, PhD, 1967, University of California (Davis); freshwater bacteriology, microbial ecology, general microbiology

SULLIVAN, WOODRUFF T * Professor, 1973; PhD, 1971, University of Maryland; radio astronomy, galactic and extragalactic structure, history of astronomy

WARREN, STEPHEN G * Professor, 1981; MA, 1969, Harvard University, PhD, 1973, Harvard University; atmospheric radiation, climatology, glaciology

Biomedical Structure and Design

AITCHISON, JOHN * Affiliate Associate Professor, 2004; PhD, 1992, McMaster University (Canada); Yeast model systems to address cell biology of nucleocytoplasmic exchange and metabolic function of peroxisomes

ANDERSEN, NIELS * Professor, 1968; PhD, 1967, Northwestern University; bioorganic and biophysical chemistry, natural products synthesis and structure elucidation, biorecognition phenomena

ATKINS, WILLIAM M. * Professor, 1991; MA, 1982, Harvard University, PhD, 1988, University of Illinois; protein engineering

BAKER, DAVID * Professor, 1993; PhD, 1989, University of California (Berkeley); protein folding

CATALANO, CARLOS E. * Professor, 2006; PharmD, 1983, University of California (San Francisco), PhD, 1987, University of California (San Francisco); Mechanistic enzymology, genome replication and packaging

CLARK, JOHN I * Professor, 1982; PhD, 1974, University of Washington; biophysical and structural properties of cytoplasm and membranes, cell aging, differentiation and opacification in the lens

DAGGETT, VALERIE D. * Adjunct Professor, 1993; PhD, 1990, University of California (San Francisco); Computational and Integrative Bioengineering, Molecular Bioengineering and Nanotechnology

FAN, ERKANG * Research Associate Professor, 1996; PhD, 1993, University of Pittsburgh; Organic and Combinatorial Chemistry, Structure-Based Drug Design, Molecular Recognition

GELB, MICHAEL H. * Professor, 1985; PhD, 1982, Yale University; mechanistic enzymology, bioorganic and medicinal chemistry

GONEN, TAMIR * Assistant Professor, 2005; PhD, 2002, University of Auckland (New Zealand); Structure and function of membrane proteins in native lipid bilayer environments

HOL, WILHELMUS G.J. * Professor, 1992; MS, 1966, Technical University (Eindhoven), PhD, 1971, University of Groningen (Netherlands); protein crystallography, drug design, vaccine development, and protein engineering

KLEVIT, RACHEL E * Professor, 1983; DPhil, 1981, Oxford University (UK); protein structure & function; molecular recognition; protein NMR

MALY, DUSTIN JAMES * Assistant Professor, 2006; PhD, 2002, University of California (Berkeley); Biological Chemistry

PARSON, WILLIAM W * Professor, 1967; PhD, 1965, Case Western Reserve University; bioenergetics, with particular emphasis on photosynthesis, picosecond spectroscopy

SCHIEF JR, WILLIAM R. * Research Assistant Professor, 1999; MS, 1992, University of Washington, PhD, 1999, University of Washington; HIV vaccine design, Computational Protein Design, Immunogen Design for Influenza, Malaria

STAYTON, PATRICK * Professor, 1992; MS, 1989, University of Illinois, PhD, 1989, University of Illinois; engineering proteins for biotechnology, biomaterials, and biomedical therapies/diagnostics

STENKAMP, RONALD E * Professor, 1975; MS, 1971, University of Washington, PhD, 1975, University of Washington; crystallography, metalloproteins, protein engineering, blood clotting proteins

VARANI, GABRIELE * Professor, 2001; PhD, 1987, University of Milan (Italy); Structural basis of RNA-protein recognition and drug design

XU, WENQING * Associate Professor, 1999; MS, 1988, Chinese Academy of Sciences (China), PhD, 1995, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Structural studies of proteins involved in cancer, immune dysfunction and neuronal diseases

ZHENG, NING * Associate Professor, 2002; PhD, 1997, University of Texas (Southwestern); Structural Biology And Protein Crystallography

Health Services Administration

CONRAD, DOUGLAS A * Professor, 1977; MHA, 1973, University of Washington, MBA, 1977, University of Chicago, PhD, 1978, University of Chicago; alternative vertical and horizontal market structures in health care, hospital and health administration, cost effectiveness of dental treatment

COOMBS, JOHN B. * Professor, 1972; MD, 1972, Cornell University; Health care outcomes, rural health policy, healthcare workforce issues and applied nutrition

DOWLING, WILLIAM L * Professor, 1974; MBA, 1961, University of Chicago, MA, 1970, University of Michigan, PhD, 1971, University of Michigan; Health services research and applied behavioral science in Pediatric Dentistry

GREMBOWSKI, DAVID * Professor, 1980; MA, 1975, Washington State University, PhD, 1982, University of Washington; Health services research, survey research, program evaluation, performance of health care systems, prevention, access to health care, quality of health care

HEREFORD, JAMES F * Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2002; MS, 1989, Montana State University; Use and impact of organizational improvement frameworks on health care operations

KATZ, AARON * Senior Lecturer, 1993; Certificate of Public Health, 1975, University of Toronto (Canada); public policy in the health sector, U.S. and international

KOPJAR, BRANKO * Associate Professor, 1997; MD, 1987, University of Zagreb (Yugoslavia), MSC, 1991, University of Zagreb (Yugoslavia), PhD, 1996, University of Oslo (Norway); Clinical outcomes research, clinical studies, quality of care, health systems reform, injury prevention

KUSZLER, PATRICIA CAROL * Professor, 1994; MD, 1978, Mayo Medical School/ Graduate School, JD, 1991, Yale University; law and medicine: health care finance and regulation; medical malpractice; biotechnology and law

MARTIN, DIANE P * Professor, 1973; MA, 1972, Temple University, PhD, 1979, University of Washington; health care organization and behavior; benefits and insurance; and quality, cost and outcomes of care

MASTROIANNI, ANNA C. * Associate Professor, 1998; JD, 1986, University of Pennsylvania, MPH, 1997, University of Washington; Law, ethics and policy genetics, reproduction, human subjects research

MASUDA, DAVID, Lecturer, 1997; MD, 1980, University of North Dakota, MS, 1996, University of Wisconsin (Madison)

MC CORMICK, THOMAS R. * Senior Lecturer Emeritus, 1974; MDiv, 1960, Drake University, DMin, 1976, Southern Methodist University; biomedical ethics, particularly relating to neonatology, and problems related to death and dying

NORRIS, THOMAS E. * Professor, 1988; MD, 1973, University of Texas (Galveston); Clinical applications, health policy and health workforce needs

POINTER, DENNIS * Clinical Professor, 2001; PhD, 1971, University of Iowa

RICHARDSON, MARY L., Professor Emeritus, 1978; MHA, 1978, University of Washington, PhD, 1984, University of Washington

RODRIGUEZ, HECTOR P. * Assistant Professor, 2007; MPH, 1998, University of California (Berkeley), PhD, 2007, Harvard University; Health policy, organizational analysis, team performance research

ROSS, AUSTIN, Professor Emeritus, 1977; MPH, 1955, University of California (Berkeley)

STILLMAN, DENNIS, Senior Lecturer, 1988; MHA, 1979, University of Washington

THOMPSON, JOHN R. * Senior Lecturer, 1989; MSW, 1976, University of Washington; Public health workforce development; community assessment; public and personal health policy development

WALKER, EDWARD A., Professor, 1983; MM, 1979, Catholic University of America, MD, 1983, University of Washington

WATTS, CAROLYN A. * Professor, 1975; MA, 1974, Johns Hopkins University, PhD, 1976, Johns Hopkins University; health economics and policy

WELTON, WILLIAM E. * Senior Lecturer, 2001; MHA, 1972, University of Michigan, DPH, 1999, University of Michigan

WICKIZER, THOMAS M. * Professor, 1976; MSW, 1974, University of Washington, MPH, 1979, Northwestern University, MA, 1987, University of Michigan, PhD, 1989, University of Michigan; health promotion evaluation

ZIERLER, BRENDA * Associate Professor, 1996; PhD, 1996, University of Washington; Research in patient with venous thromboembolism; clinical outcomes, process outcomes (care delivery methods), patient satisfaction, and provider satisfaction

Molecular and Cellular Biology

ADEREM, ALAN A. * Affiliate Professor, 1996; PhD, 1979, University of Capetown (South Africa); signal transduction and the cytoskeleton

AITCHISON, JOHN * Affiliate Associate Professor, 2004; PhD, 1992, McMaster University (Canada); Yeast model systems to address cell biology of nucleocytoplasmic exchange and metabolic function of peroxisomes

ASBURY, CHARLES L * Assistant Professor, 2004; MS, 1993, Tulane University, PhD, 1999, University of Washington; molecular basis of biological motion; biophysics of kinetochore-microtubule attachments

ASBURY, CHARLES L * Assistant Professor, 2004; PhD, 1999, University of Washington; molecular basis of biological motion; biophysics of kinetochore-microtubule attachments

BAJJALIEH, SANDRA M. * Associate Professor, 1995; MS, 1983, University of Illinois, PhD, 1989, University of Wisconsin (Madison); molecular neurobiology

BAKER, DAVID * Adjunct Professor, 1993; PhD, 1989, University of California (Berkeley); protein folding

BALIGA, NITIN, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2005; MS, 1994, Goa University (India), PhD, 2000, University of Massachusetts

BARRIA-ROMAN, ANDRES * Assistant Professor, 2005; PhD, 1998, University of Chile; Role and regulation of glutamate receptors during synaptic plasticity

BEAVO, JOSEPH A * Professor, 1977; PhD, 1970, Vanderbilt University; roles and molecular mechanisms of cyclic nucleotide phosphodiesterase regulation of cell function

BEDALOV, ANTONIO * Adjunct Assistant Professor, 1996; DSc, 1998, University of Zagreb (Yugoslavia); Hematology Oncology

- BENDICH, ARNOLD J * Professor Emeritus, 1969; PhD, 1969, University of Washington; The structure and replication of chromosomal DNA molecules in bacteria, mitochondria, chloroplasts and the nucleus. Analytical methods include fluorescence microscopy of individual DNA molecules and pulsed-field gel electrophoresis of in-gel prepared DNA
- BERETTA, LAURA, Affiliate Associate Professor, 2006; MS, 1984, University of Paris (France), PhD, 1989, University of Paris (France)
- BERG, CELESTE A * Professor, 1990; MS, 1981, Yale University, PhD, 1986, Yale University; Drosophila developmental genetics: Cell communication and cell migration during oogenesis. Patterning and cell polarity. Drosophila immune system
- BEVAN, MICHAEL J. * Professor, 1990; MSC, 1968, University of London, UK, PhD, 1972, National Inst For Medical Research (UK); T lymphocyte development and specificity
- BIGGINS, SUSAN * Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2000; PhD, 1995, Princeton University
- BLAU, CARL A. * Professor, 1989; MD, 1986, Ohio State University; Focus on regulating the fate of genetically modified cells, in vivo
- BOMSZTYK, KAROL * Professor, 1983; MD, 1977, University of Rochester; role of cytokine-induced protein kinases in the regulation of gene expression
- BORNFELDT, KARIN E * Professor, 1991; PhD, 1991, Linkoping University (Sweden); Cardiovascular disease in diabetes, focusing on vascular muscle cells
- BOTHWELL, MARK ALLEN * Professor, 1985; PhD, 1975, University of California (Berkeley); molecular and cellular physiology
- BOWEN-POPE, DANIEL * Professor, 1979; PhD, 1979, University of California (Berkeley); gene regulation, growth factors and receptors
- BREWER, BONITA J * Professor, 1979; PhD, 1979, University of Washington; replication of chromosomes, plasmids, and mitochondrial DNA in yeast
- BROCKERHOFF, SUSAN E. * Associate Professor, 1996; PhD, 1993, University of Washington; Retinal cone photoreceptor function in zebrafish
- BUCK, LINDA B. * Affiliate Professor, 2003; PhD, 1980, University of Texas (unspecified); Mechanisms underlying odor and pheromone perception and aging
- BUMGARNER, ROGER E. * Associate Professor, 1992; MS, 1983, Eastern Illinois University, PhD, 1988, University of Arizona; DNA array technology for evaluation of gene expression in microbial systems
- BYERS, PETER H * Professor, 1974; MD, 1969, Case Western Reserve University; extracellular matrix synthesis, genetic disorders of collagen metabolism, secretion, human genetics, splicing
- CAMPBELL, DANIEL * Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2004; PhD, 1998, University of California (Berkeley); Understanding the relationship between lymphocyte trafficking and function
- CAMPBELL, LEE ANN * Professor, 1985; MS, 1979, Pennsylvania State University, PhD, 1982, Pennsylvania State University; molecular biology and pathogenic mechanisms of chlamydiae
- CARLSON, STEVEN S. * Professor, 1985; PhD, 1975, University of California (Berkeley); molecular and cellular physiology of synaptic transmission
- CARTER, WILLIAM G * Affiliate Professor, 1976; PhD, 1974, University of California (Davis); elucidation of components in cell attachment and cell spreading in normal cells
- CATTOLICO, ROSE A. * Professor, 1975; MA, 1968, Temple University, PhD, 1973, State University of New York (Stony Brook); plastid replication, nucleic acid biochemistry in synchronized unicellular algae
- CHAMBERLAIN, JEFFREY S * Professor, 2000; PhD, 1985, University of Washington; Gene therapy for muscular dystrophy
- CHAMPOUX, JAMES J * Professor, 1972; PhD, 1970, Stanford University; DNA replication, tumor virology
- CHAVKIN, CHARLES * Professor, 1984; PhD, 1982, Stanford University; cell and molecular mechanisms of psychoactive opiate drugs to understand normal and pathophysiology
- CHIN, MICHAEL T, Associate Professor, 2006; MD, 1991, University of Rochester, PhD, 1988, University of Rochester, MD, 1991, University of Rochester

ANDREWS, WALTER G * Research Professor, 1968; MA, 1963, University of Michigan, MA, 1965, University of Michigan, PhD, 1970, University of Michigan; Ottoman and Modern Turkish literature and literary history; literary theory

BACHARACH, JERE L * Professor Emeritus, 1967; MA, 1962, Harvard University, PhD, 1967, University of Michigan; history of the Near East

BARZILAI, GAD * Professor, 2004; MA, 1982, Bar-Ilan University (Israel), PhD, 1988, Hebrew University (Israel); Middle East Studies; international law

BRAME, MICHAEL * Professor Emeritus, 1971; PhD, 1970, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; syntax, phonology, structure of Arabic and English

BRAVMANN, RENE A. * Professor, 1968; MA, 1963, Indiana University, PhD, 1971, Indiana University; African art

BROWN, JONATHAN AC, Assistant Professor, 2006; PhD, 2006, University of Chicago

CHIROT, DANIEL * Professor, 1974; PhD, 1973, Columbia University; comparative ethnic conflict, social change, post-communist societies, historical and political sociology

CIRTAUTAS, ILSE D * Professor, 1968; PhD, 1958, University of Hamburg (Germany); Turkic languages and literatures

CLOSE, ANGELA E. * Professor, 1995; MA, 1974, Cambridge University (UK), PhD, 1976, Cambridge University (UK); Archaeology; Lithic Analysis; Prehistory of North Africa; human origins

DEYOUNG, TERRI LYNN * Associate Professor, 1991; MA, 1981, American University in Cairo, PhD, 1988, University of California (Berkeley); Arabic language and literature

ELKHAFIFI, HUSSEIN M. * Assistant Professor, 2004; MA, 1977, University of Utah, PhD, 1985, University of Utah; Second language acquisition; teaching Arabic as a second/foreign language

FRIEDMAN, KATHIE * Associate Professor, 1987; MA, 1979, State University of New York (Binghamton), PhD, 1992, State University of New York (Binghamton); sociology of gender, immigration, race, and ethnicity in the U.S

GOLDBERG, ELLIS * Professor, 1985; MA, 1970, University of California (Berkeley), PhD, 1983, University of California (Berkeley); political economy of the Middle East, comparative politics

GREEN, JAMES W * Senior Lecturer Emeritus, 1981; MA, 1964, Ohio State University, PhD, 1972, University of Washington; Comparative religion, visual anthropology, cross-cultural mental health, comparative study of death; West Indies, Pakistan

HEER, NICHOLAS L. * Professor Emeritus, 1965; PhD, 1955, Princeton University; Arabic language and literature, Islamic theology and philosophy

JAFFEE, MARTIN S. * Professor, 1987; MA, 1974, Florida State University, PhD, 1980, Brown University; rabbinic religion and literature in late antiquity

KARTSONIS, ANNA D. * Professor, 1983; MA, 1968, New York University, PhD, 1982, New York University; Byzantine and medieval art

KASABA, RESAT * Professor, 1985; MA, 1979, State University of New York (Binghamton), PhD, 1986, State University of New York (Binghamton); historical sociology, world systems, social change in the Middle East

KURU, SELIM SIRRI * Associate Professor, 1999; MA, 1993, Bogazici University (Istanbul), PhD, 2000, Harvard University; Ottoman, Turkish, Language, Literature

LOMBARDI, CLARK B * Assistant Professor, 2004; JD, 1998, Columbia University, PhD, 2001, Columbia University; Islamic law; U.S. and comparative constitutional law; law and development

LOPEZ, SHAUN T * Assistant Professor, 2006; MA, 1995, University of Utah, PhD, 2004, University of Michigan; Middle Eastern Studies - Modern Period

MACKAY, PIERRE A, Professor Emeritus, 1966; MA, 1959, University of California (campus unspecified), PhD, 1964, University of California (campus unspecified)

MCLAREN, BRIAN * Assistant Professor, 2001; MSC, 1986, Columbia University, PhD, 2001, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; History/theory of architecture, modernism, fascism, postcolonial studies, Africa, Middle East

MIGDAL, JOEL S * Professor, 1980; MA, 1968, Harvard University, PhD, 1972, Harvard University; state and society in the Third World; Middle East politics

MURRAY, JAMES W * Professor, 1973; PhD, 1973, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; marine geochemistry, aquatic chemistry

NOEGEL, SCOTT B. * Professor, 1995; MA, 1993, Cornell University, PhD, 1994, Cornell University; Ancient Near Eastern Languages, Literatures, Cultures and History

OSANLOO, ARZOO * Adjunct Assistant Professor, 2002; PhD, 2002, Stanford University; Anthropology and Law, Human Rights, Gender and Islam, Theories of the State: socio-legal constructions of women's rights within Iran's Islamic republican state

PAPAN-MATIN, FIROOZEH * Assistant Professor, 2005; MA, 1991, California State University, Northridge, MA, 1995, University of California (Los Angeles); Iranian Studies, Persian Language and Literature, Medieval Islamic Mysticism in Iran

SALEHI-ESFAHANI, HAIDEH * Senior Lecturer, 1990; PhD, 1985, University of Pennsylvania; Institutional Development in the Transition Economies of Central Asia

SCHUYLER, PHILIP D * Associate Professor, 1999; MA, 1974, University of Washington, PhD, 1979, University of Washington; Near Eastern musics and cultures; contemporary music and art in the US

SCHWARZ, FLORIAN * Assistant Professor, 2005; MA, 1993, University of Tubingen (Germany), PhD, 1998, University of Tubingen (Germany)

SOKOLOFF, NAOMI B. * Professor, 1985; MA, 1979, Princeton University, PhD, 1980, Princeton University; Hebrew language and literature

WALKER, JOEL T * Associate Professor, 1997; MA, 1994, Princeton University, PhD, 1998, Princeton University; History and archaeology of the late antique Near East

WILLIAMS, MICHAELA * Professor, 1976; MA, 1970, Miami University (Ohio), PhD, 1977, Harvard University; early Christianity and religions of antiquity

ZUMBRUNNEN, CRAIG * Professor, 1975; MS, 1968, California Institute of Technology, PhD, 1973, University of California (Berkeley); resource analysis, Russia and NIS, environment, mathematical programming

Neurobiology and Behavioral

AYLWARD, ELIZABETH H. * Professor, 1997; MA, 1976, University of Connecticut, PhD, 1982, Cornell University; Structural and functional magnetic resonance imaging of neurological/neuropsychiatric disorders

BAJJALIEH, SANDRA M. * Associate Professor, 1995; MS, 1983, University of Illinois, PhD, 1989, University of Wisconsin (Madison); molecular neurobiology

BARRIA-ROMAN, ANDRES * Assistant Professor, 2005; PhD, 1998, University of Chile; Role and regulation of glutamate receptors during synaptic plasticity

BASKIN, DENIS G. * Research Professor, 1979; PhD, 1969, University of California (Berkeley); neuroendocrinology; obesity; CNS regulation of body weight; histochemistry; expression of receptors for insulin, leptin, and other peptides in the CNS

BEAVO, JOSEPH A * Professor, 1977; PhD, 1970, Vanderbilt University; roles and molecular mechanisms of cyclic nucleotide phosphodiesterase regulation of cell function

BEECHER, MICHAEL D * Professor, 1978; MA, 1965, Boston University, PhD, 1970, Boston University; animal behavior, animal communication, sensory processes

BERGER, ALBERT J * Professor, 1977; MA, 1965, Princeton University, PhD, 1967, Princeton University, PhD, 1976, University of California (San Francisco); neural and chemical control of respiration, neurobiology, synaptic transmission

BERMINGHAM-MCDONOGH, O * Associate Professor, 1998; PhD, 1987, University of California (Los Angeles); Development and regeneration of sensory systems, particularly the auditory system

BERNSTEIN, ILENE L * Professor, 1972; MA, 1967, Columbia University, PhD, 1972, University of California (Los Angeles); neurobiology of taste aversion learning; developmental and genetic contributions to taste preference in rats and humans

BINDER, MARC D * Professor, 1978; MS, 1972, University of Southern California, PhD, 1974, University of Southern California; organization of spinal reflexes

BOSMA, MARTHA * Associate Professor, 1987; PhD, 1986, University of California (Los Angeles); electrophysiological and secretory development of central nervous system neurons

BOTHWELL, MARK ALLEN * Professor, 1985; PhD, 1975, University of California (Berkeley); molecular and cellular physiology

BRENOWITZ, ELIOTA. * Professor, 1987; PhD, 1982, Cornell University; animal behavior, neuroethology, neuroendocrinology, animal communication

BRINKLEY III, JAMES F. * Professor, 1974; MD, 1974, University of Washington, PhD, 1984, Stanford University; computer applications in medicine and biology

BUCK, LINDA B. * Affiliate Professor, 2003; PhD, 1980, University of Texas (unspecified); Mechanisms underlying odor and pheromone perception and aging

BUCK, STEVEN L. * Professor, 1976; MA, 1974, University of California (San Diego), PhD, 1976, University of California (San Diego); human visual psychophysics, color vision, animal learning

CARLSON, STEVEN S. * Professor, 1985; PhD, 1975, University of California (Berkeley); molecular and cellular physiology of synaptic transmission

CATTERALL, WILLIAM A * Professor, 1977; PhD, 1972, Johns Hopkins University; molecular biology of ion channels, molecular pharmacology and neurobiology

CHAVKIN, CHARLES * Professor, 1984; PhD, 1982, Stanford University; cell and molecular mechanisms of psychoactive opiate drugs to understand normal and pathophysiology

CHIU, DANIEL T. * Professor, 2000; PhD, 1998, Stanford University; Development of biophysical and bioanalytical tools for applications in proteomics

CHUDLER, ERIC H * Research Associate Professor, 1991; MS, 1983, University of Washington, PhD, 1985, University of Washington; Neuroscience for kids

CLARK, JOHN I * Professor, 1982; PhD, 1974, University of Washington; biophysical and structural properties of cytoplasm and membranes, cell aging, differentiation and opacification in the lens

COOPER, JONATHAN A. * Affiliate Professor, 1987; MA, 1973, University of Cambridge (UK), PhD, 1976, University of Warwick (UK); regulation of cellular metabolism and proliferation by protein phosphorylation

COOPER, MARK S * Associate Professor, 1990; PhD, 1985, University of California (Berkeley); cellular physiology and cell motility in developing tissues

COVEY, ELLEN * Professor, 1996; MS, 1976, University of Houston, PhD, 1980, Duke University; Structure and function of the central auditory system

DACEY, DENNIS M. * Professor, 1986; PhD, 1983, University of Chicago; the neural basis of vision and the organization of primate retina

DAGGETT, VALERIE D. * Professor, 1993; PhD, 1990, University of California (San Francisco); Computational and Integrative Bioengineering, Molecular Bioengineering and Nanotechnology

D'AMBROSIO, RAIMONDO * Associate Professor, 1995; PhD, 1995, University of Milan (Italy); Neuronal and glial cell physiology and pathophysiology in the posttraumatic and the epileptic brain

DANIEL, THOMAS L. * Adjunct Professor, 1984; MS, 1978, University of Wisconsin, PhD, 1982, Duke University; functional morphology, biomechanics, mechanics and energetics of animal locomotion

DE LA IGLESIA, HORACIO O. * Assistant Professor, 2003; MA, 1991, University of Buenos Aires (Argentina), PhD, 1997, University of Massachusetts; Neural Basis of Circadian Rhythms

DETWILER, PETER B * Professor, 1976; PhD, 1970, Georgetown University; physiology of photoreceptors

DIAZ, JAIME * Professor, 1978; MA, 1972, University of California (Los Angeles), PhD, 1975, University of California (Los Angeles); psychological brain development, neurophysiology, developmental psychopharmacology, effects of drugs on behavioral development

DIORIO, CHRISTOPHER J * Associate Professor, 1997; MSEE, 1984, California Institute of Technology, PhD, 1997, California Institute of Technology; designing silicon learning circuits modeled after neurobiology

FAIRHALL, ADRIENNE L * Assistant Professor, 2003; MS, 1993, Weizmann Institute For Science (Israel), PhD, 1997, Weizmann Institute For Science (Israel);

- Computational and systems neuroscience: adaptive information processing in sensory systems
- FETZ, EBERHARD * Professor, 1967; PhD, 1966, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; cortical regulation of movement

ANDERSON, GAIL * Adjunct Professor, 1987; MS, 1981, University of Washington, PhD, 1987, University of Washington; pharmacokinetics, metabolism and interactions of drugs in epilepsy and trauma

BOWDLE, T. ANDREW, Adjunct Professor, 1981; MD, 1980, University of Washington, PhD, 1983, University of Washington

HO, RODNEY J.Y. * Professor, 1990; MS, 1985, University of Tennessee, PhD, 1987, University of Tennessee; maternal-fetal transmission of HIV

HU, SHIU-LOK * Professor, 1988; PhD, 1978, University of Wisconsin (Madison); Virus-host interactions, AIDS vaccines and pathogenesis of primate lentivirus infection

ISOHERRANEN, NINA * Assistant Professor, 2003; MS, 1998, University of Helsinki (Finland), PhD, 2003, Hebrew University (Israel); Pharmaceutics

KELLY, EDWARD J * Research Assistant Professor, 1999; MS, 1986, University of California (Riverside), PhD, 1996, University of Washington; Development of genetically engineered mouse models, focusing on polymorphic drug metabolizing enzymes

KUNZE, KENT * Adjunct Associate Professor, 1989; PhD, 1981, University of California (San Francisco); medicinal chemistry and drug metabolism

LEVY, RENE H * Professor, 1970; PhD, 1970, University of California (San Francisco); metabolic interactions among antiepileptic drugs and between cytokines and drugs

MAO, QINGCHENG * Assistant Professor, 2002; MSC, 1988, East China Normal University, PhD, 1995, University of Berne (Switzerland); Role of ABC Transporters In Drug Disposition

SHEN, DANNY D * Professor, 1984; PhD, 1975, State University of New York (Buffalo); CNS pharmacokinetics and pharmacodynamics of opioid analgesics and anticonvulsants

THUMMEL, KENNETH E. * Professor, 1989; PhD, 1987, University of Washington; The metabolism of drugs by human liver and intestine

UNADKAT, JASHVANT D * Professor, 1985; PhD, 1982, University of Manchester (UK); mechanisms of transport of anti-HIV drugs across placenta, CSF-blood barrier, and intestine

VICINI, PAOLO * Adjunct Associate Professor, 1996; PhD, 1996, Polytechnic of Milan (Italy); Computational, mathematical, and statistical approaches to the analysis of biological systems. Maximum likelihood and least squares parameter estimation for biomedical models. Pharmacokinetics and pharmacodynamics. Use of models to test hypotheses

WANG, JOANNE * Associate Professor, 2000; MS, 1993, University of Illinois, PhD, 1998, University of California (San Francisco); Drug transport and targeting

ANDERSON, LAURIE M, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 1999; MS, 1974, Boston College, MPH, 1990, Emory University, PhD, 1994, University of California (Los Angeles)

ASTLEY, SUSAN J. * Professor, 1992; MS, 1979, Oregon State University, PhD, 1990, University of Washington; chronic childhood diseases

AUSTIN, MELISSA A. * Professor, 1988; MS, 1975, University of California (Los Angeles), PhD, 1985, University of California (Berkeley); Genetic epidemiology of lipoproteins, coronary heart disease and cancer

BALLARD, JANE E, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 1990; MS, 1971, University of Minnesota, PhD, 1989, University of Washington

BARASH, NITSA, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 1988; MEd, 1980, University of Washington, PhD, 1988, University of Washington

BECKER, THOMAS * Affiliate Professor, 1995; MA, 1976, University of New Mexico, MD, 1981, Case Western Reserve University, PhD, 1986, University of New Mexico; Native American Cancer: diagnosis and prevention

BENSLEY, LILLIAN L., Affiliate Associate Professor, 1983; MS, 1979, University of Washington, PhD, 1982, University of Washington

BERESFORD, SHIRLEY A. * Professor, 1987; MSC, 1971, University of Sussex (UK), MA, 1973, University of Cambridge (UK), PhD, 1981, University of London King's College (UK); cancer prevention, especially dietary factors; diet and exercise in disease prevention

BOBO, JANET K, Affiliate Associate Professor, 2003; MSW, 1983, University of Washington, PhD, 1990, University of Washington

BOYKO, EDWARD J. * Adjunct Professor, 1982; MD, 1979, University of Pittsburgh, MPH, 1984, University of Washington; epidemiology of inflammatory bowel disease and non-insulin-dependent diabetes mellitus

BREITNER, JOHN, Adjunct Professor, 2002; MD, 1970, University of Pennsylvania, MPH, 1978, Johns Hopkins University

BRUEMMER, BARBARA * Senior Lecturer, 1998; MS, 1983, University of Washington, PhD, 1993, University of Washington; Antioxidant supplementation; body weight and mortality following cancer therapy

BRUNSKILL, ANDREW J. * Clinical Assistant Professor, 1988; MBBS, 1977, University of Newcastle-On-Tyne (UK), MPH, 1988, University of Washington; Health Policy

BUIST, DIANA SM * Affiliate Associate Professor, 2002; MPH, 1995, Yale University, PhD, 1999, University of Washington; epidemiology, screening, and secondary prevention of breast cancer and osteoporosis

BURKE, WYLIE * Adjunct Professor, 1974; PhD, 1974, University of Washington, MD, 1978, University of Washington; Ethical and policy implications of genetic information

BUSKIN, SUSAN E., Affiliate Assistant Professor, 1993; MPH, 1987, University of Washington, PhD, 1992, University of Washington

CAMPBELL, LEE ANN * Professor, 1985; MS, 1979, Pennsylvania State University, PhD, 1982, Pennsylvania State University; molecular biology and pathogenic mechanisms of chlamydiae

CARLSON, CHRIS, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2000; PhD, 2000, Stanford University

CASPER, COREY, Adjunct Assistant Professor, 2000; MD, 1997, Cornell University

CHECKOWAY, HARVEY * Professor, 1987; MPH, 1975, Yale University, PhD, 1978, University of North Carolina; occupational and environmental epidemiology

CHEN, CHU * Affiliate Professor, 1982; MS, 1971, Ohio State University, PhD, 1982, University of Washington; Molecular Epidemiology of Cancer

CHU, JOSEPH * Clinical Associate Professor, 1975; MD, 1975, Georgetown University, MPH, 1981, University of Washington; gynecologic cancer epidemiology, perinatal epidemiology, health services research, women's health care

CHUBAK, JESSICA, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2008; MS, 2002, University of Otago (New Zealand), PhD, 2007, University of Washington

CONNELL, FREDERICKA * Adjunct Professor, 1976; MD, 1972, New York University, MPH, 1978, University of Washington; maternal and child care, health services

CORONADO, GLORIA * Research Assistant Professor, 2005; MS, 1997, University of Washington, PhD, 2001, University of Washington; Research on health disparities and health promotion in the Latino populations

CRITCHLOW, CATHY W * Affiliate Professor, 1979; MS, 1978, University of Washington, PhD, 1993, University of Washington; epidemiology of sexually transmitted diseases; HIV prevention, diseases of oral cavity

CUMMINGS, PETER * Professor, 1992; MD, 1970, Case Western Reserve University, MPH, 1993, University of Washington; injury epidemiology, emergency medicine, epidemiologic methods

DALING, JANET R * Professor Emeritus, 1978; MA, 1973, University of Washington, PhD, 1977, University of Washington; maternal and child health and cancer research

DAVIS, ROBERT L. * Affiliate Professor, 1991; MD, 1983, University of California (San Diego); childhood immunization, including adverse events perinatal and pediatric epidemiology

DAVIS, SCOTT * Professor, 1981; MS, 1977, University of Rochester, PhD, 1980, University of Washington; cancer epidemiology, disease etiology, radiation epidemiology

DE ROOS, ANNECLAIRE JENICE * Assistant Professor, 2003; MPH, 1995, University of California (Berkeley), PhD, 2000, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill; Epidemiology of occupational and environmental exposures in relation to human health

DREWNOWSKI, ADAM * Professor, 1998; MA, 1971, Oxford University (UK), PhD, 1977, Rockefeller University; Taste and psychology of food choice in disease prevention

DUBLIN, SASCHA, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 2004; PhD, 1999, University of Washington, MD, 2001, University of Washington

DUERR, ANN C * Affiliate Associate Professor, 2004; PhD, 1981, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, MD, 1985, Harvard University, MPH, 1988, Johns Hopkins University; HIV, vaccines, women's health, HPV, STDs

DUGOWSON, CARIN E., Adjunct Associate Professor, 1977; MD, 1976, University of Illinois, MPH, 1986, University of Washington

DUNCAN, GLEN E * Assistant Professor, 2003; MS, 1994, Ball State University, PhD, 1997, University of Tennessee; Prevention and treatment of insulin resistance and type 2 diabetes

EBEL, BETH E. * Adjunct Associate Professor, 1999; MS, 1989, Oxford University (UK), MD, 1996, Harvard University, MPH, 2001, University of Washington; Injury prevention and health behaviors

EDWARDS, KAREN L. * Associate Professor, 1997; MS, 1991, California State University, campus unspecified, PhD, 1996, University of Washington; Understanding genetic susceptibility to complex diseases, particularly diabetes and cardiovascular disease

EISENBERG, MICKY, Adjunct Professor, 1971; MD, 1971, Case Western Reserve University, PhD, 1978, University of Washington

EL-BASTAWISSI, AMIRA Y, Affiliate Assistant Professor, 1997; MBChB, 1981, Alexandria University, Egypt, MSC, 1984, Ohio State University, PhD, 1993, University of Texas (Houston)

ELMORE, JOANN G * Adjunct Professor, 1996; MD, 1987, Stanford University, MPH, 1992, Yale University; Clinical epidemiology, breast cancer screening, diagnostic accuracy

EMANUEL, IRVIN, Professor Emeritus, 1961; MA, 1956, University of Arizona, MD, 1960, University of Rochester, MS, 1966, University of Washington
