Nature of Organization

Health System

Duties and Responsibilities

Interns will be exposed to a variety of health law issues, research projects and committee functions and will have an opportunity to view health law activities from the perspective of in-house counsel. Interns will perform research (primarily literature surveys, internet based research, and some case law research) in a variety of day-to-day matters that routinely involve one or more of MHS's six in-house attorneys. Interns will be assigned direct reporting to one attorney, with matrix reporting to others as needed. They will likely have some contact with our outside attorneys on specific projects and there is opportunity for extensive client contact.

Minimum Qualifications

1L, 2L or 3L status.

Educational Benefits

While the work varies, our interns support six attorneys who provide guidance to the entire $1.2B system on matters ranging from general health law to topics such as corporate compliance, employment and immigration, Stark, anti-kickback, fraud & abuse, human subjects research, privacy and confidentiality, Sarbanes-Oxley, etc. They will likely have some contact with our outside attorneys on specific projects and there is the opportunity for extensive client contact.
